2. Houſes were ſearch'd in vain for the reſcu'd Priſoner, v. 19. Herod ſought for him, and found him not. Who can find whom GOD hath hid Baruch and Jeremiah are ſafe, tho' ſearched for: becauſe the LORD has hid them, Jer. xxxvi. 26. In times of publick Danger, all Believers have GOD for their Hiding Place; which is ſuch a Secret, that there the ignorant World cannot find them; ſuch a Strength, that the impotent World cannot reach them.

3. The Keepers were reckon'd with for a permiſſive Eſcape; Herod examin'd the Keepers, and finding that they could give no ſatisfactory Account, how Peter got away, he commanded that they ſhould be put to Death, according to the Roman Law, and that, 1 Kings xx. 39. If by any Means he be miſſing, then ſhall thy Life go for his Life, 'Tis probable, theſe Keepers had been more ſevere with Peter, than they needed to be, as the Jaylor, Acts xvi. and had been abuſive to him, and to others, that had been his Priſoners upon the like Account, and now juſtly are they put to Death, for that which was not their Fault, and by him too that had ſet them to Work to vex the Church. When the Wicked are thus ſnar'd in the Work of their own Hands, the LORD is known by the Judgments which He executeth. Or if they had not thus made themſelves obnoxious to the Juſtice of GOD, and it be thought hard that innocent Men ſhould ſuffer thus for that which was purely the Act of GOD, we may eaſily admit the Conjectures of ſome, That tho' they were commanded to be put to Death, to pleaſe the Jews, who were ſadly diſappointed by Peter's Eſcape, yet they were not executed; but Herod's Death immediately after prevented it.

4. Herod himſelf retir'd upon it; He went down from Judea to Cæſarea, and there abode. He was vex'd to the Heart, as a Lion diſappointed of his Prey; and the more becauſe he had ſo much rais'd the Expectation of the People of the Jews, concerning Peter, had told them how he would very ſhortly gratify them with the Sight of Peter's Head in a Charger, which would oblige them as much as John Baptiſt's did Herodias; It made him aſham'd to be rob'd of this Boaſting, and to ſee himſelf, notwithſtanding his Confidence, diſabled to make his Words good. This is ſuch a Mortification to his proud Spirit, that he cannot bear to ſtay in Judea, but away he goes to Ceſarea, at the End of the third Year of his Reign over all Judea, Antiq. xix. 7. and ſaith, he came thither to ſolemnize the Plays that were kept there, by a vaſt Concourſe of the Nobility and Gentry of the Kingdom, for the Health of Cæſar, and in Honour of him.

20 ¶ And Herod was highly diſpleaſed with them of Tyre and Sidon: but they came with one accord to him, and having made Blaſtus the kings chamberlain their frieud, deſired peace, becauſe their country was nouriſhed by the kings country. 21 And upon a ſet day, Herod arayed in royal apparel, ſat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them. 22 And the people gave a ſhout, ſaying, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man. 23 And immediately the angel of the Lord ſmote him, becauſe he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghoſt. 24 ¶ But the word of God grew and multiplied. 25 And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jeruſalem, when they had fulfilled their Miniſtry, and took with them John whoſe ſirname was Mark.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, The Death of Herod: GOD reckon'd with him, not only for putting James to Death, but for his Deſign and Endeavour to put Peter to Death; for Sinners will be call'd to an Account, not only for the Wickedneſs of their Deeds, but for the Wickedneſs of their Endeavours, Pſal. xxviii. 4. For the Miſchief they have done, and the Miſchief they would have done. It was but a little While that Herod liv'd after this; Some Sinners GOD makes quick Work with. Obſerve,

1. How the Meaſure of his Iniquity was fill'd up; It was Pride that did it; that's it that commonly goes more immediately before Deſtruction, and a haughty Spirit before a Fall. Nebuchadnezzar had been a very bloody Man, and a great Perſecutor; but the Word that was in the King's Mouth when the Judgment of GOD fell upon him, was a proud Word, Is not this great Babylon that I have built? Dan. iv. 30, 31. It is the Glory of GOD to look on every One that is proud, and bring him low, Job xl. 12. The Inſtance of it here is very remarkable, and ſhews how GOD reſiſts the Proud.

(1.) The Men of Tyre and Sidon had it ſeems offended Herod: Thoſe Cities were now under the Roman Yoke, and ſome Miſdemeanors they had been guilty of, which Herod highly reſented, and was reſolved they ſhould feel his Reſentments. Some very ſmall Matter would ſerve ſuch a proud imperious Man as Herod was for a provocation, where he was minded to pick a Quarrel. He was highly diſpleas'd with this People, and they muſt be made to know that his Wrath was as the Roaring of a Lion, as Meſſengers of Death.

(2.) The Offenders truckled, being convinc'd, if not that they had done amiſs, yet that it was in vain to contend with ſuch a potent Adverſary, that, Right or Wrong, would be too hard for them; they ſubmitted, and were willing upon any Terms to make Peace with him. Obſerve, (1.) The Reaſon why they were deſirous to have the Matter accommodated; becauſe their Country was nouriſh'd by the King's Country Tyre and Sydon were Trading Cities, and had little Land belonging to them, but were always ſupply'd with Corn from the Land of Canaan, Judah and Iſrael traded in their Markets Wheat, and Honey, and Oyl, Ezek. xxvii. 17. Now if Herod ſhould make a Law to prohibit the Exportation of Corn to Tyre and Sidon, (which they knew not but a Man ſo revengeful as he might ſoon do, not caring how many were famiſhed by it) their Country would be undone; ſo that it was their Intereſt to keep in with him. And it is not then our Wiſdom to make our Peace with GOD, and humble our ſelves before Him, who have a much more conſtant and neceſſary Dependence upon Him, than one County can have upon another; for in Him we live, and move, and have our Being? (2.) The Method they took to prevent a Rupture; They made Blaſtus the King's Chamberlain their Friend; 'tis very likely with Bribes, and good Preſents; that's uſually the Way for Men to make Courtiers their Friends. And 'tis the hard Fate of Princes that they muſt have not only their Affairs, but their Affections too, govern'd by ſuch mercenary Tools: Ye ſuch Men as Herod, that will not be govern'd by Reaſon, had better be ſo govern'd than by Pride and Paſſion. Blaſtus had Herod's Ear, and has the Art of mollifying his Reſentments; and a Time is fix'd for the Ambaſſadors of Tyre and Sidon to come and make a publick Submiſſion to beg his Majeſty's Pardon, throw themſelves upon his Clemency, and promiſe never again to offend in the like Kind: And that which will thus feed his Pride,, ſhall ſerve to cool his Paſſion.

(3.) Herod appear'd in all the Pomp and Grandeur he had; He was array'd in his Royal Apparel, v. 21. and ſate upon his Throne. Joſephus gives an Account of this ſplendid Appearance which Herod made upon this Occaſion, Antiq. xix. 7. He ſaith, That Herod at this Time wore a Robe of Cloth of Silver, ſo richly woven, and fram'd with ſuch Art, that when the Sun ſhone it reflected the Light with ſuch a Luſtre as dazzled the Eyes of the Spectators, and ſtruck an Awe upon them. Fooliſh People value Men by their outward Appearance; and no better are they who value themſelves by the Eſteem of ſuch, who court it and recommend themſelves to it, as Herod did, who thought to make to the Want of a Royal Heart, with his Royal Apparel; and ſate upon his Throne, as if that gave him a Privilege to trample upon all about him as his Footſtool.

(4.) He made a Speech to the Men of Tyre and Sidon, a fine Oration, in which probably after he had aggravated their Fault, and commended their Submiſſion, he concluded with an Aſſurance that he would paſs by their Offence, and receive them into his Favour again, proud enough that he had it in his Power, whom he would to keep alive, as well as whom he would to ſlay; and probably kept them in ſuſpence what their Doom ſhould be, till he made this Oration to them with the more pleaſing Surprize.

(5.) The People applauded him; The People that had a Dependance upon him, and had Benefit by his Favour, they gave a Shout, and this was it they ſhouted, It is the Voice of a God, and not of a Man, v. 22. GOD is Great and Good, and they thought ſuch was Herod's Greatneſs in his Apparel and Throne, and ſuch his Goodneſs in forgiving them, that he was worthy to be call'd no leſs than a God; and perhaps his Speech was deliver'd with ſuch an Air of Majeſty, and a Mixture of Clemency with it, as affected the Auditors thus. Or, it may be, it was not from any real Impreſſion made upon their Minds, or any high or good Thoughts they had indeed conceiv'd of him, but how meanly ſoever they thought of him, they were reſolv'd thus to curry Favour with him, and ſtrengthen the new-made Peace between him and them. Thus great Men are made an eaſy Prey to Flatterers, if they lend an Ear to them, and encourage them. Grotius here obſerves that tho' Magiſtrates are call'd Gods, Pſ. lxxxii. 1. yet Kings or Monarchs, that is ſingle Perſons, are not, leſt Countenance ſhould thereby be given to the Gentiles, who gave divine Honours to their Kings alive and dead, as here; but they are a College of Senators, or a Bench of Judges that are call'd Gods; In Collegio toto Senatorum non idem erat periculi, itaque eos non autem Reges invenimus dictos Elohim. Thoſe that live by Senſe vilify God, as if he were altogether ſuch a One as themſelves; and deify Men as if they were GODS; having their Perſons in Admiration, becauſe of Advantage. This is not only a great Affront to GOD, giving that Glory to others, which is due to Him alone, but a great Injury to thoſe who are thus flatter'd, as it makes them forget themſelves, and ſo puffs them up with Pride as that they are in the utmoſt Danger poſſible of falling into the Condemnation of the Devil.

(6.) Theſe undue Praiſes he took to himſelf, pleas'd himſelf with them, and prided himſelf in them; and that was his Sin. We do not find that he had given any private Orders to his Confidents to begin ſuch a Shout, or to put thoſe Words into the Mouths of the People, or that he return'd them Thanks for the Complement, and undertook to anſwer their Opinion of him: But his Fault was, that he ſaid nothing, did not rebuke their Flattery, nor diſown the Title they had given him, nor give GOD the Glory, v. 23. But he took it to himſelf, was very willing it ſhould terminate in himſelf, and that he ſhould be thought a God, and have divine Honours paid him. Si populus vult decipi decipiatur. And it was worſe in him who was a Jew, and profeſs'd to believe One GOD only, than it was in the Heathen Emperors, who had Gods many, and Lords many.

2. Obſerve, How his Iniquity was puniſh'd; Immediately, v. 23. the Angel of the LORD ſmote him, by the Order of Chriſt, (for to him all Judgment is committed) becauſe he gave not GOD the Glory; (for GOD is jealous for his own Honour, and will be glorify'd upon thoſe whom He is not glorify'd by) and he was eaten of Worms, above-Ground, and gave up the Ghoſt. Now he was reckon'd with for vexing the Church of Chriſt, killing James, and impriſoning of Peter, and all the other Miſchiefs he had done. Obſerve in the Deſtruction of Herod,

1. It was no leſs than an Angel that was the Agent; The Angel of the LORD, that Angel that was order'd and commiſſion'd to do it, or that Angel that us'd to be employ'd in Works of this Nature, the Deſtroying Angel: Or, The Angel, i. e. that Angel that deliver'd Peter in the former Part of the Chapter, that Angel ſmote Herod. For thoſe miniſtring Spirits are the Miniſters either of Divine Juſtice, or of Divine Mercy, as GOD is pleas'd to employ them. The Angel ſmote him with a ſore Diſeaſe juſt at that Inſtant when he was ſtrutting at the Applauſes of the People, and adoring his own Shadow. Thus the King of Tyre ſaid in his Pride, I am a God, and ſit in the Seet of God, and ſet his Heart as the Heart of God; but he ſhall be a Man, and no God, a weak mortal Man, in the Hand of him that ſlayeth him, Ezek. xxviii. 2. 9. ſo Herod here. Potent Princes muſt know, not only that GOD is Omnipotent, but that Angels too are greater in Power and Might than they. The Angel ſmote him, becauſe he gave not the Glory to GOD; Angels are jealous for GOD's Honour, and as ſoon as ever they have Commiſſion, are ready to ſmite thoſe that uſurp his Prerogatives, and rob GOD of his Honour.

2. It was no more than a Worm that was the Inſtrument of Herod's Deſtruction; He was eaten of Worms, γινόμενος σκωληκόβρωτος, He became Worm-eaten, ſo it muſt be read; rotten he was, and he became like a Piece of rotten Wood. The Body in the Grave is deſtroy'd by Worms; but Herod's Body putrify'd while he was yet alive, and bred the Worms which began to feed upon it betimes; ſo Antiochus, that great Perſecutor dy'd. See here, (1.) What vile Bodies thoſe are which we carry about with us, they carry about with them the Seeds of their own Diſſolution, by which they will ſoon be deſtroy'd whenever GOD doth but ſpeak the Word. Surprizing Diſcoveries have of late been made by Microſcopes of the Multitude of Worms that there are in Human Bodies, and how much they contribute to the Diſeaſes of them; which is a good Reaſon why we ſhould not be proud of our Bodies, or of any of their Accompliſhment; and why we ſhould not pamper our Bodies, for that's but feeding the Worms, and feeding them for the Worms. (2.) See what weak and contemptible Creatures GOD can make the Inſtruments of his Juſtice, when He pleaſeth. Pharaoh is plagu'd with Lice and Flies, Ephraim conſum'd as with a Moth, and Herod eaten of Worms. (3.) See how GOD delights not only to bring down proud Men, but to bring them down in ſuch a Way as is moſt mortifying, and pours moſt Contempt upon them. Herod is not only deſtroy'd, but deſtroy'd by Worms, that the Pride of his Glory may be effectually ſtain'd.

This Story of the Death of Herod, is particularly related by Joſephus, a Jew, Antiq. lib. xix. cap. vii. thus; "That Herod "came down to Cæſarea, to celebrate a Feſtival in Honour of "Cæſar; that the ſecond Day of the Feſtival, he went in the "Morning to the Theatre, cloathed with that ſplendid Robe "mention'd before; That his Flatterers ſaluted him as a God, "beg'd that he would be propitious to them; That hitherto "they had reverenc'd him as a Man, but now they would con"feſs to be in him ſomething more excellent than a mortal Na"ture. That he did not refuſe or correct the impious Flat"tery; (ſo the Hiſtorian expreſſeth it) but preſently after look"ing up he ſaw an Owl perch'd over his Head, and was at the "ſame Inſtant ſeiz'd with a moſt violent Pain in his Bowels and "Gripes in his Belly, which were exquiſite from the very firſt "that he turn'd his Eyes upon his Friends, and ſaid to this "Purpoſe; Now I whom you call'd a God, and therefore im"mortal, muſt be prov'd a Man, and mortal. That his Torture "continu'd without Intermiſſion, or the leaſt Abatement, and "then he dy'd in the 54th Year of his Age, when he had been "King ſeven Years.

Secondly, The Progreſs of the Goſpel after this:

1. The Word of God grew and multiply'd; As Seed ſown, which comes up with a great Increaſe, thirty, ſixty, a hundred-fold; wherever the Goſpel was preach'd Multitudes embrac'd it, and were added to the Church by it, v. 24. After the Death of James, the Word of God grew? for the Church, the more it was afflicted, the more it multiply'd; like Iſrael in Egypt. The Courage and Comfort of the Martyrs, and GOD's owning them, did more to invite them to Chriſtianity, than their Sufferings did to deter them from it. After the Death of Herod, the Word of GOD got Ground; When ſuch a Perſecutor was taken off by a dreadful Judgment, many were thereby convinc'd that the Cauſe of Chriſtianity, was doubtleſs the Cauſe of Chriſt; and therefore embrac'd it.

2. Barnabas and Saul return'd to Antioch as ſoon as they had diſpatch'd the Buſineſs they were ſent upon; When they had fulfill'd their Miniſtry, had paid in their Money to the proper Perſons, and taken Care about the due Diſtribution of it to thoſe for whom it was collected, they return'd from Jeruſalem. tho' they had a great many Friends there, yet at preſent their Work lay at Antioch; and where our buſineſs is, there we ſhould be; and no longer from it than is requiſite. When a Miniſter is call'd Abroad, upon any Service, when he has fulfill'd that Miniſtry, he ought to remember that he has Work to do at Home, which wants him there, and call's him thither. Barnabas and Saul when they went to Antioch, took with them John, whoſe Sirname was Mark, at whoſe Mother's Houſe they had that Meeting for prayer, which we read of, v. 12. ſhe was Siſter to Barnabus; it's probable, Barnabas lodg'd there, and perhaps Paul with him, while they were at Jeruſalem, and that was it that occaſion'd the Meeting there at that time; for wherever Paul was, he would have ſome good work a doing, and their Intimacy in that Family while they were at Jeruſalem, occaſion'd their taking a Son of that Family with them, when they retun'd, to be train'd up under 'em, and imploy'd by them in the Service of the Goſpel. Educating Young Men for the Miniſtry and entring them into it, is a very good Work for Elder Miniſters to take Care of, and of good Service to the riſing Generation.

CHAP. XIII.

We have not yet met with any Thing concerning the Spreading of the Goſpel to the Gentiles, which bears any Proportion to the Largeneſs of that Commiſſion, Go, and diſciple all Nations. The Door was open'd in the Baptizing of Cornelius and his Friends; but ſince then, we had the Goſpel preach'd to the Jews only, chap. xi. 19. It ſhould ſeem as if the Light which began to ſhine upon the Gentile World had withdrawn it ſelf. But here in this Chapter, that Work, that Great Good Work, is reviv'd in the Midſt of the Years; and tho' the Jews ſhall ſtill have the firſt Offer of the Goſpel made to them, yet upon their Refuſal, the Gentiles ſhall have their Share of the Offer of it. Here's (1.) The ſolemn Ordination of Barnabas and Saul, by Divine Direction, to the Miniſtry, to the great Work of ſpreading the Goſpel among the Nations about; and 'tis probable, other Apoſtles or Apoſtolical Men diſpers'd themſelves by Order from Chriſt, upon the ſame Errand, v. 1—3. (2.) Their Preaching the Goſpel in Cyprus, and the Oppoſition they met with there from Elymas the Sorcerer, v. 4—13. (3.) The Heads of a Sermon which Paul preach to the Jews at Antioch in Piſidia, in their Synagogue, which is given us as a Specimen of what they uſually preached to the Jews, and the Method they took with them, v. 14—41. (4.) The Preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles at their Requeſt, and upon the Jews Refuſal of it, wherein the Apoſtles juſtify'd themſelves againſt the Diſpleaſure which the Jews conceiv'd at it, and GOD own'd them, v. 42—49. (5.) The Trouble which the Infidel-Jews gave the Apoſtles, which oblig'd them to remove to another Place, v. 50—52. ſo that the Deſign of this Chapter is to ſhew how cautiouſly, how gradually, and with what good Reaſon the Apoſtle carried the Goſpel into the Gentile World, and admitted the Gentiles into the Church, which was ſo great an Offence to the Jews, and which Paul is ſo induſtrious to juſtify in his Epiſtles.

NOW there were in the church that was at Antioch, certain prophets and teachers, as Barnabas and Simeon that was called Niger and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul. 2 As they miniſtred to the Lord, and faſted, the holy Ghoſt ſaid, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them. 3 And when they had faſted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they ſent them away.

We have here a Divine Warrant and Commiſſion to Barnabas and Saul, to go and preach the Goſpel among the Gentiles, and their Ordination to that Service by the Impoſition of Hands with Faſting and Prayer.

Firſt, Here's an Account of the preſent State of the Church at Antioch, which was planted, chap. xi. 2.

1. How well furniſhed it was with good Miniſters? There were there certain Prophets and Teachers. v. 1. Men that were eminent for Gifts, Graces, and uſefulneſs Chriſt when he Aſcended on high, gave ſome Prophets, and ſome Teachers, Eph. iv. 11. theſe were both. Agabus ſeems to have been a Prophet, and not a Teacher, and there were many who were Teachers that were not Prophets, but thoſe were at Times divinely inſpir'd, and had Inſtructions immediately from Heaven upon ſpecial Occaſions, which gave them the Title of Prophets; and withal they were ſtated Teachers of the Church in their Religious Aſſemblies, expounded the Scriptures, and open'd the Doctrine of Chriſt with ſuitable Applications. Theſe were the Prophets, and Scribes, or Teachers which Chriſt promiſed to ſend, Matth. xxiii. 34. ſuch as were every Way qualify'd for the Service of the Chriſtian Church. Antioch was a great City, and the Chriſtians there were many, ſo that they could not all meet in one Place, it was therefore requiſite they ſhould have many Teachers, to preſide in their reſpective Aſſemblies, and to deliver GOD's Mind to them. Barnabas is firſt nam'd, probably becauſe he was the eldeſt, and Saul laſt, probably becauſe he was the youngeſt, but afterwards the laſt became firſt, and Saul more eminent in the Church.

Three others are mention'd. (1.) Simon, or Simon, that for Diſtinction Sake was called Niger; Simon the Black, from the Colour of his Hair, like him that with us was ſir-named The black Prince. (2.) Lucius of Cyrene, who ſome think (and Dr. Lightfoot inclines to it) was the ſame with this Luke that wrote the Acts; originally a Cyrenean, and educated in the Cyrenean College, or Synagogue at Jeruſalem, and there firſt receiving the Goſpel. (3.) Menaen, a Perſon of ſome Quality, as it ſhould ſeem, for he was brought up with Herod the Tetrarch, either nurs'd of the ſame Milk, or bred at the ſame School, or, Pupil to the ſame Tutor, or rather, one that was his conſtant Collegue, and Companion, that in every Part of his Education was his Comrade and Intimate, which gave him a fair Proſpect of Preferment at Court, and yet for Chriſt's Sake he quitted all the Hopes of it. Like Moſes, who when he was come to Years refuſed to be called the Son of Pharaoh's Daughter. Had he joyn'd in with Herod, with whom he was brought up, he might have had Blaſtus's Place, and have been his Chamberlain, but it is better to be Fellow-Sufferer with a Saint, than Fellow Perſecutor with a Tetrarch.

2. How well employ'd they were, v. 2. They miniſtred to the Lord and faſted. Obſerve, (1.) Diligent faithful Teachers do truly miniſter unto the Lord. They that inſtruct Chriſtians ſerve Chriſt, they really do him Honours, and carry on the Intereſt of his Kingdom. They that miniſter to the Church in Praying and Preaching (both which are included here,) miniſter unto the Lord, for they are the Churches Servants for Chriſt's Sake, to Him they muſt have an Eye in their Miniſtrations, and from Him they ſhall have their Recompence. (2.) Miniſtring to the Lord in one way or other, ought to be the ſtated Buſineſs of Churches and their Teachers; To this Work Time ought to be ſet a part, nay, it is ſet apart, and in this Work we ought to ſpend ſome Part of every Day. What we have to do as Chriſtians and Miniſters but to ſerve the Lord Chriſt, Col. iii. 24. Rom. xiv. 18. (3.) Religious Faſting is of Uſe in our Miniſtring to the Lord, both as a Sign of our Humiliation, and a Means of our Mortification. Tho' it was not much practic'd by the Diſciples of Chriſt, while the Bridegroom was with them, as it was by the Diſciples of John, and of the Phariſees, yet after the Bridegroom was taken away they abounded in it, as thoſe that had well learn'd to deny themſelves, and to endure Hardneſs.

Secondly, The Orders given by the Holy Ghoſt for the ſetting apart of Barnabas and Saul, while they were engag'd in publick Exerciſes, the Miniſters of the ſeveral Congregations in the City joying in one ſolemn Faſt, or Day of Prayer, the Holy Ghoſt ſaid, either by a Voice from Heaven, or by a ſtrong Impulſe on the Minds of thoſe of them that were Prophets, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the Work whereunto I have called them. He doth not ſpecify the Work, but refers to a former Call, which they themſelves knew the Meaning of, whether others did or no; As for Saul he was particularly told that he muſt bear Chriſt's Name to the Gentiles, Acts ix. 15. that he muſt be ſent to the Gentiles, Acts xxii. 20. the Matter was ſettled between them at Jeruſalem, before this, that as Peter, James and John laid out themſelves among them of the Circumciſion, ſo Paul and Barnabas ſhould go to the Heathen, Gal. ii. 7, 8, 9. Barnabas its likely knew himſelf deſign'd for that Service as well as Paul. Yet they would not thruſt themſelves into this Harveſt, tho' it appear'd plenteous, till they receiv'd their Orders from the Lord of the Harveſt, Thruſt in thy Sickle, for the Harveſt is ripe, Rev. xiv. 15. The Orders were, Separate me Barnabas and Saul. Obſerve here,

1. Chriſt by his Spirit has the Nomination of his Miniſters, for it is by the Spirit of Chriſt that they are both qualified in ſome Meaſure for his Service, inclin'd to it, and taken off from other Cares inconſiſtent with it. There are ſome whom the Holy Ghoſt hath ſeparated for the Service of Chriſt, hath diſtinguiſh'd from others as Men that are offer'd, and that willingly offer themſelves to the Temple-Service, and concerning them Directions are given to thoſe who are competent Judges of the Sufficiency of the Abilities, and the Sincerity of the Inclination, ſeparate them.

2. Chriſt's Miniſters are ſeparated to him, and to the Holy Ghoſt, ſeparate them to me; They are to be employ'd in Chriſt's Work, and under the Spirit's Conduct, to the Glory of GOD the Father.

3. All that are ſeparated to Chriſt as his Miniſters, are ſeparated to work; Chriſt keeps no Servants to be idle; If any Man deſires the Office of a Biſhop, he deſires a good Work, that's it which he is ſeparated to, to labour in the Word and Doctrine. They are ſeparated to take Pains, and not to take State.

4. The Work of Chriſt's Miniſters to which they are to be ſeparated is Work that is already ſettled; and that which all Chriſt's Miniſters hitherto have been called to, and which they themſelves have firſt been by an external Call directed to, and have choſen.

Thirdly, Their Ordination, purſuant to theſe Orders, not to the Miniſtry in general, Barnabas and Saul had both of them been Miniſters long before this, but to a particular Service in the Miniſtry, which had ſomething peculiar in it, and which requir'd a freſh Commiſſion; which Commiſſion GOD ſaw fit at this Time to tranſmit by the Hands of theſe Prophets and Teachers, for the giving of this Direction to the Church. That Teachers ſhould ordain Teachers (for Prophets we are not now any longer to expect) and that thoſe who have the diſpenſing of the Oracles of Chriſt committed to them, ſhould for the Benefit of Poſterity, commit the ſame to faithful Men which ſhall be able alſo to teach others, 2 Tim. ii. ſo here, Simeon and Lucius, and Manaen faithful Teachers at this Time in the Church of Antioch, when they had faſted and prayed, laid their Hands on Barnabas and Saul, and ſent them away, v. 3. according to the Directions receiv'd. Obſerve,

1. They joyn'd Faſting with their Prayers, as they did in other their Miniſtrations, v. 3. Chriſt has taught us this by his abſtaining from Sleep (a Night Faſt, if I may ſo call it,) the Night before he ſent forth his Apoſtles, that he might ſpend it in Prayer.

3. They laid their Hands on them. Hereby (1.) They gave them their Manumiſſion, Diſmiſſion, or Diſcharge from the preſent Service they were engag'd in, in the Church of Antioch, acknowledging not only that they went off fairly and with Conſent, but honourably and with a good Report. (2.) They implor'd a Bleſſing upon them in their preſent Undertaking; begg'd that GOD would be with them, and give them Succeſs; and in order to this, that they might be filled with the Holy Ghoſt in their Work. This very Thing is explain'd, chap. xiv. 26. where it is ſaid concerning Paul and Barnabas, that from Antioch they had been recommended to the Grace of God for the Work which they fulfilled. As it was an Inſtance of the Humility of Barnabas and Saul, that they ſubmitted to the Impoſition of the Hands of thoſe that were their Equals, or rather their Inferiors, ſo it was of the good Diſpoſition of the other Teachers, that they did not envy Barnabas and Saul the Honour to which they were prefer'd, but chearfully committed it to them, with hearty Prayers for them. And they ſent them away with all Expedition, out of a Concern for thoſe Countries where they were to break up fallow Ground.

4 ¶ So they being ſent forth by the holy Ghoſt, departed unto Seleucia; and from thence they ſailed to Cyprus. 5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the ſynagogues of the Jews: and they had alſo John to their miniſter. 6 And when they had gone through the iſle unto Paphos, they found a certain ſorcerer, a falſe prophet, a Jew whoſe name was Barjeſus: 7 Which was with the deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and deſired to hear the word of God. 8 But Elymas the ſorcerer (for ſo is his name by interpretation) withſtood them, ſeeking to turn away the deputy from the faith. 9 Then Saul (who alſo is called Paul) filled with the holy Ghoſt, ſet his eyes on him, 10 And ſaid, O full of all ſubtilty and all miſchief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteouſneſs, wilt thou not ceaſe to pervert the right ways of the Lord? 11 And now behold the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou ſhalt be blind, not ſeeing the ſun for a ſeaſon. And immediately there fell on him a miſt and a darkneſs, and he went about ſeeking ſome to lead him by the hand. 12 Then the deputy, when he ſaw what was done, believed, being aſtoniſhed at the doctrine of the Lord. 13 Now when Paul and his company looſed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and John departing from them, returned to Jeruſalem.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, A general Account of the coming of Barnabas and Saul to the famous Iſland of Cyprus, and perhaps thitherward they ſteer'd their Courſe, becauſe Barnabas was a Native of that Country, chap. iv. 36. and he was willing they ſhould have the Firſt-fruits of his Labours purſuant to his new Commiſſion. Obſerve,

1. Their being ſent forth by the Holy Ghoſt was the great Thing that encourag'd them in this Undertaking, v. 4. If the Holy Ghoſt ſend them forth he will go along with them, ſtrengthen them, carry them on in their Work, and give them Succeſs, and then they fear no Colours, but can chearfully venture upon a ſtormy Sea from Antioch, which was now to them a quiet Harbour.

2. They came to Seleucia, the Sea-port Town oppoſite to Cyprus, from thence croſs'd the Sea to Cyprus, and in that Iſland, the firſt City they came to was Salamis, a City on the Eaſt-ſide of the Iſland, v. 5. And when they had ſown good Seed there, thence they went onward through the Iſle, v. 6. till they came to Paphos, which lay on the weſtern Coaſt.

3. They preached the Word of God where-ever they came, in the Synagogues of the Jews; ſo far were they from excluding them that they gave them the Preference, and ſo left thoſe among them who believ'd not inexcuſeable, they would have gather'd them, but they would not. They did not Act clandeſtinely, nor preach the Meſſiah to others unknown to them, but laid their Doctrine open to theCenſure of the Rulers of their Synagogues, who might, if they had any Thing to ſay, object againſt it. Nor would they have acted ſeparately, but in Concert with them, if they had not driven them out from them, and from their Synagogues.

4. They had John to their Miniſter; not their Servant in common Things, but their Aſſiſtant in the Things of GOD; either to prepare their Way in Places where they deſign'd to come, or to carry on their Work in Places where they had begun it, or to converſe familiarly with thoſe to whom they preached publickly, and explain Things to them, and ſuch a one might be many Ways of Uſe to them, eſpecially in a ſtrange Country.

Secondly, A particular Account of their Rencounter with Elymas the Sorcerer, whom they met with at Paphos, where the Governour reſided. A Place famous for a Temple built to Venus there, thence called Paphia Venus; and therefore there was more than ordinary Need that the Son of God ſhould be manifeſted to deſtroy the Work of the Devil.

1. There the Deputy a Gentile, Sergius Paulus by Name, encourag'd the Apoſtles, and was willing to hear their Meſſage. He was Governor of the Countrey, under the Roman Emperor, Proconſul, or Proprietor, ſuch a one as we would call Lord Lieutenant of the Iſland, He had the Character of a prudent Man an intelligent conſiderate Man, that was rul'd by Reaſon, not Paſſin or Prejudice; which appear'd by this, that having a Character of Barnabas and Saul he ſent for them, and deſir'd to hear the Word of God. Note, That which we hear has a Tendency to lead us to GOD, 'tis Prudence to deſire to hear more of it. Theſe are wiſe People, however they may be rank'd among the fooliſh of this World, who are inquiſitive after the Mind and Will of GOD. Tho' he was a great Man, and a Man in Authority, and the Preachers of the Goſpel were Men that made no Figure, yet if they have a Meſſage from GOD, let him know what it is, and if it appear to be ſo, he is ready to receive it.

2. There Elymas a Jew, a Sorcerer oppos'd them, and did all he could to obſtruct their Progreſs. This juſtified the Apoſtles in turning to the Gentiles, that this Jew was ſo malignant againſt them.

1. This Elymas was a Pretender to the Gift of Prophecy, a Sorcerer, a falſe Prophet; one that would be taken for a Divine, becauſe he was skill'd in the Arts of Divination, was a Conjurer, and took on him to tell People their Fortune, and to diſcover Things loſt, and probably was in League with the Devil for that Purpoſe. His Name was Bar-Jeſus, the Son of Joſhua, It ſignifies the Son of Salvation, But the Syriac calls him Bar-Shoma, The Son of Pride; Filius inflationis.

2. He was hanging on at Court, was with the Deputy of the Country; it doth not appear that the Deputy called for him, as he did for Barnabas and Saul, but he thruſt himſelf upon him, aiming no doubt to make a Hand of him, and get Money by him.

3. He made it his Buſineſs to withſtand Barnabas and Saul, as the Magicians of Egypt in Pharaoh's Court withſtood Moſes and Aaron, 2 Tim. iii. 8. He ſet up himſelf to be a Meſſenger from Heaven, and deny'd that they were, And thus he ſought to turn away the Deputy from the Faith, v. 8. to keep him from receiving the Goſpel, which he ſaw him inclin'd to do. Note, Satan is in a ſpecial Manner buſy with great Men, and Men in Power to keep them from being religious, becauſe he knows their Example whether Good or Bad will have an Influence upon many. And thoſe who are any way Inſtrumental to prejudice People againſt the Truths and Ways of Chriſt are doing the Devil's Work.

4. Saul (who is here the firſt Time called Paul, and never after Saul) fell upon him for this with a Holy Indignation. Saul, who is alſo called Paul, v. 9. Saul was his Name as he was a Hebrew, and of the Tribe of Benjamin, Paul was his Name as he was a Citizen of Rome; Hitherto we have had him moſtly converſant among the Jews, and therefore called by his Jewiſh Name; But now when he is ſent forth among the Gentiles, he is called by his Roman Name, to put ſomewhat of a Reputation upon him in the Roman Cities; Paulus being a very common Name among them. But ſome think he was never called Paul till now, that he was inſtrumental in the Converſion of Sergius Paulus to the Faith of Chriſt, and that he took that Name (Paulus) as a Memorial of that Victory obtain'd by the Goſpel of Chriſt, as among the Romans he that had conquer'd a Country took his Denomination from it, as Germanicus, Britannicus, Africanus; Or rather Sergius Paulus himſelf gave him the Name Paulus in Token of his Favour and Reſpect to him, as Veſpaſian gave him his Name Flavius, to Joſephus the Jew. Now of Paul 'tis ſaid,

1. That he was filled with the Holy Ghoſt upon this Occaſion; filled with a holy Zeal againſt a profeſs'd Enemy of Chriſt, which was one of the Grace of the Holy Ghoſt, a Spirit of burning; fill'd with a Power to denounce the Wrath of GOD againſt him, which was one of the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, a Spirit of Judgment. He felt a more than ordinary Fervour in his Mind, as the Prophet did when he was full of Power by the Spirit of the Lord; Mic. iii. 8. and another Prophet when his Face was made harder than Flint, Ezek. iii. 9. and another when his Mouth was made like a ſharp Sword, Iſa. xlix. 2. What Paul ſaid did not come from any perſonal Reſentment, but from the ſtrong Impreſſions which the Holy Ghoſt made upon his Spirit.

2. He ſet his Eyes upon him to face him down, and to ſhew a Holy Boldneſs in Oppoſition to his wicked Impudence. He ſet his Eyes upon him as an Indication that the Eye of the Heart ſearching GOD was upon him, and ſaw through and through him; nay, that the Face of the Lord was againſt him, Pſal. xxxiv. 16. He fix'd his Eyes upon him, to ſee if he could diſcern in his Countenance any Marks of Remorſe for what he had done, which if he could have diſcern'd the leaſt Sign of, it had prevented the enſuing Doom.

3. He gave him his true Character, not in Paſſion, but by the Holy Ghoſt, who knows Men better than they know themſelves, v. 1. He deſcribes him to be.

1. And Agent for Hell; and ſuch there have been upon this Earth (the Seat of the War between the Seed of the Woman and of the Serpent) ever ſince Cain who was of that wicked One, an incarnate Devil ſlew his Brother for no other Reaſon, but becauſe his own Works were evil, and his Brothers righteous. This Elymas tho' call'd Bar-Jeſus, a Son of Jeſus, was really a Child of the Devil, bore his Image, did his Luſts, and ſerv'd his Intereſt, John viii. 44. In Two Things he reſembled the Devil; as a Child doth his Father. (1.) In Craft; The Serpent was more ſubtle than any Beaſt of the Field, Gen. iii. 1. and Elymas tho' void of all Wiſdom, yet was full of Subtilty, expert in all the Arts of deceiving Men and impoſing upon them. (2.) In Malice; he was full of all Miſchiefs; a ſpiteful ill-condition'd Man, and a ſworn implacable Enemy to GOD and Goodneſs. Note, a Fulneſs of Subtilty and Miſchief together make a Man indeed a Child of the Devil.

(2.) An Adverſary to Heaven; If he be a Child of the Devil it follows of courſe that he is an Enemy to all Righteouſneſs, for the Devil is ſo. Note, Thoſe that are Enemies to the Doctrine of Chriſt, are Enemies to all Righteouſneſs, for in it all Righteouſneſs is ſumm'd up and fulfill'd.

4. He charg'd upon him his preſent Crime, and expoſtulated with him upon it, wilt thou not ceaſe to pervert the right Ways of the Lord? i. e. to miſrepreſent them, to put falſe Colours upon them, and ſo to diſcourage People from entring into them, and walking in them. Note, 1. The Ways of the Lord are right, they are all ſo, they are perfectly ſo. The Ways of the Lord Jeſus are right, the only right Ways to Heaven and Happineſs, 2. There are thoſe who pervent theſe right Ways, who not only wander out of theſe Ways themſelves, as Elihu's Penitent, who owns, I have perverted that which was right, and it profited me not, But miſlead others, and ſuggeſt to them unjuſt Prejudices againſt theſe Ways, as if the Doctrine of Chriſt were uncertain and precarious, the Laws of Chriſt unreaſonable and impracticable, and the Service of Chriſt unpleaſant and unprofitable, which is an unjuſt perverting of the right Ways of the Lord, and making them to ſeem crooked Ways. 3. Thoſe that pervert the right Ways of the Lord, are commonly ſo harden'd in it, that tho' the Equity of thoſe Ways be ſet before them by the moſt powerful and commanding Evidence, yet they will not ceaſe to do it; etſi ſuaſeris non perſuaſeris, They will have it their own Way, have loved Strangers and after them they will go.

5. He denounc'd the Judgment of GOD upon him, in a preſent Blindneſs, v. 11. And now behold the Hand of the Lord is upon thee, a righteous Hand, GOD is now about to lay Hands on thee and make thee his Priſoner, for thou art taken in Arms againſt him; thou ſhalt be blind not ſeeing the Sun for a Seaſon. This was deſign'd both for the Proof of his Crime, as it was a Miracle wrought to confirm the right Ways of the Lord, and conſequently to ſhew the Wickedneſs of him who would not ceaſe to pervert them; As alſo for the Puniſhment of his Crime; 'Twas a ſuitable Puniſhment; he ſhut his Eyes, the Eyes of his Minds, againſt the Light of the Goſpel, and therefore juſtly were the Eyes of his Body ſhut againſt the Light of the Sun. He ſought to blind the Deputy as an Agent for the God of this World, who blindeth the Mind of them that believe not, leaſt the Light of the Goſpel ſhould ſhine unto them, 2 Cor. iv. 4. and therefore is himſelf ſtruck blind. Yet it was a moderate Puniſhment, he was only ſtruck blind when he might moſt juſtly have be ſtruck dead; And that it was only for a Seaſon; If he will repent and give Glory to GOD by making Confeſſion, his Sight ſhall be reſtor'd; nay, it ſhould ſeem tho' he do not, yet his Sight ſhall be reſtor'd, to try if he will be led to Repentance, either by the Judgments of GOD, or by his Mercies.

6. This Judgment was immediately executed. There fell on him a Miſt and a Darkneſs, as on the Sodomites, when they perſecuted Lot, and on the Syrians, when they perſecuted Eliſha. This Silenc'd him preſently, fill'd him with Confuſion, and was an effectual Confutation of all he ſaid againſt the Doctrine of Chriſt. Let not him any more pretend to be a Guide to the Deputy's Conſcience who is himſelf ſtruck blind. It was alſo an Earneſt to him of a much ſorer Puniſhment if he repent not, for he is one of thoſe wandering Stars, to whom is reſerved the Blackneſs of Darkneſs for ever, Jude xiii. Elymas did himſelf proclaim the Truth of the Miracle, when he went about ſeeking ſome to lead him by the Hand; and where now is all his Skill in Sorcery, upon which he had ſo much valu'd himſelf, when he can neither find his Way himſelf, nor find a Friend that will be ſo kind as to lead him.

3. Notwithſtanding all the Endeavours of Elymas, to turn away the Deputy from the Faith, he was brought to believe, and this Miracle wrought upon the Magician himſelf (like the Boils of Egypt, which were upon the Magicians ſo that they could not ſtand before Moſes, Exod. ix. 11.) contributed to it; The Deputy was a very ſenſible Man, and obſerv'd ſomething uncommon, and which ſpoke its divine Original.

(1.) In Paul's Preaching; He was aſtoniſh'd at the Doctrine of the Lord, the Lord Chriſt, the Doctrine that is from him, the Diſcoveries he has made of the Father, the Doctrine that is concerning him, his Perſon, Natures, Offices, Undertaking. Note, The Doctrine of Chriſt has a great deal in it that is aſtoniſhing, and the more we know of it, the more Reaſon we ſhall ſee to wonder and ſtand amaz'd at it.

(2.) In this Miracle; when he ſaw what was done, and how much Paul's Power tranſcended that of the Magician, and how plainly Elymas was baffled and confounded he believed. It is not ſaid that he was baptized, and ſo made a compleat Convert, but it is probable he was, Paul would not do his Buſineſs by the halves; As for God His Work is perfect: when he became a Chriſtian he neither laid down his Government nor was turn'd out of it, but we may ſuppoſe as a Chriſtian Magiſtrate by his Influence help'd very much to propagate Chriſtianity in that Iſland. The Tradition of the Romiſh Church, which has taken Care to find Biſhopricks for all the eminent Converts we read of in the Acts, has made this Sergius Paulus, Biſhop of Narbon in France, left there by Paul in his Journey to Spain.

Thirdly. Their Departure from the Iſland of Cyprus. 'Tis probably they did a great deal more there than is here recorded, where an Account is given only of that which was extraordinary, the Converſion of the Deputy. When they had done what they had to do.

1. They quitted the Country and went to Perga. Thoſe that went were Paul and his Company, which 'tis probable was increas'd in Cyprus, many being deſirous to accompany him. Ἀναχθέντες οἱ περὶ τὸν Παῦλον. They that were about Paul looſed from Paphos, which ſuppoſeth that he went too, but ſuch an Affection had his new Friends for him that they were always about him, and by their good Will would be never from him.

2. Then John Mark quitted them, and return'd to Jeruſalem without the Conſent of Paul and Barnabas, either he did not like the Work, and wanted to go ſee his Mother. It was his Fault, and we ſhall hear of it again.

¶ 14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Piſidia, and went into the ſynagogue on the ſabbath-day, and ſat down. 15 And after the reading of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the ſynagogue ſent unto them, ſaying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have any word of exhortation for the people, ſay on. 16 Then Paul ſtood up, and beckening with his hand ſaid, Men of Iſrael, and ye that fear God, give audience. 17 The God of this people of Iſrael choſe our fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt as ſtrangers in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought he them out of it. 18 And about the time of fourty years ſuffered he their manners in the wilderneſs. 19 And when he had deſtroyed ſeven nations in the land of Canaan, he divided their land to them by lot. 20 And after that, he gave unto them judges, about the ſpace of four hundred and fifty years, until Samuel the prophet. 21 And afterward they deſired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the ſon of Cis a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the ſpace of fourty years. 22 And when he had removed him, he raiſed up unto them David to be their king? to whom alſo he gave teſtimony, and ſaid, I have found David the ſon of Jeſſe, a man after mine own heart, which ſhall fulfill all my will. 23 Of this mans ſeed hath God, according to his promiſe, raiſed unto Iſrael a Saviour Jeſus: 24 When John had firſt preached before his coming, the baptiſm of repantance to all the people of Iſrael. 25 And as John fulfilled his courſe, he ſaid, Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But behold there cometh one after me, whoſe ſhoes of his feet I am not worthy to looſe. 26 Men and brethren, children of the ſtock of Abraham, and whoſoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this ſalvation ſent. 27 For they that dwell at Jeruſalem, and their rulers, becauſe they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every ſabbath-day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him. 28 And though they found no cauſe of death in him, yet deſired they Pilate that he ſhould be ſlain. 29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a ſepulchre. 30 But God raiſed him from the dead: 31 And he was ſeen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jeruſalem, who are his witneſſes unto the people. 32 And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that the promiſe which was made unto the fathers, 33 God hath fulfilled the ſame unto us their children, in that he hath raiſed up Jeſus again; as it is alſo written in the ſecond pſalm, Thou art my ſon, this day have I begotten thee. 34 And as concerning that he raiſed him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he ſaid on this wiſe, I will give you the ſure mercies of David. 35 Wherefore he ſaith alſo in another Pſalm, Thou ſhalt not ſuffer thine holy one to ſee corruption. 36 For David after he had ſerved his own generation by the will of God, fell on ſleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and ſaw corruption. 37 But he whom God raiſed again, ſaw no corruption. 38 ¶ Be it known unto you, therefore men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveneſs of ſins: 39 And by him all that believe are juſtified from all things, from which ye could not be juſtified by the law of Moſes. 40 Beware therefore, leſt that come upon you which is ſpoken of in the prophets, 41 Behold ye deſpiſers and wonder, and periſh: for I work a work in your days, a work which you ſhall in no wiſe believe, though a man declare it unto you.

Perga in Pamphylia was a noted Place, eſpecially for a Temple there erected to the Goddeſs Diana; yet nothing at all is related of what Paul and Barnabas did there, only thither they came, v. 13 and thence they departed, v. 14. But the Hiſtory of the Apoſtles Travels, as that of Chriſt's paſſeth by many Things worthy to have been recorded; becauſe if all ſhould have been written, the World could not have contain'd the Books.

But the next Place we find them in, is another Antioch, ſaid to be in Piſidia, to diſtinguiſh it from that Antioch in Syria, from whence they were ſent out. Piſidia was a Province of the Leſſer Aſia, bordering upon Phamphylia; this Antioch 'tis likely was the Metropolis of it; Abundance of Jews liv'd there, and to them the Goſpel was to be firſt preach'd; and Paul's Sermon to them, is what we have in theſe Verſes; which 'tis likely is the Subſtance of what was preach'd by the Apoſtles generally to the Jews in all Places; for in Dealing with them, the proper Way was to ſhew them how the New Teſtament, which they would have them to receive, exactly agreed with the Old Teſtament, which they not only receiv'd, but were zealous for.

We have here

Firſt, The Appearance which Paul and Barnabas made in a religious Aſſembly of the Jews at Antioch, v. 14. Tho' they had lately ſo good Succeſs with a Roman Deputy; yet when they came to Antioch, they did not enquire for the chief Magiſtrate, or make their Court to him, but they apply'd themſelves to the Jews, which is a further Proof of their good Affection to them, and their Deſire of their Welfare.

1. They obſerv'd their Time of Worſhip, on the Sabbath-Day, the Jewiſh Sabbath. The firſt Day of the Week, they obſerv'd among themſelves as a Chriſtian Sabbath; but if they will meet the Jews, it muſt be on the Seventh-day Sabbath; which therefore upon ſuch Occaſions, they did as yet ſometimes obſerve. For tho' it was by the Death of Chriſt, that the Ceremonial Law dy'd, yet it was in the Ruins of Jeruſalem, that it was to be bury'd; and therefore tho' the Morality of the fourth Commandment was entirely transform'd to the Chriſtian Sabbath, yet it was not incongruous to joyn with the Jews in their Sabbath-ſanctification.

2. They met them in their Place of Worſhip; in the Synagogue. Note, Sabbath days ſhould be kept holy in Solemn Aſſemblies; They are inſtituted chiefly for publick Worſhip; The Sabbath-day is a Holy Convocation; and for that Reaſon no ſervile Work muſt be done therein. Paul and Barnabas were Strangers; but whereever we come, we muſt enquire out GOD's faithful Worſhippers, and joyn with them, (as theſe Apoſtles here did) as thoſe that deſire to keep up a Communion with all Saints. Tho' they were Strangers, yet they were admitted into the Synagogue, and to ſit down there. Care ſhould be taken in Places of publick Worſhip, that Strangers be accommodated, even the pooreſt; for thoſe we know nothing elſe of, we know this, that they have precious Souls, which our Charity binds us to be concern'd for.

Secondly, The Invitation given them to preach.

1. The uſual Service of the Synagogue was perform'd, v. 15. The Law and the Prophets were read; a Portion of each, the Leſſons for the Day. Note, When we come together to worſhip GOD, we muſt do it not only by Prayer and Praiſe, but by the Reading and Hearing of the Word of GOD; hereby we give Him the Glory due to his Name, as our Lord and Law-giver.

2. When that was done, they were asked by the Rulers of the Synagogue to give them a Sermon, v. 17. they ſent a Meſſenger to them, with this reſpectful Meſſage, Men and Brethren, if ye have any Word of Exhortation for the People, ſay on. 'Tis probable the Rulers of the Synagogue had met with them, and been in private Converſation with them before, and if they had not an Affection to the Goſpel, yet had at leaſt the Curioſity to hear Paul preach; and therefore not only gave him Permiſſion, but beg'd the Favour of him, that he would ſpeak a Word of Exhortation to the People. Note, 1. The bare Reading of the Scriptures in the publick Aſſemblies is not ſufficient, but they ſhould be expounded and the People exhorted out of them: This is ſpreading the Net, and aſſiſting People in doing that which is neceſſary to the making of the Word profitable to them, and that is the Applying of it to themſelves. 2. Thoſe that preſide and have Power in publick Aſſemblies, ſhould provide for a Word of Exhortation to the People whenever they come together. 3. Sometimes a Word of Exhortation from a ſtrange Miniſter, may be of great Uſe to the People: provided he be well approv'd. 'Tis likely Paul did often preach in the Synagogue when he was not thus invited to it by the Rulers of the Synagogues; for he often preach'd with much Contention, 1 Theſſ. ii. 2. But theſe were more noble, more generous than the Rulers of the Synagogue commonly were.

Thirdly, The Sermon Paul preach'd in the Synagogue of the Jews at the Invitation of the Rulers of the Synagogue. He gladly embrac'd the Opportunity given him to preach Chriſt to his Country-men the Jews; did not object to them that he was a Stranger, and that it was none of his Buſineſs, nor object to himſelf that he may get Ill-will by Preaching Chriſt among the Jews; but ſtood up, as One prepar'd and determin'd to ſpeak, and becken'd with his Hand, to excite and prepare them to hear; He wav'd his Hand as an Orator, not only deſiring Silence and Attention, but endeavouring to move Affection, and to ſhew himſelf in earneſt. Perhaps upon the moving of them to give an Exhortation to the People, there were thoſe in the Synagogue that were ready to mutiny againſt the Rulers, and oppos'd the Toleration of Paul's Preaching, and that occaſion'd ſome Tumult and Commotion, which Paul endeavour'd to quiet by that decent Motion of his Hand. As alſo by his modeſt Deſire of a patient impartial Hearing, Men of Iſrael, that are Jews by Birth, and ye that fear GOD, that are proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion, give audience; Let me beg your attention a little, for I have ſomething to ſay to you which concern your everlaſting Peace, " and would not ſay it in vain.

Now this excellent Sermon is recorded to ſhew, that thoſe who preach'd the Goſpel to the Gentiles, did it not till they had firſt us'd their utmoſt Endeavours with the Jews to perſuade them to come in and take the Benefit of it; and that they had no Prejudice at all againſt the Jewiſh Nation, nor any Deſire that they ſhould periſh, but rather that they ſhould turn and live. Every Thing is touch'd in this Sermon that might be proper either to convince the Judgment, or inſinuate into the Affections of the Jews to prevail with them to receive and embrace Chriſt, as the promis'd Meſſiah.

1. He owns them to be GOD's Favourite People, whom he had taken into ſpecial Relation to himſelf, and for whom He had done great Things. Probably, the Jews of the Diſperſion that liv'd in other Countries being more in Danger of mingling with the Nations, were more jealous of their Peculiarity, than thoſe that liv'd in their own Land were; and therefore Paul is here very careful to take Notice of it to their Honour.

(1.) That the GOD of the whole Earth was in a particular Manner the God of this People Iſrael, a GOD in Covenant with them, and that had given them a Revelation of his Mind and Will, ſuch as He had not given to any other Nation or People; ſo that hereby they were diſtinguiſh'd from, and dignify'd above all their Neighbours, having peculiar Precepts to be govern'd by and peculiar Promiſes to depend upon.

(2.) That he had choſen their Fathers, to be his Friends, Abraham was call'd the Friend of God; to be his Prophets by whom He would reveal his Mind to his Church, and to be the Truſtees, of his Covenant with the Church: He puts them in Mind of this, to let them know that the Reaſon why God favour'd them, tho' undeſerving and ill-deſerving, was, becauſe he would adhere to the Choice He had made of their Fathers, Deut. vii. 7, 8. They were beloved purely for the Fathers ſake, Rom. xi. 28.

(3.) That he had exalted that People, and put a great deal of Honour upon them, had advanc'd them into a People, and rais'd them from nothing, then when they dwelt as Strangers in the Land of Egypt, and had nothing in them to recommend them to the Divine Favour, They ought to remember this, and to infer from hence, that GOD was no Debtor to them; for it was ex mero motu, and not upon a valuable Conſideration, that they had the Grant of the Divine Favour, and therefore it was revocable at Pleaſure, and GOD did them no Wrong if he at length pluck'd up the Hedge of their Peculiarity; But they were Debtors to him, and oblig'd to receive ſuch further Diſcoveries as He ſhould make of his Will, and to admit ſuch further Additions as he ſhould make to his Church.

(4.) That He had with a high Hand brought them out of Egypt, where they were not only Strangers, but Captives; had deliver'd them at the Expence of a great many Miracles, both of Mercy to them, and Judgment on their Oppreſſors, Signs and Wonders, Deut. iv. 34. And at the Expence of a great many Lives, all the Firſt-born of Egypt, Pharaoh and all his Hoſt, in the Red Sea; I gave Egypt for thy Ranſom, gave Man for thee, Iſa. xliii. 3, 4.

(5.) That he had ſuffer'd their Manners forty Years in the Wilderneſs, v, 18. Ἐτροποφόρησεν Some think it ſhould be read Ἐτροφοφόρησεν, He educated them, becauſe that's the Word the Septuagint uſe concerning the Fatherly Care GOD took of that People, Deut. i. 31. Both may be included; for (1.) GOD made a great deal of Proviſion for them for forty Years in the Wilderneſs, Miracles were their daily Bread, and kept them from ſtarving; they lack'd not any Thing. (2.) He exercis'd a great deal of Patience with them; they were a provoking, murmuring, unbelieving People, and yet He bore with them, did not deal with them as they deſerv'd, but ſuffer'd his Anger many a Time to be tur'd away by the Prayer and Interceſſion of Moſes. So many Years as we have each of us liv'd in this World, we muſt own that GOD has thus been as a tender Father to us, has ſupply'd our Wants, has fed us all our Life long unto this Day, has been indulgent to us, a God of Pardons, as he was to Iſrael, Neh. ix. 27. and not extreme to mark what we have done amiſs; we have try'd his Patience, yet not tired it. Let not the Jews inſiſt too much upon the Privileges of their Peculiarity, for they had forfeited them a thouſand Times.

(6.) That he had put them in Poſſeſſion of the Land of Canaan, v. 19. When he had deſtroy'd ſeven Nations in the Land of Canaan, that were doom'd to be rooted out to make Room for them, He divided their Land to them by Lot, and put them in Poſſeſſion of it. This was a ſingle Favour of GOD to them, and he owns that hereby a great Honour was put upon them, which he would not in the leaſt derogate from.

(7.) That He had rais'd up Men ſpirited from Heaven to deliver them out of the Hands of thoſe that invaded their Rights, and oppreſs'd them after their Settlement in Canaan, v. 20, 21. (1.) He gave them Judges; Men qualify'd for publick Service, and by an immediate impulſe upon their Spirits call'd to it, pro re nata, as the Occaſion required. Tho' they were a provoking People, and were never in Servitude, but their Sin brought them to it, yet upon their Petition a Deliverer was rais'd up. The Criticius find ſome Difficulty in computing theſe Four Hundred and fifty Years: From the Deliverance out of Egypt to David's Expulſion of the Jebuſites from the ſtrong Hold of Zion, which compleated the caſting out of the Heathen Nations, was Four hundred and fifty Years: and moſt of that Time they were under Judges. Others thus; The Government of the Judges from the Death of Joſhua to the Death of Eli, was juſt three hundred thirty-nine Years, but it is ſaid to be [ὡς] as it were four hundred and fifty Years, becauſe the Years of their Servitude to the ſeveral Nations that oppreſs'd, tho' really they were included in the Years of the Judges, yet are mention'd in the Hiſtory as if they had been diſtinct from them. Now theſe all put together, make one hundred and eleven Years, and thoſe added to the three hundred thirty nine, make them four hundred and fifty; as ſo many, tho' not really ſo many. (2.) He govern'd them by a Prophet, Samuel, a Man divinely inſpired to preſide in their Affairs. (3.) He afterwards at their Requeſt, ſet a King over them, v. 21. Saul the Son of Kiſh; Samuel's Government, and his laſted forty Years; which was a kind of Tranſition from the Theocracy to the Kingly Government. (4.) At laſt He made David their King, v. 22. When GOD had remov'd Saul for his Male adminiſtration, He rais'd up unto them David to be their King, and made a Covenant of Royalty with him, and with his Seed. Then when he had remov'd one King, He did not leave them as Sheep without a Shepherd; but ſoon rais'd up another; rais'd him up from a mean and a low Eſtate, raiſ'd him up on high, 2 Sam. xxiii. 1. He quotes the Teſtimony GOD gave concerning him; (1.) That his Choice was Divine, I have found David, Pſ. lxxxix. 20. God himſelf pitch'd upon him; Finding, implies ſeeking, as if GOD had ranſack'd all the Families of Iſrael to find a Man fit for his Purpoſe, and this was he. (2.) That his Character was Divine, A Man after my own Heart; ſuch an One as I would have, One on whom the Image of GOD is ſtamp'd, and therefore One in whom GOD is well-pleas'd, and whom he doth approve. This Character was given of him before he was firſt anointed, 1 Sam. xiii. 14. The LORD hath ſought him out a Man after his own Heart, ſuch an One as He would have. (3.) That his Conduct was divine, and under a divine Direction; He ſhall fulfil all my Will. He ſhall deſire and endeavour to do the Will of GOD, and ſhall be enabled to do it, and employ'd in the doing of it, and go through with it.

Now all this ſeems to ſhew not only the ſpecial Favour of GOD to the People of Iſrael, which the Apoſtle is very willing to oblige them with the Acknowledgment of, but the further Favours of another Nature which he deſign'd them, and which were now by the Preaching of the Goſpel offer'd to them. Their Deliverance out of Egypt, and ſettlement in Canaan were Types and Figures of good Things to come; The Changes of their Government ſhew'd that it made nothing perfect, and therefore muſt give Way to the Spiritual Kingdom of the Meſſiah, which was now in the ſetting up, and which if they would admit it, and ſubmit to it, would be the Glory of their People Iſrael; and therefore they needed not conceive any Jealouſy at all of the Preaching of the Goſpel, as if it tended in the leaſt to damage the true Excellencies of the Jewiſh Church.

2. He gives them a full Account of our Lord Jeſus, paſſing from David to the Son of David, and ſhews that this Jeſus is his promiſed Seed, v. 23. of this Man's Seed, from that Root of Jeſſe, from that Man after God's own Heart hath God according to his Promiſe raiſed unto Iſrael a Saviour, Jeſus, who carries Salvation in his Name. How welcome ſhould the Preaching of the Goſpel of Chriſt be to the Jews, and how ſhould they embrace it as well worthy of all Acceptation when it brought them the Tydings. (1.) Of a Saviour; to deliver them out of the Hands of their Enemies, as the Judges of old who were therefore called Saviours, but this a Saviour to do that for them which, it appears by the Hiſtory, thoſe could not do, to ſave them from their Sins, their worſt Enemies. (2.) A Saviour of GOD's raiſing up, that has his Commiſſion from Heaven. (3.) Rais'd up to be a Saviour unto Iſrael, to them in the firſt Place he was ſent to bleſs them; ſo far was the Goſpel from deſigning the Rejection of Iſrael, that it deſign'd the gathering of them. (4.) Rais'd up of the Seed of David, that ancient Royal Family, which the People of Iſrael glory'd ſo much in, and which at this Time to the great Diſgrace of the whole Nation was buried in Obſcurity. It ought to be a great Satisfaction to them that GOD had rais'd up this Horn of Salvation for them in the Houſe of his Servant David, Luke i. 29. (5.) Rais'd up according to his Promiſe, the Promiſe to David, Pſal. cxxxii. 11. the Promiſe to the Old Teſtament Church in the later Times of it, I will raiſe unto David a Righteous Branch, Jer. xxiii. 5. This Promiſe, was it to which the Twelve Tribes hoped to come, Acts xxvi. 7. why then ſhould they entertain it ſo coldly now, it was brought to them?

Now concerning this Jeſus he tells them,

1. That John the Baptiſt was his Harbinger and Fore-runner; That great Man, whom all acknowledg'd to be a Prophet. Let them not ſay that the Meſſiah's coming was a Surprize upon them and that might excuſe them if they took Time to conſider whether they ſhould entertain him or no; for they had ſufficient Warning by John; who preached before his Coming, v. 24. Two Things he did:

1. He made Way for his Entrance, by Preaching the Baptiſm of Repentance, not to a few ſelect Diſciples, but to all the People of Iſrael; He ſhew'd them their Sins, warn'd them of the Wrath to come, called them to Repentance, and to bring forth Fruits meet for Repentance, and bound thoſe to this who were willing to be bound, by the ſolemn Rite or Sign of Baptiſm, and by this he made ready a People prepar'd for the Lord Jeſus, to whom his Grace would be acceptable when they were thus brought to know themſelves.

(2.) He gave Notice of his Approach, v. 25. As he fulfilled his Courſe, when he was going on vigorouſly in his Work, and had had wonderful Succeſs in it, and an eſtabliſh'd Intereſt, now ſaith he, to thoſe that attended his Miniſtry, Whom think ye that I am? What Notions have ye of me? What Expectation from me? You may be thinking that I am the Meſſiah whom you expect, but you are miſtaken, I am not he; ſee John i. 20. But he is at the Door; Behold there cometh one immediately after me who will ſo far exceed me upon all Accounts, that I am not worthy to be employ'd in the meaneſt Office about him, no not to help him on and off with his Shoes; whoſe Shoes of his Feet I am not worthy to unlooſe; and you may gueſs who that muſt be.

2. That the Rulers and People of the Jews, who ſhould have welcom'd him, and been his willing, forward, faithful Subjects were his Perſecutors, and Murtherers. When the Apoſtles preach Chriſt as the Saviour, they are ſo far from concealing his ignominious Death, and drawing a Vail over it, that they always preach Chriſt crucify'd, yea, (and tho' that added much to the Reproach of his Sufferings) crucify'd by his own People, by them that dwelt in Jeruſalem the Holy City, the Royal City, and their Rulers, v. 27.

(1.) Their Sin was, that tho' they found no Cauſe of Death in him could not prove him, no nor had any Colour to ſuſpect him guilty of any Crime, the Judge himſelf that try'd him, when he had heard all they could ſay againſt Him, declar'd he found no Fault in him, yet they deſir'd Pilate that he might be ſlain, v. 28. and preſented their Addreſs againſt Chriſt with ſuch Fury and Out-rage, that they compell'd Pilate to crucify him, not only contrary to his Inclination, but contrary to his Conſcience; they condemn'd him to ſo great a Death, tho' they could not convict him of the leaſt Sin. Paul cannot charge this upon his Hearers, as Peter did, chap. ii. 23. you have with wicked Hands crucify'd and ſlain him; for theſe tho' Jews were far enough off, but he chargeth it upon the Jews at Jeruſalem, and the Rulers, to ſhew what little Reaſon thoſe Jews of the Diſperſion had to be ſo jealous for the Honour of their Nation as they were, when it had brought upon it ſelf ſuch a Load and Stain of Guilt as this, and how juſtly they might have been cut off from all Benefit by the Meſſiah, who had thus abus'd him, and yet they were not, but notwithſtanding all this, the Preaching of this Goſpel ſhall begin at Jeruſalem.

(2.) The Reaſon of this was, becauſe they knew him not, v. 17. They knew not who he was, nor what Errand he came into the World upon; for if they had known, they would not have crucify'd the Lord of Glory; Chriſt own'd this in Extenuation of their Crime, They know not what they do; and ſo did Peter, I wot, that through Ignorance ye did this, Acts iii. 17. 'Twas alſo becauſe they knew not the Voice of the Prophets, tho' they heard them read every Sabbath-Day; they did not underſtand nor conſider that it was foretold, That the Meſſiah ſhould ſuffer, or elſe they would never have been the Inſtruments of his Suffering. Note, Many that read the Prophets, yet do not know the Voice of the Prophets, do not underſtand the meaning of the Scriptures; have the Sound of the Goſpel in their Ears, but not the Senſe of 'em in their Heads or Savour of them in their Hearts. And therefore Men do not know Chriſt, nor know how to carry it towards him, becauſe they do not know the Voice of the Prophets, who teſtify'd before-hand concerning Chriſt.

(3.) GOD over-rul'd them for the Accompliſhment of the Prophecies of the Old Teſtament; Becauſe they knew not the Voice of the Prophets, which warn'd them not to touch GOD's Anointed, they fulfill'd them in condemning him; for ſo it was written, That Meſſiah the Prince ſhall be cut off, but not for himſelf. Note, It is poſſible that Men may be fulfilling Scripture Prophecies, even when they are breaking Scripture Precepts; particularly in the Perſecution of the Church, as in the Perſecution of Chriſt. And this juſtifies the Reaſon which is ſometimes given for the Obſcurity of Scripture Prophecies, That if they were too plain and obvious, the Accompliſhment of them would thereby be prevented; ſo Paul ſaith here, Becauſe they knew not the Voice of the Prophets, therefore they have fulfill'd them; which implies, that if they had underſtood them, they would not have fulfill'd them.

(4.) All that was foretold concerning the Sufferings of the Meſſiah was fulfill'd in Chriſt, v. 29. When they had fulfill'd all the reſt that was written of him, even to the giving of him Vinegar to drink in his Thirſt; then they fulfill'd what was foretold concerning his being bury'd, they took him down from the Tree and laid him in a Sepulchre; This is taken Notice of here, as that which made his Reſurrection the more illuſtrious. Chriſt was ſeparated from this World, as thoſe that are bury'd have nothing more to do with this World, nor this World with them. And therefore our compleat Separation from Sin is repreſented by our being bury'd with Chriſt. And a good Chriſtian will be willing to be bury'd alive with Chriſt. They laid him in a Sepulchre, and thought they had him faſt.

3. That he roſe again from the Dead, and ſaw no Corruption; This was the great Truth that was to be preach'd; for it is the main Pillar by which the whole Fabrick of the Goſpel is ſupported, and therefore he inſiſts largely upon this, and ſhews,

(1.) That he roſe by Conſent; When he was impriſon'd in the Grave for our Debt, he did not break Priſon, but had a fair and legal Diſcharge from the Arreſt he was under, v. 30. GOD rais'd him from the Dead; ſent an Angel on Purpoſe to roll away the Stone from the Priſon-Door, return'd him the Spirit which at his Death he had committed into the Hands of his Father, and quicken'd him by the Holy Ghoſt. His Enemies laid him in a Sepulchre, with Deſign he ſhould always lie there; but GOD ſaid, No; and it was ſoon ſeen whoſe Word ſhould ſtand, His or theirs.

(2.) That there was ſufficient Proof of his being riſen, v. 31. He was ſeen many Days, in divers Places, upon divers Occaſions, by them that were moſt intimately acquainted with him, for they came up with him from Galilee to Jeruſalem, were his conſtant Attendants, and they are his Witneſſes unto the People; were appointed to be ſo, have atteſted the Thing many a Time, and are ready to atteſt it, tho' they were to dye for the ſame. Paul ſaith nothing of his own ſeeing him, which he mentions, 1 Cor. xv. 8. becauſe it was in a Viſion, which was more convincing to himſelf than it could be when produc'd to others.

(3.) That the Reſurrection of Chriſt, was the Performance of the Promiſe made to the Patriarchs; It was not only true News, but good News, in declaring this, we declare unto you glad Tydings, v. 32, 32. which ſhould be in a particular Manner acceptable to you Jews; ſo far are we from deſigning to put any Slur upon you, or do you any Wrong, that the Doctrine we preach, if you receive it aright, and underſtand it, brings you the greateſt Honour and Satisfaction imaginable; for it is in the Reſurrection of Chriſt, that the Promiſe which was made to your Fathers is fulfill'd to you. He acknowledges it to be the Dignity of the Jewiſh Nation, that to them pertained the Promiſes, Rom. ix. 4. that they were the Heirs of the Promiſe, as they were the Children of the Patriarchs to whom the Promiſes were firſt made: The great Promiſe of the Old Teſtament, was that of the Meſſiah, in whom all the Families of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed, and not the Family of Abraham only; Tho' it was to be the peculiar Honour of that Family that He ſhould be rais'd up of it, yet it was to be the common Benefit of all Families, that He ſhould be rais'd up to them. Note 1. GOD hath rais'd up Jeſus, advanc'd him, and exalted him; rais'd him again, ſo we read it, meaning from the Dead. We may take in both Senſes. GOD rais'd up Jeſus to be a Prophet at his Baptiſm; to be a Prieſt to make Atonement at his Death; and to be a King to rule over all at his Aſcenſion; and His raiſing him up from the Dead, was the Confirmation and Ratification of all theſe Commiſſions, and prov'd him rais'd of GOD to theſe Offices. 2. This is the Fulfilling of the Promiſes made to the Fathers, the Promiſe of ſending the Meſſiah, and of all thoſe Benefits and Bleſſings which were to be had with him, and by him; This is he that ſhould come, and in him you have all that GOD promis'd in the Meſſiah, tho' not all that you promis'd your ſelves. Paul puts himſelf into the Number of the Jews, to whom the Promiſe was fulfill'd, to us their Children: Now if they who preach'd the Goſpel brought them theſe glad Tydings, inſtead of looking upon them as Enemies to their Nation, they ought to careſs them as their beſt Friends, and embrace their Doctrine with both Arms; for if they valu'd the Promiſe ſo much, and themſelves by it, much more the Performance. And the Preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles, which was the great Thing that the Jews found themſelves aggriev'd at, was ſo far from infringing the Promiſe made to them, that the Promiſe it ſelf, that all the Families of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed in the Meſſiah, could not otherwiſe be accompliſh'd.

(4.) That the Reſurrection of Chriſt, was the great Proof of his being the Son of God; and confirms what was written in the 2d Pſalm, (thus ancient was the Order in which the Pſalms are now plac'd) v. 7. Thou art my Son, this Day have I begotten thee; That the Reſurrection of Chriſt from the Dead, was deſign'd to evidence and evince this, is plain from that of the Apoſtle, Rom. i. 4. He was declar'd to be the Son of God with Power by the Reſurrection from the Dead. When he was firſt rais'd up out of Obſcurity, GOD declar'd concerning him by a Voice from Heaven, This is my beloved Son, Matth. iii. 17. which has a plain Reference to that in the ſecond Pſalm, Thou art my Son; Abundance of Truth there is couch'd in thoſe Words, That this Jeſus was begotten of the Father before all Worlds; was the Brightneſs of his Glory, and the expreſs Image of his Perſon, as, as the Son is of the Father's; that he was the λόγος the Eternal Thought of the Eternal Mind; that he was conceiv'd by the Power of the Holy Ghoſt, in the Womb of the Virgin; for upon that Account alſo, that Holy Thing was called the Son of GOD, Luke i. 35. That he was GOD's Agent in creating and governing the World, and in redeeming it and reconciling it to Himſelf, and faithful as a Son in his own Houſe; and as ſuch was Heir of all Things. Now all this which was declar'd at Chriſt's Baptiſm, and again at his Transfiguration, was undeniably prov'd by his Reſurrection. The Decree which was ſo long before declar'd, was then confirm'd; and the Reaſon why it was impoſſible he ſhould be held by the Bands of Death was, becauſe he was the Son of God, and conſepuently had Life in himſelf, which he could not lay down, but with a Deſign to reſume it. When his eternal Generation is ſpoken of, tis not improper to ſay, This Day have I begotten thee, for from everlaſting to everlaſting, is with God as 'twere one and the ſame eternal Day. Yet it may alſo be accommodated to his Reſurrection, in a ſubordinate Senſe, This Day have I made it to appear that I have begotten thee: And this Day I have begotten all that are given to thee; for it is ſaid, 1 Pet. i. 3. That the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, as our GOD and Father, hath begotten us again to a lively Hope, by the Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the Dead.

5. That his being rais'd the third Day, ſo as not to ſee Corruption, and to a heavenly Life, ſo as no more to return to Corruption, i. e. to the State of the Dead, as others did who were rais'd to Life, doth further confirm his being the Meſſiah promis'd.

1. He roſe to dye no more; ſo 'tis expreſs'd, Rom. vi. 9. As concerning that He rais'd him up from the Dead, now no more to return to Corruption, i. e. to the Grave which is call'd Corruption, Joh. xvii. 14. Lazarus came out of the Grave with his Grave-clothes on, becauſe he was to uſe them again; but Chriſt having no more Occaſion for them, left them behind. Now this was the fulfilling of that Scripture, Iſa. lv. 3. I will give you the ſure Mercies of David, τὰ ὅσια Δαβὶδ τὰ πιστά, The holy Things of David, the faithful Things; for in the Promiſe made to David, and in him to Chriſt, great Streſs is laid upon the Faithfulneſs of GOD, Pſal. lxxxix. 1, 2, 5, 24, 33. And upon the Oath GOD had ſworn by his Holineſs, v. 35. Now this makes them ſure Mercies indeed, that he who is intruſted with the diſpenſing of them, is riſen to dye no more; ſo that he ever lives to ſee his own Will executed, and the Bleſſings he hath purchas'd for us, given out to us. As if Chriſt had dy'd, and had not riſen again, ſo if he had riſen to dye again, we had come ſhort of the ſure Mercies, or at leaſt, could not have been ſure of them.

2. He roſe ſo ſoon after he was dead, that his Body did not ſee Corruption; for 'tis not till the third Day, that the Body begins to change. Now this was promis'd to David, 'twas one of the ſure Mercies of David; for it was ſaid to him in Pſalm xvi. 10. Neither wilt thou ſuffer thine holy One to ſee Corruption, v. 35. GOD had promis'd to David That he would raiſe up the Meſſiah of his Seed, who ſhould therefore be a Man, but ſhould not like other Men ſee Corruption. This Promiſe could have its Accompliſhment in David, but look'd forward to Chriſt.

1. It could not be accompliſh'd in David himſelf, v. 36. for David after he had ſerv'd his own Generation by the Will of God who rais'd him up to be what he was, fell aſleep, and was laid to his Fathers, and ſaw Corruption. Here we have a ſhort Account of the Life, Death and Burial of the Patriarch David, and his Continuance under the Power of Death. (1.) His Life; He ſerv'd his own Generation by the Will of God, before he ſlept the Sleep of Death. David was a uſeful good Man; he did Good in the World, by the Will of God, he made GOD's Precepts his Rule; He ſerv'd his own Generation, ſo as therein to ſerve GOD, he ſo ſerv'd and pleas'd Men (as whatever the King did, pleas'd the People,) 2 Sam. iii. 36. as ſtill to keep himſelf the faithful Servant of GOD. See Gal. i. 10. He ſerv'd the Good of Men; but did not ſerve the Will of Man. Or, by the Will of GOD's Providence ſo ordering it, qualifying him for, and calling him to a publick Station, he ſerv'd his own Generation; for every Creature is that to us, that GOD makes it to be. David was a great Bleſſing to the Age wherein he liv'd, he was the Servant of his Generation; Many are the Curſe, and Plague, and Burthen of their Generation. Even thoſe that are in a lower and narrower Sphere yet muſt look upon it, that therefore they live to ſerve their Generation, (and thoſe that will do Good in the World, muſt make themſelves Servants of all, 1 Cor. ix. 19.) We were not born for our ſelves, but are Members of Communities, to which we muſt ſtudy to be ſerviceable. Yet here's the Difference between David and Chriſt, That David was to ſerve only his own Generation, that Generation in which he liv'd, and therefore when he had done what he had to do, and written what he had to write, he dy'd, and continu'd in the Grave; but Chriſt (not by his Writings or Words upon Record only as David, but by his perſonal Agency) was to ſerve all Generations, muſt ever live to reign over the Houſe of Jacob, not as David for forty Years, but for all Ages, as long as the Sun and Moon endure, Pſal. lxxxix. 29. His Throne muſt be as the Days of Heaven, and all Generations muſt be bleſſed in him, Pſal. lxxii. 17. (2.) His Death; He fell a ſleep. Death is a Sleep, a quiet Reſt to thoſe that while they liv'd labour'd in the Service of GOD and their Generation. Obſerve, He did not fall aſleep till he had ſerv'd his Generation, till he had done the Work for which GOD rais'd him up. GOD's Servants have their Work aſſign'd them, and when they have accompliſh'd as a Hireling their Day, then, and not till then, they are call'd to Reſt. GOD's Witneſſes never dye till they have finiſh'd their Teſtimony; and then the Sleep, the Death of the labouring Man will be ſweet. David was not permitted to build the Temple, and therefore when he had made Preparation for it, which was the Service he was deſign'd to, he fell aſleep, and left the Work to Solomon. (3.) His Burial; He was laid to his Fathers. Tho' he was bury'd in the City of David, 1 Kin. ii. 10. and not in the Sepulchre of Jeſſe his Father at Bethelem, yet he might be ſaid to be laid to his Fathers; for the Grave in general, is the Habitation of our Fathers, of thoſe that are gone before us, Pſal. xlix. 19. (4.) His Continuance in the Grave; He ſaw Corruption. We are ſure he did not riſe again; this St. Peter inſiſts upon, when he freely ſpeaks of the Patriach David, Acts ii. 29. He is both dead and bury'd, and his Sepuchre is with us unto this Day, i. e. He ſaw Corruption, and therefore that Promiſe could not have its Accompliſhment in him, q. e. d. But,

2. It was accompliſh'd in the Lord Jeſus, v. 37. He whom God rais'd again, ſaw no Corruption; for it was in him that the ſure Mercies were to be reſerv'd for us. He roſe the third Day, and therefore did not ſee Corruption then; and he roſe to dye no more, and therefore never did. Of him therefore the Promiſe muſt be underſtood, and no other.

3. Having given them this Account of the Lord Jeſus, he comes to make Application of it.

1. In the Midſt of his Diſcourſe to engage their Attention, he had told his Hearers, that they were concern'd in all this, v. 26. To you is the Word of this Salvation ſent; to you firſt. If you by your Unbelief make it a Word of Rejection to you, you may thank your ſelves; but it is ſent to you for a Word of Salvation; if it be not ſo, 'tis your own Fault. Let them not peeviſhly argue, that becauſe it was ſent to the Gentiles, who had no Communion with them, therefore it was not ſent to them; for to them it was ſent in the firſt Place. To you Men this is ſent, and not to the Angels that ſin'd. To you living Men, and not to the Congregation of the Dead and Damn'd, whoſe Day of Grace is over. He therefore ſpeaks to them with Tenderneſs and Reſpect, you are Men and Brethren; and ſo we are to look upon all thoſe that ſtand fair with us for the Great Salvation, as having the Word of Salvation ſent to them. Thoſe to whom he doth by Warrant from Heaven here bring the Word of Salvation, are (1.) The Native Jews, Hebrew of the Hebrews, as Paul himſelf was. Children of the Stock of Abraham, tho' a degenerate Race, yet to you is this Word of Salvation ſent; nay, it is therefore ſent to you to ſave you from your Sins. 'Tis an Advantage to be of a good Stock; for tho' Salvation does not always follow the Children of godly Parents, yet the Word of Salvation doth; Abraham will command his Children and Houſhold after him. (2.) The Proſelytes; The Gentiles that by Birth were in ſome Degree brought over to the Jews Religion; Whoſoever among you that feareth God. You that have a Senſe of natural Religion, and have ſubjected your ſelves to the Laws of That, and taken hold of the Comforts of That to you is the Word of this Salvation ſent, you need the further Diſcoveries and Directions of revealed Religion, are prepar'd for them, and will bid them welcome, and therefore ſhall certainly be welcome to take the Benefit of them.

2. In the Cloſe of his Diſcourſe, he applies what he had ſaid concerning Chriſt to his Hearers. He had told them a long Story concerning this Jeſus, now they would be ready to ask, What's all this to us? And he tells them plainly, it is to them.

1. It will be their unſpeakable Advantage if they embrac'd Jeſus Chriſt, and believe this Word of Salvation, it will relieve them there where their greateſt Danger lies, and that is from the Guilt of their Sins. Be it known unto you therefore, Men and Brethren, we are warranted to proclam it to you, and you are call'd to take Notice of it. He did not ſtand up to preach before them, but to preach to them, and not without Hopes of prevaling with them; for they are Men, reaſonable Creatures, and capable of being argu'd with; they are Brethren, ſpoken to, and dealt with by Men like themſelves; not only of the ſame Nature, but of the ſame Nation. 'Tis proper for the Preachers of the Goſpel to call their Hearers Brethren; as ſpeaking familiarly to them and with an affectionate Concern for their Welfare, and as being equally intereſted with them in the Goſpel they preach. Let all that hear the Goſpel of Chriſt know theſe two Things.

(1.) That it is an Act of Indemnity granted by the King of Kings to the Children of Men, who ſtand attainted at his Bar of Treaſon againſt his Crown and Dignity; and it is for, and in Conſideration of the Mediation of Chriſt between GOD and Man, that this Act of Grace is paſs'd and proclaim'd v. 35. Through this Man, who dy'd and roſe again, is preach'd unto you the Forgiveneſs of Sins. We are to tell you in GOD's Name, That your Sins, tho' many and great, may be forgiven, and how 'tis come about that they may be ſo, without any Injury to GOD's Honour; and how you may obtain the Forgiveneſs of your Sins. We are to preach Repentance for the Remiſſion of Sins. and divine Grace giving both Repentance and Remiſſion of Sins. The Remiſſion of Sins, is, through this Man, by his Merit it was purchas'd, in his Name it is offer'd, and by his Authority it is beſtow'd; and therefore you are concern'd to be acquainted with him, and intereſted in him. We preach to you the Forgiveneſs of Sins; that's the Salvation we bring you, the Word of GOD and therefore you ought to bid us welcome, and look upon us as your Friends, and Meſſengers of good Tydings.

2. That it does that for us which the Law of Moſes could not do. The Jews were jealous for the Law, and becauſe it preſcrib'd expiatory and pacificatory Sacrifices, and a great Variety of Purifications, fancy'd they might be juſtify'd by it before GOD: No, ſaith Paul, be it known to you, that it is by Chriſt only, that they who believe in him, and none but they only, are juſtify'd from all Things, from all the Guilt and Stain of Sin, from which ye could not be juſtify'd by the Law of Moſes, v. 39. therefore they ought to entertain and embrace the Goſpel, and not to adhere to the Law in Oppoſition to it, becauſe the Goſpel is perfective, not deſtructive of the Law. Note, (1.) The great Concern of Sinners is, to be juſtify'd by the Law of Moſes? not by his Moral Law, for we have all broke it, and are tranſgreſſing it daily, ſo that inſtead of Juſtifying us, it condems us? not his Remedial Law, for it was not poſſible that the Blood of Bulls and Goats ſhould take away Sin? ſhould ſatisfy GOD's offended Juſtice, or pacify the Sinners wounded Conſcience. 'Twas but a ritual and typical Inſtitution. See Heb.. ix. 4. x. 1, 4. (4.) By Jeſus Chriſt we obtain a compleat Juſtification; for by him a compleat Atonement was made for Sin. We are juſtify'd, not only by him as our Judge, but by him as our Righteouſneſs, The Lord our Righteouſneſs. (5.) All that believe in Chriſt, that rely upon him, and give up themſelves to be rul'd by him, are juſtify'd by him; and none but they. (6.) What the Law could not do for us in that it was weak, that the Goſpel of Chriſt doth, and therefore it was Folly out of a Jealouſy for the Law of Moſes and the Honour of that, to conceive Jealouſy of the Goſpel of Chriſt, and the Deſigns of that.

2. It is at their utmoſt Peril if they reject the Goſpel of Chriſt, and turn their Backs upon the Offer now made them, v. 40, 41. Beware therefore; you have a fair Invitation given you, look to yourſelves, leſt you either neglect or oppoſe it. Note, Thoſe to whom the Goſpel is preach, muſt ſee themſelves upon their Trial, and good Behaviour, and are concern'd to beware, leſt they be found Refuſers of the Grace offer'd. Beware, leſt you not only come ſhort of the Bleſſings and Benefits ſpoken of in the Prophets, as coming upon thoſe that believe, but fall under the Doom ſpoken of in the Prophets, as coming upon thoſe that perſiſt in Unbelief; Leſt that come upon you which is ſpoken of. Note, The Threatnings are Warnings; what we are told will come upon impenitent Sinners, is deſign'd to awaken us to beware leſt it do come upon us. Now the Prophecy referr'd to, we have Hab. i. 5. Where the Deſtruction of the Jewiſh Nation by the Chaldeans is foretold as an incredible, unparallel'd Deſtruction, and that is here apply'd to the Deſtruction that was coming upon that Nation, by the Romans, for their rejecting the Goſpel of Chriſt. The Apoſtle follows the Septuagint Tranſlation, which reads Behold ye Deſpiſers; for, Behold ye among the Heathen, becauſe it made the Text more appoſite to his Purpoſe.

1. Take heed leſt the Guilt come upon you, which was ſpoken of the Prophets, the Guilt of deſpiſing the Goſpel, and the Tenders of it, and deſpiſing the Gentiles that were advanc'd to partake of it. Beware, leſt it be ſaid to you, Behold ye Deſpiſers. Note, It is the Ruin of many, that they deſpiſe Religion, they look upon it as a Thing below them, and are not willing to ſtoop to it.

2. Take heed, leſt the Judgment come upon you which was ſpoken of in the Prophets; that you ſhall wonder and periſh, i. e. wonderfully periſh; your Perdition ſhall be amazing to yourſelves, and all about you. They that will not wonder and be ſaved, ſhall wonder and periſh. They that enjoy'd the Privileges of the Church, and flatter'd themſelves with a Conceit that thoſe would ſave them, will wonder when they find their vain Preſumption over-rul'd, and that their Privileges do but make their Condemnation the more intolerable. Let the unbelieving Jews expect that GOD will work a Work in their Days, which you ſhall in no wiſe believe, tho' a Man declare it unto you. This may be underſtood as a Prediction, Either (1.) Of their Sin, that they ſhould be incredulous. That that great Work if GOD, the Redemption of the World by Chriſt, tho' it ſhould be in the moſt ſolemn Manner declared unto them, yet they would in no wiſe believe it, Iſa. liii. Who hath believed our Report? Tho' it was of God's working, to whom Nothing is impoſſible; and of his declaring, who cannot lye, yet they would not give Credit to it. They that had the Honour and Advantage to have this Work wrought in their Days, yet had not the Grace to believe it. Or, (2.) Of their Deſtruction; The diſſolving of the Jewiſh Polity, the taking of the Kingdom of GOD from them, and giving it to the Gentiles, the Deſtruction of their holy Houſe and City, and the Diſperſion of their People, was a Work which One would not have believed ſhould ever have been done, conſidering how much they had been the Favourites of Heaven. The Calamities that were brought upon them, were ſuch as were never before brought upon any People, Matth. xxiv. 21 'Twas ſaid of their Deſtruction by the Chaldeans, and 'twas true of their laſt Deſtruction, All the Inhabitants of the World would not have believed that the Enemy ſhould have enter'd into the Gates of Jeruſalem as they did, Lam. iv. 12. Thus is there a ſtrange Puniſhment to the Workers of Iniquity; eſpecially to the Deſpiſers of Chriſt, Job xxxi. 3.

42 And when the Jews were gone out of the ſynagogue the Gentiles beſought that theſe words might be preached to them the next ſabbath. 43 Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proſelytes followed Paul and Barnabas, who ſpeaking to them, perſwaded them to continue in the grace of God 44 ¶ And the next ſabbath-day came almoſt the whole city together, to hear the word of God. 45 But when the Jews ſaw the multitudes they were filled with envy, and ſpake againſt thoſe things which were ſpoken by Paul, contradicting and blaſpheming. 46 Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and ſaid It was neceſſary that the word of God ſhould firſt have been ſpoken to you, but ſeeing ye put it from you, and judge your ſelves unworthy of everlaſting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles. 47 For ſo hath the Lord commanded us, ſaying I have ſet thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou ſhouldeſt be for ſalvation unto the ends of the earth. 48 And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to eternal life

believed. 49 And the word of the Lord was publiſhed throughout all the region. 50 But the Jews ſtirred up the devout and Honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and raiſed perſecution againſt Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coaſts: 51 But they ſhook off the duſt of their feet againſt them, and came unto Iconium. 52 And the diſciples were filled with joy, and with the holy Ghoſt.

The Deſign of this Story being to vindicate the Apoſtles, eſpecially Paul, (as he doth himſelf at large, Rom. xi.) from the Reflections of the Jews upon him for Preaching the Goſpel to the Gentiles, it is here obſerv'd that he proceeded therein with all the Caution imaginable, and upon due Conſideration, which here there is an Inſtance of.

Firſt, There were ſome of the Jews that were ſo incens'd againſt the Preaching of the Goſpel, not to the Gentiles but to them, that they would not bear to hear it, but went out of the Synagogue, while Paul was preaching, v. 42. in Contempt of him and his Doctrine, and to the Diſturbance of the Congregation. 'Tis likely they whiſper'd among themſelves, exciting one another to it, and did it by Conſent. Now this ſpoke,

1. An open Infidelity; as plain a Profeſſion of Unbelief, a coming to hear the Goſpel is of Faith. They thus publickly avow'd their Contempt of Chriſt and of his Doctrine and Law, were not aſham'd, neither could they bluſh; and they thus endeavour'd to beget Prejudices in the Minds of others againſt the Goſpel, they went out to draw others to follow their pernicious Ways.

2. An obſtinate Infidelity; They went out of the Synagogue, not only to ſhew that they did not believe the Goſpel, but becauſe they were reſolv'd they would not, and therefore got out of the Hearing of thoſe Things that had a Tendency to convince them. They ſtop'd their Ears, like the deaf Adder. Juſtly therefore was the Goſpel taken from them, when they firſt took themſelves from it; and turn'd themſelves out of the Church, before they were turn'd out of it: For 'tis certainly true, G O D never leaves any, till they firſt leave Him.

Secondly, The Gentiles were as willing to hear the Goſpel, as thoſe rude and ill-condition'd Jews were to get out of the Hearing of it; They beſought that theſe Words, or Words to this Effect, might be preached to them the next Sabbath; in the Week between, ſo ſome take it; on the ſecond and fifth Day of the Week, which in ſome Synagogues were their Lecture-Days. But it appears, v. 44. that it was the next Sabbath-Day that they came together. They beg'd.

1. That the ſame Offer might be made to them, that was made to the Jews; Paul in this Sermon had brought the Word of Salvation to the Jews and Proſelytes, but had taken no Notice of the Gentiles; and therefore they beg'd, that Forgiveneſs of Sins through Chriſt, might be preach'd to them, as it was to the Jews. The Jews Leavings, nay, Loathings, were there Longings. This juſtifies Paul in his Preaching to them, that he was invited to it, as Peter was ſent for to Cornelius. Who could refuſe to break the Bread of Life to thoſe who beg'd ſo hard for it, and to give that to the Poor at the Door, which the Children at the Table, threw under their Feet.

2. That the ſame Inſtructions might be given to them; They had heard the Doctrine of Chriſt, but did not underſtand it at the firſt Hearing, nor could they remember all that they had heard, and therefore they beg'd it might be preach'd to them again. Note, It is good to have the Word of Chriſt repeatd to us. What we have heard, we ſhould deſire to hear again, that it may take deep Root in us, and the Nail that is driven may be clench'd and be as a Nail in a ſure Place. To hear the ſame Things ſhould not be grievous, becauſe it is ſafe, Phil. iii. 1. It aggravates the ill Diſpoſition of the Jews, that the Gentiles deſir'd to hear that often, which they were not willing to hear once; and commends the good Diſpoſition of the Gentiles, that they did not follow the ill Example which the Jews ſet them.

Thirdly, There were ſome, nay, there were many both of Jews and Proſelytes that were wrought upon by the Preaching of the Goſpel; They who aggravated the Matter of the Jews Rejection by the Preaching of the Goſpel, cry'd out, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes, They have caſt away, and caſt off, all the People of GOD. Nay, ſaith Paul, that's not ſo; for Adundance of the Jews have embrac'd Chriſt, and are taken in, himſelf for one, Rom. xi. 1, 5. So it was here, many of the Jews and religious Proſelytes followed Paul and Barnabas, and receiv'd further Inſtructions and Encouragement from them.

1. They ſubmitted to the Grace of GOD, and were admitted to the Benefit and Comfort of it; That's implyed in their being exhorted to continue in it. They followed Paul and Barnabas, i. e. they became their Diſciples, or rather the Diſciples of Chriſt, whoſe Agents they were. Thoſe that joyn themſelves to Chriſt, will joyn themſelves to his Miniſters, and follow them. And Paul and Barnabas, tho' they were ſent to the Gentiles, yet bid the Jews welcome to them, that were willing to come under their Inſtructions; ſuch hearty Well-wiſhers were they to all the Jews; and their Friends, if they pleas'd.

2. They were exhorted and encourag'd to perſevere herein; Paul and Barnabas ſpeaking to them with all the Freedom and Friendſhip imaginable, perſuaded them to continue in the Grace of GOD; to hold faſt that which they had reciev'd; to continue in their Belief of the Goſpel of Grace, to continue in their Dependance upon the Spirit of Grace, and attendance upon the Means of Grace, And the Grace of G O D ſhall not be wanting to thoſe who thus continue in it.

Fourthly, There was a chearful Attendance upon the Preaching of the Goſpel the next Sabbath Day, v. 44. Almoſt the whole City, the Generality of which were Gentiles, came together to hear the Word of God.

1. It is probable Paul and Barnabas were not idle in the Week-Days; but took all opportunities in the Week between (as ſome think the Gentiles deſired) to bring them accquainted with Chriſt, and to raiſe their Expectations from him. They did a great deal of Service to the Goſpel in private Diſcourſe, and converſation, as well as in their publick Sermons. Wiſdom cry'd in the chief places of Concourſe, and the Opening of the Gates as well as in the Synagogues, Prov, i. 20, 21.

2. This brought a vaſt Concourſe of People to the Synagogue on the Sabbath-day; Some came out of Curioſity, the thing being new; others, longing to ſee what the Jews would do upon the ſecond Tender of the Goſpel to them; and many who had heard ſomething of the word of God, came to hear more; and to hear it, not as the Word of Men but as the Word of God, by which we muſt be rul'd and judg'd. Now this juſtify'd Paul in Preaching to the Gentiles, That he met with the moſt encouraging Auditories among them. There the Fields were white to the Harveſt, and therefore, Why ſhould he not there put in his Sickle?

Fifthly, The Jews were enrag'd at this; and not only would not receive the Goſpel themſelves, but were fill'd with Indignation at them that crouded after it, v. 45. When the Jews ſaw the Multitudes, and conſider'd what an Encouragement it was to Paul to go on in his Work, when he ſaw People thus flying like Doves to their Windows, and what Probability there was that among theſe Multitudes, ſome would be without doubt wrought upon, and 'tis likely the greater Part, to embrace Chriſt, this fill'd them with Envy.

1. They grudg'd the Intereſt the Apoſtles had in the People; were vex'd to ſee the Synagogue ſo full when they were to preach. This was the ſame Spirit that work'd in the Phariſees toward Chriſt, they were cut to the Heart when they ſaw the whole World go after him. When the Kingdom of Heaven was open'd; they not only would not go in themſelves, but were angry with them that did.

2. They oppos'd the Doctrine the Apoſtles preach'd; They ſpoke againſt thoſe Things that were ſpoken by Paul; cavill'd at them; ſtarted Objections againſt them, finding ſome Fault or other with every Thing he ſaid, contradicting, and blaſpheming, ἀντίλεγον ἀντιλέγοντες, Contradicting they contradicted. They did it with the utmoſt Spite and Rage imaginable; They perſiſted in their Contradictions, and nothing would ſilence them. They contradicted for Contradiction ſake, and deny'd that which was moſt evident. And when they could find no Colour of Objection, they broke out into ill Language againſt Chriſt and his Goſpel, blaſpheming him and it. From the Language of the Carnal Men that receiveth not the Things of the Spirit of GOD, and therefore contradicts them, they proceed to the Language of incarnate Devils, and blaſpheme them. Commonly thoſe who begin with Contradicting, end with Blaſpheming.

Sixthly, The Apoſtles hereupon ſolemnly and openly declare themſelves diſcharg'd from their Obligation to the Jews, and at Liberty to bring the Word of Salvation to the Gentiles, even by the implicit Conſent of the Jews themſelves. Never let the Jews lay the Fault of the carrying of the Kingdom of GOD to the Gentiles upon the Apoſtles, for that Complaint of their's is for ever ſilenc'd by their own Act and Deed, for what they did here is for ever an Eſtoppel to it. Tender and Refuſal (we ſay) is good Payment in Law. The Jews had the Refuſal of the Goſpel, and did refuſe it, and therefore ought not to ſay any Thing againſt the Gentiles having it. In declaring this 'tis ſaid, v. 46. Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, more bold than they had been, while they were ſhy of looking favourably upon the Gentiles for fear of giving Offence to the Jews, and laying a Stumbling-block in their Way. Note, There is a Time for the Preachers of the Goſpel, to ſhew as much of the Boldneſs of the Lyon, as of the Wiſdom of the Serpent, and the Harmleſſneſs of the Dove. When the Adverſaries of Chriſt's Cauſe begin to be daring, it is not for its Advocates to be ſneaking. While there is any Hopes of working upon thoſe that oppoſe themſelves, they muſt be inſtructed with meekneſs, 2 Tim. ii. 25. But when that Method has long been tryed in vain, we muſt wax bold; and tell them what will come of their Oppoſition. The Impudence of the Enemies of the Goſpel inſtead of frighting, ſhould rather embolden the Friends of it's Cauſe, for they are ſure they have a good Cauſe, and they know whom they have truſted to bear them out.

Now Paul and Barnabas having made them a fair Offer of Goſpel Grace, here give them fair Notice of their bringing it to the Gentiles, if by any Means (as Paul ſaith) Rom. xi. 19. they might provoke them to Emulation.

1. They own that the Jews were entitled to the firſt Offer. It was neceſſary that the Word of God ſhould firſt have been ſpoken to you, to whom the Promiſe was made; to you of the loſt Sheep of the Houſe of Iſrael, whom Chriſt reckoned Himſelf firſt ſent to. And his Charge to the Preachers of his Goſpel to begin at Jeruſalem, Luke xxiv. 47. was an implicit Direction to all that went into other Countries to begin with the Jews, to whom pertained the giving of the Law, and therefore the Preaching of the Goſpel. Let the Children firſt be ſerved, Mark vii. 27.

2. They charge them with the Refuſal of it. Ye put it from you; you will not accept of it, nay, you will not ſo much as hear the Offer of it, but take it as an Affront to you. If Men put the Goſpel from them, GOD juſtly takes it from them; why ſhould Manna be given to them that loath it, and call it light Bread? Or the Priviledges of the Goſpel forced on them that put them away, and ſay we have no Part in David. Herein you judge yourſelves unworthy of Everlaſting Life. In one Senſe we muſt all judge ourſelves unworthy of Everlaſting Life, for there is nothing in us, or done by us, by which we can pretend to merit it, and we muſt be made ſenſible of this, But, here the Meaning is, you diſcover or make it to appear that you are not meet for Eternal Life; you throw away all your Claims, and Hopes, and give up your Pretenſions to it; ſince you will not take it from His Hands, into whoſe Hand the Father has given it, [illegible] you do in effect paſs this Judgment upon yourſelves, and out of your own Mouth you ſhall be judged, you will not have it by Chriſt, by whom alone it is to be had, and ſo ſhall your Doom be, you ſhall not have it all.

3. Upon this they ground their preaching the Goſpel to the uncircumciſed, ſince you will not accept Eternal Life as it is offered, our Way is plain, lo, we turn to the Gentiles. If one will not, another will. If thoſe that were firſt invited to the Wedding-Feaſt will not come, we muſt invite out of the High ways and Hedges thoſe that will, for the Wedding muſt be furniſhed with Gueſts. If he that is next of Kin will not do the Kinſman's Part, he muſt not complain that another will, Ruth iv. 4.

4. They juſtify themſelves in this by a divine Warrant, v. 47. For ſo hath the Lord commanded us, The Lord Jeſus gave us Directions to witneſs to him in Jeruſalem, and Judea firſt, and after that to the utmoſt Part of the Earth, to preach the Goſpel to every Creature, to diſciple all Nations, And this is according to what was foretold in the Old Teſtament, when the Meſſiah in the Proſpect of the Jews Infidelity was ready to ſay, I have labour'd in vain, he was told to his Satisfaction, that tho' Iſrael was not gather'd, yet he ſhould be glorious; That his Blood ſhould not be ſhed in vain, nor his Purchaſe made in vain, nor his Doctrine preached in vain, nor his Spirit ſent in vain, for I have ſet thee, not only raiſed thee up, but eſtabliſh'd thee to be a Light of the Gentiles, not only a ſhining Light for a Time, but a ſtanding Light, ſet for a Light; that thou ſhouldſt be for Salvation unto the Ends of the Earth. Note, 1. Chriſt is not only the Saviour, but the Salvation, is Himſelf our Righteouſneſs, and Life, and Strength. 2. Where-ever Chriſt is deſign'd to be Salvation, He is ſet up, to be a Light; He enlighten's the Underſtanding and ſo ſaves the Soul. 3. He is, and is to be Light and Salvation to the Gentiles to the Ends of the Earth. Thoſe of any Nation ſhould be welcome to Him, ſome of every Nation have heard of him, Rom. x. 18. and all Nations ſhall at length become His Kingdoms. This prophecy has had it's Accompliſhment in Part, in the ſetting up of the Kingdom of Chriſt in this Iſland of ours, which lies as it were in the Ends of the Earth, a Corner of the World, and ſhall be accompliſh'd more and more, when the Time comes for the bringing in of the Fulneſs of the Gentiles.

Seventhly, The Gentiles chearfully embrac'd that which the Jews ſcornfully rejected, v. 48, 49. Never was Land loſt for want of Heirs; Through the Fall of the Jews, Salvation is come to the Gentiles; The caſting off of them was the reconciling of the World, and the diminiſhing of them the Riches of the Gentiles, ſo the Apoſtle ſhews at large, Rom. xi. 11, 12, 15. The Jews the natural Branches were broken off, and the Gentiles that were Branches of the Wild Olive were thereupon grafted in, v. 17, 19. Now here we are told how the Gentiles welcom'd this happy Turn in their Favours.

1. They took the Comfort of it; when they heard this they were glad. 'Twas good News to them that they might have Admiſſion into Covenant and Communion with GOD, by a clearer and nearer, and better Way than ſubmitting to the Ceremonial Law, and being proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion; That the Partition Wall was taken down, and they were as welcome to the Benefits of the Meſſiah's Kingdom as the Jews themſelves, and might ſhare in their Promiſe, without coming under their Yoke. This was indeed glad Tydings of great Joy to all People. Note, Our being put into a Poſſibility of Salvation, and a Capacity for it, ought to be the Matter of our Rejoycing; when the Gentiles did but hear that the Offers of Grace ſhould be made them, the Word of Grace preached to them, and the Means of Grace afforded them, they were glad; Now there is ſome Hopes for us, many grieve under Doubts whether they have an Intereſt in Chriſt or no, when they ſhould be rejoycing that they may have an Intereſt in him; The golden Scepter is held out to them, and they are invited to come touch the Top of it.

2. They gave GOD the Praiſe of it. They glorify'd the Word of the Lord; That is Chriſt, ſo ſome; the Eſſential Word; They conceiv'd a mighty Veneration for him, and expreſs'd the high Thoughts they had of him. Or rather the Goſpel; the more they knew of it the more they admir'd it. O! what a Light, what a Power, what a Treaſure, doth this Goſpel bring along with it! How excellent are its Truths, its Precepts, its Promiſes, how far tranſcending all other Inſtitutions; how plainly Divine and Heavenly is its Original! Thus they glorify'd the Word of the Lord, and that's it which he has himſelf magnify'd above all his Name, Pſal. xiii. 8. 2. and will magnify and make honourable, Iſa. xlii. 21. They glorify'd the Word of the Lord, (1.) Becauſe now the Knowledge of it was diffus'd, and not confin'd to the Jews only. Note, It is the Glory of the Word of the Lord that the further it ſpreads, the brighter it ſhines; which ſhews it to be not like the Light of a Candle, but like that of the Sun when he goes forth in his Strength. (2.) Becauſe now the Knowledge of it was brought to them; Note, Thoſe ſpeak beſt of the Honour of the Word of the Lord that ſpeak experimentally, that have themſelves been captivated by the Power, and comforted with the Sweetneſs of it.

3. Many of them became not only Profeſſors of the Chriſtian Faith, but ſincerely obedient to the Faith, as many as were ordain'd to Eternal Life believ'd, i. e. GOD by his Spirit wrought true Faith in them for whom he had in his Counſels from everlaſting deſign'd a Happineſs to everlaſting. (1.) Thoſe believ'd to whom GOD gave Grace to believe, whom by a ſecret, but mighty Operation he brought into Subjection to the Goſpel of Chriſt, and made willing in the Day of his Power. Thoſe came to Chriſt whom the Father drew, and to whom the Spirit made the Goſpel-call effectual. 'Tis call'd the Faith of the Operation of God, Col. ii. 12. and is ſaid to be wrought by the ſame Power that raiſed up Chriſt, Eph. i. 19, 20. (2.) God gave this Grace to believe to all thoſe among them who were ordain'd to Eternal Life, for whom he had predeſtinated, them he alſo called, Rom. viii. 30. Or, as many as were diſpoſed to Eternal Life, as many as had a Concern about their Eternal State, and aim'd to make ſure Eternal Life, believ'd in Chriſt in whom GOD hath treaſur'd up that Life, 1 John v. 11. and who is the only Way to it; And it was the Grace of GOD that wrought it in them; Thus all thoſe Captives and thoſe only took the Benefit of Cyrus's Proclamation, whoſe Spirit God had raiſed to go up to build the Houſe of the Lord which is in Jeruſalem, Ezr. i. 5. Thoſe will be brought to believe in Chriſt, that by his Grace are well diſpos'd to Eternal Life, and make that their Aim.

4. When they believed, they did what they could to ſpread the Knowledge of Chriſt, and His Goſpel among their Neighbours, v. 49. And the Word of the Lord was publiſhed throughout all the Region; when it was receiv'd with ſo much Satisfaction in the chief City, it ſoon ſpread itſelf into all Parts of the Country. Thoſe new Converts were themſelves ready no communicate to others that which they were ſo full of themſelves. The Lord gave the Word, and then great was the Company of them that publiſh'd it, Pſal. lxviii. 11. Thoſe that have got Acquaintance with Chriſt themſelves, will do what they can to bring others acquainted with him. Thoſe in great and rich Cities that have receiv'd the Goſpel, ſhould not think to engroſs it, as if like Learning and Philoſophy, it were only to be the Entertainment of the more polite and elevated Part of Mankind; but ſhould do what they can to get it publiſh'd in the Country among the ordinary Sort of People, the Poor and Unlearned, who have Souls to ſave as well as they.

Eighthly, Paul and Barnabas having ſow'd the Seeds of a Chriſtian Church there, quitted the Place, and went to do the like elſewhere. We read not any Thing of their working Miracles here, to confirm their Doctrine, and to convince People of the Truth of it; for tho' God then did ordinarily make Uſe of that Method of Conviction, yet He could when He pleas'd, do his Work without it; and begetting Faith by the immediate Influence of his Spirit, was itſelf the greateſt Miracle, to thoſe in whom 'twas wrought; yet 'tis probable they did work Miracles, for we find they did in the next Place they came to, ch. xiv. 3. Now here we are told.

1. How the unbelieving Jews expell'd the Apoſtles out of that Country. They firſt turn'd their Back upon them, and then lift up the Heel againſt them, v. 50. They rais'd Perſecution againſt Paul and Barnabas; excited the Mob to perſecute them in their Way, by inſulting their Perſons as they went along the Streets; excited the Magiſtrates to perſecute them in their Way, by impriſoning and puniſhing them, when they could not reſiſt the Wiſdom and Spirit wherewith they ſpoke, they have Recourſe to theſe brutiſh Methods, the laſt Refuge of an obſtinate Infidelity. Satan and his Agents are moſt exaſperated againſt the Preachers of the Goſpel, when they ſee them go on ſucceſsfully, and therefore then will be ſure to raiſe Perſecution againſt them. Thus it has been the common Lot of the beſt Men in the World to ſuffer ill for doing well; to be perſecuted, inſtead of being prefer'd for the good Services they have done to Mankind. Obſerve,

(1.) What Method they took to give them Trouble; They ſtir'd up the devout and honourable Women againſt them. The Jews could not make any conſiderable Intereſt themſelves, but they apply'd themſelves to ſome Ladies of Quality in the City, that were well affected to the Jewiſh Religion, and were Proſelytes of the Gate, therefore call'd devout Women: Theſe, according to the Genius of their Sex, were zealous in their Way, and bigotted, and it was eaſy by falſe Stories and Miſrepreſentations, to incenſe them againſt the Goſpel of Chriſt, as if it had been deſtructive of all Religion, which really it is perfective of. It is good to ſee honourable Woman devout, and well-affected to religious Worſhip: the leſs they have to do in the World, the more they ſhould do for their Souls, and the more time they ſhould ſpend in communion with GOD. But 'tis ſad, when under Colour of Devotion to GOD, they conceive an Enmity to Chriſt as thoſe here did. What! Woman Perſecutors! Can they forget the Tenderneſs and Compaſſion of their Sex? What! Honourable Woman Can they thus ſtain their Honour, and diſgrace themſelves, and do ſo mean a thing? But which is ſtrangeſt of all, devout Women! will they kill Chriſt's Servants, and think therein they do GOD Service? Let thoſe therefore that have Zeal, ſee that it be according to Knowledge. By theſe devout and honourable Women, they ſtirr'd up likewiſe the chief Men of the City, the Magiſtrates and the Rulers, who had Power in their Hands, and ſet them againſt the Apoſtles? who had ſo little Conſideration as to ſuffer themſelves be made the Tools of this ill-natur'd Party, who neither would go into the Kingdom of Heaven themſelves nor ſuffer thoſe that were entring to go in.

(3) How far they carry'd it, So far that they expell'd them out of their Coaſts, they baniſh'd them, order'd them to be carry'd (as we ſay) from Conſtable to Conſtable, till they were forc'd out of their Juriſdiction. So that it was not by Fear, but downright Violence, that they were driven out. This was one Method which the over-ruling Providence of GOD took, to keep the firſt planters of the Church from ſtaying too long at a Place, as Matth. x. 23. When they perſecute you in one City, flee to another that thus you may the ſooner go over the Cities of Iſrael. This was likewiſe a Method GOD took to make thoſe that were well-diſpos'd, the more warmly affected towards the Apoſtles? for it is natural to us to pity thoſe that are perſecuted, and to think the better of thoſe that ſuffer, when we know they ſuffer unjuſtly, and to be more ready to help them. The Expelling of the Apoſtles out of their Coaſts, made People inquiſitive what Evil they had done? and perhaps rais'd them more Friends than conniving at them in their Coaſts, would have done.

2. How the Apoſtles abandon'd and rejected the unbelieving Jews, v. 51. They ſhook off the Duſt of their Feet againſt them? when they went out of the City they uſed this Ceremony, in the Sight of them that ſate in the Gate; or when they went out of the Borders of their Country, in the Sight of them that were to ſee the Country rid of them. Hereby, 1. They declar'd, that they would have no more to do with them; would take nothing that was theirs; for they ſought not theirs but them; Duſt they are, and let them keep their Duſt to themſelves, it ſhall not cleave to them. 2. They expreſs'd their Deteſtation of their Infidelity, and that tho' they were Jews by Birth, yet having rejected the Goſpel of Chriſt, they were in their Eyes no better than Heathen and Profane. As Jews and Gentiles if they believe, are equally acceptable to GOD and good Men; ſo if they do not, they are equally abominable. 3. Thus they ſet them at Defiance, and expreſs'd their Contempt of them, and their Malice, which they look'd upon as impotent, 'Twas as much as to ſay, Do your worſt, we do not fear you; we know whom we ſerve, and whom we have truſted. 4. Thus they left a Teſtimony behind them, that they had a fair Offer made them of the Grace of the Goſpel, which ſhall be prov'd againſt them in the Day of Judgment: This Duſt will prove that the Preachers of the Goſpel had been among them, but were expell'd by them. Thus Chriſt had order'd them to do, and for this Reaſon, Matth. x. 14. Luke ix. 5. When they left them, they came to Iconium, not ſo much for Safety, as for Work.

3. What Frame he left the New Converts in at Antioch, v. 52. The Diſciples when they ſaw with what Courage and Chearfulneſs Paul and Barnabas not only bore the Indignities that were done them, but went on with their Work notwithſtanding, they were in like manner ſpirited. (1.) They were very chearful; One would have expected, that when Paul and Barnabas were expell'd out of their Coaſts, and perhaps forbidden to return upon Pain of Death, the Diſciples ſhould have been full of Grief, and full of Fear, looking for no other but that if the Planters of Chriſtianity go, the Plantation would ſoon come to nothing: Or, that it would be their turn next to be baniſh'd the Country, and to them it would be more grievous for it was their own. No; they were fill'd with Joy in Chriſt, had ſuch a ſatisfactory Aſſurance of Chriſt's carrying on and perfecting his own Work in them, and among them, and that either He would ſcreen them from Trouble, or bear them up under it, that all their Fears were ſwallow'd up in their believing Joys. (2.) They were very courageous; Wonderfully animated with a holy Reſolution to cleave to Chriſt, whatever Difficulties they met with; that ſeems eſpecially to be meant, by their being fill'd with the Holy Ghoſt; for that's us'd of Peter's Boldneſs, chap. iv. 8. and Stephen's, chap. vii. 55. and Paul's, chap. xiii. 9. The more we reliſh the Comforts and Encouragements we meet with in the Power of Godlineſs, and the fuller our Hearts are of them, the better prepar'd we are to face the Difficulties we meet with in the Profeſſion of Godlineſs.

CHAP. XIV.

We have in this Chapter a further Account of the Progreſs of the Goſpel, by the Miniſtry of Paul and Barnabas, among the Gentiles; It goes on conquering and to conquer; yet meeting with Oppoſition as before among the unbelieving Jews. Here's (1.) Their ſucceſsful Preaching of the Goſpel for ſome Time at Iconium, and their being driven thence by the Violence of their Perſecutors both Jews and Gentiles, and forc'd into the neighbouring Countries, v. 1—7. (2.) Their Healing of a lame Man at Lyſtra, and the mighty Veneration which the People conceiv'd of them thereupon, which they had much ado to keep from running into an Extream, v. 8—18. (3.) The Out-rage of the People againſt Paul at the Inſtigation of the Jews; the Effect of which was, that they ſton'd him, as they thought, to Death; but he was wonderfully reſtor'd to Life again, v. 19, 20. (4.) The Viſit which Paul and Barnabas made to the Churches which they had planted, to confirm them, and put them into order, v. 21—23. (5.) Their Return to Antioch, from whence they were ſent forth, the good they did by the Way, and the Report they made to the Church of Antioch of their Expedition, and, if I may ſo ſay, of the Campaign they had made, v. 24—28.

AND it came to paſs in Iconium, that they went both together into the ſynagogue of the Jews, and ſo ſpake, that a great multitude both of the Jews, and alſo of the Greeks, believed. 2 But the unbelieving Jews ſtirred up the Gentiles, and made their minds evil affected againſt the brethren. 3 Long time therefore abode they ſpeaking boldly in the Lord, which gave teſtimony unto the word of his grace, and granted ſigns and wonders to be done by their hands, 4 But the multitude of the City was divided: and part held with the Jews, and part with the apoſtles. 5 And when there was an aſſault made both of the Gentiles, and alſo of the Jews with their rulers, to uſe them deſpitefully, and to ſtone them, 6 They were ware of it, and fled unto Lyſtra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region that lieth round about: 7 And there they preached the goſpel.

In theſe Verſes we have

Firſt, The Preaching of the Goſpel in Iconium, whither the Apoſtles were forc'd to retire from Antioch. As the Blood of the Martyrs has been the Seed of the Church, ſo the Baniſhment of the Confeſſors has help'd to ſcatter that Seed. Obſerve,

(1.) How they made the firſt Offer of the Goſpel to the Jews, in their Synagogues; Thither they went, not only as to a Place of Meeting, but as to a Place of meeting with them, to whom wherever they came they were to apply themſelves, in the firſt Place. Tho' the Jews at Antioch had us'd them barbarouſly, yet they did not therefore decline Preaching the Goſpel to the Jews at Iconium, who perhaps might be better diſpos'd. Let not thoſe of any Denomination be condemn'd in the groſs, nor ſome ſuffer for others Faults; but let us do Good to thoſe who have done Evil to us. 'Tho' the Blood-thirſty hate the Upright, yet the Juſt ſeek their Soul, Prov. xxix. 10. ſeek the Salvation of it.

2. How the Apoſtles concur'd herein; Notice is taken of this, that they went both together into the Synagogue, to teſtify their Unanimity, and mutual Affection, that People might ſay, See how they love one another, and might think the better of Chriſtianity; and that they might ſtrengthen one another's Hands, and confirm one another's Teſtimony, and out of the Mouth of two Witneſſes every Word might be eſtabliſh'd. They did not go One one Day and Another another; or One go at the Beginning, and the Other ſome Time after; but they went in both together.

Secondly, The Succeſs of their Preaching there; They ſo ſpake, that a great Multitude, ſome Hundreds perhaps, if not Thouſands, both of the Jews, and alſo of the Greeks, that is, the Gentiles, believ'd. Obſerve here,

1. That the Goſpel was now preach'd to Jews and Gentiles together, and thoſe of each Denomination that believed came together into the Church. In the Cloſe of the foregoing Chapter 'twas preach'd firſt to the Jews, and ſome of them believ'd; then to the Gentiles, and ſome of them believ'd; but here they are put together, being put upon the ſame level. The Jews have not ſo loſt their Preference as to be thrown behind, only the Gentiles are brought to ſtand upon even Terms with them; both are reconciled to God in one Body, Eph. ii. 16. and both together admitted into the Church without Diſtinction.

2. There ſeems to have been ſomething remarkable in the Manner of the Apoſtles Preaching here, which contributed to their Succeſs; They ſo ſpake, that a great Multitude believ'd; ſo plainly, ſo convincingly, with ſuch an Evidence and Demon- ſtration of the Spirit, and with ſuch Power; They ſo ſpake, ſo warmly, ſo affectionately, and with ſuch a manifeſt Concern for the Souls of Men; They ſo ſpake, as that One might perceive they were not only convinc'd, but fill'd with the Things they ſpake of; and that what they ſpake came from the Heart, and therefore was likely to reach to the Heart; They ſo ſpake, ſo earneſtly and ſeriouſly, ſo boldly and couragiouſly, that they who heard them could not but ſay, GOD was with them of a Truth. Yet the Succeſs was not to be attributed to the Manner of their Preaching, but to the Spirit of GOD, who make Uſe of that Means.

Thirdly, The Oppoſition that their Preaching met with there, and the Trouble that was created them; Leſt they ſhould be puffed up with the Multitude of their Converts, there was given them this Thorn in the Fleſh.

1. Unbelieving Jews were the firſt Spring of their Trouble, here as elſewhere, v. 2. They ſtirr'd up the Gentiles. The Influence which the Goſpel had upon many of the Gentiles, and their embracing of it, as it provok'd ſome of the Jews to a holy Jealouſy, and ſtirr'd them up to receive the Goſpel too, Rom. xi. 14. ſo good Examples, which to ſome are a Savour of Life unto Life, to others are a Savour of Death unto Death. See 1 Theſſ. ii. 15, 16.

2. Diſaffected Gentiles irritated by the unbelieving Jews, were likely to be the Inſtruments of their Trouble; The Jews by falſe Suggeſtions which they were continually buzzing in the Ears of the Gentiles, made their Minds evilly affected againſt the Brethren, whom of themſelves they were inclin'd to think favourably of. They not only took occaſion in all Companies, as it came in their Way, but made it their Buſineſs to go purpoſely to ſuch as they had any Acquaintance with, and ſaid all that their Wit or Malice could invent, to beget in them not only a mean but an ill Opinion of Chriſtanity, telling them how deſtructive it would certainly be to their Pagan Theology and Worſhip; and for their Parts they would rather be Gentiles than Chriſtans: Thus they ſower'd and embitter'd their Spirits, againſt both the Converters and the converted. The old Serpent did by their poyſonous Tongues infuſe his Venom againſt the Seed of the Woman into the Minds of theſe Gentiles, and this was a Root of Bitterneſs in them bearing Gall and Wormwood. Thoſe that are ill-affected towards good People, 'tis no Wonder if they wiſh ill to them, ſpeak ill of them, and contrive ill againſt them; 'tis all owing to Ill-will. ἐκάκωσαν, They moleſted and vex'd the Minds of the Gentiles; ſo ſome of the Criticks take it; they were continually teazing them, with their Impertinent Sollicitations. The Tools of Perſecutors have a Dog's Life, ſet on continually.

Fourthly, Their Continuance in their Work there, notwithſtanding this Oppoſition, and GOD's owning them in it, v. 3. We have here

1. The Apoſtles working for Chriſt, faithfully and diligently, according to the Truſt committed to them; becauſe the Minds of the Gentiles were evil-affected againſt them, One would think that therefore they ſhould have withdrawn, and haſten'd out of the Way; or, if they had preach'd, ſhould have preach'd cautiouſly for Fear of giving farther Provocation to thoſe who were already enough enrag'd. No? on the contrary, therefore they abode there a long Time, ſpeaking boldly in the Lord. The more they perceiv'd the Spite and Rancour of the Town againſt the new Converts, the more they were animated to go on in their Work; and the more needful they ſaw it to continue among them, to confirm them in the Faith, and to comfort them. They ſpake boldly, and were not afraid of giving Offence to the unbelieving Jews; What GOD ſaid to the Prophet with Reference to the unbelieving Jews in his Day, was now made good to the Apoſtles, I have made thy Face ſtrong againſt their Faces, Ezek. iii. 7, 8, 9. But obſerve what it was that animated them, they ſpake boldly in the Lord, in his Strength, and truſting in him to bear them out, not depending upon any Thing in themſelves. They were ſtrong in the Lord, and in the Power of his Might.

2. Chriſt working with the Apoſtles, according to his Promiſe, Lo, I am with you always; When they went on in his Name and Strength, He fail'd not to give Teſtimony to the Word of his Grace. Note, 1. The Goſpel is a Word of Grace, the Aſſurance of GOD's Good-will to us, and the Means of his good Work in us; 'Tis the Word of Chriſt's Grace, for 'tis in him alone that we find Favour with GOD. 2. Chriſt himſelf has atteſted this Word of Grace, who is the Amen, the faithful Witneſs; he hath aſſur'd us, that it is the Word of GOD, and that we may venture our Souls upon it. As it was ſaid in general concerning the firſt Preachers of the Goſpel, that they had the Lord working with them, and confirming the Word by Signs following, Mark xvi. 20. ſo it is ſaid particularly concerning the Apoſtles here, that the LORD confirm'd their Teſtimony in granting Signs and Wonders to be done by their Hands, in the Miracles they wrought in the Kingdom of Nature, as well as the Wonders done by their Word, in the greater Miracles wrought on Mens Minds by the Power of Divine Grace. The LORD was with them while they were with Him, and abundance of Good was done.

Fifthly, The Diviſion which this occaſion'd in the City, v. 4. The Multitude of the City was divided into two Parties, and both active and vigorous; among the Rulers and Perſons of Rank, and among the common People, there were ſome that held with the unbelieving Jews, and others that held with the Apoſtles; Barnabas is here reckon'd an Apoſtle, tho' none of the Twelve, nor call'd in that extraordinary Manner that Paul was, becauſe ſet a-part by ſpecial Deſignation of the Holy Ghoſt to the Service of the Gentiles. It ſeems this Buſineſs of the Preaching of the Goſpel was ſo univerſally taken Notice of with Concern, that every Perſon, even of the Multitude of the City, was either for it, or againſt it, none ſtood neuter. Either for us, or for our Adverſaries; for GOD or Baal; for Chriſt or Beelzebub.

1. We may here ſee the Meaning of Chriſt's Prediction, That he came not to ſend Peace upon Earth, but rather Diviſion, Luke xii. 51, 52, 53. If all would have given in unanimouſly into his Meaſures, there had been univerſal Concord, and could Men have agreed in that, there would have been no dangerous Diſcord or Diſagreement in other Things; but diſagreeing here, the Breach was wide as the Sea. Yet the Apoſtles muſt not be blam'd for coming to Iconium, becauſe before they came the City was united, but now it was divided, for 'tis better that Part of the City go to Heaven, than all to Hell.

2. We may here take the Meaſures of our Expectations; Let us not think it ſtrange if the Preaching of the Goſpel occaſion Diviſions, nor be offended at it. 'Tis better to be reproached and Perſecuted as Dividers for Swimming againſt the Stream, than yield our ſelves to be carry'd down the Stream that leads to Deſtruction. Let us hold with the Apoſtles, and not fear them that hold with the Jews.

Sixthly, The Attempt made upon the Apoſtles by their Enemies; Their Evil Affection againſt them broke out at length in violent Out-rages, v. 5. Obſerve,

1. Who the Plotters were; both the Gentiles and the Jews with their Rulers. The Gentiles and Jews were at Enmity with one another, and yet united againſt Chriſtians, like Herod and Pilate, Sadducees and Phariſees againſt Chriſt, and like Gebal and Ammon, and Amalek of old againſt Iſrael. If the Churches Enemies can thus unite for its Deſtruction, ſhall not its Friends, laying aſide all perſonal Feuds unite for its Preſervation.

2. What the Plot was; Having now got the Rulers on their Side, they doubted not but to carry their Point, and their Deſign was to uſe the Apoſtles deſpitefully, to expoſe them to Diſgrace, and then to ſtone them, to put them to Death; and thus they hop'd to ſink their Cauſe, they aim'd to take away both their Reputation and their Life, and that was all they had to loſe which they could take from them, for they had neither Lands nor Goods.

Seventhly, The Deliverance of the Apoſtles out of the Hands of thoſe wicked and unreaſonable Men, v. 6, 7. They got away upon Notice given them of the Deſign againſt them, or the Beginning of the Attempt upon them, which they were ſoon aware of, and they made an honourable Retreat, (for it was not an inglorious Flight) to Lyſtra and Derbe; And there,

1. They found Safety; Their Perſecutors in Iconium were for the preſent ſatisfy'd that they were thruſt out of their Borders, and purſu'd them no further. GOD hath Shelters for his People in a Storm; nay, He is and will be Himſelf their Hiding-place.

2. They found Work, and that was it they went for; When the Door of Opportunity was ſhut againſt 'em at Iconium, it was open'd at Lyſtra and Derbe; to thoſe Cities they went, and there and in the Region that lieth round about, they preach'd the Goſpel. In Times of Perſecution Miniſters may ſee Cauſe to quit the Spot, when yet they do not quit the Work.

8 And there ſat a certain man at Lyſtra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mothers womb, who never had walked. 9 The ſame heard Paul ſpeak: who ſtedfaſtly beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed, 10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped and walked. 11 And when the people ſaw what Paul had done, they lift up their voices, ſaying in the ſpeech of Lycaonia, The gods are come down to us in the likeneſs of men. 12 And they called Barnabas, Jupiter; and Paul, Mercurius, becauſe he was the chief ſpeaker. 13 Then the prieſt of Jupiter, which was before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, and would have done ſacrifice with the people. 14 Which when the apoſtles, Barnabas and Paul heard of, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying out, 15 And ſaying, Sirs, why do ye theſe things? We alſo are men of like paſſions with you, and preach unto you, that you ſhould turn from theſe vanities unto the living God, which made heaven and earth, and the ſea and all things that are therein. 16 Who in times paſt ſuffered all nations to walk in their own ways. 17 Neverthele ſs he left not himſelf without witneſs, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful ſeaſons, filling our hearts with food and gladneſs. 18 And with theſe ſayings ſcarce reſtrained they the people, that they had not done ſacrifice unto them.

Firſt, A miraculous Cure wrought by Paul at Lyſtra, upon a Cripple, that had been lame from his Birth, ſuch an One as was miraculouſly cur'd by Peter and John, Acts iii. 2. That introduc'd the Goſpel among the Jews, this among the Gentiles; both that and this, were deſign'd to repreſent the Impotency of all the Children of Men in ſpiritual Things, they are lame from their Birth, till the Grace of GOD puts Strength into them; for it was when we were yet without Strength, that Chriſt dy'd for the Ungodly, Rom. v. 6. Obſerve here,

1. The deplorable Caſe of the poor Cripple, v. 8. He was impotent in his Feet, diſabled, ſo the Word is, to that Degree that it was impoſſible he ſhould ſet his Foot to the Ground, to lay any Streſs upon it: It was well known that he had been ſo from his Mother's Womb, and that he never had walked, or could ſtand up. We ſhould take Occaſion from hence, to thank GOD for the Uſe of our Limbs. And thoſe who are depriv'd of it may obſerve, that their Caſe is not ſingular.

2. The Expectation that was rais'd in him of a Cure, v. 9. He heard Paul preach, and 'tis likely was much affected with what he heard, believ'd the Meſſage was from Heaven, and that the Meſſengers having their Commiſſion thence, had a divine Power going along with them, and were therefore able to cure him of his Lameneſs. This Paul was aware of, by the Spirit of Diſcerning that he had, and perhaps the Shew of his Countenance did in Part witneſs for him; Paul perceiv'd that he had Faith to be heal'd; deſir'd it, hoped for it, had ſuch a Thing in his Thoughts; which it doth not appear that the lame Man Peter heal'd had, for he expected no more than an Alms: There was not found ſuch great Faith in Iſrael, as was among the Gentiles, Matth. viii. 10.

3. The Cure wrought; Paul perceiving that he had Faith to be healed, brought the Word and healed him, Pſal. cvii. 20. Note, GOD will not diſappoint the Deſires that are of his own kindling, nor the Hopes of his own raiſing. Paul ſpake to him with a loud Voice, either becauſe he was at ſome Diſtance, or to ſhew that the true Miracles wrought by the Power of Chriſt, were far unlike the lying Wonders wrought by Deceivers, that peeped, and muttered, and whiſpered, Iſa. viii. 19. GOD ſaith, I have not ſpoken in ſecret, in a dark Place of the Earth, Iſa. xlv. 19. Paul ſpoke to him with a loud Voice, that the People about might take Notice, and have their Expectations rais'd of the Effect. It doth not appear that this Cripple was a Beggar, 'tis ſaid, v. 8. that he ſate, not that he ſate begging. But we may imagine how melancholly it was to him to ſee other People walking about him, and himſelf diſabled; and therefore how welcome Paul's Word was to him, Stand upright on thy Feet; Help thy ſelf, and GOD ſhall help thee. Try whether thou haſt Strength, and thou ſhalt find that thou haſt. Some Copies read it, I ſay unto thee, in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, ſtand upright on thy Foot. 'Tis certain that's imply'd, and very probably was expreſs'd by Paul, and Power went along with this Word; for preſently he leaped and walked; leap'd up from the Place where he ſate, and not only ſtood upright, but to ſhew that he was perfectly cured, and that immediately, he walk'd to and fro before them all. Herein the Scripture was fulfill'd, That when the Wilderneſs of the Gentile World is made to bloſſom as the Roſe, then ſhall the Lame Man leap as a Hart, Iſa. xxxv. 1, 6. Thoſe that by the Grace of GOD are cured of their ſpiritual Lameneſs, muſt ſhew it by leaping, with a holy Exultation, and walking in a holy Converſation.

Secondly, The Impreſſion which this Cure made upon the People, They were amaz'd at it, had never ſeen or heard the like, and fell into an Extacy of Wonder. Paul and Barnabas were Strangers, Exiles, Refugees in their Country; every Thing concurr'd to make them mean and deſpicable, yet the working of this one Miracle was enough to make them in the Eyes of this People truly great and honourable; tho' the Multitude of Chriſt's Miracles could not ſcreen him from the utmoſt Contempt among the Jews. We find here,

1. The People take them for Gods, v. 11. They lift up their Voices with an Air of Triumph, ſaying in their own Language, (for it was the common People that ſaid it) in the Speech of Lycaonia, which was a Dialect of the Greeks, The Gods are come down to us in the Likeneſs of Men. They imagin'd they were drop'd down to them out of the Clouds, and that they were ſome Divine Powers; no leſs than Gods, tho' in the Likeneſs of Men. This Notion of the Thing agreed well enough with the Pagan Theology, and the fabulous Account they had of the Viſits which their Gods made to this lower World; and proud enough they were to think that they ſhould have a Viſit made to them. They carry'd this Notion ſo far here, that they pretended to tell which of their Gods they were, according to the Ideas their Poets had given them of the Gods, v. 12. They call'd Barnabas, Jupiter; for if they will have him to be a God, 'tis as eaſy to make him the Prince of their Gods as not. 'Tis likely he was the Senior, and the more portly comely Man, that had ſomething of Majeſty in his Countenance: And Paul they call'd Mercury, who was the Meſſenger of the Gods, that was ſent on their Errands: for Paul, tho' he had not the Preſence that Barnabas had, was the chief Speaker, and had a greater Command of Language, and perhaps appear'd to have ſomething Mercurial in his Temper and Genius. Jupiter us'd to take Mercury along with him, (they ſaid) and if he make a Viſit to their City, they will ſuppoſe he doth ſo now.

2. The Prieſt thereupon prepares to do Sacrifices to them, v. 13. The Temple of Jupiter was it ſeems before the Gate of their City, as its Protector and Guardian; and the Prieſt of that Idol and Temple hearing the People cry out thus, took the Hint preſently, and thought it was Time for him to beſtir himſelf to do his Duty. Many a coſtly Sacrifice he had offer'd to the Image of Jupiter, but if Jupiter be among them himſelf in propria perſona, it concerns him to do him the utmoſt Honours imaginable, and the People are ready to joyn with him in it. See how eaſily vain Minds are carry'd away with a popular Out-cry! If the Croud gives a Shout, Here's Jupiter; the Prieſt of Jupiter takes the firſt Hint, and offers his Service preſently. When Chriſt the Son of GOD came down and appear'd in the Likeneſs of Men, and did many, very many Miracles, yet they were ſo far from doing Sacrifice to him, that they made him a Sacrifice to their Pride and Malice; He was in the World, and the World knew him not; He came to his own, and his own receiv'd him not; But Paul and Barnabas upon the working of one Miracle, are deify'd preſently. The ſame Power of the God of this World which prejudiceth the carnal Mind againſt Truth, makes Errors and Miſtakes to find eaſy Admiſſion, and both Ways his Turn is ſerv'd. They brought Oxen to be ſacrific'd to them, and Garlands with which to crown the Sacrifices: Theſe Garlands were made up of Flowers and Ribbonds; and they gilded the Horns of the Oxen they ſacrific'd.

So Beaſts for Sacrifice do feed,
Firſt to be crown'd, and then to bleed.

Victimæ ad ſupplicium ſaginantur, Hoſtiæ ad pænam coronantur. So Octavius in Minutius Felix.

Thirdly, Paul and Barnabas proteſt againſt this undue Reſpect paid them, and with much ado prevent it. Many of the Heathen Emperors, call'd themſelves Gods, and took a Pride in having divine Honours paid them: But Chriſt's Miniſters, tho' real Benefactors to Mankind, while they only pretended to be ſo, refus'd thoſe Honours when they were tender'd: Whoſe Succeſſor therefore he is who ſits in the Temple of GOD, and ſhews that he is God, (2 Cor. ii. 4.) and who is ador'd as our Lord God, the Pope, it is eaſy to ſay. Obſerve,

1. The holy Indignation which Paul and Barnabas conceiv'd at this. When they heard this, they rent their Clothes; we do not find that they rent their Clothes when the People viliſy'd them and ſpake of ſtoning them, they could bear that without Diſturbance; but when they deiſy'd them, and ſpake of worſhipping them, they could not bear it; but rent their Clothes, as being more concern'd for GOD's Honour than their own,

2. The Pains they took to prevent it. They did not connive at it, nor ſay, If People will be deceiv'd, let them be deceiv'd, much leſs ſuggeſt to themſelves and one another, that it might contribute both to the Safety of their Perſons, and the Succeſs of their Miniſtry, if they ſuffered the People to continue in this Miſtake, and ſo they might make a good Hand of an Ill Thing: No, God's Truth needs not the Service of Man's Lye, Chriſt had put Honour enough upon them in making them Apoſtles, they needed not aſſume either the Honour of Princes, or the Honour of Gods; They appeared with much more magnificent Titles when they were called the Embaſſadors of Chriſt, and the Stewards of the Myſteries of God, than when they were called Jupiter and Mercury.

Let us ſee how they prevented it.

1. They ran in among the People, as ſoon as they heard of it, and would not ſo much as ſtay a While to ſee what the People would do. Their running in like Servants among the People ſhew'd that they were far from looking upon themſelves as Gods, or taking State upon them; They did not ſtand ſtill expecting Honours to be done them, but plainly declin'd them by thruſting themſelves into the Croud. They ran in as Men in earneſt with as much Concern as Aaron ran in between the Living and the Dead when the Plague was begun.

2. They reaſoned with them, crying out, that all might hear, Sirs, Why do ye theſe Things? Why do ye go about to make Gods of us? 'Tis the moſt abſurd Thing you can do, for,

1. Out Nature will not admit it, we alſo are Men of like Paſſions with yours, ὁμοιοπαθεῖς, 'tis the ſame Word that is us'd concerning Elias, Jam. v. 17. where we render it, ſubject to like Paſſions as we are. We are Men, and therefore you wrong your ſelves if you expect that from us which is to be had in GOD only; and you wrong God if you give that Honour to us, or to any other Man which is to be given to GOD only. We not only have ſuch Bodies as you ſee, but are of like Paſſions with you, have Hearts faſhion'd alike as other Men, Pſal. xxxiii. 15. for as in Water Face anſwers to Face, ſo doth the Heart of Man to Man, Prov. xxvii. 19. we are Naturally ſubject to the ſame Infirmities of the Human Nature, and liable to the ſame Calamities of the Human Life; not only Men but ſinful Men, and ſuffering Men, and therefore will not be deify'd.

2. Our Doctrine is directly againſt it. Muſt we be added to the Number of your Gods, whoſe Buſineſs it is to aboliſh the Gods you have, we preach unto you that ye ſhould turn from theſe Vanities unto the Living God. If we ſhould ſuffer this we ſhould confirm you in that which it is our Buſineſs to convert you from. And ſo they take this Occaſion to ſhew them how juſt and neceſſary it was that they ſhould turn to God from Idols, 1 Theſ. i. 9. When they preached to the Jews, who hated Idolatry, they had nothing to do but to preach the Grace of GOD in Chriſt, and needed not, as the Prophets in dealing with their Fathers, to preach againſt Idolatry: But when they had to do with the Gentiles, they muſt rectify their Miſtakes in natural Religion, and bring them off from the groſs Corruptions of that.

See here what they preached to the Gentiles.

1. That the Gods which they and their Fathers worſhipped, and all the Ceremonies of their worſhip of them were Vanities, idle Things, unreaſonable, unprofitable, which no rational Account could be given of, nor any real Advantage gain'd from. Idols are often call'd Vanities in the Old Teſtament, Deut. xxxii. 21. 1 Kin. xvi. 13. Jer. xiv. 22. An Idol is nothing in the World, 1 Cor. viii. 4. 'tis not at all what it is pretended to be, 'tis a Cheat, 'tis a Counterfeit, it deceives thoſe that truſt to it, and expect Relief from it. Therefore turn from theſe Vanities, turn from them with Abhorrence and Deteſtation, as Ephraim did, Hoſ. xiv. 8. What have I to do any more with Idols? I'll never again be thus impos'd upon.

2. That the GOD whom they would have them turn to is the Living God; they had hitherto worſhipped dead Images, that were utterly unable to help them, Iſa. xliv. 9. Or, (as they now attempted) dying Men, that would ſoon be diſabled to help them; But now they are perſuaded to worſhip a Living God, who hath Life in Himſelf, and Life for us, and lives for evermore.

3. That this GOD is the Creator of the World, the Fountain of all Being and Power; He made Heaven and Earth, and the Sea, and all Things therein, even thoſe Things which you worſhip as Gods, ſo that he is the GOD of your Gods; you worſhip Gods, which you made, the Creatures of your own Fancy, and the Work of your own Hands, we call you to worſhip the GOD that made you and all the World: Worſhip the True GOD, and cheat not yourſelves with Pretenders; Worſhip the Soveraign Lord of all, and diſparage not your ſelves in bowing down to his Creatures and Subjects.

4. That the World ow'd it to his Patience, that he had not deſtroy'd them long ere this for their Idolatry, v. 16. in Times paſt, for many Ages, unto this Day, he ſuffer'd all Nations to walk in their own Ways. Theſe Idolaters that were called from the Service of other Gods might think, Had they not ſerv'd theſe Gods hitherto, and their Fathers before them Time out of Mind? And, Why may they not as will go on to ſerve them ſtill? No, your ſerving of them was a Tryal of God's Patience, and it was a Miracle of Mercy that you were not cut off for it. But tho' he did not deſtroy you for it while you were in Ignorance and knew no better, Acts xvii. 30. yet now he hath ſent his Goſpel into the World, and by it has made a clear Diſcovery of Himſelf, and His Will to all Nations, and not to the Jews only; if yet you continue in your Idolatry, he will not bear with you as he has done. All the Nations that had not the Benefit of Divine Revelation, that is, All but the Jews, he ſuffer'd to walk in their own Ways, for they had nothing to check them or controul them, but their own Conſciences, their own Thoughts, Rom. ii. 15. no Scriptures, no Prophets, and then they were the more excuſable if they miſtook their Way; But now GOD hath ſent a Revelation into the World which is to be publiſh'd to all Nations, the Caſe is alter'd. We may underſtand it as a Judgment upon all Nations, that GOD ſuffer'd them to walk in their own Ways, gave them up to their own Hearts Luſts. But now the Time is come when the Vail of the Covering ſpread over all Nations ſhould be taken off, Iſa. xxv. 7. and now you will no longer be excus'd in theſe Vanities, but muſt turn from them. Note, 1. GOD's Patience with us hitherto ſhould lead us to Repentance, and not encourage us to preſume upon the Continuance of it, while we continue to provoke Him. (2.) Our having done ill while we were in Ignorance, will not bear us out in doing ill when we are better taught.

5. That even then when they were not under the Direction and Correction of the Word of God, yet they might have known, and ſhould have known to do better by the Works of God, v. 17. Tho' the Gentiles had not the Statutes and Judgments that the Jews had to witneſs for GOD againſt all Pretenders, no Tables of Teſtimony, or Tabernacle of Teſtimony, yet He left not Himſelf without Witneſs. Beſides the Witneſs of GOD within them, the Dictates of natural Conſcience, they had Witneſſes for GOD round about them, the Bounty of Common Providence. Their having no Scriptures did in Part excuſe them, and therefore GOD did not deſtroy them for their Idolatry, as He did the Jewiſh Nation; but that did not wholly excuſe them, but that nowithſtanding that they were highly criminal, and deeply guilty before GOD; for there were other Witneſſes for GOD, ſufficient to inform them, that He, and He only, is to be worſhipped; and that to Him they ow'd all their Services, from whom they receiv'd all their Comforts, and therefore were guilty of the higheſt Injuſtice and Ingratitude imaginable in alienating them from Him. GOD having not left Himſelf without Witneſs, has not left us without a Guide; and ſo has left us without Excuſe; for whatever is a Witneſs for GOD, is a Witneſs againſt us, if we give that Glory to any other, which is due to Him only.

(1.) The Bounties of common Providence witneſs to us that there is a God, for they are all diſpens'd wiſely, and with Deſign. The Rain and fruitful Seaſons could not come by Chance, Nor are there any of the Vanities of the Heathen that can give Rain, neither can the Heavens of themſelves give Showers, Jer. xiv. 22. All the Powers of Nature witneſs to us a ſoveraign Power in the God of Nature, from whom they are deriv'd, and on whom they depend. 'Tis not the Heaven that gives us Rain, but GOD that gives us Rain from Heaven; He is the Father of the Rain, Job xxxviii. 28.

(2.) The Benefit we have by theſe Bounties witneſs to us that we ought to make our Acknowledgments not to the Creatures who are made ſerviceable to us, but to the Creator who makes them ſo. He left not himſelf without witneſs in that he did good. GOD ſeems to reckon the Inſtances of his Goodneſs, to be more pregnant cogent Proofs of his Title to our Homage and Adoration than the Evidences of his Greatneſs, for his Goodneſs is his Glory; The Earth is full of his Goodneſs; His Tender Mercies are over all his works, And therefore they praiſe him. Pſal. cxlv. 9. 10. GOD doth us good in preſerving to us his Air to breath in, his Ground to go upon, the Light of his Sun to ſee by; But becauſe the moſt ſenſible Inſtance of the Goodneſs of Providence to each of us in particular is that of the daily Proviſion made by it of Meat and Drink for us, the Apoſtle chooſeth to inſiſt upon that; and ſhews how GOD doth us good. (1.) In preparing it for us, and that by a long Train of Cauſes which depend upon him as the firſt Cauſe; the Heavens bear the Earth, the Earth bears the Corn and Wine, and Oyl, and they bear Jezreel, Hoſ. ii. 21, 22. He doth us Good in giving us Rain from Heaven. Rain for us to drink, for if there were no Rain, there would be no Springs of Water, and we ſhould ſoon dye for Thirſt; Rain for our Land to drink, for our Meat as well as Drink we have from the Rain, in giving us that he gives us fruitful Seaſons; If the Heavens be as Braſs, the Earth will ſoon be as Iron, Lev. xxvi. 4. That's the River of God, which greatly enricheth the Earth, and by it God prepares us Corn, Pſal. lxv. 9, 10, 11. Of all the common Operations of Providence the Heathen choſe to form their Notion of the ſupreme GOD by that which ſpeaks Terror, and is proper to ſtrike an Awe of him upon us, and that was the Thunder; and therefore they call'd Jupiter the Thunderer, and repreſented him with a Thunderbolt in his Hand. And it appears by Pſal. xxix. 3. that ought not to be overlook'd; But the Apoſtle here to engage us to worſhip God, ſets before us his Beneficence, that we may have good Thoughts of him in every Thing wherein we have to do with him; may love him and delight in him, as one that doth Good, doth Good to us, doth Good to all, in giving Rain from Heaven, and fruitful Seaſons, and if at any Time Rain be withheld, or the Seaſons unfruitful, we may thank our ſelves, 'tis our Sin that turns away theſe good Things from us, which were coming to us, and ſtops the Current of GOD's Favours. (2.) In giving us the Comforts of it; 'Tis he that fills our Hearts with Food and Gladneſs. GOD is rich in Mercy to all, Rom. x. 12. he gives us richly all Things to enjoy, 1 Tim. vi. 17. is not only a Benefactor but a bountiful one; not only gives us the Things we need but gives us to enjoy them, Eccl. ii. 24. He fills our Hearts with Food, i. e. He gives us Food to our Hearts Content, or according to our Heart's Deſire; not meerly for Neceſſity, but Plenty, Dainty, and Variety. Even thoſe Nations that had loſt the Knowledge of him, and worſhipped other Gods, yet he filled their Houſes, filled their Mouths, filled their Bellies (Job xxii. 18. Pſal. xvii. 14.) with good Things: The Gentiles that liv'd without God in the World yet liv'd upon God; which Chriſt urgeth as a Reaſon why we ſhould do good to thoſe that hate us, Matth. v. 44, 45. Thoſe Heathens had their Hearts filled with Food, that was their Felicity and Satisfaction, they deſired no more; But theſe Things will not fill the Soul, Ezek. vii. 19. nor will thoſe that know how to value their own Souls be ſatisfy'd with them. But the Apoſtles put themſelves in as Sharers in the Divine Beneficence; we muſt all own that GOD fills our Hearts with Food and Gladneſs, not only Food that we may live, but Gladneſs that we may live chearfully; to Him we owe it that we do not all our Days eat in Sorrow. Note, We muſt thank GOD not only for our Food, but for our Gladneſs; That he gives us Leave to be chearful, Cauſe to be chearful, and Hearts to be chearful. And if our Hearts be filled with Food and Gladneſs, they ought to be filled with Love and Thankfulneſs, and enlarg'd in Duty and Obedience, Deut. viii. 10. xxviii. 47.

Laſtly, The Succeſs of this Prohibition which the Apoſtles gave to the People, v. 18. By thoſe Sayings with much ado, they reſtrain'd the People from doing Sacrifice to them, ſo ſtrongly were Idolaters ſet upon their Idolatry; 'Twas not enough for the Apoſtles to refuſe to be deify'd, that would be conſtrued only a Pang of Modeſty; but they reſent it, they ſhew them the Evil of it, and all little enough, for they ſcarce reſtaind them from it; and ſome of them were ready to blame the Prieſt that he did not go on with his Buſineſs, notwithſtanding: We may ſee here what gave Riſe to the Pagan Idolatry, 'twas terminating thoſe Regards in the Inſtruments of our Comfort which ſhould have paſſed through them to the Author; Paul and Barnabas have cur'd a Cripple, and therefore they deiſy them, inſtead of glorifying GOD for giving them ſuch Power? which ſhould make us very cautious that we do not either give that Honour to another, or take it to ourſelves which is due to God only.

19 ¶ And there came thither certain Jews from Antioch and Iconium; who perſwaded the people, and having ſtoned Paul, drew him out of the city, ſuppoſing he had been dead. 20. Howbeit, as the diſciples ſtood round about him, he roſe up, and came into the city: and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe. 21 And when they had preached the goſpel to that city, and had taught many, they returned again to Lyſtra, and to Iconium, and Antioch, 22 Confirming the ſouls of the diſciples, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that we muſt through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God. 23 And when they had ordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with faſting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they believed. 24 And after they had paſſed throughout Piſidia, they came to Pamphylia. 25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they went down into Attalia: 26 And thence ſailed to Antioch, from whence they had been recommended to the grace of God, for the work which they fulfilled. 27 And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearſed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles. 28 And there they abode long time with the diſciples.

We have here a further Account of the Services and Sufferings of Paul and Barnabas.

Firſt, How Paul was ſton'd, and left for dead, but miraculouſly came to himſelf again, v. 19, 20. They fell upon Paul rather than Barnabas, becauſe Paul being the chief Speaker, gall'd and vex'd them more than Barnabas did. Now obſerve here,

1. How the People were incens'd againſt Paul; not by any Injury they pretended he had done againſt them, if they took it for an Affront that he would not let them miſ-place divne Honours upon him, when they conſider'd themſelves they would eaſily forgive him that Wrong. But there came certain Jews from Antioch, hearing 'tis likely, and vext to hear what Reſpect was ſhew'd to Paul and Barnabas at Lyſtra, and they incens'd the People againſt them, as factious, ſeditious, dangerous Perſons, not fit to be harbour'd. See how reſtleſs the Rage of the Jews was againſt the Goſpel of Chriſt; They could not bear that it ſhould have Footing any where.

2. To what Degree they were incens'd by theſe barbarous Jews; they irritated them to that Degree, that the Mob roſe and ſtoned Paul, not by a judicial Sentence, but in a popular Tumult; they threw Stones at him with which they knocked him down, and then drew him out of the City, as on not fit to live in it, or drew him out upon a Sledge or in a Cart to bury him ſuppoſing he had been dead. So ſtrong is the Bent of the corrupt and carnal Heart to that which is evil, even in contrary Extreams, that as it is with great Difficulty that Men are reſtrain'd from Evil on one Side, ſo it is with great Eaſe that they are perſuaded to Evil on the other Side. See how fickle and mutable the Minds or carnal worldly People are, that do not know and conſider Things: Thoſe that but t'other Day would have treated the Apoſtles as more then Men, now treat them as worſe than Brutes, as the worſt of Men, as the worſt of Malefactors. To Day Hoſanna, and to Morrow crucify; To Day ſacrific'd to, to Morrow ſacrificed; As we have an Inſtance of a Change the other Way, Acts xxviii. This Man is a Murtherer, v. 4. no doubt he is a God, v. 6. popular Breath turns like the Wind. If Paul would have been Mercury, he might have been enthron'd, nay, he might have been enſhrin'd, But if he will be a faithful Miniſter of Chriſt he ſhall be ſtoned, and thrown out of the City; Thus they who eaſily ſubmit to ſtrong Deluſions, hate to receive the Truth in the Love of it.

3. How he was deliver'd by the Power of GOD. When he was drawn out of the City, the Diſciples ſtood round about him, v. 20. It ſeems there were ſome here at Lyſtra that became Diſciples, that found the Mean between deifying the Apoſtles, and rejecting them; and even theſe new Converts had Courage to own Paul, when he was thus run down, tho' they had Reaſon enough to fear that the ſame that ſtoned him, would ſtone them for owning him. They ſtood round about him, as a Guard to him againſt the further outrage of the People; ſtood about him to ſee whether he were alive or dead; And all of a ſudden he roſe up; Tho' he was not dead yet he was all cruſh'd and bruis'd no doubt, and fainted away, he was in a Deliquium, ſo that it was not without a Miracle that he came ſo ſoon to himſelf, and was ſo well as to be able to go into the City. Note, GOD's faithful Servants tho' they may be brought within a Step of Death, and may be look'd upon as dead both by Friends and Enemies, ſhall not dye as long as he has Work for them to do. They are caſt down but not deſtroy'd, 2 Cor. iv. 9.

Secondly, How they went on with their Work notwithſtanding the Oppoſition they met with, all the Stones they threw at Paul will not beat him off from his Work. They drew him out of the City, v. 19. but as one that ſet them at Defiance, he came into the City again, to ſhew that he did not fear them, None even of theſe Things move him. However their being perſecuted here is a known Indication to them to ſeek for Opportunities of Uſefulneſs elſewhere, and therefore for the preſent they quit Lyſtra.

And 1. They went to break up and ſow freſh Ground at Derbe; thither the next Day Paul and Barnabas departed; A City not far off, there they preached the Goſpel, there they taught many, v. 21. And it ſhould ſeem that Timothy was of that City, and was one of the Diſciples that now attended Paul, had met him at Antioch, and accompanied him in all this Circuit, for with reference to this Story, Paul tells him how fully he had known the Afflictions he endur'd at Antioch, Iconium and Lyſtra, 2 Tim. iii. 10, 11. Nothing is recorded that happen'd at Derbe.

2. They return'd and went over their Work again, watering what they had ſown; having ſtay'd as long as they thought fit at Derbe, they came back to Lyſtra, to Iconium, and Antioch, the Cities where they had preached, v. 21. Now as we have had a very inſtructive Account of the Methods they took in laying the Foundation, and Beginning the good Work, ſo here we have the like of their Building upon that Foundation, and carrying on that good Work. Let us ſee what they did.

(1.) They confirm'd the Souls of the Diſciples, i. e. they inculcated that upon them which was proper to confirm them, v. 22. young Converts are apt to waver, and a little Thing ſhocks them their old Acquaintance beg they will not leave them, thoſe that they look upon to be wiſer than they, ſet before them the Abſurdity, Indecency, and Danger of a Change, they are allur'd by Proſpect of Preferment to ſtick to the Traditions of their Fathers, they are frighten'd with the Danger of ſwimming againſt the Stream. All this tempts them to think of making a Retreat in Time; But the Apoſtles come and tell them that this is the true Grace of God wherein they ſtand, and therefore they muſt ſtand to it, that there's no danger like that of loſing Part in Chriſt, no Advantage like that of keeping their Hold of him; that whatever their Tryals may be they ſhall have Strength from Chriſt to paſs through them; And whatever their Loſſes may be they ſhall be abundantly recompens'd. And this confirms the Souls of the Diſciples, it fortifies their pious Reſolutions in the Strength of Chriſt, to ſtick to Chriſt whatever it coſt them. Note, 1. Thoſe that are converted need to be confirm'd, that are planted need to be rooted. Miniſters Work is to eſtabliſh Saints, as well as to awaken Sinners. Non minor eſt virtus quam quærere parta tueri. Thoſe that were inſtructed in the Truth, muſt know the certainty of the Things in which they have been inſtructed; And thoſe that are reſolv'd muſt be fix'd in their Reſolutions. 2. True Confirmation is Confirmation of the Soul; 'tis not binding the Body by ſevere Penalties on Apoſtates, but binding the Soul; the beſt Miniſters can do that, only by preſſing thoſe Things which are proper to bind the Soul, 'tis the Grace of GOD, and nothing leſs that can effectually confirm the Souls of the Diſciples, and prevent their Apoſtacy.

(2.) They exhorted them to continue in the Faith; Or (as it may be read) they encourag'd them. They told them it was both their Duty and Intereſt to perſevere; to abide in the Belief of Chriſt's being the Son of GOD, and the Saviour of the World. Note, Thoſe that are in the Faith are concern'd to continue in the Faith, notwithſtanding all the Temptations they may be under to deſert it, from the Smiles and Frowns of this World. And it is requiſite they ſhould often be exhorted to do ſo. They that are continually ſurrounded with Temptations to Apoſtacy have need to be continually attended with preſſing Exhortations to Perſeverance.

(3.) That which they inſiſted moſt upon was, That we muſt through much Tribulation enter into the Kingdom of God. Not only they muſt, but we muſt; it muſt be counted upon that all that will go to Heaven muſt expect Tribulation and Perſecution in their Way thither. But is this the Way to Confirm the Souls of the Diſciples, and to engage them to continue in the Faith? One would think it ſhould rather ſhock them, and make them weary. No, As the Matter is fairly ſtated and taken entire, it will help to confirm them, and fix them for Chriſt. It is true they will meet with Tribulation, with much Tribulation, That's the worſt of it: But then. (1.) It is ſo appointed, they muſt undergo it, there's no Remedy, the Matter is already fix'd, and cannot be alter'd; He that has the ſoveraign Diſpoſal of us, has determin'd it to be our Lot, that all that will live godly in Chriſt Jeſus ſhall ſuffer Perſecution; And he that has the ſoveraign Command over us, has determin'd this to be our Duty, that all that will be Chriſt's Diſciples muſt take up their Croſs, ſo that when we gave up our Names to Jeſus Chriſt, 'twas what we agreed to, when we ſate down, and accounted the Coſt, if we reckon'd right 'twas what we counted upon, ſo that if Tribulation and Perſecution aroſe becauſe of the Word, 'tis but what we had Notice of before, it muſt be ſo, He performeth the Thing that is appointed for us. The Matter is fix'd unalterably, and ſhall the Rock be for us remov'd out of its Place. (2.) It is the Lot of the Leaders in Chriſt's Army as well as of the Soldiers. It is not only you but we, that (if it be thought a Hardſhip) are ſubject to it, therefore as your own Sufferings muſt not be a Stumbling to you, ſo neither muſt ours, ſee 1 Theſ. iii. 3. Let none be moved by our Afflictions, for yourſelves know that we are appointed thereunto. As Chriſt did not put the Apoſtles upon any harder Service than what he underwent before them, ſo neither did the Apoſtels put the ordinary Chriſtians. (3.) it is true we muſt count upon much Tribulation, but this is encouraging that we ſhall get through it? we ſhall not be loſt and periſh in it. It is a Red Sea, But the Lord has open'd a Way through it, for the Redeemed of the Lord to paſs over. We muſt go down to Trouble but we ſhall come up again. (4.) We ſhall not only get through it, but get through it into the Kingdom of God; And the Joy and Glory of the End will make abundant Amends for all the Difficulties and Hardſhips we may meet with in the Way. 'Tis true we muſt go by the Croſs, But it is as true that if we keep in the Way, and do not turn aſide or turn back, we ſhall go to the Crown, and the believing Proſpect of that will make the Tribulation eaſy and pleaſant.

(4.) They ordain'd them Elders, or Presbyters, in every Church. Now at this ſecond Viſit they ſettled them in ſome Order, form'd them into religious Societies under the Conduct of a ſettled Miniſtry, and ſettled that Diſtinction between them that are taught in the Word, and them that teach. (1.) Every Church had its Governours, or Preſidents, whoſe Office it was to pray with the Members of the Church, and to preach to them in their ſolemn Aſſemblies, to adminiſter all Goſpel Ordinances to them and to take the Overſight of them, to inſtruct the Ignorant, warn the Unruly, comfort the Feeble-minded, and to convince Gainſayers. 'Tis requiſite that every particular Church ſhould have One or more ſuch to preſide in it. (2.) Thoſe Governors were then Elders, that had in their Qualification the Wiſdom and Gravity of Seniors, and had in their Commiſſion the Authority and Command of Seniors: Not to make new Laws; that's the Prerogative of the Prince, the great Law-giver, (The Government of the Church is an abſolute Monarchy, and the legiſlative Power intirely in Chriſt) but to ſee to the Obſervation and Execution of the Laws Chriſt has made; And ſo far they are to be obey'd and ſubmitted to. (3.) Theſe Elders were ordain'd. Thoſe that knew the Perſons that were propos'd, or propos'd themſelves (whether the Apoſtles or the People put them up) Their Qualifications were judg'd of by the Apoſtles, as moſt fit to judge, and they themſelves having devoted themſelves, were ſolemnly ſet apart to the Work of the Miniſtry, and bound to it. (4.) Theſe Elders were ordain'd to them, to the Diſciples, to their Service, for their Good. Thoſe that are in the Faith have need to be built up in it, and have need of the Elders Help therein, the Paſtors and Teachers, who are to edify the Body of Chriſt.

5. By Prayer joyn'd with Faſting they commended them to the Lord, to the Lord Jeſus, on whom they believed. Note, 1. When Perſons are brought to believe and that ſincerely, yet Miniſters Care concerning them is not then over; there is Need of watching over them ſtill, inſtructing and admoniſhing them ſtill, there is ſtill that lacking in their Faith, which needs to be perfected. 2. The Miniſters that take moſt Care of them that believe muſt after all commend them to the Lord, and put them under the Protection and Conduct of his Grace, Lord keep them through thine own Name. To his Cuſtody they muſt commit themſelves, and their Miniſters muſt commit them. 3. 'Tis by Prayer that they muſt be commended to the Lord; Chriſt in his Prayer. Joh. xvii. commended his Diſciples to his Father, Thine they were, and thou gaveſt them me, Father keep them. 4. 'Tis a great Encouragement to us in commending the Diſciples to the Lord, that we can ſay, 'tis he in whom they believ'd, we commit them to him who have committed themſelves to him, and who know they have believed in one who is able to keep what they and we have committed to him againſt that Day, 2 Tim. i. 12. 5. 'Tis good to join Faſting with Prayer, in Token of our Humiliation for Sin, and in order to the adding of Vigour to our Prayers. 6. When we are parting with our Friends, the beſt Farewell is to commend them to the Lord, and to leave them with him.

2. They went on preaching the Goſpel in other Places, where they had been, but as it ſhould ſeem had not made ſo many Converts as that now at their Return they could form them into Churches; Therefore thither they came to purſue and carry on Converſion Work. From Antioch they paſſed throughout Piſidia, the Province in which that Antioch ſtood, thence they came into the Province of Pamphylia, the Head City of which was Perga, where they had been before, chap xiii. 13. and came thither again to preach the Word, v. 25. making a ſecond Offer, to ſee if they were now better diſpos'd than they were before, to receive the Goſpel. What Succeſs they had there we are not told, but that from thence they went down to Attalia, a City of Pamphylia, on the Sea-Coaſt. They ſtay'd not long at a Place, but where ever they came endeavour'd to lay a Foundation, which might afterwards be built upon, and to ſow the Seeds which would in Time produce a great Increaſe. Now Chriſt's Parables were explain'd, in which he reſembled the Kingdom of Heaven to a little Leaven, which in Time leavened the whole Lump; to a Grain of Muſtard Seed, which tho' very inconſiderable at firſt, grew to a great Tree; And to the Seed which a Man ſow'd in his Ground, and it ſprung up he knew not how.

Thirdly, How they at length came back to Antioch, in Syria, from whence they were ſent forth upon this Expedition. From Attalia they came by Sea to Antioch, v. 26. And we are here told,

1. Why they came thither; becauſe from thence they had been recommended to the Grace of God, and ſuch a Value did they put upon a ſolemn Recommendation to the Grace of God, tho' they had themſelves a great Intereſt in Heaven, that they never thought they could ſhew reſpect enough to thoſe who had ſo recommended them. They having recommended them to the Grace of God, for the Work which they fulfill'd, now they had fulfill'd it, they thought they ow'd them an Account of it that they might help them by their Praiſes, as they had done by their Prayers.

2. What Account they gave them of their Negotiation, v. 27. They gather'd the Church together; 'Tis probable the Chriſtians at Antioch were more, than ordinarily met or could meet in one Place, but on this Occaſion they call'd together the leading Men of them; As the Heads of the Tribes are often call'd the Congregation of Iſrael, ſo the Miniſters and principal Members of the Church at Antioch are called the Church; Or perhaps as many of the People as the Place would hold came together on that occaſion: Or, ſome met one Time, or in one Place, and others at another. But when they had them together they gave them an Account of Two Things.

(1.) Of the Tokens they had had of the Divine Preſence with them in their Labours. They rehearſed all that God had done with them. They did not tell what they had done, that would have ſavour'd of Vain-Glory, but of what God hath done with them, and by them. Note, The Praiſe of all that little Good we do at any Time muſt be aſcrib'd to GOD; for, it is He that not only worketh in us both to will and to do, but then worketh with us, to make what we do ſucceſsful. GOD's Grace can do any Thing without Miniſters Preaching, but Miniſters Preaching, even Paul's can do nothing without GOD's Grace, and the Operations of that Grace muſt be acknowledg'd in the Efficacy of the Word.

(2.) Of the Fruit of their Labours among the Heathen; They told how God had open'd the Door of Faith unto the Gentiles, had not only order'd them to be invited to the Goſpel Feaſt, but had inclin'd the Hearts of many of them to accept the Invitation. Note, 1. There's no Entring into the Kingdom of Chriſt but by the Door of Faith; we muſt firmly believe in Chriſt or we have no Part in Him. 2. 'Tis GOD that opens the Door of Faith, that opens to us the Truths we are to believe, opens our Hearts to receive them, and makes this a wide Door, and an effectual into the Church of Chriſt.

3. We have Reaſon to be thankful that GOD has open'd the Door of Faith to the Gentiles, hath both ſent them his Goſpel, which is made known to all Nations for the Obedience of Faith, Rom. xvi. 26. And hath alſo given them Hearts to entertain the Goſpel. Thus the Goſpel was ſpread, and it ſhin'd more and more, and none was able to ſhut this Door which GOD had open'd; not all the Powers of Hell and Earth.

3. How they diſpos'd of themſelves for the preſent; There they abode long Time with the Diſciples, v. 28. longer than perhaps at firſt they intended; not becauſe they fear'd the Enemies, but becauſe they lov'd their Friends, and were loth to part from them.

CHAP. XV.

Hitherto we have with a great deal of Pleaſure attended the Apoſtles in their glorious Travels for the Propogating of the Goſpel in foreign Parts; have ſeen the Bounds of the Church enlarged, by the Acceſſion both of Jews and Gentiles to it; and Thanks be to that GOD who always caus'd them to triumph! We left them in the Cloſe of the foregoing Chapter repoſing themſelves at Antioch, and edifying the Church there with the Rehearſal of their Experiences, and 'tis Pity they ſhould ever be otherwiſe employ'd; but in this Chapter we find other Work, nothing ſo pleaſant, cut out for them: The Chriſtians and Miniſters are engag'd in Controverſy, and they that ſhould have been more buſy'd it enlarging the Dominions of the Church, have as much as they can do to compoſe the Diviſions of it; when they ſhould have been making War upon the Devil's Kingdom, they have much ado to keep the Peace in Chriſt's Kingdom. Yet that Occurrence and the Record of it, is of great Uſe to the Church, both for warning to us to expect ſuch unhappy Diſcords among Chriſtians, and Direction to us what Method to take for the Accommodating of them. Here's (1.) A Controverſy rais'd at Antioch by the judaizing Teachers, who would have the believing Gentiles brought under the Yoke of Circumciſion and the Ceremonial Law. v. 1, 2. (2.) A Conſultation had with the Church at Jeruſalem about this Matter, and the ſending of Delegates thither for that Purpoſe, which occaſion'd the ſtarting of the ſome Queſtion there, v. 2—5. (2.) An Account of what paſs'd in the Synod that was conven'd upon this Occaſion, v. 6. What Peter ſaid, v. 7---11. What Paul and Barnabas diſcours'd of, v. 12. And Laſtly, What James propos'd for the ſettling of this Matter, v. 13---21. (4.) The Reſult of this Debate, and the Circular Letter that was written to the Gentile Converts, directing them how to govern themſelves with Reſpect to the Jews, v. 22---29. (5.) The delivering of this Determination to the Church at Antioch, and the Satisfaction it gave them, v. 30---35. (6.) A ſecond Expedition deſign'd by Paul and Barnabas to preach to the Gentiles, in which they quarrell'd about their Aſſiſtant, and parted upon it, One ſteering one Courſe, and the Other another, v. 36---41.

AND certain men which came down from Judea taught the brethren, and ſaid, Except ye be circumciſed after the manner of Moſes, ye cannot be ſaved. 2 When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no ſmall diſſenſion and diſputation with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, ſhould go up to Jeruſalem unto the Apoſtles and Elders about this queſtion. 3 And being brought on their way by the Church, they paſſed through Phenice, and Samaria, declaring the converſion of the Gentiles: and they cauſed great joy unto all the brethren. 4 And when they were come to Jeruſalem, they were received of the Church, and of the Apoſtles and Elders, and they declared all things that God had done with them. 5 But there roſe up certain of the ſect of the Phariſees which believed, ſaying, That it was needful to circumciſe them, and to command them to keep the law of Moſes.

When Things go on very ſmoothly and pleaſantly in a State, or in a Church, yet 'tis Folly to be ſecure, and to think the Mountain ſtands ſtrong, and cannot be moved; ſome Uneaſineſs or other will ariſe which is not foreſeen, cannot be prevented, but muſt be prepar'd for. If ever there was a Heaven upon Earth, ſure it was in the Church at Antioch at this Time, when there were ſo many excellent Miniſters there, and bleſſed Paul among them, building up that Church in their moſt holy Faith: But here we have their Peace diſturb'd, and Differences ariſing. Here's Firſt, A New Doctrine ſtarted among them, which occaſion'd this Diviſion, obliging the Gentile Converts to ſubmit to Circumciſion and the Ceremonial Law, v. 1. Many that had been Proſelytes to the Jewiſh Religion became Chriſtians, and they would have ſuch as were proſelyted to the Chriſtian Religion, to become Jews.

1. The Perſons that urg'd this, were certain Men which came down from Judea; ſome think, ſuch as had been of the Phariſees, v. 5. or perhaps of thoſe Prieſts which were obedient to the Faith, chap. vi. 7. They came from Judea, pretending perhaps to be ſent by the Apoſtles at Jeruſalem, at leaſt, to be countenanc'd by them. Having a Deſign to ſpread their Notions, they came to Antioch, becauſe that was the head Quarters of thoſe that preach'd to the Gentiles, and the Rendezvouz of the Gentile Converts; and if they could but make an Intereſt there, this Leaven would ſoon be diffus'd to all the Churches of the Gentiles. They inſinuated themſelves into an Acquaintance with the Brethren, pretending to be very glad that they had embrac'd the Chriſtian Faith, and congratulated their Converſion; but tell them, yet one Thing they lack; they muſt be circumcis'd. Note, Thoſe that are ever ſo well taught, have need to ſtand upon their Guard, that they be not untaught again, or ill-taught.

2. The Poſition they laid down: The Theſis they gave was this, That except the Gentiles who turn'd Chriſtian were circumcis'd after the Manner of Moſes, and thereby oblig'd themſelves to all the Obſervances of the Ceremonial Law, they could not be ſaved. As to this:

1. Many of the Jews who embrac'd the Faith of Chriſt, yet continu'd very zealous for the Law, Acts xxi. 20. They knew it was from God, and its Authority was ſacred; valu'd it for its Antiquity, had been bred up in the Obſervance of it, and its probable had been often devoutly affected in their Attendance on thoſe Obſervances; they therefore kept them up after they were by Baptiſm admitted into the Chriſtian Church; kept up the Diſtinctions of Meats, and uſed the Ceremonial Purifyings from Ceremonial Pollutions, attended the Temple Service, and celebrated the Feaſts of the Jews. Herein they were conniv'd at, becauſe the Prejudices of Education are not to be got over all at once, and in a few Years the Miſtake would be ſufficiently rectify'd by the Deſtruction of the Temple, and the total Diſſolution of the Jewiſh Church; by which the Obſervation of the Moſaick Ritual, would become impracticable. But this did not ſuffice them, that they were herein indulg'd themſelves, they muſt have the Gentile Converts brought under the ſame Obligations which they continu'd under. Note, There is a ſtrange Proneneſs in us to make our own Opinion and Practice, a Rule and a Law to every Body elſe; to judge of all about us by our Standard, and to conclude, that becauſe we do well, all do wrong, that do not do juſt as we do.

2. Thoſe Jews who believ'd that Chriſt was the Meſſiah, as they could not get clear of their Affection to the Law, ſo they could not get clear of the Notions they had of the Meſſiah, that he ſhould ſet up a temporal Kingdom in favour of the Jewiſh Nation, ſhould make that illuſtrious and victorious; it was a Diſappointment to them that there was as yet nothing done towards this in the Way they expected: But now they hear that the Doctrine of Chriſt is receiv'd among the Gentiles, and his Kingdom begins to be ſet up in the Midſt of them, if they can but perſwade thoſe that embrace Chriſt, to embrace the Law of Moſes too, they hope their Point will be gain'd, the Jewiſh Nation will be made as conſiderable as they can wiſh, tho' in another Way; and therefore by all means let the Brethren be preſs'd to be circumcis'd and keep the Law; and then with our Religion, our Dominion will be extended, and we ſhall in a little Time be able to ſhake off the Roman Yoke; and not only ſo, but to put it on the Necks of our Neighbours, and ſo ſhall have ſuch a Kingdom of the Meſſiah as we promis'd ourſelves. Note, Thoſe who have wrong Notions of the Kingdom of Chriſt, it is no Wonder if they take wrong Meaſures for the Advancement of it, and ſuch as really tend to the Deſtruction of it, as theſe here do.

3. The Controverſy about the Circumciſing of the Gentile Proſelytes had been on Foot among the Jews long before this. This is obſerv'd by Dr. Whitby out of Joſephus, Antiq. l. xx. c. ii. That when Izates the Son of Helen, Queen of Adiabene, embrac'd the Jews Religion, Ananias declar'd he might do it without Circumciſion: But Eleazer maintain'd, That it was a great Impiety to remain uncircumcis'd. And when two eminent Gentiles fled to Joſephus (as he relates in the Hiſtory of his own Life) the Zealots among the Jews were urgent for their Circumciſion; but Joſephus diſſuaded them from inſiſting upon it. Such has been the Difference in all Ages between Bigottry and Moderation.

4. It is obſervable, what a mighty Streſs they laid upon it: They do not only ſay, You ought to be circumcis'd after the Manner of Moſes, and it will be good Service to the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, if you be; and will beſt accommodate Matters between you and the Jewiſh Converts, and we ſhall take it very kindly if you will, and ſhall converſe the more familiarly with you; but except you be circumcis'd you cannot be ſav'd. If you be not herein of our Mind and Way, you'll never go to Heaven, and therefore of courſe muſt go to Hell. Note, It is common for proud Impoſers to enforce their own Inventions under Pain of Damnation, and tell People, unleſs they believe juſt as they would have them believe, and do juſt as they would have them do, they cannot be ſav'd, 'tis impoſſible they ſhould; not only their Caſe is hazardous, but it is deſperate. Thus the Jews tell the Brethren, That except they be of their Church, and come in to their Communion, and conform to the Ceremonies of their Worſhip, tho' otherwiſe good Men and Believers in Chriſt, yet they cannot be ſav'd; Salvation itſelf cannot ſave them. None are in Chriſt, but they that are within their Pale. We ought to ſee ourſelves well warranted by the Word of God before we ſay, Except you do ſo and ſo, ye cannot be ſav'd.

Secondly, The Oppoſition which Paul and Barnabas gave to this ſchiſmatical Notion, which engroſs'd Salvation to the Jews, now Chriſt had open'd the Door of Salvation to the Gentiles, v. 2. They had no ſmall Diſſenſion and Diſputation with them. They would by no Means yield to this Doctrine; but appear'd and argu'd publickly againſt it.

1. As faithful Servants of Chriſt, they would not ſee his Truths betray'd; They knew that Chriſt came to free us from the Yoke of the Ceremonial Law, and to take down that Wall of Partition between Jews and Gentiles, and unite them both in himſelf, and therefore cannot bear to hear of Circumciſing the Gentile Converts, when their Inſtructions were only to baptize them. The Jews would unite with the Gentiles, that is, they would have them to conform in every Thing to their Rites, and then, and not till then, they will look upon them as their Brethren; and no Thanks to them. But this not being the Way in which Chriſt deſign'd to unite them, 'tis not to be admitted.

2. As Spiritual Fathers to the Gentile Converts, they would not ſee their Liberties encroach'd upon; They had told them, That if they believe in Chriſt Jeſus, they ſhould be ſav'd; and now to be told, that this was not enough to ſave them, except they were circumcis'd and kept the Law of Moſes; this was ſuch a Diſcouragement to them at ſetting-out, and would be ſuch a Stumbling-block in their Way, as might almoſt tempt them to think of returning into Egypt again; and therefore they ſet themſelves againſt it.

Thirdly, The Expedient pitch'd upon for the Preventing of the Miſchief of this dangerous Notion, and the Silencing of thoſe that vented it, and the Quieting of the Minds of the People, with Reference to it. They determin'd that Paul and Barnabas, and ſome others of their Number, ſhould go to Jeruſalem to the Apoſtles and Elders, concerning this Doubt. Not that the Church at Antioch had any Doubt concerning it, they knew the Liberty wherewith Chriſt had made them free: But they ſent the Caſe to Jeruſalem.

1. Becauſe thoſe who taught this Doctrine came from Jeruſalem, and pretended to have Directions from the Apoſtles there, to urge Circumciſion upon the Gentile Converts; it was therefore very proper to ſend to Jeruſalem about it, to know if they had any ſuch Direction from the Church there. And it was ſoon found to be all wrong, which yet pretended to be of Apoſtolical Right. It was true that theſe went out from them, v. 24, but they never went with any ſuch Orders from them.

2. Becauſe thoſe who were taught this Doctrine, would be the better confirm'd in their Oppoſition to it, and in the leſs Danger of being ſhock'd and diſturb'd by it, if they were ſure that the Apoſtles and Elders at Jeruſalem (which was that Chriſtian Church, that of all others retain'd the moſt Affection to the Law of Moſes) were againſt it; and if they could but have that under their Hands, it would be the likelieſt Means to ſilence and ſhame theſe Incendiaries, who had pretended to have it from them.

3. Becauſe the Apoſtles at Jeruſalem were fitteſt to be conſulted in a Point yet not fully ſettled: And being moſt eminent for an infallible Spirit, peculiar to them as Apoſtles, their Deciſion would be likely to end the Controverſy. And it is the Subtilty and Malice of the great Enemy of the Church's Peace, (as appears by Paul's frequent Complaints of theſe Judaizing Teachers, theſe Falſe Apoſtles, theſe Deceitful Workers, theſe Enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt) that it had not that Effect.

Fourthly, Their Journey to Jeruſalem upon this Errand, v. 3. Where we find,

1. That they were honour'd at parting; They were brought on their Way by the Church; which was then much us'd as a Token of Reſpect to uſeful Men, and is directed to be done after a godly Sort, 3 John 6. Thus the Church ſhew'd their Favour to them who witneſs'd againſt the Encroachments on the Liberties of the Gentile Converts, and ſtood up for them.

2. That they did Good as they went along: They were Men that would not loſe Time, and therefore viſited the Churches by the Way; they paſs'd thro' Phœnice and Samaria, and as they went declar'd the Converſion of the Gentiles, and what wonderful Succeſs the Goſpel had had among them; which cauſed great Joy to all the Brethren. Note, The Progreſs of the Goſpel is, and ought to be, a Matter of great Joy. All the Brethren, the faithful Brethren in Chriſt's Family rejoyce when more are born into the Family; for the Family will be never the poorer for the Multitude of its Children. In Chriſt and Heaven there is Portion enough, and Inheritance enough for them all.

Fifthly, Their hearty Welcome at Jeruſalem, v. 9.

1. The good Entertainment their Friends gave them; They were receiv'd of the Church, and of the Apoſtles and Elders, were embrac'd as Brethren, and had Audience as Meſſengers of the Church at Antioch, they receive them with all poſſible Expreſſions of Love and Friendſhip.

2. The good Entertainment they gave their Friends: They declar'd all Things that GOD had done with them; gave them an Account of the Succeſs of their Miniſtry among the Gentiles; not what they had done, but what God had done with them; what he had, by his Grace in them enabled them to do; and what he had, by his Grace in their Hearers, enabled them to receive. As they went they had planted, as they came back they had water'd; but in both they were ready to own it was God that gave the Increaſe. Note, It is a great Honour to be employ'd for God, to be Workers for him; for thoſe that are ſo, have him a Worker with them, and he muſt have all the Glory.

Sixthly, The Oppoſition they met with from the ſame Party at Jeruſalem, v. 5. When Barnabas and Paul gave an Account of the Multitude of the Gentiles, and of the great Harveſt of Souls gather'd in to Chriſt there, and all about them congratulated them upon it; there roſe up certain of the Sect of the Phariſees, who receiv'd the Tydings very coldly, and tho' they believ'd in Chriſt, yet were not ſatisfy'd in the Admiſſion of thoſe Converts, but thought it was needful to circumciſe them. Obſerve here,

1. That thoſe who have been moſt prejudic'd againſt the Goſpel, yet have been captivated by it; ſo mighty has it been thro' God to the pulling down of Strong-holds. When Chriſt was here upon Earth, few or none of the Rulers and of the Phariſees believ'd on him, but now there are thoſe of the Sect of the Phariſees which believ'd, and many of them, we hope, in Sincerity.

2. That it is very hard for Men ſuddenly to get clear of their Prejudices: Thoſe that had been Phariſees, even after they became Chriſtians retain'd ſome of the old Leaven: All did not ſo, witneſs Paul, but ſome did; and had ſuch a Zeal for the Ceremonial Law, and ſuch a Diſlike of the Gentiles, that they could not admit the Gentiles into Communion with them, unleſs they would be circumcis'd, and thereby engage themſelves to keep the Law of Moſes. This was in their Opinion needful; and for their Parts, they would not converſe with them unleſs they ſubmitted to it.

6 ¶ And the Apoſtles and Elders came together for to conſider of this matter. 7 And when there had been much diſputing, Peter roſe up and ſaid unto them; Men and Brethren, ye know how that a good while ago, God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth ſhould hear the word of the goſpel, and believe. 8 And God which knoweth the hearts, bare them witneſs, giving them the holy Ghoſt, even as he did unto us: 9 And put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith, 10 Now therefore why tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of the diſciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? 11 But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhall be ſaved even as they. 12 ¶ Then all the multitude kept ſilence, and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them. 13 ¶ And after they had held their peace, James anſwered, ſaying, Men and Brethren, hearken unto me. 14 Simeon hath declared how God at the firſt did viſit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name. 15 And to this agree the words of the prophets; as it is writen, 16 After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down: and I will build again the ruines thereof, and I will ſet it up: 17 That the reſidue of men might ſeek after the Lord, and all the the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, ſaith the Lord, who doth all theſe things. 18 Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world. 19 Wherefore my ſentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles are turned to God: 20 But that we write unto them, that they abſtain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things ſtrangled, and from Blood. 21 For Moſes of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the ſynagogues every ſabbath-day.

We have here a Council call'd, not by Writ, but by Conſent, on this Occaſion, v. 6. The Apoſtles and Presbyters came together, to conſider of this Matter. They did not give their Judgment ſeparately, but came together to do it, that they might hear one another's Senſe in this Matter; for in the Multitude of Counſellors there is Safety and Satisfaction. They did not give their Judgment raſhly, but conſider'd of this Matter: Tho' they were clear concerning it in their Minds, yet they would take Time to conſider of it, and to hear what was to be ſaid by the adverſe Party. Nor did the Apoſtles give their Judgment concerning it without the Elders, the inferiour Miniſters to whom they thus condeſcended, and on whom they thus put an Honour. Thoſe that are moſt eminent in Gifts and Graces, and are in the moſt exalted Stations in the Church, ought to ſhew Reſpect to their Juniors, and Inferiors, for tho' Days ſhould ſpeak, yet there is a Spirit in Man, Job xxxii. 7, 8. Here is a Direction to the Paſtors of the Churches when Difficulties ariſe to come together in ſolemn Meetings, for mutual Advice and Encouragment, that they may know one another's Mind, and ſtrengthen one another's Hands, and may act in Concert.

Now here we have,

Firſt, Peter's Speech in this Synod. He did not in the leaſt pretend to any Primacy or Headſhip in this Synod, He was not Maſter of this Aſſembly, not ſo much as Chair-man, or Moderator, pro hac vice; for we do not find that either he ſpoke firſt to open the Synod, there having been much diſputing before he roſe up; or that he ſpoke laſt, to ſum up the Cauſe, and collect the Suffrages; but he was a faithful, prudent, zealous Member of this Aſſembly; and offer'd that which was very much to the Purpoſe, and which would come better from him than from another, becauſe he had himſelf been the firſt that preach'd the Goſpel to the Gentiles. There had been much diſputing, Pro and Con upon this Queſtion, and Liberty of Speech allow'd, as ought to be in ſuch Caſes. Thoſe of the Sect of the Phariſees were ſome of them preſent, and allow'd to ſay what they could in Defence of thoſe of their Opinion at Antioch; which probably was anſwer'd by ſome of the Elders. Such Queſtions ought to be fairly diſputed before they are decided; when both Sides had been heard, Peter roſe up, and addreſs'd himſelf to the Aſſembly, Men and Brethren, as did James afterwards, v. 13. And here,

1. He put them in Mind of the Call and Commiſſion he had ſome Time ago to preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles; he wonder'd there ſhould be any Difficulty made of a Matter already ſettled. Ye know that ἀπ' ἀρχαίων ἡμερῶν from the Beginning of the Days of the Goſpel, many Years ago, God made choice among us Apoſtles, of one to preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles, and I was the Perſon choſen, that the Gentiles by my Mouth ſhould hear the Word and believe, v. 7. you know I was queſtioned about it, and cleared myſelf to univerſal Satisfaction, every Body rejoyc'd that God had granted to the Gentiles Repentance unto Life, and no Body ſaid a Word of Circumciſing them, nor was there any Thought of ſuch a Thing, ſee Acts, xi. 18. Why ſhould the Gentiles who hear the Word of the Goſpel by Paul's Mouth be compelled to ſubmit to Circumciſion any more than thoſe that heard it by my Mouth? Or, why ſhould the Terms of their Admiſſion now be made harder than they were then?

2. He puts them in mind how remarkably God own'd him in preaching to the Gentiles, and gave Teſtimony to their Sincerity in embracing the Chriſtian Faith, v. 8. God who knows the Hearts, and therefore is able to judge infallibly of Men, he bore them witneſs, that they were His indeed, by giving them the Holy Ghoſt, not only the Graces and Comforts, but the extraordinary miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, even as he did unto us Apoſtles, ſee chap. xi. 13, 16, 17. Note, 1. The Lord knows them that are his, for he knows Mens Hearts; and we are as our Hearts are. 2. Thoſe to whom God gives the Holy Ghoſt, he thereby bears witneſs to, that they are his: Here we are ſaid to be ſealed with that Holy Spirit of Promiſe; mark'd for God.

God had bid the Gentiles welcome to the Priviledge of Communion with him, without requiring them to be circumcis'd, and to keep the Law, and therefore ſhall not we admit them into Communion with us, but upon thoſe Terms? v. 9. God has put no difference between us and them, they tho' Gentiles, are as welcome to the Grace of Chriſt, and the Throne of Grace as we Jews are, why then ſhould we ſet them at a Diſtance, as if we were holier than they, Iſa. lxv. 5. Note, We ought not to make any other Conditions of our Brethrens Acceptance with us, but ſuch as God has made the Conditions of their Acceptance with him. Rom. xiv. 3. Now the Gentiles were fitted for Communion with God, in having their Hearts purify'd by Faith, and that Faith God's own Work in them, and therefore why ſhould we think them unfit for Communion with us, unleſs they will ſubmit to the ceremonial Purifying enjoyn'd by the Law in us. Note, 1. By Faith the Heart is purify'd; we are not only juſtify'd, and Conſcience purify'd, but the Work of Sanctification is begun and carry'd on. 2. Thoſe that have their Hearts purify'd by Faith therein are made ſo nearly to reſemble one another, that whatever other Difference there may be between them, no Account is to be made of it; for the Faith of all the Saints is alike precious and has like precious Effects, 2 Pet. i. 1. and they that by it are united to Chriſt are ſo to look upon themſelves as joyn'd to one another, as that all Diſtinctions, even that between Jew and Gentile are merg'd and ſwallow'd up in it.

3. He ſharply reproves theſe Teachers, (ſome of whom 'tis likely were preſent) who went about to bring the Gentiles under the Obligation of the Law of Moſes, v. 10. The Thing is ſo plain that he cannot forbear ſpeaking of it with ſome Warmth. Now therefore ſince God has own'd them for His, Why tempt ye God to put a Yoke upon the Neck of the Diſciples, of the believing Gentiles and their Children; for Circumciſion was a Yoke upon their Infant-Seed who are here reckon'd among the Diſciples; a Yoke which neither our Fathers, nor we were able to bear. Here he ſhews that in this Attempt (1.) They offer'd a very great Affront to God; you tempt him, by calling that in Queſtion which he hath already ſettled and determin'd by no leſs an Indication than that of the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt, you do in effect aſk, Did he know what he did? Or was he in earneſt in it? Or, will he abide by his own Act? Will you try whether God who deſign'd the Ceremonial Law for the People of the Jews only, will now in its laſt Ages, bring the Gentiles too under the Obligation of it to gratify you? Thoſe tempt God who preſcribe to him, and ſay People cannot be ſav'd but upon ſuch and ſuch Terms, which God never appointed, as if the God of Salvation muſt come into their Meaſures. (2.) They offer'd a very great Wrong to the Diſciples. Chriſt came to proclaim Liberty to the Captives, and they go about to enſlave thoſe whom he has made free, (ſee Neh. v. 8.) The Ceremonial Law was a heavy Yoke, They and their Fathers found it difficult to be born, ſo numerous, ſo various, ſo pompous were the Inſtitutions of it. The Diſtinction of Meats was a heavy Yoke not only as it render'd Converſation leſs pleaſant, but as it embarraſs'd Conſcience with endleſs Scruples. The Adoe that was made about even the unavoidable Touch of a Grave or a dead Body, the Pollution contracted by it, was a heavy Burthen. This Yoke Chriſt came to eaſe us of, and called thoſe that were weary and heavy laden under it, to come and take his Yoke upon them, his eaſy Yoke; Now for theſe Teachers to go about to lay that Yoke upon the Neck of the Gentiles, which he came to free even the Jews from, was the greateſt Injury imaginable to them.

4. Whereas the Jewiſh Teachers had urg'd that Circumciſion was neceſſary to Salvation, Peter ſhews 'twas ſo far from being ſo, that both Jews and Gentiles were to be ſaved purely through the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and no other Way, v. 11. we believe to be ſaved through that Grace only, πιστεύομεν σωθῆναι we hope to be ſaved, or we believe unto Salvation in the ſame manner as they, καθ' ὃν τρόπον κἀκεῖνοι. We that are circumcis'd believe to Salvation, and ſo do they that are uncircumcis'd, and as our Circumciſion will be no Advantage to us, ſo their Uncircumciſion will be no Diſadvantage to them, for we muſt depend upon the Grace of Chriſt for Salvation, and muſt apply that Grace by Faith as well as they. There is not one Way of Salvation for the Jews, and another for the Gentiles; neither Circumciſion avails any Thing nor Uncircumciſion, that's neither here nor there, but Faith which works by Love, Gal. v. 6. Why ſhould we burthen them with the Law of Moſes as neceſſary to their Salvation, when 'tis not that but the Goſpel of Chriſt that is neceſſary both to our Salvation and theirs.

Secondly, An Account of what Barnabas and Paul ſaid in this Synod; which did not need to be related, for they only gave in a Narrative of what was recorded in the forgoing Chapters, what Miracles and Wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them, v. 12. This they had given in to the Church at Antioch, chap. xiv. 27. to their Brethren by the Way, chap. xv. 3. and now again to the Synod. And it was very proper to be given in here. That which was contended for was, That the Gentiles ought to ſubmit to the Law of Moſes. Now in Oppoſition to this, Paul and Barnabas undertake to ſhew, by a plain Relation of Matters of Fact, that God own'd the Preaching of the pure Goſpel to them without the Law, and therefore to preſs the Law upon them now was to undo what God had done. Obſerve,

1. What Account they gave; they declar'd or open'd in Order, and with all the magnifying and affecting Circumſtances, what glorious Miracles, what Signs and Wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them. What Confirmation he had given to their Preaching, by Miracles wrought in the Kingdom of Nature; And what Succeſs he had given to it by Miracles wrought in the Kingdom of Grace. Thus God had honour'd theſe Apoſtles whom the Jewiſh Teachers condemn'd, and had thus honour'd the Gentiles whom they contemn'd. What needed they any other Advocate, when God himſelf pleaded their Cauſe? The Converſion of the Gentiles was itſelf a Wonder, all Things conſider'd no leſs than a Miracle: Now if they received the Holy Ghoſt by the hearing of Faith why ſhould they be embarraſs'd with the Works of the Law. See Gal. iii. 2.

2. What Attention was given to them; All the Multitude (who tho' they had not Votes yet came together to hear what was ſaid) kept ſilence and gave Audience to Paul and Barnabas; it ſhould ſeem they took more Notice of their Narrative than they did of all the Arguments that were offer'd. As in natural Philoſophy and Medicine, nothing ſo ſatisfactory as Experiments; and in Law nothing ſo ſatisfactory as Caſes adjudg'd; ſo in the Things of God the beſt Explication of the Word of Grace is the Accounts given of the Operations of the Spirit of Grace. Theſe the Multitude will with Silence give Audience to. They that fear God will moſt readily hear them that can tell them, what God has done for their Souls, or by their Means, Pſal. lxvi. 16.

Thirdly, The Speech which James made to the Synod; he did not interrupt Paul and Barnabas, tho' 'tis likely he had before heard their Narrative, but let them go on with it, for the Edification of the Company, and that they might have it from the firſt and beſt Hand; but after they had held their Peace: Then James ſtood up, Ye may all propheſy, one by one, 1 Cor. xiv. 31. God is the God of Order. He let Paul and Barnabas ſay what they had to ſay, and then he made the Application of it; The hearing of Variety of Miniſters may be of Uſe, when one Truth doth not drive out, but clench another.

1. He addreſſeth himſelf reſpectfully to thoſe preſent. Men and Brethren hearken unto me; ye are Men, and therefore 'tis to be hoped will hear Reaſon, you are my Brethren, and therefore will hear me with Candour. We are all Brethren, and equally concern'd in this Cauſe, that nothing be done to the Diſhonour of Chriſt, and the Uneaſineſe of Chriſtians.

2. He refers himſelf to what Peter had ſaid concerning the Converſion of the Gentiles, v. 14. Simeon (i. e. Simon Peter) hath declar'd and open'd the Matter to you, how God at the firſt did viſit the Gentiles in Cornelius and his Friends, who were the firſt Fruits of the Gentiles; how when the Goſpel began firſt to ſpread, preſently the Gentiles were invited to come and take the Benefit of it. And James obſerves here. (1.) That the Grace of God was the Riſe of it; 'Twas God that viſited the Gentiles; and it was a kind Viſit: Had they been left to themſelves they would never have viſited him, but the Acquaintance began on his Part. He not only viſited and redeemed his People, but viſited and redeemed thoſe that were Lo ammi, not a People. (2.) That the Glory of God was the End of it. It was to take out of them a People for his Name, who ſhould glorify him, and in whom he would be glorify'd: As of old he took the Jews, ſo now the Gentiles to be to him for a Name, and for a Praiſe, and for a Glory, Jer. xiii. 11. Let all the People of God remember, that therefore they are thus dignify'd in God, that God may be glorify'd in them.

3. He confirms this with a Quotation out of the Old Teſtament. He could not prove the Calling of the Gentiles by a Viſion as Peter could, or by Miracles wrought by his Hand as Paul and Barnabas could; but he would prove that it was foretold in the Old Teſtament, and therefore it muſt be fulfill'd, v. 15. To this agree the Words of the Prophets; moſt of the Old Teſtament Prophets ſpoke more or leſs of the Calling in of the Gentiles, even Moſes himſelf, Rom. x. 19. 'Twas the general Expectation of the pious Jews, that the Meſſiah ſhould be a Light to lighten the Gentiles, Luke ii. 32. But James waves the more illuſtrious Prophecies of this, and pitches upon one that ſeem'd more obſcure: It is written, Amos ix. 11, 12. where is foretold,

(1.) The Setting up of the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, v. 16. I will raiſe up the Tabernacle of David that is fallen. The Covenant was made with David and his Seed, but the Houſe and Family of David is here call'd his Tabernacle, becauſe David in his beginning was a Shepherd, and dwelt in Tents, and his Houſe that had been as a ſtately Palace, was become a mean and deſpicable Tabernacle, reduc'd in a manner to its ſmall Beginning, This Tabernacle was ruin'd and fallen down. There had not been for many Ages a King of the Houſe of David. The Sceptre was departed from Judah; the Royal Family was ſunk, and bury'd in Obſcurity, and as it ſhould ſeem not enquired after: But God will return and will build it again, raiſe it out of its Ruins, a Phœnix out of its Aſhes; and this was now lately fulfill'd when our Lord Jeſus was rais'd out of that Family, had the Throne of his Father David given him, with a Promiſe that he ſhould Reign over the Houſe of Jacob for ever, Luke i. 32. And when the Tabernacle of David was thus re-built in Chriſt, all the reſt of it was not many Years after wholly extirpated and cut off, as was alſo the Nation of the Jewes itſelf, and all their Genealogies loſt. The Church of Chriſt may be call'd the Tabernacle of David, This may ſometimes be brought very low, and may ſeem to be in Ruins, but it ſhall be built again, it's withering Intereſts ſhall revive; 'tis caſt down but not deſtroy'd, even dry Bones are made to live.

(2.) The Bringing in of the Gentiles as the Effect and Conſequent of this, v. 17. That the Reſidue of Men might ſeek after the Lord; Not the Jews only, who thought they had the Monopoly of the Tabernacle of David, but the Reſidue of Men, ſuch as had hitherto been left out of the Pale of the viſible Church; they muſt now upon this Re-edifying of the Tabernacle of David, be brought to ſeek after the Lord, and to enquire how they may obtain his Favour, when David's Tabernacle is ſet up, they ſhall ſeek the Lord their God, and David their King, Hoſ. iii. 1. Jer. xxx. 9. Then Iſrael ſhall poſſeſs the Remnant of Edom, ſo 'tis in the Hebrew; for the Jews called all the Gentiles Edomites, and therefore the Septuagint there leaves out the particular Mention of Edom, and read it juſt as it is here, that the Reſidue of Men might ſeek (St. James here adds after the Lord) and all the Gentiles or Heathen, upon whom my Name is called. The Jews were for many Ages ſo peculiarly favour'd, that the Reſidue of Men ſeem'd neglected; but now God will have an Eye to'em, and hisName ſhall be called upon the Gentiles: His Name ſhall be declar'd and publiſh'd among them, and they ſhall be brought both to know His Name, and to call upon it; they ſhall call themſelves the People of God, and he ſhall call them ſo, and thus by Conſent of both Parties, His Name is called upon them. This Promiſe we may depend upon the fufilling of in its Seaſon, and now it begins to be fulfilled, for it is added, ſaith the Lord who doth this; who doth all theſe Things, ſo the Seventy there, and the Apoſtle here; he ſaith it who doth it, who therefore ſaid it, becauſe he was determin'd to do it, and who therefore doth it, becauſe he hath ſaid it; for tho' with us ſaying and doing are two Things, they are not ſo with God. The Uniting of Jews and Gentiles in one Body, and all theſe Things that were done in order to it, which was here foretold, were (1.) what God did; This was the Lord's doing, whatever Inſtruments were employ'd in it. And (2.) 'Twas what God delighted in, and was well pleas'd with, for he is the God of the Gentiles as well as of the Jews, and it is his Honour to be Rich in Mercy to all that call upon him.

4. He reſolves it into the Purpoſe and Counſel of God, v. 18. Known unto God are all his Works from the Beginning of the World. He not only foretold the Calling of the Gentiles many Ages ago by the Prophets, and therefore it ought not to be a Surprize or Stumbling-block to us, but he fore-ſaw, and fore-ordain'd it in his Eternal Counſels, which are unqueſtionably wiſe, and unalterably firm. 'Tis an excellent Maxim here laid down concerning all God's Works, both of Providence and Grace, in the natural and ſpiritual Kingdom, that they were all known unto him, from the Beginning of the World, from the Time he firſt began to work, which ſuppoſeth his knowing them, as other Scriptures ſpeak, from before the Foundation of the World, and therefore from all Eternity. Note, Whatever God doth he did before deſign and determine to do, for he works all, not only according to his Will, but according to the Council of his Will. He not only doth whatever he determin'd, Pſal. cxxxv. 6. which is more than we can do, our Purpoſes are frequently broken off, and our Meaſures broken: But he determin'd whatever he doth, whatever he may ſay to prove us, He himſelf knoweth what he will do; for it is ſaid, Eph. vi. 6. We know not our Works before-hand, but muſt do as Occaſion ſhall ſerve, 1. Sam. x. 7. What we ſhall do in ſuch or ſuch a Caſe, we cannnot tell, till it comes to the ſetting to: But known unto God are all his Works. In the Volume of his Book (call'd the Scriptures of Truth, Dan. x. 21.) they are all written in Order without any Razure or Interlining, Pſ. xl. 7. And all God's Works will in the Day of Review be found to agree exactly with his Counſels, without the leaſt Error or Variation. We are poor ſhort-ſighted Creatures, the wiſeſt Men can ſee but a little Way before them; and not at all with any Certainty; but this is our Comfort, That whatever Uncertainty we are at, there is an infallible Certainty in the Divine Preſcience, Known unto God are all his Works.

5. He gives his Advice what was to be done in the preſent Caſe, as the Matter now ſtood with Reference to the Gentiles, v. 19. My Sentence is, ἐγὼ κρίνω, I give it as my Opinion, or Judgement; not as having Authority over the reſt, but as being an Adviſer with them. Now his Advice is,

1. That Circumciſion and the Obſervation of the Ceremonial Law be by no Means impos'd upon the Gentile Converts, no, not ſo much as recommended or mention'd to them: There are many from among the Gentiles that are turn'd to God, in Chriſt, and we hope there will be many more. Now I am clearly for uſing them with all poſſible Tenderneſs, and putting no Manner of Hardſhip or Diſcouragement upon them, μὴ παρενοχλεῖν, not to give them any Moleſtation or Diſturbance, or ſuggeſt any Thing to them that may be diſquieting, or raiſe Scruples in their Minds, or perplex them. Note, Great Care muſt be taken not to diſcourage or diſquiet young Converts, with Matters of doubtful Diſputation: Let the Eſſentials of Religion, which an awaken'd Conſcience will readily receive, be firſt impreſs'd deeply upon them, and thoſe will ſatisfy them, and make them eaſy: And let not Thing foreign and circumſtantial be urg'd upon them, which will but trouble them: The Kingdom of God, which they are to be train'd up in, is not Meat and Drink, either the Oppoſition, or the Impoſition of indifferent Things, which will but trouble them, but it is Righteouſneſs, and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghoſt, which we are ſure will trouble no Body.

2. That yet it would do well that in ſome Things which gave moſt Offence to the Jews, the Gentiles ſhould comply with them; becauſe they muſt not humour them ſo far as to be circumcis'd and keep the whole Law, it doth not therefore follow, that they muſt act in a continual Contradiction to them, and ſtudy how to provoke them. It will pleaſe the Jews, (and if a little Thing will oblige them, better do ſo than croſs them) if the Gentile Converts abſtain,

(1.) From Pollutions of Idols, and from Fornication, which are two bad Things, and always to be abſtain'd from, (becauſe in theſe Things the Jews were jealous of the Gentile Converts leſt they ſhould tranſgreſs) would very much gratify the Jews. Not but that the Apoſtles, both in Preaching and Writing to the Gentiles that embrac'd Chriſtianity, were careful to warn againſt, (1.) Pollutions of Idols; That they ſhould have no manner of Fellowſhip with Idolaters in their idolatrous Worſhips, and particularly not in the Feaſts they held upon their Sacrifices. See 1 Cor. x. 14, &c. 2 Cor. vi. 14, &c. (2.) Fornication, and all Manner of Uncleanneſs. How large, how preſſing is St. Paul in his Cautions againſt this Sin, 1 Cor. vi. 9, 15. Eph. v. 3, &c. But the Jews, who were willing to think the worſt of thoſe they did not like, ſuggeſted that theſe were Things which the Gentiles even after Converſion allow'd themſelves in, and the Apoſtles of the Gentiles conniv'd at it. Now to obviate this Suggeſtion, and to leave no Room for this Calumny, St. James adviſeth, that beſides the private Admonitions which were given them by their Miniſters, they ſhould be publickly warn'd to abſtain from pollutions of Idols and from Fornication; that herein they ſhould be very circumſpect, and ſhould avoid all Appearances of thoſe two Evils, which would be in ſo particular a Manner offenſive to the Jews.

(2.) From Things ſtrangled, and from Blood; which tho' not evil in themſelves, as the other two, nor deſign'd to be always abſtain'd from, as thoſe were; yet they had been forbidden by the Precepts of Morals, Gen. ix. 4. before the giving of the Law of Moſes. And the Jews had a great Diſlike to them, and to all thoſe that took a Liberty to uſe them; and therefore to avoid giving Offence, let the Gentile Converts abridge themſelves of their Liberty herein, 1 Cor. viii. 9, 13. Thus we muſt become all Things to all Men.

6. He gives a Reaſon for his Advice, That great Reſpect ought to be ſhew'd to the Jews, for they have been ſo long accuſtom'd to the ſolemn Injunctions of the Ceremonial Law, that they muſt be born with, if they cannot preſently come off from them, v. 21. For Moſes hath of old them that preach him in every City, his Writings (a conſiderable Part of which is the Ceremonial Law) being read, in the Synagogues every Sabbath-Day. You cannot blame them if they have a great Veneration for the Law of Moſes; for beſides that they are very ſure God ſpake by Moſes; (1.) Moſes is continually preach'd to them, and they are call'd upon to Remember the Law of Moſes, Mal. iv. 1. Note, Even that Word of God which is written to us, ſhould alſo be preach'd; thoſe that have the Scriptures, yet have need of Miniſters to help them to underſtand and apply the Scriptures. 2. His Writings are read in a ſolemn religious Manner, in their Synagogues, and on the Sabbath-Day, in the Place, and at the Time of their Meetings for the Worſhip of God; ſo that from their Childhood they have been train'd up in a Regard to the Law of Moſes, the Obſervance of it is a Part of their Religion. 3. This has been done in every City, wherever there are any Jews; ſo that none of them can be ignorant what Streſs that Law laid upon theſe Things. And therefore though the Goſpel hath ſet us free from theſe Things, yet they cannot be blam'd, if they are loth to part with them, and cannot of a ſudden be perſuaded to look upon thoſe Things as needleſs and indifferent, which they and their Fathers before them had been ſo long taught, and taught of God too to place Religion in. And therefore we muſt give them Time, muſt meet them Half-way, they muſt be born with a While, and brought on gradually, and we muſt comply with them as far as we can without betraying our Goſpel Liberty. Thus doth this Apoſtle ſhew the Spirit of a Moderator, that is, a Spirit of Moderation, being careful to give no Offence either to Jew or Gentile, and contriving as much as may be to pleaſe both Sides, and provoke neither. Note, We are not to think it ſtrange, if People be wedded to Cuſtoms which they have had tranſmitted to them from their Fathers, and which they have been educated in an Opinion of as ſacred; and therefore Allowances muſt be made in ſuch Caſes, and not Rigour us'd.

22 Then pleaſed it the apoſtles and elders, with the whole church, to ſend choſen men of their own company to Antioch, with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas ſirnamed Barſabas, and Silas, chief men among the brethren: 23 And wrote letters by them after this manner, The apoſtles, and elders, and brethren ſend greeting unto the brethren which are of the Gentiles in Antioch, and Syria, and Cilicia. 24 Foraſmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us have troubled you with words, ſubverting your ſouls, ſaying, Ye muſt be circumciſed, and keep the law; to whom we gave no ſuch commandment: 25 It ſeemed good unto us, being aſſembled with one accord, to ſend choſen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul; 26 Men that have hazarded their lives, for the name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. 27 We have ſent therefore Judas and Silas, who ſhall alſo tell you the ſame things by mouth. 28 For it ſeemed good to the holy Ghoſt, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden then theſe neceſſary things; 29 That ye abſtain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things ſtrangled, and from fornication: from which if ye keep your ſelves, ye ſhall do well, Fare ye well. 30 So when they were diſmiſſed, they came to Antioch: and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epiſtle. 31 Which when they had read, they rejoyced for the conſolation. 32 And Judas and Silas being prophets alſo themſelves, exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them. 33 And after they had tarried there a ſpace, they were let go in peace from the brethren unto the apoſtles. 34 Notwithſtanding it pleaſed Silas to abide there ſtill. 35 Paul alſo and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others alſo.

We have here the Reſult of the Conſultation that was had at Jeruſalem about the Impoſing of the Ceremonial Law upon the Gentiles. Much more 'tis likely was ſaid about it than is here recorded; but at length it was brought to a Head, and the Advice which James gave was univerſally approved of, and agreed to, nemine contradicente; and Letters were accordingly ſent by Meſſengers of their own to the Gentile Converts, acquainting them with their Sentiments in this Matter; which would be a great Confirmation to them againſt the falſe Teachers. Now Obſerve here, Firſt, The Choice of the Delegates that were to be ſent with Paul and Barnabas on this Errand: Not as if they had any Suſpicion of the Fidelity of theſe Great Men, and could not truſt them with their Letters; Or, as if they thought thoſe to whom they ſent 'em, would ſuſpect 'em to have alter'd any Thing in their Letter; No, their Charity thought no ſuch evil concerning Men of ſuch try'd Integrity. But,

1. They thought fit to ſend Men of their own Company to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas, v. 22. This was agreed to by the Apoſtles and Elders, with the whole Church, who 'tis likely undertook to bear their Charges, 1 Cor. ix. 7. They ſent theſe Meſſengers, (1.) To ſhew their Reſpect to the Church at Antioch, as a Siſter Church, tho' a younger Siſter, and that they look'd upon it as upon the ſame Level with them; as alſo that they were deſirous further to know their State. (2.) To encourage Paul and Barnabas, and to make their Journey Home the more pleaſant (for 'tis likely they travell'd on Foot) by ſending ſuch excellent Men to bear them Company; Amicus pro vehiculo. (3.) To put a Reputation upon the Letters they carry'd, that it might appear a ſolemn Embaſſy, and ſo much the more Regard might be had to the Meſſage, which was likely to meet with Oppoſition from ſome. (4.) To keep up the Communion of Saints, and cultivate an Acquaintance between Churches and Miniſters that were at a Diſtance from each other, and to ſhew that though they were Many, yet they were One.

2. Thoſe they ſent were not inferior Perſons, who might ſerve to carry the Letters, and atteſt the Receipt of them from the Apoſtles; but they were choſen Men, and chief Men among the Brethren, and qualify them to be the Meſſengers of the Churches. They are here nam'd Judas, who was call'd Barſabas, probably the Brother of that Joſeph who was call'd Barſabas, that was a Candidate for the Apoſtleſhip, chap. i. 23. The Character which theſe Men had in the Church at Jeruſalem, would have ſome Influence upon them that came from Judea, as thoſe falſe Teachers did, and engage them to pay the more Deference to the Meſſage that was ſent by them.

Secondly, The drawing up of the Letters, Circular Letters that were to be ſent to the Churches, to notify the Senſe of the Synod in this Matter.

1. Here's a very condeſcending obliging Preamble to this Decree, v. 23. Here's nothing in it haughty or aſſuming; But (1.) That which ſpeaks the Humility of the Apoſtles, that they joyn the Elders and Brethren in Commiſſion with them; The Miniſters, the ordinary Chriſtians, whom they had adviſ'd with in this Caſe, as they us'd to do in other Caſes. Tho' never Men were ſo qualify'd as they were for a monarchical Power and Conduct in the Church, nor had ſuch a Commiſſion as they had, yet their Decrees run not, We the Apoſtles, Chriſt's Vicars upon Earth, and Paſtors of all the Paſtors of all the Churches, (as the Pope ſtyles himſelf) and ſole Judges in all Matters of Faith; but the Apoſtles and Elders, and Brethren, agree in their Orders. Herein they remember'd the Inſtructions their Maſter gave them, Mat. xxiii. 8, Be not ye call'd Rabbi; for all ye are Brethren. 2. That which ſpeaks their Reſpects to the Churches they wrote to: They ſend to them Greeting, wiſh them Health and Happineſs, and Joy, and call them Brethren of the Gentiles; thereby owning their Admiſſion into the Church, and giving them the right Hand of Fellowſhip, you are our Brethren, tho' Gentiles, for we meet in Chriſt, the Firſt-born among many Brethren, in GOD our common Father. Now the Gentiles are Fellow-Heirs, and of the ſame Body, they are to be countenanc'd, and encourag'd, and call'd Brethren.

2. Here's a juſt and ſevere Rebuke to the judaizing Teachers v. 23. We have heard that certain which went out from us, have troubled you with Words; and we are very much concern'd to hear it. Now this is to let them know, That thoſe who preach'd this Doctrine were falſe Teachers, both as they produc'd a falſe Commiſſion, and as they taught a falſe Doctrine.

(1.) They did a great deal of wrong to the Apoſtles and Miniſters at Jeruſalem, in pretending that they had Inſtructions from them, to impoſe the Ceremonial Law upon the Gentiles, when there was no Colour for ſuch a Pretenſion. They went out from us indeed, they were ſuch as belong'd to our Church, which, when they had a Mind to travel, we gave them perhaps a Teſtimonial of; but as for their urging the Law of Moſes upon you, we gave them no ſuch Commandment, nor had we ever thought of ſuch a Thing, nor given them the leaſt Occaſion to uſe our Names in it: It is no new Thing for Apoſtolical Authority, to be pleaded in Defence of thoſe Doctrines and Practices, which yet the Apoſtles gave neither Command nor Encouragement for.

(2.) They did a great deal of wrong to the Gentile Converts, in ſaying, Ye muſt be circumcis'd, and muſt keep the Law. (1.) It perplex'd them: They have troubled you with Words; have occaſion'd Diſturbance and Diſquietment to you; you depended upon thoſe who told you, If you believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, you ſhall be ſaved; and now you are ſtartled by thoſe that tell you, you muſt keep the Law of Moſes, or you cannot he ſaved; by which you ſee yourſelves drawn into a Snare. They trouble you with Words; Words aud nothing elſe; very Words; Sound, but no Subſtance. How has the Church been troubled with Words, by the Pride of Men that lov'd to hear themſelves talk. (2.) It endanger'd them: They ſubverted their Souls, put them into Diſorder, and pull'd down that which had been built up. They took them off from purſuing pure Chriſtianity, and minding the Buſineſs of that, by filling their Heads with the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, and the Law of Moſes, which were nothing to the Purpoſe.

3. Here's an honourable Teſtimony given of the Meſſengers by whom theſe Letters were ſent.

1. Of Paul and Barnabas, whom theſe judaizing Teachers had oppos'd and cenſur'd, as having done their Work by the Halves, becauſe they had brought the Gentile Converts to Chriſtianity only, and not to Judaiſm. Let them ſay what they will of theſe Men, (1.) They are Men that are dear to us; they are our beloved Barnabas and Paul, Men whom we have a Value for, a Kindneſs for, a Concern for. Sometimes 'tis good for thoſe that are of Eminency to expreſs their Eſteem, not only for the deſpiſed Truth of Chriſt, but for the deſpiſed Preachers and Defenders of that Truth, to encourage them, and weaken the Hands of their Oppoſers. (2.) They are Men that have ſignaliz'd themſelves in the Service of Chriſt, and therefore have deſerv'd well of all the Churches; they are Men that have hazarded their Lives for the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, v. 26. and therefore are worthy of double Honour, and cannot be ſuſpected of having ſought any ſecular Advantage to themſelves; for they have ventur'd their All for Chriſt, have engag'd in the moſt dangerous Services, as good Soldiers of Chriſt, and not only in laborious Services. 'Tis not likely that ſuch faithful Confeſſors ſhould be unfaithful Preachers. They that urg'd Circumciſion, did it to avoid Perſecution. Gal. vi. 12, 13. They that oppos'd it, knew they thereby expos'd themſelves to Perſecution: And which of theſe were moſt likely to be in the Right?

2. Of Judas and Silas; They are choſen Men, v. 25. And they are Men that have heard our Debates, and are perfectly appriz'd of the Matter, and will tell you the ſame Things by Mouth, v. 27. What is of Uſe to us, 'tis good to have both in Writing, and by Word of Mouth; that we may have the Advantage both of Reading and of Hearing it. The Apoſtles refer themſelves to the Bearers for a further Account of their Judgement and their Reaſons; and the Bearers will refer themſelves to their Letters for the Certainty of the Determination.

4. Here's the Direction given, what to require from the Gentile Converts. Where Obſerve,

1. The Matter of the Injunction, which is according to the Advice given by St. James, That to avoid giving Offence to the Jews, (1.) They ſhould never eat any Thing that they knew had been offer'd in Sacrifice to an Idol; but look upon it as (tho' clean in itſelf, yet) thereby polluted to them. This Prohibition was afterwards in Part taken off; for they were allow'd to eat what ever was ſold in the Shambles, or ſet before them at their Friend's Table, tho' it had been offered to Idols, except when there was danger of giving Offence by it; that is, of giving Occaſion either to a weak Chriſtian, to think the worſe of our Chriſtianity, or to a wicked Heathen to think the better of his Idolatry; and in thoſe Caſes 'tis good to forbear, 1 Cor. x. 25, &c. This to us is an antiquated Caſe. (2.) That they ſhould not eat Blood, or drink it; but avoid every Thing that look'd cruel and barbarous in that Ceremony which had been of ſo long ſtanding. (3.) That they ſhould not eat any Thing that was ſtrangled, or dy'd of itſelf, or had not the Blood let out. (4.) That they ſhould be very ſtrict in Cenſuring thoſe that were guilty of Fornication; or marrying within the Degrees prohibited by the Levitical Law; which ſome think is principally intended here. See 1 Cor. v. 1. Dr. Hammond ſtates this Matter thus; The judaizing Teachers would have the Gentile Converts to ſubmit to all that thoſe ſubmitted to, whom they call'd the Proſelytes of Righteouſneſs, to be circumcis'd, and keep the Law: But the Apoſtles requir'd no more of them, than what was requir'd of the Proſelytes of the Gate, which was, to obſerve the ſeven Precepts of the Sons of Noah, which he thinks are here referr'd to. But the only Ground of this Decree being in Complaiſance to the rigid Jews that had embrac'd the Chriſtian Faith, and except in that one Caſe of Scandal, all Meats being pronounc'd free and indifferent to all Chriſtians, as ſoon as the Reaſon of the Decree ceas'd, which at furtheſt was after the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the Obligation of it ceas'd likewiſe. Theſe Things were in a particular Manner offenſive to the Jews, and therefore do not diſoblige them herein for the preſent, in a little Time the Jews will incorporate with the Gentiles, and then the Danger's over.

2. The Manner how it is worded.

1. They expreſs themſelves with ſomething of Authority, that what they wrote might be receiv'd with Reſpect, and Deference paid to it: It ſeemed good to the Holy Ghoſt, and to us, i. e. to us under the Conduct of the Holy Ghoſt, and by Direction from him. Not only the Apoſtles, but others were endu'd with ſpiritual Gifts extraordinary, and knew more of the Mind of God, than any, ſince thoſe Gifts ceas'd, can pretend to; their Infallibility gave an unconteſtable Authority to their Decrees; and they would not order any Thing, becauſe it ſeemed good to them, but that they knew it firſt ſeemed good to the Holy Ghoſt. Or, it refers to what the Holy Ghoſt had determin'd in this Matter formerly: When the Holy Ghoſt deſcending upon the Apoſtles, he endu'd them with the Gift of Tongues, in order to their Preaching the Goſpel to the Gentiles, which was a plain Indication of God's Purpoſe to call them in. When the Holy Ghoſt deſcended upon Cornelius and his Friends upon Peter's Preaching, 'twas plain Chriſt deſign'd the taking down of the Jewiſh Pale, within which they fancy'd the Spirit had been inclos'd.

2. They expreſs themſelves with Abundance of Tenderneſs, and Fatherly Concern.

1. They are afraid of burthening them; We will lay upon you no greater Burthen; ſo far were they from delighting to impoſe upon them, that they dreaded nothing ſo much as impoſing too far upon them; ſo as to diſcourage them at their ſetting-out.

2. They impoſe upon them no other, but neceſſary Things; The Avoiding of Fornication is neceſſary to all Chriſtians, at all Times; The Avoiding of Things ſtrangled, and of Blood, and of Things offer'd to Idols, is neceſſary at this Time, for the keeping up of a good Underſtanding between you and the Jews, and the preventing of Offence; and as long as it continues neceſſary for that End, and no longer, it is enjoyn'd. Note, Church Rulers ſhould impoſe only neceſſary Things; Things that Chriſt has made Duty, and have a real Tendency to the Edification of the Church, and as theſe here, to the Uniting of good Chriſtians. If they impoſe Things only to ſhew their own Authority, and to try Peoples Obedience, they forget that they have not Authority to make New Laws, but only to ſee that the Laws of Chriſt be duly executed, and to enforce the Obſervation of them.

3. They enforce their Order with a Commendation of thoſe that ſhall comply with it, rather than with the Condemnation of thoſe that ſhall tranſgreſs it; They do not conclude, From which if you do not keep yourſelves ye ſhall be an Anathema, ye ſhall be caſt out of the Church, and accurſed, according to the Style of after Councils, and particularly that of Trent; but, from which, if you keep yourſelves, as we do not queſtion, but ye will, ye ſhall do well. It will be for the Glory of God, the Furtherance of the Goſpel, the Strengthening of the Hands of your Brethren, and your own Credit and Comfort. 'Tis all Sweetneſs, and Love, and Good-humour, ſuch as became the Followers of him, who when he call'd us to take his Yoke upon us, aſſur'd us, we ſhould find him meek and lowly in Heart. The Difference of the Style of the true Apoſtles from that of the falſe, is very obſervable; They were for impoſing the Ceremonial Law, were poſitive and imperious, Except ye keep it, ye cannot be ſaved, v. 1. you are excommunicated ipſo facto, and deliver'd to Satan: The Apoſtles of Chriſt that only recommend neceſſary Things, are mild and gentle, From which if you keep yourſelves, ye ſhall do well, and as becomes you; Fare ye well. We are hearty Well-wiſhers to your Honour and Peace.

Thirdly, The Delivering of the Letters, and how the Meſſengers diſpos'd of themſelves.

1. When they were diſmiſs'd, had had their Audience of Leave of the Apoſtles; ('tis probable they were diſmiſs'd with Prayer and a ſolemn Bleſſing in the Name of the Lord, and with Inſtructions and Encouragements in their Work;) They then came to Antioch; They ſtay'd no longer at Jeruſalem, than till their Buſineſs was done, and then came back; and perhaps were met at their Return, by them that brought them on their Way at their ſetting-out; for thoſe that have taken Pains in publick Service ought to be countenanc'd and encourag'd.

2. As ſoon as they came to Antioch, they gather'd the Multitude together, and deliver'd the Epiſtle to them, v. 30, 31. that they might all know what it was that was forbidden them, and might obſerve theſe Orders, which would be no Difficulty for them to do, moſt of 'em having been, before their Converſion to Chriſt, Proſelytes of the Gate, who had laid themſelves under theſe Reſtrictions already: But this was not all, 'twas that they might know that no more than this was forbidden them; That it was no longer a Sin to eat Swines Fleſh, no longer a Pollution to touch a Grave or dead Body.

3. The People were wonderfully pleas'd with the Orders that came from Jeruſalem, v. 31. They rejoyc'd for the Conſolation: And a great Conſolation it was to the Multitude, (1.) That they were confirm'd in their Freedom from the Yoke of the Ceremonial Law, and were not burthen'd with that, as thoſe upſtart Teachers would have had them to be. It was a Comfort to them to hear the Carnal Ordinances were no longer impos'd on 'em, which perplex'd the Conſcience, but could not purify or pacify it. (2.) That thoſe who troubled their Minds with an Attempt to force Circumciſion upon them, were hereby for the preſent ſilenc'd, and put to Confuſion, the Fraud of their Pretenſions to an Apoſtolical Warrant being now diſcover'd. (3.) That the Gentiles were hereby encourag'd to receive the Goſpel, and thoſe that had receiv'd it, to adhere to it. (4.) That the Peace of the Church was hereby reſtor'd, and that remov'd which threaten'd a Diviſion. All this was Conſolation, which they rejoyced in, and bleſſed God for.

4. They got the ſtrange Miniſters that came from Jeruſalem to give them each a Sermon, and more, v. 32. Judas and Silas, being Prophets alſo themſelves, endu'd with the Holy Ghoſt, and call'd to the Work, and being likewiſe entruſted by the Apoſtles to deliver ſome Things relating to this Matter by Word of Mouth, they exhorted the Brethren with many Words, and confirmed them. Even they that had the conſtant Preaching of Paul and Barnabas, yet were glad of the Help of Judas and Silas; The Diverſity of the Gifts of Miniſters, is of Uſe to the Church. Obſerve, What is the Work of Miniſters with thoſe that are in Chriſt; (1.) To confirm them, by bringing them to ſee more Reaſon both for their Faith in Chriſt, and their Obedience to him; To confirm their Choice of Chriſt, and their Reſolutions for Chriſt. (2.) To exhort them to Perſeverance, and to the particular Duties requir'd of them; To quicken them to that which is good, and direct them in it. They comforted the Brethren; ſo it may be render'd, and that would contribute to the comfirming of them; for the Joy of the Lord will be our Strength. They exhorted them with many Words, they us'd a very great Copiouſneſs and Variety of Expreſſion; one Word would affect One, and another Another; and therefore, tho' what they had to ſay might have been ſum'd up in a few Words, yet it was for the Edification of the Church, that they us'd many Words, διὰ λόγου πολλοῦ, with much Speech, much Reaſoning; Precept muſt be upon Precept.

5. The Diſmiſſion of the Jeruſalem Miniſters, v. 33. When they had ſpent ſome Time among them, ſo it might be read, ποιήσαντες χρόνον, having made ſome Stay, and having made it, to good Purpoſe, not having trifled away Time, but having fill'd it up, they were let go in Peace from the Brethren at Antioch, to the Apoſtles at Jeruſalem, with all poſſible Expreſſions of Kindneſs and Reſpect; they thank'd them for their Coming and Pains, and the good Service they had done, wiſh'd them their Health, and a good Journey Home; and committed them to the Cuſtody of the Peace of GOD.

6. The Continuance of Silas, notwithſtanding, together with Paul and Barnabas at Antioch. (1.) Silas when it came to the ſetting to, would not go back with Judas to Jeruſalem; but let him go Home himſelf, and choſe rather to abide ſtill at Antioch, v. 34. And we have no Reaſon at all to blame him for it, tho' we know not the Reaſon that mov'd him to it. I am apt to think the Congregations at Antioch were both more large, and more lively, than thoſe at Jeruſalem, and that tempted him to ſtay there, and he did well. So did Judas, who notwithſtanding this, returned to his Poſt of Service at Jeruſalem. (2.) Paul and Barnabas, tho' their Work lay chiefly among the Gentiles, yet continued for ſome Time in Antioch, being pleas'd with the Society of the Miniſters and People there, which it ſhould ſeem by divers Paſſages, was more than ordinarily inviting. They continu'd there, not to take their Pleaſure, but Teaching and Preaching the Word of GOD. Antioch being the chief City of Syria, 'tis likely there was a great Reſort of Gentiles thither from all Parts, upon one Account or other, as there was of Jews to Jeruſalem; ſo that in Preaching there, they did in Effect preach to many Nations; for they preach'd to thoſe who would carry the Report of what they preach'd to many Nations, and thereby prepare 'em for the Apoſtles coming in Perſon to preach to them: And thus they were not idle at Antioch, but were ſerving their main Intention. (3.) There were many others alſo there, labouring at the ſame Oar. The Multitude of Workmen in Chriſt's Vineyard doth not give us a Writ of Eaſe. Even there where there are many others labouring in the Word and Doctrine, yet there may be Opportunity for us; Others Zeal and Uſefulneſs ſhould excite us, not lay us aſleep.

36 ¶ And ſome days after, Paul ſaid unto Barnabas, Let us go again, and viſit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and ſee how they do. 37 And Barnabas determined to take with them John, whoſe ſirname was Mark. 38 But Paul thought not good to take him with them, who departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work. 39 And the contention was ſo ſharp between them, that they departed aſunder one from the other: and ſo Barnabas took Mark, and ſailed unto Cyprus; 40 And Paul choſe Silas, and departed, being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God. 41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches.

We have ſeen one unhappy Difference among the Brethren, that was of a publick Nature, brought to a good Iſſue; but here we have a private Quarrel between two Miniſters, no leſs Men than Paul and Barnabas, not compromis'd indeed, yet ending well.

Firſt, Here's a good Motion Paul made to Barnabas to go and review their Work among the Gentiles, and renew it; to take a Circuit among the Churches they had planted, and ſee what Progreſs the Goſpel made among them. Antioch was now a ſafe and quiet Harbour for them, they had there no Adverſary or evil Occurrent. But Paul remember'd, they only put in there to refit and refreſh themſelves, and therefore begins now to think of putting to Sea again; and having been in Winter-quarters long enough, he is for taking the Field again, and making another Campaign in a vigorous Proſecution of this Holy War againſt Satan's Kingdom. Paul remembers that the Work appointed him, was afar off among the Gentiles, and therefore he is here meditating a ſecond Expedition among them to do the ſame Work, tho' to encounter the ſame Difficulties. And this ſome Days after, for his active Spirit could not bear to be long out of Work; no, nor his bold and daring Spirit to be long out of Danger. Obſerve,

1. To whom he makes this Motion; To Barnabas, his old Friend and Fellow-labourer; he invites his Company and Help in this Work. We have need one of another, and may be many Ways ſerviceable one to another; and therefore ſhould be forward both to borrow and lend Aſſiſtance, Two are better than One. Every Soldier has his Comrade.

2. For whom the Viſit is deſign'd: Let us not preſently begin new Work, or break up new Ground; but let us take a View of the Fields we have ſown; Come, and let us get up early, to the Vineyards, let us ſee if the Vine flouriſh, Cant. vii. 12. Let us go again and viſit our Brethren in every City where we have preach'd the Word of the LORD. Obſerve, He calls all the Chriſtians Brethren, and not Miniſters only; for, Have we not all one Father? He has a Concern for them in every City, even there where the Brethren were feweſt and pooreſt, and moſt perſecuted and deſpis'd; yet let us viſit them. Wherever we have preach'd the Word of the LORD, let us go and water the Seed ſown. Note, Thoſe that have preach'd the Goſpel, ſhould viſit thoſe to whom they have preach'd it. As we muſt look after our Praying, and hear what Anſwer GOD gives to that; ſo we muſt look after our Preaching, and ſee what Succeſs that has. Faithful Miniſters cannot but have a particular tender Concern for thoſe to whom they have preach'd the Goſpel, that they may not beſtow upon them Labour in vain. See 1 Theſſ. iii. 5, 6.

3. What was intended in this Viſit: Let us ſee how they do, πῶς ἔχουσι, how it is with them. 'Twas not merely a Complement that he deſign'd, nor did he take ſuch a Journey with a bare How do you? No; he would viſit them, that he might acquaint himſelf with their Caſe, and impart unto them ſuch ſpiritual Gifts, as were ſuited to it; as the Phyſician viſits his recovering Patient, that he may preſcribe what is proper for the perfecting of his Cure, and the preventing of a Relapſe. Let us ſee how they do, i. e. (1.) What Spirit they are of, how they ſtand affected, and how they behave themſelves: 'Tis probable, they frequently heard from 'em, but let us go ſee them; Let us go ſee whether they hold faſt what we preach'd to them, and live up to it; that we may endeavour to reduce them if we find them wandering, to confirm them if we find them wavering, and to comfort them if we find them ſteddy. (2.) What State they are in; Whether the Churches have Reſt and Liberty; Or, whether they are not in Trouble or Diſtreſs, that we may rejoyce with them, if they rejoyce, and caution them againſt Security; and may weep with them, if they weep, and comfort them under the Croſs, and may know the better how to pray for them.

Secondly, The Diſagreement between Paul and Barnabas about an Aſſiſtant: It was convenient to have a young Man with them that ſhould attend on them, and miniſter to them, and be a Witneſs of their Doctrine, manner of Life, and Patience, and that ſhould be fitted and train'd up for further Service, by being occaſionally employ'd in the preſent Service. Now

1. Barnabas would have his Nephew John, whoſe Sir-name was Mark, to go along with them, v. 37. he determin'd to take him, becauſe he was his Relation, and 'tis likely was brought up under him, and he had a Kindneſs for him, and was ſollicitous for his Welfare. We ſhould ſuſpect our ſelves of Partiality, and guard againſt it, in preferring our Relations.

2. Paul oppos'd it, v. 38. He thought not good to take him with them, οὐκ ἠξίου, He did not think him worthy of the Honour, nor fit for the Service, who had departed from them, clandeſtinely, as it ſhould ſeem, without their Knowledge, or wilfully without their Conſent, from Pamphylia, chap. xiii. 13. and went not with them to the Work, either becauſe he was lazy, and would not take the Pains that muſt be taken; or cowardly, and would not run the Hazard. He runs his Colours juſt as they were going to engage. 'Tis probable he promis'd very fair now, That he would not do ſo again: But Paul thought it was not fit he ſhould be thus honour'd, who had forfeited his Reputation; nor thus employ'd, who had betray'd his Truſt; at leaſt, not till he had been longer try'd. If a Man deceive me once, 'tis his Fault; but if twice, 'tis my own, for truſting him. Solomon ſaith, That Confidence in an unfaithful Man in Time of Trouble, is like a broken Tooth, and a Foot out of joint, which will hardly be us'd again, Prov. xxv. 19.

Thirdly, The Iſſue of this Diſagreement: It came to ſuch a Height, that they parted upon it. The Contention, the Paroxyſm, ſo the Word is, the Fit of Paſſion which this threw them both into, was ſo ſharp, that they departed aſunder one from the other; Barnabas was peremptory, that he would not go with Paul unleſs they took John Mark with them; Paul was as peremptory, that he would not go if John did go with them: Neither would yield, and therefore there is no Remedy, but they muſt part. Now here is that which is very humbling, and juſt Matter of Lamentation, and yet very inſtructive. For we ſee,

1. That the beſt of Men, are but Men, ſubject to like Paſſions as we are; as theſe two good Men had expreſly own'd concerning themſelves, chap. xiv. 15. and now it appear'd too true. I doubt there was (as uſually there is in ſuch Contentions) a Fault on both Sides: Perhaps Paul was too ſevere upon the young Man, and did not allow his Fault the Extenuation it was capable of, did not conſider what a uſeful Woman his Mother was in Jeruſalem, chap. xii. 12. nor make the Allowances he might have made to Barnabas's natural Affection: But it was Barnabas's Fault that he took that into Conſideration, in a Caſe wherein the Intereſt of Chriſt's Kingdom was concern'd, and indulg'd it too much. And they were certainly both in Fault to be ſo hot, as to let the Contention be ſharp, 'tis to be fear'd they gave one another ſome hard Words: As alſo to be ſo ſtiff, as each to ſtick ſo reſolutely to his Opinion, and neither to yield. 'Twas pity they did not refer the Matter to a third Perſon; or that ſome Friend did not interpoſe, to prevent its coming to an open Rupture. Is there never a wiſe Man among them to interpoſe his good Offices, and to accommodate the Matter, and to put them in Mind of the Canaanite and the Perizite that were now in the Land; and that not only Jews and Heathens, but the falſe Brethren among themſelves, would warm their Hands at the Flames of this Contention between Paul and Barnabas. We muſt own it was their Infirmity, and is recorded for our Admonition; not that we muſt make uſe of it to excuſe our own intemperate Heats and Paſſions, or to rebate the Edge of our Sorrow and Shame for them; we muſt not ſay, What! if I was in a Paſſion; were not Paul and Barnabas ſo? No; but it muſt check our Cenſures of others, and moderate them. If good Men are ſoon put into a Paſſion, we muſt make the beſt of it; it was the Infirmity once of two of the beſt Men that ever the World had! Repentance teaches us to be ſevere in Reflections upon ourſelves; but Charity teaches us to be candid in our Reflections upon others. 'Tis only Chriſt's Example, that is a Copy without a blot.

2. That we are not to think it ſtrange, if there be Differences among wiſe and good Men: We are told before that ſuch Offences will come, and here's an Inſtance of it. Even they that are united to one and the ſame Jeſus, and ſanctify'd by one and the ſame Spirit, yet have different Apprehenſions, different Opinions, different Views, and different Sentiments in Point of Prudence. It will be ſo, while we are in this State of Darkneſs and Imperfection; we ſhall never be all of a Mind till we come to Heaven, where Light and Love are perfect. That's Charity which never fails.

3. That theſe Differences often prevail ſo far, as to occaſion Separations. Paul and Barnabas that were not ſeparated by the Perſecutions of the unbelieving Jews, nor the Impoſitions of the believing Jews, yet were ſeperated by an unhappy Diſagreement between themſelves. O the Miſchief that even the poor and weak Remainders of Pride and Paſſion, that are found even in good Men, do in the World, do in the Church, no Wonder the Conſequences are ſo fatal where they reign.

Fourthly, The Good that was brought out of this Evil. Meat out of the Eater, and Sweetneſs out of the Strong. 'Twas ſtrange that even the Sufferings of the Apoſtles (as Phil. i. 12.) but much more ſtrange, that even the Quarrels of the Apoſtles ſhould tend to the Furtherance of the Goſpel of Chriſt; yet ſo it prov'd here. God would not permit ſuch Things to be, if he knew not how to make them ſerve his own Purpoſes.

1. More Places are hereby viſited. Barnabas went one Way, he ſail'd to Cyprus, v. 39. that famous Iſland where they began their Work, chap. xiii. 4. and which was his own Country, chap. iv. 36. Paul went another Way, into Cilicia, which was his own Country, Acts xx. 39. Each ſeem to be influenc'd by their Affection to their Native Soil, as uſual (Neſcio quâ natale ſolum dulcedine cunctos Ducit--) and yet God ſerv'd his own Purpoſes by it, for the diffuſing of Goſpel Light.

2. More Hands are hereby employ'd in the Miniſtry of the Goſpel among the Gentiles: For (1.) John Mark that had been an unfaithful Hand, is not rejected, but is again made uſe of againſt Paul's Mind, and for ought we know proves a very uſeful and ſucceſsful Hand; tho' many think it was not the ſame, with that Mark that wrote the Goſpel, and founded the Church at Alexandria, that was he whom Peter calls his Son, 1 Pet. v. 14. (2.) Silas that was a new Hand, and never yet employ'd in that Work, nor deſign'd to be, but to return to the Service of the Church in Jeruſalem, had not God changed his Mind, v. 33, 34. he is brought in, and engag'd in this noble Work.

We may further obſerve,

1. That the Church at Antioch ſeem'd to countenance Paul in what he did: Barnabas ſail'd with his Nephew to Cyprus, and no Notice was taken of him, nor a Benè diſceſſit given him. Note, Thoſe that in their Service of the Church are ſway'd by private Affections and Regards, forfeit publick Hononrs and Reſpects. But when Paul departed, he was recommended by the Brethren to the Grace of God. They thought he was in the right in refuſing to make uſe of John Mark, and could not but blame Barnabas for inſiſting upon it, tho' he was One who had deſerv'd well of the Church, ch. xi. 22. before they knew Paul. And therefore they pray'd publickly for Paul, and for the Succeſs of his Miniſtry, encourag'd him to go on in his Work; and tho' they could do nothing themſelves to further him, they transfer'd the Matter to the Grace of God, leaving it to that Grace, both to work upon him, and to work with him. Note, Thoſe are happy at all Times, and eſpecially in Times of Diſagreement and Contention, who are enabled ſo to carry themſelves as not to forfeit their Intereſt in the Love and Prayers of good People.

2. That yet Paul afterwards ſeem'd to have had, tho' not upon ſecond Thoughts, yet upon farther Trial, a better Opinion of John Mark than now he had; for he writes to Timothy, 2 Tim. iv. 11. Take Mark and bring him with thee, for he is profitable to me for the Miniſtry. And writes to the Coloſſians concerning Marcus Siſter's Son to Barnabas that if he came to them, they ſhould receive him, bid him welcome, and employ him, Col. iv. 10. Which teacheth us, (1.) That even thoſe whom we juſtly condemn, yet we ſhould do it moderately, and with a great deal of Temper, becauſe we know not but afterwards we may ſee Cauſe to think better of them, and both to make uſe of them, and make Friendſhip with them; and we ſhould ſo regulate our Reſentments, as that if it ſhould prove ſo, we may not afterwards be aſham'd of them. (2.) That even thoſe whom we have juſtly condemn'd, if afterwards they prove more faithful, we ſhould chearfully receive, forgive and forget, and put a Confidence in, and as there is Occaſion, give a good Word to.

3. That Paul tho' he wanted his old Friend and Companion in the Kingdom and Patience of Jeſus Chriſt, yet went on chearfully in his Work, v. 41. He went through Syria and Cilicia, Countries which lay next to Antioch, confirming the Churches. Tho' we change our Collegues, we do not change our principal Preſidents. And obſerve, Miniſters are well employ'd and ought to think themſelves ſo, and be ſatisfy'd when they are made uſe of in confirming thoſe that believe, as well as in converting thoſe that believe not.

CHAP. XVI.

It is ſome Rebuke to Barnabas that after he left Paul, we hear no more of him, of what he did or ſuffer'd for Chriſt. But Paul as he was recommended by the Brethren to the Grace of God, ſo his Services for Chriſt after this are largely recorded, we are to attend him in this Chapter from Place to Place, wherever he came doing Good, either watering or planting, beginning new Work, or improving what was done. Here's (1.) The Beginning of his Acquaintance with Timothy, and taking him to be his Aſſiſtant, v. 1--3. (2.) The Viſit he made to the Churches for their Eſtabliſhment, v. 4, 5. (3.) His Call to Macedonia, (after a Reſtraint he had been under from going to ſome other Places) and his coming to Philippi, the chief City of Macedonia, with his Entertainment there, v. 6---13. (4.) The Converſion of Lydia there, v. 14, 15. (5.) The Caſting of an evil Spirit out of a Damſel, v. 16---18. (6.) The Accuſing and Abuſing of Paul and Silas for it, their Impriſonment, and the Indignities done them, v. 19.---24. (7.) The miraculous Converſion of the Jaylor to the Faith of Chriſt, v. 25---34. (8.) The honourable Diſcharge of Paul and Silas by the Magiſtrates, v, 35--40.

THEN came he to Derbe and Lyſtra: and behold,
a certain diſciple was there named Timotheus, the ſon of a certain woman, which was a Jeweſs, and believed; but his father was a Greek:
2 Which was well reported of by the brethren that were at Lyſtra and Iconium. 3 Him would Paul have to go forth with him, and took and circumciſed him, becauſe of the Jews which were in thoſe quarters:
for they knew all that his Father was a Greek.
4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, that were ordained of the apoſtles and elders which were at Jeruſalem.
5 And ſo were the churches eſtabliſhed in the faith, and increaſed in number daily.

Paul was a ſpiritual Father, and as ſuch an one we have him here adopting Timothy, and taking Care of the Education of many others, who had been begotten to Chriſt by his Miniſtry; and in all he appears to have been a wiſe and tender Father.

Firſt, Here's his taking of Timothy into his Acquaintance, and under his Tuition. One Thing deſign'd in the Book of the Acts is to help us to underſtand Paul's Epiſtles, Two of which are directed to Timothy; it was therefore neceſſary that in the Hiſtory of Paul we ſhould have ſome Account concerning him. And we are here accordingly told,

1. That he was a Diſciple, One that belonged to Chriſt, and was baptiz'd, probably in his Infancy, when his Mother became a Believer, as Lydia's Houſehold was baptiz'd upon her believing, v. 15. He that was a Diſciple of Chriſt, Paul took to be his Diſciple, that he might further train him up in the Knowledge and Faith of Chriſt, he took him to be brought up for Chriſt.

2. That his Mother was a Jeweſs originally, but believ'd in Chriſt, her Name was Eunice, his Grandmother's Name was Lois, Pauls ſpeaks of them both with great Reſpect, as Women of eminent Vertue and Piety, and commends them eſpecially for their unfeigned Faith, 2 Tim. i. 3. There ſincere embracing of, and adhering to the Doctrine of Chriſt.

3. That his Father was a Greek, a Gentile. The Marriage of a Jewiſh Woman to a Gentile Husband, (tho' ſome would make a Difference) was prohibited as much as the Marriage of a Jewiſh Man to a Gentile Wife, Deut. vii. 3. Thou ſhalt no more give thy Daughter to his Son, than take his Daughter to thy Son; yet that ſeems to have been limited to the Nations that liv'd among them in Canaan, whom they were moſt in Danger of Infection from. Now becauſe his Father was a Greek, he was not circumcis'd; for the Entail of the Covenant and the Seal of it, as of other Entails in that Nation, went by the Father, not by the Mother; ſo that his Father being no Jew, he was not oblig'd to Circumciſion, nor entituled to it, unleſs when he grew up he did himſelf deſire it. But obſerve, Tho' his Mother could not prevail to have him circumcis'd in his Infancy, becauſe his Father was of another Mind and Way, yet ſhe educated him in the Fear of God; that tho' he wanted the Sign of the Covenant, he might not want the Thing ſignify'd.

4. That he had gain'd a very good Character among the Chriſtians; He was well reported of by the Brethren that were at Lyſtra and Iconium: He had not only an unblemiſh'd Reputation, and was free from Scandal, but he had a bright Reputation, and great Encomiums were given of him, as an extraordinary young Man, and One from whom great Things were expected. Not only thoſe in the Place where he was born, but thoſe in the neighbouring Cities, admir'd him, and ſpoke honourably of him. He had a Name for good Things with good People.

5. That Paul would have him to go forth with him, to accompany him, to give Attendance on him, and receive Inſtruction from him, and to join with him in the Work of the Goſpel; to preach for him when there was Occaſion, and to be left behind in Places where he had planted Churches. Paul took a great Love to him, not only becauſe he was an ingenious young Man, and One of great Parts, but becauſe he was a ſerious young Man, and One of devout Affections; for Paul was always mindful of his Tears, 2 Tim. i. 4.

6. That Paul took him and circumcis'd him, or order'd it to be done; This was ſtrange! Had not Paul oppos'd thoſe with all his Might that were for impoſing Circumciſion upon the Gentile Converts? Had he not at this Time the Decrees of the Council at Jeruſalem with him, which witneſs'd againſt it? He had, and yet circumcis'd Timothy, not as thoſe Teachers deſign'd in impoſing Circumciſion to oblige him to keep the Ceremonial Law, but only to render his Converſation and Miniſtry paſſable, and if it might be acceptable among the Jews that abounded in thoſe Quarters. He knew Timothy was a Man likely to do a great deal of Good with them, being admirably qualify'd for the Miniſtry, if they were not invincibly prejudic'd againſt him; and therefore that they might not ſhun him as One unclean, becauſe uncircumcis'd, he took him and circumcis'd him. Thus to the Jews, he became as a Jew, that he might gain the Jews, and all Things to all Men, that he might gain ſome. He was againſt thoſe who made Circumciſion neceſſary to Salvation, but himſelf us'd it when it was conducive to Edification; nor was he rigid in oppoſing it as they were in impoſing it. Thus tho' he went not in this Inſtance according to the Letter of the Decree, he went according to the Spirit of it, which was a Spirit of Tenderneſs towards the Jews, and Willingneſs to bring them off gradually from their Prejudices. Paul made no Difficulty of taking him to be his Companion, tho' he was uncircumcis'd; but the Jews would not hear him if he were, and therefore Paul will humour them herein. 'Tis probable that it was at this Time that Paul laid his Hands on Timothy, for the conferring of the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt upon him, 2 Tim. i. 6.

Secondly, Here's his Confirming of the Churches which he had planted, v. 4, 5. He went thro' the Cities where he had preach'd the Word of the LORD, as he intended, chap. xv. 36. to enquire into their State. And we are told,

1. That they deliver'd them Copies of the Decrees of the Jeruſalem Synod, to be a Direction to them in the Government of themſelves, and that they might have wherewith to anſwer the judaizing Teachers, and to juſtify themſelves in adhering to the Liberty with which Chriſt had made them free. All the Churches were concern'd in that Decree, and therefore it was requiſite they ſhould all have it well-atteſted. Tho' Paul had for a particular Reaſon circumcis'd Timothy, yet he would not have that drawn into a Precedent; and therefore delivered the Decrees of the Churches to be religiouſly obſerv'd; for they muſt abide by the Rule, and not be drawn from it by a particular Example.

2. That this was of very good Service to them.

1. The Churches were hereby eſtabliſhed in the Faith, v. 5. They were confirm'd particularly in their Opinion againſt the impoſing of the Ceremonial Law upon the Gentiles: The great Aſſurance and Heat wherewith the judaizing Teachers preſs'd the Neceſſity of Circumciſion, and the plauſible Arguments they produc'd for it, had ſhock'd them, ſo that they began to waver concerning it. But when they ſaw the Teſtimony, not only of the Apoſtles and Elders, but of the Holy Ghoſt in them, againſt it, they were eſtabliſh'd, and did no longer waver about it. Note, Teſtimonies to Truth, tho' they may not prevail to convince thoſe that oppoſe it, yet may be of very good Uſe to eſtabliſh thoſe that are in Doubt concerning it, and to fix them. Nay, the Deſign of this Decree being to ſet aſide the Ceremonial Law, and the carnal Ordinances of that, they were by it eſtabiſh'd in the Chriſtian Faith in general, and were the more firmly aſſur'd that it was of GOD, becauſe it ſet up a ſpiritual Way of ſerving GOD, as more ſuited to the Nature both of GOD and Man; and beſides, that Spirit of Tenderneſs and Condeſcenſion which appear'd in theſe Letters, plainly ſhew'd, that the Apoſtles and Elders were herein under the Conduct of him who is Love itſelf.

2. They increas'd in Numbers daily: The impoſing of the Yoke of the Ceremonial Law upon their Converts, was enough to frighten People from them. If they had been diſpos'd to turn Jews, they could have done that long ſince, before the Apoſtles came among them; but if they cannot be intereſted in the Chriſtian Privileges, without ſubmitting to the Jews Yoke, they'll be as they are. But if they find there is no Danger of their being ſo enſlav'd, they are ready to embrace Chriſtianity, and join themſelves to the Church. And thus the Church increas'd in Numbers daily; not a Day paſs'd but ſome or other gave up their Names to Chriſt. And it is a Joy to thoſe who heartily wiſh well to the Honour of Chriſt, and the Welfare of the Church, and the Souls of Men, to ſee ſuch an Increaſe.

6 Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, and were forbidden of the holy Ghoſt to preach the word in Aſia. 7 After they were come to Myſia, they aſſayed to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit ſuffered them not. 8 And they paſſed by Myſia, came down to Troas. 9 And a viſion appeared to Paul in the night: There ſtood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, ſaying, come over into Macedonia, and help us. 10 And after he had ſeen the viſion, immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia, aſſuredly gathering, that the Lord had called us to preach the goſpel unto them. 11 Therefore looſing from Troas, we came with a ſtraight courſe to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis: 12 And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a colony: and we were in that city abiding certain days. 13 And on the ſabbath we went out of the city by a riverſide, where prayer was wont to be made; and we ſat down, and ſpake unto the women which reſorted thither. 14 ¶ And a certain woman named Lydia, a ſeller of purple of the city of Thyatira, which worſhipped God, heard us: whoſe heart the Lord opened, that ſhe attended unto the things which were ſpoken of Paul. 15 And when ſhe was baptized, and her houſhold, ſhe beſought us, ſaying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my houſe and abide there. And ſhe conſtrained us.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, Paul's Motions up and down to do Good.

1. He and Silas his Collegue went thro'out Phrygia, and the Region of Galatia, where it ſhould ſeem the Goſpel was already planted; but whether by Paul's Hand or no, is not mention'd; 'tis likely it was, for in his Epiſtle to the Galatians, he ſpeaks of his Preaching the Goſpel to them at the firſt, and how very acceptable he was among them, Gal. iv. 13.—15. And it appears by that Epiſtle, that the judaizing Teachers had then done a great deal of Miſchief to theſe Churches of Galatia, and had prejudic'd them againſt Paul, and drawn them from the Goſpel of Chriſt, for which he there ſeverely reproves them. But probably that a was great while after this.

2. They were forbidden at this Time to preach the Goſpel in Aſia, that Country properly ſo call'd, either becauſe it did not need, for other Hands were at work there; or becauſe they were not yet prepar'd to receive it, as they were afterwards, ch. xix. 10. When all they that dwelt in Aſia heard the Word of the Lord. Or, as Dr. Lightfoot ſuggeſts, becauſe at this Time Chriſt would employ Paul in a Piece of new Work, which was to preach the Goſpel to a Roman Colony at Philippi, for hitherto the Gentiles he had preach'd to were Greeks. The Romans were more particularly hated by the Jews than other Gentiles, their Armies were the Abomination of Deſolation, and therefore there is this, among other Things, extraordinary in his Call thither, that he is forbidden to preach the Goſpel in Aſia, and other Places, in order to his Preaching it there; which is an Intimation, that the Light of the Goſpel would in after-Times be directed more Weſtward than Eaſtward. It was the Holy Ghoſt that forbad them, either by ſecret Whiſpers in the Minds of both of them, which when they come to compare Notes, they found to be the ſame, and to come from the ſame Spirit; Or, by ſome Prophets who ſpake to them from the Spirit. The Removes of Miniſters, and the Diſpenſing of the Means of Grace by them, is in a particular Manner under a divine Conduct and Direction. We find an Old Teſtament Miniſter forbidden to preach at all, Ezek. iii. 26. Thou ſhalt be dumb. But theſe New Teſtament Miniſters, are only forbidden to preach in one Place, while they are directed to another where there's more need.

3. They would have gone into Bithynia, but were not permitted, the Spirit ſuffer'd them not, v. 7. They came to Myſia, and as it ſhould ſeem, preach'd the Goſpel there; for tho' it was a very mean contemptible Country, even to a Proverb; Myſorum ultimus, in Cicero, is a moſt deſpicable Man; yet the Apoſtles diſdain'd not to viſit it, owning themſelves Debtors both to the wiſe and to the unwiſe, Rom. i. 14. In Bithynia was the City of Nice, where the firſt General Council was held againſt the Arians; into theſe Countries Peter ſent his Epiſtle, 1 Pet. i. 1. And there were flouriſhing Churches here; for tho' they had not the Goſpel ſent them now, they had it in their Turn, not long after. Obſerve, Tho' their Judgment and Inclination was to go into Bithynia, yet they having then extraordinary Ways of knowing the Mind of GOD, were over-rul'd by them contrary to their own Mind. We muſt now follow Providence, and ſubmit to the Conduct of that Pillar of Cloud and Fire; and what we aſſay to do, if that ſuffer us not, we ought to acquieſce, and believe it for the beſt. The Spirit of Jeſus ſuffer'd them not; ſo many ancient Copies read it. The Servants of the Lord Jeſus ought to be always under the Check and Conduct of the Spirit of the Lord Jeſus, by whom he governs Mens Minds.

4. They paſſed by Myſia or paſſed through it, ſo ſome; ſowing good Seed, we may ſuppoſe, as they went along; and they came down to Troas; the City of Troy, (ſo much talk'd of) or the Country thereabout that took it's Denomination from it. Here a Church was planted; for here we find one in being, Acts xx. 6, 7. and probably planted at this time, and in a little Time. It ſhould ſeem, that at Troas Luke fell in with Paul, and joyn'd himſelf to his Company, for from henceforward, for the moſt part when he ſpeaks of Paul's Journies, he puts himſelf into the Number of his Retinue, we went, v. 10.

Secondly, Paul's particular Call to Macedonia, that is to Philippi the chief City, inhabited moſtly by Romans, as appears, v. 21. Here we have,

1. The Viſion Paul had, v. 9. Paul had many Viſions, ſometimes to encourage, ſometimes, as here, to direct him in his Work. An Angel appeared to him to intimate to him, that it was the Will of Chriſt he ſhould go to Macedonia. Let him not be diſcourag'd by the Embargo laid upon him once and again, by which his Deſigns were croſs'd; for tho' he ſhall not go where he has a Mind to go, he ſhall go where God has Work for him to do. Now Obſerve,

(1.) The Perſon Paul ſaw. There ſtood by him a Man of Macedonia, that by his Habit or Dialect ſeem'd to Paul, who knew it to be a Man of that Country; or told him he was ſo. The Angel, ſome think, aſſum'd the Shape of ſuch a Man; Or, as others think, impreſs'd upon Paul's Fancy, between Sleep and Wake, the Image of ſuch a Man: He dream'd he ſaw ſuch an One. Chriſt would have Paul directed to Macedonia, not as the Apoſtles were at other Times, by a Meſſenger from Heaven, to ſend him hither, but by a Meſſenger from thence to call him thither, becauſe in that Way he would afterwards ordinarily direct the Motions of his Miniſters, by inclining the hearts of thoſe who need them, to invite them. Paul ſhall be call'd to Macedonia by a Man of Macedonia, and by him ſpeaking in the Name of the reſt. Some make this Man to be the Tutelar Angel of Macedonia; ſuppoſing Angels to have charge of particular Places, as well as Perſons, and that ſo much is intimated, Dan. x. 20. where we read of the Prince of Perſia, and Grecia, that ſeem to have been Angels. But there is no Certainty of that. There was preſented either to Paul's Eyes or to his Mind, a Man of Macedonia. The Angel muſt not preach the Goſpel himſelf to the Macedonians, but muſt bring Paul to them. Nor muſt he by the Authority of an Angel order him to go, but in the Perſon of a Macedonian court him to come. A Man of Macedonia, not a Magiſtrate of the Country, much leſs a Prieſt, Paul did not uſe to receive Invitations from ſuch; but an ordinary Inhabitant of the Country, a plain Man, that carry'd in his Countenance Marks of Probity and Seriouſneſs, that did not come to banter Paul, or trifle with him, but in good Earneſt, and with all Earneſtneſs, to importune his Aſſiſtance.

2. The Invitation given him: This honeſt Macedonian prayed him, ſaying, Come over into Macedonia and help us; i. e. Come and preach the Goſpel to us, Let us have the Benefit of thy Labours. (1.) Thou haſt help'd many, we have heard of thoſe in this and the other Country that thou haſt been very uſeful to; And why may not we put in for a Share? O come and help us. The Benefits others have receiv'd from the Goſpel, ſhould quicken our Enquiries, our further Enquiries after it. (2.) It is thy Buſineſs, and it is thy Delight to help poor Souls: Thou art a Phyſician for the Sick, that art to be ready at the Call of every Patient: O come and help us. (3.) We have need of thy Help, as much as any People; we in Macedonia are as ignorant and as careleſs in Religion, as any People in the World are; are as idolatrous and as vicious as any, and as ingenious and induſtrious to ruin ourſelves as any; and therefore, O come, come with all ſpeed among us: If thou canſt do any Thing, have compaſſion on us, and help us. (4.) Thoſe few among us that have any Senſe of Things, and any Concern for their own Souls, and the Souls of Others, have done what can be done by the Help of natural Light: I have done my Part for One, we have carry'd the Matter as far as it will go, to perſuade our Neighbours to Fear and Worſhip God, but we can do little good among them: O come, come thou over and help us. The Goſpel thou preacheſt, hath Arguments and Powers beyond thoſe we have been yet furniſh'd with. (5.) Do not only help us with thy Prayers here, that will not do; thou muſt come over and help us. Note, People have great need of Help for their Souls, and 'tis their Duty to look out for it, and invite thoſe among them that can help them.

2. The Interpretation made of the Viſion, v. 10. They gathered aſſuredly from thence, that the Lord hath call'd them to preach the Goſpel, there, and they were ready to go wherever God directed. Note, We may ſometimes infer a Call of God from a Call of Man. If a Man of Macedonia ſay, Come and help us; from thence Paul gathers aſſuredly, that God ſaith, Go and help them. Miniſters may go on with a great deal of Chearfulneſs and Courage in their Work, when they perceive Chriſt calling them not only to preach the Goſpel, but to preach it at this Time, in this Place, to this People.

Thirdly, Paul's Voyage to Macedonia, hereupon: He was not diſobedient to the heavenly Viſion, but follow'd this divine Conduct much more chearfully, and with more Satisfaction than he would have follow'd any Contrivance or Inclination of his own.

1. Thitherward he turn'd his Thoughts: Now he knows the Mind of God in this Matter, he is determin'd, for this was all he wanted; now he thinks no more of Aſia or Bithynia, but immediately, we endeavour'd to go into Macedonia. Paul only had the Viſion, but he communicated it to his Companions, and they all upon the Credit of that reſolv'd for Macedonia. As Paul will follow Chriſt, ſo all his will follow him, or rather follow Chriſt with him. They are getting Things in Readineſs for this Expedition immediately, without Delay. Note, God's Calls muſt be comply'd with preſently; as our Obedience muſt not be diſputed, ſo it muſt not be deferr'd; do it to Day, leſt thy Heart be harden'd. Obſerve, They could not immediately go into Macedonia; but they immediately endeavour'd to go. If we cannot be ſo quick as we ſhould be in our Performances, yet we may be in our Endeavours, and that ſhall be accepted.

2. Thitherward he ſteer'd his Courſe: They ſet Sail by the firſt Shipping, and with the firſt fair Wind from Troas; for they may be ſure they have done what they have to do there, when God calls them to another Place. They came with a ſtreight Courſe, i. e. a proſperous Voyage to Samothracia, the next Day they came to Neapolis, a City in the Confines of Thrace and Macedonia; and at laſt they landed at Philippi, a City ſo call'd from Philip King of Macedon, the Father of Alexander the Great; 'tis ſaid v. 17. to be (1.) The Chief City of that Part of Macedonia: Or, as ſome read it, the firſt City, the firſt they come to when they came from Troas; ſo that like an Army that lands in a Country, which they deſign to make themſelves Maſters of, they begin with the Reduction of the firſt Place they come to; ſo did Paul and his Aſſiſtants, they begun with the chief City, becauſe if the Goſpel were receiv'd there, it would the eaſier ſpread from thence all the Country over. (2.) It was a Colony: The Romans not only had a Garriſon, but the Inhabitants of the City were Romans, the Magiſtrates at leaſt, and the governing Part. There was the greateſt Numbers and Variety of People, and therefore the moſt Likelihood of doing Good.

Fourthly, The cold Entertainment which Paul and his Companions met with at Philippi. One would have expected that having ſuch a particular Call from God thither, they ſhould have had a joyful Welcome there, as Peter had with Cornelius when the Angel ſent him thither; whereas the Man of Macedonia that begg'd Paul to come thither with all ſpeed, why did he not ſtir up his Countrymen, ſome of them at leaſt, to go meet him, why was he not introduc'd with Solemnity, and the Keys of the City put into his Hand? Here's nothing like that, for

1. 'Tis a good while before any Notice at all is taken of him, we were in that City abiding certain Days, probably at a publick Houſe, and at their own Charge, for they had no Friend to invite them ſo much as to a Meal's Meat, till Lydia welcom'd them. They had made all the Haſte they could thither, but now they are there, are almoſt tempted to think they might as good have ſtay'd where they were. But ſo it was order'd for their Tryal, whether they could bear the Pains of Silence and Lying by, when that was their Lot: Thoſe eminent uſeful Men are not fit to live in this World that know not how to be ſlighted and overlook'd. Let not Miniſters think it ſtrange if they be firſt ſtrongly invited to a Place, and yet look'd ſhily upon when they come.

2. When they have an Opportunity of Preaching it is an obſcure Place, and to a mean and ſmall Auditory, v. 13. There was no Synagogue of the Jews there, for ought appears, to be a Door of Enterance to them, and they never went to the Idol-Temples of the Gentiles, to preach to the Auditors there. But here upon Enquiry they found out a little Meeting of good Women, that were Proſelytes of the Gate, and they will be thankful to them if they will give them a Sermon. The Place of this Meeting is out of the City, there is was conniv'd at, but would not be ſuffer'd any where within the Walls. It was a Place where Prayer was wont to be made, προσευχὴ where an Oratory or Houſe of Prayer was, ſo ſome; a Chapel, or leſſer Synogogue. But I rather take it as we read it, where Prayer was appointed or accuſtom'd to be. They that worſhipped the true God and would not worſhip Idols, met there to pray together, and according to the Deſcription of the moſt ancient and univerſal Devotion, to call upon the Name of the Lord. They each of them pray'd a-part every Day, that was always the Practice of them that worſhipped God. But beſides that, they came together on the Sabbath-Day: Tho' they were but a few, diſcountenanc'd by the Town; tho' their Meeting at ſome Diſtance; tho' for ought appears none but Women; yet a ſolemn Aſſembly the Worſhippers of God muſt have, if by any Means it be poſſible on the Sabbath-Day: And when we cannot do as we would, we muſt do as we can; if we have not Synagogues, we muſt be thankful for more private Places, and reſort to them; not forſaking the Aſſembling of our ſelves together, according as our Opportunities are. This Place is ſaid to be by a River-ſide, which perhaps was choſen, as befriending Contemplation: Idolaters are ſaid to take their Lot among the ſmooth Stones of the Stream, Iſa. lvii. 6. But theſe Proſelytes had in their Eye perhaps the Example of thoſe Prophets who had their Viſions, one by the River of Chebar, Ezek. i. 1. another by the great River Hiddekel, Dan. x. 4. Thither Paul and Silas and Luke went and ſat down to inſtruct the Congregation that they might the better pray with them; they ſpake unto the Women which reſorted thither, encourag'd them in practiſing according to the Light they had, and led them on further to the Knowledge of Chriſt.

Fifthly, The Converſion of Lydia, who probably was the firſt that was wrought upon there to believe in Chriſt, tho' not the laſt. In this Story of the Acts, we have not only the Converſion of Places recorded, but of many particular Perſons, for ſuch is the Worth of Souls, that the reducing of one to God is a great Matter; nor have we only the Converſions that were done by Miracle as Paul's, but ſome that were done by the ordinary Methods of Grace, as Lydia's here. Obſerve,

1. Who this Convert was, that there is ſuch particular Notice taken of; four Things are recorded of her.

(1.) Her Name, Lydia: 'Tis an Honour to her to have her Name recorded here in the Book of GOD, ſo that where-ever the Scriptures are read, there ſhall this be told concerning her. Note, The Names of the Saints are precious with GOD, and ſhould be ſo with us, we cannot have our Names recorded in the Bible. But if GOD open our Hearts, we ſhall find them written in the Book of Life, and that's better, Phil. iv. 3. and more to be rejoy'd in, Luke x. 20.

(2.) Her Calling; She was a Seller of Purple, either of Purple Dye, or of Purple Cloth or Silk. Obſerve, (1.) She had a Calling, an honeſt Calling, which the Hiſtorian takes Notice of to her Praiſe; ſhe was none of thoſe Women that the Apoſtle ſpeaks of, 1 Tim. v. 13. who learn to be idle, and not only idle. (2.) It was a mean Calling, ſhe was a Seller of Purple, not a Wearer of Purple, few ſuch are call'd: The Notice taken of this here is an Intimation to thoſe who are employ'd in honeſt Callings, if they be honeſt in the Management of them not to be aſham'd of 'em. (3.) Tho' ſhe had a Calling to mind, yet ſhe was a Worſhipper of God, and found Time to improve Advantages for her Soul. The Buſineſs of our particular Callings may be made to conſiſt very well with the Buſineſs of Religion, and therefore it will not excuſe us from religious Exerciſes alone and in our Families, or in ſolemn Aſſemblies to ſay, we have Shops to look after and a Trade to mind, for have we not alſo a GOD to ſerve, and a Soul to look after? Religion doth not call us from our Buſineſs in the World, but directs us in it. Every Thing in its Time and Place.

(3.) The Place ſhe was of; of the City of Thyatira, which was a great Way from Philippi: There ſhe was born and bred, but either marry'd to Philippi, or brought by her Trade to ſettle there. The Providence of GOD as it always appoints, ſo it often removes the Bounds of our Habitation; and ſometimes makes the Change of our outward Condition, or Place of our Abode wonderfully ſubſervient to the Deſigns of his Grace concerning our Salvation. Providence brings Lydia to Philippi, to be under Paul's Miniſtry, and there where ſhe met with it ſhe made a good Uſe of it; ſo ſhould we improve Opportunities.

(4.) Her Religion; before the Lord open'd her Heart.

1. She worſhipped God according to the Knowledge ſhe had, ſhe was one of the devout Women: Sometimes the Grace of GOD wrought upon thoſe who before their Converſion were very wicked and vile, Publicans and Harlots; ſuch were ſome of you, 1 Cor. vi. 11. but ſometimes it faſten'd upon thoſe that were of a good Character, that had ſome Good in them, as the Eunuch, Cornelius, and Lydia here. Note, It is not enough to be Worſhippers of GOD, but we muſt be Believers in Jeſus Chriſt; for there is no coming to GOD as a Father, but by him as Mediator. But thoſe who worſhipped God according to the Light, they had ſtood fair for the Diſcoveries of Chriſt and his Grace to them, for to him that has ſhall be given: And to them Chriſt would be welcome; for they that know what it is to worſhip GOD, ſee their need of Chriſt, and know what Uſe to make of his Mediation.

2. She heard us. Here where Prayer was made, when there was an Opportunity the Word was preached; for hearing the Word of GOD is a Part of Religious Worſhip, and how can we expect GOD ſhould hear our Prayers if we will not hearken to his Word. They that worſhipped God according to the Light they had, look'd out for further Light. We muſt improve the Day of ſmall Things, but muſt not reſt in it.

3. What the Work was that was wrought upon her, whoſe Heart the Lord open'd. Obſerve here,

(1.) The Author of this Work, it was the Lord, the Lord Chriſt to whom this Judgment is committed; the Spirit of the Lord who is the Sanctifier. Note, Converſion-Work is GOD's Work; 'Tis he that works in us both to will and to do; not as if we had nothing to do; but of our ſelves without GOD's Grace we can do nothing; not as if GOD were in the leaſt chargeable with the Ruin of them that periſh, but the Salvation of them that are muſt ſaved be wholly aſcrib'd to him.

(2.) The Seat of this Work. 'Tis in the Heart that the Change is made, 'tis to the Heart that this bleſſed Turn is given. 'Twas the Heart of Lydia that was wrought upon. Converſion-Work is Heart-Work; 'tis a renewing of the Heart, the inward Man; the Spirit of the Mind.

(3.) The Nature of the Work; ſhe had not only her Heart touch'd, but her Heart open'd. An unconverted Soul is ſhut up and fortify'd againſt Chriſt, ſtraitly ſhut up as Jericho againſt Joſhua, Joſh. vi. 1. Chriſt in dealing with the Soul, knocks at the Door that is ſhut againſt him, Rev. iii. 20. And when a Sinner is effectually perſuaded to embrace Chriſt, then the Heart is open'd, for the King of Glory to come in. The Underſtanding is open'd to receive the Divine Light, the Will open'd to receive the Divine Law, and the Affections open'd to receive the Divine Love. And when the Heart is thus open'd to Chriſt, the Ear is open'd to his Word, the Lips open'd in Prayer, the Hand open'd in Charity, and the Steps enlarg'd in all Manner of Goſpel Obedience.

3. What were the Effects of this Work on the Heart?

1. She took great Notice of the Word of GOD. Her Heart was ſo open'd that ſhe attended unto the Things that were ſpoken of Paul; ſhe not only gave Attendance on Paul's Preaching, but gave Attention to it. She apply'd to herſelf (ſo ſome read it) the Things that were ſpoken of Paul; and then only the Word doth us good, and makes an abiding Impreſſion upon us when we apply it to ourſelves. Now this was an Evidence, the opening of her Heart, and was the Fruit of it; wherever the Heart is open'd by the Grace of GOD, it will appear by a diligent Attendance on, and Attention to the Word of GOD; both for Chriſt's ſake whoſe Word it is, and for our own ſakes who are ſo nearly Intereſted in it.

2. She gave up her Name to Jeſus Chriſt, and took upon her the Profeſſion of his Holy Religion: She was baptized, and by that ſolemn Rite was admitted a Member of the Church of Chriſt. And with her Houſehold alſo was baptized, thoſe of them that were Infants, in her Right; for if the Root be holy, ſo are the Branches, and thoſe that were grown up, by her Influence, and Authoty. She and her Houſehold were baptized by the ſame Rule that Abraham and his Houſehold were circumcis'd, becauſe the Seal of the Covenant belongs to the Covenanters and their Seed.

3. She was very kind to the Miniſters, and very deſirous to be further inſtructed by them in the Things pertaining to the Kingdom of GOD. She beſought us ſaying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the LORD, if you take me to be a ſincere Chriſtian, manifeſt your Confidence in me by this, Come into my houſe and abide there. Thus ſhe deſir'd an Opportunity (1.) To teſtify her Gratitude to them, who had been the Inſtruments of divine Grace in this bleſſed Change that was wrought upon her. When her Heart was open to Chriſt, her Houſe was open to his Miniſtess for his Sake, and they were welcome to the beſt Entertainment ſhe had, which ſhe did not think too good for thoſe of whoſe ſpiritual Things ſhe had reap'd ſo plentifully. Nay, they are not only welcome to her, but ſhe is extreamly preſſing and importunate with them, ſhe conſtrain'd us, which intimates that Paul was very backward and unwilling to go, becauſe he was afraid of being burthenſome to the Families of the young Converts, and would ſtudy to make the Goſpel of Chriſt without charge, 1 Cor. ix. 18. Acts xx. 34. That thoſe that were without might have no Occaſion given them to reproach the Preachers of the Goſpel as deſigning, ſelf ſeeking Men; and that thoſe that were within might have no Occaſion to complain of the Expences of their Religion. But Lydia would have no Nay, ſhe will not believe that they take her to be a ſincere Chriſtian, unleſs they will oblige her herein; like Abraham inviting the Angels, Gen. xviii. 3. If now I have found favour in thy Sight, paſs not away from thy Servant. (2.) She deſir'd an Opportunity of receiving further Inſtruction. If ſhe might but have them for a While in her Family ſhe might hear them daily, Prov. viii. 34. and not only on Sabbath-Days at the Meeting; in her own Houſe ſhe might not only hear them, but ask them Queſtions, and ſhe might have them to pray with her daily, and to bleſs her Houſehold. Thoſe that know ſomething of Chriſt, cannot but deſire to know more, and ſeek Opportunities of increaſing their Acquaintance with his Goſpel.

16 ¶ And it come to paſs as we went to prayer, a certain Damſel, poſſeſſed with a Spirit of divination met us, which brought her maſters much gain by ſooth-ſaying: 17 The ſame followed Paul, and us, and cried, ſaying, Theſe men are the ſervants of the moſt high God, which ſhew unto us the way of Salvation. 18 And this did ſhe many days. But Paul being grieved, turned and ſaid to the Spirit, I command thee in the name of Jeſus Chriſt to come out of her. And he came out the ſame hour. 19 ¶ And when her maſters ſaw that the hope of their gain was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the market-place, unto the rulers; 20 And brought them to the magiſtrates, ſaying, Theſe men being Jews do exceedingly trouble our city, 21 And teach cuſtoms which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to obſerve, being Romans. 22 And the multitude roſe up together againſt them: and the magiſtrates rent off their cloaths, and commanded to beat them 23 And when they had laid many ſtripes upon them; they caſt them into priſon, charging the jaylor to keep them ſafely. 24 Who having received ſuch a charge, thruſt them into the inner priſon, and made their feet faſt in the ſtocks.

Paul and his Companions, tho' they were for ſome Time bury'd in Obſcurity at Philippi, yet now begin to be taken Notice of.

Firſt, A Damſel that had a Spirit of Divination made them to be taken Notice of, by proclaiming them to be the Servants of God. Obſerve,

1. The Account that is given of this Damſel: She was Pythoniſſa, poſſeſſed with ſuch a Spirit of Divination, as that Damſel was by whom the Oracles of Apollo at Delphos were deliver'd; ſhe was acted by an evil Spirit, that dictated ambiguous Anſwers to thoſe who conſulted her, which ſerv'd to gratify their vain Deſire of knowing Things to come; but oft deceiv'd them. In thoſe Times of Ignorance, Infidelity and Idolatry, the Devil by the Divine Permiſſion, thus led Men captive at his Will; and he could not have gain'd ſuch Adoration from them as he had, if he had not pretended to give Oracles to them; for by both his Uſurpation is maintain'd as the God of this World. This Damſel brought her Maſters much gain by Sooth-ſaying; many came to conſult this Witch for the Diſcovery of Robberies, the finding of Things loſt, and eſpecially, to be told their Fortune; and none came but with the Rewards of Divination in their Hands, according to the Quality of the Perſon, and the Importance of the Caſe. Probably there were many that were thus kept for Fortune-tellers, but it ſhould ſeem this was more in Repute than any of them; for while others brought ſome Gain, this brought much Gain to her Maſters, being conſulted more than any other.

2. The Teſtimony which this Damſel gave to Paul and his Companions: She met them in the Street as they were going to Prayer, to the Houſe of Prayer, or rather to the Work of Prayer there, v. 16. They went thither publickly; every Body knew whither they were going, and what they were going to do. If what ſhe did was likely to be any Diſtraction to them, or a Hindrance in their Work, it is obſerveable how ſubtle Satan is, that great Tempter, to give us Diverſion then when we are going about any religious Exerciſes, to ruffle us, and to put us out of Temper, then when we need to be moſt compos'd. When ſhe met with them ſhe follow'd them, crying, Theſe Men how contemptible ſoever they look, and are look'd upon, are great Men, for they are the Servants of the moſt high GOD, and Men that ſhould be very welcome to us, for they ſhew unto us the Way of Salvation, both the Salvation that will be our Happineſs, and the Way to it that will be our Holineſs.

Now 1. This Witneſs is true; 'tis a comprehenſive Encomium of the faithful Preachers of the Goſpel, and makes their Feet beautiful, Rom. x. 15. Tho' they are Men ſubject to like Paſſions, as we are, and earthen Veſſels, yet (1.) They are the Servants of the moſt high God; They attend on him, are employ'd by him, and are devoted to his Honour as Servants; They come to us on his Errands, the Meſſage they bring is from him, and they ſerve the Purpoſes and Intereſts of his Kingdom. The Gods we Gentiles worſhip are inferior Beings, therefore not Gods, but they belong to the Supreme Numen, to the moſt high God, who is over all Men, over all Gods; who made us all, and to whom we are all accountable. They are his Servants, and therefore it is our Duty to reſpect them, and hearken to them for their Maſter's ſake, and it is at our peril if we affront them. (2.) They ſhew unto us the Way of Salvation. Even the Heathen had ſome Notion of the miſerable deplorable State of Mankind, and their Need of Salvation, and it is what they made ſome Enquiries after. Now, ſaith ſhe, theſe are the Men that ſhew us what we have in vain ſought for in our ſuperſtitious profitleſs Applications to our Prieſts and Oracles. Note, God has in the Goſpel of his Son plainly ſhew'd us the Way of Salvation; has told us what we muſt do that we may be deliver'd from the Miſery to which by Sin we have expos'd our ſelves.

But 2. How came this Teſtimony from the Mouth of one that had a Spirit of Divination. Is Satan divided againſt himſelf? Will he cry up thoſe whoſe Buſineſs it is to pull him down? We may take it either,

1. As extorted from this Spirit of Divination for the Honour of the Goſpel, by the Power of God; as the Devil was forc'd to ſay of Chriſt, Mark i. 24. I know thee who thou art, the Holy One of GOD. The Truth is ſometimes magnify'd by the Confeſſion of its Adverſaries, in which they are Witneſſes againſt themſelves. Chriſt would have this Teſtimony of the Damſel to riſe up in Judgment againſt thoſe at Philippi, who ſlighted and perſecuted the Apoſtles: Tho' the Goſpel needed no ſuch Teſtimony, yet it ſhall ſerve to add to their Condemnation, that the Damſel whom they look'd upon as an Oracle in other Things, proclaim'd the Apoſtles God's Servants. Or,

2. As deſign'd by the evil Spirit, that ſubtle Serpent, to the Diſhonour of the Goſpel; ſome think ſhe deſign'd hereby to gain Credit to herſelf and her Prophecies, and ſo to increaſe her Maſters Profit, by pretending to be in the Intereſt of the Apoſtles, who ſhe thought had a growing Reputation, or to ſpeak Paul fair not to part between her and her Familiar. Others think, Satan who can transform himſelf into an Angel of Light, and can ſay any Thing to ſerve a Turn, deſign'd hereby to diſgrace the

this Time, in this Place, to this People.

Apoſtles, as if theſe Divines were of the ſame Fraternity with their Diviners, becauſe they were witneſſed to by them; and then the People had as good ſtick to thoſe they had been us'd to. Thoſe that were moſt likely to receive the Apoſtles Doctrine, were ſuch as were prejudic'd againſt theſe Spirits of Divination, and therefore would by this Teſtimony be prejudic'd againſt the Goſpel; and as for theſe who regarded theſe Diviners, the Devil thought himſelf ſure of them.

Secondly, Chriſt made them to be taken Notice of, by giving them Power to caſt the Devil out of this Damſel. She continued many Days clamouring thus, v. 15. and it ſhould ſeem Paul took no Notice of her, not knowing but it might be order'd of God, for the Service of his Cauſe, that ſhe ſhould thus witneſs concerning his Miniſters: But finding perhaps that it did them a Prejudice rather than any Service, he ſoon ſilenc'd her, by caſting the Devil out of her.

1. He was grieved; It troubled him to ſee the Damſel made an Inſtrument of Satan to deceive People, and to ſee the People impos'd upon by her Divinations. It was a Diſturbance to him to hear a Sacred Truth ſo prophan'd, and good Words come out of ſuch an ill Mouth, with ſuch an ill Deſign. Perhaps they were ſpoken in an ironical bantering Way, as ridiculing the Apoſtles Pretenſions, and mocking them, as when Chriſt's Perſecutors complemented him with, Hail, King of the Jews: And then juſtly might Paul be griev'd, as any good Man's Heart would be, to hear any good Truth of God baul'd out in the Streets in a canting jeering Way.

2. He commanded the evil Spirit to come out of her. He turn'd with a Holy Indignation, angry both at the Flatteries, and at the Reproaches of the unclean Spirit: And ſaid, I command thee in the Name of Jeſus Chriſt to come out of her. And by this he will ſhew that thoſe Men are the Servants of the Living God, and are able to prove themſelves ſo without her Teſtimony; her Silence ſhall demonſtrate it more than her Speaking could do: Thus Paul ſhews the Way of Salvation indeed, that it is by breaking the Power of Satan, and chaining him up that he may not deceive the World, Rev. xx. 3. And that this Salvation is to be obtain'd in the Name of Jeſus Chriſt only, as in his Name the Devil was now caſt out, and by no other. It was a great Bleſſing to the Country when Chriſt by a Word caſt the Devil out of theſe in whom he frighten'd People, and moleſted them, ſo that no Man might paſs by that Way, Matth. viii. 28. But it was a much greater Kindneſs to the Country, when Paul now in Chriſt's Name caſt the Devil out of One who deceiv'd People, and impoſed upon their Credulity. Power went along with the Word of Chriſt, which Satan could not ſtand before, but was forc'd to quit his Hold, and in this Caſe it was a Strong-hold, he came out the ſame Hour.

Thirdly, The Maſters of the Damſel that was diſpoſſeſs'd made them to be taken Notice of, by bringing them before the Magiſtrates for doing it, and laying it to their Charge as their Crime. And the Preachers of the Goſpel would never have had an Opportunity of ſpeaking to the Magiſtrates, if they had not been brought before them as Evil-doers. Obſerve here,

1. That which provok'd them was, That now the Damſel was reſtor'd to herſelf, her Maſters ſaw that the Hope of their Gain was gone, v. 19. See here what Evil the Love of Money is the Root of: If the Preaching of the Goſpel ruin the Craft of the Silverſmiths, Acts. xix. 24. much more the Craft of the Sooth-ſayers, and therefore here's a mighty Outcry rais'd when Satan's Power to deceive is broken. And therefore the Prieſts hated the Goſpel, becauſe it turn'd Men from the blind Service of dumb Idols, and ſo the Hope of their Gains was gone. The Power of Chriſt which appear'd in diſpoſſeſſing the Woman, and the great Kindneſs done to her in delivering her out of Satan's Hand, made no Impreſſion upon them when they apprehended that they ſhould loſe Money by it.

2. The Courſe they took with them, was to incenſe the Higher Powers againſt them, as Men fit to be puniſhed: They caught them as they went along, and with the utmoſt Fury and Violence drag'd them into the Market-place, where publick Juſtice was adminiſtred. (1.) They brought them to the Rulers, their Juſtices of Peace, to do by them as Men taken into the Hands of the Law, the Duumviri. (2.) From them they hurry'd them to the Magiſtrates, the Prætors, or Governors of the City, τοῖς στρατηγοῖς the Officers of the Army, ſo the Word ſignifies. But 'tis taken in general for the Judges, or chief Rulers; to them they brought their Complaint.

3. The Charge they exhibit againſt them, is, That they were the Troublers of the Land, v. 24. They take it for granted, That they were Jews, a Nation at this Time as much an Abomination to the Romans as they had long ago been to the Egyptians. Piteous was the Caſe of the Apoſtles when it was turn'd to their Reproach that they were Jews; and yet the Jews were their moſt violent Perſecutors. (1.) The general Charge againſt them, is, That they troubled the City, ſow'd Diſcord, and diſturb'd the publick Peace, and occaſion'd Riots and Tumults; than which nothing could be more falſe and unjuſt, as was Ahab's Character of Elijah, 1 Kings xviii. 17. Art thou he that troubleth Iſrael? If they troubled the City, it was but like the Angel's troubling the Water of Betheſda's Pool, in order to Healing; ſhaking in order to a happy Settlement. Thus they that rouze the Sluggards, are exclaim'd againſt for troubling them. (2.) Their Proof of the Charge is, Their teaching Cuſtoms not proper to be admitted by a Roman Colony, v. 21. The Romans were always very jealous of Innovations in Religion; Right or Wrong, they would ſtick to that, how vain ſoever, which they had receiv'd by Tradition from their Fathers. No foreign or upſtart Deity muſt be allow'd of without the Approbation of the Senate; The Gods of their Country, muſt be their Gods, true or falſe. 'Twas one of the Laws of the twelve Tables; Hath a Nation chang'd their Gods? This incens'd them againſt the Apoſtles, that they taught a Religion deſtructive of Polytheiſm and Idolatry, and Preach'd to them to turn from thoſe Vanities. This the Romans could not bear; if this grow upon us, in a little While we ſhall loſe our Religion.

Fourthly, The Magiſtrates by their Proceedings againſt them, made them to be taken Notice of:

1. By Countenancing the Perſecution, they rais'd the Mob upon them, v. 22. The Multitude roſe up together againſt them, and were ready to pull them to Pieces. It has been the Artifice of Satan, to make God's Miniſters and People odious to the Commonalty, by repreſenting them as dangerous Men, and aiming at the Deſtruction of the Conſtitution, and the changing of the Cuſtoms, when really there has been no ground for ſuch an Imputation.

2. By going on to an Execution, they further repreſented them as the vileſt of Malefactors; they rent off their Cloaths with Rage and Fury, not having Patience till they were taken off in order to their being ſcourg'd: This the Apoſtle refers to when he ſpeaks of their being ſhamefully entreated at Philippi, 1 Theſ. ii. 2. They commanded that they ſhould be whip'd as Vagabonds by the Lictors and Beadles, who attended the Prætors, and carry'd Rods with them for that purpoſe; this was one of thoſe three Times that Paul was beaten with Rods, according to the Roman Uſage, which was not under the compaſſionate Limitation of the Number of Stripes not to exceed forty, which was provided by the Jewiſh Law. It is here ſaid, That they laid many Stripes upon them, v. 23. without counting how many, becauſe they ſeem'd vile unto them, Deut. xxv. 3.

Now one would think this might have ſatiated their Cruelty, if they muſt be whip'd, ſure they muſt be diſcharg'd; no, they are impriſon'd, and 'tis probable their preſent purpoſe was to try them for their Lives, and put them to Death, elſe why ſhould there be ſuch care taken to prevent their Eſcape.

1. The Judges made their Commitment very ſtrict: They charg'd the Jaylor to keep them ſafely, and have a very watchful Eye upon them, as if they were dangerous Men, that either would venture to break Priſon themſelves, or were in Confederacy with thoſe that would attempt to reſcue them. Thus they endeavour'd to render them odious, that they might juſtify themſelves in the baſe Uſage they had given them.

The Jaylor made their Confinement very ſevere, v. 25. Having receiv'd ſuch a Charge, though he might have kept them ſafely enough in the outer Priſon, yet he thruſt them into the inner Priſon. He was ſenſible that the Magiſtrates had a great Indignation againſt theſe Men, and were inclin'd to be ſevere with them, and therefore he thought to ingratiate himſelf with them, by exerting his Power likewiſe againſt them, to the uttermoſt. When Magiſtrates are cruel, it is no Wonder that the Officers under them are ſo too. He put them into the inner Priſon the Dungeon, into which none was uſually put but condemn'd Malefactors; dark at Noon-day, damp and cold, dirty, 'tis likely, and ſtinking, like that into which Jeremiah was let down, Jer. xxxviii. 6. And as if that were not enough, he made their Feet faſt in the Stocks. Perhaps having heard a Report of the Eſcape of the Preachers of the Goſpel out of Priſon when the Doors were faſt bar'd, Acts, v. 19. xii. 9. he thought he would be wiſer than other Jaylors had been, and therefore would effectually ſecure them by faſtning them in the Stocks. And they were not the firſt of God's Meſſengers that had their Feet in the Stocks, Jeremiah was ſo treated and publickly too, in the high gate of Benjamin, Jer. xx. 2. Joſeph had his Feet hurt with Fetters, Pſal. cv. 18. O what hard Uſage has God's Servants met with, as in the former Days, ſo in the latter Times, witneſs the Books of Martyrs, Martyrs in Queen Mary's Time.

25 ¶ And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and ſang praiſes unto God: and the priſoners heard them.
26 And ſuddenly there was a great Earthquake, ſo that the foundations of the priſon were ſhaken: and immediately all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were looſed. 27 And the keeper of the priſon awaking out of his ſleep, and ſeeing the priſon-doors open, he drew out his ſword, and would have killed himſelf, ſuppoſing that the priſoners had been fled. 28 But Paul cried with a loud voice, ſaying, do thy ſelf no harm; for we are all here. 29 Then he called for a light, and ſprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas: 30 And brought them out, and ſaid, Sirs, what muſt I do to be ſaved? 31 And they ſaid, Believe on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved, and thy houſe. 32 And they ſpake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his houſe. 33 And he took them the ſame hour of the night, and waſhed their ſtripes; and was baptiz'd, he and all his ſtraitway. 34 And when he had brought them into his houſe, he ſet meat before them, and rejoyced, believing in God with all his houſe.

We have here the Deſigns of the Perſecutors of Paul and Silas baffled and broken.

Firſt, The Perſecutors deſign'd to diſhearten and diſcourage the Preaching of the Goſpel, and to make them ſick of the Cauſe, and weary of their Work; but here we find them both hearty and hearten'd.

1. They were themſelves hearty, wonderful hearty, never were poor Priſoners ſo truly chearful, nor ſo far from laying their hard Uſage to Heart. Let us conſider what their Caſe was: The Prætors among the Romans had Rods carry'd before them, and Axes bound upon them; the Faſces and Secures. Now they had felt the ſmart of the Rods, the Plowers had plowed upon their Backs, and made long their Furrows; the many Stripes they had laid on them were very ſore, and One might have expected to hear them complaining of them, of the Rawneſs and Soreneſs of their Backs and Shoulders; yet this was not all, they had Reaſon to fear the Axes next. Their Maſter was firſt ſcourg'd, and then crucify'd, and they might expect the ſame. In the mean Time, they were in the inner Priſon, their Feet in the Stocks (which ſome think) not only held them, but hurt them; and yet at Midnight, when they ſhould have been trying if poſſible to get a little Reſt, they prayed, and ſang Praiſes to God. (1.) They prayed together; pray'd to God to ſupport them, and comfort them in their Afflictions, to viſit them as he did Joſeph in the Priſon, and to be with them; pray'd that their Conſolations in Chriſt might abound as their Afflictions for him did; pray'd that even their Bonds and Stripes, might turn to the Furtherance of the Goſpel; pray'd for their Perſecutors, that God would forgive them, and turn their Hearts. This was not an Hour of Prayer, but at Midnight; it was not a Houſe of Prayer, but in a Dungeon; yet it was ſeaſonable to pray, and the Prayer was acceptable. As in the Dark ſo out of the Depths, we may cry unto God: No Place, no Time amiſs for Prayer, if the Heart be lifted up to God. They that are Companions in Suffering, ſhould joyn in Prayer; Is any afflicted, let him pray. No Trouble, how grievous ſoever, ſhould indiſpoſe us for Prayer. (2.) They ſang praiſes to God: They praiſed God; for we muſt in every Thing give Thanks. We never want Matter for Praiſe, if we do not want a Heart: And what ſhould put the Heart of a Child of God out of Tune for that Duty, if a Dungeon and a Pair of Stocks will not do it. They praiſed God that they were counted worthy to ſuffer ſhame for his Name; that they were ſo wonderfully ſupported and born up under their Sufferings, and felt divine Conſolations ſo ſweet, ſo ſtrong in their Souls. Nay, they not only praiſed God, but they ſang praiſes to him, in ſome Pſalm or Hymn, or ſpiritual Song, either one of David's, or ſome modern Compoſure, or one of their own, as the Spirit gave them Utterance. As our Rule is, That the Afflicted ſhould pray and therefore being in Affliction they pray'd; ſo our Rule is That the merry ſhould ſing Pſalms, (Jam. v. 13.) and therefore being merry in their Affliction, merry after a godly Sort, they ſung Pſalms. This proves, that ſinging of Pſalms is a Goſpel Ordinance, and ought to be uſed by all good Chriſtians; and that it is inſtituted not only for the expreſſing of their Joys in a Day of Triumph, but for the balancing and relieving of their Sorrows in a Day of Trouble. It was at Midnight that they ſang Pſalms, according to the Example of the Sweet Pſalmiſt of Iſrael, Pſal. cxix. 62. At Midnight will I riſe to give Thanks unto thee. Notice is here taken of one Circumſtance, That the Priſoners heard them. If they did not hear them pray, yet they heard them ſing Praiſes. (1.) It intimates how hearty they were in ſinging Praiſes to God: They ſung ſo loud, that tho' they were in the Dungeon, yet they were heard all the Priſon over: Nay, ſo loud, that they wak'd the Priſoners; for we may ſuppoſe, being at Midnight they were all aſleep. We ſhould ſing Pſalms with all our Heart. The Saints are call'd upon to ſing aloud upon their Beds, Pſal. cxliv. 5. But Goſpel-Grace carries the Matter further, and gives us an Example of thoſe that ſang aloud in the Priſon, in the Stocks. (2.) Tho' they knew the Priſoners would hear them, yet they ſang aloud, as thoſe that were not aſham'd of their Maſter, or of his Service. Shall thoſe that would ſing Pſalms in their Families, plead in Excuſe for their Omiſſion of the Duty, That they are afraid their Neighbours ſhould hear them; when thoſe that ſing prophane Songs, roar them out, and care not who hears them. (3.) The Priſoners were made to hear the Priſon-Songs of Paul and Silas, that they might be prepar'd for the miraculous Favour ſhew'd to 'em all for the ſake of Paul and Silas, when the Priſon-doors were thrown open. By this extraordinary Comfort which they were filled with, it was publiſh'd that he whom they preach'd was the Conſolation of Iſrael. Let the Priſoners that mean to oppoſe him, hear and tremble before him: Let thoſe that are faithful to him, hear and triumph, and take of the Comfort that is ſpoken to the Priſoners of Hope, Zech. ix. 12.

2. God hearten'd them wonderfully by his ſignal Appearances for them, v. 26. (1.) There was immediately a great Earthquake; How far it extended we are not told, but it was ſuch a violent Shock in this Place, that the very Foundations of the Priſon were ſhaken. While the Priſoners were hearkening to the Midnight Devotions of Paul and Silas, and perhaps laughing at 'em, and making a Jeſt of them, this Earthquake would ſtrike a Terror upon 'em, and convince 'em, that thoſe Men were the Favourites of Heaven, and ſuch as God own'd. We had the Houſe of Prayer ſhaken in Anſwer to Prayer, and as a Token of God's Acceptance of it, chap. iv. 31. and hear the Priſon ſhaken. The LORD was in theſe Earthquakes to ſhew his Rentſentment of the Indignities done to his Servants, and to teſtify to thoſe whoſe Confidence is in the Earth, the Weakneſs and Inſtability of that which they confide in, and to teach his People, That tho' the Earth be remov'd, yet they need not fear. (2.) The Priſon-Doors were thrown open, and the Priſoners Fetters were knock'd off, every Man's bands were looſed. Perhaps the Priſoners when they hear'd Paul and Silas pray and ſing Pſalms, admir'd them, and ſpake honourably of them, and ſaid what the Damſel had ſaid of them; Surely, theſe Men are the Servants of the Living God, and to recompence them for, and confirm them in their good Opinion of them, they ſhare in the Miracle and have their Bands looſed; as afterwards God gave to Paul, all thoſe that were in the Ship with him, chap. xxvii. 24. ſo now he gave him all thoſe that were in the Priſon with him. God hereby ſignify'd to thoſe Priſoners, (as Grotius obſerves) that the Apoſtles in Preaching the Goſpel were publick Bleſſings to Mankind as they proclaim'd Liberty to the Captives, and the opening of the Priſon-Doors to them that were bound, Iſa. lxi. 1. Et per eos ſolvi animorum vincula.

Secondly, The Perſecutors deſign'd to ſtop the Progreſs of the Goſpel, that no more might embrace it; thus they hoped to ruin the Meeting by the River-ſide, that no more Hearts ſhould be open'd there; but here we find Converts made in the Priſon, that Houſe turn'd into a Meeting, the Trophies of the Goſpel's Victories erected there, and the Jaylor, their own Servant, become a Servant of Chriſt. 'Tis probable, ſome of the Priſoners, if not all, were converted. Surely the Miracle wrought on their Bodies, in looſing their Bands, was wrought on their Souls too. See Job xxxvi. 8, 9, 13. Pſal. cvii. 14, 15. But it is only the Converſion of the Jaylor that is recorded.

1. He is afraid he ſhall loſe his Life, and Paul makes him eaſy as to that Care, v. 27, 28.

(1.) He awoke out of his Sleep: 'Tis likely the Shock of the Earthquake wak'd him, and the Opening of the Priſon-Doors, and the Priſoners Expreſſions of Joy and Amazement, when in the Dark they found their Bands looſed, and call'd to tell one another what they felt. This was enough to wake the Jaylor, whoſe Place requir'd that he ſhould not be hard to wake. This waking of him out of his Sleep, ſignifyed the awaking of his Conſcience out of his ſpiritual Slumber: The Call of the Goſpel is, Awake thou that ſleepeſt, Eph. v. 14. Like that, Jonah i. 6.

(2.) He ſaw the Priſon-Doors open, and ſuppos'd, as well he might, that the Priſoners were fled, and then, What would become of him? He knew the Roman Law in that Caſe, and it was executed not long ago upon the Keepers, out of whoſe Hands Peter eſcap'd, chap. xii. 19. 'Twas according to that of the Prophet, 1 Kings xx. 39, 42. Keep this Man, if he be miſſing, thy Life ſhall go for his Life. The Roman Lawyers after this, in their Readings upon the Law De Cuſtodia reorum, which appoints, That the Keeper ſhould undergo the ſame Puniſhment that ſhould be inflicted on the Priſoner, if he let him eſcape, take Care to except an Eſcape by Miracle.

(3.) In his Fright he drew his Sword, and was going to kill himſelf, to prevent a more terrible Death, an expected one, a pompous, ignominious Death, which he knew he was liable to for letting his Priſoners eſcape, and not looking better to them; and the extraordinary ſtrict Charge which the Magiſtrates gave him concerning Paul and Silas, made him conclude, they would be very ſevere upon him if they were gone. The Philoſophers generally allow'd Self-murder; Seneca preſcribes it as the laſt Remedy which thoſe that are in Diſtreſs may have Recourſe to. The Stoicks, notwithſtanding their pretended Conqueſt of the Paſſions, yielded thus far to them. And the Epicureans, who indulg'd the Pleaſures of Senſe, to avoid its Pains, choſe rather to put an End to it. This Jaylor thought there was no Harm in anticipating his own Death. But Chriſtianity by this proves it ſelf to be of GOD, that it keeps us to the Law of our Creation, revives, enforces and eſtabliſhes that; obliges us to be juſt to our own Lives, and teacheth us chearfully to reſign them to our Graces, but couragiouſly to hold them out againſt our Corruptions.

(4.) Paul ſtop'd him from his Proceeding againſt himſelf, v. 28. He cry'd with a loud Voice, not only to make him hear but to make him heed, ſaying, Do not practice any Evil to thy ſelf, Do thy ſelf no harm. All the Cautions of the Word of God againſt Sin and all Appearances of it, and Approaches to it, have this Tendency, Do thy ſelf no harm: Man, Woman, do not wrong thy ſelf, nor ruin thy ſelf. Hurt not thy ſelf, and then none elſe can hurt thee. Do not Sin, for nothing but that can hurt thee. Even as to the Body, we are caution'd againſt thoſe Sins which do harm to that, and are taught not to hate our own Fleſh, but to nouriſh and cheriſh it. The Jaylor need not fear being call'd to an Account for the Eſcape of his Priſoners, for they are all here. 'Twas ſtrange that ſome of them did not ſlip away when the Priſon-Doors were open'd, and they were looſed from their Bands: But their Amazement held them faſt, and being ſenſible it was by the Prayers of Paul and Silas that they were looſed, they would not ſtir unleſs they ſtir'd; and God ſhew'd his Power in binding their Spirit, as much as in looſing their Feet.

2. He is afraid he ſhall loſe his Soul, and Paul makes him eaſy as to that Care too. One concern leads him to the other, and a much greater: And being hinder'd from haſtening himſelf out of this World, he begins to think if he had purſu'd his Intention, whither Death would have brought him, and what would have become of him on t'other ſide Death: A very proper Thought for ſuch as have been ſnatch'd as a Brand out of the Fire, when there was but a Step between them and Death. And perhaps the Heinouſneſs of the Sin he was running into, help'd to alarm him.

1. Whatever was the Cauſe, he was put into a mighty Conſternation; the Spirit of God that was ſent to convince in order to his being a Comforter, ſtruck a Terror upon him, and ſtartled him. Whether he took care to ſhut the Priſon-Doors again, we are not told; perhaps he forgot that, as the Woman of Samaria, when Chriſt had impreſs'd Convictions on her Conſcience, left her Water-pot, and forgot her Errand to the Well; for he call'd for a Light with all ſpeed, and ſprang in to the inner Priſon, and came trembling to Paul and Silas. Thoſe that have Sin ſet in order before them, and are made to know their Abominations, cannot but tremble at the Apprehenſion of their Miſery and Danger. This Jaylor when he was thus made to tremble, could not apply himſelf to a more proper Perſon than to Paul, for it had once been his own Caſe; He had once been a Perſecutor of good Men, as this Jaylor was; had caſt them into Priſon, as he kept them; and when like him, he was made ſenſible of it, he trembled and was aſtoniſhed; and therefore was able to ſpeak the more feelingly to the Jaylor.

2. In this Conſternation, he apply'd himſelf to Paul and Silas for Relief. Obſerve, (1.) How reverent and reſpectful his Addreſs to them is: He call'd for a Light, becauſe they were in the Dark, and that they might ſee what a Fright he was in. He fell down before them, as One amaz'd at the Badneſs of his own Condition, and ready to ſink under the Load of his Terror becauſe of it; He fell down before them, as One that had upon his Spirit an Awe of them, and of the Image of God upon them, and of their Commiſſion from God. 'Tis likely he had heard what the Damſel ſaid of them, That they were the Servants of the Living GOD, which ſhew'd to them the Way of Salvation, and as ſuch he thus expreſs'd his Veneration for them. He fell down before them to beg their pardon, as a Penitent, for the Indignities he had done them; and to beg their Advice as a Supplicant, what he ſhould do. He gave them a Title of Reſpect, Sirs, κύριοι Lords, Maſters: It was but now, Rogues and Villains, and he was their Maſter; but now, Sirs, Lords, and they are his Maſters. Converting Grace changes Peoples Language of and to good People, and good Miniſters. And to thoſe who are throughly convinc'd of Sin, the very Feet of thoſe are beautiful that bring Tydings of Chriſt, yea, tho' they are diſgracefully faſten'd in the Stocks.

(2.) How ſerious his Enquiry is; What muſt I do to be ſaved? (1.) His Salvation is now his great Concert, and lies neareſt his Heart, which before was the furtheſt Thing in his Thoughts. Not, What ſhall I do to be preferr'd, to be rich and great in the World, but, What ſhall I do to be ſaved? (2.) He doth not enquire concerning others, What they muſt do? but concerning himſelf, What muſt I do? 'Tis his own precious Soul that he is in Care about, let others do as they pleaſe, tell me, What I muſt do, what courſe muſt I take? (3.) He is convinc'd that ſomething muſt be done, and done by him too, in order to his Salvation; that it is not a Thing of Courſe, a Thing that will do itſelf; but a Thing about which we muſt ſtrive, wreſtle, and take Pains. He asks not, What may be done for me? but, what ſhall I do? That being now in Fear and Trembling, I may work out my Salvation, as Paul ſpeaks in his Epiſtle to the Church at Philippi, of which this Jaylor was, perhaps with reſpect to his trembling Enquiry here; intimating, that he muſt not only ask after his Salvation, as he had done; but work out his Salvation with a holy Trembling, Phil. ii. 12. (4.) He is willing to do any Thing; Tell me what muſt I do, and I am here ready to do it. Sirs, put me into any Way, if it be but the right Way, and a ſure Way, tho' narrow and thorny, and up Hill; yet I will walk in it. Note, Thoſe who are throughly convinc'd of Sin, and truly concern'd about their Salvation, will ſurrender upon Diſcretion to Jeſus Chriſt, will give him a Blank to write what he pleaſed, will be glad to have Chriſt upon his own Terms, Chriſt upon any Terms. (5.) He is inquiſitive, what he ſhould do; is deſirous to know what he ſhould do, and asks thoſe that were likely to tell him. If ye will enquire, enquire ye, Iſa. xxii. 11.

They that ſet their Faces Sion-ward, muſt ask the Way thither, Jer. l. 5. We cannot know it ourſelves, but God has made it known to us by his Word, has appointed his Miniſters to aſſiſt us in conſulting the Scriptures; and has promis'd to give his Holy Spirit to them that ask him to be their Guide in the Way of Salvation. (6.) He brought them out to put this Queſtion to them, that their Anſwer might not be by Dureſs or Compulſion, but they might preſcribe to him, tho' he was their Keeper, with the ſame Liberty as they did to others. He brings them out of the Dungeon, in hopes they would bring them out of a much worſe.

3. They very readily directed him what he muſt do, v. 31. They were always ready to anſwer ſuch Enquiries; tho' they are cold, and ſore, and ſleepy, they do not adjourn this Cauſe to a more convenient Time and Place, do not bid him come to them the next Sabbath at their Meeting-place by the River-ſide, and they will tell him, but they ſtrike while the Iron is hot, take him now when he is in a good Mind, leſt the Conviction ſhould wear off; now God begins to Work, it's Time for them to ſet in as Workers together with GOD. They do not upbraid him with his rude and ill Carriage towards them, and his going beyond his Warrant; all this is forgiven, and forgotten, and they are as glad to ſhew him the Way to Heaven, as the beſt Friend they have. They did not triumph over him tho' he trembled; they gave him the ſame Direction they did to others, Believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. One would think they ſhould have ſaid, Repent of thy Abuſing us in the firſt Place: No, that's over-look'd and eaſily paſs'd by, if he will but believe in Chriſt. This is an Example to Miniſters to encourage Penitents, to meet thoſe that are coming to Chriſt, and take them by the Hand; not to be hard upon any for Unkindneſſes done to them; but to ſeek Chriſt's Honour more than their own. Here's the Sum of the whole Goſpel, the Covenant of Grace in a few Words, Believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved, and thy Houſe. Here's,

(1.) The Happineſs promis'd; Thou ſhalt be ſaved; not only reſcu'd from Eternal Ruin, but brought to Eternal Life and Bleſſedneſs. Thou, tho' a poor Man, an Under-Jaylor, or Turnkey, mean and of low Condition in the World, yet that ſhall be no Bar to thy Salvation. Thou, tho' a great Sinner, tho' a Perſecutor, yet thy heinous Tranſgreſſions ſhall be all forgiven thro' the Merits of Chriſt; and thy hard embitter'd Heart, ſhall be ſoften'd and ſweeten'd by the Grace of Chriſt; and thus thou ſhalt neither dye for thy Crime, nor dye of thy Diſeaſe.

(2.) The Condition requir'd; Believe in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. We muſt admit the Record that God hath given in his Goſpel concerning his Son, and aſſent to it as faithful, and well worthy of all Acceptation. We muſt approve the Method God has taken of Reconciling the World to himſelf by a Mediator; and accept of Chriſt as he is offer'd to us, and give up ourſelves to be rul'd, and taught, and ſaved by him. This is the only Way, and a ſure Way to Salvation. No other Way of Salvation but by Chriſt, and no other Way of our being ſaved by Chriſt but by believing in him; and no Danger of coming ſhort, if we take this Way; for it is the Way that God has appointed, and he is faithful that has promis'd: 'Tis the Goſpel that is to be preach'd to every Creature, He that believes ſhall be ſaved.

(3.) The Extent of this to his Family; Thou ſhalt be ſaved, and thy Houſe, i. e. God will be in Chriſt a God to thee and to thy Seed, as he was to Abraham. Believe, and Salvation ſhall come to thy Houſe, as Luke xix. 9. Thoſe of thy Houſe that are Infants, ſhall be admitted into the viſible Church with thee, and thereby put into a fair Way for Salvation: Thoſe that are grown up ſhall have the Means of Salvation brought to them; and be they never ſo many, let them believe in Jeſus Chriſt, and they ſhall be ſaved; they are all welcome to Chriſt upon the ſame Terms.

4. They proceeded to inſtruct him and his Family in the Doctrine of Chriſt, v. 32. They ſpake unto him the Word of the Lord. He was, for ought appears, an utter Sranger to Chriſt, and therefore 'tis requiſite he ſhould be told who this Jeſus is, that he may believe in him, John ix. 36. And the Subſtance of the Matter lying in a little Compaſs, they ſoon told him enough to make his being baptiz'd a reaſonable Service. Chriſt's Miniſters ſhould have the Word of the Lord ſo ready to them, and ſo richly dwelling in them, as to be able to give Inſtructions off-hand, to any that deſire to hear and receive it, for their Direction in the Way of Salvation. They ſpake the Word not only to him, but to all that were in his Houſe. Maſters of Families ſhould take Care that all under their Charge partake of the Means of Knowledge and Grace, and that the Word of the LORD be ſpoken to them; for the Souls of the pooreſt Servants, are as precions as thoſe of their Maſters, and are bought with the ſame Price.

5. The Jaylor and his Family were immediately baptiz'd, and thereby took upon them the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, ſubmitted to its Laws, and were admitted to its Privileges, upon their declaring ſolemnly as the Eunuch did; that they believ'd that Jeſus Chriſt is the Son of GOD; he was baptiz'd, he and all his ſtraightway. Neither he nor any of his Family deſir'd Time to conſider, whether they ſhould come into Baptiſmal Bonds or no; nor did Paul and Silas deſire Time to try their Sincerity, and to conſider whether they ſhould baptize them or no. But the Spirit of Grace work'd ſuch a ſtrong Faith in them, all on a ſudden, as ſuperceded further Debate, and Paul and Silas knew by the Spirit, that it was a Work of God that was wrought in them, ſo that there was no Occaſion for Demur. This therefore will not juſtify ſuch Precipitation in ordinary Caſes.

6. The Jaylor was hereupon very reſpectful to Paul and Silas, as One that knew not how to make amends for the Injury he had done to them, much leſs for the Kindneſs he had receiv'd from them; he took them the ſame Hour of the Night, would not let 'em lie a Minute longer in the inner Priſon: But (1.) He waſhed their Stripes to cool them, and abate the Smart of them; to clean them from the Blood which the Stripes had fetch'd, 'tis probable he bath'd them with ſome healing Liquor; as the good Samaritan help'd the wounded Man by pouring in Oyl and Wine. (2.) He brought them into his Houſe, bid them welcome to the beſt Room he had, and prepar'd his beſt Bed for them. Now nothing was thought good enough for them, as before nothing bad enough. (3.) He ſet Meat before them, ſuch as his Houſe would afford, and they were welcome to it; by which he expreſs'd the Welcome which his Soul gave to the Goſpel. They had ſpoken to him the Word of the Lord, had broken the Bread of Life to him and his Family, and he having reap'd ſo plentifully of their ſpiritual Things, he thought it was but reaſonable that they ſhould reap of his carnal Things, 1 Cor. ix. 11. What have we Houſes and Tables for, but as we have Opportunity to ſerve God and his People with them?

7. The Voice of Rejoycing with that of Salvation was heard in the Jaylor's Houſe: Never was ſuch a truly merry Night kept there before, He rejoyc'd, believing in GOD with all his Houſe: There was none in his Houſe that refus'd to be baptiz'd, and ſo made a Jar in the Harmony; but they were unanimous in embracing the Goſpel, which added much to the Joy. Or, it may be read, He believing in GOD, rejoyced all the Houſe over; πανοικὶ; he went to every Apartment expreſſing his Joy. Obſerve, (1.) His Believing in Chriſt, is call'd Believing in GOD; which intimates that Chriſt is GOD, and that the Deſign of the Goſpel is ſo far from being to draw us from GOD, ſaying, Go ſerve other GODS, Deut. xiii. 2. that it has a direct Tendency to bring us to GOD. (2.) His Faith produc'd Joy; they that by Faith have given up themſelves to God in Chriſt as theirs, have a great deal of Reaſon to rejoyce: The Eunuch when he was converted, went on his Way rejoycing; and here the Jaylor rejoyced. The Converſion of the Nations is ſpoken of in the Old Teſtament as their Rojoycing, Pſal. lxvii. 4. xcvi. 11. For believing, we rejoyce with Joy unſpeakable, and full of Glory. Believing in Chriſt, is Rejoycing in Chriſt. (3.) He ſignify'd his Joy to all about him: Out of the Abundance of the Joy in his Heart, his Mouth ſpake of the Glory of God, and their Encouragement who believed in God too. Thoſe who have themſelves taſted the Comforts of Religion, ſhould do what they can to bring others to the Taſte of them. One chearful Chriſtian ſhould make many.

35 And when it was day, the magiſtrates ſent the Sergeants, ſaying, Let thoſe men go. 36 And the keeper of the priſon told this ſaying to Paul, The magiſtrates have ſent to let you go: now therefore depart, and go in peace. 37 But Paul ſaid unto them, They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being Romans, and have caſt us into priſon; and now do they thruſt us out privily? nay verily, but let them come themſelves and fetch us out. 38 And the ſergeants told theſe words unto the magiſtrates: and they feared when they heard that they were Romans. 39 And they came and beſought them, and brought them out and deſired them to depart out of the city. 40 And they went out of the priſon, and entered into the houſe of Lydia: and when they had ſeen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, Orders ſent for the Diſcharge of Paul and Silas out of Priſon, v. 35, 36.

1. The Magiſtrates that had ſo baſely abus'd them the Day before, gave the Orders; and their doing it ſo early, as ſoon as it was Day, intimates that either they were ſenſible the terrible Earthquake they felt at Midnight was intended to plead the Cauſe of their Priſoners, or their Conſciences had ſmitten them for what they had done, and made them very uneaſy; while the Perſecuted were ſinging in the Stocks, the Perſecutors were full of Toſſings to and fro upon their Bed, thro' Anguiſh of Mind, complaining more of the Laſhes of their Conſciences, than the Priſoners did of the Laſhes on their Backs; and more in haſte to give them a Diſcharge, than they were to Petition for one. Now God made his Servants to be pity'd of them that had carry'd them Captives, Pſal. cv. 46. The Magiſtrates ſent Serjeants, ῥαβδούχους Thoſe that had the Rods, the Vergers, the Tipſtaves, the Beadles, thoſe that had been employ'd in beating them, that they might go and ask them Forgiveneſs. The Order was, Let thoſe Men go. 'Tis probable they deſign'd further Miſchief to them, but God turn'd their Hearts, and as he made their Wrath hitherto to praiſe him, ſo the Remainder thereof he did reſtrain. Pſal. lxxvi. 10.

2. The Jaylor brought them the News, v. 36. The Magiſtrates have ſent to let you go. Some think the Jaylor had betimes tranſmitted an Account to the Magiſtrates of what had paſs'd in his Houſe that Night, and ſo had obtain'd this Order for the Diſcharge of his Priſoners. Now therefore depart. Not that he was deſirous to part with his Gueſts, but as his Priſoners: They ſhall ſtill be welcome to his Houſe, but is glad they are at Liberty from his Stocks. God could by his Grace as eaſily have converted the Magiſtrates as the Jaylor, and have brought them to Faith and Baptiſm, but God hath choſen the Poor of this World, Jam. ii. 5.

Secondly, Paul's inſiſting upon the Breach of Priviledge, which the Magiſtrates had been guilty of, v. 37. Paul ſaid to the Serjeants, They have beaten us openly, uncondemned, being Romans, and have caſt us into Priſon, againſt all Law and Juſtice, and now do they thruſt us out privily? and think to make us amends with that, for the Injury done us? Nay, verily, but let them come themſelves and fetch us out, and own that they have done us wrong. 'Tis probable the Magiſtrates had ſome Intimation that they were Romans, and were made ſenſible that their Fury had carry'd them further than the Law could bear them out; and that was the Reaſon they gave Orders for their Diſcharge. Now obſerve,

1. Paul did not plead this before he was beaten, tho' 'tis probable it might have prevented it, leſt he ſhould ſeem to be afraid of ſuffering for the Truth which he had Preach'd. Tully in one of his Orations againſt Verres, tells of one Ganius, that was order'd by Verres, to be beaten in Sicily, that all the while he was under the Laſh he cry'd out nothing, but Civis Romanus ſum, I am a Citizen of Rome; Paul did not do ſo; he had nobler Things than that to comfort himſelf with in his Affliction.

2. He did plead it after, to put an Honour upon his Sufferings, and upon the Cauſe he ſuffer'd for, to let the World know that the Preachers of the Goſpel were not ſuch deſpicable Men as they were commonly look'd upon to be, and that they merited better Treatment. He did it likewiſe to mollify the Magiſtrates towards the Chriſtians at Philippi, and to gain better Treatment for them, and beget in the People a better Opinion of the Chriſtian Religion; when they ſaw that Paul had a fair Advantage againſt their Magiſtrates, might have brought his Action againſt them, and had them call'd to an Account for what they had done, and yet did not take the Advantage, which was very much to the Honour of that worthy Name by which he was call'd. Now here,

(1.) Paul lets them know how many Ways they had run themſelves into a Premunire, and that he had Law enough to know it. (1.) They had beaten them that were Romans; ſome think Silas was a Roman Citizen as well as Paul; others that doth not neceſſarily follow, Paul was a Citizen, and Silas was his Companion. Now both the Lex Porcia, and the Lex Sempronia did expreſly forbid liberum corpus Romani Civis, virgis aut aliis verberibus cædi. Roman Hiſtorians give Inſtances of Cities that had their Charters taken from them for Indignites done to Roman Citizens; we ſhall afterwards find Paul making uſe of this Plea, chap. xxii. 25, 26. To tell them that they had beaten them that were the Meſſengers of Chriſt, and the Favourites of Heaven, would have had no Influence upon them; but to tell them they have abus'd Roman Citizens will put them into a Fright; ſo common is it for People to be more afraid of Cæſar's Wrath than of Chriſt's. He that affronts a Roman, a Gentleman, a Nobleman, tho' ignorantly, and thro' Miſtake, thinks himſelf concern'd to cry Peccavi and make his Submiſſion: But he that perſecutes a Chriſtian becauſe he belongs to Chriſt, ſtands to it, and thinks he may do it ſecurely, tho' God hath ſaid he that toucheth them toucheth the Apple of his Eye, and Chriſt has warn'd us of the Danger of offending his little Ones. (2.) They had beaten them uncondemned; indictâ causâ, had not allow'd them a fair Hearing, had not calmly examin'd what was ſaid againſt them, much leſs enquir'd what they had to ſay for themſelves. 'Tis a univerſal Rule of Juſtice Causâ cognitâ poſſunt multi abſolvi, incognitâ nemo condemnari poteſt. Chriſt's Servants could not have been abus'd as they have been, if they and their Cauſe might but have had an impartial Tryal. (3.) It was an Aggravation of this that they had done it openly, which as it was ſo much the greater Diſgrace to the Sufferers, ſo it was the bolder Defiance to Juſtice and the Law. (4.) They had caſt them into Priſon, without ſhewing any Cauſe of their Commitment, and in an arbitrary Manner by a verbal Order. (5.) They now thruſt them out privily: They had not indeed the Impudence to ſtand by what they had done, but yet had not the Honeſty to own themſelves in a Fault.

(2.) He inſiſts upon it that they ſhould make them an Acknowledgment of their Error, and give them a publick Diſcharge, to make that the more honourable, as they had done them a publick Diſgrace, which made that the more diſgraceful. Let them come themſelves and fetch us out, and give a Teſtimony to our Innocency, and that we have done nothing worthy of Stripes or of Bonds. 'Twas not a Point of Honour that Paul ſtood thus ſtiffly upon, but a Point of Juſtice, and not to himſelf ſo much as to his Cauſe: Let them come and ſtop the Clamours of the People, by confeſſing that we are not the Troublers of the City.

Thirdly, The Magiſtrates Submiſſion, and the Reverſing of the Judgement given againſt Paul and Silas, v. 38, 39.

1. The Magiſtrates were frighten'd when they were told (tho' it may be they knew it before) that Paul was a Roman. They feared when they heard it, leſt ſome of his Friends ſhould inform the Government what they had done, and they ſhould fare the worſe for it. The Proceedings of Perſecutors have often been illegal, even by the Laws of Nations, and often inhuman againſt the Laws of Nature, but always ſinful and againſt God's Law.

2. They came and beſought them not to take the Advantage of the Law againſt them, but he overlooks the Illegality of what they had done, and ſays no more of it; they brought them out of the Priſon, owning that they were wrongfully put into it, and deſir'd them that they would peaceably and quietly depart out of the City. Thus Pharoah and his Servants that had ſet God and Moſes at Defiance, came to Moſes and bow'd down themſelves to him ſaying, Get thee out, Exod. xi. 8. God can make the Enemies of his People aſham'd of their Envy, and Enmity to them, Iſa. xxvi. 11. Jeruſalem is ſometimes made a burthenſome Stone to them that heave at it, which they would gladly get clear of, Zech. xii. 3. Yet if the Repentance of theſe Magiſtrates had been ſincere, they would have deſir'd them not to depart out of their City, as the Gadarens deſir'd to be rid of Chriſt, but would have courted their Stay, and begg'd of them to continue in their City, to ſhew them the Way of Salvation. But many are convinc'd that Chriſtianity is not to be perſecuted, who yet are not convinc'd that it ought to be embrac'd, or at leaſt are not perſuaded to embrace it. They are compell'd to do Honour to Chriſt and his Servants, to worſhip before their Feet, and to know that he has loved them, Rev. iii. 9. and yet do not go ſo far as to have Benefit by Chriſt, or come in for a Share in his Love.

Fourthly, The Departure of Paul and Silas from Philippi, v. 40. They went out of the Priſon when they were legally Diſcharg'd, and not till then, tho' they were illegally Committed. And then,

1. They took Leave of their Friends: They went to the Houſe of Lydia, where probably the Diſciples had met to pray for them, and there they ſaw the Brethren, or, viſited them at their reſpective Habitations; which was ſoon done, they were ſo few, and they comforted them, by telling them (ſaith an ancient Greek Commentary) what God had done for them, and how he had own'd them in the Priſon. They encourag'd them to keep cloſe to Chriſt, and hold faſt the Profeſſion of their Faith, whatever Difficulties they might meet with, aſſuring them that all would then end well, everlaſtingly well: Young Converts ſhould have a great deal ſaid to them to comfort them, for the Joy of the Lord will be very much their Strength.

2. They quitted the Town; they departed. I wonder they ſhould do ſo; for now they had had ſuch an honourable Diſcharge from their Impriſonment, ſure they might have gone on at leaſt for ſome Time in their Work without Danger; but I ſuppoſe they went away upon that Principle of their Maſter's, Mark, i. 38. Let us go into the next Towns that I may preach there alſo, for therefore came I forth. Paul and Silas had an extraordinary Call to Philippi, and yet when they were come there they ſee little of the Fruit of their Labours, and are ſoon driven thence: But yet they did not come in vain; tho' the Beginnings here were ſmall, the latter End greatly encreas'd. Now they laid the Foundation of a Church at Philippi which became very eminent; had its Biſhops and Deacons, and People that were more generous to Paul than any other Church, as appears by his Epiſtle to the Philippians, chap. i. 1. iv. 15. Let not Miniſters be diſcourag'd, tho' they ſee not the Fruit of their Labours preſently: The Seed ſown ſeems to be loſt under the Clods, but it ſhall come up again in a plentiful Harveſt in due Time.

CHAP. XVII.

We have here a further Account of the Travels of Paul, and his Services and Sufferings for Chriſt. He was not like a Candle upon a Table, that gives Light only to one Room, but like the Sun that goes its Circuit to give Light to many. He was call'd into Macedonia, a large Kingdom, chap. xvi. 9. He began with Philippi, becauſe it was the firſt City he came too: But he muſt not confine himſelf to that. We have him here (1.) Preaching and Perſecuted at Theſſalonica, another City of Macedonia, v. 1--9. (2.) Preaching at Berea, where he met with an encouraging Auditory, but was driven thence alſo by Perſecution, v. 10--15. (3.) Diſputing at Athens, the famous Univerſity of Greece, v. 16—21: and the Account he gave of Natural Religion, for the Conviction of thoſe that were addicted to Polytheiſm, and Idolatry, and to lead them to the Chriſtian Religion, v. 22--31. together with the Succeſs of this Sermon, v. 32—34.

NOW when they had paſſed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Theſſalonica, where was a ſynagogue of the Jews. 2 And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three ſabbath-days reaſoned with them out of the Scriptures, 3 Opening and alledging that Chriſt muſt needs have ſuffered, and riſen again from the dead: and that this Jeſus whom I preach unto you is Chriſt. 4 And ſome of them believed, and conſorted with Paul and Silas: and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few. 5 ¶ But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows of the baſer ſort, and gathered a company, and ſet all the city on an uprore, and aſſaulted the houſe of Jaſon, and ſought to bring them out to the people. 6 And when they found them not, they drew Jaſon, and certain brethren, unto the rulers of the city, crying, Theſe that have turned the world upſide down, are come hither alſo; 7 Whom Jaſon hath received: and theſe all do contrary to the decrees of Ceſar, ſaying, that there is another king, one Jeſus. 8 And they troubled the people, and the rulers of the city, when they heard theſe things. 9 And when they had taken ſecurity of Jaſon, and of the other, they let them go.

Paul's two Epiſtles to the Theſſalonians, the two firſt he wrote by Inſpiration, give ſuch a ſhining Character of that Church, that we cannot but be glad here in the Hiſtory to meet with an Account of the firſt Founding of the Church there.

Firſt, Here is Paul's Coming to Theſſalonica, which was the chief City of this Country, call'd at this Day Salonichi, in the Turks Dominions. Obſerve,

1. Paul went on with his Work, notwithſtanding the ill Uſage he had met with at Philippi; He did not fail, nor was diſcourag'd. He takes Notice of this in his firſt Epiſtle to the Church here, 1 Theſ. ii. 2. After we were ſhamefully intreated at Philippi, yet we were bold in our God to ſpeak unto you the Goſpel of God. The Oppoſition and Perſecution that he met with, made him the more reſolute. None of theſe Things mov'd him; He could never have held out, and held on as he did, if he had not been animated by a Spirit of Power from on high.

2. He did but paſs through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, the former a City near Philippi, the latter near Theſſalonica: Doubtleſs he was under Divine Direction, and was told by the Spirit, who, as the Wind, blows where he liſteth, what Places he ſhould paſs thro' and what he ſhould reſt in. Apollonia was a City of Illyricum, which ſome think illuſtrates that of Paul, that he had preached the Goſpel from Jeruſalem, and round about unto Illyricum, Rom. xv. 9. i. e. to the Borders of Illyricum, where he now was: And we may ſuppoſe tho' he be ſaid only to paſs through theſe Cities, yet that he ſtay'd ſo long in them as to publiſh the Goſpel there, and to prepare the Way for the Entrance of other Miniſters among them, whom he would afterwards ſend.

Secondly, His Preaching to the Jews firſt, in their Synagogue at Theſſalonica. He found a Synagogue of the Jews there, v. 1. which intimates that one Reaſon why he paſſed through thoſe other Cities mention'd, and did not continue long in them was, becauſe there were no Synagogues in them. But finding one in Theſſalonica, by it he made his Entry.

1. It was always his Manner to begin with the Jews; to make them the firſt Offer of the Goſpel, and not to turn to the Gentiles till they had refus'd it, that their Mouths might be ſtop'd from clamouring againſt him becauſe he preach'd to the Gentiles; for if they received the Goſpel, they ſhould chearfully embrace the new Converts; if they refus'd it, they might thank themſelves if the Apoſtles carry'd it to thoſe that would bid it welcome. That Command of beginning at Jeruſalem was juſtly conſtrued as a Direction where-ever they came to begin with the Jews.

2. He met them in their Synagogue on the Sabbath-Day, in their Place and at their Time of Meeting, and thus he would pay Reſpect to both. Sabbaths and ſolemn Aſſemblies are always very precious to thoſe to whom Chriſt is precious, Pſal. lxxxiv. 10. 'Tis good being in the Houſe of the Lord, on this Day. This was Chriſt's Manner, and Paul's Manner, and has been the Manner of all the Saints, the good old Way, which they have walked in.

3. He reaſoned with them out of the Scriptures; They agreed with him to receive the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, ſo far they were of a Mind; but they received the Scripture, and therefore thought they had Reaſon to reject Chriſt. Paul received the Scripture, and therefore ſaw great Reaſon to embrace Chriſt. 'Twas therefore requiſite in order to their Conviction that he ſhould by Reaſoning with them, the Spirit ſetting in with him, convince them that his Inferences from Scripture were right, and theirs were wrong. Note, The Preaching of the Goſpel ſhould be both ſcriptural Preaching, and rational; ſuch Paul's was, for he reaſoned out of the Scriptures; we muſt take the Scriptures for our Foundation, our Oracle, and Touchſtone, and then reaſon out of them, and upon them, and againſt thoſe who, tho' they pretend Zeal for the Scriptures, as the Jews did, yet wreſt them to their own Deſtruction. Reaſon muſt not be ſet up in Competition with the Scripture, but it muſt be made Uſe of in explaining and applying the Scripture.

4. He continu'd to do this Three Sabbath-Days ſucceſſively. If he could not convince them the firſt Sabbath, he would try the ſecond and the third; for Precept muſt be upon Precept, and Line upon Line. God waits for Sinners Converſion, and ſo muſt his Miniſters: All the Labourers come not into the Vineyard at the firſt Hour, nor at the firſt Call, nor are wrought upon ſo ſuddenly as the Jaylor.

5. The Drift and Scope of his Preaching, and Arguing was to prove that Jeſus is the Chriſt; This was that which he open'd and alledg'd, v. 3. He firſt explain'd his Theſis, and open'd the Terms, and then alledg'd it and laid it down, as that which he would abide by, and which he ſummon'd them in God's Name to ſubſcribe to. Paul had an admirable Method of Diſcourſe, and ſhew'd that he was himſelf both well appriz'd of the Doctrine he preach'd, and thoroughly underſtood it, and that he was fully aſſur'd of the Truth of it; and therefore he open'd it like one that knew it, and alledg'd it like one that believ'd it. He ſhew'd them,

1. That it was neceſſary the Meſſiah ſhould Suffer and Dye, and Riſe again, that the Old Teſtament Prophecies concerning the Meſſiah made it neceſſary he ſhould. The great Objection which the Jews made againſt Jeſus being the Meſſiah, was his Ignominious Death and Sufferings: The Croſs of Chriſt was to the Jews a Stumbling-block; becauſe it did by no means agree with the Idea they had fram'd of the Meſſiah; But Paul here alledgeth and makes it out undeniably, not only that it was poſſible he might be the Meſſiah, tho' he ſuffer'd, but that being the Meſſiah it was neceſſary he ſhould ſuffer: He could not otherwiſe be made perfect but by Sufferings; for if he had not dy'd, he could not have riſen again from the Dead. This was it which Chriſt himſelf inſiſted upon, Luke xxvi. 26. Ought not Chriſt to have ſuffer'd theſe Things, and to enter into Glory? And again, v. 46. Thus it is written, and therefore thus it behoved Chriſt to ſuffer, and to riſe from the Dead. He muſt needs have ſuffered for us, becauſe he could not otherwiſe purchaſe our Redemption for us, and he muſt needs have riſen again, becauſe he could not otherwiſe apply the Redemption to us.

2. That Jeſus is the Meſſiah: This Jeſus whom I preach unto you, and call upon you to believe in, is Chriſt, is the Chriſt, is the Anointed of the Lord, is he that ſhould come, and you are to look for no other; for God has both by his Word and by his Works, (the two Ways of his Speaking to the Children of Men) by the Scriptures and by Miracles, and the Gift of the Spirit to make both effectual, born Witneſs to him. Note, 1. Goſpel Miniſters ſhould preach Jeſus; that muſt be their principal Subject; their Buſineſs is to bring People acquainted with him. 2. That which we are to preach concerning Jeſus is that he is Chriſt, and therefore we may hope to be ſaved by him, and are bound to be rul'd by him.

Thirdly, The Succeſs of his Preaching there, v. 4.

1. Some of the Jews believ'd, notwithſtanding their rooted Prejudices againſt Chriſt and his Goſpel, and they conſorted with Paul and Silas; They not only aſſociated with them as Friends and Companions, but they gave up themſelves to their Conduct, as their ſpiritual Guides; they put themſelves into their Poſſeſſion as an Inheritance into the Poſſeſſion of the right Owner, ſo the Word ſignifies: They firſt gave themſelves to the LORD, and then to them by the Will of GOD, 2 Cor. viii. 5. They clave to Paul and Silas, and attended them wherever they went. Note, They that believe Jeſus Chriſt, come into Communion with his faithful Miniſters, and conſort with them.

2. Many more of the devout Greeks, and of the chief Women embraced the Goſpel. Theſe were Proſelytes of the Gate; the Godly among the Gentiles, ſo the Jews call'd them; ſuch, as tho' they did not ſubmit to the Law of Moſes, yet renounc'd Idolatry and Immorality, worſhipped the True God only, and did no Man any Wrong. Theſe were the οἱ σεβόμενοι Ἕλληνες, The worſhipping Gentiles; as in America they call thoſe of the Natives that are converted to the Faith of Chriſt, the Praying Indians; theſe were admitted to join with the Jews in their Synagogue-worſhip. Of theſe a great Multitude believ'd, more of them than of the thorough pac'd Jews, that were wedded to the Ceremonial Law. And not a few of the chief Women of the City, that were devout and had a Senſe of Religion, embrac'd Chriſtianity. Particular Notice is taken of this for an Example to the Ladies, the chief Women, and an Encouragement to them to employ themſelves in the Exerciſes of Devotion, and to ſubmit themſelves to the commanding Power of Chriſt's Holy Religion, in all the Inſtances of it; for this intimates how acceptable it will be to God, what an Honour to Chriſt, and what great Influence it may have upon many, beſides the Advantages of it to their own Souls.

No Mention is here made of their Preaching the Goſpel to the Gentile-Idolaters at Theſſalonica, and yet it is certain they did; and that great Numbers were converted; nay, it ſhould ſeem that of the Gentile Converts that Church was chiefly compos'd, tho' Notice is not taken of them here; for Paul writes to the Chriſtians there, as having turn'd to GOD from Idols, 1 Theſſ. i. 9. and that at the firſt Entering in of the Apoſtles among them.

Fourthly, The Trouble that was given to Paul and Silas at Theſſalonica: Wherever they preach'd, they were ſure to be perſecuted; Bonds and Afflictions did abide them in every City. Obſerve,

1. Who were the Authors of their Trouble; The Jews which believed not, that were moved with Envy, v. 5. The Jews were in all Places the moſt inveterate Enemies to the Chriſtians, eſpecially to thoſe Jews that turn'd Chriſtians, whom they had a particular Spleen againſt, as Deſerters. Now ſee what that Diviſion was which Chriſt came to ſend upon Earth; ſome of the Jews believ'd the Goſpel, and pity'd and pray'd for thoſe that did not; while thoſe that did not envy'd and hated thoſe that did. St. Paul in his Epiſtle to this Church takes Notice of the Rage and Enmity of the Jews againſt the Preachers of the Goſpel, as their Meaſure-filling Sin, 1 Theſſ. ii. 15, 16.

2. Who were the Inſtruments of the Trouble: The Jews made uſe of certain lewd Perſons of the baſer Sort, whom they pick'd up and got together, and who muſt undertake to give the Senſe of the City againſt the Apoſtles. All wiſe and ſober People look'd upon them with Reſpect, and valu'd them, and none would appear againſt them, but ſuch as were the Scum of the City, a Parcel of vile Scoundrels, that were given to all Manner of Wickedneſs. Tertullian pleads this with thoſe that oppos'd Chriſtianity, That the Enemies of it were generally the worſt of Men; Tales ſemper nobis inſecutores, injuſti, impii, turpes quos & ipſi damnare conſueſtis, Apol. c. v. 'Tis the Honour of Religion, that thoſe who hate it are generally the lewd Fellows of the baſer Sort, that are loſt to all Senſe of Juſtice and Virtue.

3. In what Method they proceeded againſt them.

1. They ſet the City in an Uproar; Made a Noiſe to put People in a Fright, and then every Body ran to ſee what the Matter was: They began a Riot, and then the Mob was up preſently. See who are the Troublers of Iſrael, not the faithful Preachers of the Goſpel, but the Enemies of it. See how the Devil carries on his Deſigns, he ſets Cities in an Uproar, ſets Souls in an Uproar, and then fiſheth in troubled Waters.

2. They aſſaulted the Houſe of Jaſon, where the Apoſtles lodg'd, with a Deſign to bring them out to the People, whom they had incens'd and enrag'd againſt them, and by whom they hoped to ſee them pull'd to Pieces. The Proceedings here were altogether illegal: If Jaſon's Houſe muſt be ſearch'd, it ought to be done by the proper Officers, and not without a Warrant. A Man's Houſe (the Law ſaith) is his Caſtle, and for them in a tumultuous Manner to aſſault a Man's Houſe to put him and his Family in Fear, was but to ſhew what Outrages Men are carry'd to by a Spirit of Perſecution. If Men have offended, Magiſtrates are appointed to enquire into the Offence, and to judge of it; but to make the Rabble Judges and Executioners too, as theſe here deſign'd to do, was to make Truth fall in the Streets, to ſet Servants on Horſeback, and Princes to walk as Servants on the Earth; to depoſe Equity, and enthrone Fury.

3. When they could not get the Apoſtles in their Hands, whom they would have puniſh'd as Vagabonds, and incens'd the People againſt as Strangers that came to ſpy out the Land, and devour its Strength, and eat the Bread out of their Mouths; then they fall upon an honeſt Citizen of their own, who entertain'd the Apoſtles in his Houſe, his Name Jaſon, a converted Jew, and drew him out with ſome other of the Brethren to the Rulers of the City. The Apoſtles were adviſ'd to withdraw, for they were more obnoxious, Currenti cede furori. But their Friends were willing to expoſe themſelves, being better able to weather this Storm. For a good Man, for ſuch good Men as the Apoſtles were, ſome would even dare to dye.

4. They accus'd them to the Rulers, and repreſented them as dangerous Perſons not fit to be tolerated: The Crime charg'd upon Jaſon is, receiving and harbouring the Apoſtles, v. 7. countenancing them, and promoting their Intereſt: And what was the Apoſtles Crime, that it ſhould be no leſs than Miſpriſion of Treaſon to give them Lodging? Two very black Characters are here given them, enough to make them odious to the People, and obnoxious to the Magiſtrates, if they had been juſt.

(1.) That they were Enemies to the publick Peace, and threw every Thing into Diſorder wherever they came; Thoſe that have turn'd the World upſide-down, are come hither alſo. In one Senſe it is true, that wherever the Goſpel comes in its Power to any Place, to any Soul, it works ſuch a Change there, gives ſuch a wide Change to the Stream, ſo directly contrary to what it was, that it may be ſaid to turn the World upſide-down in that Place, in that Soul: The Love of the World is rooted out of the Heart; and the Way of the World contradicted in the Life; ſo that the World is turn'd upſide-down there. But in the Senſe in which they meant it, 'tis utterly falſe: They would have it thought, that the Preachers of the Goſpel were Incendiaries, and Miſchief-makers wherever they came; that they ſow'd Diſcord among Relations, ſet Neighbours together by the Ears, obſtructed Commerce, and inverted all Order and Regularity. Becauſe they perſuaded People to turn from Vice to Vertue; from Idols to the Living and True God; from Malice and Envy to Love and Peace; they are charg'd with turning the World upſide-down, when it was only the Kingdom of the Devil in the World that they thus overturn'd. Their Enemies ſet the City in an Uproar, and then laid the Blame upon them; as Nero ſet Rome on Fire, and then charg'd it upon the Chriſtians. If Chriſt's faithful Miniſters, even thoſe that are moſt quiet in the Land, be thus invidiouſly miſrepreſented, and miſcall'd, let them not think it ſtrange, or be exaſperated by it, we are not better than Paul and Silas, who were thus abus'd. The Accuſers cry out, they are come hither alſo; They have been doing all the Miſchief they could in other Places, and now they have brought the Infection hither; 'tis therefore Time for us to beſtir ourſelves, and make Head againſt them.

(2.) That they were Enemies to the eſtabliſh'd Government, and diſaffected to that, and their Principles and Practices were deſtructive to Monarchy, and inconſiſtent with the Conſtitution of the State, v. 7. They all do contrary to the Decrees of Cæſar; not to any particular Decree, for there was as yet no Law of the Empire againſt Chriſtianity; but contrary to Cæſar's Power in general to make Decrees; for they ſay, there is another King one Jeſus; not only a King of the Jews, as our Saviour was himſelf charg'd before Pilate, but Lord of all; ſo Peter call'd him in the firſt Sermon he preach'd to the Gentiles, Acts x. 36. 'Tis true, the Roman Government, both while it was a Common-wealth, and after it came into the Cæſars Hands, was very jealous of any Governour under their Dominions, taking upon him the Title of King, and there was an expreſs Law againſt it: But Chriſt's Kingdom was not of this World. His Followers ſaid indeed, That Jeſus is a King, but not an earthly King, not a Rival with Cæſar, nor his Ordinances interfering with the Decrees of Cæſar, but who had made it a Law of his Kingdom, to render unto Cæſar the Things that are Cæſar's. There was nothing in the Doctrine of Chriſt that tended to the dethroning of Princes, or the depriving 'em of any of their Prerogatives; and they knew it very well, and it was againſt their Conſcience that they laid this to their Charge. And of all People, it ill became the Jews to do it, who hated Cæſar and his Government, and ſought the Ruin of him and it, and who expected a Meſſiah that ſhould be a Temporal Prince, and over-turn the Thrones of Kingdoms, and were therefore oppoſing our Lord Jeſus, becauſe he did not appear under that Character. Thus they have been moſt ſpiteful in repreſenting God's faithful People as Enemies to Cæſar, and hurtful to King's and Princes, who have been themſelves ſetting up Imperium in Imperio, a Power not only in Competition with Cæſar's, but Superior to it, that of the Papal Supremacy.

4. The great Uneaſineſs which this gave to the City, v. 8. They troubled the People, and the Rulers of the City, when they heard theſe Things. They had no ill Opinion of the Apoſtles or their Doctrine, could not apprehend any Danger to the State from them, and therefore were willing to connive at them: But if they be repreſented to them by the Perſecutors as Enemies to Cæſar, they will be oblig'd to take Cognizance of them, and to ſuppreſs them, for fear of the Government, and this troubled them. Claudius, the preſent Emperor, is repreſented by Suetonius as a Man very jealous of the leaſt Commotion, and timorous to the laſt Degree, which oblig'd the Rulers under him to be watchful againſt every Thing that look'd dangerous, or gave the leaſt Cauſe of Suſpicion; and therefore it troubled them to be brought under a Neceſſity of diſturbing good Men.

5. The Iſſue of this troubleſome Affair; The Magiſtrates had no Mind to perſecute the Chriſtians: Care was taken to ſecure the Apoſtles, they abſconded, and fled, and kept out of their Hands; ſo that Nothing was to be done, but to diſcharge Jaſon and his Friends upon Bail, v. 9. The Magiſtrates here were not ſo eaſily incens'd againſt the Apoſtles, as the Magiſtrates at Philippi were, but were more conſiderate, and of better Temper; ſo they took Security of Jaſon, and the other, bound them to their good Behaviour; and perhaps they gave Bond for Paul and Silas that they ſhould be forth-coming when they were call'd for, if any Thing ſhould afterwards appear againſt them.

Among the Perſecutors of Chriſtianity, as there have been Inſtances of the Madneſs and Rage of Brutes, ſo there have been likewiſe of the Prudence and Temper of Men; Moderation has been a Virtue.

10 ¶ And the brethren immediately ſent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea: who coming thither, went into the ſynagogue of the Jews. 11 Theſe were more noble then thoſe in Theſſalonica, in that they received the word with all readineſs of mind, and ſearched the Scriptures daily, whether thoſe Things were ſo. 12 Therefore many of them believed: alſo of honourable women which were Greeks, and of men not a few. 13 But when the Jews of Theſſolonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither alſo, and ſtirred up the people. 14 And then immediately the brethren ſent away Paul, to go as it were to the ſea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there ſtill. 15 And they that conducted Paul, brought him unto Athens: and receiving a commandment unto Silas and Timotheus, for to come to him with all ſpeed, they departed.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, Paul and Silas removing to Berea, and employ'd in Preaching the Goſpel there, v. 10. They had gone ſo far at Theſſalonica, that the Foundations of the Church were laid, and others were rais'd up to carry on the Work that was begun, whom the Rulers and People were not ſo much prejudic'd againſt, as they were againſt Paul and Silas; and therefore when the Storm roſe they withdrew, taking that as an Indication to them that they muſt quit that Place for the preſent. That Command of Chriſt to his Diſciples, When they perſecute you in one City, flee to another; intends their Flight to be not ſo much for their own Safety, flee to another to hide there, as for the carrying on of their Work; flee to another to Preach there, as appears by the Reaſon given, For you ſhall not have gone over the Cities of Iſrael, till the Son of Man be come, Matth. x. 23. Thus out of the Eater, came forth Meat, and the Devil was out-ſhot in his Bow; he thought by perſecuting the Apoſtles, to ſtop the Progreſs of the Goſpel; but it was ſo over-rul'd, as to be made to further it. See here,

1. The Care that the Brethren took of Paul and Silas, when they perceiv'd how the Plot was laid againſt them; They immediately ſent them away by Night, incognito, to Berea. This could be no Surprize to the young Converts, for when we were with you (ſaith Paul to them, 1 Theſſ. iii. 9.) when we came firſt among you, we told you that we ſhould ſuffer Tribulation, even as it came to paſs, and ye know. It ſhould ſeem that Paul and Silas would willingly have ſtaid and fac'd the Storm, if the Brethren would have let them; but they would rather want their Help, than expoſe their Lives; which it ſhould ſeem were dearer to their Friends, than to themſelves. They ſent them away by Night, under the Covert of that, as if they had been Evil-doers.

2. The Conſtancy of Paul and Silas in their Work: Tho' they fled from Theſſalonica, they did not flee from the Service of Chriſt; when they came to Berea, they went into the Synagogue of the Jews, and made their publick Appearance there. Tho' the Jews at Theſſalonica had been their ſpiteful Enemies, and for ought they knew the Jews at Berea would be ſo too, yet they did not therefore decline paying their Reſpects to the Jews, either in revenge for the Injuries they had received, or for fear of what they might receive. If others will not do their Duty to us, yet we ought to do ours to them.

Secondly, The good Character of the Jews in Berea, v. 11. Theſe were nobler than thoſe in Theſſalonica: The Jews in the Synagogue in Berea, were better diſpos'd to receive the Goſpel than the Jews in the Synagogue at Theſſalonica; they were not ſo bigotted and prejudic'd againſt it, not ſo peeviſh and ill-natur'd, they were more noble, εὐγενέςεροι, better bred, i. e. (1.) They had a freerer Thought, and lay more open to Conviction, were willing to hear Reaſon, and admit the Force of it, and to ſubſcribe to that which appear'd to them to be Truth, tho' it was contrary to their former Sentiments; this was more noble. (2.) They had a better Temper; were not ſo ſour and moroſe, and ill-condition'd towards all that were not of their Mind: As they were ready to come into a Unity with thoſe that, by the Power of Truth, they were brought to concur with, ſo they continu'd in Charity with thoſe they ſaw Cauſe to differ from. This was more noble, They neither prejudg'd the Cauſe, nor were moved with Envy at the Managers of it, as the Jews at Theſſalonica were, but very generouſly gave both it and them a fair Hearing, without Paſſion or Partiality. For,

1. They received the Word with all Readineſs of Mind; They were very willing to hear it, preſently apprehended the Meaning of it, and did not ſhut their Eyes againſt the Light. They attended to the Things that were ſpoken of Paul, as Lydia did, and were very well pleas'd to hear them: They did not pick Quarrels with the Word, nor find Fault, nor ſeek Occaſion againſt the Preachers of it; but bid it welcome, and put a candid Conſtruction upon every Thing that was ſaid; herein they were more noble than the Jews in Theſſalonica; but walk'd in the ſame Spirit, and in the ſame Steps with the Gentiles there, of whom it is ſaid, That they received the Word with Joy of the Holy Ghoſt, and turn'd to GOD from Idols, 1 Theſſ. i. 5, 9. This was true Nobility. The Jews glory'd much in their being Abraham's Seed, thought themſelves well-born, and that they could not be better born. But they are here told who among them were the moſt noble, and the beſt-bred Men, thoſe that were moſt diſpos'd to receive the Goſpel, and the high and conceited Thoughts in them, captivated and brought into Obedience to Chriſt. Theſe were the moſt Noble, (if I may ſo ſay) the moſt Gentlemen-like Men. Nobilitas ſola eſt atque unica virtus, Virtue and Piety, is true Nobility, true Honour: And without that, (Stemmata quid proſunt?) what are Pedigrees and pompous Titles worth?

2. They ſearched the Scriptures daily, whether thoſe Things were ſo: Their Readineſs of Mind to receive the Word was not ſuch, as that they took Things upon Truſt, ſwallow'd them upon an implicit Faith; No, but ſince Paul reaſon'd out of the Scriptures, and referr'd 'em to the Old Teſtament, for the Proof of what he ſaid; they had Recourſe to their Bibles, turn'd to the Places he referr'd them to, read the Context, conſider'd the Scope and Drift of them, compar'd them with other Places of Scripture, examin'd, whether Paul's Inferences from them were natural and genuine, and his Arguments upon them cogent, and determin'd accordingly. Obſerve, (1.) The Doctrine of Chriſt doth not fear a Scrutiny: We that are Advocates for his Cauſe, deſire no more but that People will not ſay, Theſe Things are not ſo; till they have firſt without Prejudice and Partiality examin'd, Whether they be ſo, or no? (2.) The New Teſtament is to be examin'd by the Old. The Jews receiv'd the Old Teſtament; and thoſe that did ſo, if they conſider'd Things aright could not but ſee Cauſe ſufficient to receive the New, becauſe in it they ſee all the Prophecies and Promiſes of the Old, fully and exactly accompliſh'd. (3.) Thoſe that read and receive the Scriptures muſt Search them, Joh, v. 39. muſt Study them, and take Pains in conſidering them, both that they may find out the Truth contain'd in them, and may not miſtake the Senſe of them, and ſo run into Error, or remain in it, and that they may find out the whole Truth contain'd in them, and may not reſt in a ſuperficial Knowledge, in the outward Court of the Scriptures, but may have an intimate Acquaintance with the Mind of GOD reveal'd in them. (4.) Searching the Scriptures, muſt be our daily Work: They that heard the Word in the Synagogue on the Sabbath-Day, did not think that enough, but were ſearching it every Day in the Week, that they might improve what they had heard the Sabbath before, and prepare for what they were to hear the Sabbath after. (5.) Thoſe are truly Noble, and in a fair Way to be more and more ſo, that make the Scriptures their Oracle and Touch-ſtone, and conſult them accordingly. Thoſe that righly Study the Scripture and Meditate therein Day and Night, have their Minds fill'd with noble Thoughts, fix'd to noble Principles, and form'd for noble Aims and Deſigns, Theſe are more noble.

Thirdly, The good Effect of the Preaching of the Goſpel at Berea; It had the deſir'd Succeſs; the Peoples Hearts being prepar'd, a great deal of Work was done ſuddenly, v. 12.

1. Of the Jews there were many that believ'd: At Theſſalonica there were only ſome of them that believ'd, v. 4. But at Berea, where they heard with unprejudic'd Minds, many believ'd; many more Jews than at Theſſalonica. Note, GOD gives Grace to thoſe whom he firſt inclines to make a diligent Uſe of the Means of Grace, and particularly to ſearch the Scriptures.

2. Of the Greeks likewiſe, The Gentiles, many believ'd, both of the honourable Women, the Ladies of Quality, and of Men not a few, Men of the firſt Rank, as ſhould ſeem by their being mention'd with the honourable Women. The Wives firſt embrac'd the Goſpel, and then they perſuaded their Husbands to embrace it: For what knoweſt thou, O Wife, but thou ſhalt ſave the Husband? 1 Cor. vii. 16.

Fourthly, The Perſecution that was rais'd againſt Paul and Silas at Berea, which forc'd Paul thence.

1. The Jews at Theſſalonica were the Miſchief-makers at Berea: They had Notice that the Word of GOD was Preached at Berea, for Envy and Jealouſy brings quick Intelligence, and likewiſe that the Jews there were not ſo inveterately ſet againſt it as they were; they came thither alſo, to turn the World upſide down there, and they ſtirred up the People, and incens'd them againſt the Preachers of the Goſpel; as if they had ſuch a Commiſſion from the Prince of Darkneſs to go from Place to Place to oppoſe the Goſpel, as the Apoſtles had to go from Place to Place to Preach it. Thus we read before, that the Jews at Antioch came to Iconium on purpoſe to incenſe the People againſt the Apoſtles, chap. xiv. 19. See how reſtleſs Satan's Agents are in their Oppoſition to the Glory of Chriſt, and the Salvation of the Souls of Men: This is an Inſtance of the Enmity that is in the Serpent's Seed, againſt the Seed of the Woman, and we muſt not think it ſtrange, if Perſecutors at home extend their Rage to ſtir up Perſecution abroad.

2. This occaſion'd Paul's Remove to Athens: By ſeeking to extinguiſh this Divine Fire which Chriſt had already kindled, they did but ſpread it the further, and the faſter. So long Paul ſtay'd at Berea, and ſuch Succeſs he had there, that there were Brethren there, and ſenſible active Men too, which appear'd by the Care they took of Paul, v. 14. They were aware of the Coming of the perſecuting Jews from Theſſalonica, and that they were buſy irritating the People againſt Paul, and fearing what it would come to, they loſt no Time, but immediately ſent Paul away, whom they were moſt perjudic'd and enrag'd againſt, hoping that that would pacify them, while they retain'd Silas and Timothy there ſtill, who, now Paul had broke the Ice, might be ſufficient to carry on the Work without expoſing him. They ſent Paul to go even to the Sea, ſo ſome; to go as it were to the Sea, ſo we read it, ὡς ἐπὶ τὴν θάλασσαν, He went out from Berea, in that Road which went to the Sea, that the Jews if they enquir'd after him, might think he was gone far enough, but he went by Land to Athens, in which there was no culpable Diſſimulation at all. They that conducted Paul, (as his Guide and Guard, he being both a Stranger in the Country, and One that had many Enemies) brought him to Athens. The Spirit of GOD influencing his Spirit, directed him to that famous City; famous of old for its Power and Dominion, when the Athenian Commonwealth cop'd with the Spartan; famous afterwards for Learning. It was the Rendezvous of Scholars; thoſe that wanted Learning went thither to get it, becauſe thoſe that had Learning went thither to ſhew it. 'Twas a great Univerſity much reſorted to from all Parts, and therefore for the better diffuſing of Goſpel-Light Paul is ſent thither, and is not aſham'd or afraid to ſhew his Face among the Philoſophers there, and there to Preach Chriſt crucify'd, tho' he knew it would be as much Fooliſhneſs to the Greeks, as it was to the Jews a Stumbling-block.

3. He order'd Silas and Timothy to come to him to Athens, when he found there was a Proſpect of doing Good there: Or, Becauſe there being none there that he knew, he was Solitary and Melancholy without them. Yet it ſhould ſeem that as much haſte as he was in for them he order'd Timothy to go about by Theſſalonica, to bring him an Account of the Affairs of that Church; for he ſaith, 1 Theſ. iii. 1, 2. We thought good to be left at Athens alone, and ſent Timotheus to eſtabliſh you.

16 ¶ Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his Spirit was ſtirred in him, when he ſaw the city wholly given to idolatry. 17 Therefore diſputed he in the ſynagogue with the Jews, and with the devout perſons, and in the market daily with them that met with him. 18 Then certain philoſophers of the Epicureans, and of the Stoicks, encountred him; and ſome ſaid, What will this babler ſay? other ſome, He ſeemeth to be a ſetter forth of ſtrange gods: becauſe he preached unto them Jeſus, and the reſurrection. 19 And they took him, and brought him unto Areopagus, ſaying, May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou ſpeakeſt, is? 20 For thou bringeſt certain ſtrange things unto our ears: we would know therefore what theſe things mean. 21 (For all the Athenians and ſtrangers which were there, ſpent their time in nothing elſe, but either to tell or to hear ſome new thing.)

A Scholar that has Acquaintance, and is in love with the Learning of the Ancients, would think he ſhould have been very happy if he were where Paul now was, at Athens in the Midſt of the various Sects of Philoſophers, and would have had a great many curious Queſtions to aſk them, for the explicating of the Remains we have of the Athenian Learning: But Paul, tho' bred a Scholar, and an ingenious active Man, doth not make that any of his Buſineſs at Athens, he hath other Work to mind; 'tis not the Improving himſelf in their Philoſophy that he aims at, he has learn'd to call it a vain Thing and is above it, Col. ii. 8. His Buſineſs is in God's Name to correct their Diſorders in Religion, and to turn them from the Service of Idols, and of Satan in them, to the Service of the True and Living God in Chriſt.

Firſt, Here is the Impreſſion which the abominable Ignorance and Superſtition of the Athenians made upon Paul's Spirit, v. 16. Obſerve,

1. The Account here given of that City; It was wholly given to Idolatry. This agrees with the Account which the Heathen Writers give of it; that there were more Idols in Athens than there were in all Greece beſide put together; and that they had twice as many ſacred Feaſts as others had. Whatever ſtrange God's were recommended to them they admitted them, and allow'd them a Temple and an Altar, ſo that they had almoſt as many Gods as Men; facilius poſſis Deum quàm hominem invenire. And this City after the Empire became Chriſtian, continued incurably addicted to Idolatry, and all the pious Edicts of the Chriſtian Emperors could not root it out; till by the Irruption of the Goths that City was in a particular Manner laid waſte, that there are now ſcarce any Remains of it. It was obſervable that there where human Learning moſt flouriſh'd, Idolatry moſt abounded, and the moſt abſurd and ridiculous Idolatry, which confirms that of the Apoſtles, that when they profeſs'd themſelves to be Wiſe they became Fools, Rom. i. 22. and in the Buſineſs of Religion were of all other the moſt vain in their Imagination. The World by Wiſdom knew not God, 1 Cor. i. 21. They might have reaſoned againſt Polytheiſm, and Idolatry, but it ſeems the greateſt Pretenders to Reaſon, were the greateſt Slaves to Idols, ſo neceſſary was it to the re-eſtabliſhing even of Natural Religion, that there ſhould be a Divine Revelation, and that centring in Chriſt.

2. The Diſturbance which the Sight of this gave to Paul; Paul was not willing to appear publickly, till Silas and Timothy came to him, that out of the Mouth of Two or Three Witneſſes the Word might be eſtabliſh'd: But in the mean Time his Spirit was ſtirred within him. He was fill'd with Concern for the Glory of God, which he ſaw given to Idols, and with Compaſſion to the Souls of Men, which he ſaw thus enſlav'd to Satan, and led captive by him at his Will. He beheld theſe Tranſgreſſors and was griev'd; and Horror took hold of him. He had a Holy Indignation at the Heathen Prieſts, that led the People ſuch an endleſs Trace of Idolatry; and at their Philoſophers that knew better Things, and yet never ſaid a Word againſt it, but themſelves went down the Stream.

Secondly, The Teſtimony that he bore againſt their Idolatry, and his Endeavours to bring them to the Knowledge of the Truth. He did not (as Witſius obſerves) in the Heat of his Zeal break into the Temples, pull down their Images, demoliſh their Altars, or fly in the Faces of their Prieſts; nor did he run about the Streets crying you are all the Bond-ſlaves of the Devil, tho' it was too true; but he obſerv'd a Decorum, and kept himſelf within due Bounds, doing that only which became a prudent Man.

1. He went to the Synagogue of the Jews, who tho' Enemies to Chriſtianity, were free from Idolatry, and join'd with them in that among them which was Good, and took the Opportunity given him there of diſputing for Chriſt, v. 17. He diſcours'd with the Jews, reaſon'd fairly with them, and put it to them, what Reaſon they could give, why, ſince they expected the Meſſiah, they would not receive Jeſus. There he met with the devout Perſons, that had forſaken the Idol Temples, but reſted in the Jews Synagogue, and he talk'd with theſe to lead them on to the Chriſtian Church; to which the Jews Synagogue was but as a Porch.

2. He enter'd into Converſation with all that came in his Way about Matters of Religion. In the Market, ἐν τῇ ἀγορᾷ, in the Exchange or Place of Commerce, he diſputed daily as he had Occaſion with them that met with him; or, that he happen'd into Company with, that were Heathens and never came to the Jews Synagogue. The zealous Advocates for the Cauſe of Chriſt, will be ready to plead it in all Companies as occaſion offers. The Miniſters of Chriſt muſt not think it enough to ſpeak a good Word for Chriſt once a Week, but ſhould be daily ſpeaking honourably of him to ſuch as meet with them.

Thirdly, The Enquiries which ſome of the Philoſophers made concerning Paul's Doctrine. Obſerve,

1. Who they were that encounter'd him, and enter'd into Diſcourſe with him, and oppos'd him; he diſputed with all that met him, in the Places of Concourſe, or rather of Diſcourſe; moſt took no Notice of him, ſlighted him, and never minded a Word he ſaid, but there were ſome of the Philoſophers that thought him worth making Remarks upon, and they were thoſe whoſe Principles were moſt directly contrary to Chriſtianity.

(1.) The Epicureans; who thought God altogether ſuch a One as themſelves, an idle unactive Being, that minded nothing, nor put any Difference between Good and Evil: They would not own either that God made the World, or that he governs it, nor that Man needs to make any Conſcience of what he ſaith or doth, having no Puniſhment to fear, or Rewards to hope for; all which looſe Atheiſtical Notions Chriſtianity is level'd againſt. The Epicureans indulg'd themſelves in all the Pleaſures of Senſe, and placed their Happineſs in them, in what Chriſt has taught in the firſt Place to deny ourſelves.

(2.) The Stoicks; who thought themſelves altogether as good as God, and indulg'd themſelves as much in the Pride of Life as the Epicureans did in the Luſts of the Fleſh, and of the Eye. They made their vertuous Men to be no Way inferiour to God himſelf, nay to be ſuperior. Eſſe aliquid quo Sapiens antecedat Deum; ſo Seneca, to which Chriſtianity is directly oppoſite, as it teacheth us to deny ourſelves, and abaſe ourſelves, and to come off from all Confidence in ourſelves, that Chriſt may be All in All.

2. What their different Sentiments were of him; ſuch there were, as there were of Chriſt, v. 18.

(1.) Some call'd him a Babler, and thought he ſpoke without any Deſign, whatever came uppermoſt; as Men of craz'd Imaginations do. What will this Babler ſay? ὁ σπερμολόγος οὗτος, This Scatterer of Words, that goes about throwing here one idle Word or Story, and there another, without any Intendment or Signification. Or, This Picker up of Seeds; ſome of the Criticks tell us it is us'd for a little ſort of Bird, that's worth nothing at all, either for the Spit or for the Cage, that picks up the Seeds that lye uncovered, either in the Field or by the Water-ſide, and hops here and there for that Purpoſe; avicula parva quæ ſemina in triviis diſperſa colligere ſolet: Such a pitiful contemptible Animal they took Paul to be; or ſuppos'd, he went from Place to Place venting his Notions to get Money, a Penny here, and another there, as that Bird picks up here and there a Grain. They look'd upon him as an idle Fellow, and regarded him, as we ſay, no more than a Ballad-ſinger.

(2.) Others call'd him, a ſetter forth of ſtrange Gods, and thought he ſpoke with deſign to make himſelf conſiderable by that Means. And if he had ſtrange Gods to ſet forth he could not bring them to a better Market than to Athens. He did not as many did directly ſet forth new Gods, nor avowedly, but they thought he ſeemed to do ſo, becauſe he preached unto them Jeſus and the Reſurrection; from his firſt Coming among them he ever and anon harp'd upon theſe two Strings, which are indeed the principal Doctrines of Chriſtianity, Chriſt, and a future State; Chriſt our Way, and Heaven our End; and tho' he did not call theſe Gods, yet they thought he meant to make them ſo, τὸν Ἰησοῦν καὶ τὴν Ἀνάστασιν, Jeſus they took for a new God, and Anaſtaſis, the Reſurrection for a new Goddeſs: Thus they loſt the Benefit of the Chriſtian Doctrine by dreſſing it up in a Pagan Dialect, as if believing in Jeſus, and looking for the Reſurrection, were the Worſhipping of new Dæmons.

3. The Propoſal they made to give him a free, full, fair, and publick Hearing, v. 19, 20. They had heard ſome broken pieces of his Doctrine, and are willing to have a more perfect Knowledge of it.

(1.) They look upon it as ſtrange and ſurprizing, and very different from the Philoſophy that had for many Ages been taught and profeſs'd at Athens. 'Tis a new Doctrine which we do not underſtand the Drift and Deſign of. Thou bringeſt certain ſtrange Things to our Ears, which we never heard of before, and know not what to make of now. By this it ſhould ſeem that among all the Learned Books they had, they either had not, or heeded not the Books of Moſes and the Prophets, elſe the Doctrine of Chriſt would not have been ſo perfectly new and ſtrange to them. There was but one Book in the World given by Divine Inſpiration, and that was the only Book they were Strangers too; which if they would have given a due Regard to, would in its very firſt Page have determin'd that great Controverſy among them about the Origin of the Univerſe.

(2.) They deſire to know more of it, only becauſe it was new and ſtrange, May we know what this new Doctrine is? Or is it (like the Myſteries of the Gods) to be kept as a profound Secret? If it may be, we would gladly know, and deſire thee to tell us what theſe Things mean, that we may be able to paſs a Judgement upon them. This was a fair Propoſal; 'twas fit they ſhould know what this Doctrine was before they embrac'd it; and they were ſo fair as not to condemn it, till they had had ſome Account of it.

(3.) The Place they brought him to in order to this publick Declaration of his Doctrine; 'Twas to Areopagus, the ſame Word that is tranſlated, v. 22. Mars-hill: 'Twas the Town-Houſe, or Guild-Hall of their City, where the Magiſtrates met upon publick Buſineſs, and the Courts of Juſtice were kept; and it was as the Theatre in the Univerſity, or the Schools, where Learned Men met to communicate their Notions. The Court of Juſtice which ſate here was famous for its Equity, which drew Appeals to it from all Parts, If any deny'd a God he was liable to the Cenſure of this Court; Diagoras was by them put to Death as a Contemner of the Gods. Nor might any new God be admitted without their Approbation; hither they brought Paul to be try'd, not as a Criminal, but as a Candidate.

(4.) The general Character of the People of that City given upon this Occaſion, v. 21. All the Athenians, that is Natives of the Place, and the Strangers which ſojourn'd there for their Improvement, ſpent their Time in nothing elſe but either to tell or to hear ſome new Thing; which comes in as the Reaſon why they were enquiſitive concerning Paul's Doctrine, not becauſe it was good, but becauſe it was new. 'Tis a very ſorry Character which is here given of the People, yet many tranſcribe it. (1.) They were all for Converſation; St. Paul exhorts his Pupil to give Attendance to Reading and Meditation, 1 Tim. iv. 13, 14. but theſe People deſpis'd thoſe old-faſhion'd Ways of getting Knowledge, and preferr'd that of telling and hearing: It is true that good Company is of great Uſe to a Man, and will poliſh One that has laid a good Foundation in Study, but that Knowledge will be very flaſhy and ſuperficial which is got by Converſation only. (2.) They affected Novelty; they were for telling and hearing ſome new Thing. They were for new Schemes, and new Notions in Philoſophy; new Forms and Plans of Government in Politicks; and in Religion, for new Gods that came newly up, Deut. xxxii. 17. new Dæmons, new faſhion'd Images, and Altars, 2 Kin. xvi. 10. They were given to change. Demoſthenes an Orator of their own had charg'd this upon them long before in one of his Philippicks, that their common Queſtion in the Markets, or where-ever they met was, εἴ τι λέγεται νεώτερον, If there was any News? (3.) They meddled in other Peoples Buſineſs, and were inquiſitive concerning that, and never minded their own. Tatlers are always Buſy-bodies, 1 Tim. v. 13. (4.) They ſpent their Time in nothing elſe, and a very uncomfortable Account they muſt needs have to make of their Time who thus ſpend it: Time is precious, and we are concern'd to be good Huſbands of it, becauſe Eternity depends upon it, and it is haſtening apace into Eternity; but abundance of it is waſted in unprofitable Converſe. To tell and hear the new Occurrences of Providence concerning the Publick, in our own or other Nations, and concerning our Neighbours, and Friends, is of good Uſe now and then; But to ſet up for News-mongers, and to ſpend our Time in nothing elſe is to loſe that which is very precious, for the Gain of that which is worth little.

22 ¶ Then Paul ſtood in the midſt of Mars-hill, and ſaid, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too ſuperſtitious. 23 For as I paſſed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inſcription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD, Whom therefore ye ignorantly worſhip, him declare I unto you. 24 God that made the World, and all things therein, ſeeing that he is the Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands: 25 Neither is worſhipped with mens hands, as though he needed any thing, ſeeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; 26 And hath made of one blood, all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation: 27 That they would ſeek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us: 28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain alſo of your own poets have ſaid, for we are alſo his off-ſpring. 29 Foraſmuch then as we are the off-ſpring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or ſilver, or ſtone graven by art and man's device. 30 And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now he commandeth all men every where to repent: 31 Becauſe he hath appointed a day in the which he will judge the world in righteouſneſs, by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given aſſurance unto all men, in that he hath raiſed him from the dead.

We have here St. Paul's Sermon at Athens; divers Sermons we have had which the Apoſtles Preached to the Jews, or ſuch Gentiles as had an Acquaintance with, and Veneration for the Old Teſtament, and were Worſhippers of the True and Living God; and all they had to do with them, was to open and alledge that Jeſus is the Chriſt: But here we have a Sermon to Heathens that worſhipped falſe Gods, and were without the True God in the World, and to them the Scope of their Diſcourſe was quite different from what is was to the other. In the former Caſe their Buſineſs was to lead their Hearers by Prophecies and Miracles to the Knowledge of the Redeemer, and Faith in him; In the latter 'twas to lead them by the Common Works of Providence to the Knowledge of the Creator and Worſhip of him. One Diſcourſe of this Kind we had before to the rude Idolators of Lyſtra that deify'd the Apoſtles, chap. xiv. 15. This here is to the more polite and refined Idolaters at Athens, and an admirable Diſcourſe it is, and every Way ſuited to the Auditory, and the Deſign he had upon them.

Firſt, He lays down this as the Scope of his Diſcourſe. That he aim'd to bring them to the Knowledge of the One only Living and True GOD, as the ſole and proper Object of their Adoration: He is here oblig'd to lay the Foundation, and to inſtruct them in the firſt Principle of all Religion, That there is a GOD, and that GOD is but One. When he Preach'd againſt the God's they worſhipped, he had no Deſign to draw them to Atheiſm, but to the Service of the True Deity. Socrates, who had expos'd the Pagan Idolatry, was Indicted in this very Court, and Condemn'd, not only becauſe he did not eſteem thoſe to be GODS, whom the City eſteem'd to be ſo, but becauſe he introduc'd new Dæmons; and this was the Charge againſt Paul: Now he tacitly owns the former Part of the Charge, but guards againſt the latter by declaring, That he doth not introduce any new GODS, but reduce them to the Knowledge of One GOD, the Ancient of Days. Now,

1. He ſhews them, That they needed to be inſtructed herein; for they had loſt the Knowledge of the True God, that made them, in the Worſhip of Falſe Gods that they made; Deos qui rogat ille facit: I perceive, that in all Things ye are too ſuperſtitious. The Crime he charged upon them is, Giving that Glory to others, which is due to God only; that they fear'd and worſhipped Dæmons Spirits, that they ſuppos'd, inhabited the Images to which they directed their Worſhip. It's Time for you to be told, That there is but One GOD, who are multiplying Deities, above any of your Neighbours, and mingle your Idolatries with all your Affairs; You are in all Things too ſuperſtitious, δεισιδαιμονεστέρους, you eaſily admit every Thing that comes under Shew of Religion, but 'tis that which corrupts it more and more; I bring you that which will reform it. Their Neighbours praiſed them for this as a pious People; but Paul condemns them for it. Yet it is obſervable how he mollifies the Charge, doth not aggravate it to provoke them. He uſeth a Word which among them was taken in a good Senſe, You are every Way more than ordinary Religious; ſo ſome read it. You are very devout in your Way: Or, if it be taken in an Ill Senſe, 'tis mitigated, you are, as it were (ὡς) more ſuperſtitious than you need be; and he ſaith no more than what he himſelf perceived, θεωρῶ, I ſee it, I obſerve it. They charg'd Paul with ſetting forth new Dæmons; nay, ſaith he, you have Dæmons enow already, I'll not add to the Number of them.

2. He ſhews them that they themſelves had given a fair Occaſion for the declaring of this One true GOD to them, by ſetting up an Altar, to the Unknown GOD; which intimated an Acknowledgement, that there was a God which was yet to them an Unknown God: And 'tis ſad to think that at Athens a Place which was ſuppoſed to have the Monopoly of Wiſdom, the True GOD was an unknown GOD, the only God that was unknown. Now you ought to bid Paul welcome, for this is the God whom he comes to make known to you, the God whom you implicitly complain that you are Ignorant of. There where we are ſenſible we are defective and come ſhort, juſt there the Goſpel takes us up, and carries us on. Various Conjectures the Learned have concerning this Altar dedicated, To the unkown God.

1. Some think the Meaning is, To the God whoſe Honour it is to be unknown, and that they intended the God of the Jews, whoſe Name is Ineffable, and whoſe Nature is Unſearchable: 'Tis probable they had heard from the Jews, and from the Writings of the Old Taſtament, of the God of Iſrael, who had prov'd himſelf to be above all Gods; but was a God hiding himſelf, Iſa. xlv. 15. The Heathen call'd the Jews God, Deus Incertus, Incertum Moſis Numen; and the God without Name. Now this God, ſaith Paul, this God, who cannot by ſearching be found out to Perfection, I now declare unto you.

2. Others think, the Meaning is, To the God whom it is our Unhappineſs not to know; which intimates, that they would think it their Happineſs to know him. Some tell us, that upon Occaſion of a Plague that rag'd at Athens, when they had ſacrific'd to all their Gods one after another, for the Staying of the Plague they were adviſ'd to let ſome Sheep go where they pleas'd, and where they lay down, to build an Altar, τῷ προσήκοντι Θεῷ, To the Proper God, or the God to whom that Affair of ſtaying the Peſtlience did belong; and becauſe they knew not how to call him, they inſcrib'd it, To the Unknown God. Others from ſome of the beſt Hiſtorians of Athens, tells us, They had many Altars inſcrib'd, To the Gods of Aſia, Europe and Africa, to the Unknown God. And ſome of the neighbouring Countries uſed to ſwear by the God that was Unknown at Athens. So Lucian.

Now obſerve how modeſtly Paul mentions this; That he might not be thought a Spy, or One that had intruded himſelf more than became a Stranger into the Knowledge of their Myſteries, he tells them that he obſerv'd it, as he paſſed by, and ſaw their Devotions, or their ſacred Things; It was publick, and he could not forbear ſeeing it, and it was proper enough to make his Remarks upon the Religion of the Place. And obſerve how prudently and ingeniouſly he takes Riſe from this to bring in his Diſcourſe of the true God. (1.) He tells them, That the God he preach'd to them, was One that they did already worſhip; and therefore he was not a Setter-forth of new or ſtrange God's; as you have a Dependance upon him, ſo he has had ſome Kind of Homage from you. (2.) He was One whom they ignorantly worſhipped, which was a Reproach to them, who were famous all the World over for their Knowledge. Now, ſaith he, I come to take away that Reproach, that you may worſhip him Underſtandingly, whom now you worſhip Ignorantly; and it cannot but be acceptable to have your blind Devotion, turn'd into a reaſonable Service; that you may not worſhip ye know not what.

Secondly, He confirms this Doctrine of One Living and True God by his Works of Creation and Providence: The God whom I declare unto you to be the ſole Object of your Devotion, and call you to the Worſhip of, is the God that made the World and governs it; and by the viſible Proofs of theſe, you may be led to this inviſible Being, and be convinc'd of his Eternal Power and Godhead. The Gentiles in general, and the Athenians particularly in their Devotions, were govern'd not by their Philoſophers, who many of them ſpoke clearly and excellently well of One Supream Numen, and of his Infinite Perfections, and univerſal Agency and Dominion; witneſs the Writings of Plato, and long after of Cicero; but by their Poets, and their idle Fictions, Homer's Works were the Bible of the Pagan Theology, or Dæmonology rather, not Plato's: And the Philoſophers tamely ſubmitted to this, reſted in their Speculations, diſputed 'em among themſelves, and taught them their Scholars, but never made the Uſe they ought to have made of them in Oppoſition to Idolatry, ſo little Certainty were they at concerning them, and ſo little Impreſſion did they make upon them; nay, they ran in themſelves into the Superſtition of their Country, and thought they ought to do ſo; Damus ad communem Errorem.

Now Paul here ſets himſelf in the firſt Place to reform the Philoſophy of the Athenians, he corrects the Miſtakes of that, and to give them right Notions of the One only Living and True God; and then to carry the Matter further than they ever attempted, for the reforming of their Worſhip, and the bringing them off from their Polytheiſm and Idolatry. Obſerve, What glorious Things Paul here ſaith of that God whom he ſerv'd, and would have them to ſerve.

1. He is the GOD that made the World and all Things therein, the Father Almighty, the Creator of Heaven and Earth. This was admitted by many of the Philoſophers: But thoſe of Ariſtotle's School deny'd it; and maintain'd, That the World was from Eternity, and every Thing always was what now it is. Thoſe of the School of Epicurus fancy'd, That the World was made by a fortuitous Concourſe of Atoms, which having been in a perpetual Motion, at length accidentally jump'd into this Frame: Againſt both of theſe, Paul here maintains, That God by the Operation of an infinite Power, according to the Contrivance of an infinite Wiſdom, in the Beginning of Time, made the World and all Things therein; the Riſe of which was owing, not as they fancy'd to an Eternal Matter, but to an Eternal Mind.

2. He is therefore Lord of Heaven and Earth, i. e. He is the rightful Owner, Proprietor, and Poſſeſſor of all the Beings, Powers and Riches of the upper and lower World, Material and Immaterial, Viſible and Inviſible. This follows from his making of Heaven and Earth: If he created All, without doubt he has the diſpoſing of All; and where he gives Being, has an indiſputable Right to give Law.

3. He is in a particular Manner the Creator of Men, of all Men, v. 26. He made of one Blood all Nations of Men: He made the firſt Man, he makes every Man, is the Former of every Man's Body, and the Father of every Man's Spirit: He has made the Nations of all Men; not only of Men in the Nations, but as Nations in their Political Capacity, he is their Founder, and diſpos'd them into Communities for their mutual Preſervation and Benefit. He made them all of one Blood, of one and the ſame Nature, he faſhioneth their Hearts alike; deſcended from one and the ſame common Anceſtor, in Adam they are all a-kin, ſo they are in Noah, that hereby they might be engag'd in mutual Affection and Aſſiſtance, as Fellow-Creatures and Brethren: Have we not all one Father, hath not one God created us? Mal. ii. 10. He hath made them for to dwell on all the Face of the Earth, which as a bountiful Benefactor he has given with all its Fulneſs to the Children of Men. He made them not to live in one Place, but to be diſperſs'd over all the Earth; one Nation therefore ought not to look with Contempt upon another, as the Greeks did upon all other Nations; for thoſe on all the Face of the Earth are of the ſame Blood. The Athenians boaſted, that they ſprang out of their own Earth, were Aborigenes, and nothing a-kin by Blood to any other Nation, which proud Conceit of themſelves the Apoſtle here takes down.

4. That he is the Great Benefactor of the whole Creation, v. 25. He giveth to all Life, and Breath, and all Things; He not only breath'd into the firſt Man the Breath of Life, but ſtill breathes it into every Man: He gave us theſe Souls; he form'd the Spirit of Man within him: He not only gave us our Life and Breath, when he brought us into Being, but he is continually giving it us: His Providence is a continued Creation; he holds our Souls in Life. Every Moment our Breath goes forth, but he graciouſly gives it us again the next Moment. 'Tis not only his Air that we breath in, but it is in his Hand that our Breath is, Dan. v. 23. He gives to all the Children of Men their Life and Breath; for as the meaneſt of the Children of Men live upon him, and receive from him; ſo the greateſt, the wiſeſt Philoſophers and mightieſt Potentates cannot live without him. He gives to All, not only to all the Children of Men, but to the inferiour Creatures, to all Animals, every Thing wherein is the Breath of Life, Gen. vii. 17. They have their Life and Breath from him. And where he gives Life and Breath, he gives all Things; all other Things needful for the Support of Life: Earth is full of his Goodneſs; Pſal. civ. 24, 27.

5. That he is the Sovereign Diſpoſer of all the Affairs of the Children of Men, according to the Counſel of his Will, v. 26. He hath determin'd the Times before appointed, and the Bounds of their Habitation. See here, (1.) The Sovereignty of God's Diſpoſal concerning us; he hath determin'd every Event, ὁρίσας, the Matter is fix'd. The Diſpoſals of Providence are unconteſtable, and muſt not be diſputed; unchangeable and cannot be alter'd. (2.) The Wiſdom of his Diſpoſals; he hath determin'd what was before appointed. The Determinations of the Eternal Mind, are not ſudden Reſolves, but the Counter-parts of an Eternal Counſel, the Copies of Divine Decrees. He performeth the Thing that is appointed by me, Job xxiii. 14. Whatever comes forth from God, was before all Worlds hid in God. (3.) The Things about which his Providence is converſant; theſe are Time and Place: The Times and Places of our living in this World, are determin'd and appointed by the God that made us. (1.) He has determin'd the Times that are concerning us; Times to us ſeem changeable, but God has fix'd them. Our Times are in his Hand, to lengthen, or ſhorten, embitter or ſweeten, as he pleaſeth: He has appointed and determin'd the Time of our coming into the World, and the Time of our Continuance in the World, our Time to be born, and our Time to dye, (Eccleſ. iii. 1.) and all that little that lies between them, the Time of our Concernments in this World, whether they be proſperous Times, or Calamitous Times, 'tis he that hath determin'd them: And on him we muſt depend, with reference to the Times that are yet before us. (2.) He has alſo determin'd and appointed the Bounds of our Habitation. He that appointed the Earth to be a Habitation for the Children of Men, has appointed to the Children of Men a Diſtinction of Habitations upon the Earth, has inſtituted ſuch a Thing as Property, to which he has ſet Bounds to keep us from treſpaſſing one upon another. The particular Habitations in which our Lot is caſt, the Place of our Nativity, and of our Settlement, are of God's determining and appointing, which is a Reaſon why we ſhould accommodate ourſelves to the Habitations we are in, and make the beſt of that which is.

6. That he is not far from every one of us, v. 27. He is every where preſent, not only is at our right Hand, but hath poſſeſs'd our Reins, Pſal. cxxxix. 43. hath his Eye upon us at all Times, and knows us better than we know ourſelves. Idolaters made Images of God, that they might have him with them in thoſe Images, which the Apoſtle here ſhews the Abſurdity of; for he is an Infinite Spirit that is not far from any of us, and never the nearer, but in one Senſe the further off from us for our pretending to realize or preſentiate him to our ſelves by any Image. He is nigh unto us both to receive the Homage we render him, and to give the Mercies we ask of him, wherever we are, tho' near no Altar, Image, or Temple. The Lord of all as he is rich, Rom. x. 12. ſo he is nigh (Deut. iv. 7.) to all that call upon him. He that wills us to pray every where, aſſures us, that he is no-where far from us. Whatever Country, Nation or Profeſſion we are of, whatever our Rank and Condition in the World is, be we in a Palace or in a Cottage, in a Croud, or in a Corner, in a City, or in a Deſart, in the Depths of the Sea, or afar off upon the Sea, this is certain, God is not far off from every one of us.

7. That in him we live, and move, and have our Being, v. 28. We have a neceſſary and conſtant Dependance upon his Providence, as the Streams have upon the Spring, and the Beams upon the Sun. (1.) In him we live, i. e. The Continuance of our Lives is owing to him, and the conſtant Influence of his Providence; He is our Life, and the Length of our Days. 'Tis not only owing to his Patience and Pity that our forfeited Lives are not cut off, but 'tis owing to his Power and Goodneſs, and Fatherly Care, that our frail Lives are prolong'd. There needs not a poſitive Act of his Wrath to deſtroy us, if he ſuſpend the poſitive Acts of his Goodneſs we die of our ſelves. (2.) In him we move; 'Tis by the uninterrupted Concourſe of his Providence that our Souls move themſelves in their Out-goings, and Operations, that our Thoughts run too and fro about a thouſand Subjects, and our Affections run-out towards their proper Objects. 'Tis likewiſe by him that our Souls move our Bodies; we cannot ſtir a Hand, or a Foot, or a Tongue, but by him, who as he is the firſt Cauſe, ſo is the firſt Mover. (3.) In him we have our Being; Not only from him we had it at firſt, but in him we have it ſtill: To his continu'd Care and Goodneſs we owe it, not only that we have a Being, and are not ſunk into Non-entity, but that we have our Being, have this Being, were, and ſtill are, of ſuch a noble Rank of Beings, capable of knowing and enjoying God, and are not thruſt into the Meanneſs of Brutes, or the Miſery of Devils.

8. That upon the whole Matter, we are GOD's Off-ſpring, He is our Father that begat us, Deut. xxxii. 6, 18. And he hath nouriſhed and brought us up as Children, Iſa. i. 2. The Confeſſion of an Adverſary in ſuch a Caſe, is always look'd upon to be of Uſe as Argumentum ad hominem, and therefore the Apoſtle here quotes a Saying of one of the Greek Poets, Aratus, a Native of Cilicia, Paul's Countryman, in his Phœnomena. In the Beginning of his Book, ſpeaking of the Heathen Jupiter, that is, in the Poetical Dialect, the ſupream God, he ſaith this of him, τοῦ γὰρ καὶ γένος ἐσμὲν, For we are alſo his Off-ſpring. And he might have quoted other Poets to the Purpoſe of what he was ſpeaking, that in God we live, and move, Spiritus intus alit, totamque infuſa por artus Mens agitat molem; So Virgil Æneid 6. Eſt Deus in nobis, agitante caleſcimus illo; So Ovid Faſtor. 6. Jupiter eſt quodcunque vides quocunque moveris; So Lucan. lib. II. But he chuſes this of Aratus, as having much in a little. By this it appears, not only that Paul was himſelf a Scholar, but that Human Learning is both ornamental and ſerviceable to a Goſpel-Miniſter, eſpecially for the convincing of thoſe that are without; for it enables them to beat them at their one Weapons, and to cut off Goliah's Head with his own Sword. How can the Adverſaries of Truth be beaten out of their Strong-holds by thoſe that do not know them. It may likewiſe ſhame God's profeſſing People who forget their Relation to God, and walk contrary to it, that a Heathen Poet could ſay of God, we are his Off-ſpring, form'd by him, form'd for him, more the Care of his Providence, than ever any Children were the Care of their Parents, and therefore are oblig'd to obey his Commands, and acquieſce in his Diſpoſals, and to be unto him for a Name and a Praiſe, ſince in him, and upon him we live, we ought to live to him; ſince in him we move, we ought to move towards him; and ſince in him we have our Being, and from him we receive all the Supports and Comforts of our Being, we ought to conſecrate our Being to him, and to apply ourſelves to him for a new-Being, a better-Being, an eternal well-Being.

Thirdly, From all theſe great Truths concerning God he infers the Abſurdity of their Idoltray, as the Prophets of old had done. If this be ſo,

1. Then God cannot be repreſented by an Image: If we are the Off-ſpring of God, as we are Spirits in Fleſh, then certainly he who is the Father of our Spirits, (and they are the principal Part of us, and that Part of us by which we are denominated God's Off-ſpring) then he is himſelf a Spirit, and we ought not to think, that the Godhead is like unto Gold, or Silver, or Stone graven by Art and Man's Device, v. 29. We wrong God, and put an Affront upon him, if we think ſo. God honour'd Man in making his Soul after his Likeneſs, but Man diſhonours God, if he makes him after the Likeneſs of his Body. The Godhead is Spiritual, Infinite, Immaterial, and Incomprehenſible, and therefore 'tis a very falſe and unjuſt Conception which an Image gives us of God, be the Matter never ſo rich, Gold or Silver, be the Shape never ſo curious, and be it never ſo well graven by Art and Man's Device, its Countenance, Poſture or Dreſs never ſo ſignificant, 'tis a Teacher of Lies.

2. Then he dwells not in Temples made with Hands, v. 24. He is not invited to any Temple Men can build for him, nor confin'd to any. A Temple brings him never the nearer to us, nor keeps him ever the longer among us: A Temple is convenient for us to come together in to worſhip God; but God needs not any Place of Reſt or Reſidence, or the Magnificence and Splendour of any Structure to add to the Glory of his Appearance. A pious upright Heart, a Temple not made with Hands, but by the Spirit of God, is that which he dwells in, and delights to dwell in. See 1 King. viii. 27. Iſa. lxvi. 1, 2.

3. Then he is not worſhipped, θεραπεύεται, He is not ſerved or miniſtered unto with Mens Hands as tho' he needed any Thing, v. 25. He that made All, and maintains All, cannot be benefited by any of our Services, nor needs them. If we receive and derive All from him, he is All-ſufficient, and therefore cannot but be Self-ſufficient, or Independent. What Need can God have of our Services, or what Benefit can he have by them, when he has all Perfections in himſelf, and we have Nothing that is good, but what we have from him? The Philoſophers indeed, were ſenſible of this Truth, That God has no Need of us or our Services; but the Vulgar Heathen built Temples, and offer'd Sacrifices to their Gods with an Opinion, that they needed Houſes and Food. See Job xxxv. 5, 6, 7, 8. Pſal. l. 8, &c.

4. Then it concerns us all to enquire after God, v. 27. That they ſhould ſeek the LORD, i. e. Fear and Worſhip him in a right Manner. Therefore God has kept the Children of Men in a conſtant Dependance upon him for Life, and all the Comforts of Life, that he might keep them under conſtant Obligations to him: We have plain Indications of God's Preſence among us, his Preſidency over us, the Care of his Providence concerning us, and its Bounty to us, that we might be put upon enquiring, Where is GOD our Maker, who giveth Songs in the Night; who teacheth us more than the Beaſts of the Earth, and maketh us wiſer than the Fowls of Heaven? Job xxxv. 10, 11. Nothing, one would think, ſhould be more powerful with us to convince us that there is a God, and to engage us to ſeek his Honour and Glory in our Services, and to ſeek our Happineſs in his Favour and Love, than the Conſideration of our own Nature, eſpecially the noble Powers and Faculties of our own Souls: If we reflect upon theſe, and contemplate theſe, we may perceive both our Relation and Obligation to a God above us. Yet ſo dark is this Diſcovery in Compariſon with that by Divine Revelation, and ſo unapt are we to receive it, that they who have no other, could but haply feel after God, and find him. (1.) 'Twas very uncertain, whether they would by this ſearching find out God; 'Tis but a Peradventure, if haply they might. (2.) If they did find out ſomething of God, yet it was but ſome confus'd Notions of him, they did but feel after him, as Men in the Dark, or blind Men, who lay hold on a Thing that comes in their Way, but know not whether it be that which they are in Queſt of or no. 'Tis a very confus'd Notion which this Poet of theirs has of the Relation between God and Man, and very general, That we are his Off-ſpring; as was alſo that of their Philoſophers: Pythagoras ſaid, Θεῖον γένος ἐςὶ βροτοῖς, Men have a Sort of divine Nature. And Heraclitus (apud Lucian.) being ask'd, What Men were? anſwer'd, They were, Θεοὶ θνητοὶ, mortal Gods. And, What the Gods were? anſwer'd, They were, ἀθάνατοι ἄνθρωποι, immortal Men. And Pindar ſaith, Nem. Ode 6. Ἓν ἀνδρῶν γένος, ἓν θεῶν γένος, God and Man are near a-kin; 'tis true, that by the Knowledge of ourſelves, we may be led to the Knowledge of God, but it is a very confus'd Knowledge. This is but Feeling after him. We have therefore Reaſon to be thankful, that by the Goſpel of Chriſt, we have Notices given us of God much clearer than we could have by the Light of Nature; we do not now feel after him, but with open Face behold as in a Glaſs the Glory of GOD.

Fourthly, He proceeds to call them all to repent of their Idolatries, and to turn from them, v. 30, 31. This is the practical Part of Paul's Sermon before the Univerſity: Having declar'd GOD to them, v. 23. from thence he probably preſſed upon them Repentance towards GOD; and would have taught them alſo Faith towards our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, if they would have had Patience to hear him. Having ſhew'd them the Abſurdity of their Worſhipping other Gods; he perſuades them to go on no longer in that fooliſh Way of Worſhip, but to return from it to the Living and True God. Obſerve,

1. The Carriage of God towards the Gentile World before the Goſpel came among them; The Times of this Ignorance GOD wink'd at. (1.) They were Times of great Ignorance; Human Learning flouriſhed more than ever in the Gentile World juſt before Chriſt's-Time; but in the Things of God they were groſely Ignorant. Thoſe are Ignorant indeed, who either know not God, or worſhip him Ignorantly: Idolatry was owing to Ignorance. (2.) Theſe Times of Ignorance GOD wink'd at. Underſtand it (1.) As an Act of divine Juſtice; God deſpis'd or neglected theſe Times of Ignorance, and did not ſend them his Goſpel, as now he doth. It was very provoking to him to ſee his Glory thus given to another; and he deteſted and hated theſe Times. So ſome take it. Or rather, (2.) As an Act of divine Patience and Forbearance; He wink'd at theſe Times: He did not reſtrain them from theſe Idolatries, by ſending Prophets to them, as he did to Iſrael: He did not puniſh them in their Idolatries, as he did Iſrael; but gave them the Gifts of his Providence, Acts xiv. 16. Theſe Things thou haſt done, and I kept ſilence, Pſal. l. 21. He did not give them ſuch Calls and Motives to Repentance, as he doth now; He let them alone, becauſe they did not improve the Light they had, but were willingly Ignorant; He did not ſend them greater Lights: Or, He was not quick and ſevere with them, but was long-ſuffering towards them, becauſe they did it Ignorantly, 1 Tim. i. 13.

2. The Charge God gave to the Gentile World by the Goſpel, which he now ſent among them: He now commandeth all Man every where to repent; to change their Mind, and change their Way; to be aſham'd of their Folly, and to act more wiſely; to break off the Worſhip of Idols, and bind themſelves to the Worſhip of the True God. Nay, 'tis to turn with Sorrow and Shame from every Sin, and with Chearfulneſs and Reſolution to every Duty. (1.) This is God's Command; It had been a great Favour if he had only told us, That there was Room left for Repentance, and we might be admitted to it; but he goes further, he interpoſeth his own Authority for our Good, and has made that our Duty which is our Privilege. (2.) 'Tis his Command to all Men every where; To Men, and not to Angels that Need it not; to Men, and not to Devils, that are excluded the Benefit of it. To all Men in all Places; all Men have made Work for Repentance, and have Cauſe enough to repent, and all Men are invited to repent, and ſhall have the Benefit of it. The Apoſtles are commiſſion'd to preach this every-where. The Prophets were ſent to command the Jews to repent; but the Apoſtles were ſent to preach Repentance and Remiſſion of Sins to all Nations. (3.) Now in Goſpel-Times it is more earneſtly commanded, becauſe more encourag'd than it had been formerly; now the Way of Remiſſion is more open'd than it had been, and the Promiſe more fully confirm'd; and therefore now He expects we ſhould all repent. Now repent; now at length, now in Time, repent; for you have too long gone on in Sin: Now in Time repent, for 'twill be too late ſhortly.

3. The great Reaſon to enforce this Command, taken from the Judgement to come; God commands us to repent, becauſe He hath appointed a Day in the which He will judge the World in Righteouſneſs, v. 31. and has now under the Goſpel made a clearer Diſcovery of a State of Retribution in the other World, than ever before. Obſerve,

1. The GOD that made the World, will judge it; that gave the Children of Men their Being and Faculties, will call them to an Account what Uſe they have made of them; and recompence them accordingly. Whether the Body ſerv'd the Soul in ſerving God; or the Soul was a Drudge to the Body in making Proviſion for the Fleſh? and every Man ſhall receive according to the Things done in the Body, 1 Cor. v. 10. The God that now governs the World, will judge it, will reward the faithful Friends of his Government, and puniſh the Rebels.

2. There is a Day appointed for this general Review of all that Men have done in Time, and a final Determination of their State for Eternity. The Day is fix'd in the Counſel of God, and cannot be alter'd; but it is hid there, and cannot be known. A Day of Deciſion, a Day of Recompence; a Day that will put a final Period to all the Days of Time.

3. The World will be judg'd in Righteouſneſs; for God is not unrighteous, who taketh Vengeance, far be it from Him that He ſhould do Iniquity. His Knowledge of all Mens Characters and Actions is infallibly true, and therefore his Sentence upon them unconteſtably juſt: And as there will be no Appeal from it, ſo there will be no Exception againſt it.

4. God will judge the World by that Man whom He hath ordain'd, who can be no other but the Lord Jeſus, to whom all Judgement is committed. By him God made the World, by him He redeem'd it, by him He governs it, and by him He will judge it.

5. God's Raiſing Chriſt from the Dead is the great Proof of his being appointed and ordain'd the Judge of Quick and Dead: His doing him that Honour, evidenc'd his deſigning him this Honour. His Raiſing him from the Dead, was the Beginning of his Exaltation; his Judging the World, will be the Perfection of it; and He that begins will make an End. God hath given Aſſurance unto all Men, ſufficient Ground for their Faith to build upon, both that there is a Judgement to come, and that Chriſt will be their Judge; the Matter is not left doubtful, but is of unqueſtionable Certainty. Let all his Enemies be aſſur'd of it, and tremble before him; let all his Friends be aſſur'd of it, and triumph in Him.

6. The Conſideration of the Judgement to come, and of the great Hand Chriſt will have in that Judgement, ſhould engage us all to repent of our Sins, and turn from them to God: This is the only Way to make the Judge our Friend in that Day, which will be a terrible Day to all that live and dye impenitent, but true Penitents will then lift up their Heads with Joy, knowing that their Redemption draws nigh.

32 ¶ And when they heard of the reſurrection of the dead, ſome mocked: and others ſaid, We will hear thee again of this matter. 33 So Paul departed from among them. 34 Howbeit, certain men clave unto him, and believed: among the which was Dionyſius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

We have here a ſhort Account of the Iſſue of Paul's Preaching at Athens.

Firſt, Few were the better; the Goſpel had as little Succeſs at Athens as any where; for the Pride of the Philoſophers there, as of the Phariſees at Jeruſalem, prejudic'd them againſt the Goſpel of Chriſt.

1. Some ridicul'd Paul and his Preaching; they heard him patiently, till he came to ſpeak of the Reſurrection of the Dead, v. 32. and then ſome of them began to hiſs him, they mock'd. What he had ſaid before was ſomewhat like what they had ſometimes heard in their own Schools; and ſome Notion they had of a Reſurrection, as it ſignifies a future State; but if he ſpeak of a Reſurrection of the Dead, tho' it be of the Reſurrection of Chriſt himſelf, 'tis altogether incredible to them, and they cannot bear ſo much as to hear of it, as being contrary to a Principle of their Philoſophy, A Privatione ad habitum non datur regreſſus. They had deify'd their Heroes after their Death; but they never thought of their being rais'd from the Dead, and therefore they could by no Means reconcile themſelves to this Doctrine of Chriſt's being rais'd from the Dead; How can this be? This great Doctrine which is the Saints Joy, is their Jeſt; when it was but mention'd to them, they mock'd, and made a laughing Matter of it. We are not to think it ſtrange, if ſacred Truths of the greateſt Certainty and Importance, are made the Scorn of profane Wits.

2. Others were willing to take Time to conſider of it; They ſay, We will hear thee again of this Matter. They would not at preſent comply with what Paul ſaid, or oppoſe it; but we will hear thee again of this Matter of the Reſurrection from the Dead. It ſhould ſeem they over-look'd that which was plain and uncontroverted, and ſhifted off the Application and the Improvement of that, by ſtarting Objections againſt that which was diſputable and would admit a Debate. Thus many loſe the Benefit of the Practical Doctrine of Chriſtianity, by wading beyond their Depth into Controverſy; or rather, by objecting againſt that which hath ſome Difficulty in it; whereas, if any Man were diſpos'd and determin'd to do the Will of God, as far as it is diſcover'd to him, he ſhould know of the Doctrine of Chriſt, that it is of GOD, and not of Man, Joh. vii. 17. Thoſe that would not yield to the preſent Convictions of the Word, thought to get clear of them, as Felix did, by putting them off to another Opportunity; they will hear of it again ſome Time or other, but they know not when; and thus the Devil cozens them of all their Time, by cozening them of the preſent Time.

3. Paul thereupon left them for the preſent to conſider of it, v. 33. He departed from among them, as ſeeing little Likelihood of doing any Good with them at this Time; but 'tis likely, with a Promiſe to thoſe that were willing to hear him again, that he would meet them whenever they pleas'd.

Secondly, Yet there were ſome that were wrought upon, v. 34. If ſome would not, others would.

1. There were certain Men that clave to him, and believ'd; when he departed from among them, they would not part with him ſo; where-ever he went they would follow him, with a Reſolution to adhere to the Doctrine he preach'd, which they believed.

2. Two are particularly nam'd; One was an eminent Man; Dionyſius the Areopagite; One of that high Court, or great Council that ſat at Areopagus, or Mars-Hill; a Judge, a Senator, one of thoſe before whom Paul was ſummoned to appear; his Judge becomes his Convert. The Account which the Antients give of this Dionyſius is, That he was bred at Athens, had ſtudy'd Aſtrology in Egypt, where he took Notice of the miraculous Eclipſe at our Saviour's Paſſion; that returning to Athens he became a Senator; diſputed with Paul, and was by him converted from his Error and Idolatry; and being by him throughly inſtructed, was made the firſt Biſhop of Athens. So Euſebius, l. 3. c. 4. l. 4. c. 22. The Woman named Damaris was (as ſome think) the Wife of Dionyſius; but rather, ſome other Perſon of Quality. And tho' there was not ſo great a Harveſt gather'd in at Athens, as there was at ſome other Places; yet theſe few being wrought upon there, Paul had no Reaſon to ſay, he had labour'd in vain.

CHAP. XVIII.

In this Chapter we have (1.) Paul*'s Coming to* Corinth, his private Converſe with Aquila and Priſcilla, and his publick Reaſonings with the Jews, from whom, when they rejected him, he turn'd to the Gentiles, v. 1—6. (2.) The great Succeſs of his Miniſtry there, and the Encouragement Chriſt gave him in a Viſion, to continue his Labours there, in hopes of further Succeſs, v. 7—11. (3.) The Moleſtation which after ſome Time he met with there from the Jews, which he got pretty well through by the Coldneſs of Gallio the Roman Governour in the Cauſe, v. 12—17 (4.) The Progreſs Paul made thro' many Countries, after he had continued long at Corinth, for the Edifying and Watering of the Churches which he had founded and planted, in which Circuit he made a ſhort Viſit to Jeruſalem, v. 18—23. (5). An Account of Apollos*'s Improvement in Knowledge, and his Uſefulneſs in the Church*, v. 24—28.

AFter theſe things, Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth; 2 And found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priſcilla (becauſe that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome) and came unto them. And becauſe he was of the ſame craft, he abode with them, and wrought (for by their occupation they were tent-makers.) 4 And he reaſoned in the ſynagogue every ſabbath, and perſwaded the Jews, and the Greeks. 5 And when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was preſſed in ſpirit and teſtified to the Jews that Jeſus was Chriſt. 6 And when they oppoſed themſelves, and blaſphemed, he ſhook his raiment, and ſaid unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

We do not find that Paul was much perſecuted at Athens, nor that he was driven from thence by any Ill-Uſage, as he was from thoſe Places where the Jews had or could make any Intereſt; but his Reception at Athens being cold, and little Proſpect of doing Good there, he departed from Athens, leaving the Care of thoſe there who believed, with Dionyſius; and from thence he came to Corinth, where he was now inſtrumental in Planting a Church that became upon many Accounts conſiderable. Corinth was the chief City of Achaia, now a Province of the Empire, a rich and ſplendid City, non cuivis homini contingit adire Corinthum; the Country thereabouts at this Day is called the Morea. Now here we have,

Firſt, Paul working for his Living, v. 2, 3.

1. Tho' he was bred a Scholar, yet he was Maſter of a Handicraft Trade. He was a Tent-maker, an Upholſterer; he made Tents for the Uſe of Soldiers and Shepherds, of Cloth or Stuff, or (as ſome ſay, Tents were then generally made) of Leather, or Skins as the outer covering of the Tabernacle. Hence to live in Tents, was to live ſub pellibus. Dr. Lightfoot ſhews, that it was the Cuſtom of the Jews to bring up their Children to ſome Trade. yea, tho' they gave them Learning or Eſtates: Rabbi Judah ſaith, He that teacheth not his Son a Trade, is as if he taught him to be a Thief. And another ſaith, he that hath a Trade in his Hand is as a Vineyard that is fenc'd. An honeſt Trade by which a Man may get his Bread, is not to be look'd upon by any with Contempt; Paul tho' a Pharaſee, and bred up at the Feet of Gamaliel, yet having in his Youth learned to make Tents, he did not by diſuſe loſe the Art.

2. Tho' he was entitled to a Maintenance from the Churches he had planted, and from the People he preach'd to, yet he work'd at his Calling to get Bread; which is more to his Praiſe, who did not ask for Supplies, than to theirs who did not ſupply him unask'd, knowing what Straits he was reduc'd to. See how humble Paul was, and wonder that ſo great a Man could ſtoop ſo low; but he had learn'd Condeſcenſion of his Maſter, who came not to be miniſtred to, but to miniſter. See how induſtrious he was, and how willing to take Pains: He that had ſo much more excellent Work to do with his Mind, yet when there was Occaſion, did not think it below him to work with his Hands. Even thoſe that are redeemed from the Curſe of the Law, yet are not exempted from that Sentence; In the Sweat of thy Face thou ſhalt eat Bread. See how careful Paul was to recommend his Miniſtry, and to prevent Prejudices againſt it, even the moſt unjuſt and unreaſonable; He therefore maintain'd himſelf with his own Labour, that he might not make the Goſpel of Chriſt burthenſome, 2 Cor. xi. 7. &c. 2 Theſſ. iii. 8, 9.

3. Tho' we may ſuppoſe he was Maſter of his Trade, yet he did not diſdain to work Journey Work; he wrought with Aquila, and Priſcilla; who were of that Calling; ſo that he got no more but Day-wages; a bare Subſiſtence. Poor Tradeſman muſt be thankful if their Callings bring them in a Maintenance for themſelves and their Families, tho' they cannot do as the rich Merchants, that raiſe Eſtates by their Callings.

4. Tho' he was himſelf a great Apoſtle, yet he choſe to work with Aquila and Priſcilla, becauſe he found them to be very intelligent in the Things of God, as appears afterwards, v. 26. and he owns that they had been his Helpers in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. xvi. 3. This is an Example to thoſe who are going to Service, to ſeek for thoſe Services in which they may have the beſt Help for their Souls. Chuſe to work with thoſe that are likely to be our Helpers in Chriſt Jeſus. 'Tis good to be in Company, and to have Converſation with thoſe that will further us in the Knowledge of Chriſt, and put to ourſelves under the Influence of ſuch as are reſolv'd, that they will ſerve the Lord.

Concerning this Aquila we are here told (1.) That he was a Jew, but born in Pontus, v. 2. Many of the Jews of the Diſperſion were ſeated in that Country, as appears, 1 Pet. i. 1. (2.) That he was lately come from Italy to Corinth; it ſeems he often chang'd his Habitation; this is not the World we can promiſe ourſelves a Settlement in. (3.) That the Reaſon of his leaving Italy was, becauſe, by a late Edict of the Emperor Claudius Cæſar, all Jews were baniſh'd from Rome; for the Jews were generally diſguſted, and every Occaſion was taken to put hardſhip and Diſgrace upon them; God's Heritage was a ſpeckled Bird, the Birds round about were againſt her, Jer. xii. 9. Aquila tho' a Chriſtian, was baniſh'd becauſe he had been a Jew; and the Gentiles had ſuch confuſed Notions of the Thing, that they could not diſtinguiſh between a Jew and a Chriſtian. Suetonius in the Life of Claudius, ſpeaks of this Decree in the Ninth Year of his Reign, and ſaith, The Reaſon was, becauſe the Jews were a turbulent People, aſſiduo tumultuantes; and that it was impulſore Chriſto, upon the Account of Chriſt: Some zealous for him, others bitter againſt him, which occaſion'd great Heats, ſuch as gave Umbrage to the Government, and provok'd the Emperor, who was a timorous, jealous Man, to order them all to be gone. If Jews perſecute Chriſtians, it is not ſtrange, if Heathens perſecute them both.

Secondly, We have here Paul preaching to the Jews, and dealing with them, to bring them to the Faith of Chriſt; both the Native Jews and the Greeks, i.e. Thoſe that were more or leſs proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion, and frequented their Meetings.

1. He reaſoned with them in the Synagogue publickly every Sabbath: See in what Way the Apoſtles propagated the Goſpel; not by Force and Violence, by Fire and Sword, not by demanding an implicit Conſent, but by their fair Arguing; they drew with the Cords of a Man; gave a Reaſon for what they ſaid, and gave a Liberty to object againſt it, having ſatisfactory Anſwers ready. God invites us to come and reaſon with him, Iſa. i. 8. and challenges Sinners to produce their Cauſe, and bring forth their ſtrong Reaſons, Iſa. xlii. 21. Paul was a Rational as well as Scriptural Preacher.

2. He perſwaded them, ἔπειθε. It notes (1.) The Urgency of his Preaching; he did not only diſpute Argumentatively with them, but he follow'd his Arguments with affectionate Perſwaſions, begging of them for God's Sake, for their own Souls Sake, for their Childrens Sake, not to refuſe the Offer of Salvation made them. Or, (2.) The good Effect of his Preaching; he perſwaded them, i. e. he prevail'd with them; ſo ſome underſtand it. In ſententium ſuum adducebat. Some of them were convinced by his Reaſonings, and yielded to Chriſt.

3. He was yet more earneſt in this Matter, when his Fellow-Labourers, his Seconds, came up with him, v. 5. When Silas and Timothy were come from Macedonia, and had brought him good Tidings from the Churches there, and were ready to aſſiſt him here, and ſtrengthen'd his Hands; then Paul was more than before preſs'd in Spirit, which made him more than ever preſſing in his Preaching. He was griev'd for the Obſtinacy and Infidelity of his Country-Men the Jews; was more intent than ever upon their Converſion, and the Love of Chriſt conſtrain'd him to it, 2 Cor. v. 14. 'tis the Word that is us'd here, it preſs'd him in Spirit to it: And being thus preſs'd, he teſtify'd to the Jews with all poſſible Solemnity and Seriouſneſs, as that which he was perfectly well aſſur'd of himſelf, and atteſted to them as a faithful Saying, and worthy of all Acceptation; that Jeſus is the Chriſt, the Meſſiah promis'd to the Fathers, and expected by them.

Thirdly, We have him here abandoning the unbelieving Jews, and turning from them to the Gentiles, as he had done in other Places, v. 6.

1. Many of the Jews, and indeed moſt of them perſiſted in their Contradiction to the Goſpel of Chriſt, and would not yield to the ſtrongeſt Reaſonings, or the moſt winning Perſuaſions; they oppos'd themſelves and blaſphem'd; they ſet themſelves in Battle array, (ſo the Word ſignifies) againſt the Goſpel, they joyn'd Hand in Hand to ſtop the Progreſs of it. They reſolv'd they would not believe it themſelves, and would do all they could to keep others from believing it. They could not argue againſt it; but what was wanting in Reaſon, they made up in ill Language: They blaſphemed, ſpoke reproachfully of Chriſt, and in him of God himſelf, as Rev. xiii. 6, 6. To juſtify their Infidelity, they broke out into down-right Blaſphemy.

2. Paul hereupon declar'd himſelf diſcharg'd from them, and left them to periſh in their Unbelief. He that was preſs'd in Spirit to teſtify to them, v. 5. when they oppos'd that Teſtimony, and perſiſted in their Oppoſition, was preſs'd in Spirit to teſtify againſt them, v. 6. and his Zeal herein alſo he ſhew'd by a Sign; he ſhook his Raiment, ſhaking off the Duſt of it, as before they ſhook off the Duſt of their Feet, Chap. xiii. 51. for a Teſtimony againſt them; thus he clear'd himſelf from them, but threaten'd the Judgments of God againſt them; as Pilate, by waſhing his Hands ſignify'd the devolving of the Guilt of Chriſt's Blood from himſelf upon the Jews; ſo Paul by ſhaking his Raiment ſignify'd what he ſaid (if poſſible) to affect them with it. (1.) He had done his Part, and was clean from the Blood of their Souls; he had like a Faithful Watchman given them Warning, and thereby had deliver'd his Soul, tho' he could not prevail to deliver theirs; he had try'd all Methods to work upon them, but all in vain, ſo that if they periſh in their Unbelief, their Blood is not to be required at his Hands: Here, and Chap. xx. 26. he plainly refers to Ezek. xxxiii. 8, 9. It is very comfortable to a Miniſter to have the Teſtimony of his Conſcience for him, that he has faithfully diſcharged his Truſt by warning Sinners. (2.) They would certainly periſh if they perſiſted in their Unbelief, and the Blame would lie wholly upon themſelves; your Blood be upon your own Heads, you will be your own Deſtroyers, your Nation will be ruin'd in this World, and particular Perſons will be ruin'd in the other World, and you alone ſhall bear it. If any Thing would frighten them at laſt into a Compliance with the Goſpel, ſure this would.

3. Having given them over, yet he doth not give over his Work; tho' Iſrael be not gathered, Chriſt and his Goſpel ſhall be glorious, from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles; and the Jews cannot complain, for they had the firſt Offer, and a fair one, made to them. The Gueſts that were firſt invited will not come, and the Proviſion muſt not be loſt, Gueſts muſt be had therefore from the High-ways, and the Hedges. We would have gather'd the Jews, Matth. xxiii. 37. would have heal'd them, Jer. ii. 9. and they would not; but Chriſt muſt not be a Head without a Body, not a Foundation without a Building, and therefore if they will not, we muſt try whether others will. Thus the Fall and Diminiſhing of the Jews was the Riches of the Gentiles; and Paul ſaid this to their Faces, not only becauſe it was what he could juſtify, but to provoke them to Jealouſy, Rom. xi. 12, 14.

7 ¶ And he departed thence, and entred into a certain man's houſe, named Juſtus, one that worſhipped God, whoſe houſe joyned hard to the ſynagogue. 8 And Criſpus the chief ruler of the ſynagogue, believed on the Lord with all his houſe: and many of the Corinthians, hearing, believed, and were baptized. 9 Then ſpake the Lord to Paul in the night by a viſion, Be not afraid, but ſpeak, and hold not thy peace: 10 For I am with thee, and no man ſhall ſet on thee, to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city. 11 And he continued there a year and ſix months, teaching the word of God among them.

Here we are told,

Firſt, That Paul chang'd his Quarters: Chriſt directed his Diſciples when he ſent them forth, not to go from Houſe to Houſe, Luke x. 7. but there might be Occaſion to do it, as Paul did here. He departed out of the Synagogue, being driven out by the Perverſneſs of the unbelieving Jews, and he entred into a certain Man's Houſe named Juſtus, v. 7. It ſhould ſeem he went to this Man's Houſe, not to lodge, for he continued with Aquila and Priſcilla, but to preach: When the Jews would not let him go on peaceably with his Work in their Meeting, this honeſt Man open'd his Doors to him, and told him, he ſhould be welcome to preach there, and Paul accepted the Motion; and it was not the firſt Time that God's Ark had taken up its Lodging in a private Houſe. When Paul could not have Liberty to preach in the Synagogue, he preached in a Houſe, without any Diſparagement to his Doctrine. But obſerve the Account of this Man and his Houſe.

1. The Man was next Door to a Jew: He was One that worſhipped God, he was not an Idolater, tho' he was a Gentile, but was a Worſhipper of the God of Iſrael, and him only, as Cornelius: That Paul might give the leſs Offence to the Jews, tho' he had abandon'd them he ſet up his Meeting in that Man's Houſe. Even then when he was under a Neceſſity of breaking off from them to turn to the Gentiles, yet he would ſtudy to oblige them.

2. The Houſe was next Door to the Synagogue, it joyned cloſe to it; which ſome perhaps might interpret as done with Deſign to draw People from the Synagogue to the Meeting; but I rather think 'twas done in Charity, to ſhew that he would come as near them as he could, and was ready to return to them if they were but willing to receive his Meſſage, and would not contradict and blaſpheme as they had done.

Secondly, That Paul ſaw the good Fruit of his Labours preſently, both among Jews and Gentiles.

1. Criſpus a Jew, an eminent One, the chief Ruler of the Synagogue, believed on the Lord Jeſus with all his Houſe, v. 8. It was for the Honour of the Goſpel, that there were ſome Rulers and Perſons of the firſt Rank both in Church and State that embrac'd it. This would leave the Jews inexcuſable, that the Ruler of their Synagogue who may be ſuppos'd to have excell'd the reſt in Knowledge of the Scriptures, and Zeal for their Religion, believ'd the Goſpel, and yet they oppos'd and blaſphem'd it. Not only he, but his Houſe believed, and probably were baptiz'd with him by Paul, 1 Cor. i. 14.

2. Many of the Corinthians who were Gentiles, (and ſome of them Perſons of an ill Character, as appears, 1 Cor. vi. 11. ſuch were ſome of you) hearing, believed, and were baptiz'd: Firſt they heard, for Faith comes by hearing: Some perhaps, came to hear Paul under ſome Convictions of Conſcience, that the Way they were in was not right; but 'tis probable the moſt came only for Curioſity, becauſe it was a new Doctrine that was preach'd; but hearing they believed, by the Power of God working upon them; and believing they were baptized, and ſo fix'd for Chriſt, took upon them the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, and became entitled to the Privileges of Chriſtians.

Thirdly, That Paul was encourag'd by a Viſion to go on with his Work at Corinth, v. 9. The Lord Jeſus ſpoke to Paul in the Night by a Viſion; When he was muſing on his Work, communing with his own Heart upon his Bed, and conſidering, whether he ſhould continue here or no; what Method he ſhould take here, and what Probability there was of doing Good, then Chriſt appear'd very ſeaſonably to him, and in the Multitude of his Thoughts within him, delighted his Soul with divine Conſolations.

1. He renew'd his Commiſſion and Charge to preach the Goſpel; Be not afraid of the Jews, tho' they are very outragious, and perhaps the more enrag'd by the Converſion of the chief Ruler of their Synagogue; Be not afraid of the Magiſtrates of the City, for they have no Power againſt thee but what is given them from above. 'Tis the Cauſe of Heaven thou art pleading, do it boldly: Be not afraid of their Words, nor diſmay'd at their Looks; but ſpeak and hold not thy Peace; let ſlip no Opportunity of ſpeaking to them, cry aloud, ſpare not: Do not hold thy Peace from ſpeaking for fear of them, nor hold thy Peace in ſpeaking (if I may ſo ſay,) do not ſpeak ſhily and with Caution, but plainly, and fully, and with Courage; ſpeak out, uſe all the Liberty of Spirit that becomes an Ambaſſador for Chriſt.

2. He aſſur'd him of his Preſence with him, which was ſufficient to animate him, and put Life and Spirit into him; Be not afraid, for I am with thee, to protect thee, and bear thee out, and to deliver thee from all thy Fears, Speak, and hold not thy Peace; for I am with thee, to own what thou ſay'ſt, to work with thee, and to confirm the Word by Signs following. The ſame Promiſe that ratify'd the general Commiſſion, Matth. xxviii. 19, 29. Lo I am with you always, is here repeated. They that have Chriſt with them, need not to fear, and ought not to ſhrink.

3. He gave him a Warrant of Protection to ſave him harmleſs; No Man ſhall ſet on thee, to hurt thee; Thou ſhalt be delivered out of the Hands of wicked and unreaſonable Men, and ſhalt not be driven hence as thou waſt from other Places by Perſecution. He doth not promiſe, that no Man ſhall ſet on him; for the next News we hear, is, that he is ſet upon and brought to the Judgement-Seat, v. 12. but no Man ſhall ſet on thee, to hurt thee, the Remainder of their Wrath ſhall be reſtrain'd: Thou ſhall not be beaten and impriſon'd here as thou waſt at Philippi. Paul met with coarſer Treatment at firſt than he did afterwards, and was now comforted, according to the Time wherein he had been afflicted. Tryals ſhall not laſt always, Pſal. lxvi. 10, 11, 12. Or, we may take it more generally, No Man ſhall ſet on thee, τοῦ κακῶσαί σε, to do evil to thee; whatever Trouble they may give thee, there is no real Evil in it. They may kill thee, but they cannot hurt thee; for I am with thee, Pſal. xxiii. 4. Iſa. lxi. 10.

4. He gave him a Proſpect of Succeſs; For I have much People in this City; therefore no Man ſhall prevail to obſtruct thy Work, therefore I will be with thee, to own thy Work, and therefore do thou go on vigorouſly and chearfully in it; for there are many in this City, that are to be effectually called by thy Miniſtry, in whom thou ſhalt ſee of the Travel of thy Soul. λαὸς ἐστί μοι πολὺς, There is to me a great People here; The Lord knows them that are his, yea, and them that ſhall be his; for it is by his Work upon them that they become his, and known unto him are all his Works. I have them, tho' they yet know me not; tho' yet they are led Captive by Satan at his Will; for the Father has given them me, to be a Seed to ſerve me; I have them written in the Book of Life, I have their Names down, and of all that were given me I will loſe none; I have them, for I am ſure to have them; whom he did predeſtinate, them he called. In this City, tho' it be a very prophane wicked City, full of Impurity, and the more ſo for a Temple of Venus there, to which there was a great Reſort; yet in this Heap that ſeems to be all Chaff, there is Wheat; in this Ore that ſeems to be all Droſs, there is Gold. Let us not deſpair concerning any Place, when even in Corinth, Chriſt had much People.

Fourthly, That upon this Encouragement he made a long Stay there, v. 11. He continued at Corinth, a Year and Six Months, not to take his Eaſe but to follow his Work, teaching the Word of God among them; and it being a City flock'd to from all Parts, he had Opportunity there of Preaching the Goſpel to Strangers, and ſending Notice of it thence to other Countries. He ſtay'd ſo long,

1. For the Bringing in of thoſe that were without: Chriſt had much People there, and by the Power of his Grace he could have had them all converted in one Month or Week, as at the firſt Preaching of the Goſpel, when Thouſands were incloſ'd at one Caſt of the Net; but God works variouſly. The People Chriſt has at Corinth muſt be called in by Degrees, ſome by one Sermon, others by another, we ſee not yet all Things put under Chriſt. Let Chriſt's Miniſters go on in their Duty, tho' their Work be not done all at once; nay, tho' it be done but a little at a Time.

2. For the building up of thoſe that were within: Thoſe that are converted have ſtill need to be taught the Word of God; and particular Need at Corinth to be taught it by Paul himſelf; for no ſooner was the good Seed ſown in that Field, but the Enemy came and ſowed Tares, the falſe Apoſtles, thoſe deceitful Workers, whom Paul in his Epiſtle to the Corinthians complains ſo much of. When the Hands of Jewiſh Perſecutors were ty'd, who were profeſs'd Enemies to the Goſpel, Paul had a more vexatious Trouble created him, and the Church more miſchievous Damage done it by the Tongue of judaizing Preachers, who under Colour of the Chriſtian Name, undermin'd the very Foundations of Chriſtianity. Soon after Paul came to Corinth, it's ſuppos'd he wrote the firſt Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, which in order of Time was the firſt of all the Epiſtles he wrote by Divine Inſpiration; and the ſecond Epiſtle to the ſame Church was written not long after. Miniſters may be ſerving Chriſt, and promoting the great Ends of their Miniſtry, by writing good Letters, as well as by preaching good Sermons.

12 ¶ And when Gallio was the deputy of Achaia, the Jews made inſurrection with one accord againſt Paul, and brought him to the judgement-ſeat, 13 Saying, This fellow perſuadeth men to worſhip God contrary to the Law. 14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio ſaid unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong, or wicked lewdneſs, O ye Jews, reaſon would that I ſhould bear with you: 15 But if it be a queſtion of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it; for I will be no judge of ſuch matters. 16 And he drave them from the judgement-ſeat. 17 Then all the Greeks took Soſthenes, the chief ruler of the ſynagogue, and beat him before the judgement-ſeat: and Gallio cared for none of thoſe things.

We have here an Account of ſome Diſturbance given to Paul and his Friends at Corinth; but no great harm done, nor much hindrance given to the Work of Chriſt there.

Firſt, Paul is accus'd by the Jews before the Roman Governor, v. 12, 13. The Governor was Gallio, Deputy of Achaia, i. e. Proconſul; for Achaia was a Conſular Province of the Empire. This Gallio was eldeſt Brother to the famous Seneca; in his Youth he was call'd Novatus, but took the Name of Gallio upon his being adopted into the Family of Julius Gallio; he is deſcrib'd by Seneca his Brother, to be a Man of great Ingenuity, and great Probity, and a Man of wonderful good Temper; he was call'd Dulcis Gallio, for his ſweet Diſpoſition, and is ſaid to have been univerſally belov'd. Now obſerve,

1. How rudely Paul is apprehended and brought before Gallio; the Jews made Inſurrection with one accord againſt Paul. They were the Ring-leaders of all the Miſchief againſt Paul, and they enter'd into a Confederacy to do him a Miſchief; they were unanimous in it, they came upon him with one accord; Hand joyned in Hand to do this Wickedneſs; they did it with Violence and Fury, they made an Inſurrection to the Diſturbance of the Publick Peace, and hurry'd Paul away to the Judgement-Seat, and for ought appears, allow'd him no Time to prepare for his Tryal.

2. How falſely Paul is accus'd before Gallio, v. 13. This Fellow perſwades Men to worſhip GOD contrary to the Law. They could not charge him with perſwading Men not to worſhip God at all, or to worſhip other God's, (Deut. xiii. 2.) but only to worſhip God in a way contrary to the Law: The Romans allow'd the Jews in their Provinces the Obſervation of their own Law, and what then? Muſt they therefore be proſecuted as Criminals, who worſhip God in any other Way? Doth their Tolleration include a Power of Impoſition? But the Charge was unjuſt, for their own Law had in it a Promiſe of a Prophet whom God would raiſe up to them, and him they ſhould hear; now Paul perſwaded them to believe in this Prophet, who was come, and to hear him, which was according to the Law; for he came not to deſtroy the Law, but to fulfil it. The Law relating to the Temple Service, thoſe Jews at Corinth could not obſerve, becauſe of their Diſtance from Jeruſalem, and there was no part of their Synagogue-Worſhip which Paul contradicted. Thus when People are taught to worſhip God in Chriſt, and to worſhip him in the Spirit, they are ready to quarrel, as if they were taught to worſhip him contrary to the Law; whereas this is indeed perfective of the Law.

Secondly. Gallio upon the firſt hearing, or rather without any hearing at all, diſmiſſeth the Cauſe, and will not take any Cognizance of it, v. 14, 15. Paul was going about to make his Defence, and to ſhew that he did not teach Men to worſhip God contrary to Law; but the Judge being reſolved not to paſs any Sentence upon this Cauſe, he would not give himſelf the Trouble of examining it. Obſerve,

1. He ſhews himſelf very ready to do the part of a Judge in any matter that it was proper for him to take Cognizance of; he ſaid to the Jews that were the Proſecutors, If it were a matter of Wrong, or wicked Lewdneſs; if you could charge the Priſoner with Theft or Fraud, with Murder or Rapine, or any Act of Immorality, I ſhould think my ſelf bound to bear with you in your Complaints, tho' they were clamorous and noiſy; for the rudneſs of the Petitioners was no good Reaſon, if their Cauſe was juſt, why they ſhould not have Juſtice done them: It is the Duty of Magiſtrates to right the Injured, and to animadvert upon the Injurious; and if the Complaint be not made with all the Decorum that might be, yet they ſhould bear it out, But,

2. He will by no means allow them to make a Complaint to him of a Thing that was not within his Juriſdiction, v. 15, If it be a Queſtion of Words and Names, and of your Law, look ye to it; end it among your ſelves as you can, but I will be no Judge of ſuch matters; you ſhall neither burthen my Patience with the hearing of it, nor burthen my Conſcience with giving Judgement upon it; and therefore when they were urgent and preſſing to be heard, he drave them from the Judgement Seat, v. 16. and ordered another Cauſe to be called.

Now, (1.) Here was ſomething well in Gallio's Conduct, and Praiſe worthy, that he would not pretend to judge of Things he did not underſtand; that he left the Jews to themſelves in Matters relating to their own Religion; but yet would not let them, under pretence of that, run down Paul and abuſe him, or at leaſt would not himſelf be the Tool of their Malice, to give Judgement againſt him. He look'd upon the matter to be not within his Juriſdiction, and therefore would not meddle in it.

But (2) It was certainly ill to ſpeak ſo ſlightly of a Law and Religion, which he might have known to be of God, and which he ought to have acquainted himſelf with. In what Way God is to be worſhiped? Whether Jeſus be the Meſſiah; Whether the Goſpel be a Divine Revelation; Were not Queſtions of Words and Names, as he ſcornfully and profanely call'd them; they are Queſtions of vaſt Importance, and which, if he had underſtood himſelf aright, he would have ſeen himſelf nearly concern'd in. He ſpeaks as if he boaſted of the Ignorance of their Scriptures, and took a Pride in it, as if it were below him to take notice of the Law of God, or make any enquiries concerning it.

Thirdly, The Abuſe done to Soſthenes, and Gallio's unconcernedneſs in it, v. 17.

1. The Parties put a great Contempt upon the Court, when they took Soſthenes and beat him before the Judgement Seat. Many Conjectures there are concerning this Matter, becauſe 'tis uncertain who this Soſthenes was, and who the Greeks were that abus'd him. It ſeems moſt probable that Soſthenes was a Chriſtian, and Paul's particular Friend, that appear'd for him on this Occaſion, and probably had taken Care of his Safety, and convey'd him away when Gallio diſmiſs'd the Cauſe; ſo that when they could not light on Paul, they fell foul on him who protected him. 'Tis certain, there was one Soſthenes that was a Friend of Paul's, and well known at Corinth; 'tis likely he was a Miniſter, for Paul calls him his Brother, and joyns him with himſelf, in his firſt Epiſtle to the Church at Corinth, 1 Cor. i. 1. as he doth Timothy in the Second, and 'tis probable this was he; he is ſaid to be a Ruler of the Synagogue, either Joynt-Ruler with Criſpus, v. 8. or Ruler of one Synagogue as Criſpus was of anothev. And as for the Greeks that abus'd him, 'tis probable they were either Helleniſt Jews, or Jewiſh Greeks, thoſe that joyn'd with the Jews in oppoſing the Goſpel, v. 4. 6. And the Native Jews put them on to do it, thinking it would in them be leſs offenſive. They were ſo enrag'd againſt Paul, that they beat Soſthenes, and ſo enrag'd againſt Gallio, becauſe he would not countenance the Proſecution, that they beat him before the Judgement Seat, whereby they did in effect tell him, that they car'd not for him; if he would not be their Executioner, they would be their own Judges.

2. The Court put no leſs a Contempt upon the Cauſe and the Perſons too, but Gallio cared for none of theſe Things. If by this be meant that he cared not for the Affronts of ill Men, it was commendable, while he ſteadily adher'd to the Laws and Rules of Equity, he might deſpiſe their Contempts; but if it be meant, as I think it is, that he concern'd not himſelf for the Abuſes done to good Men, it carries his Indifferency too far, and gives us but an ill Character of him. Here is Wickedneſs done in the Place of Judgement, which Solomon complains of, Eccl. iii. 16. and nothing done to diſcountenance and ſuppreſs it. Gallio as a Judge, ought to have protected Soſthenes, and reſtrain'd and puniſh'd the Greeks that aſſaulted him; for a Man to be mobb'd in the Street or in the Market, perhaps may not be eaſily help'd, but to be ſo in his Court, the Judgement Seat, the Court ſitting and not concern'd at it, is an Evidence that Truth is fallen in the Street, and cannot enter; for he that departeth from Evil maketh himſelf a Priy, Iſa. lix. 14. Thoſe that ſee and hear of the Sufferings of God's People, and have no Sympathy with them, or Concern for them, do not pity and pray for them; it being all one to them whether the Intereſts of Religion ſink or ſwim; are of the Spirit of Gallio here, who when a good Man was abus'd before his Face, cared for none of theſe Things; like them that were at eaſe in Sion, and were not grieved for the Affliction of Joſeph, Amos vi. 6. like the King and Haman, that ſate down to drink when the City Shuſhan was perplex'd, Eſt. iii. 15.

18 ¶ And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the Brethren, and ſailed thence into Syria, and with him Priſcilla and Aquila: having ſhorn his Head in Cenchrea: for he had a vow. 19. And he came to Epheſus, and left them there: but he himſelf enter'd into the ſynagogue and reaſoned with the Jews. 20 When they deſired him to tarry longer time with them, he conſented not: 21 But bade them farewel, ſaying, I muſt by all means keep this feaſt that cometh in Jeruſalem: but I will return again unto you, if God will. And he ſailed from Epheſus. 22 And when he had landed at Ceſarea, and gone up and ſaluted the church, he went down to Antioch. 23 And after he had ſpent ſome time there, he departed, and went over all the country of Galatia and Phrygia in order ſtrengthning all the diſciples.

We have here Paul in Motion, as we have had him at Corinth for ſome Time at Reſt; but in both buſy, very buſy in the Service of Chriſt; if he ſat ſtill, if he went about, ſtill it was to do Good. Here's Firſt, Paul's Departure from Corinth, v. 18.

1. He did not go away till ſome Time after the Trouble he met with there. From other Places he had departed when the Storm roſe, but not from Corinth; becauſe, there it was no ſooner riſen, but it fell again. Some tell us, that Gallio did privately Countenance Paul, and took him into his Favour, and that this occaſion'd a Correſpondence between Paul and Seneca Gallio's Brother, which ſome of the Ancients ſpeak of. After this he tarried there yet a good while, ſome think beyond the Year and half, mention'd, v. 11. while he found he labour'd not in vain, he continu'd labouring.

2. When he went he took leave of the Brethren ſolemnly, and with much Affection, with ſuitable Comforts and Counſels, and Prayers at parting, commanding what was good, reproving what was otherwiſe, and giving them neceſſary Cautions againſt the Wiles of the falſe Apoſtles ; and his Farewel Sermon would leave Impreſſions upon them.

3. He took with him Priſcilla and Aquila, becauſe they had a mind to accompany him ; for they ſeemed diſpos'd to removes, and not inclined to ſtay long in a Place ; a Diſpoſition which may come from a good Principle, and have good Effects, and therefore ought not to be condemn'd in others, tho' it ought to be ſuſpected in our ſelves. There was a mighty Friendſhip contracted between them and Paul, and therefore when he went, they beg'd to go along with him.

4. At Cenchrea, which was hard by Corinth, the Port where thoſe that went to Sea from Corinth took Ship, either Paul or Aquila, (for the Original doth not determine which) had his Head ſhav'd, to diſcharge himſelf from the Vow of a Nazarite, having ſhorn his Head at Cenchrea ; far he had a Vow. Thoſe that liv'd in Judea were in ſuch a caſe bound to do it at the Temple, but thoſe who liv'd in other Countries might do it in other Places. The Nazarite's Head was to be ſhav'd, when either his Conſecration was accidentally polluted, in which Caſe he muſt begin again : Or, When the Days of his Separation were fulfill'd, Num. vi. 9, 13, 18. which we ſuppoſe was the Caſe here ; ſome throw it upon Aquila, who as a Jew, v. 2. had retain'd perhaps more of his Judaiſm than was convenient ; but I ſee no harm in admitting it concerning Paul, for concerning him we muſt admit the ſame Thing, Chap. xxi. 24, 26. not only in compliance for a Time with the Jews, to whom he became as a Jew, 1 Cor. ix. 20. that he might win upon them, but becauſe the Vow of the Nazarites tho' Ceremonial, and as ſuch ready to vaniſh away, yet had a great deal of Moral and very Pious Significancy, and therefore was fit to die the laſt of all the Jewiſh Ceremonies : The Nazarites are joyned with the Prophets, Amos ii. 11. and were very much the Glory of Iſrael, Lam. iv. 7, and therefore it is not ſtrange, if Paul bound himſelf for ſome Time with the Vow of a Nazarite, from Wine and Strong-drink, and from being trim'd, to recommend himſelf to the Jews ; and from this he now diſcharg'd himſelf.

Secondly, Paul's calling at Epheſus, which was the Metropolis of the Leſſer Aſia, and a Sea-port.

1. There he left Aquila and Priſcilla ; not only becauſe they would be but burthenſome to him in his Journey, but becauſe they might be ſerviceable to the Intereſts of the Goſpel at Epheſus : Paul intended ſhortly to ſettle there for ſome Time, and left Aquila and Priſcilla there in the mean Time, for the ſame End as Chriſt ſent his Diſciples before to every Place where he himſelf would come, to prepare his Way. Aquila and Priſcilla might by private Converſation, being very intelligent, judicious Chriſtians, diſpoſe the Minds of many to give Paul, when he ſhould come among them, a favourable Reception, and to underſtand his Preaching ; therefore he calls them his Helpers in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. xvi. 3.

2. There he preach'd to the Jews in their Synagogue ; tho' he did but call there in his Journey, yet he would not go without giving them a Sermon. He enter'd into the Synagogue, not as a Hearer, but as a Preacher ; for there he reaſon'd with the Jews. Tho' he had abandon'd the Jews at Corinth, who oppos'd themſelves, and blaſphem'd, yet he did not for their Sakes decline the Synagogues of the Jews in other Places, but ſtill made the firſt offer of the Goſpel to them. We muſt not condemn a whole Body or Denomination of Men, for the Sake of ſome that carry themſelves ill.

3. The Jews at Epheſus were ſo far from driving Paul away, that they courted his ſtay with them, v. 20. They deſir'd him to tarry longer with them, to inſtruct them in the Goſpel of Chriſt. Theſe were more nolle, and better bred, than thoſe Jews at Corinth and other Places ; and it was a Sign that God had not quite caſt away his People, but had a Remnant among them.

4. Paul would not ſtay with them now ; he conſented not ; but bad them farewell : He had further to go ; he muſt by all means keep this Feaſt at Jeruſalem ; not that he thought himſelf bound in Duty to do it, he knew the Laws of the Feaſts were no longer binding ; but he had Buſineſs at Jeruſalem (whatever it was) which would be beſt done at the Time of the Feaſt, when there was a general Rendezvous of all the Jews from all Parts. Which of the Feaſts it was we are not told ; probably it was the Paſſover, which was the moſt eminent.

5. He intimated his Purpoſe after this Journey, to come and ſpend ſome Time at Epheſus ; by their kind Invitation, being encourag'd to hope that he ſhould do Good among them. 'Tis good to have Opportunities in reſerve ; when one good Work is over, to have another to apply our ſelves to. I will return again to you ; but he inſerts that neceſſary Proviſo, If GOD will. Our Times are in God's Hand ; we purpoſe, but He diſpoſeth ; and therefore we muſt make all our Promiſes with ſubmiſſion to the Will of God ; If the LORD will, we ſhall live, and do this or that. I will return again to you, if the Spirit ſuffer me, Chap. xvi. 7. That was included in Paul's Caſe ; not only if Providence permit, but if God do not otherwiſe direct my Motions.

Thirdly, Paul's Viſit to Jeruſalem ; a ſhort Viſit it was but it ſerv'd as a Token of Reſpect to that truly Mother-Church.

1. He came by Sea to the Port that lay next to Jeruſalem ; he ſail'd from Epheſus, v. 21. and landed at Cæſarea, v. 22. He choſe to go by Sea for Expedition, and for Safety ; and that he might ſee the Works of the Lord, and his Wonders in the Deep. Joppa had been the Port for Jeruſalem ; but Herod having improved Cæſarea, and the Port at Joppa being dangerous, that was generally made uſe of.

2. He went up and ſaluted the Church ; by which, I think is plainly meant the Church at Jeruſalem, which is emphatically call'd the Church, becauſe there the Chriſtian Church began, Acts xv. 4. Paul thought it requiſite to ſhew himſelf among them, that they might not think his Succeſs among the Gentiles had made him think himſelf either above them, or eſtranged from them ; Or, that the Honour God had put upon him, made him unmindful of the Honour he ow'd to them. His going to ſalute the Church at Jeruſalem, intimates (1.) That it was a very friendly Viſit that he made them ; in pure Kindneſs, to enquire into their State, and to teſtify his hearty Good-will to them, Note, The increaſe of our new Friends, ſhould not make us to forget our old ones ; but it ſhould be a Pleaſure to good Men and good Miniſters, to revive former Acquaintance. The Miniſters at Jeruſalem were conſtant Reſidents ; Paul was a conſtant Itinerant ; but he took Care to keep up a good Correſpondence with them, that they might rejoyce with him in his going out, and he might rejoyce with them in their Tents, and they might both congratulate and wiſh well to one another's Comfort and Succeſs. (2.) That it was but a ſhort Viſit ; He went up and ſaluted them, perhaps with the holy-Kiſs, and made no ſtay among them. It was deſign'd but for a tranſient Interview, and yet Paul undertook this Journey for that. This is not the World we are to be together in ; God's People are the Salt of the Earth, diſpers'd and ſcatter'd, yet it is good to ſee one another ſometimes, if it be but to ſee one another ; that we may confirm mutual Love, may the better keep up our ſpiritual Communion with one another at a Diſtance ; and may long the more for that heavenly Jeruſalem, in which we hope to be together for ever.

1. He went and ſpent ſome Time in Antioch, among his old Friends there, from whence he was firſt ſent out to preach among the Gentiles, Chap. xiii. 1. He went down to Antioch, to refreſh himſelf with the Sight and Converſation af the Miniſters there. And a very good Refreſhment it is to a faithful Miniſter, to have for a while the Society of his Brethren ; for as Iron ſharpeneth Iron, ſo doth a Man the Countenance of his Friend. Paul's coming to Antioch, would bring to remembrance the former Days, which would furniſh him with matter for freſh Thankſgiving.

2. Thence he went over the Country of Galacia, and Phrygia in order ; where he had preach'd the Goſpel, and planted Churches ; which tho' very briefly mention'd, Chap. xvi. 6. yet was a glorious Work, as appears by Gal. iv. 14, 15. where Paul ſpeaks of his Pteaching of the Goſpel to the Galatians at the firſt, and their receiving him as an Angel of GOD. Theſe Country Churches (for ſo they wete, (Gal. i. 2.) and we read not of any City in Galatia, where a Church was) Paul viſited in order as they lay, watering what he had been inſtrumental to plant, and ſtrengthning all the Diſciples. His very coming among them, and owning them, was a great ſtrengthning to them and their Miniſters. Paul's Countenancing of them, was encouraging to them : But that was not all ; he preach'd that to them which ſtrengthen'd them ; which confirm'd their Faith in Chriſt, and their Reſolutions for Chriſt, and their pious Affections to him. Diſciples need to be ſtrengthen'd, for they are compaſs'd about with Infirmity ; Miniſters muſt do what they can to ſtrengthen them, to ſtrengthen them all, by directing them to Chriſt, and bringing them to live upon him, whoſe Strength is perfected in their Weakneſs, and who is himſelf their Strength and Song.

24 ¶ And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and mighty in the ſcriptures, came to Epheſus. 25 This man was inſtructed in the way of the Lord ; and being fervent in the ſpirit, he ſpake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptiſm of John. 26 And he began to ſpeak boldly in the ſynagogue. Whom when Aquila and Priſcilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. 27 And when he was diſpoſed to paſs into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the diſciples to receive him : who, when he was come, helped them much which had believed through grace. 28 For he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publickly, ſhewing by the ſcriptures, that Jeſus was Chriſt.

The Sacred Hiſtory leaves Paul upon his Travels, and goes here to meet Apollos at Epheſus, and to give us ſome Account of him ; which was neceſſary to our underſtanding ſome Paſſages in Paul's Epiſtles.

Firſt, Here is an Account of his Character, when he came to Epheſus.

1. He was a Jew, born at Alexandria in Egypt, but of Jewiſh Parents, for there were Abundance of Jews in that City; ſince the Diſperſion of the People, it was foretold, Deut. xxviii. 68. The Lord ſhall bring them into Egypt again. His Name was not Apollo, the Name of one of the Heathen Gods, but Apollos; ſome think, the ſame with Apollos, Rom. xvi. 10.

2. He was a Man of excellent good Parts, and well fitted for publick Service. He was an eloquent Man, and mighty in the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, which he was as a Jew brought up in the Knowledge of. (1.) He had a great command of Language; he was an eloquent Man; he was, ἀνὴρ λόγιος, a prudent Man, ſo ſome; a learned Man, ſo others; Hiſtoriarium peritus, a good Hiſtorian; which is an excellent Qualification for the Miniſtry; he was one that could ſpeak well, ſo it properly ſignifies; he was an Oracle of Man; he was famous for ſpeaking pertinently and cloſely, fully and fluently upon any Subject. (2.) He had a great command of Scripture Language, and that was the Eloquence he was remarkable for. He came to Epheſus, being mighty in the Scriptures, ſo the Words are plac'd: Having an excellent Faculty of Expounding Scriptures, he came to Epheſus, which was a publick Place, to trade with that Talent for the Honour of GOD, and the Good of many. He was not only ready in the Scriptures, able to quote Texts off-hand, and repeat them, and tell you where to find them; many of the carnal Jews were ſo, who are therefore ſaid to have the Form of Knowledge, and the Letter of the Law. But he was mighty in the Scriptures; he underſtood the Senſe and Meaning of them, he knew how to make uſe of them, and to apply them; how to reaſon out of the Scriptures, and to reaſon ſtrongly. A convincing, commanding, confirming Power, went along with all his Expoſitions and Applications of the Scripture. 'Tis likely, he had given Proof of his Knowledge of the Scriptures, and his Abilities in them, in many Synagogues of the Jews.

3. He was inſtructed in the way of the Lord, i. e. he had ſome Acquaintance with the Doctrine of Chriſt; had got ſome general Notions of the Goſpel, and the Principles of Chriſtianity, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, and that Prophet that ſhould come into the World. The firſt Notice of this, would be readily embrac'd by one that was ſo mighty in the Scripture, as Apollos was, and therefore underſtood the Signs of the Times. He was inſtructed, κατηχημένος, he was Catechiz'd, ſo the Word is, either by his Parents or Miniſters; he was taught ſomething of Chriſt, and the Way of Salvation by him. Thoſe that are to teach others, muſt firſt be themſelves taught the Word of the Lord; not only to talk of it, but to walk in it. 'Tis not enough to have our Tongues turn'd to the Word of the Lord, but we muſt have our Feet directed into the way of the Lord.

4. Yet he knew only the Baptiſm of John; he was inſtructed in the Goſpel of Chriſt, as far as John's Miniſtry would carry him, and no further: He knew the preparing of the Way of the Lord, by that Voice crying in the Wilderneſs, rather than the Way of the LORD itſelf. We cannot but think, he had heard of Chriſt's Death and Reſurection, but was not let into the Myſtery of them; had not had Opportunity of converſing with any of the Apoſtles ſince the Pouring out of the Spirit. Or, he had himſelf been baptiz'd, only with the Baptiſm of John, but was not baptiz'd with the Holy Ghoſt, as the Diſciples were at the Day of Pentecoſt.

Secondly, Here's the Imployment and Improvement of his Gifts at Epheſus: He came thither ſeeking opportunities of doing, and getting Good, and found both.

1. He there made a very good Uſe of his Gifts in Publick. He came probably recommended to the Synagogue of the Jews, as a fit Man to be a Teacher there; and according to the Light he had, and the meaſure of the Gift given to him, he was willing to be employ'd, v. 25. Being fervent in the Spirit, he ſpake and taught diligently the Things of the Lord: Tho' he had not the miraculous Gift of the Spirit, as the Apoſtles had, he made Uſe of the Gifts he had; for the Diſpenſation of the Spirit, whatever the Meaſure of it is, is given to every Man to profit withall; and our Saviour by a Parable deſign'd to teach his Miniſters, that tho' they had but one Talent, they muſt not bury that.

We have ſeen how Apollos was qualify'd with a good Head, and a good Tongue; he was au Eloquent Man, and mighty in the Scriptures; he had a good Stock of uſeful Knowledge, and had an excellent Faculty of communicating it. Let us now ſee what he had further to recommend him as a Preacher, and his Example is recommended to the Imitation of all Preachers.

(1.) He was a lively affectionate Preacher; as he had a good Head, ſo he had a good Heart; he was fervent in Spirit; he had in him a great deal of Divine Fire, as well as Divine Light; was burning, as well as ſhining. He was full of Zeal for the Glory of GOD, and the Salvation of precious Souls: and this appear'd both in his Forwardneſs to preach, when he was call'd to it by the Rulers of the Synagogue, and his Fervency in Preaching; he preach'd as one in earneſt, and that had his Heart in his Work. What a happy Compoſition was here! Many are fervent in Spirit, but are weak in Knowledge, in Scripture Knowledge, and far to ſeek for proper Words, and full of improper ones. And on the other hand, many are eloquent enough, and mighty in the Scriptures, and learned and judicious, but they have no Life or Fervency. Here was a compleat Man of God, thoroughly furniſh'd for his Work, that was both eloquent and fervent; full both of Divine Knowledge, and of Divine Affections.

(2.) He was an induſtrious, laborious Preacher; he ſpake and taught diligontly; he took Pains in his Preaching; what he deliver'd was elaborate, and he did not offer that to GOD or to the Synagogue, that either coſt nothing, or coſt him nothing. He firſt work'd it upon his own Heart, and then labour'd to impreſs it on thoſe he preach'd it to. He taught diligently, ἀκριβῶς, accurately, exactly. Every Thing he ſaid, was well weigh'd.

(3.) He was an Evangelical Preacher; tho' he knew only the Baptiſm of John, yet that was the Beginning of the Goſpel of Chriſt; and to that he kept cloſe; for he taught the Things of the Lord; of the Lord Chriſt, that tended to make Way for him, and to ſet him up: The Things pertaining to the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, was the Subject he choſe to inſiſt upon; not the Things of the Ceremonial Law, tho' thoſe would be pleaſing to his Jewiſh Auditors: Not the Things of the Gentile Philoſophy, tho' he could have diſcours'd very well on theſe Things; but the Things of the Lord:

(4.) He was a couragious Preacher; he began to ſpeak boldly in the Synagogue, as one that having put a Confidence in GOD did not fear the Face of Man; he ſpoke as one that knew the Truth of what he had ſaid, and had no doubt of it, and knew the Worth of what he ſaid, and was not afraid to ſuffer for it. In the Synagogue, where the Jews not only were preſent, but had Power, there he preach'd the Things of GOD, which he knew they were prejudic'd againſt.

2. He there made a good Increaſe of his Gifts in private, not ſo much in Study, as in Converſation with Aquila and Priſcilla. If Paul, or ſome other Apoſtle or Evangeliſt had been at Epheſus, they would have inſtructed him; but for want of better Help, Aquila and Priſcilla that were Tent-makers, Expounded to him the Way of GOD more perfectly. Obſerve,

1. Aquila and Priſcilla heard him preach in the Synagogue. Tho' in Knowledge he was much inferiour to them, yet having excellent Gifts for publick Service, they encourag'd his Miniſtry by a diligent and conſtant Attendance upon it. Thus young Miniſters that are hopeful, ſhould be countenanc'd by grown Chriſtians, for it becomes them to fulfill all Righteouſneſs.

2. Finding him defective in his Knowledge of Chriſtianity, they took him to them, to lodge in the ſame Houſe with them, and expounded to him the Way of God, the Way of Salvation by Jeſus Chriſt more perfectly. They did not take Occaſion from what they obſerv'd of his Deficiency, either to deſpiſe him themſelves, or to diſparage him to others; did not call him a young raw Preacher, not fit to come into a Pulpit, but conſidered the Diſadvantages he had labour'd under, as knowing no more but the Baptiſm of John; and having themſelves got great Knowledge in the Truths of the Goſpel, by their long and intimate Converſation with Paul, they communicated what they knew to him, and gave him a clear diſtinct and methodical Account of thoſe Things, which before he had but confus'd Notion of. (1.) See here an Inſtance of that which Chriſt has promis'd; That to him that hath, ſhall be given, that has and uſes what he has, ſhall have more. He that diligently traded with the Talent he had, doubled it quickly. (2.) See an Inſtance of truly Chriſtian Charity in Aquila and Priſcilla; they did good according to their Ability. Aquila, tho' a Man of great Knowledge, yet did not undertake to ſpeak in the Synagogue, becauſe he had not ſuch Gifts for publick Work as Apollos had; but he furniſh'd Apollos with Matter, and then left him to cloath it with acceptable Words. Inſtructing young Chriſtians, and young Miniſters privately in Converſation, who mean well, and perform well as far as they go, is a Piece of very good Service, both to them and to the Church. (3.) See an Inſtance of great Humility in Apollos: He was a very bright young Man, of great Parts and Learning, newly come from the Univerſity, a popular Preacher, and mightily cry'd up and follow'd; and yet finding that Aquila and Priſcilla were judicious ſerious Chriſtians, that could ſpeak intelligently and experimentally of the Things of GOD, tho' they were but Mechanicks, poor Tent-makers, he was glad to receive Inſtruction from them, to be ſhew'd by them his Defects and Mſtakes, and to have his Miſtakes rectify'd by them; and his Deficiencies made up. Young Scholars may gain a great deal by Converſe with old Chriſtians, as young Students in the Law may by old Practiſers. Apollos, tho' he was inſtructed in the Way of the Lord, did not reſt in the Knowledge he had attained, nor thought he underſtood Chriſtianity as well as any Man; which proud conceited young Men are apt to do, but was willing to have it expounded to him more perfectly. They that know much, ſhould covet to know more, and what they know, to know it better, preſſing forwards towards Perfection. (4.) Here's an Inſtance of a good Woman, tho' not permitted to ſpeak in the Church, or in the Synagogue, yet doing Good with the Knowledge GOD had given her in private Converſe. Paul will have the Aged Women to be Teachers of good Things, 1 Tit. ii. 3, 4.

Thirdly, Here is his Preferment to the Service of the Church of Corinth; which was a larger Sphere of Uſefulneſs than Epheſus at preſent was. Paul had ſet the Wheels a going in Ackaia, and particularly at Corinth, the Country Town, many were ſtir'd up by his Preaching to receive the Goſpel, and they needed to be confirm'd; and many were likewiſe irritated to oppoſe the Goſpel, and they needed to be confuted; Paul was gone, was called away to other Work, and now there was a fair Occaſion in this Vacancy for Apollos to ſet in, who was fitted rather to water than to plant; to build up thoſe that were within, than to bring in thoſe that were without. Now here we have,

1. His Call to this Service; not by a Viſion, as Paul was called to Macedonia, no nor ſo much as by the Invitation of thoſe he was to go to, But (1.) He himſelf inclin'd to go; he was diſpos'd to paſs into Achaia; having heard of the State of the Churches there, he had a Mind to try what Good he could do among them; tho' there were thoſe there, who were eminent for Spiritual Gifts, yet Apollos thought there might be ſome Work for him, and God diſpos'd his Mind that way. (2.) His Friends encourag'd him to go, and approv'd of his Purpoſe, and he being a perfect Stranger there, they gave him a Teſtimonial, or Letters of Recommendation; exhorting the Diſciples in Achaia to entertain him, and employ him. In this Way, among others, the Communion of Churches is kept up, by the recommending of Members and Miniſters to each other; that as Apollos here are diſpoſed to remove. Tho' they at Epheſus had a great Loſs of his Labours, they did not grudge them in Achaia the Benefit of them; but on the contrary, us'd their Intereſt in them to introduce him; for the Churches of Chriſt, tho' they are many, yet they are one.

2. His Succeſs in this Service, which both Ways anſwer'd his Intention and Expectation. For,

1. Believers were greatly edify'd, and they that had received the Goſpel were very much confirm'd. He helped them much which had believed through Grace. Note, 1. They that believe in Chriſt, 'tis through Grace that they believe; 'tis not of themſelves, it is God's Gift to them, it is his Work in them. 2. Thoſe who thro' Grace do believe, yet ſtill have need of Help, as long as they are here in this World; there are remainders of Unbelief, and ſome thing lacking in their Faith, to be perfected, and the Work of Faith to be fulfill'd. 3. Faithful Miniſters are capable of being many Ways helpful to thoſe who through Grace do believe, and it is their Buſineſs to help them, to help them much; and when a Divine Power goes along with them, they will be helpful to them.

2. Unbelievers were greatly mortify'd; their Objections were fully anſwer'd, the Folly and Sophiſtry of their Arguments was diſcover'd, ſo that they had nothing to ſay in Defence of the Oppoſition they made to the Goſpel; their Mouths were ſtop'd, and their Faces fill'd with ſhame, v. 28. He mightily convinc'd the Jews, and that publickly, before the People. He did it εὐτόνως earneſtly, and with a great deal of vehemence; he took Pains to do it; his Heart was upon it as one that was truly deſirous both to ſerve the Cauſe of Chriſt, and to ſave the Souls of Men. He did it effectually, and to univerſal Satisfaction; he did it levi negotio. The Caſe was ſo plain, and the Arguments ſo ſtrong on Chriſt's ſide, that it was an eaſy Matter to baffle all that the Jews could ſay againſt it; tho' they were ſo fierce, yet their Cauſe was ſo weak, that he made nothing of their Oppoſition. Now that which he aim'd to convince them of, was, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, that he is the Meſſiah promis'd to the Fathers, who ſhould come, and they were to look for no other: If the Jews were but convinc'd of this, that Jeſus is Chriſt, even their own Law would teach them to hear him. Note, The Buſineſs of Miniſters is to preach Chriſt; we preach not our ſelves, but Chriſt Jeſus the Lord. The Way he took to convince them, was, by the Scriptures: Thence he fetch'd his Arguments, for the Jews owned the Scriptures to be of Divine Authority, and it was eaſy for him who was mighty in the Scriptures, from them to ſhew, that Jeſus is the Chriſt. Note, Miniſters muſt be able not only to preach the Truth, but to prove it, and defend it, and to convince Gainſayers, with Meekneſs, and yet with Power inſtructing thoſe that oppoſe themſelves. And this is real Service to the Church.

CHAP. XIX.

We left Paul in his Circuit, viſiting the Churches, Chap. xviii. 23. but we have not forgot, nor has he the Promiſe he made to his Friends at Epheſus, to return to them, and make ſome Stay there; now this Chapter ſhews us his Performance of that Promiſe; his Coming to Epheſus, and his Continuance there two Years; we are here told, (1.) How he labour'd there in the Word and Doctrine; how he taught ſome weak Believers that had gone no farther than John's Baptiſm, v. 1—7. how he taught three Months in the Synagogue of the Jews, v. 8. And when he was driven thence, how he taught the Gentiles a long Time in a publick School, v. 9, 10. And how he confirm'd his Doctrine by Miracles, v. 11, 12. (2.) What was the Fruit of his Labour, particularly among the Conjurers, the worſt of Sinners; ſome were confounded that did but make uſe of his Name, v. 13—17. But others were converted that receiv'd and embrac'd his Doctrine, v. 18—20. (3.) What Projects he had of further Uſefulneſs, v. 21, 22. And what Trouble at length he met with at Epheſus, from the Silver Smiths, which forc'd him thence to purſue the Meaſures he had laid: How a Mob was rais'd by Demetrius to cry up Diana, v, 23—34. And how it was ſuppreſs'd and diſpers'd by the Town Clerk, v. 35—41.

AND it came to paſs, that while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having paſſed through the upper coaſts, came to Epheſus: and finding certain diſciples, 2 He ſaid unto them, Have ye received the holy Ghoſt ſince ye believed? And they ſaid unto him, We have not ſo much as heard whether there be any holy Ghoſt. 3 And he ſaid unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they ſaid, Unto John's baptiſm. 4 Then ſaid Paul, John verily baptized with the baptiſm of repentance, ſaying unto the people, That they ſhould believe on him which ſhould come after him, that is, on Jeſus Chriſt. 5 When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jeſus. 6 And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghoſt came on them; and they ſpake with Tongues, and propheſied. 7 And all the men were about twelve.

Epheſus was a City of great Note in Aſia, famous for a Temple built there to Diana, which was one of the Wonders of the World; thither Paul came to preach the Goſpel, while Apollos was at Corinth, v. 1. While he was watering there, Paul was planting here; and grudg'd not that Apollos enter'd into his Labours, and was building upon his Foundation; but rejoyc'd in it, and went on in a new Work, that was cut out for him at Epheſus, with the more chearfulneſs and ſatisfaction, becauſe he knew that ſuch an able Miniſter of the New Teſtament as Apollos was, was now at Corinth carrying on the good Work there; tho' there were thoſe that made him the Head of a Party againſt Paul, 1 Cor. i. 12. yet Paul had no Jealouſy of him, nor any way diſlik'd the Affection the People had for him. Paul having gone through the Country of Galatia and Phrygia, paſt through the upper Coaſts, Pontus and Bithynia, that lay North; at length came to Epheſus, where he had left Aquila and Priſcilla, and there found them.

At his firſt Coming he met with ſome Diſciples there, who profeſs'd Faith in Chriſt as the true Meſſiah, but were as yet in the firſt and loweſt Form in the School of Chriſt, under his Uſher, John the Baptiſt; they were in Number about Twelve, v. 7. They were much of the ſtanding that Apollos was of, when he came to Epheſus, for he knew only the Baptiſm of John, Chap. xviii. 25. but either they had not Opportunity of being acquainted with Aquila and Priſcilla, or had not been ſo long in Epheſus, or were not willing to receive Inſtruction as Apollos was, otherwiſe they might have had the Way of God expounded to them more perfectly, as Apollos had. Obſerve here, Firſt, How Paul catechiz'd them; he was told probably by Aquila and Priſcilla, that they were Believers, that they did own Chriſt, and had given up their Names to him. Now Paul hereupon takes them under Examination.

1. They did believe in the Son of GOD; But Paul enquires whether they had receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt? whether they believ'd in the Spirit, whoſe Operations on the Minds of Men, for Conviction, Converſion and Comfort, were reveal'd ſome Time after the Doctrine of Jeſus his being the Chriſt; whether they had been acquainted with, and had admitted this Revelation? That was not all; extraordinary Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt were confer'd upon the Apoſtles and other Diſciples, preſently after Chriſt's Aſcenſion, which was frequently repeated upon Occaſion: Had they participated of theſe Gifts? Have ye receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt, ſince ye believed? Have you had that Seal of the Truth of Chriſt's Doctrine in your ſelves? We are not now to expect any ſuch extraordinary Gifts as they had then. The Canon of the New Teſtament being long ſince compleated and ratify'd, we depend upon that as the moſt ſure Word of Prophecy: But there are Graces of the Spirit given to all Believers, which are an Earneſt to 'em, 2 Cor. i. 22. v. 9. Eph. i. 13. Now it concerns us all who profeſs the Chriſtian Faith, ſeriouſly to enquire, Whether we have received the Holy Ghoſt, or not? The Holy Ghoſt is promis'd to all Believers, to all Petitioners, Luke xi. 13. But many are deceived in this Matter, that think they have receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt, when really they have not. As there are Pretenders to the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, ſo there are to his Graces and Comforts; we ſhould therefore ſtrictly examine ourſelves; Have we received the Holy Ghoſt, ſince we believ'd? The Tree will be known by its Fruits; Do we bring forth the Fruits of the Spirit? Are we led by the Spirit? Do we walk in the Spirit? Are we under the Government of the Spirit?

2. They own'd their own Ignorance in this matter; whether there be a Holy Ghoſt, is more than we know; that there is a Promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, we know from the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, and that that Promiſe will be fulfill'd in its Seaſon, we doubt not; but ſo much have we been out of the way of Intelligence in this Matter, that we have not ſo much as heard whether the Holy Ghoſt be indeed yet given as a Spirit of Prophecy. They knew (as Dr. Lightfoot obſerves) that according to the Tradition of their Nation, after the Death of Eſra, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachy, the Holy Ghoſt departed from Iſrael, and went up; and they profeſs'd they had never heard of his Return. They ſpake as if they expected it, and wonder'd they did not hear of it, and were ready to welcome the Notice of it. The Goſpel-Light, like that of the Morning, ſhone more and more, gradually; not only clearer and clearer in the Diſcovery of Truths not before heard of, but further and further, in the Diſcovery of them to Perſons that had not before hear'd of them.

3. Paul enquir'd how they came to be baptiz'd, if they knew nothing of the Holy Ghoſt? for if they were baptiz'd by any of Chriſt's Miniſters, they were inſtructed concerning the Holy Ghoſt, and were baptiz'd in his Name. Know ye not that Jeſus being glorify'd, conſequently the Holy Ghoſt is given; unto what then were ye baptiz'd? This is ſtrange and unaccountable; What! baptiz'd, and yet know nothing of the Holy Ghoſt? Surely, your Baptiſm was a Nullity, if you know nothing of the Holy Ghoſt; for it is the Receiving of the Holy Ghoſt that is ſignified and ſealed by that waſhing of Regeneration. Ignorance of the Holy Ghoſt, is as inconſiſtent with a ſincere Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, as Ignorance of Chriſt is. And applying it to ourſelves, it intimates, That thoſe are baptiz'd to no purpoſe, and have receiv'd the Grace of God therein in vain, that do not receive and ſubmit to the Holy Ghoſt. 'Tis alſo an Enquiry we ſhould often make, not only, To whoſe Honour we were born, but, into whoſe Honour we were baptiz'd; that we may ſtudy to anſwer the Ends both of our Birth and of our Baptiſm. Let us often conſider, Unto what we were baptiz'd, that we may live up to our Baptiſm.

4. They own, That they were baptiz'd unto John's Baptiſm, εἰς τὸ Ἰωάννου βάπτισμα, that is, (as I take it) they were baptized in the Name of John; not by John himſelf, he was far enough from any ſuch Thought, but by ſome weak well-meaning Diſciple of his, that ignorantly kept up his Name, as the Head of a Party, retaining the Spirit and Notion of thoſe Diſciples of his, that were jealous of the Growth of Chriſt's Intereſt, and complain'd to him of it, Joh. iii. 26. Some one or more of theſe, that found themſelves much edify'd by John's Baptiſm of Repentance for the Remiſſion of Sin; not thinking that the Kingdom of Heaven, which he ſpoke of as at Hand, was ſo very near as it prov'd, ran away with that Notion, reſted in what they had, and thought they could not do better than to perſuade others to do ſo too; and ſo, ignorantly, in a blind Zeal for John's Doctrine, they baptiz'd here and there One in John's Name, or as it is here expreſs'd unto John's Baptiſm, looking no further themſelves, nor directing thoſe they baptiz'd any further.

5. Paul explains to them the true Intent and Meaning of John's Baptiſm, as principally referring to Jeſus Chriſt, and ſo rectifies the Miſtake of thoſe who had baptiz'd them into the Baptiſm of John, and had not directed them to look any further, but to reſt in that. They that had been left in Ignorance or led into Error by any Infelicities of their Education, ſhould not therefore be deſpis'd or rejected by thoſe who are more Knowing and Orthodox; but ſhould compaſſionately be inſtructed, and better taught, as thoſe here were by Paul. (1.) He owns that John's Baptiſm was a very good Thing as far as it went; John verily baptiz'd with the Baptiſm of Repentance. By his Baptiſm he oblig'd People to be ſorry for their Sins, and to confeſs them and turn from them; and to bring any to this, is a great Point gain'd. But (2.) he ſhews them, That John's Baptiſm had a further Reference, and he never deſign'd that thoſe he baptiz'd ſhould reſt there, but told them, That they ſhould believe on him who ſhould come after him, that is, on Chriſt Jeſus; that his Baptiſm of Repentance was deſign'd only to prepare the Way of the Lord, and to diſpoſe them to receive and entertain Chriſt, whom he left them big with Expectations of; nay, whom he directed them to, Behold the Lamb of GOD. John was a great and good Man; but he was only the Harbinger; Chriſt is the Prince; his Baptiſm was the Porch which you were to paſs through, not the Houſe you were to reſt in; and therefore 'twas all wrong for you to be baptiz'd into the Baptiſm of John.

6. When they were thus ſhow'd the Error they were led into, they thankfully accepted the Diſcovery, and were baptiz'd in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, v. 5. As for Apollos, of whom it was ſaid, chap. xviii. 25. That he knew the Baptiſm of John, that he rightly underſtood the Meaning of it, when he was baptiz'd with it, tho' he knew that only; yet when he underſtood the Way of GOD more perfectly, he was not again baptiz'd, no more than Chriſt's firſt Diſciples that had been baptiz'd with John's Baptiſm, and knew it referr'd to the Meſſiah at the Door, and with an Eye to that ſubmitted to it, were baptiz'd again: But theſe here, who receiv'd it only with an Eye to John, and look'd no further, as if he were their Saviour; it was ſuch a Fundamental Error, as was fatal to it, as it would have been for any to be baptiz'd in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, and were ſo. Not by Paul himſelf (as we have Reaſon to think) but by ſome of thoſe who attended him. It doth not therefore follow hence, that there was not an Agreement between John's Baptiſm, and Chriſt's, or that they were not for Subſtance the ſame; much leſs doth it follow that thoſe who have been once baptiz'd in the Name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt (which is the appointed Form of Chriſt's Baptiſm) may be again baptiz'd in the ſame Name; for thoſe that were here baptiz'd in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, had never been ſo baptiz'd before.

4. Secondly, How Paul conferr'd the extraordinary Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt upon them, v. 6.

1. Paul ſolemnly pray'd to God, to give them thoſe Gifts, ſignify'd by his laying his Hands on them, which was a Geſture us'd in Bleſſing, by the Patriarchs, eſpecially in conveying the great Truſt of the Promiſe, as Gen. xlviii. 15. The Spirit being the great Promiſe of the New Teſtament, the Apoſtles convey'd it by the Impoſition of Hands: The Lord bleſs thee with that Bleſſing, that Bleſſing of Bleſſings, Iſa. xliv. 3.

2. God granted the Thing he pray'd for; The Holy Ghoſt came upon them in a ſurprizing, over-powering Manner, and they ſpake with Tongues and propheſy'd, as the Apoſtles did, and the firſt Gentile Converts, Acts x. 44. This was intended to introduce the Goſpel at Epheſus, and to awaken in the Minds of Men an Expectation of ſome great Things from it: And ſome think, it was further deſign'd to qualify theſe Twelve Men for the Work of the Miniſtry, and that theſe Twelve were the Elders of Epheſus, to whom Paul committed the Care and Conduct of that Church. They had the Spirit of Prophecy, that they might underſtand the Myſteries of the Kingdom of God themſelves, and the Gift of Tongues, that they might preach them to every Nation and Language. O! What a wonderful Change was here made on a ſudden with theſe Men; they that but juſt now had not ſo much as heard that there was a Holy Ghoſt, now are themſelves filled with the Holy Ghoſt; for the Spirit like the Wind, blows where and when, he liſteth.

8 And he went into the ſynagogue, and ſpake boldly for the ſpace of three months, diſputing and perſuading the things concerning the kingdom of God. 9 But when divers were hardned, and believed not, but ſpake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and ſeparated the diſciples, diſputing daily in the ſchool of one Tyrannus. 10 And this continued by the ſpace of two years; ſo that all they which dwelt in Aſia, heard the word of the Lord Jeſus, both Jews and Greeks. 11 And God wrought ſpecial miracles by the hands of Paul: 12 So that from his body were brought unto the ſick, handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diſeaſes departed from them, and the evil ſpirits went out of them.

Paul is here buſy at Epheſus to do Good.

Firſt, He begins as uſual in the Jews Synagogue, and makes the firſt Offer of the Goſpel to them, that he might gather in the loſt Sheep of the Houſe of Iſrael, who were now ſcatter'd upon the Mountains. Obſerve,

1. Where he preach'd to them; in their Synagogue, v. 8. as Chriſt us'd to do. He went and joyn'd with them in their Synagogue-Worſhip, to take off their Prejudices againſt him, and to ingratiate himſelf with them, while there was any Hope of winning upon them. Thus he would bear his Teſtimony to publick Worſhip on Sabbath-Days where there were no Chriſtian Aſſemblies yet form'd, he frequented the Jewiſh Aſſemblies, while the Jews were not as yet wholly caſt off. Paul went into the Synagogue, becauſe there he had them together, and had them, it might be hoped, in a good Frame.

2. What he preach'd to them; The Things concerning the Kingdom of God, among Men the great Things which concern'd God's Dominion over all Men, and Favour to them, and Mens Subjection to God, and Happineſs in God. He ſhew'd them our Obligations to God, and Intereſt in him as our Creator, by which the Kingdom of God was ſet up, the Violation of thoſe Obligations, and the Forfeiture of that Intereſt by Sin, by which the Kingdom of God was pull'd down, and the renewing of thoſe Obligations upon us, and the reſtoring of us to that Intereſt again by the Redeemer, whereby the Kingdom of God was again ſet up. Or, more particularly the Things concerning the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, which the Jews were in Expectation of, and promis'd themſelves great Matters from: He open'd the Scriptures which ſpake concerning this; gave them a right Notion of this Kingdom, and ſhew'd them their Miſtakes about it.

3. How he preach'd to them; (1.) He preach'd Argumentatively; he diſputed; gave Reaſons, Scripture Reaſons for what he preach'd, and anſwer'd Objections, for the convincing of Mens Judgements and Conſciences, that they might not only believe, but might ſee Cauſe to believe. He preach'd διαλεγόμενος Dialogue-wiſe; he put Queſtions to them and receiv'd their Anſwers; gave them cauſe to put Queſtions to him, and anſwer'd them. (2.) He preach'd Affectionately; he perſuaded; he us'd not only logical Arguments, to enforce what he ſaid upon their Underſtandings, but Rhetorical Motives to impreſs: what he ſaid concerning the Kingdom of God, were Things concerning themſelves, which they were nearly concern'd in, and therefore ought to concern themſelves in, 1 Cor. v. 11. we perſuade Men. Paul was a moving Preacher, and was Maſter of the Art of Perſuaſion, (3.) He preach'd Undauntedly, and with a holy Reſolution; he ſpake boldly, as one that had not the leaſt Doubt of the Things he ſpoke of, nor the leaſt Diſtruſt of him he ſpoke from, nor the leaſt Dread of them he ſpoke to.

Prayers at parting, commanding what was good, reproving what was otherwiſe, and giving them neceſſary Cautions againſt the Wiles of the falſe Apoſtles; and his Farewel Sermon would leave Impreſſions upon them.

3. He took with him Priſcilla and Aquila, becauſe they had a mind to accompany him; for they ſeemed diſpos'd to removes, and not inclined to ſtay long in a Place; a Diſpoſition which may come from a good Principle, and have good Effects, and therefore ought not to be condemn'd in others, tho' it ought to be ſuſpected in our ſelves. There was a mighty Friendſhip contracted between them and Paul, and therefore when he went, they beg'd to go along with him.

4. At Cenchrea, which was hard by Corinth, the Port where thoſe that went to Sea from Corinth took Ship, either Paul or Aquila, (for the Original doth not determine which) had his Head ſhav'd, to diſcharge himſelf from the Vow of a Nazarite, having ſhorn his Head at Cenchrea; far he had a Vow. Thoſe that liv'd in Judea were in ſuch a caſe bound to do it at the Temple, but thoſe who liv'd in other Countries might do it in other Places. The Nazarite's Head was to be ſhav'd, when either his Conſecration was accidentally polluted, in which Caſe he muſt begin again: Or, When the Days of his Separation were fulfill'd, Num. vi. 9, 13, 18. which we ſuppoſe was the Caſe here; ſome throw it upon Aquila, who as a Jew, v. 2. had retain'd perhaps more of his Judaiſm than was convenient; but I ſee no harm in admitting it concerning Paul, for concerning him we muſt admit the ſame Thing, Chap. xxi. 24, 26. not only in compliance for a Time with the Jews, to whom he became as a Jew, 1 Cor. ix. 20. that he might win upon them, but becauſe the Vow of the Nazarites tho' Ceremonial, and as ſuch ready to vaniſh away, yet had a great deal of Moral and very Pious Significancy, and therefore was fit to die the laſt of all the Jewiſh Ceremonies: The Nazarites are joyned with the Prophets, Amos ii. 11. and were very much the Glory of Iſrael, Lam. iv. 7, and therefore it is not ſtrange, if Paul bound himſelf for ſome Time with the Vow of a Nazarite, from Wine and Strong-drink, and from being trim'd, to recommend himſelf to the Jews; and from this he now diſcharg'd himſelf.

Secondly, Paul's calling at Epheſus, which was the Metropolis of the Leſſer Aſia, and a Sea-port.

1. There he left Aquila and Priſcilla; not only becauſe they would be but burthenſome to him in his Journey, but becauſe they might be ſerviceable to the Intereſts of the Goſpel at Epheſus: Paul intended ſhortly to ſettle there for ſome Time, and left Aquila and Priſcilla there in the mean Time, for the ſame End as Chriſt ſent his Diſciples before to every Place where he himſelf would come, to prepare his Way. Aquila and Priſcilla might by private Converſation, being very intelligent, judicious Chriſtians, diſpoſe the Minds of many to give Paul, when he ſhould come among them, a favourable Reception, and to underſtand his Preaching; therefore he calls them his Helpers in Chriſt Jeſus, Rom. xvi. 3.

2. There he preach'd to the Jews in their Synagogue; tho' he did but call there in his Journey, yet he would not go without giving them a Sermon. He enter'd into the Synagogue, not as a Hearer, but as a Preacher; for there he reaſon'd with the Jews. Tho' he had abandon'd the Jews at Corinth, who oppos'd themſelves, and blaſphem'd, yet he did not for their Sakes decline the Synagogues of the Jews in other Places, but ſtill made the firſt offer of the Goſpel to them. We muſt not condemn a whole Body or Denomination of Men, for the Sake of ſome that carry themſelves ill.

3. The Jews at Epheſus were ſo far from driving Paul away, that they courted his ſtay with them, v. 20. They deſir'd him to tarry longer with them, to inſtruct them in the Goſpel of Chriſt. Theſe were more noble, and better bred, than thoſe Jews at Corinth and other Places; and it was a Sign that God had not quite caſt away his People, but had a Remnant among them.

4. Paul would not ſtay with them now; he conſented not; but bad them farewell: He had further to go; he muſt by all means keep this Feaſt at Jeruſalem; not that he thought himſelf bound in Duty to do it, he knew the Laws of the Feaſts were no longer binding; but he had Buſineſs at Jeruſalem (whatever it was) which would be beſt done at the Time of the Feaſt, when there was a general Rendezvous of all the Jews from all Parts. Which of the Feaſts it was we are not told; probably it was the Paſſover, which was the moſt eminent.

5. He intimated his Purpoſe after this Journey, to come and ſpend ſome Time at Epheſus; by their kind Invitation, being encourag'd to hope that he ſhould do Good among them. 'Tis good to have Opportunities in reſerve; when one good Work is over, to have another to apply our ſelves to. I will return again to you; but he inſerts that neceſſary Proviſo, If GOD will. Our Times are in God's Hand; we purpoſe, but He diſpoſeth; and therefore we muſt make all our Promiſes with ſubmiſſion to the Will of God; If the LORD will, we ſhall live, and do this or that. I will return again to you, if the Spirit ſuffer me, Chap. xvi. 7. That was included in Paul's Caſe; not only if Providence permit, but if God do not otherwiſe direct my Motions.

Thirdly, Paul's Viſit to Jeruſalem; a ſhort Viſit it was but it ſerv'd as a Token of Reſpect to that truly Mother-Church.

1. He came by Sea to the Port that lay next to Jeruſalem; he ſail'd from Epheſus, v. 21. and landed at Cæſarea, v. 22. He choſe to go by Sea for Expedition, and for Safety; and that he might ſee the Works of the Lord, and his Wonders in the Deep. Joppa had been the Port for Jeruſalem; but Herod having improved Cæſarea, and the Port at Joppa being dangerous, that was generally made uſe of.

2. He went up and ſaluted the Church; by which, I think is plainly meant the Church at Jeruſalem, which is emphatically call'd the Church, becauſe there the Chriſtian Church began, Acts xv. 4. Paul thought it requiſite to ſhew himſelf among them, that they might not think his Succeſs among the Gentiles had made him think himſelf either above them, or eſtranged from them; Or, that the Honour God had put upon him, made him unmindful of the Honour he ow'd to them. His going to ſalute the Church at Jeruſalem, intimates (1.) That it was a very friendly Viſit that he made them; in pure Kindneſs, to enquire into their State, and to teſtify his hearty Good-will to them, Note, The increaſe of our new Friends, ſhould not make us to forget our old ones; but it ſhould be a Pleaſure to good Men and good Miniſters, to revive former Acquaintance. The Miniſters at Jeruſalem were conſtant Reſidents; Paul was a conſtant Itinerant; but he took Care to keep up a good Correſpondence with them, that they might rejoyce with him in his going out, and he might rejoyce with them in their Tents, and they might both congratulate and wiſh well to one another's Comfort and Succeſs. (2.) That it was but a ſhort Viſit; He went up and ſaluted them, perhaps with the holy-Kiſs, and made no ſtay among them. It was deſign'd but for a tranſient Interview, and yet Paul undertook this Journey for that. This is not the World we are to be together in; God's People are the Salt of the Earth, diſpers'd and ſcatter'd, yet it is good to ſee one another ſometimes, if it be but to ſee one another; that we may confirm mutual Love, may the better keep up our ſpiritual Communion with one another at a Diſtance; and may long the more for that heavenly Jeruſalem, in which we hope to be together for ever.

Fourthly, His Return through thoſe Countries where he had formerly preach'd the Goſpel.

1. He went and ſpent ſome Time in Antioch, among his old Friends there, from whence he was firſt ſent out to preach among the Gentiles, Chap. xiii. 1. He went down to Antioch, to refreſh himſelf with the Sight and Converſation af the Miniſters there. And a very good Refreſhment it is to a faithful Miniſter, to have for a while the Society of his Brethren; for as Iron ſharpeneth Iron, ſo doth a Man the Countenance of his Friend. Paul's coming to Antioch, would bring to remembrance the former Days, which would furniſh him with matter for freſh Thankſgiving.

2. Thence he went over the Country of Galacia, and Phrygia in order; where he had preach'd the Goſpel, and planted Churches; which tho' very briefly mention'd, Chap. xvi. 6. yet was a glorious Work, as appears by Gal. iv. 14, 15. where Paul ſpeaks of his Pteaching of the Goſpel to the Galatians at the firſt, and their receiving him as an Angel of GOD. Theſe Country Churches (for ſo they wete, (Gal. i. 2.) and we read not of any City in Galatia, where a Church was) Paul viſited in order as they lay, watering what he had been inſtrumental to plant, and ſtrengthning all the Diſciples. His very coming among them, and owning them, was a great ſtrengthning to them and their Miniſters. Paul's Countenancing of them, was encouraging to them: But that was not all; he preach'd that to them which ſtrengthen'd them; which confirm'd their Faith in Chriſt, and their Reſolutions for Chriſt, and their pious Affections to him. Diſciples need to be ſtrengthen'd, for they are compaſs'd about with Infirmity; Miniſters muſt do what they can to ſtrengthen them, to ſtrengthen them all, by directing them to Chriſt, and bringing them to live upon him, whoſe Strength is perfected in their Weakneſs, and who is himſelf their Strength and Song.

24 ¶ And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and mighty in the ſcriptures, came to Epheſus. 25 This man was inſtructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in the ſpirit, he ſpake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptiſm of John. 26 And he began to ſpeak boldly in the ſynagogue. Whom when Aquila and Priſcilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. 27 And when he was diſpoſed to paſs into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the diſciples to receive him: who, when he was come, helped them much which had believed through grace. 28 For he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publickly, ſhewing by the ſcriptures, that Jeſus was Chriſt.

The Sacred Hiſtory leaves Paul upon his Travels, and goes here to meet Apollos at Epheſus, and to give us ſome Account of him; which was neceſſary to our underſtanding ſome Paſſages in Paul's Epiſtles.

Firſt, Here is an Account of his Character, when he came to Epheſus.

1. He was a Jew, born at Alexandria in Egypt, but of Jewiſh Parents, for there were Abundance of Jews in that City; ſince the Diſperſion of the People, it was foretold, Deut. xxviii. 68. The Lord ſhall bring them into Egypt again. His Name was not Apollo, the Name of one of the Heathen Gods, but Apollos; ſome think, the ſame with Apollos, Rom. xvi. 10.

2. He was a Man of excellent good Parts, and well fitted for publick Service. He was an eloquent Man, and mighty in the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, which he was as a Jew brought up in the Knowledge of. (1.) He had a great command of Language; he was an eloquent Man; he was, ἀνὴρ λόγιος, a prudent Man, ſo ſome; a learned Man, ſo others; Hiſtoriarium peritus, a good Hiſtorian; which is an excellent Qualification for the Miniſtry; he was one that could ſpeak well, ſo it properly ſignifies; he was an Oracle of Man; he was famous for ſpeaking pertinently and cloſely, fully and fluently upon any Subject. (2.) He had a great command of Scripture Language, and that was the Eloquence he was remarkable for. He came to Epheſus, being mighty in the Scriptures, ſo the Words are plac'd: Having an excellent Faculty of Expounding Scriptures, he came to Epheſus, which was a publick Place, to trade with that Talent for the Honour of GOD, and the Good of many. He was not only ready in the Scriptures, able to quote Texts off-hand, and repeat them, and tell you where to find them; many of the carnal Jews were ſo, who are therefore ſaid to have the Form of Knowledge, and the Letter of the Law. But he was mighty in the Scriptures; he underſtood the Senſe and Meaning of them, he knew how to make uſe of them, and to apply them; how to reaſon out of the Scriptures, and to reaſon ſtrongly. A convincing, commanding, confirming Power, went along with all his Expoſitions and Applications of the Scripture. 'Tis likely, he had given Proof of his Knowledge of the Scriptures, and his Abilities in them, in many Synagogues of the Jews.

3. He was inſtructed in the way of the Lord, i. e. he had ſome Acquaintance with the Doctrine of Chriſt; had got ſome general Notions of the Goſpel, and the Principles of Chriſtianity, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, and that Prophet that ſhould come into the World. The firſt Notice of this, would be readily embrac'd by one that was ſo mighty in the Scripture, as Apollos was, and therefore underſtood the Signs of the Times. He was inſtructed, κατηχημένος, he was Catechiz'd, ſo the Word is, either by his Parents or Miniſters; he was taught ſomething of Chriſt, and the Way of Salvation by him. Thoſe that are to teach others, muſt firſt be themſelves taught the Word of the Lord; not only to talk of it, but to walk in it. 'Tis not enough to have our Tongues turn'd to the Word of the Lord, but we muſt have our Feet directed into the way of the Lord.

4. Yet he knew only the Baptiſm of John; he was inſtructed in the Goſpel of Chriſt, as far as John's Miniſtry would carry him, and no further: He knew the preparing of the Way of the Lord, by that Voice crying in the Wilderneſs, rather than the Way of the LORD itſelf. We cannot but think, he had heard of Chriſt's Death and Reſurection, but was not let into the Myſtery of them; had not had Opportunity of converſing with any of the Apoſtles ſince the Pouring out of the Spirit. Or, he had himſelf been baptiz'd, only with the Baptiſm of John, but was not baptiz'd with the Holy Ghoſt, as the Diſciples were at the Day of Pentecoſt.

Secondly, Here's the Imployment and Improvement of his Gifts at Epheſus: He came thither ſeeking opportunities of doing, and getting Good, and found both.

1. He there made a very good Uſe of his Gifts in Publick. He came probably recommended to the Synagogue of the Jews, as a fit Man to be a Teacher there; and according to the Light he had, and the meaſure of the Gift given to him, he was willing to be employ'd, v. 25. Being fervent in the Spirit, he ſpake and taught diligently the Things of the Lord: Tho' he had not the miraculous Gift of the Spirit, as the Apoſtles had, he made Uſe of the Gifts he had; for the Diſpenſation of the Spirit, whatever the Meaſure of it, is, is given to every Man to profit withall; and our Saviour by a Parable deſign'd to teach his Miniſters, that tho' they had but one Talent, they muſt not bury that.

We have ſeen how Apollos was qualify'd with a good Head, and a good Tongue; he was an Eloquent Man, and mighty in the Scriptures; he had a good Stock of uſeful Knowledge, and had an excellent Faculty of communicating it. Let us now ſee what he had further to recommend him as a Preacher, and his Example is recommended to the Imitation of all Preachers.

(1.) He was a lively affectionate Preacher; as he had a good Head, ſo he had a good Heart; he was fervent in Spirit; he had in him a great deal of Divine Fire, as well as Divine Light; was burning, as well as ſhining. He was full of Zeal for the Glory of GOD, and the Salvation of precious Souls: and this appear'd both in his Forwardneſs to preach, when he was call'd to it by the Rulers of the Synagogue, and his Fervency in Preaching; he preach'd as one in earneſt, and that had his Heart in his Work. What a happy Compoſition was here! Many are fervent in Spirit, but are weak in Knowledge, in Scripture Knowledge, and far to ſeek for proper Words, and full of improper ones. And on the other hand, many are eloquent enough, and mighty in the Scriptures, and learned and judicious, but they have no Life or Fervency. Here was a compleat Man of God, thoroughly furniſh'd for his Work, that was both eloquent and fervent; full both of Divine Knowledge, and of Divine Affections.

(2.) He was an induſtrious, laborious Preacher; he ſpake and taught diligontly; he took Pains in his Preaching; what he deliver'd was elaborate, and he did not offer that to GOD or to the Synagogue, that either coſt nothing, or coſt him nothing. He firſt work'd it upon his own Heart, and then labour'd to impreſs it on thoſe he preach'd it to. He taught diligently, ἀκριβῶς, accurately, exactly. Every Thing he ſaid, was well weigh'd.

(3.) He was an Evangelical Preacher; tho' he knew only the Baptiſm of John, yet that was the Beginning of the Goſpel of Chriſt; and to that he kept cloſe; for he taught the Things of the Lord; of the Lord Chriſt, that tended to make Way for him, and to ſet him up: The Things pertaining to the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, was the Subject he choſe to inſiſt upon; not the Things of the Ceremonial Law, tho' thoſe would be pleaſing to his Jewiſh Auditors: Not the Things of the Gentile Philoſophy, tho' he could have diſcours'd very well on theſe Things; but the Things of the Lord:

(4.) He was a couragious Preacher; he began to ſpeak boldly in the Synagogue, as one that having put a Confidence in GOD did not fear the Face of Man; he ſpoke as one that knew the Truth of what he had ſaid, and had no doubt of it, and knew the Worth of what he ſaid, and was not afraid to ſuffer for it. In the Synagogue, where the Jews not only were preſent, but had Power, there he preach'd the Things of GOD, which he knew they were prejudic'd againſt.

2. He there made a good Increaſe of his Gifts in private, not ſo much in Study, as in Converſation with Aquila and Priſcilla. If Paul, or ſome other Apoſtle or Evangeliſt had been at Epheſus, they would have inſtructed him; but for want of better Help, Aquila and Priſcilla that were Tent-makers, Expounded to him the Way of GOD more perfectly. Obſerve,

1. Aquila and Priſcilla heard him preach in the Synagogue. Tho' in Knowledge he was much inferiour to them, yet having excellent Gifts for publick Service, they encourag'd his Miniſtry by a diligent and conſtant Attendance upon it. Thus young Miniſters that are hopeful, ſhould be countenanc'd by grown Chriſtians, for it becomes them to fulfill all Righteouſneſs.

2. Finding him defective in his Knowledge of Chriſtianity, they took him to them, to lodge in the ſame Houſe with them, and expounded to him the Way of God, the Way of Salvation by Jeſus Chriſt more perfectly. They did not take Occaſion from what they obſerv'd of his Deficiency, either to deſpiſe him themſelves, or to diſparage him to others; did not call him a young raw Preacher, not fit to come into a Pulpit, but conſidered the Diſadvantages he had labour'd under, as knowing no more but the Baptiſm of John; and having themſelves got great Knowledge in the Truths of the Goſpel, by their long and intimate Converſation with Paul, they communicated what they knew to him, and gave him a clear diſtinct and methodical Account of thoſe Things, which before he had but confus'd Notion of. (1.) See here an Inſtance of that which Chriſt has promis'd; That to him that hath, ſhall be given, that has and uſes what he has, ſhall have more. He that diligently traded with the Talent he had, doubled it quickly. (2.) See an Inſtance of truly Chriſtian Charity in Aquila and Priſcilla; they did good according to their Ability. Aquila, tho' a Man of great Knowledge, yet did not undertake to ſpeak in the Synagogue, becauſe he had not ſuch Gifts for publick Work as Apollos had; but he furniſh'd Apollos with Matter, and then left him to cloath it with acceptable Words. Inſtructing young Chriſtians, and young Miniſters privately in Converſation, who mean well, and perform well as far as they go, is a Piece of very good Service, both to them and to the Church. (3.) See an Inſtance of great Humility in Apollos: He was a very bright young Man, of great Parts and Learning, newly come from the Univerſity, a popular Preacher, and mightily cry'd up and follow'd; and yet finding that Aquila and Priſcilla were judicious ſerious Chriſtians, that could ſpeak intelligently and experimentally of the Things of GOD, tho' they were but Mechanicks, poor Tent-makers, he was glad to receive Inſtruction from them, to be ſhew'd by them his Defects and Miſtakes, and to have his Miſtakes rectify'd by them, and his Deficiencies made up. Young Scholars may gain a great deal by Converſe with old Chriſtians, as young Students in the Law may by old Practiſers. Apollos, tho' he was inſtructed in the Way of the Lord, did not reſt in the Knowledge he had attained, nor thought he underſtood Chriſtianity as well as any Man, which proud conceited young Men are apt to do, but was willing to have it expounded to him more perfectly. They that know much, ſhould covet to know more, and what they know, to know it better, preſſing forwards towards Perfection. (4.) Here's an Inſtance of a good Woman, tho' not permitted to ſpeak in the Church, or in the Synagogue, yet doing Good with the Knowledge GOD had given her in private Converſe. Paul will have the Aged Women to be Teachers of good Things, 1 Tit. ii. 3, 4.

Thirdly, Here is his Preferment to the Service of the Church of Corinth; which was a larger Sphere of Uſefulneſs than Epheſus at preſent was. Paul had ſet the Wheels a going in Achaia, and particularly at Corinth, the Country Town, many were ſtir'd up by his Preaching to receive the Goſpel, and they needed to be confirm'd; and many were likewiſe irritated to oppoſe the Goſpel, and they needed to be confuted; Paul was gone, was called away to other Work, and now there was a fair Occaſion in this Vacancy for Apollos to ſet in, who was fitted rather to water than to plant; to build up thoſe that were within, than to bring in thoſe that were without. Now here we have,

1. His Call to this Service; not by a Viſion, as Paul was called to Macedonia, no nor ſo much as by the Invitation of thoſe he was to go to, But (1.) He himſelf inclin'd to go; he was diſpos'd to paſs into Achaia; having heard of the State of the Churches there, he had a Mind to try what Good he could do among them; tho' there were thoſe there, who were eminent for Spiritual Gifts, yet Apollos thought there might be ſome Work for him, and GOD diſpos'd his Mind that way. (2.) His Friends encourag'd him to go, and approv'd of his Purpoſe, and he being a perfect Stranger there, they gave him a Teſtimonial, or Letters of Recommendation; exhorting the Diſciples in Achaia to entertain him, and employ him. In this Way, among others, the Communion of Churches is kept up, by the recommending of Members and Miniſters to each other; that as Apollos here are diſpoſed to remove. Tho' they at Epheſus had a great Loſs of his Labours, they did not grudge them in Achaia the Benefit of them; but on the contrary, us'd their Intereſt in them to introduce him; for the Churches of Chriſt, tho' they are many, yet they are one.

2. His Succeſs in this Service, which both Ways anſwer'd his Intention and Expectation. For,

1. Believers were greatly edify'd, and they that had received the Goſpel were very much confirm'd. He helped them much which had believed through Grace. Note, 1. They that believe in Chriſt, 'tis through Grace that they believe; 'tis not of themſelves, it is GOD's Gift to them, it is his Work in them. 2. Thoſe who thro' Grace do believe, yet ſtill have need of Help, as long as they are here in this World; there are remainders of Unbelief, and ſome thing lacking in their Faith, to be perfected, and the Work of Faith to be fulfill'd. 3. Faithful Miniſters are capable of being many Ways helpful to thoſe who through Grace do believe, and it is their Buſineſs to help them, to help them much; and when a Divine Power goes along with them, they will be helpful to them.

2. Unbelievers were greatly mortify'd; their Objections were fully anſwer'd, the Folly and Sophiſtry of their Arguments was diſcover'd, ſo that they had nothing to ſay in Defence of the Oppoſition they made to the Goſpel; their Mouths were ſtop'd, and their Faces fill'd with ſhame, v. 28. He mightily convinc'd the Jews, and that publickly, before the People. He did it εὐτόνως earneſtly, and with a great deal of vehemence; he took Pains to do it; his Heart was upon it as one that was truly deſirous both to ſerve the Cauſe of Chriſt, and to ſave the Souls of Men. He did it effectually, and to univerſal Satisfaction; he did it levi negotio. The Caſe was ſo plain, and the Arguments ſo ſtrong on Chriſt's ſide, that it was an eaſy Matter to baffle all that the Jews could ſay againſt it; tho' they were ſo fierce, yet their Cauſe was ſo weak, that he made nothing of their Oppoſition. Now that which he aim'd to convince them of, was, that Jeſus is the Chriſt, that he is the Meſſiah promis'd to the Fathers, who ſhould come, and they were to look for no other: If the Jews were but convinc'd of this, that Jeſus is Chriſt, even their own Law would teach them to hear him. Note, The Buſineſs of Miniſters is to preach Chriſt; we preach not our ſelves, but Chriſt Jeſus the Lord. The Way he took to convince them, was, by the Scriptures: Thence he fetch'd his Arguments, for the Jews owned the Scriptures to be of Divine Authority, and it was eaſy for him who was mighty in the Scriptures, from them to ſhew, that Jeſus is the Chriſt. Note, Miniſters muſt be able not only to preach the Truth, but to prove it, and defend it, and to convince Gainſayers, with Meekneſs, and yet with Power inſtructing thoſe that oppoſe themſelves. And this is real Service to the Church.

CHAP. XIX.

We left Paul in his Circuit, viſiting the Churches, Chap. xviii. 23. but we have not forgot, nor has he the Promiſe he made to his Friends at Epheſus, to return to them, and make ſome Stay there; now this Chapter ſhews us his Performance of that Promiſe; his Coming to Epheſus, and his Continuance there two Years; we are here told, (1.) How he labour'd there in the Word and Doctrine; how he taught ſome weak Believers that had gone no farther than John's Baptiſm, v. 1—7. how he taught three Months in the Synagogue of the Jews, v. 8. And when he was driven thence, how he taught the Gentiles a long Time in a publick School, v. 9, 10. And how he confirm'd his Doctrine by Miracles, v. 11, 12. (2.) What was the Fruit of his Labour, particularly among the Conjurers, the worſt of Sinners; ſome were confounded that did but make uſe of his Name, v. 13—17. But others were converted that receiv'd and embrac'd his Doctrine, v. 18—20. (3.) What Projects he had of further Uſefulneſs, v. 21, 22. And what Trouble at length he met with at Epheſus, from the Silver Smiths, which forc'd him thence to purſue the Meaſures he had laid: How a Mob was rais'd by Demetrius to cry up Diana, v, 23—34. And how it was ſuppreſs'd and diſpers'd by the Town Clerk, v. 35—41.

AND it came to paſs, that while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having paſſed through the upper coaſts, came to Epheſus: and finding certain diſciples, 2 He ſaid unto them, Have ye received the holy Ghoſt ſince ye believed? And they ſaid unto him, We have not ſo much as heard whether there be any holy Ghoſt. 3 And he ſaid unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they ſaid, Unto John's baptiſm. 4 Then ſaid Paul, John verily baptized with the baptiſm of repentance, ſaying unto the people, That they ſhould believe on him which ſhould come after him, that is, on Jeſus Chriſt. 5 When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jeſus. 6 And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghoſt came on them; and they ſpake with Tongues, and propheſied. 7 And all the men were about twelve.

Epheſus was a City of great Note in Aſia, famous for a Temple built there to Diana, which was one of the Wonders of the World; thither Paul came to preach the Goſpel, while Apollos was at Corinth, v. 1. While he was watering there, Paul was planting here; and grudg'd not that Apollos enter'd into his Labours, and was building upon his Foundation; but rejoyc'd in it, and went on in a new Work, that was cut out for him at Epheſus, with the more chearfulneſs and ſatisfaction, becauſe he knew that ſuch an able Miniſter of the New Teſtament as Apollos was, was now at Corinth carrying on the good Work there; tho' there were thoſe that made him the Head of a Party againſt Paul, 1 Cor. i. 12. yet Paul had no Jealouſy of him, nor any way diſlik'd the Affection the People had for him. Paul having gone through the Country of Galatia and Phrygia, paſt through the upper Coaſts, Pontus and Bithynia, that lay North; at length came to Epheſus, where he had left Aquila and Priſcilla, and there found them.

At his firſt Coming he met with ſome Diſciples there, who profeſs'd Faith in Chriſt as the true Meſſiah, but were as yet in the firſt and loweſt Form in the School of Chriſt, under his Uſher, John the Baptiſt; they were in Number about Twelve, v. 7. They were much of the ſtanding that Apollos was of, when he came to Epheſus, for he knew only the Baptiſm of John, Chap. xviii. 25. but either they had not Opportunity of being acquainted with Aquila and Priſcilla, or had not been ſo long in Epheſus, or were not willing to receive Inſtruction as Apollos was, otherwiſe they might have had the Way of GOD expounded to them more perfectly, as Apollos had. Obſerve here, Firſt, How Paul catechiz'd them; he was told probably by Aquila and Priſcilla, that they were Believers, that they did own Chriſt, and had given up their Names to him. Now Paul hereupon takes them under Examination.

1. They did believe in the Son of GOD; But Paul enquires whether they had receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt? whether they believ'd in the Spirit, whoſe Operations on the Minds of Men, for Conviction, Converſion and Comfort, were reveal'd ſome Time after the Doctrine of Jeſus his being the Chriſt; whether they had been acquainted with, and had admitted this Revelation? That was not all; extraordinary Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt were confer'd upon the Apoſtles and other Diſciples, preſently after Chriſt's Aſcenſion, which was frequently repeated upon Occaſion: Had they participated of theſe Gifts? Have ye receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt, ſince ye believed? Have you had that Seal of the Truth of Chriſt's Doctrine in your ſelves? We are not now to expect any ſuch extraordinary Gifts as they had then. The Canon of the New Teſtament being long ſince compleated and ratify'd, we depend upon that as the moſt ſure Word of Propheſy: But there are Graces of the Spirit given to all Believers, which are an Earneſt to 'em, 2 Cor. i. 22. v. 9. Eph. i. 13. Now it concerns us all who profeſs the Chriſtian Faith, ſeriouſly to enquire, Whether we have received the Holy Ghoſt, or not? The Holy Ghoſt is promis'd to all Believers, to all Petitioners, Luke xi. 13. But many are deceived in this Matter, that think they have receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt, when really they have not. As there are Pretenders to the Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, ſo there are to his Graces and Comforts; we ſhould therefore ſtrictly examine ourſelves; Have we received the Holy Ghoſt, ſince we believ'd? The Tree will be known by its Fruits; Do we bring forth the Fruits of the Spirit? Are we led by the Spirit? Do we walk in the Spirit? Are we under the Government of the Spirit?

2. They own'd their own Ignorance in this matter; whether there be a Holy Ghoſt, is more than we know; that there is a Promiſe of the Holy Ghoſt, we know from the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, and that that Promiſe will be fulfill'd in its Seaſon, we doubt not; but ſo much have we been out of the way of Intelligence in this Matter, that we have not ſo much as heard whether the Holy Ghoſt be indeed yet given as a Spirit of Prophecy. They knew (as Dr. Lightfoot obſerves) that according to the Tradition of their Nation, after the Death of Eſra, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachy, the Holy Ghoſt departed from Iſrael, and went up; and they profeſs'd they had never heard of his Return. They ſpake as if they expected it, and wonder'd they did not hear of it, and were ready to welcome the Notice of it. The Goſpel-Light, like that of the Morning, ſhone more and more, gradually; not only clearer and clearer in the Diſcovery of Truths not before heard of, but further and further, in the Diſcovery of them to Perſons that had not before hear'd of them.

3. Paul enquir'd how they came to be baptiz'd, if they knew nothing of the Holy Ghoſt? for if they were baptiz'd by any of Chriſt's Miniſters, they were inſtructed concerning the Holy Ghoſt, and were baptiz'd in his Name. Know ye not that Jeſus being glorify'd, conſequently the Holy Ghoſt is given; unto what then were ye baptiz'd? This is ſtrange and unaccountable; What! baptiz'd, and yet know nothing of the Holy Ghoſt? Surely, your Baptiſm was a Nullity, if you know nothing of the Holy Ghoſt; for it is the Receiving of the Holy Ghoſt that is ſignified and ſealed by that waſhing of Regeneration. Ignorance of the Holy Ghoſt, is as inconſiſtent with a ſincere Profeſſion of Chriſtianity, as Ignorance of Chriſt is. And applying it to ourſelves, it intimates, That thoſe are baptiz'd to no purpoſe, and have receiv'd the Grace of God therein in vain, that do not receive and ſubmit to the Holy Ghoſt. 'Tis alſo an Enquiry we ſhould often make, not only, To whoſe Honour we were born, but, into whoſe Honour we were baptiz'd; that we may ſtudy to anſwer the Ends both of our Birth and of our Baptiſm. Let us often conſider, Unto what we were baptiz'd, that we may live up to our Baptiſm.

4. They own, That they were baptiz'd unto John's Baptiſm, εἰς τὸ ἰωάννυ βάπτισμα, that is, (as I take it) they were baptized in the Name of John; not by John himſelf, he was far enough from any ſuch Thought, but by ſome weak well-meaning Diſciple of his, that ignorantly kept up his Name, as the Head of a Party, retaining the Spirit and Notion of thoſe Diſciples of his, that were jealous of the Growth of Chriſt's Intereſt, and complain'd to him of it, Joh. iii. 26. Some one or more of theſe, that found themſelves much edify'd by John's Baptiſm of Repentance for the Remiſſion of Sin; not thinking that the Kingdom of Heaven, which he ſpoke of as at Hand, was ſo very near as it prov'd, ran away with that Notion, reſted in what they had, and thought they could not do better than to perſuade others to do ſo too; and ſo, ignorantly, in a blind Zeal for John's Doctrine, they baptiz'd here and there One in John's Name, or as it is here expreſs'd unto John's Baptiſm, looking no further themſelves, nor directing thoſe they baptiz'd any further.

5. Paul explains to them the true Intent and Meaning of John's Baptiſm, as principally referring to Jeſus Chriſt, and ſo rectifies the Miſtake of thoſe who had baptiz'd them into the Baptiſm of John, and had not directed them to look any further, but to reſt in that. They that had been left in Ignorance or led into Error by any Infelicities of their Education, ſhould not therefore be deſpis'd or rejected by thoſe who are more Knowing and Orthodox; but ſhould compaſſionately be inſtructed, and better taught, as thoſe here were by Paul. (1.) He owns that John's Baptiſm was a very good Thing as far as it went; John verily baptiz'd with the Baptiſm of Repentance. By his Baptiſm he oblig'd People to be ſorry for their Sins, and to confeſs them and turn from them; and to bring any to this, is a great Point gain'd. But (2.) he ſhews them, That John's Baptiſm had a further Reference, and he never deſign'd that thoſe he baptiz'd ſhould reſt there, but told them, That they ſhould believe on him who ſhould come after him, that is, on Chriſt Jeſus; that his Baptiſm of Repentance was deſign'd only to prepare the Way of the Lord, and to diſpoſe them to receive and entertain Chriſt, whom he left them big with Expectations of; nay, whom he directed them to, Behold the Lamb of GOD. John was a great and good Man; but he was only the Harbinger; Chriſt is the Prince; his Baptiſm was the Porch which you were to paſs through, not the Houſe you were to reſt in; and therefore 'twas all wrong for you to be baptiz'd into the Baptiſm of John.

6. When they were thus ſhow'd the Error they were led into, they thankfully accepted the Diſcovery, and were baptiz'd in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, v. 5. As for Apollos, of whom it was ſaid, chap. xviii. 25. That he knew the Baptiſm of John, that he rightly underſtood the Meaning of it, when he was baptiz'd with it, tho' he knew that only; yet when he underſtood the Way of GOD more perfectly, he was not again baptiz'd, no more than Chriſt's firſt Diſciples that had been baptiz'd with John's Baptiſm, and knew it referr'd to the Meſſiah at the Door, and with an Eye to that ſubmitted to it, were baptiz'd again: But theſe here, who receiv'd it only with an Eye to John, and look'd no further, as if he were their Saviour; it was ſuch a Fundamental Error, as was fatal to it, as it would have been for any to be baptiz'd in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, and were ſo. Not by Paul himſelf (as we have Reaſon to think) but by ſome of thoſe who attended him. It doth not therefore follow hence, that there was not an Agreement between John's Baptiſm, and Chriſt's, or that they were not for Subſtance the ſame; much leſs doth it follow that thoſe who have been once baptiz'd in the Name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt (which is the appointed Form of Chriſt's Baptiſm) may be again baptiz'd in the ſame Name; for thoſe that were here baptiz'd in the Name of the Lord Jeſus, had never been ſo baptiz'd before.

Secondly, How Paul conferr'd the extraordinary Gifts of the Holy Ghoſt upon them, v. 6.

1. Paul ſolemnly pray'd to God, to give them thoſe Gifts, ſignify'd by his laying his Hands on them, which was a Geſture us'd in Bleſſing, by the Patriarchs, eſpecially in conveying the great Truſt of the Promiſe, as Gen. xlviii. 15. The Spirit being the great Promiſe of the New Teſtament, the Apoſtles convey'd it by the Impoſition of Hands: The Lord bleſs thee with that Bleſſing, that Bleſſing of Bleſſings, Iſa. xliv. 3.

2. God granted the Thing he pray'd for; The Holy Ghoſt came upon them in a ſurprizing, over-powering Manner, and they ſpake with Tongues and propheſy'd, as the Apoſtles did, and the firſt Gentile Converts, Acts x. 44. This was intended to introduce the Goſpel at Epheſus, and to awaken in the Minds of Men an Expectation of ſome great Things from it: And ſome think, it was further deſign'd to qualify theſe Twelve Men for the Work of the Miniſtry, and that theſe Twelve were the Elders of Epheſus, to whom Paul committed the Care and Conduct of that Church. They had the Spirit of Prophecy, that they might underſtand the Myſteries of the Kingdom of God themſelves, and the Gift of Tongues, that they might preach them to every Nation and Language. O! What a wonderful Change was here made on a ſudden with theſe Men; they that but juſt now had not ſo much as heard that there was a Holy Ghoſt, now are themſelves filled with the Holy Ghoſt; for the Spirit like the Wind, blows where and when, he liſteth.

8 And he went into the ſynagogue, and ſpake boldly for the ſpace of three months, diſputing and perſuading the things concerning the kingdom of God. 9 But when divers were hardned, and believed not, but ſpake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and ſeparated the diſciples, diſputing daily in the ſchool of one Tyrannus. 10 And this continued by the ſpace of two years; ſo that all they which dwelt in Aſia, heard the word of the Lord Jeſus, both Jews and Greeks. 11 And God wrought ſpecial miracles by the hands of Paul: 12 So that from his body were brought unto the ſick, handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diſeaſes departed from them, and the evil ſpirits went out of them.

Paul is here buſy at Epheſus to do Good.

Firſt, He begins as uſual in the Jews Synagogue, and makes the firſt Offer of the Goſpel to them, that he might gather in the loſt Sheep of the Houſe of Iſrael, who were now ſcatter'd upon the Mountains. Obſerve,

1. Where he preach'd to them; in their Synagogue, v. 8. as Chriſt us'd to do. He went and joyn'd with them in their Synagogue-Worſhip, to take off their Prejudices againſt him, and to ingratiate himſelf with them, while there was any Hope of winning upon them. Thus he would bear his Teſtimony to publick Worſhip on Sabbath-Days where there were no Chriſtian Aſſemblies yet form'd, he frequented the Jewiſh Aſſemblies, while the Jews were not as yet wholly caſt off. Paul went into the Synagogue, becauſe there he had them together, and had them, it might be hoped, in a good Frame.

2. What he preach'd to them; The Things concerning the Kingdom of God, among Men the great Things which concern'd God's Dominion over all Men, and Favour to them, and Mens Subjection to God, and Happineſs in God. He ſhew'd them our Obligations to God, and Intereſt in him as our Creator, by which the Kingdom of God was ſet up, the Violation of thoſe Obligations, and the Forfeiture of that Intereſt by Sin, by which the Kingdom of God was pull'd down, and the renewing of thoſe Obligations upon us, and the reſtoring of us to that Intereſt again by the Redeemer, whereby the Kingdom of God was again ſet up. Or, more particularly the Things concerning the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, which the Jews were in Expectation of, and promis'd themſelves great Matters from: He open'd the Scriptures which ſpake concerning this; gave them a right Notion of this Kingdom, and ſhew'd them their Miſtakes about it.

3. How he preach'd to them. (1.) He preach'd Argumentatively; he diſputed; gave Reaſons, Scripture Reaſons for what he preach'd, and anſwer'd Objections, for the convincing of Mens Judgements and Conſciences, that they might not only believe, but might ſee Cauſe to believe. He preach'd διαλεγόμενος Dialogue-wiſe; he put Queſtions to them and receiv'd their Anſwers; gave them cauſe to put Queſtions to him, and anſwer'd them. (2.) He preach'd Affectionately; he perſuaded; he us'd not only logical Arguments, to enforce what he ſaid upon their Underſtandings, but Rhetorical Motives to impreſs: what he ſaid concerning the Kingdom of God, were Things concerning themſelves, which they were nearly concern'd in, and therefore ought to concern themſelves in, 1 Cor. v. 11. we perſuade Men. Paul was a moving Preacher, and was Maſter of the Art of Perſuaſion, (3.) He preach'd Undauntedly, and with a holy Reſolution; he ſpake boldly, as one that had not the leaſt Doubt of the Things he ſpoke of, nor the leaſt Diſtruſt of him he ſpoke from, nor the leaſt Dread of them he ſpoke to.

4. How long he preach'd to them; for the Space of three Months, which was a competent Time allow'd them to conſider of it; In that Time thoſe among them that belong'd to the Election of Grace were called in, and the reſt were left inexcuſable. Thus long Paul preach'd the Goſpel with much Contention, 1 Theſ. ii. 2. yet he did not fail nor was diſcourag'd.

5. What Succeſs his Preaching had among them. (1.) There were ſome that were perſuaded to believe in Chriſt, ſome think that is intimated in that Word, perſuading; he prevail'd with them. But (2.) Divers continued in their Infidelity, and were confirm'd in their Prejudices againſt Chriſtianity. When Paul call'd of them before, and preach'd only ſome general Things to them, they courted his Stay among them, Chap, xviii. 20. But now he ſettled among them, and his Word came more cloſely to their Conſciences, they were ſoon weary of him. (7.) They had an invincible Averſion to the Goſpel of Chriſt themſelves; they were harden'd and believ'd not; they were reſolv'd they would not believe, tho' the Truth ſhone in their Faces, with never ſuch a convincing Light and Evidence. Therefore they believ'd not, becauſe they were harden'd. (2.) They did their utmoſt to raiſe and keep up in others an Averſion to the Goſpel: They not only enter'd not into the Kingdom of God themſelves, but neither did they ſuffer thoſe that were entring to go in; for they ſpoke Evil of that Way before the Multitude, to prejudice them againſt it. Tho' they could not ſhew any manner of Evil in it, yet they ſaid all manner of Evil concerning it. Theſe Sinners like the Angels that ſinned became Satan's, Adverſaries, and Devils, falſe Accuſers.

Secondly, When he had carry'd the Matter as far as it would go in the Synagogue of the Jews, and found that their Oppoſition grew more obſtinate, he left the Synagogue, becauſe he could not ſafely, or rather becauſe he could not comfortably and ſucceſsfully, continue in Communion with them. Tho' their Worſhip was ſuch as he could joyn in, and they had not ſilenc'd him, nor forbidden him to preach among them; yet they drove him from them, with their railing at thoſe Things which he ſpoke concerning the Kingdom of GOD: They hated to be reform'd, hated to be inform'd, and therefore he departed from them. Here we are ſure there was a Separation and no Schiſm; for there was a juſt Cauſe for it, and a clear Call to it. Now Obſerve, (1.) When Paul departed from the Jews, he took the Diſciples with him, and ſeparated them, to ſave them from that untoward Generation, according to the Charge Peter gave to his new Converts, Acts ii. 40. leſt they ſhould be infected with the poyſonous Tongues of thoſe Blaſphemers. He ſeparated them which believed, to be the Foundation of a Chriſtian Church, now they were a competent Number to be incorporated, that others might attend with them upon the Preaching of the Goſpel, and might upon their believing be added to them. When Paul departed, there needed no more to ſeparate the Diſciples; let him go where he will they'll follow him.

2. When Paul ſeparated from the Synagogue, he ſet up a Meeting of his own; he diſputed daily in the School of one Tyrannus: He left the Synagogue of the Jews, that he might go on with the more Freedom in his Work; ſtill he diſputed for Chriſt and Chriſtianity, and was ready to anſwer all Opponents whatſoever, in defence of them: And he had by this Separation a double Advantage. (1.) That now his Opportunities were more frequent: In the Synagogue he could only preach every Sabbath-Day, Acts xiii. 42. But now he diſputed daily, he ſet up a Lecture every Day, and thus redeem'd Time; thoſe whoſe Buſineſs would not permit them to come one Day, might come another Day, and thoſe were welcome who watch'd daily at theſe Gates of Wiſdom, and waited daily at the Poſts of her Doors. (2.) That now they were more open. To the Synagogue of the Jews none might come or could come, but Jews or Proſelytes; Gentiles were excluded; but when he ſet up a Meeting in the School of Tyrannus, both Jews and Greeks attended his Miniſtry, v. 10. Thus as he deſcribes this Gale of Opportunity at Epheſus, 1 Cor. xvi. 8, 9. a wide Door, and an effectual was open'd to him, tho' there were many Adverſaries. Some think this School of Tyrannus was a Divinity School of the Jews, and ſuch a one they commonly had in their great Cities beſide their Synagogue; they call'd it Bethmidraſh, the Houſe of Enquiry, or of Repetition, and they went to that on the Sabbath-Day, after they had been in the Synagogue; they go from Strength to Strength, from the Houſe of the Sanctuary to the Houſe of Doctrine. If this were ſuch a School, it ſhews that tho' Paul left the Synagogue, he left it gradually, and ſtill kept as near it as he could, as he had done, Chap. xviii. 7. But others think it was a Phyloſophy-School of the Gentiles, belonging to one Tyrannus; or, a retiring Place (for ſo the Word σχολὴ ſometimes ſignifies;) belonging to a Principal Man, or Governour of the City; ſome convenient Place it was which Paul and the Diſciples had the Uſe of, either for Love or Money.

3. Here he continu'd his Labours for Two Years; read his Lectures, and diſputed Daily: Theſe Two Years commence from the End of the Three Months, which he ſpent in the Synagogue, v. 8. and after they were ended, he continued for ſome Time in the Country about preaching, therefore he might juſtly reckon it in all Three Years, as he doth, Chap. xx. 31.

4. The Goſpel hereby ſpread far and near, v. 10. All they which dwell in Aſia, heard the Word of the Lord Jeſus; not only all that dwelt in Epheſus, but all that dwelt in that large Province called Aſia, which Epheſus was the head City of; Aſia the leſs it was called. There was a great Reſort to Epheſus from all Parts of the Country, for Law, Traffick, Religion and Education, which gave Paul an Opportunity of ſending the Report of the Goſpel, to all the Towns and Villages of that Country. They all heard the Word of the Lord Jeſus. The Goſpel is Chriſt's Word, 'tis a Word concerning Chriſt. This they heard, or at leaſt heard of it. Some of all Sects, ſome out of all Parts both in City and Country, embrac'd this Goſpel, and entertain'd it, and by them it was communicated to others, and ſo they all heard the Word of the Lord Jeſus, or might have heard it. Probably Paul ſometimes made Excurſions himſelf into the Country to preach the Goſpel, or ſent his Miſſionaries or Aſſiſtants that attended him; and thus the Word of the Lord was heard throughout the Region. Now they that ſate in Darkneſs ſaw a great Light.

Thirdly, God confirmed Paul's Doctrine by Miracles, which awaken'd Peoples Enquiries after it, fixed their Affection to it, and engag'd their Belief of it, v. 11, 12. I wonder we have not read of any Miracle wrought by Paul, ſince the caſting of the Evil Spirit out of the Damſel at Philippi; Why did he not work Miracles at Theſſalonica, Berea and Athens? Or if he did, Why are they not recorded? Was not the Succeſs of the Goſpel without Miracles in the Kingdom of Nature itſelf, ſuch a Miracle in the Kingdom of Grace, and the Divine Power went along with it; ſuch a Proof of its Divine Original, that there needed no other? 'Tis certain that at Corinth he wrought many Miracles, tho' Luke has recorded none; for he tells them, 2 Cor. xii. 12. That the Signs of his Apoſtleſhip were wrought among them, in Wonders and mighty Deeds.

But here at Epheſus we have a general Account of the Proofs of this Kind, which he gave of his Divine Miſſion.

1. They were ſpecial Miracles Δυνάμεις ȣ̓ τυχȣ́σας. God exerted Powers that were not according to the common Courſe of Nature. Virtutes non Vulgares, Things were done which could by no means be aſcrib'd either to Chance, or Second Cauſes: Or, they were not only, as all Miracles are, out of the common Road; but they were even uncommon Miracles, ſuch Miracles as had not been wrought by the Hands of any of the Apoſtles: The Oppoſers of the Goſpel were ſo prejudic'd, that any Miracles would not ſerve their Turn; therefore God wrought Virtutes non quaſlibet, ſo they render it, ſomething above the common Road of Miracles.

2. It was not Paul that wrought them; What's Paul, and what's Apollos? But it was GOD that wrought them by the Hand of Paul. He was but the Inſtrument, God was the principal Agent.

3. He not only cur'd the Sick that were brought to him, or that he was brought to; but from his Body were brought to the Sick Handkerchiefs or Aprons: They got Paul's Handkerchiefs, or his Aprons (that is, ſay ſome) the Aprons he wore when he work'd at his Trade, and the Applying of them to the Sick cur'd them immediately. Or, they brought the Sick Peoples Handkerchiefs, or their Girdles, or Caps, or Head-dreſſes, and laid them for a while to Paul's Body, and then took them to the Sick. The former is more probable. Now was fulfil'd that Word of Chriſt to his Diſciples, Greater Works than theſe ſhall ye do. We read of one that was cured by the Touch of Chriſt's Garment, when it was upon him, and he perceiv'd that Vertue went out of him; but here were People cur'd by Paul's Garments when they were taken from him. Chriſt gave his Apoſtles Power againſt unclean Spirits, and againſt all Manner of Sickneſs, Matth. x. 1. And accordingly we find here, that thoſe to whom Paul ſent Relief, had it in both theſe Caſes; for the Diſeaſes departed from them, and the Evil Spirit went out of them; which were both ſignificant of the great Deſign and Bleſſed Effect of the Goſpel, which was to heal ſpiritual Diſeaſes, and to free the Souls of Men from the Power and Dominion of Satan.

13 ¶ Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorciſts, took upon them to call over them that had evil ſpirits, the name of the Lord Jeſus, ſaying, We adjure you by Jeſus whom Paul preacheth. 14 And there were ſeven ſons of one Sceva a Jew, and chief of the prieſts, which did ſo. 15 And the evil ſpirit anſwered and ſaid, Jeſus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye? 16 And the man in whom the evil ſpirit was, leapt on them and overcame them, and prevailed againſt them, ſo that they fled out of that houſe naked and wounded. 17 And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks alſo dwelling at Epheſus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jeſus was magnified. 18 And many that believed came, and confeſſed, and ſhewed their deeds. 19 Many alſo of them which uſed curious arts, brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thouſand pieces of ſilver. 20 So mightily grew the word of God, and prevailed.

The Preachers of the Goſpel were ſent forth to carry on a War againſt Satan, and therein Chriſt went forth conquering, and to conquer. The Caſting of evil Spirits out of thoſe that were poſſeſſed, was one Inſtance of Chriſt's Victory over Satan; but to ſhew how many Ways Chriſt triumph'd over that great Enemy, we have here in theſe Verſes two remarkable Inſtances of the Conqueſt of Satan, not only in thoſe that were violently poſſeſs'd by him, but in thoſe that were voluntarily devoted to him.

Firſt, Here's the Confuſion of ſome of Satan's Servants, ſome vagabond Jews that were Exorciſts, who made uſe of Chriſt's Name, profanely and wickedly in their diabolical Enchantments, but were made to pay dear for their Preſumption. Obſerve,

1. The general Character of thoſe who were guilty of this Preſumption; They were Jews, but Vagabond Jews, were of the Jewiſh Nation and Religion, but went about from Town to Town, to get Money by Conjuring; they ſtroll'd about to tell People their Fortunes, and pretended by Spells and Charms to cure Diſeaſes, and bring People to themſelves that were melancholy or diſtracted. They call'd themſelves Exorciſts, becauſe in doing their Tricks they us'd Forms of Adjuration, by ſuch and ſuch commanding Names. The ſuperſtitious Jews to put a Reputation upon theſe Magick Arts, wickedly attributed the Invention of them to Solomon; So Joſephus, Antiq. Lib. VIII. Chap. ii. ſaith, That Solomon compos'd Charms by which Diſeaſes are cur'd, and the Devil driven out, ſo as never to return. And that theſe Operations continu'd common among the Jews to his Time. And Chriſt ſeems to refer to this, Matth. xii. 27. By whom do your Children caſt them out?

2. A particular Account of ſome at Epheſus that led this Courſe of Life, and came thither in their Travels: There were Seven Sons of one Sceva a Jew, and chief of the Prieſts, v. 14. 'Tis ſad to ſee the Houſe of Jacob thus degenerated, much more the Houſe of Aaron, the Family that was in a peculiar manner conſecrated to God, that any of that Race ſhould be in League with Satan. Their Father was Chief of the Prieſts, Head of one of the Twenty-four Courſes of Prieſts. One would think the Temple would find both Employment and Encouragement enough for the Sons of a Chief Prieſt, if they had been twice as many: But 'tis likely, 'twas a vain, rambling, rakiſh Humour that took them all to turn Mountebanks, and wander all the World over to cure mad Folks.

3. The Profaneneſs they were guilty of; They took upon them to call over evil Spirits the Name of the Lord Jeſus; not as thoſe who had a Veneration for Chriſt, and a Confidence in his Name, as we read of ſome who caſt out Devil's in Chriſt's Name, and yet did not follow with his Diſciples, Luke ix. 49. whom he would not have to be diſcourag'd; but as thoſe who were willing to try all Methods to carry on their wicked Trade; and it ſhould ſeem had this Deſign; if the Evil Spirit ſhould yield to an Adjuration in the Name of Jeſus, by thoſe that did not believe in him, they would ſay, it was no Confirmation of his Doctrine to thoſe that did; for it was all one whether they believ'd it or no. If they ſhould not yield to it, they would ſay, the Name of Chriſt, was not ſo powerful as the other Names they us'd, which the Devils had often by Colluſion yielded to. They ſaid, We adjure you by Jeſus whom Paul preacheth; not whom we believe in, or depend upon, or have any Authority from; by Jeſus whom Paul preached, q. d. We'll try what that Name will do. The Exorciſts in the Romiſh Church that pretend to caſt the Devil out of melancholy People by Spells and Charms which they underſtand not, and which not having any Divine Warrant, cannot be us'd in Faith, are the Followers of theſe vagabond Jews.

4. The Confuſion they were put to in this impious Operation; let 'em not be deceiv'd, God is not mock'd, nor ſhall the Glorious Name of Jeſus Chriſt be proſtituted to ſuch a vile Purpoſe as this; What Communion hath Chriſt with Baliel? (1.) The evil Spirit gave them a ſharp Reply, v. 15. Jeſus I know, and Paul I know, But who are ye? I know that Jeſus has conquer'd Principalities and Powers, and that Paul has Authority in his Name to caſt out Devils; But what Power have you to command us in his Name, or who gave you any ſuch Power? What have you to do to declare the Power of Jeſus, or to take his Covenant and Commands into your Mouths, ſeeing you hate his Inſtructions, Pſal. l. 16, 17. This was extorted out of the Mouth of the evil Spirit by the Power of God, to gain Honour to the Goſpel, and to put thoſe to Shame that made an ill Uſe of Chriſt's Name. Antichriſtian Powers and Factions, pretend a mighty Zeal for Jeſus and Paul, and to have Authority from them; but when the Matter comes to be look'd into, it is a mere worldly, ſecular Intereſt, that is to be thus ſupported; nay, 'tis an Enmity to true Religion; Jeſus we know, and Paul we know, But who are ye? (2.) The Man in whom the evil Spirit was, gave them a warm Reception, fell foul upon them, leap'd on them, in the height of his Frenzy and Rage, overcame them and all their Inchantments; prevail'd againſt them, and was quite too hard for them, ſo that they fled out of the Houſe, not only naked, but wounded; their Clothes pull'd off their Backs, and their Heads broke. This is written for a Warning to all thoſe who name the Name of Chriſt, but do not depart from Iniquity. The ſame Enemy that overcomes them with his Temptations, will overcome them with his Terrors; and there adjuring him in Chriſt's Name to let them alone, will be no Security to them. If we reſiſt the Devil by a true and lively Faith in Chriſt, he will flee from us; but if we think to reſiſt him by the bare Uſing of Chriſt's Name, or any Part of his Word, as a Spell or Charm, he will prevail againſt us.

5. The general Notice that was taken of this, and the good Impreſſion it made on many, v. 17. This was known to all the Jews and Greeks alſo dwelling at Epheſus; it was the common Talk of the Town, and the Effect of it was, (1.) That Men were terrified; Fear fell on them all. In this Inſtance they ſaw the Malice of the Devil, whom they ſerv'd; and the Power of Chriſt, whom they oppos'd; and both were awful Conſiderations. They ſaw that the Name of Chriſt was not to be dally'd with, nor his Religion compounded with the Pagan Superſtitions. (2.) That God was glorifyed: The Name of the Lord Jeſus, by which his Faithful Servants caſt out Devils, and cur'd Diſeaſes without any Reſiſtance, was the more magnified; for now it appear'd to be a Name above every Name.

Secondly, Here's the Converſion of others of Satan's Servants, and the Evidences of their Converſion.

1. Thoſe that had been guilty of wicked Practices, confeſs'd them, v. 18. Many that had believ'd and were baptiz'd, but had not then been ſo particular as they might have been in the Confeſſion of their Sins, were ſo terrify'd with the Inſtances of the magnifying of the Name of Jeſus Chriſt, that they came to Paul; or ſome other of the other Miniſters that were with him, and confeſs'd what ill Lives they had led, and what a great deal of ſecret Wickedneſs their own Conſciences charg'd them with, which the World knew not of; ſecret Frauds, and ſecret Filthineſſes; They ſhew'd their Deeds, took Shame to themſelves, and gave Glory to God, and Warning to others. Theſe Confeſſions were not extorted from them, but were voluntary for the Eaſe of their Conſciences. which the late Miracles had ſtruck a Terrour upon. Note, Where there is true Contrition for Sin, there will be an ingenuous Confeſſion of Sin to God in every Prayer, and to Man whom we have offended, when the Caſe requires it.

2. Thoſe that had convers'd with wicked Books, burnt them, v. 19. Many of them which uſed curious Arts, τὰ περίεργα, impertinent Things, Multa nihil ad ſe pertinentia ſatagentes, Buſy-bodies ſo the Word is uſed, 2. Theſſ. iii. 11. 1 Tim. v. 13. that traded in the Study of Magick and Divination; in Books of Judicial Aſtrology, caſting of Nativities, telling of Fortunes, raiſing and laying of Spirits, interpreting of Dreams, predicting future Events, and the like; to which ſome think, are to be added, Plays, Romances, Love-Books, aud unchaſte and immodeſt Poems, (Hiſtrionica, amatoria, ſaltatoria, Stres.) theſe having their Conſciences more awaken'd than ever to ſee the Evil of thoſe Practices which theſe Books inſtructed them in, brought their Books together, and burnt them before all Men. Epheſus was notorious for the Uſe of theſe Curious Arts; hence Spells and Charms were call'd Literæ Epheſiæ: Here People furniſh'd themſelves with all thoſe Sorts of Books, and probably had Tutors to inſtruct them in thoſe black Arts. It was therefore much for the Honour of Chriſt, and his Goſpel, to have ſuch a noble Teſtimony born againſt thoſe Curious Arts in a Place, where they were ſo much in Vogue. It is taken for granted, that they were convinc'd of the Evil of theſe Curious Arts, and reſolv'd to deal in them no longer; but they did not think that enough, unleſs they burnt their Books. (1.) Thus they ſhew'd a Holy Indignation at the Sins they had been guilty of; as the Idolaters when they were brought to Repentance, ſaid to their Idols, Get ye hence. Iſa. xxx. 22. Thus they took a Pious Revenge on thoſe Things that had been the Inſtruments of Sin to them, and proclaim'd the Force of their Convictions of the Evil of it, and that thoſe very Things were now deteſtable to them, as much as ever they had been delectable. (2.) Thus they ſhew'd their Reſolution never to return to the Uſe of thoſe Arts. and the Books which related to them, again. They were ſo fully convinced of the Evil and Danger of them, that they would not throw the Books by, within Reach of a Re-call, upon Suppoſition that it was poſſible they might change their Mind; but being ſtedfaſtly reſolv'd never to make uſe of them, they burnt them (3.) Thus they put away a Temptation to return to them again; Had they kept the Books by them, there was Danger leſt when the Heat of the preſent Conviction was over, they ſhould have the Curioſity to look into them, and ſo be in Danger of Liking them and Loving them again, and therefore they burnt them. Note, Thoſe that truly repent of Sin, will keep themſelves as far as poſſible from the Occaſions of it. (4.) Thus they prevented their doing Miſchief to others; If Judas had been by, he would have ſaid, ſell them, and give the Money to the Poor; or buy Bibles and good Books with it. But then, who could tell into whoſe Hands theſe dangerous Books might fall, and what Miſchief might be done by them; it was therefore the ſafeſt Courſe, to commit them all to the Flames. Thoſe that are recover'd from Sin themſelves, will do all they can to keep others from falling into it, and much more are afraid of laying an Occaſion of Sin in others Way. (5.) Thus they ſhew'd a Contempt of the Wealth of this World; For the Prices of the Books was caſt up, probably by thoſe that perſwaded them not to burn them, and it was found to be Fifty Thouſand Pieces of Silver; which ſome compute to Fifteen hundred Pounds of our Money. 'Tis likely the Books were ſcarce, perhaps prohibited, and therefore dear. Probably, they had coſt them ſo much; yet being the Devil's Books, tho' they had been ſo fooliſh as to buy them, they did not think that would juſtify them in being ſo wicked as to ſell them again. (6.) Thus they publickly teſtify'd their Joy for their Converſion from theſe wicked Practices, as Matthew did by the great Feaſt he made when Chriſt had call'd him from the Receit of Cuſtom. Theſe Converts joyn'd together in making this Bon-fire, and made it before all Men: They might have burnt the Books privately, every One in his own Houſe, but they choſe to do it together, by Conſent, and to do it at the High-Croſs (as we ſay) that Chriſt and his Grace in them might be the more magnify'd, and all about them the more edify'd.

Thirdly, Here's a general Account of the Progreſs and Succeſs of the Goſpel in and about Epheſus, v. 20. So mightily grew the Word of GOD, and prevail'd. 'Tis a bleſſed Sight to ſee the Word of God growing, and prevailing mightily, as it did here.

1. To ſee it grow extenſively, by the Addition of many to the Church; when ſtill more and more are wrought upon by the Goſpel, and wrought up into a Conformity to it, then it grows; when thoſe that were leaſt likely to yield to it, and that had been moſt ſtiff in their Oppoſition to it, yet are captivated and brought into Obedience to it, then it may be ſaid to grow mightily.

2. To ſee it prevail intenſively, by the Advancement of thoſe in Knowledge and Grace that are added to the Church: when ſtrong Corruptions are mortify'd, vicious Habits chang'd, ill Cuſtoms of long ſtanding broken off, and pleaſant gainful faſhionable Sins are abandon'd, then it prevails mightily; and Chriſt in it goes on conquering, and to conquer.

21 ¶ After theſe things were ended, Paul purpoſed in the ſpirit, when he had paſſed through Macedonia, and Achaia, to go to Jeruſalem, ſaying, After I have been there, I muſt alſo ſee Rome. 22 So he ſent into Macedonia two of them that miniſtred unto him, Timotheus and Eraſtus; but he himſelf ſtayed in Aſia for a ſeaſon, 23 And the ſame time there aroſe no ſmall ſtir about that way. 24 For a certain man named Demetrius, a ſilver-ſmith, which made ſilver ſhrines for Diana, brought no ſmall gain unto the craftſ-men: 25 Whom he called together with the work-men of like occupation, and ſaid, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth: 26 Moreover, ye ſee and hear, that not alone at Epheſus, but almoſt throughout all Aſia, this Paul hath perſwaded and turned away much people, ſaying, That they be no gods which are made with hands: 27 So that not only this our craft is in danger to be ſet at nought; but alſo that the Temple of the great goddeſs Diana ſhould be deſpiſed, and her magnificence ſhould be deſtroyed, whom all Aſia and the world worſhippeth. 21 And when they heard theſe ſayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, ſaying, Great is Diana of the Epheſians. 29 And the whole city was filled with confuſion: and having caught Gaius and Ariſtarchus, men of Macedonia, Paul's companions in travel, they ruſhed with one accord into the theatre. 30 And when Paul would have enter'd in unto the people, the diſciples ſuffer'd him not. 31 And certain of the chief of Aſia, which were his friends, ſent unto him, deſiring him that he would not adventure himſelf into the theatre. 32 Some therefore cried one thing, and ſome another: for the aſſembly was confuſed, and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together. 33 And they drew Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Alexander beckned with his hand, and would have made his defence unto the People. 34 But when they knew that he was a Jew, all with one voice about the ſpace of two hours cried out, Great is Diana of the Epheſians, 35 And when the town-clerk had appeaſed the People, he ſaid, Ye men of Epheſus, what man is there that knoweth not how that the city of the Epheſians is a worſhipper of the great goddeſs Diana, and of the image which fell down from Jupiter? 36 Seeing then that theſe things cannot be ſpoken againſt, ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing raſhly. 37 For ye have brought hither theſe men, which are neither robbers of churches, nor yet blaſphemers of your goddeſs. 38 Wherefore if Demetrius and the craftſmen which are with him, have a matter againſt any man, the law is open, and there are deputies; let them implead one another. 39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it ſhall be determined in a lawful aſſembly. 40 For we are in danger to be call'd in queſtion for this days uprore, there being no cauſe whereby we may give an account of this concourſe. 41 And when he had thus ſpoken, he diſmiſſed the aſſembly.

Paul is here brought into ſome Trouble at Epheſus, juſt when he is forecaſting to go thence, and to cut him out Work elſewhere. See here,

1. How he laid his Purpoſe of going to other Places, v. 21, 22. He was a Man of vaſt Deſigns to God, and was for making his Influences as far diffuſive as might be; having ſpent above two Years at Epheſus.

(1.) He deſign'd a Viſit to the Churches of Macedonia and Achaia, eſpecially of Philippi and Corinth, the chief Cities of thoſe Provinces, v. 21. There he had planted Churches, and now is concerned to viſit them. He purpoſed in his Spirit; either in his own Spirit not communicating his Purpoſe as yet, but keeping it to himſelf; Or, by the Conduct of the Holy Spirit, who was his Guide in all his Motions, and by whom he was led. He purpoſed to go ſee how the Work of God went on in thoſe Places, that he might rectify what was Amiſs, and encourage what was Good.

(2.) Thence he deſign'd to go to Jeruſalem, to viſit the Brethren there, and give an Account to them of the proſpering of the Good-pleaſure of the Lord in his Hand. And from thence he intended to go to Rome, to go ſee Rome; not as if he deſign'd only the gratifying of his Curioſity with the Sight of that ancient famous City, but becauſe it was an Expreſſion People commonly uſed, that they would go ſee Rome, would look about 'em there, when that which he deſign'd, was to ſee the Chriſtians there, and to do them ſome Service, Rom. i. 11. The good People of Rome were the Glory of the City, which he long'd for a Sight of. Dr. Lightfoot ſuppoſeth, that it was upon the Death of the Emperor Claudius, who dy'd the ſecond Year of Paul's being at Epheſus, that Paul thought of going to Rome, becauſe while he liv'd the Jews were forbidden Rome, Chap. xxviii. 2.

(2.) He ſent Timothy and Eraſtus into Macedonia, to give them notice of the Viſit he intended them, and to get their Collection ready for the poor Saints at Jeruſalem. Soon after he wrote the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, deſigning to follow it himſelf, as appears, 1 Cor. iv. 17, 19. I have ſent to you Timotheus; but I will my ſelf come to you ſhortly, if the LORD will. For the preſent he ſtay'd in Aſia, in the Country about Epheſus, founding Churches.

2. How he was ſeconded in his Purpoſe, and obliged to purſue it by the Troubles which at length he met with at Epheſus. 'Twas ſtrange, he had been quiet there ſo long; yet it ſhould ſeem, he had met with Troubles there not recorded in this Story; for in his Epiſtle written at this Time, he ſpeaks of his having fought with Beaſts at Epheſus, 1 Cor. xv. 32. which ſeems to be meant of his being put to fight with wild Beaſts in the Theatre, according to the barbarous Treatment they ſometimes gave the Chriſtians: And he ſpeaks of the Trouble which came to them in Aſia, near Epheſus, when he deſpair'd of Life, and receiv'd a Sentence of Death within himſelf, 2 Cor. i. 8, 9.

But in the Trouble here related, he was worſe frightened than hurt. In general, there aroſe no ſmall Stir about that Way, v. 23. Some Hiſtorians ſay, that the famous Impoſtor Apollonius Tyanæus, who ſet up for a Rival with Chriſt, and gave out himſelf, as Simon Magus, to be ſome great One, was at Epheſus about this Time that Paul was there: But it ſeems the Oppoſition he gave to the Goſpel was ſo inſignificant, that St. Luke did not think it worth taking Notice of. The Diſturbance he gives an Account of was of another Nature: Let us view the Particulars of it. Here is, Firſt, A great Complaint againſt Paul and the other Preachers of the Goſpel, for drawing People off from the Worſhip of Diana, and ſo ſpoiling the Trade of the Silver-ſmiths that work'd for Diana's Temple.

1. The Complainant is Demetrius, a Silver-ſmith, a principal Man, 'tis likely of the Trade, and one that would be thought to underſtand and conſult the Intereſts of it more than others of the Company. Whether he work'd in other ſort of Plate or no, we are not told; but the moſt advantagious Branch of his Trade was, making Silver Shrines for Diana, v. 24. Some think theſe were Medals ſtamp'd with the Effigies of Diana, or her Temple, or both: Others think, they were Repreſentations of the Temple, with the Image of Diana in it in Miniature ; all of Silver, but ſo ſmall, that People might carry them about with them, as Papiſts do their Crucifixes. Thoſe that came from far to pay their Devotions at the Temple of Epheſus, when they went Home bought theſe little Temples, or Shrines, to carry Home with them, for the gratifying of the Curioſity of their Friends, and to preſerve in their own Minds the Idea of that ſtately Edifice. See how Crafts-men, and Crafty-men too, above the Rank of Silver-ſmiths, make an Advantage to themſelves of People's Superſtition, and ſerve their worldly Ends by it.

2. The Perſons he appeals to, are not the Magiſtrates, but the Mob ; He call'd the Crafts-men together. with the Work-men of like Occupation ; a Parcel of Mechanicks, who had no Senſe of any Thing but their worldly Intereſt, and theſe he endeavours to incenſe againſt Paul, who would be acted as little by Reaſon, and as much by Fury, as he could deſire.

3. His Complaint and Repreſentation is very full.

1. He lays it down for a Principle, That the Art and Miſtery of making Silver Shrines for the Worſhippers of Diana, was very neceſſary to be ſupported and kept up, v. 25. Ye know that by this Craft, we have not only our Subſiſtence, and our neceſſary Food, but our Wealth ; we grow Rich, and raiſe Eſtates ; we live great, and have wherewithal to maintain our Pleaſures ; and therefore, whatever come of it, we muſt not ſuffer this Craft to grow into Contempt. Note, It is natural for Men to be jealous for that, whether Right or Wrong, by which they get their Wealth : And many have, for this Reaſon alone, ſet themſelves againſt the Goſpel of Chriſt, becauſe it calls Men off from thoſe Crafts which are unlawful, how much Wealth ſoever is to be gotten by them.

2. He charges it upon Paul, that he had diſſuaded Men from worſhipping Idols. The Words, as they are laid in the Indictment, are, that he had aſſerted, They are no Gods which are made with Hands, v. 26. Could any Truth be more plain and ſelf-evident than this? Or any Reaſoning more cogent and convincing than thoſe of the Prophets; The Workman made it, therefore it is not God. The firſt, and moſt genuine Notion we have of God, is, that he has his Being of himſelf, and depends upon none, but that all Things have their Being from him, and their Dependance on him, and then it muſt follow, that thoſe are no Gods, which are the Creatures of Mens Fancy, and the Work of Mens Hands : Yet this muſt be look'd upon as an Heretical and Atheiſtical Notion. and Paul as a Criminal for maintaining it ; Not that they could advance any Thing againſt this Doctrine itſelf, but that the Conſequence of it was, that not only at Epheſus, the chief City, but almoſt throughout all Aſia, among the Country People, who were their beſt Cuſtomers, and whom they thought they were ſureſt of, he had perſuaded and turned away much People from the Worſhip of Diana ; ſo that there was not now ſuch a Demand for the Silver Shrines, as had been ; nor ſuch good Rates given for them. There are thoſe who will ſtickle for that which is moſt groſly abſurd and unreaſonable, and which carries along with it, its own Conviction of Falſehood, as this doth, That thoſe are Gods which are made with Hands, if it have but Humane Laws, and Worldly Intereſt and Preſcription on its Side.

3. He minds them of the Danger which their Trade was in of going to Decay ; whatever toucheth that, toucheth them in a ſenſible tender Part ; if this Doctrine gains Credit, we are all undone, and may e'en ſhut up Shop ; This our Craft will be ſet at nought, will be convicted, and put into an ill Name, as Superſtition, and a Cheat upon the World ; and every Body will run it down. This our Part, ſo the Word is ; our Intereſt, our Share of Trade and Commerce κινδυνεύει ἡμῖν τὸ μέρος it will not only come into Danger of being loſt, but it will bring us into Danger, and we ſhall become not only Beggars, but Malefactors.

4. He pretends a mighty Zeal for Diana, and a Jealouſie for her Honour, Not only this our Craft is in Danger ; if that were all, he would not have you think that he would have ſpoken with ſo much Warmth ; but all his Care is, leſt the Temple of the great Goddeſs Diana ſhould be deſpis'd, and her Magnificence ſhould be deſtroy'd ; and we would not, for all the World, ſee the Diminution of the Honour of that Goddeſs, whom all Aſia, and the World worſhips. See what the Worſhip of Diana had to plead for itſelf, and what was the utmoſt which the moſt zealous Bigots for it, had to ſay in its Behalf. (1.) That it had Pomp on its Side. The Magnificence of the Temple was the Thing that charm'd them ; the Thing that chain'd them, they could not bear the Thoughts of any Thing that tended to the Diminution, much leſs to the Deſtruction of that. (2.) That it had Numbers on its Side, all Aſia and the World worſhip it, and therefore it muſt needs be the right Way of Worſhip, let Paul ſay what he will to the contrary. Thus, becauſe all the World wonders after the Beaſt, the Dragon, the Devil, the God of this World, gives him his Power, his Seat, and great Authority, Rev. xiii. 2, 3.

Secondly, The Popular Reſentment of this Complaint ; The Charge was manag'd by a Crafts-man, and was fram'd to incenſe the common People, and it had the deſired Effect ; for on this Occaſion they ſhew'd,

1. A great Diſpleaſure againſt the Goſpel, and the Preachers of it ; they were full of Wrath, v. 28. full of Fury and Indignation, ſo the Word ſignifies. The Crafts-men went ſtark mad, when they were told that their Trade, and their Idol were both in Danger.

2. A great Jealouſie for the Honour of their Goddeſs ; they cried out, Great is Diana of the Epheſians ; and we are reſolv'd to ſtand by her, and live, and die in the Defence of her. Are there any that expoſe her to Contempt, or threaten her Deſtruction, let us alone to deal with them. Let Paul ſay never ſo much to prove that thoſe are no Gods which are made with Hands, we will abide by it, that whatever comes of other Gods, and Goddeſſes, Great is Diana of the Epheſians. We muſt and will ſtand up for the Religion of our Country, which we have by Tradition from our Fathers. Thus all People walk'd every one in the Name of their God, and thought well of their own, much more ſhould the Servants of the true God do ſo, who can ſay, This GOD is our GOD for ever and ever.

3. A great Diſorder among themſelves, v. 29. The whole City was full of Confuſion ; the common and natural Effect of an intemperate Zeal for a falſe Religion ; it throws all into Confuſion, dethrones Reaſon, and enthrones Paſſion, and Men run together, not only not knowing one another's Minds, but not knowing their own.

Fourthly, The Proceedings of the Mob, under the Power of theſe Reſentments, and how far they were carried.

1. They laid Hands on ſome of Paul's Companions, and hurry'd them into the Theatre, v. 29. Some think with Deſign there to make them fight with Beaſts, as Paul had ſometimes done, v. 29. or perhaps they intended only to abuſe them, and to make them a Spectacle to the Croud. Thoſe they ſeiz'd were Gaius and Ariſtarchus, of both whom we read elſewhere ; Gaius was of Derbe, Chap. xx. 4. Ariſtarchus is alſo there ſpoken of, and Col. iv. 10. They came with Paul from Macedonia, and that was their only Crime, that they were Paul's Companions in Travel, both in Service and Sufferings.

2. Paul, who had ſcap'd being ſeiz'd by them, when he perceiv'd his Friends in Diſtreſs for his Sake, would have enter'd in unto the People, to ſacrifice himſelf, if there were no other Remedy, rather than his Friends ſhould ſuffer upon his Account ; and it was an Evidence of a generous Spirit, and that he lov'd his Neighbour as himſelf.

3. He was diſſuaded from it by the Kindneſs of his Friends, that over-rul'd him. (1.) The Diſciples ſuffer'd him not ; for it better became him to offer it, than it would have become them to ſuffer it. They had Reaſon to ſay to Paul, as David's Servants did to him, when he was for expoſing himſelf in a Piece of Publick Service, Thou art worth Ten Thouſand of us, 2 Sam. xviii. 3. (2.) Others of his Friends interpos'd, to prevent his throwing of himſelf thus into the Mouth of Danger ; they would treat him much worſe than Gaius and Ariſtarchus, looking upon him as the Ring-leader of the Party, and therefore better let them bear the Brunt of the Storm, than that he ſhould venture into it, v. 31. They were certain of the Chief of Aſia, the Princes of Aſia, τῶν Ἀσιαρχῶν. The Criticks tell us they were the Chief of their Prieſts, or (as others) the Chief of their Players ; whether they were Converts to the Chriſtian Faith, and ſome ſuch there were, even of their Prieſts and Governours, or whether they were only Well-wiſhers to Paul, as an ingenious good, Man we are not told ; only that they were Paul's friends. Dr. Lightfoot ſuggeſts, that they kept up a Reſpect and Kindneſs for him, ever ſince he fought with Beaſts in their Theatre, and were afraid he ſhould be abus'd ſo again. Note, It is a friendly Part to take more Care of the Lives and Comforts of good Men, than they do themſelves. 'Twould be a very hazardous Adventure, for Paul to go into the Theatre ; 'twas a Thouſand to one it coſt him his Life, and therefore Paul was over-rul'd by his Friends, to obey the Law of Self-Preſervation, and hath taught us to keep out of the Way of Danger as long as we can, without going out of the Way of Duty. We may be call'd to lay down our Lives, but not to throw away our Lives. It would better become Paul to venture into a Synagogue, than into a Theatre.

4. The Mob was in a perfect Confuſion, v. 32. Some cried one Thing, and ſome another, according as their Fancies and Paſſions, and perhaps the Reports they receiv'd led them : Some cry'd, Down with the Jews, others, Down with Paul, but the Aſſembly was confuſ'd, as not underſtanding one another's Minds, they contradicted one another, and were ready to fly in one anothers Faces for it, but they did not underſtand their own ; for the Truth was, the greater Part knew not wherefore they were come together ; they knew not what began the Riot, nor who, much leſs what Buſineſs they had there ; but upon ſuch Occaſions, the greateſt Part came only to enquire what the Matter is ; they follow the Cry, follow the Croud, increaſe like a Snow-ball, and where there are many, there will be more.

5. The Jews would have intereſted themſelves in this Tumult. In other Places they had been the firſt Movers of ſuch Riots ; but now at Epheſus they had not Intereſt enough to raiſe the Mob, and yet, when it was rais'd, they had Ill-will enough to ſet in with it, v. 33. They drew Alexander out of the Multitude, call'd him out to ſpeak on the Behalf of the Jews, againſt Paul and his Companions ; you have heard what Demetrius, and the Silver-ſmiths have to ſay againſt them, as Enemies to their Religion ; Give us leave now to tell you what we have to ſay againſt him as an Enemy to our Religion. The Jews put him forward to do this, encourag'd him, and told him, they would ſtand by him, and ſecond him. And this they look'd upon as neceſſary in their own Defence, and therefore what he deſign'd to ſay, is call'd Apologizing to the People, not for himſelf in particular, but for the Jews in general, whom the Worſhippers of Diana look'd upon to be as much their Enemies, as Paul was; now they would have them know, that they were as much Paul's Enemies as they were. And they who are thus careful to diſtinguiſh themſelves from the Servants of Chriſt now, and are afraid of being taken for them, ſhall have their Doom accordingly in the Great Day. Alexander beckened with the Hand, deſiring to be heard againſt Paul; for it had been ſtrange if a Perſecution were carry'd on againſt the Chriſtians, and there were not Jews at one End or 'tother of it; if they could not begin the Miſchief, they would help it forward, and ſo make themſelves Partakers of other Mens Sins. Some think this Alexander had been a Chriſtian, but had apoſtatiz'd to Judaiſm, and therefore was drawn out as a proper Perſon to accuſe Paul; and that he was that Alexander the Copper Smith that did Paul ſo much Evil, 2 Tim. iv. 14. and whom he had deliver'd unto Satan, 1 Tim. i. 20.

6. This occaſion'd the Proſecutors to drop the Proſecution of Paul's Friends, and to turn it into Acclamations in Honour of their Goddeſs, v. 34. When they knew that he was a Jew, and as ſuch, an Enemy to the Worſhip of Diana: for the Jews had now an implacable Hatred to Idols and Idolatry. Whatever he had to ſay for Paul, or againſt him, they were reſolved not to hear him, and therefore ſet the Mob a ſhouting, Great is Diana of the Epheſians. Whoever runs her down, be he Jew or Chriſtian, we are reſolv'd to cry her up; She is Diana of the Epheſians, our Diana; and it is our Honour and Happineſs to have her Temple with us. And ſhe is great, a famous Goddeſs, and univerſally ador'd. There are other Diana's, but Diana of the Epheſians is beyond them all, becauſe her Temple is more rich and magnificent than any of theirs. This was all the Cry for two Hours together. And it was thought a ſufficient Confutation of Paul's Doctrine, That they are not Gods which are made with Hands. And thus the moſt Sacred Truths are often run down with nothing elſe but Noiſe and Clamour, and popular Fury. It was ſaid of old concerning Idolaters, That they wore mad upon their Idols; and here's an Inſtance of it. Diana made the Epheſians great; for the Town was enrich'd by the vaſt Concourſe of People from all Parts to Diana's Temple there, and therefore they are concern'd by all Means poſſible to keep up her ſinking Reputation with, Great is Diana of the Epheſians.

Fifthly, The ſuppreſſing and diſperſing of theſe Rioters, by the Prudence and Vigilance of the Town-Clerk; he is call'd, γραμματεὺς the Scribe, or Secretary; or Recorder; the Governour of the City, ſo ſome, The Regiſter of their Games, the Olympick-Games, ſo others; whoſe Buſineſs it was to preſerve the Names of the Victors, and the Prizes they won. With much ado, he at length ſtill'd the Noiſe, ſo as to be heard, and then made a pacifick Speech to them; and gave us an Inſtance of that of Solomon, The Words of wiſe Men are heard in quiet, more than the Cry of him that rules among Fools, as Demetrius did, Eccleſ. ix. 17.

1. He humours them with an Acknowledgement, That Diana was the celebrated Goddeſs of the Epheſians, v. 35. They needed not to be ſo loud and ſtrenuous in aſſerting a Truth which no Body deny'd, or could be ignorant of. Every one knows that the City of the Epheſians was a Worſhipper of the great Goddeſs Diana? Was νεωκόρος, not only that the Inhabitants were Worſhippers of this Goddeſs, but the City, as a Corporation, was by its Charter intruſted with the Worſhip of Diana, to take Care of her Temple, and to accommodate thoſe who came thither to do her Homage. Epheſus was the Æditua, (they ſay that's the moſt proper Word) or the Sacriſt of the great Goddeſs Diana. The City was more the Patroneſs and Protectreſs of Diana, than Diana was of the City. Such a mighty Care did Idolaters take for the keeping up the Worſhip of Gods made with Hands, while the Worſhip of the True and Living God is neglected; and few Nations or Cities glory in patronizing and protecting that. The Temple of Diana at Epheſus, was a very rich and ſumptuous Structure; but it ſhould ſeem, the Image of Diana, in the Temple, becauſe they thought it ſanctify'd the Temple, was had in greater Veneration than the Temple; for they perſuaded the People, that it fell down from Jupiter, and therefore was none of the Gods that were made with Mens Hands. See how eaſily the Credulity of ſuperſtitious People is impos'd upon by the Fraud of deſigning Men. Becauſe this Image of Diana had been ſet up Time out of Miod, and no Body could tell who made it, they made the People believe, it fell down from Jupiter.

Now theſe Things, ſaith the Town-Clerk very gravely, (but whether ſeriouſly or no, and as one that did himſelf believe them, may be queſtion'd) cannot be ſpoken againſt; they have obtain'd ſuch univerſal Credit, that you need not fear Contradiction, it can do you no Prejudice. Some take it thus; Seeing the Image of Diana fell down from Jupiter, as we all believe, then what is ſaid againſt Gods made with Hands, does not at all affect us.

2. He cautions them againſt all violent and tumultuous Proceedings, which their Religion did not need, nor could receive any real Advantage from, v. 36. Ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing raſhly. A very good Rule this is to be obſerv'd at all Times, both in private and publick Affairs; not to be haſty and precipitate in our Motions; but to deliberate, and take Time to conſider; not to put our ſelves or others into a Heat, but to be calm and compos'd, and always keep Reaſon in the Throne, and Paſſion under check. This Word ſhould be ready to us, to command the Peace with, when ourſelves or thoſe about us are growing diſorderly, We ought to be quiet, and to do nothing raſhly; to do nothing in Haſte, which we may repent of at leiſure.

3. He wip'd off the Odium that had been caſt upon Paul and his Aſſociates, and tells them, They were not the Men that they were repreſented to them to be, v. 37. Ye have brought hither theſe Men, and you are ready to pull them in pieces; but have you conſider'd what is their Tranſgreſſion, and what is their Offence; What can you prove upon them? They are not Robbers of Churches; you cannot charge them with Sacriledge, or the taking away of any dedicated Thing; they have offer'd no Violence to Diana's Temple or the Treaſures of it; nor are they Blaſphemers of your Goddeſs; they have not given any opprobrious Language to the Worſhippers of Diana, nor ſpoken furiouſly of her or her Temple. Why ſhould you proſecute them with all this Violence, who, tho' they are not of your Mind, yet do not inveigh with any Bitterneſs againſt you; ſince they are calm, why ſhould you be hot? 'Twas the Idol in the Heart that they levell'd all their Force againſt, by Reaſon and Argument; if they can but get that down, the Idol in the Temple will fall of Courſe. Thoſe that preach againſt Idolatrous Churches, have Truth on their Side, and ought vigorouſly to maintain it, and preſs it on Mens Conſciences; but let them not be Robbers of thoſe Churches, (on the Prey laid they not their Hand, Eſth. ix. 15, 16.) nor Blaſphemers of thoſe Worſhips; with Meekneſs inſtructing; not with Paſſion and foul Language, reproaching thoſe that oppoſe themſelves: For God's Truth, as it needs not Man's Lye, ſo it needs not Man's intemperate Heat; The Wrath of Man worketh not the Righteouſneſs of GOD.

4. He turns them over to the regular Methols of the Law, which ought always to ſuperſede popular Tumults, and in civiliz'd well-govern'd Nations will do ſo. And a great Mercy it is to live in a Country where Proviſion is made for the keeping of the Peace, and the Adminiſtration of publick Juſtice; and the Appointing a Remedy for every Wrong. And herein, we of this Nation are as happy as any People.

(1.) If the Complaint was of a private Injury, let them have Recourſe to the Judges and Courts of Juſtice which were kept publickly, at ſtated Times: If Demetrius and the Company of the Silver-Smiths, that have made all this Rout, find themſelves aggrieved, or any Priviledge they are legally entitled to, is infring'd or intrench'd upon, let them bring their Action, take out a Proceſs, and the Matter ſhall be fairly try'd, and Juſtice done; The Law is open, and there are Deputies; There's a Proconſul and his Delegate, whoſe Buſineſs it is to hear both Sides, and to determine according to Equity, and in their Determination all Parties muſt acquieſce, and not be their own Judges, nor Appeal to the People. Note, The Law is good if a Man uſe it lawfully, as the laſt Remedy, both for the Diſcovery of a Right diſputed, and the Recovery of a Right deny'd.

2. If the Complaint was of a publick Grievance relating to the Conſtitution, it muſt be redreſs'd, not by a confuſs'd Rabble, but by a Convention of the States, v. 39. If ye inquire any Thing concerning other Matters that are of common Concern, it ſhall be determin'd in a lawful Aſſembly of the Aldermen and Common Conncil call'd together in a regular Way, by thoſe in Authority. Note, Private Perſons ſhould not intermeddle in publick Matters, ſo as to anticipate the Counſels of thoſe whoſe Buſineſs it is to take Cognizance of them; We have enough to do to mind our own Buſineſs.

5. He makes them ſenſible of the Danger they were in, and of the Premunire they had run themſelves into by this Riot, v. 40. 'Tis well if we be not call'd in Queſtion for this Days Uproar, if we be not complain'd of at the Emperor's Court, as a factious and ſeditious City, and if a Quo Warranto be not brought againſt us, and our Charter taken away; for there's no Cauſe whereby we may give an Account of this Concourſe, we have nothing to ſay in excuſe of it; we cannot juſtify ourſelves in breaking the Peace, by ſaying that others broke it firſt, and we only acted defenſively; we have no Colour for any ſuch Plea; and therefore let the Matter go no further, for it has gone too far already. Note, Moſt People ſtand in awe of Mens Judgement, more than the Judgement of God. How well were it, if we would thus ſtill the Tumult of our diſorderly Appetites and Paſſions, and check the Violence of them, with the Conſideration of the Account we muſt ſhortly give to the Judge of Heaven and Earth for all theſe Diſorders. We are in danger to be call'd in Queſtion for this Day's Uproar in our Hearts, and in our Houſes, and how ſhall we anſwer it; there being no Cauſe, no juſt Cauſe, or no proportionable one, whereby we may give an Account of this Concourſe, and of this Heat and Violence. As we muſt repreſs the Inordinacy of our Appetites, ſo alſo of our Paſſions with this, that For all thoſe Things God will bring us into Judgement, Eccl.. xi. 9. and we are concern'd to manage our ſelves as thoſe that muſt give an Account.

6. When he had thus ſhew'd them the Abſurdity of their riotous Meeting, and the ill Conſequences that might follow from it, he adviſ'd them to ſcatter with all ſpeed, v. 41. he diſmiſs'd the Aſſembly; order'd the Cryer, perhaps, to give Notice that all Manner of Perſons ſhould peaceably depart, and go about their own Buſineſs, and they did ſo. See here (1.) How the over-ruling Providence of God preſerves the publick Peace, by an unaccountable Power over the Spirits of Men: And thus the World is kept in ſome Order, and Men are reſtrain'd from being as the Fiſhes of the Sea where the greater devour the leſſer. Conſidering what an impetuous furious Thing, what an ungovernable, untameable wild Beaſt the Mob is, when it is up, we ſhall ſee Reaſon to acknowledge God's Goodneſs that we are not always under the Tyranny of it. He ſtills the Noiſe of the Sea, the Noiſe of her Waves, and (which is no leſs an Inſtance of his Almighty Power) the Tumult of the People, Pſ. lxv. 7. (2.) See how many Ways God has of protecting his People. Perhaps this Town-Clerk was no Friend at all to Paul, or the Goſpel he preach'd, yet his human Prudence is made to ſerve the Divine Purpoſe; Many are the Troubles of the Righteous, but the Lord delivereth them out of them all.

CPAP. XX.

In this Chapter we have (1.) Paul's Travels up and down about Macedonia, Greece, and Aſia, and his Coming at length to Troas, v. 1---6. (2.) A particular Account of his ſpending one Lord's Day at Troas, and his raiſing Eutychus to Life there, v. 7---12, (3.) His Progreſs or Circuit for the Viſiting of the Churches he had planted, in his Way towards Jeruſalem, where he deſign'd to be by the next Feaſt of Pentecoſt, v. 13---16. (4.) The Farewell-Sermon he preach'd to the Presbyters of Epheſus, now he was leaving that Country, v. 17---35. (5.) The very ſorrowful parting between him and them, v. 36---38. And in all theſe we find Paul very buſy to ſerve Chriſt, and to do good to the Souls of Men, not only in the Converſion of Heathens, but the Edification of Chriſtians.

1 AND after the uproar was ceaſed, Paul called unto him the diſciples, and embraced them, and departed to go into Macedonia. 2 And when he had gone over thoſe parts, and had given them much exhortation he came into Greece, 3 And there abode three months: and when the Jews laid wait for him as he was about to ſail into Syria, he purpoſed to return through Macedonia. 4 And there accompanied him into Aſia, Sopater of Berea; and of the Theſſalonians, Ariſtarchus and Secundus; and Gaius of Derbe, and Timotheus; and of Aſia, Tychicus and Trophimus. 5 Theſe going before, tarried for us at Troas. 6 And we ſailed away from Philippi, after the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode ſeven days.

Theſe Travels of Paul, which are thus briefly related, if all in them had been recorded that was memorable, and worthy to be written in Letters of Gold, the World would not have contained the Books that ſhould be written; and therefore we have only ſome general Hints of Occurrences, which therefore ought to be the more precious. Here is,

Firſt, Paul's Departure from Epheſus: He had tarry'd there longer than he had done at any one Place ſince he was ordain'd to the Apoſtleſhip of the Gentiles; and now it was Time to think of removing, for he muſt preach in other Cities alſo: But after this to the End of the Scripture-Hiſtory of his Life (which is all we can depend upon) we never find him breaking up freſh Ground again, nor preaching the Goſpel there where Chriſt had not been Named, as hitherto he had done, Rom. xv. 20. for in the Cloſe of the next Chapter, we find him made a Priſoner and ſo continued, and ſo leſt, at the End of this Book.

1. Paul left Epheſus ſoon after the Uproar was ceaſed; looking upon that Diſturbance he met with there to be an Indication of Providence to him, not to ſtay there any longer, v. 1. His Remove might ſomewhat appeaſe the Rage of his Adverſaries, and gain better Quarter for the Chriſtians there; Currenti cede furori. 'Tis good to lie by in a Storm. Yet ſome think, that before he now left Epheſus, he wrote the firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, and that his fighting with Beaſts at Epheſus, which he mentions in that Epiſtle, was a figurative Deſcription of this Uproar; But I rather take that literally.

2. He did not leave them abruptly and in a fright, but took Leave of them ſolemnly. He call'd unto him the Diſciples, the principal Perſons of the Congregation, and embrac'd them, took leave of them (ſaith the Syriack) with the Kiſs of Love, according to the Uſage of the Primitive Church. Loving Friends know not how well they love one another till they come to part, and then it appears how near they lay to one another's Hearts.

Secondly, His Viſitation of the Greek Churches, which he had planted, and more than once watered, and which appear to have lain very near his Heart.

1. He went firſt to Macedonia, v. 1. according to his purpoſe before the Uproar, chap. xix. 21. there he viſited the Churches of Philippi, and Theſſalonica; and gave them much Exhortation, v. 2. Paul's Viſits to his Friends were preaching Viſits, and his Preaching was large and copious, he gave them much Exhortation. He had a great deal to ſay to them, and did not ſtint himſelf in Time. He exhorted them to many Duties, in many Caſes, and (as ſome read it) with many Reaſonings. He enforc'd his Exhortation with a great Variety of Motives and Arguments.

2. He ſtay'd three Months in Greece, v. 2, 3. i. e. in Achaia, as ſome think, for thither alſo he purpoſed to go, to Corinth, and thereabout, chap. xix. 21. and no Doubt there alſo he gave the Diſciples much Exhortation, to direct and confirm them, and engage them to cleave to the Lord.

Thirdly, The Altering of his Meaſures; for we cannot always ſtand to our Purpoſes. Accidents unforeſeen put us upon new Counſels, which oblige us to purpoſe with a Proviſo.

1. Paul was about to ſail into Syria, to Antioch, from whence he was firſt ſent out into the Service of the Gentiles, and which therefore in his Journies he generally contriv'd to take in his Way; But he chang'd his Mind, and reſolv'd to return through Macedonia, the ſame Way he came.

2. The Reaſon was, becauſe the Jews expecting he would ſteer that Courſe as uſual, had way-laid him, deſigning to be the Death of him; ſince they could not get him out of the Way by ſtirring up both Mobs and Magiſtrates againſt him, which they had often attempted, they contriv'd to aſſaſſinate him. Some think they laid wait for him to rob him of the Money that he was carrying to Jeruſalem, for the Relief of the Poor Saints there; but conſidering how very ſpiteful the Jews were againſt him, I ſuppoſe they thirſted for his Blood, more than for his Money.

Fourthly, His Companions in his Travels when he went into Aſia. They are here nam'd, v. 4. ſome of them were Miniſters, whether they were all ſo or no is not certain. Sopater of Berea, 'tis likely is the ſame with Soſipater, who is mention'd, Rom. xvi. 21. Timothy is reckon'd among them; for tho' Paul when he departed from Epheſus, v. 1. left Timothy there, and afterwards wrote his firſt Epiſtle to him thither, to direct him as an Evangeliſt how to ſettle the Church there, and in what Hands to leave it, ſee 1 Tim. i. 3, iii. 14, 15. which Epiſtle was intended for Direction to Timothy what to do, not only at Epheſus, where he now was, but alſo at other Places where he ſhould be in like Manner left, or whither he ſhould be ſent to reſide as an Evangeliſt; and not to him only, but to other of the Evangeliſts that attended Paul, and were in like Manner employ'd; yet he ſoon follow'd him, and accompany'd him with others here nam'd.

Now One would think this was no good Huſbandry to have all theſe worthy Men accompanying Paul, for there was more Need of them where Paul was not, than where he was: But ſo it was order'd,

1. That they might aſſiſt him in Inſtructing ſuch as by his Preaching were awaken'd and ſtartled: Wherever Paul came, the Waters were ſtir'd, and then there was Need of many Hands to help the Cripples in; 'twas Time to ſtrike when the Iron was hot.

2. That they might be train'd up by him, and fitted for future Service; might fully know his Doctrine, and Manner of Life, 2 Tim. iii. 10. Paul's bodily Preſence was weak and deſpicable, and therefore theſe Friends of his accompany'd him to put a Reputation upon him, and to keep him in Countenance, and to intimate to Strangers, who would be apt to judge by the Sight of the Eye, that he had a great deal in him truly valuable, which was not diſcover'd upon the outward Appearance.

Fifthly, His Coming to Troas, where he had appointed a general Rendezvous of his Friends.

1. They went before and ſtay'd for him at Troas, v. 5. deſigning to go along with him to Jeruſalem, as Trophimus particularly did, chap. xxi. 29. We ſhould not think it hard to ſtay a While for good Company in a Journey.

1. Paul made the beſt of his Way thither; and it ſhould ſeem Luke was now in Company with him; for he ſaith, We ſail'd from Philippi, v. 6. and the firſt Time we find him in his Company, was here at Troas, chap. xvi. 11. The Days of Unleavened Bread, are mention'd only to deſcribe the Time, not to intimate that Paul kept the Paſſover, after the Manner of the Jews; for juſt about this Time he had written in his firſt Epiſtle to the Church of Corinth, and taught that Chriſt is our Paſſover, and a Chriſtian Life our Feaſt of Unleavened Bread, 1 Cor. v. 7, 8. And when the Subſtance was come, the Shadow was done away. He came to them to Troas by Sea, in five Days, and when he was there, ſtay'd but ſeven Days. There's no Remedy but a great deal of Time will unavoidably be loſt in traveling to and fro by thoſe who go about doing Good; yet it ſhall not be put upon the Score of loſt Time: Paul thought it worth while to beſtow five Days in going to Troas though it was but for an Opportunity of ſeven Days ſtay there. But he knew, and ſo ſhould we, how to redeem even journeying Time, and make it turn to ſome good Account.

7 And upon the firſt day of the week, when the diſciples came together to break bread, Paul preach'd unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued his ſpeech until midnight. 8 And there were many lights in the upper chamber where they were gathered together. 9 And there ſat in a window a certain young man named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep ſleep: and as Paul was long preaching, he ſunk down with ſleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead. 10 And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him, ſaid, Trouble not your ſelves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, ſo he departed. 12 And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted.

We have here an Account of what paſs'd at Troas, the laſt of the ſeven Days that Paul ſtaid there.

Firſt, There was a ſolemn religious Aſſembly of the Chriſtians that were there, according to their conſtant Cuſtom, and the Cuſtom of all the Churches.

1. The Diſciples came together, v. 7. Tho' they read, and meditated, and pray'd, and ſung Pſalms a-part, and thereby kept up their Communion with GOD; yet that is not enough, they muſt come together to worſhip GOD in Concert, and ſo keep up their Communion with one another, by mutual Countenance and Aſſiſtance, and teſtify their ſpiritual Communion with all good Chriſtians. There ought to be ſtated Times for the Diſciples of Chriſt to come together; tho' they cannot all come together in one Place, yet as many as can.

2. They came together upon the firſt Day of the Week, which they call'd the Lord's-Day, Rev. i. 10. The Chriſtian-Sabbath, celebrated to the Honour of Chriſt and the Holy Spirit in Remembrance of the Reſurrection of Chriſt, and the Pouring out of the Spirit, both on the firſt Day of the Week. This is here ſaid to be the Day when the Diſciples came together, i. e. when it was their Practice to come together, in all the Churches. Note, The firſt Day of the Week is to be religiouſly obſerv'd by all the Diſciples of Chriſt, and it is a Sign between Chriſt and them; for by this it is known that they are his Diſciples. And it is to be obſerv'd in ſolemn Aſſemblies, which are as it were the Courts held in the Name of our Lord Jeſus, and to his Honour, by his Miniſters, the Stewards of his Courts, and to which all that hold from and under him owe Suit and Service, and at which they are to make their Appearance, as Tenants at their Lord's-Courts, and the firſt Day of the Week is appointed to be the Court-Day.

3. They were gather'd together in an Upper-Chamber, v. 8. They had no Temple or Synagogue to meet in, no capacious ſtately Chappel, but met in a private Houſe, in a Garret. As they were few and did not need, ſo they were poor and could not build a large Meeting-Place; yet they came together in that deſpicable inconvenient Place. It will be no Excuſe for our abſenting ourſelves from religious Aſſemblies, That the Place of them is not ſo decent or ſo commodious as we would have it be.

4. They came together to break Bread, i. e. to celebrate the Ordinance of the Lord's-Supper; that one inſtituted Sign of breaking the Bread, being put for all the reſt; The Bread which we break is the Communion of the Body of Chriſt, 1 Cor. x. 16. In the breaking of the Bread, not only the Breaking of Chriſt's Body for us to be a Sacrifice for our Sins is commemorated, but the Breaking of Chriſt's Body for us to be Food and a Feaſt for our Souls is ſignify'd. In the Primitive Times it was the Cuſtom of many Churches to receive the Lord's-Supper every Lord's-Day; celebrating the Memorial of Chriſt's Death in the former, with that of his Reſurrection in the latter; and both in Concert, in a ſolemn Aſſembly to teſtify their joynt concurrence in the Faith and Worſhip.

Secondly, In this Aſſembly Paul gave them a Sermon, a long Sermon, a Farewel Sermon, v. 7.

1. He gave them a Sermon, he preach'd to them; tho' they were Diſciples already, yet it was very neceſſary they ſhould have the Word of God preach'd to them, in order to their Increaſe in Knowledge and Grace. Obſerve, The Preaching of the Goſpel ought to accompany the Sacraments: Moſes read the Book of the Covenant in the Audience of the People, and then ſprinkled the Blood of the Covenant, which the Lord had made with them concerning all theſe Words, Exod. xxvi. 7, 8. What doth the Seal ſignify without a Writing?

2. 'Twas a Farewel-Sermon; he being ready to depart on the Morrow; when he was gone they might have the ſame Goſpel preach'd, but not as he preach'd it; and therefore they muſt make the beſt Uſe of him that they could while they had him. Farewel Sermons uſe to be in a particular Manner affecting both to the Preacher and to the Hearers.

3. 'Twas a very long Sermon; he continu'd his Speech until Midnight. For he had a great deal to ſay, and knew not that ever he ſhould have another Opportunity of Preaching to them. After they had receiv'd the Lord's-Supper, he preach'd to them the Duties they had thereby engag'd themſelves to, and the Comforts they were intereſted in, and in this he was very large, and full, and particular. There may be Occaſion for Miniſters to preach not only in Seaſon, but out of Seaſon. We know ſome that would have reproach'd Paul for this, as a long-winded Preacher that tir'd his Hearers; but they were willing to hear, he ſaw them ſo, and therefore continu'd his Speech. He continu'd it till Midnight; perhaps they met in the Evening, for Privacy, or in Conformity to the Example of the Diſciples, who came together on the firſt Chriſtian-Sabbath in the Evening. 'Tis likely he had preach'd to them in the Morning; and yet thus lengthen'd out his Evening-Sermon even till Midnight; we wiſh we had the Heads of this long Sermon, but we may ſuppoſe 'twas for Subſtance the ſame with his Epiſtles. The Meeting being continu'd till Midnight, there were Candles ſet up; many Lights, v. 8. that the Hearers might turn to the Scriptures Paul quoted, and ſee whether theſe Things were ſo: And that this might prevent the Reproach of their Enemies, who ſaid they met in the Night for Works of Darkneſs.

Thirdly, A Young Man in the Congregation that ſlept at Sermon, was kill'd by a Fall out of the Window, but rais'd to Life again. His Name ſignifies one that had good Fortune, Eutychus, bene Fortunatus; and he anſwer'd his Name. Obſerve,

1. The Infirmity with which he was overtaken. 'Tis likely his Parents brought him, though but a Boy to the Aſſembly, out of a Deſire to have him well inſtructed in the Things of GOD, by ſuch a Preacher as Paul. Parents ſhould bring their Children to hear Sermons, as ſoon as they can hear with Underſtanding, Neh. viii. 2. even the Little Ones, Deut. xxix. 11. Now this Youth was to be blam'd, (1.) That he preſumptuouſly ſate in the Window, unglaz'd perhaps, and ſo expos'd himſelf, whereas if he could have been content to ſit on the Floor he had been ſafe. Boys that love to climb, or otherwiſe endanger themſelves to the grief of their Parents, conſider not how much it is alſo an Offence to GOD. (2.) That he ſlept, nay, he fell into a deep Sleep when Paul was preaching; which was a Sign he had not duly attended to the Things that Paul ſpoke of, tho' they were weighty Things. The particular Notice taken of his ſleeping makes us willing to hope none of the reſt ſlept; though it was ſleeping Time; and after Supper. But this Youth fell faſt aſleep; he was carry'd away with it. So the Word is, which intimates that he ſtrove againſt it, but was overpower'd by it, and at laſt ſunk down with Sleep.

2. The Calamity with which he was ſeiz'd herein. He fell down from the Third Loft, and was taken up Dead. Some think the Hand of Satan was in it by the Divine Permiſſion, and that he deſign'd it for a Diſturbance to this Aſſembly, and a Reproach to Paul and it: Others think, GOD deſign'd it for a Warning to all People to take heed of Sleeping when they are Hearing the Word preach'd; and certainly we are to make that Uſe of it. We muſt look upon it as an evil Thing, as a bad Sign of our low Eſteem of the Word of GOD, and a great Hinderance to our profiting by it. We muſt be afraid of it, do what we can to prevent our being ſleepy, not compoſe ourſelves to ſleep; but get our Hearts affected, with the Word we hear, to ſuch a Degree as may drive Sleep far enough: Let us watch and pray, that we enter not into this Temptation, and by it into worſe. Let the Puniſhment of Eutychus ſtrike an Awe upon us, and ſhew us how jealous GOD is in the Matters of his Worſhip; Be not deceiv'd, God is not mock'd. See how ſeverely GOD viſited an Iniquity that ſeem'd little, and but in a Youth, and ſay, Who is able to ſtand before this Holy Lord God? Apply to this Story that Lamentation, Jer. ix. 20, 21. Hear the Word of the Lord, for Death is come up into our Windows to cut off the Children from without, and the Young Men from the Streets.

3. The miraculous Mercy ſhew'd him in his Recovery to Life again, v. 10. It gave a preſent Diſtraction to the Aſſembly, and an Interruption to Paul's Preaching, but it prov'd an Occaſion of that which was a great Confirmation to his Preaching, and help'd to ſet it home, and make it effectual.

1. Paul fell on the dead Body, and embrac'd it; thereby expreſſing a great Compaſſion to, and an affectionate Concern for this Young Man; ſo far was he from ſaying, He was well enough ſerv'd for minding ſo little what I ſaid. Such tender Spirits as Paul had, are much affected with ſad Accidents of this Kind, and are far from judging and cenſuring thoſe that fall under them, as if thoſe on whom the Tower of Siloam fell, were Sinners above all that dwelt at Jeruſalem; I tell you nay. But this was not all; his Falling on him and Embracing was in imitation of Elijah, 2 Kings xvii. 21. and Eliſha, 2 Kings iv. 32. in order to the Raiſing of him to Life again; not that this could as a Means contribute any Thing to it; but as a Sign, it repreſented the Deſcent of that Divine Power upon the dead Body, for the putting of Life into it again, which at the ſame Time he inwardly, earneſtly, and in Faith pray'd for.

2. He aſſur'd them, That he was return'd to Life, and it would appear preſently: Various Speculations, we may ſuppoſe, this ill Accident had occaſion'd in the Congregation, but Paul puts an end to them all, Trouble not yourſelves, Be not in any Diſorder about it, Let it not put you into any hurry; for his Life is in him. He is not dead, but ſleepeth; lay him a while upon a Bed, and he will come to himſelf, for he is now alive. Thus when Chriſt rais'd Lazarus, he ſaid, Father, I thank thee that thou haſt heard me.

3. He return'd to his Work, immediately after this Interruption, v. 11. He came up again to the Meeting; they broke Bread together in a Love-Feaſt, which uſually attended the Euchariſt in Token of their Communion with each other, and for the Confirmation of Friendſhip among them; and they talk'd a long while, even till break of Day: Paul did not now go on in a continued Diſcourſe as before, but he and his Friends fell into a free Converſation, the Subject of which no doubt was Good, and to the Uſe of Edifying. Chriſtian Conference is an excellent Means of promoting Holineſs, Comfort, and Chriſtian Love. They knew not when they ſhould have Paul's Company again, and therefore made the beſt Uſe they could of it when they had it; and reckon'd a Night's Sleep well loſt, for that Purpoſe.

4. Before they parted they brought the Young Man alive into the Congregation, every One congratulating him upon his Return to Life from the Dead, and they were not a little comforted, v. 12. It was the Matter of great Rejoycing among them, not only to the Relations of the Young Man, but to the whole Society, as it not only prevented the Reproach that would otherwiſe have been caſt upon them, but contributed very much to the Credit of the Goſpel.

13 And we went before to ſhip, and ſailed unto Aſſos, there intending to take in Paul: for ſo had he appointed, minding himſelf to go a foot. 14 And when he met with us at Aſſos, we took him in, and came to Mitylene. 15 And we ſailed thence and came the next day over againſt Chios: and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium; and the next day we came to Miletus. 16 For Paul had determined to ſail by Epheſus, becauſe he would not ſpend the time in Aſia: for he haſted, if it were poſſible for him, to be at Jeruſalem the day of Pentecoſt.

Paul is haſtening towards Jeruſalem, but ſtrives to do all the Good he can by the Way, ὡς ἐν παρόδῳ, as it were on the Bye: He had call'd at Troas, and done Good there; and now he makes a ſort of a Coaſting Voyage, the Merchants would call it a Trading Voyage, going from Place to Place, and no doubt endeavouring to make every Place he came to the better for him, as every good Man ſhould do.

Firſt, He ſent his Companions by Sea to Aſſos, but he himſelf was minded to go a foot, v. 13. He had decreed or determin'd within himſelf, that whatever Importunity ſhould be us'd with him to the contrary, urging either his Eaſe or his Credit, or the Conveniency of a Ship that offer'd itſelf, or the Company of his Friends, he would foot it to Aſſos: And if the Land-way which Paul took was the ſhorter Way, yet it is taken Notice of by the Ancients as a rough Way, (Homer. Illiad. vi. and Euſtathius upon him, ſay, 'Twas enough to kill One to go on Foot to Aſſos, Lorin. in loc.) yet that Way Paul would take;

1. That he might call on his Friends by the Way, and do Good among them, either converting Sinners, or edifying Saints; and in both he was ſerving his Great Maſter, and carrying on his great Work. Or,

2. That he might be alone, and might have the greater freedom of Converſe with GOD and his own Heart in Solitude. He lov'd his Companions, and delighted in their Company, yet he would ſhew hereby that he did not need it, but could enjoy himſelf alone. Or,

3. That he might enure himſelf to Hardſhip, and not ſeem to indulge his Eaſe. Thus he would by voluntary Inſtances of Mortification and Self-denial, keep under the Body, and bring it into ſubjection, that he might make his Sufferings for Chriſt, when he was call'd out to them, the more eaſy, 2 Tim. ii. 3. We ſhould uſe ourſelves to deny ourſelves.

Secondly, At Aſſos he went on board with his Friends, there they took him in; for by this Time he had enough of his Walk, and was willing to betake himſelf to the other Way of travelling: Or, perhaps he could not go any further by Land, but was oblig'd to go by Water. When Chriſt ſent his Diſciples away by Ship, and tarry'd himſelf behind, yet he came to them, and they took him in, Mark vi. 45, 51.

Thirdly, He made the beſt of his Way to Jeruſalem; His Ship paſs'd by Chios, v. 15. touch'd at Samos, (theſe are Places of Note among the Greek Writers, both Poets, and Hiſtorians.) They tarry'd a While at Trogyllium, the Sea-port next to Samos; and the next Day they came to Miletus, the Sea-port that lay next to Epheſus; for v. 16. he had determin'd not to go to Epheſus at this Time, becauſe he could not go thither, but he would be urg'd by his Friends, whoſe Importunity he could not reſiſt, to make ſome Stay with them there; and becauſe he was reſolv'd not to ſtay, he would not put himſelf into a Temptation to ſtay; for he haſted if it were poſſible for him to be at Jeruſalem, the Day of Pentecoſt. He had been at Jeruſalem, about four or five Years ago, chap. xviii. 21, 22. And now he was for going thither again to pay his continu'd Reſpects to that Church, which he was careful to keep a good Correſpondence with, that he might not be thought alienated from it by his Commiſſion to preach among the Gentiles. He aim'd to be there by the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, becauſe it was a Time of Concourſe, which would give him an Opportunity of Propagating the Goſpel among the Jews and Proſelytes, who came from all Parts to worſhip at the Feaſt: And the Feaſt of Pentecoſt had been particularly made famous among the Chriſtians, by the Pouring out of the Spirit. Note, Men of Buſineſs muſt fit themſelves, and it will contribute to the expediting of it, to ſet a Time (with ſubmiſſion to Providence) and ſtrive to keep it; contriving to do that firſt which we judge to be moſt needful, and not ſuffering ourſelves to be diverted from it. It is a Pleaſure to us to be with our Friends, it diverts us, nothing more; but we muſt not by it be diverted from our Work. When Paul has a Call to Jeruſalem, he will not loyter away the Time in Aſia, though he had more and kinder Friends there. This is not the World we are to be together in; we hope to be ſo in the other World.

17 ¶ And from Miletus he ſent to Epheſus, and called the elders of the church. 18 And when they were come to him, he ſaid unto them, Ye know, from the firſt day that I came into Aſia, after what manner I have been with you at all ſeaſons, 19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations which befel me by the lying in wait of the Jews: 20 And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have ſhewed you, and have taught you publickly, and from houſe to houſe, 21 Teſtifying both to the Jews, and alſo to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. 22 And now behold I go bound in the ſpirit unto Jeruſalem, not knowing the things that ſhall befall me there. 23 Save that the holy Ghoſt witneſſeth in every city, ſaying, that bonds and afflictions abide me. 24 But none of theſe things move me, neither count I my life dear unto my ſelf, ſo that I might finiſh my courſe with joy, and the miniſtry, which I have received of the Lord Jeſus, to teſtifie the goſpel of the grace of God. 25 And now behold I know that ye all among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, ſhall ſee my face no more. 26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men. 27 For I have not ſhunned to declare unto you all the counſel of God. 28 ¶ Take heed therefore unto your ſelves, and to all the flock, over the which the holy Ghoſt hath made you overſeers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchaſed with his own blood. 29 For I know this, that after my departing ſhall grievous wolves enter in among you, not ſparing the flock. 30 Alſo of your own ſelves ſhall men ariſe, ſpeaking perverſe things, to draw away diſciples after them. 31 Therefore watch, and remember that by the ſpace of three years, I ceaſed not to warn every one night and day with tears. 32 And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are ſanctified. 33 I have coveted no mans ſilver, or gold, or apparel. 34 Yea, you your ſelves know, that theſe hands have miniſtred unto my neceſſities, and to them that were with me. 35 I have ſhewed unto you all things, how that ſo labouring ye ought to ſupport the weak; and to remember the words of our Lord Jeſus, how he ſaid, It is more bleſſed to give than to receive.

It ſhould ſeem the Ship Paul and his Companions were embark'd in for Jeruſalem, attended him on Purpoſe, and ſtay'd or mov'd as he pleas'd; for when he came to Miletus, he went aſhore, and tarry'd there ſo long as to ſend for the Elders of Epheſus to come to him thither; for if he ſhould have gone up to Epheſus, he could never have got away from them. Theſe Elders or Presbyters, ſome think were thoſe twelve who receiv'd the Holy Ghoſt by Paul's Hands, chap. xix. 6. But beſides thoſe, 'tis likely Timothy had ordain'd other Elders there for the Service of that Church, and the Country about; Theſe Paul ſent for that he might inſtruct and encourage them to go on in the Work to which they had laid their Hands. And what Inſtructions he gave to them, they would give to the People under their Charge.

'Tis a very pathetical and practical Diſcourſe with which Paul here takes leave of the Elders, and has in it much of the excellent Spirit of this good Man.

1. He appeals to them concerning both his Life and Doctrine, all the Time he had been in and about Epheſus, v. 18. Ye know after what Manner I have been with you, and how I have done the Work of an Apoſtle among you. He mentions this, (1.) As a Confirmation of his Commiſſion, and conſequently of the Doctrine he had preach'd among them. They all knew him to be a Man of a ſerious, gracious, heavenly Spirit, that he was no deſigning ſelf-ſeeking Man, as Seducers us'd to be: He could not have been carry'd on with ſo much Evenneſs and Conſtancy in his Services and Sufferings, but by the Power of divine Grace. The Temper of his Mind, and the Tenour both of his Preaching and Converſation was ſuch, as plainly ſpoke that God was with him of a Truth, and that he was acted and animated by a better Spirit than his own. (2.) As an Inſtruction to them in whoſe Hands the Work was now left, to follow his Example. You know after what Manner I have been with you, how I have carry'd myſelf as a Miniſter; in like Manner be you with thoſe that are committed to your Charge when I am gone, Phil. iv. 9. What you have ſeen in me that's good, do.

2. His Spirit and Converſation were excellent and exemplary: They knew after what Manner he had been among them, and how he had had his Converſation towards them, in Simplicity, and godly Sincerity, 2 Cor. i. 12. How holily, juſtly, and unblameably he behav'd himſelf, and how gentle he was towards them, 1 Theſſ. ii. 7, 10.

(1.) He had carry'd himſelf well all along, from the very firſt Day that he came into Aſia; at all Seaſons; the Manner of his entering in among them was ſuch as no Body could find fault with. He appear'd from the firſt Day they knew him to be a Man that aim'd not only to do well, but to do Good, where-ever he came. He was a Man that was conſiſtent with himſelf, and all of a Piece; Take him where you would, he was the ſame at all Seaſons, did not turn with the Wind, nor change with the Weather, but was uniform, like a Die, that throw it which way you will, lights on a ſquare Side.

(2.) He had made it his Buſineſs to ſerve the Lord; to promote the Honour of God, and the Intereſt of Chriſt and his Kingdom among them; he never ſerv'd himſelf, nor made himſelf a Servant of Men, of their Luſts and Humours, nor was he a Time-ſerver; but he made it his Buſineſs to ſerve the LORD: In his Miniſtry, in his whole Converſation, he prov'd himſelf what he wrote himſelf, Paul, a Servant of Jeſus Chriſt, Rom. i. 1.

(3.) He had done his Work with all Humility of Mind, μετὰ πάσης ταπεινοφροσύνης, i. e. in all Inſtances of Condeſcenſion, Modeſty, and Self-abaſement. Tho' he was One that God had put a great deal of Honour upon, and done a great deal of Good by, yet he never took State upon him, nor kept People at a Diſtance; but convers'd as freely and familiarly with the Meaneſt for their Good, as if he had ſtood upon a level with them. He was willing to ſtoop to any Service, and to make himſelf and his Labours as cheap as they could deſire. Note, Thoſe that would in any Office ſerve the Lord acceptably to him, and profitably to others, muſt do it with Humility of Mind, Matth. xx. 26, 27.

(4.) He had always been very tender, affectionate, and compaſſionate among them; he had ſerv'd the Lord with many Tears. Paul was herein like his Maſter, oft in Tears; In his Praying, he wept and made Supplication, Hoſ. xii. 4. In his Preaching, what he had told 'em before, he told 'em again, even weeping, Phil. iii. 19. In his Concern for them, tho' his Acquaintance with them was but of a late ſtanding, yet ſo near did they lie to his Heart, that he wept with them that wept, and mingled his Tears with theirs upon Occaſion, which was very endearing.

(5.) He had ſtruggled with many Difficulties among them: He went on in his Work in the Face of much Oppoſition, many Temptations, Trials of his Patience and Courage, ſuch Diſcouragements, as perhaps were ſometimes Temptations to him, as to Jeremiah in a like Caſe, to ſay, I will not ſpeak any more in the Name of the LORD, Jer. xx. 8, 9. Theſe befel him by the laying in wait of the Jews, who ſtill were plotting ſome Miſchief or other againſt him. Note, Thoſe are the faithful Servants of the Lord, that continue to ſerve him in the midſt of Troubles and Perils, that care not what Enemies they make, ſo they can but approve themſelves to their Maſter and make him their Friend. Paul's Tears were owing to his Temptation; his Afflictions help'd to excite his good Affections.

3. His Preaching was likewiſe ſuch as it ſhould be, v. 20, 21. He came to Epheſus to preach the Goſpel of Chriſt among them, and he had been faithful both to them, and to him that appointed him.

1. He was a plain Preacher, and One that deliver'd his Meſſage ſo as to be underſtood: This is intimated in two Words, I have ſhew'd you, and have taught you; he did not amuſe them with nice Speculations, nor lead them into, and then loſe them in the Clouds of lofty Notions and Expreſſions; but he ſhew'd them the plain Truths of the Goſpel, which were of greateſt Conſequence and Importance, and taught them as Children are taught. I have ſhew'd you the right Way to Happineſs, and taught you to go in it.

2. He was a powerful Preacher; intimated in his teſtifying to them: He preach'd as One upon Oath, that was himſelf fully aſſur'd of the Truth of what he preach'd, and was deſirous to convince them of it, and to influence and govern them by it. He preach'd the Goſpel, not as a Hawker proclaims News in the Streets, 'tis all one to him whether it be true or falſe; but as a conſcientious Witneſs gives in his Evidence at the Bar with the utmoſt Seriouſneſs and Concern. Paul preach'd the Goſpel as a Teſtimony to them, if they receiv'd it; but as a Teſtimony againſt them, if they rejected it.

3. He was a profitable Preacher; One that in all his Preaching aim'd at doing Good to thoſe he preach'd to; he ſtudy'd that which was profitable unto them, which had a Tendency to make them wiſe and good, wiſer and better, to inform their Judgements, and reform their Hearts and Lives. He preach'd τὰ συμφέροντα, ſuch Things as brought with them divine Light and Heat, and Power to their Souls. 'Tis not enough not to preach that which is hurtful, which leads into Error, or hardens in Sin; but we muſt preach that which is profitable. We do all Things, dearly Beloved, for your edifying. Paul aim'd to preach not that which was pleaſing, but that which was profitable, and to pleaſe only in order to profit.

4. He was a painful Preacher, very induſtrious and indefatigable in his Work; he preach'd publickly, and from Houſe to Houſe. He did not confine himſelf to a Corner, when he had Opportunity of Preaching in the great Congregation; nor did he confine himſelf to the Congregation, when there was Occaſion for private and perſonal Inſtruction. He was neither afraid nor aſham'd to preach the Goſpel publickly, nor did he grudge to beſtow his Pains privately among a few when there was Occaſion for it. He preach'd publickly to the Flock that came together into the green Paſtures, and went from Houſe to Houſe to ſeek thoſe that were weak and wander'd; and did not think that the one would excuſe him from the other. Miniſters ſhould in their private Viſits, and as they go from Houſe to Houſe, diſcourſe of thoſe Things which they have taught publickly, repeat them, inculcate them, and explain them, if it be needful, asking, Have ye underſtood all theſe Things? and eſpecially, help them to apply it to themſelves, and their own Caſe. God is ſaid to teach his People to profit, Iſa. xlviii. 17. Thoſe teach for God, that teach People to profit.

5. He was a faithful Preacher; he not only preach'd that which was profitable, but he preach'd every Thing that he thought might be profitable, and kept back Nothing; tho' the Preaching of it might either coſt him more Pains, or be diſobliging to ſome, and expoſe him to their Ill-will. He declin'd not preaching whatever he thought might be profitable, tho' it was not faſhionable, nor to ſome acceptable. He did not keep back Reproofs, when they were neceſſary and would be profitable, for fear of offending; nor keep back the Preaching of the Croſs, tho' he knew it was to the Jews a Stumbling-block, and to the Greeks Fooliſhneſs, as the Romiſh Miſſionaries in China lately did.

6. He was a Catholick Preacher; he teſtify'd both to the Jews, and alſo to the Greeks. Tho' he was born and bred a Jew, and had an entire Affection for that Nation, and was train'd up in their Prejudices againſt the Gentiles, yet he did not therefore confine himſelf to the Jews, and avoid the Gentiles; but preach'd as readily to them, as to the Jews; and convers'd as freely with them. And on the other hand, tho' he was call'd to be the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, and the Jews had an implacable Enmity againſt him upon that Score; had done him many an ill Turn, and here at Epheſus were continually ploting againſt him, yet he did not therefore abondon them as Reprobates, but continu'd to deal with them for their Good. Miniſters muſt preach the Goſpel with Impartiality; for they are Miniſters of Chriſt for the univerſal Church.

7. He was a truly Chriſtian, Evangelical Preacher; he did not preach philoſophical Notions or Matters of doubtful Diſputation, nor did he preach Politicks, or intermeddle at all with Affairs of State or the Civil Governments; but he preach'd Faith and Repentance, the two great Goſpel Graces; the Nature and Neceſſity of them; theſe he urg'd upon all Occaſions.

1. Repentance towards GOD; that thoſe who by Sin had gone away from God, and were going further and further from him into a State of endleſs Separation from him, ſhould by true Repentance look towards God, turn towards him, move towards him, and haſten to him. He preach'd Repentance as God's great Command, Acts xvii. 30. which we muſt obey, That Men ſhould repent and turn to GOD, and do Works meet for Repentance; ſo he explains it, Acts xxvi. 20. And he preach'd it as Chriſt's Gift, in order to the Remiſſion of Sins, Acts v. 31. and directed People to look up to him for it.

2. Faith towards our Lord Jeſus Chriſt: We muſt by Repentance look towards God as our End; and by Faith towards Chriſt as our Way to God. Sin muſt by Repentance be abandon'd and forſaken, and then Chriſt muſt by Faith be rely'd on for the Pardon of Sin. Our Repentance towards God is not ſufficient, we muſt have a true Faith in Chriſt as our Redeemer and Saviour, conſenting to him as our Lord, and our God. For there's no coming to God, as penitent Prodigals to a Father, but in the Strength and Righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt as Mediator.

Such a Preacher as this, they all knew Paul had been; and if they will carry on the ſame Work, they muſt walk in the ſame Spirit, in the ſame Steps.

Secondly, He declares his Expectation of Sufferings and Afflictions in his preſent Journey to Jeruſalem, v. 22, 23, 24. Let them not think that he quitted Aſia now, for fear of Perſecution; No, he was ſo far from running away like a Coward from the Poſt of Danger, that he was now like a Heroe haſtening to the High-places of the Field, where the Battle was likely to be hotteſt. Now behold, I go bound in the Spirit to Jeruſalem; which may be underſtood either, (1.) Of the certain Fore-ſight he had of Trouble before him. Tho' he was not yet bound in Body, he was bound in Spirit; he was in full Expectation of Trouble, and made it his daily Buſineſs to prepare for it; he was bound in Spirit, as all good Chriſtians are poor in Spirit, endeavouring to accommodate themſelves to the Will of God, if they ſhould be reduc'd to Poverty. Or, (2.) Of the ſtrong Impulſe he was under from the Spirit of God working upon his Spirit to go this Journey; I go bound in the Spirit, i. e. firmly reſolv'd to proceed, and well aſſur'd that it is by a divine Direction and Influence that I am ſo, and not from any Humour or Deſign of my own, I go led by the Spirit, and bound to follow him where-ever he leads me.

1. He doth not know particularly the Things that ſhall befall him at Jeruſalem; whence the Trouble ſhall ſpring, what ſhall be the Occaſion of it, what the Circumſtances, and to what Degree it ſhall ariſe; God had not thought fit to reveal that to him. 'Tis good for us to be kept in the Dark concerning future Events, that we may be always waiting on God, and waiting for Him. When we go abroad, it ſhould be with this Thought, we know not the Things that ſhall befall us, not what a Day or a Night or an Hour may bring forth; and therefore muſt refer ourſelves to God, Let him do with us as ſeemeth good in his Eyes, and ſtudy to ſtand compleat in his whole Will.

2. Yet he doth know in general, that there is a Storm before him; for the Prophets, in every City he paſs'd through, told him by the Holy Ghoſt, that Bonds and Afflictions did abide him. Beſides the common Notice given to all Chriſtians and Miniſters to expect and prepare for Sufferings; Paul had particular Intimations of an extraordinary Trouble, greater and longer than he had yet met with, that was now before him.

3. He fixeth a brave and heroick Reſolution to go on with his Work notwithſtanding. 'Twas a melancholy Peal that was rung in his Ears in every City, That Bonds and Afflictions did abide him: 'Twas a hard Caſe for a poor Man to labour continually to do Good, and to be ſo ill treated for his Pains. Now, 'tis worth while to enquire, how he bore it: He was Fleſh and Blood as well as other Men; he was ſo, and yet by the Grace of God he was enabled to go on with his Work, and to look with a gracious and generous Contempt upon all the Difficulties and Diſcouragements he met with in it. Let us take it from his own Mouth here, v. 24. where he ſpeaks not with Obſtinacy or Oſtentation, but with a holy humble Reſolution. None of theſe Things move me, all my Care is to proceed and to perſevere in the Way of my Duty, and to finiſh well. Paul is here an Example,

1. Of Holy Courage and Reſolution in our Work, notwithſtanding the Difficulties and Oppoſitions we meet with in it; he ſaw them before him, but he made nothing of them: None of theſe Things move me, οὐδενὸς λόγον ποιοῦμαι, I make no Account of them. He did not lay theſe Things to Heart, Chriſt and Heaven lay there. None of thoſe Things mov'd him, i. e. (1.) They did not drive him off from his Work; he did not tack about, and go back again, when he ſaw the Storm ariſe; but went on reſolutely, preaching there where he knew how dear it would coſt him. (2.) They did not deprive him of his Comfort, nor make him drive on heavily in his Work; in the midſt of Troubles he was as One unconcern'd; in his Patience he poſſeſs'd his Soul, and when he was as ſorrowful, yet he was always rejoycing, and in all Things more than a Conqueror. Thoſe that have their Converſation in Heaven, can look down not only upon the common Troubles of this Earth, but upon the threatning Rage and Malice of Hell itſelf, and ſay, That none of theſe Things move them, as knowing that none of theſe Things can hurt them.

2. Of a Holy Contempt of Life, and the Continuance and Comforts of it; Neither count I my Life dear to myſelf. Life is ſweet, and is naturally dear to us, All that a Man has will he give for his Life; but all that a Man has, and Life too will he give, who underſtands himſelf aright, and his own Intereſt, rather than loſe the Favour of God, and hazard Eternal Life. Paul was of this Mind; tho' to an Eye of Nature Life is ſuperlatively valuable, yet to an Eye of Faith it is comparatively deſpicable; 'tis not ſo dear but it can be chearfully parted with for Chriſt. This explains Luke xiv. 26. where we are required to hate our own Lives, not in a haſty Paſſion, as Job and Jeremiah, but in a Holy Submiſſion to the Will of God, and a Reſolution to die for Chriſt, rather than deny him.

3. Of a Holy Concern to go through with the Work of Life, which ſhould be much more our Care, than to ſecure either the outward Comforts of it, or the Continuance of it. Bleſſed Paul counts not his Life dear in compariſon with this, and reſolves in the Strength of Chriſt, Non propter vitam vivendi perdere cauſas, That he never will to ſave his Life, loſe the Ends of living: He is willing to ſpend his Life in Labour, to hazard his Life in dangerous Services, to waſte it in toilſome Services; nay, to lay down his Life in Martyrdom, ſo he may but anſwer the great Intentions of his Birth, of his Baptiſm, and of his Ordination to the Apoſtleſhip.

Two Things this great and good Man is in Care about, and if he gain them, 'tis no matter to him what comes of Life.

1. That he may be found faithful to the Truſt repos'd in him; that he may finiſh the Miniſtry which he has receiv'd of the Lord Jeſus, may do the Work which he was ſent into the World about, or rather, which he was ſent into the Church about; that he might compleat the Service of his Generation, might make full Proof of his Miniſtry; that he might go through the Buſineſs of it, and others might reap the Advantage of it to the utmoſt of what was deſign'd; that he might, as is ſaid of the two Witneſſes, finiſh his Teſtimony, Rev. xi. 7. and might not do his Work by halves. Obſerve, (1.) The Apoſtleſhip was a Miniſtry both to Chriſt and to the Souls of Men; and they that were call'd to it conſider'd more the Miniſtry of it, than the Dignity or Dominion of it: And if the Apoſtles did ſo, much more ought the Paſtors and Teachers to do ſo, and to be in the Church as thoſe that ſerve. (2.) This Miniſtry was received from the Lord Jeſus; he entruſted 'em with it, and from him they received their Charge; for him they do their Work, in his Name, in his Strength, and to him they muſt give up their Account. 'Twas Chriſt that put them into the Miniſtry, 1 Tim. i. 12. 'Tis he that carries them on in their Miniſtry, and from him they have Strength to do their Service, and bear up under the Hardſhips of it. (3.) The Work of this Miniſtry was to teſtify the Goſpel of the Grace of God, to publiſh it to the World, to prove it, and to recommend it, and being the Goſpel of the Grace of God, it has enough in it to recommend itſelf: It is a Proof of God's Good-will to us, and a Means of his good Work in us; it ſhews him Gracious towards us, and tends to make us gracious, and ſo is the Goſpel of the Grace of God. Paul made it it the Buſineſs of his Life to teſtify this, and deſir'd not to live a Day longer than he might be inſtrumental to ſpread the Knowledge, and Savour, and Power of this Goſpel.

2. That he may finiſh well; he cares not when the Period of his Life comes, nor how, be it never ſo ſoon, never ſo ſudden, never ſo ſad as to outward Circumſtances, ſo that he may but finiſh his Courſe with Joy. (1.) He looks upon his Life as a Courſe, a Race, ſo the Word is. Our Life is a Race ſet before us, Heb. xii. 1. This intimates, that we have our Labours appointed us, for we were not ſent into the World to be idle; and our Limits appointed us, for we were not ſent into the World to be here always; but to paſs through the World, nay, to run through it; and it's ſoon run through; I may add, to run the Gauntlet through it. (2.) He counts upon the finiſhing of this Courſe, and ſpeaks of it as ſure and near, and that which he had his Thoughts continually upon. Dying is the End of our Race, when we come off either with Honour or Shame. (3.) He is full of Care to finiſh it well, which implies a Holy Deſire of obtaining, and a Holy Fear of coming ſhort. O that I may but finiſh my Courſe with Joy, and then all will be well, perfectly and eternally well. (4.) He thinks nothing too much to do, or too hard to ſuffer, ſo that he might but finiſh well, finiſh with Joy. We muſt look upon it as the Buſineſs of our Life, to provide for a joyful Death; that we may not only die ſafely, but die comfortably.

Thirdly, Counting upon it that this was the laſt Time they ſhould ſee him, he appeals to their Conſciences concerning his Integrity, and demands of them a Teſtimony to it.

1. He tells them, that he was now taking his laſt Leave of them, v. 25. I know that ye all, among whom I have been converſant preaching the Kingdom of GOD, tho' you may have Letters from me, ſhall never ſee my Face again. When any of us part with our Friends we may ſay, and ſhould ſay, We know not that ever we ſhall ſee one another again; our Friends may be remov'd, or we ourſelves may: But Paul here ſpeaks it with Aſſurance by the Spirit of Prophecy, that theſe Epheſians ſhould ſee his Face no more; and we cannot think, that he who ſpoke ſo doubtfully of that which he was not ſure of, v. 22. (not knowing the Things that ſhall befall me there) ſhould ſpeak this with ſo much Confidence, eſpecially when he foreſaw what a Trouble it would be to his Friends here, unleſs he had had a ſpecial Warrant from the Spirit to ſay ſo; to whom I think they do wrong, who ſuppoſe, that, notwithſtanding this, Paul did afterwards come to Epheſus, and ſee them again. He would never have ſaid thus ſolemnly, now, behold I know it, if he had not known it for certain. Not but that he foreſaw that he had a great deal of Time and Work yet before him, but that his Work would be cut out for him in other Places, and in theſe Parts he had no more to do. Here he had for a great while gone about preaching the Kingdom of GOD, preaching down the Kingdom of Sin and Satan, and preaching up the Authority and Dominion of God in Chriſt; preaching the Kingdom of Glory as the End, and the Kingdom of Grace as the Way: Many a Time they had been glad to ſee his Face in the Pulpit, and ſaw it as it had been the Face of an Angel. If the Feet of theſe Meſſengers of Peace were beautiful upon the Mountains, What were their Faces? But now they ſhall ſee his Face no more. Note, We ought often to think of it, that thoſe who now are preaching to us the Kingdom of GOD, will ſhortly be remov'd, and we ſhall ſee their Faces no more; The Prophets, Do they live for ever? Yet a little while is their Light with us; it concerns us therefore to improve it while we have it, that when we ſhall ſee their Faces no more on Earth, yet we may hope to look them in the Face with Comfort in the Great Day.

2. He appeals to them concerning the faithful Diſcharge of his Miniſtry among them, v. 26. wherefore, ſeeing my Miniſtry is at an End with you, it concerns both you and me to reflect, and look back; And (1.) He challengeth them to prove him unthankful, and to have ſaid or done any Thing, by which he had made himſelf acceſſary to the Ruin of any precious Soul. I am pure from the Blood of all Men, the Blood of Souls. This plainly refers to that of the Prophet Ezek. xxxiii. 6. where the Blood of him that periſheth by the Sword of the Enemy, is ſaid to be required at the Hand of the unfaithful Watchman, that did not give Warning; you cannot ſay, but I have given Warning, and therefore no Man's Blood can be laid at my Door. If a Miniſter has approv'd himſelf faithful, he may have this rejoycing in himſelf, I am pure from the Blood of all Men; and ought to have this Teſtimony from others. (2.) He therefore leaves the Blood of them that periſh upon their own Heads, becauſe they had fair Warning given them, but they would not take it. (3.) He charges theſe Miniſters to look to it, that they took Care and Pains as he had done; I am pure from the Blood of all Men, ſee that you keep yourſelves ſo too. I take you to record this Day; ἐν τῇ σήμερον ἡμέρᾳ I call this Day to witneſs to you, ſo Streſo. As ſometimes the Heaven and Earth are appeal'd to, ſo here, this Day ſhall be a Witneſs; this parting Day.

3. He proves his own Fidelity with this, v. 27. For I have not ſhunned to declare unto you all the Counſel of God. (1.) He had preached to them nothing but the Counſel of God, and had not added any Inventions of his own: 'Twas pure Goſpel and nothing elſe, the Will of God concerning our Salvation. The Goſpel is the Counſel of God; 'tis admirably contriv'd by his Wiſdom; 'tis unalterably determin'd by his Will; and 'tis kindly deſign'd by his Grace for our Glory, 1 Cor. ii. 7. This Counſel of God, 'tis the Buſineſs of Miniſters to declare as it is reveal'd, and not otherwiſe, nor any further. (2.) He had preach'd to them the whole Counſel of God; As he had preach'd to them the Goſpel pure, ſo he had preach'd it them entire: He had gone over a Body of Divinity among them; that having the Truths of the Goſpel open'd to them methodically, from firſt to laſt in order, they might the better underſtand them, by ſeeing them in their ſeveral Connections with, and Dependencies upon one another. (3.) He had not ſhun'd to do it; had not wilfully or deſignedly avoided the declaring of any Part of the Counſel of God. He had not to ſave his own Pains declin'd Preaching upon the moſt difficult Parts of the Goſpel, nor to ſave his own Credit, declin'd Preaching upon the moſt plain and eaſy Parts of it; He had not ſhun'd Preaching thoſe Doctrines which he knew would be as provoking to the watchful Enemies of Chriſtianity, as diſpleaſing to the careleſs Profeſſors of it, but faithfully took his Work before him, whether they would hear or forbear. And thus it was that he kept himſelf pure from the Blood of all Men.

Fourthly, He charg'd them as Miniſters to be diligent and faithful in their Work.

1. He commits the Care of the Church at Epheſus, i. e. the Saints, the Chriſtians that were there, and thereabouts, (Eph. i. 1.) to them; who, tho' doubtleſs they were ſo numerous that they could not all meet in one Place, but worſhipp'd God in ſeveral Congregations, under the Conduct of ſeveral Miniſters, yet are here call'd one Flock, becauſe they not only agree'd in one Faith, as they did with all Chriſtian Churches, but in many Inſtances they kept up Communion one with another. To theſe Elders or Presbyters the Apoſtle here upon the actual Foreſight of his own final leaving them, commits the Government of this Church, and tells them, that not he, but the Holy Ghoſt had made them Overſeers, ἐπισκόπους, Biſhops of the Flock; you that are Presbyters are Biſhops, Biſhops of the Holy Ghoſt's making, that are to take the Overſight of this Part of the Church of God, 1 Pet. v. 1, 2. Tit. i. 5, 7. while Paul was preſent at Epheſus, he preſided in all the Affairs of that Church, which made the Elders loth to part with him; But now this Eagle ſtirs up the Neſt, flutters over her Young; now they begin to be fledg'd, they muſt learn to fly themſelves, and to act without him, for the Holy Ghoſt had made them Overſeers. They took not this Honour to themſelves, nor was it confer'd upon them by any Prince or Potentate, but the Holy Ghoſt in them qualify'd them for, and enrich'd them to this great Undertaking, the Holy Ghoſt fell upon them, Chap. xix. 6. The Holy Ghoſt alſo directed them that choſe and call'd, and ordain'd them to this Work in Anſwer to Prayer.

2. He commanded them to mind the Work to which they were call'd: Dignity calls for Duty: If the Holy Ghoſt has made them Overſeers of the Flock, that is Shepherds, they muſt be true to their Truſt.

(1.) They muſt take heed to themſelves in the firſt Place, muſt have a jealous Eye upon all the Motions of their own Souls, and upon all they ſaid and did; muſt walk circumſpectly, and know how to behave themſelves aright in the Houſe of GOD, in which they were now advanc'd to the Office of Stewards; you have many Eyes upon you, ſome to take Example by you, others to pick Quarrels with you, and therefore you ought to take heed to your ſelves. Thoſe are not likely to be skilful or faithful Keepers of others Vineyards that do not keep their own.

(2.) Take heed to the Flock, to all the Flock, ſome to one Part of it, others to another, according as your Call and Opportunity is, but ſee that no Part of it be neglected among you. Miniſters muſt not only take heed to their own Souls, but muſt have a conſtant Regard to the Souls of thoſe which are under their Charge as Shepherds have to their Sheep, that they may receive no Damage. Take heed to all the Flock, that none of them, either of themſelves wander from the Fold, or be ſeiz'd by the Beaſts of Prey; that none of them be miſſing, or miſcarry through your Neglect.

(3.) They muſt feed the Church of God, muſt do all the Parts of the Shepherd's Office; muſt lead the Sheep of Chriſt into the green Paſtures, muſt lay Meat before them; muſt do what they can to heal thoſe that are diſtemper'd, and have no Appetite to their Meat; muſt feed them with wholeſome Doctrine, with a tender Evangelical Diſcipline, and muſt ſee that nothing be wanting that is neceſſary in order to their being nouriſh'd up to Eternal Life. There is need of Paſtors not only to gather the Church of God, by the bringing in of thoſe that are without, but to feed it by building up thoſe that are within.

(4.) They muſt watch, v. 31. as Shepherds watch over their Flocks by Night; muſt be awake, and wakeful; muſt not give Way to ſpiritual Sloth, and Slumber, but muſt ſtir up themſelves to their Buſineſs, and cloſely attend it. Watch thou in all Things, 2 Tim. iv. 5. Watch againſt every Thing that will be hurtful to the Flock, and watch to every Thing that will be advantagious to it; improve every Opportunity of doing it a Kindneſs.

3. He gives them ſeveral good Reaſons why they ſhould mind the Buſineſs of their Miniſtry.

1. Let them conſider the Intereſt of their Maſter, and his Concern for the Flock, that was committed to their Charge, v. 28. 'Tis the Church which he has purchaſed with his own Blood. (1.) It is his own; you are but his Servants to take care of it for him. 'Tis your Honour that you are employ'd for God, who will own you in his Service; but then your Careleſsneſs and Treachery is ſo much the worſe, if you neglect your Work, for you wrong God, and are falſe to him. From him you receiv'd the Truth, and to him you muſt give up your Account, and therefore Take heed to yourſelves. And if it be the Church of GOD, he expects you ſhould ſhew your Love to him, by feeding his Sheep and Lambs. (2.) He hath purchaſed it; The World is God's by Right of Creation, but the Church is his by Right of Redemption, and therefore it ought to be dear to us, for it was dear to him, becauſe it coſt him dear, and we cannot better ſhew it than by feeding his Sheep, and his Lambs. (3.) The Church of God is what he has purchaſed, not as Iſrael of Old, when he gave Men for them, and People for their Life, Iſa. xliii. 3, 4. but with his own Blood. This proves that Chriſt is God; for he is called ſo here, where yet he is ſaid to purchaſe the Church with his own Blood, the Blood was his as Man, yet ſo cloſe is the Union between the Divine and Human Nature, that it is here called the Blood of God, for it was the Blood of him who is God, and his being ſo put ſuch a Dignity and Worth into it, as made it both a valuable Ranſome of us from all Evil, and a valuable Purchaſe for us of all Good; nay, a Purchaſe of us to Chriſt, to be to him a peculiar People: Thine they were and thou gaveſt them me. In Conſideration of this therefore feed the Church of God, becauſe it is purchas'd at ſo dear a Rate; did Chriſt lay down his Life to purchaſe it, and ſhall his Miniſters be wanting in any Care and Pains to feed it: Their Neglect of its true Intereſt is a Contempt of his Blood that purchas'd it.

2. Let them conſider the Danger that the Flock was in of being made a Prey to its Adverſaries, v. 29, 30. If the Flock be thus precious upon the Account of its Relation to God, and its Redemption by Chriſt, than you are concern'd to take heed both to yourſelves and to it. Here are Reaſons for both.

(1.) Take heed to the Flock, for Wolves are abroad that ſeek to devour, v. 29. I know this, that after my Departing grievous Wolves ſhall enter in among you. (1.) Some underſtand it for Perſecutors, that will inform againſt the Chriſtians, and incenſe the Magiſtrates againſt them, and will have no Compaſſion on the Flock. They thought, becauſe while Paul was with them the Rage of the Jews was moſt againſt him, that when he was gone out of the Country they would be quiet: No, ſaith he, after my departing you will find the perſecuting Spirit ſtill working, therefore take heed to the Flock, confirm them in the Faith, comfort and encourage them, that they may not either leave Chriſt for fear of ſuffering, or loſe their Peace and Comfort in their Sufferings. Miniſters muſt take a more than ordinary Care of the Flock in Times of Perſecution. (2.) 'Tis rather to be underſtood of Seducers, and falſe Teachers; probably he has an Eye to thoſe of the Circumciſion, that preach'd up the Ceremonial Law. Theſe he calls grievous Wolves, for tho' they came in Sheeps Cloathing, nay, in Shepherds Cloathing, they made Miſchief in the Congregations of Chriſtians; ſow'd Diſcord among them, drew away many from the pure Goſpel of Chriſt, and did all they could to blemiſh and defame thoſe that adher'd to it; not ſparing the moſt valuable Members of the Flock; did ſtir up thoſe whom they could influence to bite and devour them, Gal. v. 15. therefore they are called Dogs, Phil. iii. 2. as here Wolves. While Paul was at Epheſus they kept away, for they durſt not face him; but when he was gone, then they enter'd in among them, and ſow'd their Tares where he had ſow'd the good Seed. Therefore take heed to the Flock, and do all you can to eſtabliſh them in the Truth, and to arm them againſt the Inſinuations of the falſe Teachers.

(2.) Take heed to yourſelves, for ſome Shepherds will apoſtatize, v. 30. Alſo of yourſelves, among the Members, nay, perhaps among the Miniſters of your own Church, among you that I am now ſpeaking to (tho' I am willing to hope it doth not go ſo far as that,) ſhall Men ariſe ſpeaking perverſe Things, i. e. Things contrary to the right Rule of the Goſpel, and deſtructive of the great Intentions of it. Nay, they will pervert ſome Sayings of the Goſpel, and wreſt them to make them patronize their Errors, 2 Pet. iii. 16. Even thoſe that were well thought of among you, and that you had confidence in, will grow proud and conceited, and opinionative, and will refine upon the Goſpel, and will pretend with more nice and curious Speculations to advance you to a higher Form; but it is to draw away Diſciples after them, to make a Party for themſelves that ſhall admire them, and be led by them, and pin their Faith upon their Sleeve. Some read it, to draw away the Diſciples after them; thoſe that are already Diſciples of Chriſt, draw them from him to follow them. Therefore take heed to yourſelves; when you are told that ſome of you ſhall betrary the Goſpel, you are each of you concern'd to aſk, Is it I? and to look well to yourſelves. This was there fulfill'd in Phygellus and Hermogenes, who turn'd away from Paul and the Doctrine he had preach'd, 2 Tim. i. 15. and in Hymeneus, and Philetus, who concerning the Truth erred, and overthrew the Faith of ſome, 2 Tim. ii. 18. which explains this here. But tho' there were ſome ſuch Seducers in the Church of Epheſus, yet it ſhould ſeem by St. Paul's Epiſtle to that Church, wherein we do not find ſuch Complaints and Reprehenſions as we meet with in ſome other of his Epiſtles, that that Church was not ſo much infeſted with falſe Teachers, at leaſt not ſo much infected with their falſe Doctrine, as ſome other Churches were: But its Peace and Purity were preſerv'd by the Bleſſing of God on the Pains and Vigilance of theſe Presbyters, to whom the Apoſtle in the actual Foreſight and Conſideration of the Riſe of Hereſies and Schiſms, as well as of his own Death, committed the Government of this Church.

3. Let them conſider the great Pains that Paul had taken in planting this Church, v. 31. Remember that by the Space of three Years, (for ſo long he had been preaching in Epheſus, and the Parts adjacent,) I ceaſed not to warn every one Night and Day with Tears, and be not you negligent in building upon that Foundation which I was ſo diligent to lay. (1.) Paul like a faithful Watchman had warn'd them, and by the Warnings he gave Men of the Danger of their continuing in their Judaiſm and Heatheniſm, he prevail'd with them to embrace Chriſtianity. (2.) He warn'd every one; beſides the publick Warnings he gave in his preaching, he apply'd himſelf to particular Perſons according as he ſaw their Caſe called for it, which he had ſomething to ſay peculiar to. (3.) He was conſtant in giving Warning, he warn'd Night and Day; his Time was fill'd up with this Work. In the Night when he ſhould have been repoſing himſelf, he was dealing with thoſe he could not get to ſpeak with in the Day, about their Souls. (4.) He was indefatigable in it; he ceaſed not to warn. Tho' they were never ſo obſtinate againſt his Warnings, yet he did not ceaſe to warn, not knowing but that at length they might by the Grace of God be overcome. Though they were never ſo pliable to his Warnings, yet he did not think that would be a ſufficient Excuſe for him to deſiſt, but ſtill he warn'd them that were Righteous, not to turn from their Righteouſneſs, as he had warn'd them when they were wicked to turn from their Wickedneſs, Ezek. iii. 18----21. (5.) He ſpoke to them about their Souls with a great deal of Affection and Concern: He warn'd them with Tears. As he had ſerv'd the Lord, ſo he had ſerv'd them with many Tears, v. 19. He warn'd them with Tears of Compaſſion, thereby ſhewing how much he was himſelf affected with their Miſery and Danger in a ſinful State and Way, that he might affect them with it. Thus Paul had begun the good Work at Epheſus; thus free had he been of his Pains, and why then ſhould they be ſparing of their Pains in carrying it on.

Fifthly, He recommends them to a Divine Conduct and Influence, v. 32. And now, Brethren, having given you this ſolemn Charge and Caution, I recommend you to God. Now I have ſaid what I have to ſay, The Lord be with you. I muſt leave you, but I leave you in good Hands. They were in Care what would become of them, how they ſhould go on in their Work, break through their Difficulties, and what Proviſion would be made for them, and their Families. In anſwer to all theſe Perplexities Paul directs them to look up to God with an Eye of Faith, and beſeeches God to look down on them with an Eye of Favour.

1. See here to whom he commends them: He calls them Brethren, not only as Chriſtians but as Miniſters, and hereby encourageth them to hope in God as he had done; for they and he were Brethren.

(1.) He commends them to God, begs of God to provide for them, to take care of them, and to ſupply all their Needs, and encourages them to caſt all their Care upon him, with an Aſſurance that he car'd for them. Whatever you want, go to God, let your Eye be ever towards him, and your Dependance upon him, in all your Straits and Difficulties; and let this be your Comfort, that you have a God to go too, a God All-ſufficient. I commend you to God, i. e. to his Providence, and to the Protection and Care of that. 'Tis enough that whoever we are ſeparated from, ſtill we have GOD nigh unto us, 1 Pet. iv. 19.

(2.) He commits them to the Word of his Grace; by which, ſome underſtand Chriſt. He is the Word, John i. 1. the Word of Life, becauſe Life is treaſur'd up for us in him, 1 John i. 1. and in the ſame Senſe he is here call'd the Word of God's Grace, becauſe from his Fulneſs we receive Grace for Grace: He commends them to Chriſt, puts them in his Hand, as being his Servants whom he would in a particular Manner take Care of. Paul commends them not only to GOD and to his Providence, but to Chriſt and his Grace, as Chriſt himſelf did his Diſciples when he was leaving them, Ye believe in GOD, believe alſo in me. It comes much to one, if by the Word of his Grace, we underſtand the Goſpel of Chriſt, for it is Chriſt in the Word, that is nigh unto us for our Support and Encouragement, and his Word is Spirit and Life. You will find much Relief by acting Faith on the Providence of God, but much more by acting Faith on the Promiſes of the Goſpel. He commends them to the Word of Chriſt's Grace which he ſpoke to his Diſciples when he ſent them forth, the Commiſſion he gave them, with Aſſurance that he would be with them always to the End of the World; take hold of that Word, and God give you the Benefit and Comfort of it, and you need no more. He commends them to the Word of God's Grace, not only as the Foundation of their Hope, and the Fountain of their Joy, but as the Rule of their Walking. I commend you to GOD, as your Maſter whom you are to ſerve, and I have found him a Good Maſter, and to the Word of his Grace as cutting you out your Work, and by which you are to govern yourſelves; obſerve the Precepts of this Word, and then live upon the Promiſes of it.

2. See here what he commends them to the Word of GOD's Grace for, not ſo much for a Protection from their Enemies, or a Proviſion for their Families, as for the ſpiritual Bleſſings which they moſt needed, and ought moſt to value. They had receiv'd, and were intruſted to preach the Goſpel of the Grace of GOD. Now he recommends them to that,

1. For their Edification: 'Tis able (the Spirit of Grace working with it, and by it) to build you up, and you may depend upon that, while you keep cloſe to it, and are deriving daily from it. Tho' you are already furniſh'd with good Gifts, yet that is able to build you up; there is that in it which you need to be better acquainted with, and more affected with. Note, Miniſters in preaching the Word of Grace, muſt aim at their own Edification as well as at the Edification of others. The moſt grown Chriſtians while they are in the World, are capable of growing, and they will find the Word of Grace to have ſtill more and more in it to contribute to their Growth. 'Tis ſtill able to build them up.

2. For their Glorification; 'Tis able to give you an Inheritance among all them which are ſanctify'd. The Word of GOD's Grace gives it, not only as it gives the Knowledge of it; for Life and Immortality are brought to light by the Goſpel; but as it gives the Promiſe of it, the Promiſe of a God that cannot lye, and which is Yea and Amen in Chriſt. And by the Word, as the ordinary Vehicle, the Spirit of Grace is given, (Acts x. 44.) to the Seal of the Promiſe, and the Earneſt of the Eternal Life promis'd; and thus it is the Word of GOD's Grace that gives us the Inheritance. Note, 1. Heaven is an Inheritance, which gives an indefeaſable Right to all the Heirs. 'Tis an Inheritance like that of the Iſraelites in Canaan, which was by Promiſe, and yet by Lot; but was ſure to all the Seed. 2. This Inheritance is entail'd upon, and ſecur'd to all thoſe, and thoſe only that are ſanctify'd; for as thoſe cannot be welcome Gueſts to the Holy God, or the holy Society above that are unſanctify'd, ſo, really, Heaven would be no Heaven to them: But to all that are ſanctify'd, that are born again, and on whom the Image of God is renew'd, it is as ſure as Almighty Power and Eternal Truth can make it. Thoſe therefore that would make out a Title to that Inheritance, muſt make it ſure that they are among the Sanctify'd, and joyn'd to them, and incorporated with them, and partake of the ſame Image and Nature; for we cannot expect to be among the Glorifyed hereafter, unleſs we be among the Sanctifyed here.

Sixthly, He recommends himſelf to them as an Example of Indifferency to this World, and to every Thing in it, which if they would walk in the ſame Spirit, and in the ſame Steps, they would find to contribute greatly to their eaſy and comfortable Paſſage through it. He had recommended them to GOD, and to the Word of his Grace for ſpiritual Bleſſings, which without Doubt are the beſt Bleſſings. But what ſhall they do for Food for their Families? and agreeable Subſiſtence for them, and Portions for their Children. As to theſe, Paul ſaith, do as I did. And how was that? He here tells them,

1. That he never aim'd at worldly Wealth, v. 33. I have coveted no Man's Silver, or Gold, or Apparel, nor do you, and then you will be eaſy. There were many in Epheſus, and many of thoſe that had embrac'd the Chriſtian Faith, who were rich, had a deal of Money and Plate and rich Furniture, and wore very good Clothes, and made a very good Appearance. Now (1.) Paul was not ambitious to live like them; we may take it in that Senſe; I never coveted to have ſo much Silver and Gold at command as I ſee others have; not to wear ſuch rich Cloaths as I ſee others wear; I neither condemn them, nor envy them; I can live comfortably and uſefully without living Great. The falſe Apoſtles deſir'd to make a fair Shew in the Fleſh, Gal. 6. 12. to make a Figure in the World: But Paul did not do ſo; he knew how to want, and how to be abaſed. (2.) He was not greedy to receive from them, either Silver, or Gold, or Apparel; ſo far from being always craving, that he was not ſo much as coveting, nor deſir'd them to allow him ſo and ſo for his Pains among them, but was content with ſuch Things as he had. He never made a Gain of them, 2 Cor. xii. 14. He could not only ſay with Moſes, Numb. xvi. 15. and with Samuel, 1 Sam. xii. 3, 5. Whoſe Ox have I taken, or whom have I defrauded? But whoſe Kindneſs have I coveted or ask'd? Or, to whom have I been burthenſom? He proteſts againſt deſiring a Gift, Phil. iv. 17.

2. That he had work'd for his Living, and taken a deal of Pains to get Bread, v. 34. Yea, you yourſelves know, and have been Eye-witneſſes of it, that theſe Hands of mine have miniſtred to my Neceſſities, and to them that were with me: You have ſeen me buſy early and late cutting out Tents and making them up, and they being commonly made of Leather, it was very hard Work. Obſerve, (1.) Paul was ſometimes reduc'd to Neceſſities, and the Want of the common Supports of Life, though he was ſo great a Favourite of Heaven, and ſo great a Bleſſing to this Earth. What an unthinking, unkind, and ungrateful World is this, that could let ſuch a Man as Paul be poor in it? (2.) He deſir'd no more than to have his Neceſſities ſupply'd; he did not work at his Calling to enrich himſelf, but to maintain himſelf with Food and Raiment. (3.) When he was to earn his Bread, he did it by a manual Occupation: Paul had a Head and a Tongue that he might have got Money by; but they were theſe Hands, ſaith he, that miniſtred to my Neceſſities. What Pity was it that thoſe Hands by the laying on of which the Holy Ghoſt had been ſo often conferr'd, thoſe Hands by which God had wrought ſpecial Miracles, and both theſe at Epheſus too, chap. xix. 6, 11. ſhould there be oblig'd to lay themſelves to the Needle and Sheers, the Awl and Tacking-end, in Tent-making, purely to get Bread. Paul puts theſe Presbyters (and others in them) in mind of this, that they may not think it ſtrange if they be thus neglected, and yet to go on in their Work, and make the beſt ſhift they can to live; the leſs Encouragement they have from Men, the more they ſhall have from God. (4.) He work'd not only for himſelf, but for the Support of them alſo that were with him; that was hard indeed; it had better become them to have work'd for him, to maintain him as their Tutor, than he for them: But ſo it is; thoſe that are willing to take the labouring Oar, will find thoſe about them willing they ſhould have it. If Paul will work for the Maintenance of his Companions, he is welcome to do it.

3. That even then when he work'd for the Supply of his own Neceſſities, yet he ſpar'd ſomething out of what he got for the Relief of others; for this he here obliges them to do, v. 35. I have ſhew'd you all Things, i. e. In all the Parts of your Duty I have ſet you your Copy, and given you a good Example, and particularly in this, that ſo labouring, you ought to ſupport the Weak. Some underſtand it of their ſupporting the Faith of weak Believers by removing the Prejudices which ſome conceiv'd againſt Chriſtianity, as if the Preachers of it, made a gainful Trade of their Preaching, and that the Goſpel was only a Trick to get Money by, and pick Peoples Pockets: Now that you may cut off Occaſion from thoſe that ſeek Occaſion to reproach us, and ſo may ſupport the Weak among us; you would do well for the preſent to get your Livelihood by the Labour of your Hands, and not to depend upon your Miniſtry. But I had rather underſtand it of their helping to ſupport the Sick and the Poor, and thoſe that could not labour; becauſe it agrees with Paul's Exhortations, Eph. iv. 28. Let him labour working with his Hands, that he may have to give to him that needeth. We muſt labour in an honeſt Employment, not only that we may be able to live, but that we may be able to give.

This might ſeem a hard Saying, and therefore Paul backs it with a Saying of our Maſter's, which he would have them always to remember. Theſe Words our Lord Jeſus ſaid, it ſhould ſeem they were Words he often us'd to his Diſciples, when he himſelf did ſo much Good gratis, and bid them do ſo too, Matth. x. 8, 9. he added this Saying, which, tho' no-where recorded by the Evangeliſts, yet Paul had by Word of Mouth from Peter, or ſome other of the Diſciples, and an excellent Saying it is, and has ſomething of a Paradox in it, It is more bleſſed to give, than to receive. It is (ſaith Dr. Tillotſon) a particular Endearment of this admirable Saying of our Saviour's to us, that being omitted by the Evangeliſts, and in danger of being loſt and forgotten, it was thus happily retriev'd by St. Paul, and recorded by St. Luke. It is more bleſſed to give to others, than to receive from others; not only more bleſſed to be rich, and ſo on the giving hand; than to be Poor, and ſo on the receiving hand; every One will own that: But more bleſſed to do Good with what we have, be it much or little, than to increaſe it, and make it more. The Sentiment of the Children of this World is contrary to this; They are afraid of giving, this giving (they ſay) undoes us all, but they are in hope of getting, every One for his Gain from his Quarter, Iſa. lvi. 11. clear Gain is with them the moſt bleſſed Thing that can be; but Chriſt tells us, It is more bleſſed, more excellent in itſelf, an Evidence of a more excellent Diſpoſition of Mind, and the Way to a better Bleſſedneſs at laſt, to give than to receive. It makes us more like to God, who gives to all, and receives from none; and to the Lord Jeſus who went about doing Good. It is more bleſſed to give our Pains, than to receive Pay for it, and what we ſhould delight to do if the Neceſſities of ourſelves and Families would admit it. It is more pleaſant to do good to the Grateful, but it is more honourable to do good to the Ungrateful; for then we have God to be our Paymaſter, who will reward in the Reſurrection of the Juſt, what has not otherwiſe been recompens'd.

36 ¶ And when he had thus ſpoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all. 37 And they all wept ſore, and fell on Paul's neck, and kiſſed him, 38 Sorrowing moſt of all for the words which he ſpake, that they ſhould ſee his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ſhip.

After the Parting-Sermon that Paul preach'd to the Elders of Epheſus, which was very affecting, we have here the Parting-Prayer and Tears, which were more affecting; we can ſcarcely read the Account here given of them, and meditate upon them, with dry Eyes.

Firſt, They parted with Prayer, v. 36. And when he had thus ſpoken, he kneeled down and pray'd with them all. And no doubt it was a Prayer every way ſuited to the preſent mournful Occaſion; he committed them to God in this Prayer, pray'd that he would not leave them, but continue his Preſence with them.

1. It was a Joint-Prayer: He not only pray'd for them, but pray'd with them, pray'd with them all; that they might put up the ſame Petitions for themſelves, and one another, that he put up to God for them all; and that they might learn what to ask of God for themſelves, when he was gone. Publick Prayers are ſo far from being intended to superſede our own ſecret Prayers, and make them needleſs, that they are deſign'd to quicken and encourage them, and to direct us in them. When we are alone, we ſhould pray over the Prayers that our Miniſters have put up with us.

2. It was a humble reverent Prayer: This was expreſs'd by the Poſture they us'd, he kneel'd down and pray'd with them; which is the moſt proper Geſture in Prayer, and ſignificant both of Adoration and of Petition, eſpecially Petition for the Forgiveneſs of Sin. St. Paul us'd it much, I bow my Knees, Eph. iii. 14.

3. It was a Prayer after Sermon; and we may ſuppoſe he pray'd over what he had preach'd: He had committed the Care of the Church at Epheſus to thoſe Elders, and now he prays that God would enable them faithfully to diſcharge this great Truſt repos'd in them, and would give them thoſe Meaſures of Wiſdom and Grace which it requir'd: He pray'd for the Flock, and all that belong'd to it, That the Great Shepherd of the Sheep would take Care of them all, and keep them from being a Prey to the grievous Wolves. Thus he taught thoſe Miniſters to pray for thoſe they preach'd to, that they might not labour in vain.

4. It was a parting Prayer; which might be likely to leave laſting Impreſſions, as the Farewel-Sermon did. 'Tis good for Friends when they part, to part with Prayer; that by praying together juſt at parting, they may be enabled to pray the more feelingly one for another when they are parted, which is one Part of our Chriſtian Duty, and an Improvement of the Communion of Saints. The LORD watch between us, and watch over us both when we are abſent the one from the other, is a good parting Prayer, Gen. xxxi. 49. As alſo that our next Meeting may be either nearer Heaven or in Heaven. Paul here follow'd the Example of Chriſt, who when he took Leave of his Diſciples, after he had preach'd to them, pray'd with them all, John xvii. 1.

Secondly, They parted with Tears, Abundance of Tears, and moſt affectionate Embraces, v. 37, 38.

1. They all wept ſore: We have Reaſon to think, that Paul himſelf began; tho' he was determin'd to go, and ſaw his Call clear to other Work, yet he was ſorry in his Heart to leave them, and many a Tear it coſt him. He that was ſo oft in Tears while he was with them, v. 19, 31. no doubt ſhed many at parting, ſo watering what he had ſown among them. But the Notice is taken of their Tears; they all wept ſore; there was not a dry Eye among them. And 'tis probable the affectionate Expreſſions Paul us'd in Prayer ſet them a weeping. Theſe were Tears of Love, and mutual Endearment, like thoſe of Jonathan and David when they were forc'd to part, and wept one with another until (as if they wept for Strife) David exceeded, 1 Sam. xx. 41.

2. They fell upon Paul's Neck and kiſs'd him, all one after another, each bewailing his own Loſs; how can I part with this dear Creature, this bleſſed Paul, ſaith one, in whom my Life is in a manner bound up. Farewel, my dear Friend, ſaith another, a thouſand Thanks to thee, and ten thouſand to God for thee, and for all the Pains thou haſt taken with me for my Good; and muſt we part, ſaith another, muſt I loſe my ſpiritual Father, Nurſe and Guide? What will become of us now, ſaith another, when we ſhall no more have him to apply to, and receive Direction from? What ſhall I do, if the Lord take away my Maſter from my Head? My Father, my Father, the Chariot of Iſrael and the Horſemen thereof. Note, Thoſe that are moſt loving, are commonly beſt belov'd: Paul that was a moſt affectionate Friend himſelf, had Friends that were very affectionate to him. Theſe Tears at parting with Paul were a grateful Return for all the Tears he had ſhed in preaching to them, and praying with them. He that watereth ſhall be watered alſo himſelf.

3. That which cut them to the Heart thus, and made this Place ſuch a Bochim, ſuch a Place of Weepers, was that Word which Paul ſpake that he was certain, They ſhould ſee his Face no more. If he had given them Directions to follow him, as he did to thoſe that were his uſual Companions, or any Intimation that he would come hereafter and make them a Viſit, they could have born this Parting pretty well; but when they are told, That they ſhall ſee his Face no more in this World, that 'tis a final Farewel they are now giving and taking, this makes it a great Mourning; it makes the Farewel juſt like a Funeral, and puts them into this Paſſion of Weeping. There were other Things for which they ſorrow'd, that they ſhould want the Benefit of his publick Performances, and ſee him no longer preſiding in their Aſſemblies, ſhould have none of his perſonal Counſels and Comforts. And we hope, they ſorrow'd for their own Sin in not profiting more by his Labours while they had him among them, and which had provok'd God to order his Remove: But that which gave the moſt ſenſible Accent to their Grief was, That they ſhould ſee his Face no more. And when our Friends are ſeparated from us by Death, this is that Conſideration with which we raiſe up our Mourning; That we ſhall ſee their Faces no more, but we complain not of this as thoſe that have no Hope; for if our Friends dy'd in Chriſt, and we live to him, they are gone to ſee God's Face, to behold his Glory, with the Reflection of which their Faces ſhine, and we hope to be with them ſhortly. Tho' we ſhall ſee their Faces no more in this World, we hope to ſee them again in a better World, and to be there together for ever, and with the Lord.

Laſtly, They accompany'd him unto the Ship; partly to ſhew their Reſpect to him, they would bring him on his Way as far as they could; and partly that they might have a little more of his Company and Converſation; if it muſt be the laſt Interview, they will have as much from him as they can, and ſee the laſt of him. And we have Reaſon to think, when they came to the Water-ſide, and he was to go on Board, their Tears and Embraces were repeated; for loth to part bids oft Farewel. But this was a Comfort to both Sides, and ſoon turn'd this Tide of Paſſion, That the Preſence of Chriſt both went with him, and ſtay'd with them.

CHAP. XXI.

We have with a great deal of Pleaſure attended the Apoſtle in his Travels thro'out the Gentile Nations to preach the Goſpel, and have ſeen a great Harveſt of Souls gathered in to Chriſt; there we have ſeen likewiſe what Perſecutions he endur'd; yet ſtill out of them all the Lord preſently deliver'd him, 2 Tim. 3. 11. But now we are to attend him to Jeruſalem, and there into laſting Bonds: The Days of his Service now ſeem to be over, and nothing to remain but Days of Suffering, Days of Darkneſs, for they are many. 'Tis a thouſand pities that ſuch a Workman ſhould be laid aſide; yet ſo it is, and we muſt not only acquieſce, as his Friends then did, ſaying, The Will of the Lord be done; but we muſt believe, and ſhall find Reaſon to do ſo, that Paul in the Priſon and at the Bar is as truly glorifying GOD, and ſerving Chriſt's Intereſt, as Paul in the Pulpit was. In this Chapter we have (1.) A Journal of Paul's Voyage from Epheſus to Cæſarea, the next Sea-port to Jeruſalem, ſome Places he touch'd at, and his Landing there, v. 1—7. (2.) The Struggles he had with his Friends at Cæſarea, who mightily oppos'd his going up to Jeruſalem, but could not prevail, v. 8—14. (3.) Paul's Journey from Cæſarea to Jeruſalem, and the kind Entertainment which the Chriſtians there gave him, v. 15—17. (4.) The Compliance with the Perſuaſions of the Brethren there, who advis'd him ſo far to complement the Jews, as to go to purify himſelf with an Offering in the Temple, as if he had had a Vow, that it might appear he was no ſuch Enemy to the Moſaick Rites and Ceremonies as he was reported to be, v. 18—26. (5.) The turning of this very Thing againſt him by the Jews, and the apprehending of him in the Temple as a Criminal thereupon, v. 27—30. (6.) The fair Scape he had of being pull'd to pieces by the Rabble, and the taking of him into fair and legal Cuſtody by the Chief Captain, who permitted him to ſpeak for himſelf to the People, v. 31—40. And ſo we have him made a Priſoner, and ſhall never have him otherwiſe to the End of the Hiſtory of this Book.

AND it came to paſs, that after we were gotten from them, and had lanched, we came with a ſtraight courſe unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara. 2 And finding a ſhip ſailing over unto Phenicia, we went aboard, and ſet forth. 3 Now when we had diſcovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and ſailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ſhip was to unlade her burthen. 4 And finding diſciples, we tarried there ſeven days: who ſaid to Paul through the Spirit, that he ſhould not go up to Jeruſalem. 5 And when we had accompliſhed thoſe days, we departed, and went our way, and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city: and we kneeled down on the ſhore, and prayed. 6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ſhip; and they return'd home again. 7 And when we had finiſhed our courſe from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, and ſaluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

We may obſerve here,

1. How much ado Paul had to get clear from Epheſus, intimated in the firſt Words of the Chapter, after we were gotten from them, were drawn from them as by Violence; 'Twas a Force put upon both Sides; Paul was loth to leave them, and they were as loth to part with him, and yet there was no Remedy but ſo it muſt be. When good People are taken away by Death, they are as it were gotten from their Friends here below, who ſtruggled hard to have detain'd them if poſſible.

2. What a proſperous Voyage they had from thence; without any Difficulty they came with a ſtraight Courſe by direct Sailing to Coos, a famous Iſland in Greece. The next Day to Rhodes, talk'd of for the Coloſſus there; thence to Patara, a famous Port, the Metropolis of Lycia, v. 1. There they very happily found a Ship ſailing over unto Phœnicia, the very Courſe they were ſteering, v. 2. Providence muſt be acknowledg'd when Things happen thus opportunely, and we are favour'd by ſome little Circumſtances that contribute to the expediting of our Affairs; and we muſt ſay, It is GOD that maketh our Way perfect. This Ship that was bound for Phœnicia, i. e. Tyre, they took the Convenience of, went on Board, and ſet ſail for Tyre. In that Voyage they diſcover'd Cyprus, the Iſland that Barnabas was of, and which he took Care of, and therefore Paul did not viſit it but we left it on the left Hand, v. 3. ſail'd upon the Coaſts of Syria, and at length landed at Tyre, that celebrated Mart of the Nations, ſo it had been, but was now reduc'd; yet ſomething of a Trade it had ſtill, for there the Ship was to unlade her Burthen, and did ſo.

3. The Halt that Paul made at Tyre; when he was got there, he was upon the Coaſt of the Land of Iſrael, and found now that he could compaſs the Remainder of his Journey within the Time he had fix'd.

(1.) At Tyre he found Diſciples, ſome that had embrac'd the Goſpel, and profeſs'd the Chriſtian Faith. Obſerve, Where-ever Paul came, he enquir'd, what Diſciples were there, found them out, and aſſociated with them; for we know what's the Uſage of Birds of a Feather. When Chriſt was upon Earth, tho' he went ſometimes into the Coaſts of Tyre, yet he never went thither to preach the Goſpel there; nor did he think fit to afford to Tyre and Sidon the Advantages which Chorazin and Bethſaida had, tho' he knew that if they had had them, they would have made a better Improvement of them, Luke x. 13, 14. But after the enlarging of the Goſpel-Commiſſion, Chriſt was preach'd at Tyre and had Diſciples there; and to this ſome think that Prophecy concerning Tyre had reference, Iſa. xxiii. 18. That her Merchandice, and Hire, ſhould be Holineſs to the LORD.

(2.) Paul finding thoſe Diſciples at Tyre, tarry'd there ſeven Days, they urging him to ſtay with them as long as he could; he ſtay'd ſeven Days at Troas, chap. xx. 6. and here ſo many Days at Tyre, that he might be ſure to ſpend one Lord's-Day with them, and ſo might have an Opportunity of Preaching publickly among them; for 'tis the Deſire of good Men to do Good where-ever they come; and where we find Diſciples, we may either benefit them, or be benefited by them.

(3.) The Diſciples at Tyre were endow'd with ſuch Gifts, that they could by the Spirit fore-tell the Troubles Paul would meet with at Jeruſalem; for the Holy Ghoſt witneſſed it in every City, chap. xx. 23. It being a Thing that would be ſo much talk'd of when it came to paſs, God ſaw fit to have it much propheſied of before, that Peoples Faith inſtead of being offended, might be confirm'd; and withal they were endow'd with ſuch Graces, that fore-ſeeing his Troubles, out of Love to him, and Concern for the Church, eſpecially the Churches of the Gentiles, that could ill ſpare him, they begg'd of him that he would not go up to Jeruſalem, for they hop'd the Decree was conditional, If he go up, he will come into Trouble there; as the Prediction to David, that the Men of Keilah will deliver him up, that is, if he venture himſelf with them; and therefore they ſaid to him by the Spirit, that he ſhould not go up, becauſe they concluded it would be moſt for the Glory of God, that he ſhould continue at Liberty; and it was not all their Fault to think ſo, and conſequently to diſſuade him. For it was their Miſtake; for his Tryal would be for the Glory of God, and the Furtherance of the Goſpel, and he knew it; and the Importunity that was us'd with him to diſſuade him from it, renders his pious and truly heroick Reſolution the more illuſtrious.

(4.) The Diſciples at Tyre, tho' they were none of Paul's Converts, yet ſhew'd a very great Reſpect to Paul, whoſe Uſefulneſs in the Church they had hear'd ſo much of: When he departed from Tyre, tho' they had had but ſeven Days Acquaintance with him, yet as if he had been ſome great Man, they all came together with their Wives and Children, ſolemnly to take Leave of him, to beg his Bleſſing, and to bring him as far on his Way as the Sea would permit them. Note, 1. We ſhould pay Reſpect not only to our own Miniſters that are over us in the Lord, and admoniſh us, and for their Work's ſake among us eſteem them highly in Love; but we muſt as there is Occaſion teſtify our Love and Reſpect to all the faithful Miniſters of Chriſt, both for his Sake whoſe Miniſters they are, and for their Work's ſake among others: 2. We muſt in a particular Manner, honour thoſe whom God hath ſingularly honour'd, by making them eminently uſeful in their Generation. 3. 'Tis good to train up Children in a Reſpect to good People and good Miniſters. This was particularly remarkable at Tyre, which we have not met with any where elſe, that they brought their Wives and Children to attend Paul, to do him the more Honour, and to receive Benefit by his Inſtructions and Prayers. And as angry Notice was taken of the Children of the Idolaters of Bethel that mock'd a Prophet, ſo no doubt gracious Notice was taken of the Children of the Diſciples at Tyre that honour'd an Apoſtle, as Chriſt accepted the Hoſanna's of the little Children. 4. We ſhould be good Husbands of our Opportunities, and make the utmoſt we can of them for the Good of our Souls. They brought Paul on his Way that they might have ſo much the more of his Company, and his Prayers. Some refer us to Pſal. xlv. 12. as a Prediction of this, The Daughter of Tyre ſhall be there with a Gift; for 'tis probable they made ſome Preſents to Paul at parting, as uſual to our Friends that are going to Sea, Acts xxviii. 10.

4. They parted with Prayer, as Paul and the Epheſian Elders had done, chap. xx. 36. Thus Paul has taught us by Example, as well as Rule to pray always, to pray without ceaſing. We kneeled down on the Shore and pray'd. Paul pray'd for himſelf, pray'd for them, pray'd for all the Churches; as he was much in Prayer, ſo he was mighty in Prayer. They pray'd upon the Shore, that their laſt Farewel might be ſanctify'd and ſweeten'd with Prayer. Thoſe that are going to Sea, ſhould when they quit the Shore commit themſelves to God by Prayer, and put themſelves under his Protection, as thoſe that hope even when they leave the Terra firma to find firm Footing for their Faith in the Providence and Promiſe of God. They kneeled down on the Shore, though we may ſuppoſe it either ſtony or dirty, and there pray'd: Paul would that Men ſhould pray every-where, and ſo he did himſelf; and where he lift up his Prayer he bow'd his Knees. Mr. George Herbert ſaith, kneeling ne'er ſpoiled Silk Stockings.

(6.) They parted at laſt, v. 6. When we had taken our Leave one of another with the moſt affectionate Embraces and Expreſſions of Love and Grief, we took Ship to be gone, and they return'd home again; each complaining that this is a parting World. Obſerve, How they diſpos'd of themſelves; we that had a Journey before us took Ship, thankful that we had a Ship to carry us; and they that had no Occaſions to call them abroad, return'd home again, thankful that they had a home to go to; Rejoyce Zebulun in thy going out, and Iſſachar in thy Tents. Paul left his Bleſſing behind him with thoſe that return'd home; and they that ſtay'd ſent their Prayers after them that went to Sea.

5. Their arrival at Ptolemais, which was not far from Tyre, v. 7. We came to Ptolemais, which ſome think is the ſame Place with Accho, which we find in the Tribe of Aſher, Judg. i. 31. Paul begg'd Leave to go aſhore there, to ſalute the Brethren, to enquire of their State, and to teſtify his Good-will to them. Tho' he could not ſtay long with them, yet he would not paſs by them without paying his Reſpects to them; and he abode with them one Day, perhaps it was a Lord's-Day. Better a ſhort Stay, than no Viſit.

8 And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Ceſarea; and we entred into the houſe of Philip the evangeliſt, (which was one of the ſeven) and abode with him. 9 And the ſame man had four daughters, virgins, which did propheſie. 10 And as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judea a certain Prophet, named Agabus. 11 And when he was come unto us he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and ſaid, Thus ſaith the holy Ghoſt, ſo ſhall the Jews at Jeruſalem bind the man that owneth this Girdle, and ſhall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles. 12 And when we heard theſe things, both we and they of that place, beſought him not to go up to Jeruſalem. 13 Then Paul anſwered, What mean ye to weep, and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but alſo to die at Jeruſalem for the name of the Lord Jeſus. 14 And when he would not be perſuaded, we ceaſed, ſaying, The will of the Lord be done.

We have here Paul and his Company arriv'd at length at Cæſarea, where he deſign'd to make ſome Stay, it being the Place where the Goſpel was firſt preach'd to the Gentiles, and the Holy Ghoſt fell upon them, Acts x. 1.

Now here we are told,

Firſt, Who it was that entertain'd Paul and his Company at Cæſarea: He ſeldom had Occaſion to go to a publick Houſe, but where-ever he came ſome Friend or other took him in, and bid him welcome. Obſerve, They that had ſail'd together, parted when the Voyage was accompliſh'd, according as their Buſineſs was. They that were concern'd in the Cargo ſtay'd where the Ship was to unlade her Burthen, v. 3. Others when they came to Ptolemais went as their Occaſions led them; but we that were of Paul's Company, went where he went, and came to Cæſarea. Thoſe that travel together through this World, will ſeparate at Death, and then it will appear who are of Paul's Company, and who are not. Now at Cæſarea,

1. They were entertain'd by Philip the Evangeliſt, whom we left at Cæſarea many Years ago, after he had baptiz'd the Eunuck, Acts viii. 40. And there we now find him again. (1.) He was originally a Deacon, one of the Seven that were choſen to ſerve Tables, chap. vi. 5. (2.) He was now and had been long an Evangeliſt, one that went about to plant and water Churches as the Apoſtles did, and gave himſelf as they did to the Word and Prayer: Thus having us'd the Office of a Deacon well, he purchas'd to himſelf a good Degree. And having been faithful in a few Things, was made Ruler over many Things. (3.) He had a Houſe at Cæſarea, fit to entertain Paul and all his Company, and he bid him and them very welcome to it. We enter'd into the Houſe of Philip the Evangeliſt, and we abode with him. Thus doth it become Chriſtians and Miniſters according as their Ability is to uſe Hoſpitality one to another without grudging, 1 Pet. iv. 9.

2. This Philip had four Maiden Daughters which did Propheſy, v. 9. it intimates that they propheſy'd of Paul's Troubles at Jeruſalem, as others had done, and diſſuaded him from going; or, perhaps they propheſy'd for his Comfort and Encouragement, a further Accompliſhment of that Prophecy, Joel ii. 28. of ſuch a plentiful Pouring out of the Spirit upon all Fleſh, as that their Sons and their Daughters ſhould propheſy, i. e. fore-tell Things to come.

Secondly, A plain and full Prediction of the Sufferings of Paul by a noted Prophet, v. 10, 11.

1. Paul and his Company tarry'd many Days at Cæſarea; Perhaps Cornelius was yet living there, and (tho' Philip lodg'd them, yet) might be many Ways kind to them, and induce them to ſtay there. What Cauſe Paul ſaw to tarry ſo long there, and to make ſo little haſte at the Latter-end of his Journey to Jeruſalem, when he ſeem'd ſo much in haſte at the Beginning of it, we cannot tell, but we are ſure he did not ſtay either there or any where elſe to be idle; he meaſur'd his Time by Days, and number'd them.

2. Agabus the Prophet came to Cæſarea from Judea: This was he that we read of before, who came from Jeruſalem to Antioch to foretel a general Famine, chap. xi. 27, 28. See how God diſpenſeth his Gifts variouſly; to Paul was given the Word of Wiſdom and Knowledge as an Apoſtle, by the Spirit, and the Gifts of Healing; to Agabus and to Philip's Daughters were given Prophecy by the ſame Spirit, the Foretelling of Things to come, which came to paſs according to the Prediction, (See 1 Cor. xii. 8, 10.) ſo that that which was the moſt eminent Gift of the Spirit under the Old Teſtament, the foretelling of Things to come, was under the New Teſtament, quite out-ſhone by other Gifts, and was beſtow'd upon thoſe that were of leſs Note in the Church. It ſhould ſeem as if Agabus came on purpoſe to Cæſarea to meet Paul with this Prophetick Intelligence.

3. He foretold Paul's Bonds at Jeruſalem; (1.) By a Sign, as the Prophets of Old did, Iſaiah, chap. xx. 3. and many others. Agabus took Paul's Girdle, when he laid it by, or perhaps took it from about him, and with it bound faſt his own Hands, and then his own Feet, or perhaps bound his Hands and Feet together. This was deſign'd both to confirm the Prophecy, 'twas as ſure to be done, as if 'twere done already; and to affect thoſe about him with it; becauſe that which we ſee uſually makes a greater Impreſſion upon us, than that which we only hear of. (2.) By an Explication of the Sign, Thus ſayeth the Holy Ghoſt, the Spirit of Prophecy, ſo ſhall the Jews at Jeruſalem bind the Man that owneth this Girdle; and as they dealt with his Maſter, (Matth. xx. 18, 19.) ſhall deliver him into the Hands of the Gentiles, as the Jews in other Places had all along endeavour'd to do, by accuſing him to the Roman Governours. Paul had this expreſs Warning given him of his Troubles, that he might prepare for them, that when they came they might be no Surprize or Terror to him. And the general Notice given us, That through much Tribulation we muſt enter into the Kingdom of God, ſhould be of the ſame Uſe to us.

Thirdly, The great Importunity which his Friends us'd with him, to diſſuade him from going forward to Jeruſalem, v. 12. Not only they of that Place, but we that were of Paul's Company, and among the reſt Luke himſelf who had heard this often before, and ſeen Paul's Reſolution, notwithſtanding, beſought him with Tears, that he would not go up to Jeruſalem, but ſteer his Courſe ſome other Way.

Now (1.) Here appear'd a commendable Affection to Paul, and a Value for him upon the Account of his great Uſefulneſs in the Church. Good Men that are very active, ſometimes need to be diſſuaded from over-working themſelves: And good Men that are very bold, need to be diſſuaded from expoſing themſelves too far. The Lord is for the Body, and ſo muſt we be.

(2.) Yet there was a Mixture of Infirmity, eſpecially in thoſe of Paul's Company, who knew he undertook this Journey by Divine Direction, and had ſeen with what Reſolution he had before broken thro' the like Oppoſition. But we ſee in them the Infirmity incident to us all; when we ſee Troubles at a Diſtance, and have only a general Notice of it, we can make light of it, but when it comes near, we begin to ſhrink and draw back; Now it touches thee, thou art troubled, Job iv. 5.

Fourthly, The Holy Bravery and Intrepidity with which Paul perſiſted in his Reſolution, v. 13.

1. He reproves them for diſſuading him; Here's a Quarrel of Love on both Sides, and very ſincere and ſtrong Affections claſhing with each other. They love him dearly, and therefore oppoſe his Reſolution; He loves them dearly, and therefore chides them for oppoſing it; What mean ye to weep, and to break mine Heart? They were an Offence to him, as Peter was to Chriſt, when in a like Caſe, he ſaid, Maſter, ſpare thyſelf. Their Weeping about him brake his Heart, i. e. (1.) It was a Temptation to him, it ſhock'd him, it began to weaken and ſlacken his Reſolution, and made him to entertain Thoughts of tacking about; I know I am appointed to Suffering, and you ought to animate and encourage me, and to ſay that which will ſtrengthen my Heart, but you with your Tears break my Heart, and diſcourage me. What do you mean to do thus? Has not our Maſter bid us Take up our Croſs, and would you have me to balk mine? (2.) It was a Trouble to him that they ſhould ſo earneſtly preſs him to that in which he could not gratify them, without wronging his Conſcience. Paul was of a very tender Spirit, as he was much in Tears himſelf, ſo he had a compaſſionate Regard to the Tears of his Friends; they made a great Impreſſion upon him, and would bring him almoſt to yield to any Thing. But now it breaks his Heart, when he is under a Neceſſity of denying the Requeſt of his Weeping Friends. 'Twas an unkind Kindneſs, a cruel Pity, thus to torment him with their Diſſuaſions, and to add Affliction to his Grief. When our Friends are call'd out to Sufferings, we ſhould ſhew our Love rather by comforting 'em, than by ſorrowing for them. But Obſerve, Theſe Chriſtians at Cæſarea, if they could have foreſeen the Particulars of that Event, the general Notice of which they receiv'd with ſo much Heavineſs, they would have been better reconcil'd to it for their own Sakes; for when Paul was made a Priſoner at Jeruſalem, he was preſently ſent to Cæſarea, the very Place where he now was, Chap. xxiii, 33. and there he continu'd at leaſt two Years, Chap. xxiv. 27. Look what more, and he was a Priſoner at large, as appears, Chap. xxiv. 23. where Orders were given, that he ſhould have Liberty to go among his Friends, and his Friends to come to him; ſo that the Church at Cæſarea had much more of Paul's Company and Help when he was impriſon'd, than they could have had if he had been at Liberty. That which we oppoſe as thinking it to make much againſt us, may be over-rul'd by the Providence of God to work for us, which is a Reaſon why we ſhould follow Providence, and not fear it.

2. He repeats his Reſolution to go forward notwithſtanding. What mean you to weep thus; I am ready to ſuffer what is appointed me. I am fully determin'd to go whatever comes of it, and therefore 'tis to no purpoſe for you to oppoſe it. I am willing to ſuffer, and therefore why are you unwilling that I ſhould ſuffer? Am not I neareſt my ſelf, and fitteſt to judge for myſelf? If the Trouble found me unready, it would be a Trouble indeed, and you might well weep at the Thoughts of it: But bleſſed be God it doth not. It is very welcome to me, and therefore ſhould not be ſuch Terrour to you. For my part, I am ready, ἑτοίμως ἔχω, I have my ſelf in a readineſs, as Soldiers for an Engagement. (1.) I expect Trouble, I count upon it, 'twill be no Surprize to me. I was told at firſt what great Things I muſt ſuffer, Chap. ix. 16. (2.) I am prepar'd for it, by a clear Conſcience, a firm Confidence in God, a Holy Contempt of the World and the Body, a lively Faith in Chriſt, and a joyful Hope of Eternal Life. (3.) I can bid it welcome as we do a Friend that we look for, and have made Preparation for. I can thro' Grace, not only bear it, but rejoyce in it.

Now (1.) See how far his Reſolution extends; You are told that I muſt be bound at Jeruſalem, and you would have me keep away for fear of that. I tell you, I am ready not only to be bound, but if the Will of God be ſo, to die at Jeruſalem; not only to loſe my Liberty, but to loſe my Life. 'Tis our Wiſdom to think of the worſt that may befall us, and to prepare accordingly, that we may ſtand compleat in all the Will of GOD.

(2.) See what it is that carries him out thus, that makes him willing to ſuffer and die, it is for the Name of the Lord Jeſus. All that a Man has will he give for his Life; but Life itſelf will Paul give for the Service and Honour of the Name of Chriſt.

Fifthly, The patient Acquieſcence of his Friends in his Reſolution, v. 14.

1. They ſubmitted to the Wiſdom of a good Man; They had carry'd the Matter as far as they could with Decency; but when he would not be perſuaded, we ceas'd our Importunities. Paul knows beſt his own Mind, and what he has to do, and it becomes us to leave it to himſelf, and not to cenſure him for what he doth, or to ſay he is raſh, and wilfull, and humourſome, and has a Spirit of Contradiction, as ſome People are apt to judge of thoſe that will not do juſt as they would have them do. No doubt Paul has a good Reaſon for his Reſolution, tho' he ſees Cauſe to keep it to himſelf, and God has gracious Ends to ſerve in confirming him in it. It is good Manners not to over-preſs thoſe in their own Affairs that will not be perſuaded.

2. They ſubmitted to the Will of a Good God; we ceas'd ſaying, The Will of the LORD be done. They did not reſolve his Reſolution into his Wilſulneſs, but into his Willingneſs to ſuffer, and GOD's Will that he ſhould. Father, in Heaven, thy Will be done; as it is a Rule to our Prayers and to our Practice, ſo it is to our Patience. This may refer (1.) To Paul's preſent Stiffneſs: He is inflexible, and unperſuadable, and in this they ſee the Will of the LORD done. It is he that has wrought this fixed Reſolution in him, and therefore we acquieſce in it. Note, In the turning of the Hearts of our Friends or Miniſters, this Way or that Way, and it may be quite another Way than we could wiſh; we ſhould eye the Hand of God, and ſubmit to that. (2.) To his approaching Sufferings; If there be no Remedy, but Paul will run himſelf into Bonds, The Will of the Lord Jeſus be done. We have done all that we could do on our Parts to prevent it, and now we leave it to God, we leave it to Chriſt, to whom the Father has committed all Judgement, and therefore we do, not as we will, but as He will. Note, When we ſee Trouble coming, and particularly that of our Miniſters being ſilenc'd or remov'd from us, it becomes us to ſay, The Will of the LORD be done. God is Wiſe, and knows how to make all work for Good, and therefore welcome his Holy Will. Not only, The Will of the Lord muſt be done, and there's no Remedy; but let the Will of the LORD be done, for his Will is his Wiſdom, and He doth all according to the Counſel of it: Let Him therefore do with us and ours as ſeemeth good in his Eyes. When a Trouble is come, this muſt allay our Griefs, That the Will of the Lord is done; when we ſee it coming, this muſt ſilence our Fears, That the Will of the LORD ſhall be done, to which we muſt ſay, Amen, Let it be done.

15 And after thoſe days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jeruſalem. 16 There went with us alſo certain of the Diſciples of Ceſarea, and brought with them one Mnaſon of Cyprus, an old diſciple, with whom we ſhould lodge. 17 And when we were come to Jeruſalem, the Brethren received us gladly. 18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto James; and all the elders were preſent. 19 And when he had ſaluted them, he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles by his miniſtry. 20 And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt brother, how many thouſands of Jews there are which believe, and they are all zealous of the Law. 21 And they are informed of thee that thou teacheſt all the Jews which are among the Gentiles, to forſake Moſes, ſaying, that they ought not to circumciſe their Children, neither to walk after the Cuſtoms. 22 What is it therefore? the multitude muſt needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come. 23 Do therefore this that we ſay to thee: we have four men which have a Vow on them; 24 Them take and purifie thy ſelf with them, and be at charges with them, that they may ſhave their heads: and all may know that thoſe things whereof they were informed concerning thee, are nothing, but that thou thy ſelf alſo walkeſt orderly, and keepeſt the law. 25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, we have written and concluded, that they obſerve no ſuch thing, ſave only that they keep themſelves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from that which is ſtrangled, and from Fornication. 26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himſelf with them, entred into the Temple, to ſignifie the accompliſhment of the days of purification, until that an offering ſhould be offered for every one of them.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, Paul's Journey to Jeruſalem from Cæſarea, and the Company that went along with him.

1. They took up their Carriages, their Bag and Baggage, and as it ſhould ſeem like poor Travellers or Soldiers, were their own Porters; ſo little had they of change of Rayment. Omnia mea mecum porto. Some think they had with them the Money that was collected in the Churches of Macedonia and Achaia, for the poor Saints at Jeruſalem. If they could have perſuaded Paul to go ſome other Way, they would gladly have gone along with him, but, if notwithſtanding their Diſſuaſives he will go to Jeruſalem, they do not ſay, Let him go himſelf then, but as Thomas in a like Caſe, when Chriſt would go into Danger at Jeruſalem, Let us go and die with him, Joh. xi. 16. Their Reſolution to cleave to Paul, was like that of Ittai to cleave to David, 2 Sam. xv. 21. In what Place my Lord the King ſhall be, whether in Death or Life, there alſo will thy Servant be. Thus Paul's Boldneſs embolden'd them.

2. Certain of the Diſciples of Cæſarea went along with them. Whether they deſign'd to go however, and took this Opportunity of going with ſo much good Company, or whether they went on purpoſe to ſee if they could do Paul any Service, and if poſſible prevent his Trouble, or at leaſt miniſter to him in it, doth not appear. The leſs While Paul is likely to enjoy his Liberty, the more induſtrious they are to improve every Opportunity of Converſation with him. Eliſha kept cloſe to Elijah, when he knew the Time was at Hand that he ſhould be taken up.

3. They brought with them an honeſt old Gentleman, that had a Houſe of his own at Jeruſalem, in which he would gladly entertain Paul and his Company, one Mnaſon of Cyprus, v. 16. with whom we ſhould lodge: Such a great Concourſe of People there was to the Feaſt, that it was a hard matter to get Lodgings: The publick Houſes would be taken up by thoſe of the better Sort; and it was look'd upon as a ſcandalous Thing, for thoſe that had private Houſes, to hire their Rooms at thoſe Times, but they muſt freely accommodate Strangers with them. Every one then would chuſe his Friends to be his Gueſts, and Mnaſon took Paul and his Company to be his Lodgers; tho' he had heard what Trouble Paul was likely to come into, which might bring thoſe that entertain'd him into Trouble too, yet he ſhall be welcome to him whatever comes of it. This Mnaſon is call'd an old Diſciple; a Diſciple from the Beginning; ſome think, One of the Seventy Diſciples of Chriſt, or one of the firſt Converts after the Pouring out of the Spirit; or one of the firſt that was converted by the Preaching of the Goſpel in Cyprus, Chap. xiii. 4. However it was, it ſeems he had been long a Chriſtian, and was now in Years. Note, It is an honourable Thing to be an old Diſciple of Jeſus, to have been enabled by the Grace of God to continue long in a Courſe of Duty, ſtedfaſt in the Faith, and growing more and more prudent and experienc'd to a good Old-age: And with theſe old Diſciples One would chuſe to lodge; for the Multitude of their Years ſhall teach Wiſdom.

Secondly, Paul's welcome at Jeruſalem.

1. Many of the Brethren there receiv'd him gladly, v. 17, As ſoon as they had Notice that he was come to Town, they went to his Lodgings at Mnaſon's Houſe, and congratulated his ſafe Arrival, and told him, they were glad to ſee him, and invited him to their Houſes; and counted it an Honour to be known to One that was ſuch an eminent Servant of Chriſt. Streſo obſerves, that the Word here us'd concerning the Welcome, they gave to the Apoſtles, ἀσμένως ἀποδέχειν, is us'd concerning the Welcome of the Apoſtles Doctrine, Acts ii. 41. They gladly receiv'd his Word. We think if we had Paul among us, we would gladly receive him; but 'tis a Queſtion whether we would or no, if having his Doctrine, we do not gladly receive that.

2. They made a Viſit to James and the Elders of the Church, at a Church-meeting, v. 18. The Day following Paul went in unto James, and took us with him that were his Companions, to introduce us into Acquaintance with the Church at Jeruſalem. It ſhould ſeem that James was now the only Apoſtle that was reſident at Jeruſalem; the Reſt had diſpers'd thrmſelves to preach the Goſpel in other Places: But ſtill they fore-caſted to have an Apoſtle at Jeruſalem, perhaps ſometimes one, and ſometimes another, becauſe there was ſuch a great Reſort thither from all Parts. James was now upon the Spot, and all the Elders or Presbyters, that were the ordinary Paſtors of the Church both to preach and govern, were preſent. Paul ſaluted them all, pay'd his Reſpects to them, enquir'd of their Welfare, and gave them the Right Hand of Fellowſhip. He ſaluted them, i. e. he wiſh'd them all Health and Happineſs, and pray'd to God to bleſs them. The proper Signification of Salutation, is wiſhing Salvation to you; Salve, or Salus tibi ſit: Like, Peace be unto you. And ſuch mutual Salutations or good Wiſhes, very well become Chriſtians in Token of their Love to each other, and joynt Regard to God.

Thirdly, The Account they had from him of his Miniſtry among the Gentiles, and their Satisfaction in it.

1. He gave them a Narrative of the Succeſs of the Goſpel in thoſe Countries where he had been employ'd, knowing it would be very acceptable to them, to hear of the enlarging of Chriſt's Kingdom. He declar'd particularly what Things GOD had wrought among the Gentiles by his Miniſtry, v. 19. Obſerve how modeſtly he ſpeaks, not what Things he had wrought; he was but the Inſtrument; but what GOD had wrought by his Miniſtry. 'Twas not I, but the Grace of GOD that was with me. He planted and water'd, but God gave the Increaſe. He declar'd it particularly, that the Grace of God might appear the more illuſtrious in the Circumſtances of his Succeſs. Thus David will tell others what GOD had done for his Soul, Pſal. lxvi. 16. as Paul here what God had done by his Hand, and both that their Friends might help them to be thankful.

2. Hence they took Occaſion to give Praiſe to God, v. 20 When they heard it, they glorified the LORD. Paul aſcrib'd it all to God, and to God they gave the Praiſe of it. They did not break out into high Encomiums of Paul, but leave it to his Maſter to ſay to him, Well done, good and faithful Servant; but they gave Glory to the Grace of God which was extended to the Gentiles. Note, The Converſion of Sinners ought to be the Matter of our Joy and Praiſe, as it is of the Angels. God had honour'd Paul more than any of them in making his Uſefulneſs more extenſive, yet they do not envy him, nor are they jealous of his growing Reputation, but on the contrary glorify'd the LORD. And they could not do more to encourage Paul to go on chearfully in his Work, than to glorify God for his Succeſs in it; for If God be prais'd, Paul is pleas'd.

Fifthly, The Requeſt of James and the Elders of the Church at Jeruſalem to Paul, or their Advice rather, That he would gratify the Believing Jews, by ſhewing ſome Compliance with the Ceremonial Law, and appearing publickly in the Temple to offer Sacrifice; which was not a Thing in itſelf ſinful; for the Ceremonial Law, tho' it was by no Means to be impos'd upon the Gentile Converts, as the falſe Teachers would have it, and thereby endeavour'd to ſubvert the Goſpel, yet it was not become unlawful as yet, to thoſe that had been bred up in the Obſervation of it, but were far from expecting Juſtification by it. 'Twas dead, but not bury'd; dead, but not yet deadly. And being not ſinful they thought it was a Piece of Prudence in Paul to conform thus far.

Obſerve the Counſel they give to Paul herein, not as having Authority over him, but an Affection for him.

1. They deſire him to take Notice of the great Numbers there were of Jewiſh Converts; Thou ſeeſt, Brother, how many Thouſands of Jews there are which believe. They call him Brother, for they look'd upon him as a joynt Commiſſioner with them in Goſpel-work, tho' they were of the Circumciſion, and he the Apoſtle of the Gentiles; tho' they were Conformiſts, and he a Nonconformiſt; yet they were Brethren, and own'd the Relation. Thou haſt been in ſome of our Aſſemblies, and ſeeſt how numerous they are; how many Myriads of Jews believe. The Word ſignifies not Thouſands, but Ten Thouſands, Even among the Jews that were moſt prejudic'd againſt the Goſpel, yet there were great Multitudes that receiv'd it; for the Grace of God can bring down the ſtrongeſt Holds of Satan. The Number of the Names at firſt, was but One Hundred and Twenty, yet now Many Thouſands: Let none therefore deſpiſe the Day of ſmall Things, for tho' the Beginning be but ſmall, God can make the latter End greatly to increaſe. Hereby, it appear'd that God had not quite caſt away his People the Jews, for among them there was a Remnant, an Election that obtain'd, ſee Rom. xi. 1, 5, 7. many Thouſands that believed. And this Account they could give to Paul of the Succeſs of the Goſpel among the Jews, no doubt was as grateful to Paul, as the Account he gave them of the Converſion of the Gentiles was to them; for his Heart's Deſire and Prayer ſo God for the Jews, was, That they might be ſav'd.

2. They inform him of a prevailing Infirmity theſe Believing Jews labour'd under, which they could not yet be cur'd of. They are all zealous of the Law. They believe in Chriſt as the true Meſſiah, they reſt upon his Righteouſneſs, and ſubmit to his Government; but they know the Law of Moſes was of God; they have found ſpiritual Benefit in their Attendance on the Inſtitutions of it, and therefore they can by no Means think of parting with it, no nor of growing cold to it; and perhaps urg'd Chriſt's being made under the Law, and obſerving it, which was deſign'd to be our Deliverance from the Law, as a Reaſon for their Continuance under it. This was a great Weakneſs and Miſtake, to be ſo fond of the Shadows when the Subſtance was come; to keep their Necks under a Yoke of Bondage, when Chriſt was come to make them free. But ſee (1.) The Power of Education, and long Uſage, and eſpecially of a Ceremonial Law. (2.) The charitable Allowance that muſt be made in Conſideration of theſe. Theſe Jews that believ'd, were not therefore diſown'd and rejected as no Chriſtians, becauſe they were for the Law, nay were zealous for it, while is was only in their own Practice, and they did not impoſe it upon others. Their being zealous of the Law, was capable of a good Conſtruction, which Charity would put upon it; and it was capable of a good Excuſe, conſidering what they were brought up in, and who they liv'd among.

3. They give him to underſtand how theſe Jews who were ſo zealous of the Law, were ill-affected to him, v. 21. Paul himſelf, tho' as faithful a Servant as any Chriſt ever had, yet could not get the good Word of all that belong'd to Chriſt's Family. They are inform'd of thee (and form their Opinion of thee accordingly) that thou not only doſt not teach the Gentiles to obſerve the Law, as ſome would have had thee; we have prevail'd with them to drop that; but doſt teach all the Jews which are diſpers'd among the Gentiles to forſake Moſes, not to circumciſe their Children, nor to walk after the Cuſtoms of our Nation, which were of Divine Appointment, ſo far as they might be obſerv'd even among the Gentiles, at a Diſtance from the Temple; not to obſerve the Faſts and Feaſts of the Church, not to wear their Phylacteries, or abſtain from unclean Meats, Now (1.) It was true that Paul preach'd the Abrogation of the Law of Moſes, and that it was impoſſible to be juſtify'd by it, and therefore we are not bound up any longer to the Obſervation of it. But (2.) It was falſe, that he taught them to forſake Moſes; for the Religion he preach'd tended not to deſtroy the Law, but to fulfill it. He preach'd Chriſt, the End of the Law for Righteouſneſs, and Repentance and Faith, in the Exerciſe of which we are to make great Uſe of the Law. The Jews among the Gentiles, whom Paul taught, were ſo far from forſaking Moſes, that they never underſtood him better, nor ever embrac'd him ſo heartily as now, when they were taught to make uſe of him as a School-Maſter to bring them to Chriſt. But even the Believing Jews having got this Notion of Paul, that he was an Enemy to Moſes, and perhaps giving too much Regard to the Unbelieving Jews too, were much exaſperated againſt him. Their Miniſters, the Elders here preſent, lov'd and honour'd him, and approv'd of what he did, and call'd him Brother, but the People could hardly be got to entertain a favourable Thought of him; for 'tis certain, the leaſt judicious are the moſt cenſorious; The Weak-headed are the Hot-headed. They could not diſtinguiſh upon Paul's Doctrine as they ought to have done, and therefore condemn'd it in the groſs, through Ignorance.

4. They therefore deſire Paul, that he would by ſome publick Act, now he is come to Jeruſalem, make it appear that the Charge againſt him was falſe, and that he did not teach People to forſake Moſes, and to break the Cuſtoms of the Jewiſh Church, for he himſelf retain'd the Uſe of them.

1. They conclude that ſomething of this Kind muſt be done, What is it therefore? What muſt be done? The Multitude will hear that thou art come to Town; this is an Inconvenience that attends Men of Fame, that their Coming and Going is taken Notice of more than other Peoples; and will be talked of, by ſome for Good-will, and by others for Ill-will. When they hear thou art come, they muſt needs come together, i. e. They will expect that we call them together, to adviſe with them, whether we ſhould admit thee to preach among us as a Brother, or no; or, they will come together of themſelves expecting to hear thee. Now ſomething muſt be done to ſatisfy them, that Paul doth not teach People to forſake Moſes, and this they think is neceſſary. (1.) For Paul's Sake, that his Reputation may be clear'd, and that ſo good a Man may not lie under any Blemiſh; nor ſo uſeful a Man labour under any Diſadvantage which may obſtruct his Uſefulneſs. (2.) For the Peoples Sake, that they may not continue prejudiced againſt ſo good a Man, nor loſe the Benefit of his Miniſtry, by thoſe Prejudices. (3.) For their own Sake, that ſince they knew it was their Duty to own Paul, their doing it might not be turn'd to their Reproach among thoſe that were under their Charge.

(2.) They produce a fair Opportunity, which Paul might take to clear himſelf; Do this that we ſay unto thee; take our Advice in this Caſe. We have four Men, Jews which believe, of our own Churches, and they have a Vow on them, a Vow of Nazariteſhip, for a certain Time; their Time is now expir'd, v. 23. and they are to offer their Offering according to the Law, when they ſhave the Head of their Soparation, a He-lamb for a burnt Offering, an Ew-lamb for a Sin-offering, and a Ram for a Peace-offering, and other Offerings appurtenant to them, Num. vi. 13---20. many us'd to do this together, when their Vow expired about the ſame Time, either for the greater Expedition, or the greater Solemnity. Now Paul having ſo far of late comply'd with the Law, as to take upon him the Vow of a Nazarite, and to ſignify the Expiration of it by ſhaving his Head at Cenchrea, Chap xviii. 18. according to the Cuſtom of thoſe who liv'd at a Diſtance from the Temple; they deſire him but to go a little further, and to joyn with theſe four in offering the Sacrifices of a Nazarite; purify thy ſelf with them according to the Law; and be willing not only to take that Trouble, but to be at Charges with them, in buying Sacrifices for this ſolemn Occaſion, and to joyn with them in the Sacrifice. And this they think will effectually ſtop the Mouth of Calumny, and every one will be convinc'd that the Report is falſe; that Paul was not the Man he was repreſented to be; did not teach the Jews to forſake Moſes, but that he himſelf being originally a Jew, walk'd orderly, and kept the Law, and then all would be well.

5. They enter a Proteſtation, that this ſhall be no Infringement at all of the Decree lately made in Favour of the Gentile-Converts, nor do they intend by this, in the leaſt to derogate from the Liberty allow'd them, v. 25. As touching the Gentiles which believe, we have written and concluded, and reſolve to abide by it, that they obſerve no ſuch Thing; we would not have them to be bound up by the Ceremonial Law by no means, but only that they keep themſelves from Things offered to Idols, and from Blood, and from Things ſtrangled, and from Fornication; but let not them be ty'd to the Jwiſh Sacrifices or Purifications, or any of their Rites and Ceremonies. They knew how zealous Paul was for the preſerving of the Liberty of the converted Gentiles, and therefore expreſly covenant to abide by that. Thus far is their Propoſal.

Sixthly, Here is Paul's Compliance with it. He was willing to gratify them in this Matter. Tho' he would not be perſuaded not to go to Jeruſalem, yet when he was there, he was perſuaded to do as they there did, v. 26, Then Paul took the Men, as they adviſed and the very next Day purifying himſelf with them, and not, with Multitude or Tumult, as he himſelf pleads, Chap. xxiv. 18. He enter'd into the Temple as other devout Jews that came upon ſuch Errands did, to ſignify the Accompliſhment of the Days of Purification, to the Prieſts; deſiring the Prieſt would appoint a Time when the Offering ſhould be offered for every one of them, one for each. Ainſworth on Num. vi. 18. quotes out of Maimonides a Paſſage which gives ſome Light to this; If a Man ſay, upon me be half the Oblations of a Nazarite, or upon me be half the ſhaving of a Nazarite, that he brings half the Offerings by what Nazarite he will, and that Nazarite pays his Offering out of that which is his; ſo Paul did here; he contributed what he vow'd to the Offerings of theſe Nazarites; and ſome think bound himſelf to the Law of the Nazariteſhip, and to an Attendance at the Temple with Faſting and Prayers for Seven Days, not deſigning that the Offering ſhould be offer'd till then; which was that he ſignify'd to the Prieſt.

Now it has been queſtion'd, whether James and the Elders did well to give this Advice, and whether he did well to take it.

1. Some have blam'd this Occaſional Conformity of Paul's, as indulging the Jews too much in their Adherence to the Ceremonial Law, and a Diſcouragement to thoſe who ſtood faſt in the Liberty wherewith Chriſt had made them free. Was it not enough for James and the Elders of Jeruſalem to connive at this Miſtake in the Jewiſh Converts themſelves, but muſt they wheedle Paul to countenance them in it. Had it not been better, when they had told Paul how zealous the Believing Jews were for the Law, if they had deſir'd him whom God had endued with ſuch excellent Gifts, to take Pains with their People, to convince them of their Error, and to ſhew them that they were made free from the Law by their Marriage to Chriſt, Rom. vi. 4. And to urge him to encourage them in it by his Example, ſeems to have more in it of fleſhly Wiſdom than of the Grace of God. Sure Paul knew what he had to do better than they could tell him. But,

2. Others think the Advice was prudent and good, and Paul's following was juſtifiable enough as the Caſe ſtood. It was Paul's avowed Principle, to the Jews, became I as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews, 1 Cor. ix. 20. He had circumciſed Timothy, to pleaſe the Jews; Tho' he would not conſtantly obſerve the Ceremonial Law, yet to gain an Opportunity of doing good, and to ſhew how far he could comply, he would occaſionally go to the Temple. and joyn in the Sacrifices there. Thoſe that are weak in the Faith are to be born with, when thoſe that undermine the Faith muſt be oppos'd. 'Tis true this Compliance of Paul's ſped il' to him, for this very Thing by which he hoped to pacify the Jews did but provoke them, and bring him into Trouble, yet that is not a ſufficient Ground to go upon in condemning it; Paul might do well, and yet ſuffer for it; But perhaps the wiſe God over-rul'd both their Advice, and Paul's Compliance with it, to ſerve a better Purpoſe than was intended; for we have Reaſon to think, that when the Believing Jews who had endeavour'd by their Zeal for the Law, to recommend themſelves to the good Opinion of thoſe who believ'd not, ſaw how barbarouſly they us'd Paul, who endeavour'd to oblige them; they were by this more alienated from the Ceremonial Law, than they could have been by the moſt argumentative, or affecting Diſcourſes. They ſaw 'twas in vain to think of pleaſing Men, that would be pleas'd with nothing elſe but the rooting out of Chriſtianity. Integrity and Uprightneſs will be more likely to preſerve us than ſneaking Compliances. And when we conſider what a great Trouble it muſt needs be to James and the Preſbyters in the Reflection upon it, that they had by their Advice brought Paul into Trouble; it ſhould be a Warning to us not to preſs Men to oblige us, by doing any Thing contrary to their own Mind.

27 And when the ſeven Days were almoſt ended, the Jews which were of Aſia, when they ſaw him in the temple, ſtirred up all the people, and laid hands on him, 28 Crying out, Men of Iſrael, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where againſt the people, and the law, and this place: and farther brought Greeks alſo into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place. 29 (For they had ſeen before with him in the City, Trophimus an Epheſian, whom they ſuppoſed that Paul had brought into the Temple.) 20 And all the city was moved, and the people ran together: and they took Paul, and drew him out of the Temple: and forthwith the doors were ſhut. 31 And as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief Captain of the band, that all Jeruſalem was in an uproar, 32 Who immediately took ſouldiers, and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they ſaw the chief captain and the ſouldiers, they left beating of Paul. 33 Then the chief captain came near and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done. 34 And ſome cried one thing, ſome another, among the multitude: and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the caſtle. 35 And when he came upon the ſtairs, ſo it was that he was born of the ſoldiers for the violence of the people. 36 For the multitude of the people followed after crying, Away with him. 37 And as Paul was to be led into the caſtle, he ſaid unto the chief captain, may I ſpeak unto thee; Who ſaid, Canſt thou ſpeak Greek? 38 Art not thou that Egyptian which before theſe days madeſt an uproar, and leddeſt out into the wilderneſs four thouſand men that were murderers? 39 But Paul ſaid, I am a man which am a Jew of Tarſus, a city of Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city: and I beſeech thee ſuffer me to ſpeak unto the people. 40 And when he had given him licence, Paul ſtood on the ſtairs, and beckened with the hand unto the people: and when there mas made a great ſilence, he ſpake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, ſaying,

We have here Paul brought into a Captivity, which we are not likely to ſee the End of; for after this, he is either hurry'd from one Bar to another, or lies neglected firſt in one Priſon, and then in another, and can neither be try'd nor bail'd; when we ſee the Beginning of a Trouble, we know not either how long it will laſt, or how it will iſſue.

Firſt, We have here Paul ſeiz'd, and laid hold on.

1. He was ſeiz'd in the Temple, when he was there attending the Days of his Purifying, and the ſolemn Services of thoſe Days, v. 27. Formerly he had been well known in the Temple; but now he had been ſo long in his Travels abroad, that he was become a Stranger there; ſo that it was not till the Seven Days were almoſt ended, that he was taken Notice of by thoſe that had an evil Eye towards him. In the Temple, where he ſhould have been protected as in a Sanctuary, he was moſt violently ſet upon by thoſe who did what they could to have mingled his Blood with his Sacrifices. In the Temple, where he ſhould have been welcom'd as one of the greateſt Ornaments of it, that ever had been there ſince the Lord of the Temple left it. The Temple which they themſelves pretended ſuch a mighty Zeal for, yet did they themſelves thus profane. Thus is the Church polluted by none more than by Popiſh Perſecutors, under the Colour of the Churches Name and Intereſt.

2. The Informers againſt him were the Jews of Aſia, not thoſe of Jeruſalem; the Jews of the Diſperſion, who knew him beſt, and who were moſt exaſperated againſt him. Thoſe who ſeldom came up to worſhip at the Temple in Jeruſalem themſelves, but contentedly liv'd at a diſtance from it, in purſuit of their private Advantages, yet appear'd moſt zealous for the Temple, as if thereby they would atone for their habitual Neglect of it.

3. The Method they took was to raiſe the Mob, and to incenſe them againſt him. They did not go to the High Prieſt, or the Magiſtrates of the City with their Charge, probably becauſe they expected not to receive Countenance from them, but they ſtirred up all the People, who were at this Time more than ever diſpos'd to any Thing that was tumultuous and ſeditious, riotous and routous. Thoſe are fitteſt to be employ'd againſt Chriſt and Chriſtianity that are govern'd leaſt by Reaſon, and moſt by Paſſion; therefore Paul deſcribed the Jewiſh Perſecutors to be not only wicked, but abſurd, unreaſonable Men.

4. The Arguments wherewith they exaſperated the People againſt him were popular, but very falſe and unjuſt. They cryed out, Men of Iſrael, Help; If ye are indeed Men of Iſrael, True born Jews, that have a Concern for your Church, and your Country, now is your Time to ſhew it, by helping to ſeize an Enemy to both. Thus they cry'd after him as after a Thief, Job xxx. 5. or after a mad Dog. Note, The Enemies of Chriſtianity ſince they could never prove it to be an ill Thing, have been always very induſtrious, right or wrong, to put it into an ill Name, and ſo run it down by out-rage, and out-cry, It had become Men of Iſrael to help Paul, who preach'd up him, who was ſo much the Glory of his People Iſrael; yet here the popular Fury will not allow them to be Men of Iſrael, unleſs they will help againſt him. This was like ſtop Thief, or Athaliah's Cry, Treaſon, Treaſon; what is wanting in Right, is made up in Noiſe.

They charge upon him both ill Doctrine, and ill Practice, and both againſt the Moſaick Ritual.

1. They charge upon him ill Doctrine; not only that he holds corrupt Opinions himſelf, but that he vents and publiſhes them, tho' not here at Jeruſalem, yet in other Places; nay, in all Places, he teacheth all Men, every where; ſo artfully is the Crime aggravated, as if becauſe he was an Itinerant, he was an ubiquitair; He ſpreads, to the utmoſt of his Power, certain damnable and heretical Poſitions, (1.) Againſt the People of the Jews; He had taught, that Jews and Gentiles ſtand on the ſame Level before God, and neither Circumciſion avails any Thing, nor Uncircumciſion; nay, he had taught againſt the Unbelieving Jews, that they were rejected, and therefore he had ſeparated from them and their Synagogues, and this is interpreted to be ſpeaking againſt the whole Nation, as if no doubt but they were the People, and Wiſdom muſt die along with them, Job xii. 1. Whereas God tho' he had caſt them off, yet had not caſt away his People, Rom. xi. 1. They were Lo-ammi, Not a People, Hoſ. i. 9. and yet pretended to be the only People, Thoſe commonly ſeem moſt zealous for the Churches Name, that belong to it in Name only. (2.) Againſt the Law. His teaching Men to believe the Goſpel as the End of the Law, and the Perfection of it, was interpreted his Preaching againſt the Law; whereas, it was ſo far from making void the Law, that it eſtabliſh'd it, Rom. iii. 31. (3.) Againſt this Place, the Temple; becauſe he taught Men to pray every where, he was reproach'd as an Enemy to the Temple, and perhaps, becauſe he ſometimes mention'd the Deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and the Temple, and of the Jewiſh Nation which his Maſter had foretold. Paul had himſelf been active in perſecuting Stephen, and putting him to Death for Words ſpoken againſt this Holy Place, and now the ſame Thing is laid to his Charge. He that was then made Uſe of as the Tool, is now ſet up as the Butt of Jewiſh Rage and Malice.

2. They charge upon him ill Practices. To confirm their Charge againſt him, as teaching People againſt this Holy Place; they charge it upon him, that he had himſelf polluted it, and by an Overt-act ſhew'd his Contempt of it, and a Deſign to make it common. He has brought Gentiles alſo into the Temple, into the inner Court of the Temple, which none that were uncircumciſed were admitted, under any Pretence, to come into: There was written upon the Wall that inclos'd this inner Court, in Greek and Latin, It is a Capital Crime for Strangers to enter. Joſeph. Antiq. lib. 15. c. 14. Paul was himſelf a Jew, and had right to enter into the Court of the Jews: And they ſeeing ſome with him there, that joyn'd with him in his Devotions, concluded that Trophimus an Epheſian, who was a Gentile, was one of them; Why? Did they ſee him there? Truly no; but they had ſeen him with Paul in the Streets of the City, which was no Crime at all; and therefore they affirm, that he was with Paul in the inner Court of the Temple, which was a heinons Crime. They had ſeen him with him in the City, and therefore they ſuppos'd that Paul had brought him with him into the Temple, which was utterly falſe. See here (1.) That Innocency is no Fence againſt Calumny and falſe Accuſation: It is no new Thing for thoſe that mean honeſtly, and act regularly, to have Things laid to their Charge, which they know not, nor ever thought of. (2.) That evil Men dig up Miſchief, and go far to ſeek Proofs of their falſe Accuſations, as they did here; who, becauſe they ſaw a Gentile with Paul in the City, will from thence infer, that he was with him in the Temple? This was a ſtrain'd Innuendo indeed; yet, by ſuch unjuſt and groundleſs Suggeſtions have wicked Men thought to juſtify themſelves in the moſt barbarous Outrages committed upon the excellent Ones of the Earth. (3.) 'Tis common for malicious People to improve that againſt thoſe that are wiſe and good, with which they ought to have oblig'd them, and ingratiated themſelves with them. Paul thought to recommend himſelf to their good Opinion, by going into the Temple, and from thence they take an Occaſion to accuſe him. If he had kept further off of them, he had not been ſo malign'd by them. This is the Genius of Ill-nature; For my Love, they are my Adverſaries, Pſal. cix. 4. lxix. 10.

Secondly, We have here Paul in Danger of being pull'd in Pieces by the Rabble: They will not be at the Pains to have him before the High-Prieſt or the Sanhedrin, that's a round-about Way; the Execution ſhall be of a Piece with the Proſecution, all unjuſt and irregular: They cannot prove the Crime upon him, and therefore dare not bring him npon a fair Tryal; nay, ſo greedily do they thirſt after his Blood, that they have not Patience to proceed againſt him by a due Courſe of Law, tho' they were never ſo ſure to gain their Point; and therefore, as thoſe who neither fear'd God, nor regarded Man, they reſolv'd to knock him on the Head preſently.

1. All the City was in an Uproar, v. 30. The People, who tho' they had little Holineſs themſelves, yet had a mighty Veneration for the Holy Place, when they heard a Hue and Cry from the Temple, were up in Arms preſently, being reſolv'd to ſtand by that with theit Lives and Fortunes. All the City was mov'd when they were call'd to from the Temple, Men of Iſrael, help, with as much Violence as if the old Complaint were to be revived, Pſal. lxxix. 2. O GOD the Heathen are come into thine Inheritance, thy Holy Temple have they defiled. Juſt ſuch a Zesl the Jews here ſhew for GOD's Temple, as the Epheſians did for Diana's Temple, when Paul was inform'd againſt as an Enemy to that, Acts xix. 29. The whole City was full of Confuſion. But God doth not reckon Himſelf at all honour'd by thoſe whoſe Zeal for Him tranſports them to ſuch Irregularities, and who. while they pretend to act for him, act in ſuch a brutiſh barbarous manner.

2. They drew Paul out of the Temple, and ſhut the Doors, between the outer and inner Court of the Temple, or perhaps the Doors of the outer Court. In dragging him furiouſly out of the Temple, (1.) They ſhew'd a real Deteſtation of him as One not fit to be ſuffer'd in the Temple; nor to worſhip there, nor to be look'd upon as a Member of the Jewiſh Nation; as if his Sacrifice had been an Abomination. (2.) They pretended a Veneration for the Temple; like that of the good Jehojadah, who would not have Athalia to be ſlain in the Houſe of the LORD, 1 Kings xi. 15. See how abſurd theſe wicked Men were; they condemn'd Paul for drawing People from the Temple, and yet when he himſelf was very devoutly worſhipping in the Temple, they drew him out of it. The Officers of the Temple ſhut the Doors, either (1.) Leſt Paul ſhould find Means to get back, and take hold of the Horns of the Altar, and ſo protect himſelf by that Sanctuary from their Rage. Or rather, (2.) Leſt the Croud ſhould by running in of more to them be thruſt back into the Temple, and ſome Outrage ſhould be committed to the Profanation of that Holy Place. They that made no Conſcience of doing ſo ill a Thing as the Murthering of a good Man, for well-doing, yet would be thought to make Conſcience of doing it in a Holy Place, or at a Holy Time; Not in the Temple, as, Not on the Feaſt-Day.

3. They went about to kill him, v. 31. for they fell a beating him, v. 32. reſolving to beat him to Death, by Blows without Number: A Puniſhment which the Jewiſh Doctors allow'd of in ſome Caſes, (not at all to the Credit of their Nation) and call'd, The Beating of the Rebels. Now was Paul like a Lamb thrown into a Den of Lions, and made an eaſy Prey to them, and no doubt he was ſtill of the ſame Mind, as when he ſaid, I am ready not only to be bound, but alſo to die at Jeruſalem, to die ſo great a Death.

Thirdly, We have here Paul reſcu'd out of the Hands of his Jewiſh Enemies, by a Roman Enemy.

1. Tydings we brought of the Tumult, and that the Mob was up, and to the chief Captain of the Band, the Governour of the Caſtle, or whoever he was the now Commander in chief of the Roman Forces that were quarter'd in Jeruſalem. Some Body that was concern'd not for Paul, but for the publick Peace and Safety, gave this Information to the Colonel, who had always a jealous and watchful Eye upon thoſe tumultuous Jews; and he is the Man that muſt be inſtrumental to ſave Paul's Life, when never a Friend he had was capable of doing him any Service.

2. The Tribune or chief Captain got his Forces together with all poſſible Expedition, and went to ſuppreſs the Mob; He took Soldiers and Centurions, and ran down to them. Now at the Feaſt, as at other ſuch ſolemn Times, the Guards were up and the Militia more within Call than at other Times, and ſo he had 'em near at hand, and he ran down unto the Multitude; for at ſuch Times Dalays are dangerous. Sedition muſt be cruſh'd at firſt leſt it grow head-ſtrong.

3. The very Sight of the Roman General frighten'd them from beating Paul; for they knew they were doing what they could not juſtify, and were in Danger to be call'd in queſtion for this Day's Uproar, as the Town-Clerk told the Epheſians. They were deter'd from that by the Power of the Romans, from which they ought to have been reſtrain'd by the Juſtice of God, and the Dread of his Wrath. Note, God often makes the Earth to help the Woman, Rev. xii. 16. and thoſe to be a Protection to his People, who yet have no Affection for his People; only have a Compaſſion for Sufferers, and are zealous for the publick Peace. The Shepherd makes uſe even of his Dogs for the Defence of his Sheep. 'Tis Streſo's Compariſon here. See here how theſe wicked People were frighten'd away at the very Sight of the chief Captain; For the King that ſitteth on the Throne of Judgement, ſcattereth away all Evil with his Eyes.

4. The Governour takes him into Cuſtody: He reſcu'd him not out of a Concern for him becauſe he thought him innocent, but out of a Concern for Juſtice, becauſe he ought not to be put to Death without Trial; and becauſe he knew not how dangerous the Conſequences might be to the Roman Government if ſuch tumultuous Proceedings were not timely ſuppreſs'd; nor what ſuch an outragious People might do, if once they knew their own Strength. He therefore takes Paul out of the Hands of the Mob, into the Hands of the Law, v. 33. He took him and commanded him to be bound with two Chains; that the People might be ſatisfied he did not intend to diſcharge him, but to examine him; for he demanded of thoſe that were ſo eager againſt him, Who he was, aud what he had done? This violent taking of him out of the Hands of the Multitude, tho' there was all the Reaſon in the World for it, yet they laid to the Charge of the chief Captain as his Crime, chap. xxiv. 7. The chief Captain Lyſias came with Violence and took him out of their Hands, which refers to this Reſcue, as appears by comparing, chap. xxiii. 27, 28. where the chief Captain gives an Account to Felix.

Fourthly, The Proviſion which the chief Captain made with much ado, to bring Paul to ſpeak for himſelf. One had almoſt as good enter into a ſtruggle with the Wind and the Waves, as with ſuch a Mob as was here got together; and yet Paul made a ſhift to get Liberty of Speech among them.

1. There was no knowing the Senſe of the People; for when the chief Captain enquir'd concerning Paul, having perhaps never heard of his Name before (ſuch Strangers were the great Ones, to the excellent Ones of the Earth, and affected to be ſo) ſome cry'd one Thing, and ſome another, among the Multitude; ſo that it was impoſſible for the chief Captain to know their Mind, when really they knew not either one another's Mind, or their own, when every One pretended to give the Senſe of the whole Body. Thoſe that will hearken to the Clamours of the Multitude, will know Nothing for a Certainty, no more than from the Builders of Babal when their Tongues were confounded.

2. There was no quelling the Rage and Fury of the People. For when the chief Captain commanded that Paul ſhould be carry'd into the Caſtle, the Tower of Antenia, where the Roman Soldiers kept Garriſon near the Temple, the Soldiers themſelves had much ado to get him ſafe thither, out of the Noiſe, the People were ſo violent, v. 35. When he came upon the Stairs, leading up to the Caſtle, the Soldiers were forc'd to take him up in their Arms and carry him, (which they might eaſily do, for he was a little Man, and his bodily Preſence weak) to keep him from the People, who would have pull'd him Limb from Limb, if they could. When they could not reach him with their cruel Hands, they follow'd him with their ſharp Arrows, even bitter Words; they follow'd crying, away with him, v. 36. See how the moſt excellent Perſons and Things are often run-down by a popular Clamour; Chriſt himſelf was ſo, with Crucify him, crucify him, tho' they could not ſay, what Evil he had done. Take him out of the Land of the Living; ſo the Ancients Expound it. Chaſe him out of the World.

3. Paul at length begg'd Leave of the chief Captain to ſpeak to him, v. 37. As he was to be led into the Caſtle, with a great deal of Calmneſs and Compoſedneſs in himſelf, and a great deal of Mildneſs and Deference to thoſe about him, he ſaid unto the chief Captain, May I ſpeak unto thee? Will it be no Offence, or conſtru'd as a Breach of Rule, if I give thee ſome Account of my ſelf, ſince my Perſecutors can give no Account of me? What an humble modeſt Queſtion was this! Paul knew how to ſpeak to the greateſt of Men, and had many a Time ſpoken to his Betters, yet he humbly begs Leave to ſpeak to this Commander, and will not ſpeak till he has obtain'd Leave. May I ſpeak unto thee?

4. The chief Captain tells him, what Notion he had of him; Canſt thou ſpeak Greek? I am ſurpriz'd to hear thee ſpeak a learned Language; for, Art not thou that Egyptian which made an Uproar? The Jews made the Uproar, and then would have it thought that Paul had given them Oecaſion for it, by beginning firſt; for probably ſome of them whiſper'd this in the Ear of the chief Captain. See what falſe miſtaken Notions of good People, and good Miniſters, many run away with, and will not be at the Pains to have the Miſtake rectify'd.

It ſeems there had lately been an Inſurrection, ſome-where in that Country, headed by an Egyptian, who took on him to be a Prophet. Joſephus mentions this Story, That an Egyptian rais'd a Seditious-Party, promis'd to ſhew them the Fall of the Walls of Jeruſalem from the Mount of Olives, and that they ſhould enter the City upon the Ruins: The Captain here ſaith, That he led out into the Wilderneſs four thouſand Men that were Murtherers, Deſperadoes, Banditti, Rapparees, Cut-throats. What a Degeneracy was there in the Jewiſh Nation, when there was found there ſo many that had ſuch a Character, and could be drawn into ſuch an Attempt upon the Publick Peace. But Joſephus ſaith, That Felix the Roman Preſident went out againſt them, kill'd four hundred, and took two hundred Priſoners, and the reſt were diſpers'd, Antiq. xx. 6. De Bello Jud. ii. 12. And Euſebius ſpeaks of it, Hiſt. ii. 20. It happen'd in the 13th Year of Claudius, a little before thoſe Days, about three Years ago. The Ringleader of this Rebellion it ſeems had made his Eſcape, and the chief Captain concluded that one that lay under ſo great an Odium as Paul ſeem'd to lie under, and againſt whom there was ſo great an Out-cry, could not be a Criminal of leſs Figure than this Egyptian. See how good Men are expos'd to Ill-will by Miſtake.

5. Paul rectifies his Miſtake concerning him, by informing him particularly what he was; not ſuch a Vagabond, a Scoundrel, a Rake, as that Egyptian, who could give no good Account of himſelf. No, I am a Man which am a Jew originally, and no Egyptian, a Jew both by Nation and Religion, I am of Tarſus, a City in Cilicia, of honeſt Parents, and a liberal Education, (Tarſus was an Univerſity) and beſides that, a Citizen of no mean City, whether he means Tarſus or Rome is not certain, they were neither of them mean Cities, and he was a Freeman of both; Tho' the chief Captain had put him under ſuch an invidious Suſpicion, that he was that Egyptian, he kept his Temper, did not break out into any paſſionate Exclamations againſt the Times he liv'd in, or the Men he had to do with, did not render Railing for Railing, but mildly deny'd the Charge, and own'd what he was.

6. He humbly deſir'd a Permiſſion from the chief Captain, whoſe Priſoner he now was, to ſpeak to the People: He doth not demand it as a Debt, tho' he might have done it, but ſues for it as a Favour, which he will be thankful for; I beſeech thee ſuffer me to ſpeak to the People. The chief Captain reſcu'd him with no other Deſign but to give him a fair Hearing. Now to ſhew that his Cauſe needs no Art to give it a plauſible Colour, he deſires he may have Leave immediately to defend himſelf; for it needeth no more than to be ſet in a true Light. Nor did he depend only upon the Goodneſs of his Cauſe, but upon the Goodneſs and Fidelity of his Patron, and that Promiſe of his to all his Advocates, That it ſhould be given them in the ſame Hour what they ſhould ſpeak.

Laſtly, He obtain'd Leave to plead his own Cauſe, for he needed not to have Council aſſign'd him, when the Spirit of the Father was ready to dictate to him, Matth. x. 20. The chief Captain gave him Licenſe, v. 40. ſo that now he could ſpeak with a good Grace, and with the more Courage: He had, I will not ſay, that Favour, but that Juſtice done him by the chief Captain, which he could not obtain from his Country-men the Jews; for they would not hear him, but the Captain would; though it were but to ſatisfy his Curioſity.

This Licenſe being obtain'd,

1. The People were attentive to hear. Paul ſtood on the Stairs, which gave a little Man, like Zaccheus, ſome Advantage, and conſequently ſome Boldneſs in delivering himſelf. A ſorry Pulpit it was, and yet better than none; it ſerv'd the Purpoſe, tho' it was not like Ezra's Pulpit of Wood, made for the Purpoſe. There he becken'd with the Hand unto the People, made Signs to them to be quiet, and to have a little Patience, for he had ſomething to ſay to them. And ſo far he gain'd his Point, that every One cry'd Huſh to his Neighbour, and there was made a profound Silence. Probably, the chief Captain alſo intimated his Charge to all Manner of People to keep Silence. If the People were not requir'd to give Audience, it was to no Purpoſe at all that Paul was allow'd to ſpeak. When the Cauſe of Chriſt and his Goſpel is to be pleaded, there ought to be a great Silence, that we may give the more earneſt Heed. And all little enough.

2. Paul addreſs'd himſelf to ſpeak, well aſſur'd that he was ſerving the Intereſt of Chriſt's Kingdom as truly and effectually as if he had been preaching in the Synagogue. He ſpake unto them in the Hebrew Tongue, i. e. in their own vulgar Tongue, which was the Language of their Country, to which he hereby own'd not only an abiding Relation, but an abiding Reſpect.

CPAP. XXII.

In the Cloſe of the foregoing Chapter we had Paul bound, according to Agabus*'s Prophecy of the hard Uſage he ſhould receive from the* Jews at Jeruſalem, yet he had his Tongue ſet at Liberty, by the Permiſſion the chief Captain gave him to Speak for himſelf: And ſo intent he is upon uſing that Liberty of Speech which was allow'd him, to the Honour of Chriſt, and the Service of his Intereſt, that he forgets the Bonds he is in, makes no mention of them, but ſpeaks of the great Things Chriſt had done for him with as much Eaſe and Chearfulneſs, as if Nothing had been done to ruffle him, or put him into Diſorder. We have here (1.) His Addreſs to the People, and their Attention to it, v. 1, 2. (2.) The Account he gives of himſelf. (1.) What a bigotted Jew he had been in the Beginning of his Time, v. 3—5. (2.) How he was miraculouſly converted and brought over to the Faith of Chriſt, v. 6—11. (3.) How he was confirm'd and baptiz'd by the Miniſtry of Ananias, v. 12—16. (4.) How he was afterwards call'd by an immediate Warrant from Heaven, to be the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, v. 17—21. (3.) The Interruption given him upon this, by the Rabble, who could not bear to hear any Thing ſaid in favour of the Gentiles, and the violent Paſſion they flew into upon it, v. 22, 23. (4.) Paul*'s ſecond Reſcue out of the Hands of the Rabble, and the further Courſe which the chief Captain took to find out the true Reaſon of this mighty Clamour againſt* Paul, v. 24, 25. (5.) (6.) The chief Captain's removing the Cauſe into the High Prieſts Court, and Paul*'s Appearing there, v.* 30.

MEN, brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence which I make now unto you. 2 (And when they heard that he ſpake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more ſilence: and he ſaith.)

Paul had in the laſt Verſe of the foregoing Chapter gain'd a great Point by commanding ſo profound a Silence, after ſo loud a Clamour. Now here obſerve, Firſt, With what an admirable Compoſure, and Preſence of Mind he addreſſeth himſelf to ſpeak; Never was poor Man ſet upon in a more tumultuous Manner, nor with more Rage and Fury; and yet in what he ſaid,

1. There appears no Fright, but his Mind is ſedate and compos'd: Thus he makes his own Words good, None of theſe Things move me; and David's, Pſal. iii. 6. I will not be afraid of ten Thouſands of People that have ſet themſelves againſt me round about.

2. There appears no Paſſion. Though the Suggeſtions againſt him were all frivolous and unjuſt, tho' it would have vex'd any Man alive to be charg'd with profaning the Temple, juſt then when he was contriving and deſigning to ſhew his Reſpects to it; yet he breaks out into no angry Expreſſions, but is led as a Lamb to the Slaughter.

Secondly, What reſpectful Titles he gives even to thoſe who thus abus'd him, and how humbly he craves their Attention; Men, Brethren and Fathers, v. 1. To you, O Men, I call; Men, that ſhould hear Reaſon, and be rul'd by it; Men, from whom One may expect Humanity. You Brethren of the Common People, you Fathers of the Prieſts: Thus he lets them know that he was one of them, and had not renounc'd his Relation to the Jewiſh Nation, but ſtill had a Kindneſs and Concern for it. Note, Tho' we muſt not give flattering Titles to any, yet we ought to give Titles of due Reſpect to all; and thoſe we would do Good to, we ſhould endeavour not to provoke. Tho' he was got out of their Hands, and was taken under the Protection of the chief Captain, yet he doth not fall foul upon them, with Hear now, ye Rebels; but complements them, Men, Brethren and Fathers.

And obſerve, He doth not exhibit a Charge againſt them, doth not recriminate, Hear now what I have to ſay againſt you, but hear now what I have to ſay for myſelf; Hear ye my Defence; a juſt and reaſonable Requeſt; for every Man that is accus'd, has a Right to anſwer for himſelf, and has not Juſtice done him, if his Anſwer be not patiently and impartially heard.

Thirdly, The Language he ſpoke in, which recommended what he ſaid to the Auditory: He ſpoke in the Hebrew Tongue, i. e. the vulgar Language of the Jews; which at this Time was not the pure Old Teſtament Hebrew, but the Syriack, a Dialect of the Hebrew, or rather a Corruption of it, as the Italian of the Latin. However,

1. It ſhew'd his continu'd Reſpect to his Country-men, the Jews: Tho' he had convers'd ſo much with the Gentiles, yet he ſtill retain'd the Jews Language, and could talk it with Eaſe. By this it appears he is a Jew, for his Speech betrayeth him.

2. What he ſaid was the more generally underſtood; for that was the Language every Body ſpoke, and therefore to ſpeak in that Language, was indeed to appeal to the People, by which he might have ſomewhat to inſinuate into their Affections: And therefore when they heard that he ſpoke in the Hebrew Tongue, they kept the more ſilence. How can it be thought People ſhould give any Attention to that which is ſpoken to them in a Language they do not underſtand? The chief Captain was ſurpriz'd to hear him ſpeak Greek, chap. xxi. 37. The Jews were ſurpriz'd to hear him ſpeak Hebrew, and both therefore think the better of him. But how would they have been ſurpriz'd, if they had enquir'd as they ought to have done, and had found in what Variety of Tongues the Spirit gave him utterance, 1 Cor. xiv. 18. I ſpeak with Tongues more than you all. But the Truth is, many wiſe and good Men are therefore ſlighted, only becauſe they are not known.

3 I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarſus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city, at the feet of Gamaliel, and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous towards God, as ye are all this day. 4 And I perſecuted this way unto death, binding and delivering into priſons both men and women. 5 As alſo the high prieſt doth bear me witneſs, and all the eſtate of the elders: from whom alſo I received letters unto the brethren, and went unto Damaſcus, to bring them which were there, bound unto Jeruſalem, for to be puniſhed. 6 And it came to paſs, that as I made my journey, and was come nigh unto Damaſcus, about noon, ſuddenly, there ſhone from heaven a great light round about me. 7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice ſaying unto me, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? 8 And I anſwered, Who art thou, Lord? And he ſaid unto me, I am Jeſus of Nazareth whom thou perſecuteſt. 9 And they that were with me, ſaw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that ſpake to me. 10 And I ſaid, What ſhall I do, Lord? And the Lord ſaid unto me, Ariſe, and go into Damaſcus, and there it ſhall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do. 11 And when I could not ſee for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damaſcus. 12 And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having a good report of all the Jews which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and ſtood, and ſaid unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy ſight. And the ſame hour I looked up upon him. 14 And he ſaid, The God of our fathers hath choſen thee, that thou ſhouldeſt know his will, and ſee that Juſt one, and ſhouldeſt hear the voice of his mouth. 15 For thou ſhalt be his witneſs unto all men, of what thou haſt ſeen and heard. 16 And now why tarrieſt thou? ariſe, and be baptized, and waſh away thy ſins, calling on the name of the Lord? 17 And it came to paſs, that when I was come again to Jeruſalem, even while I prayed in the temple, I was in a trance; 18 And ſaw him ſaying unto me, Make haſte, and get thee quickly out of Jeruſalem: for they will not receive thy teſtimony concerning me. 19 And I ſaid, Lord, they know that I impriſoned, and beat in every ſynagogue them that believed on thee. 20 And when the blood of thy martyr Stephen was ſhed, I alſo was ſtanding by, and conſenting unto his death, and kept the raiment of them that ſlew him. 21 And he ſaid unto me, Depart: for I will ſend thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

Paul here gives ſuch an Account of himſelf, as might ſerve not only to ſatisfy the chief Captain that he was not that Egyptian he took him to be; but the Jews alſo that he was not that Enemy to their Church and Nation, to their Law and Temple, as they took him to be. And that what he did in preaching Chriſt, and particularly, in preaching him to the Gentiles, he did by a Divine Commiſſion. He here gives them to underſtand,

Firſt, What his Extraction and Education was,

1. That he was One of their own Nation, of the Stock of Iſrael, of the Seed of Abraham, a Hebrew of the Hebrews, not of any obſcure Family, or a Renegado of ſome other Nation; No, I am verily a Man which am a Jew, ἀνὴρ Ἰουδαῖος, a Jewiſh Man. I am a Man, and therefore ought not to be treated as a Beaſt; a Man that am a Jew, not a Barbarian, I am a ſincere Friend to your Nation; for I am One of it, and ſhould defile my own Neſt, if I ſhould unjuſtly derogate from the Honour of your Law and your Temple.

2. That he was born in a creditable, reputable Place; in Tarſus, a city of Cilicia, and was by his Birth a Freeman of that City. He was not born in Servitude, as ſome of the Jews of the Diſperſion 'tis likely were; but he was a Gentleman born, and perhaps could produce his Certificate of his Freedom in that ancient and honourable City. This was indeed but a ſmall Matter to make any boaſt of, and yet it was needful to be mentioned at this Time to thoſe, who inſolently trampled upon him, as if he were to be rank'd with the Children of Fools, yea, the Children of baſe Men, Job xxx. 8.

3. That he had a learned and liberal Education. He was not only a Jew, and a Gentleman, but a Scholar; he was brought up in Jeruſalem, the principal Seat of the Jewiſh Learning; and at the Feet of Gamaliel, whom they all knew to be an eminent Doctor of the Jewiſh Law; which Paul was deſign'd to be himſelf a Teacher of. And therefore he could not be ignorant of their Law, nor be thought to ſlight it, becauſe he did not know it. His Parents had brought him very young to this City, deſigning him for a Phariſee: And ſome think, his being brought up at the Feet of Gamaliel, intimates, not only that he was one of his Pupils, but that he was above any other diligent and conſtant in attending his Lectures, obſervant of him, and obſequious to him in all he ſaid, as Mary that ſate at Jeſus Feet, and heard his Word.

4. That he was in his early Days, a very forward and eminent Profeſſor of the Jews Religion; his Studies and Learning were all directed that Way. So far was he from being principled in his Youth with any Diſaffection to the religious Uſages of the Jews, that there was not a young Man among 'em that had a greater or more entire Veneration for them than he had, was more ſtrict in obſerving than himſelf, nor more hot in enforcing them upon others.

1. He was an intelligent Profeſſor of their Religion, and had a clear Head; he minded his Buſineſs at Gamaliel's Feet, and was there taught according to the perfect Manner of the Law of the Fathers. What Departures he had made from the Law, were not owing to any confus'd or miſtaken Notions of it; for he underſtood it to a Nicety, κατ᾽ ἀκρίβειαν, according to the moſt accurate and exact Method. He was not train'd up in the Principles of the Latitudinarians, had nothing in him of a Sadducee, but was of that Sect that was moſt ſtudious in the Law, kept moſt cloſe to it, and to make it more ſtrict than it was, added to it the Traditions of the Elders, the Law of the Fathers; the Law which was given to them, and which they gave to their Children, and ſo was handed down to us. Paul had as great a Value for Antiquity and Tradition and the Authority of the Church, as any of them had; and there was never a Jew of them all underſtood his Religion better than Paul did, nor could better give an Account of it, or a Reaſon for it.

2. He was an active Profeſſor of their Religion, and had a warm Heart; I was zealous towards GOD, as ye all are this Day. Many that are very well skill'd in the Theory of Religion, are willing to leave the Practice of it to others: But Paul was as much a Zealot as a Rabbin. He was zealous againſt every Thing that the Law prohibited, and for every Thing the Law enjoyn'd; and this was Zeal towards GOD; becauſe he thought it was for the Honour of God, and the Service of his Intereſts. And here he complements his Hearers with a candid and charitable Opinion of them, That they were all this Day zealous towards GOD. He bears them Record, Rom. x. 2. that they have a Zeal for GOD, but not according to Knowledge. In hating him, and caſting him out, they ſay, Let the LORD be glorify'd, Iſa. lxvi. 5. And tho' this did by no means juſtify their Rage, yet it enabled thoſe that pray'd, Father, forgive them, to plead as Chriſt did, for they know not what they do. And when Paul owns that he had been zealous for God in the Law of Moſes, as they were this Day, he intimates his Hope, that they might be zealous for God in Chriſt, as he was this Day.

Secondly, What a fiery, furious Perſecutor he had been of the Chriſtian Religion in the Beginning of his Time, v. 4, 5. He mentions this to make it the more plainly and evidently to appear, that the Change which was wrought upon him when he was converted to the Chriſtian Faith, was purely the Effect of a Divine Power; for he was ſo far from having any previous Inclinations to it, or favourable Opinions of it, that immediately before that ſudden Change was wrought in him, he had the utmoſt Antipathy imaginable to Chriſtianity, and was fill'd with Rage againſt it to the laſt Degree. And perhaps he mentions it to juſtify God in his preſent Trouble; how unrighteous ſoever they were that perſecuted him, God was Righteous who permitted them to do it; for Time was when he was a Perſecutor. And he may have a further View in it, to invite and encourage thoſe People to repent; for he himſelf had been a Blaſphemer and a Perſecutor, and yet obtain'd Mercy.

Let us view Paul's Picture of himſelf, when he was a Perſecutor.

1. He hated Chriſtianity with a mortal Enmity: I perſecuted this Way unto the Death, i. e. Thoſe that walk'd in this Way, I aim'd, if poſſible, to be the Death of. He breath'd out Slaughter againſt them, Acts ix. 1. When they were put to Death, he gave his Voice againſt them, Acts xxvi. 10. Nay, he perſecuted not only them that walk'd in this Way, but the Way itſelf, Chriſtianity, which was branded as a By-way, a Sect, he aim'd to perſecute this to the Death, i. e. He could have been willing himſelf to die in his Oppoſition to Chriſtianity; ſo ſome underſtand it. He would contentedly have loſt his Life, and would have thought it well laid out in Defence of the Laws and Traditions of the Fathers.

2. He did all he could to frighten People from this Way, and out of it, by binding and delivering into Priſon both Men and Women; he fill'd the Jails with Chriſtians. Now he himſelf was bound, he lays a particular Streſs upon this Part of his Charge againſt himſelf, that he had bound the Chriſtians, and carry'd them to Priſon. He likewiſe reflects upon it with a ſpecial Regret, that he had impriſon'd not only the Men, but the Women, the weaker Sex, who ought to be treated with particular Tenderneſs and Compaſſion.

3. He was employ'd by the Great Sanhedrin, the High Prieſt, and all the Eſtate of the Elders as an Agent for them in ſuppreſſing this new Sect; ſo much had he already ſignaliz'd himſelf for his Zeal againſt it, v. 5. The High Prieſt can witneſs for him, that he was ready to be employ'd in any Service againſt the Chriſtians. When they heard that many of the Jews at Damaſcus had embrac'd the Chriſtian Faith, to deter others from doing the like, they reſolv'd to proceed againſt them with the utmoſt Severity, and could not think of a fitter Perſon to be employ'd in that Buſineſs than Paul, nor more like to go through with it. They therefore ſent him and Letters by him to the Jews at Damaſcus, here call'd the Brethren, becauſe they all deſcended from one common Stock, and were of one Family in Religion too, ordering them to be aſſiſting to Paul in ſeizing thoſe among them that had turn'd Chriſtians, and bringing them up Priſoners to Jeruſalem, in order to their being puniſh'd as Deſerters from the Faith and Worſhip of the God of Iſrael; and ſo might either be compell'd to retreat, or be put to Death for Terror to others. Thus did Saul make havock of the Church, and was in a fair Way if he had gone on a While to ruin it, and root it out. Such a one, ſaith Paul, I was at firſt, juſt ſuch as you now are. I know the Heart of a Perſecutor, and therefore pity you, and pray that you may know the Heart of a Convert, as God ſince made me to do, And who was I that I could withſtand GOD?

Thirdly, In what manner he was converted, and made what he now was: It was not from any natural and external Cauſes; he did not change his Religion from an Affectation of Novelty, for he was then as well affected to Antiquity as he us'd to be; nor did it ariſe from Diſcontent, becauſe he was balk'd in his Preferment, for he was now more than ever in the Way of Preferment in the Jewiſh Church, much leſs could it ariſe from Covetouſneſs or Ambition, or any Hope of mending his Fortune in the World by turning Chriſtian, for it was to expoſe himſelf to all manner of Diſgrace and Trouble; and he had no Converſation with the Apoſtles or any other Chriſtians, by whoſe Subtilty and Sophiſtry he might be thought to have been wheedled into this Change. No, It was the Lord's Doing; and the Circumſtances of the Doing of it were enough to juſtify him in the Change to all thoſe who believe there is a ſupernatural Power; and none can condemn him for it without reflecting upon that Divine Energy by which he was herein over-rul'd.

1. He relates the Story of his Converſion here very particularly, as we had it before, chap. ix. aiming to ſhew that it was purely the Act of GOD.

He was as fully bent upon perſecuting the Chriſtians juſt before Chriſt arreſted him, as ever. He made his Journey and was come nigh to Damaſcus, v. 6. and had no other Thought but to execute the cruel Deſign he was ſent upon. He was not Conſcious of the leaſt compaſſionate Relentings towards the poor Chriſtians, but ſtill repreſented them to himſelf as Hereticks, Schiſmaticks, and dangerous Enemies both to Church and State.

2. 'Twas a Light from Heaven that firſt ſtartled him, a great Light, which ſhone ſuddenly round about him, and the Jews knew that God is Light, and his Angels, Angels of Light, and that ſuch a Light as this ſhining at Noon, and therefore exceeding that of the Sun, muſt be from God. Had it ſhone in upon him into ſome private Room, there might have been a Cheat in it, but it ſhone upon him in the open Road, at high Noon, and ſo ſtrongly that it ſtruck him to the Ground, v. 7. And all that were with him, chap. xxvi. 14. They could not deny but that ſurely the Lord was in this Light.

3. 'Twas a Voice from Heaven that firſt begat in him awful Thoughts of Jeſus Chriſt, whom before he had had nothing but hateful ſpiteful Thoughts of. The Voice called to him by Name, to diſtinguiſh him from thoſe that journey'd with him, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? And when he asked who art thou, Lord? It was anſwered, I am Jeſus of Nazareth whom thou perſecuteſt, v. 1. By which it appear'd that this Jeſus of Nazareth, whom they alſo were now perſecuting, was one that ſpoke from Heaven, and they knew 'twas dangerous reſiſting one that did ſo, Heb. xii. 2, 5.

4. Leſt it ſhould be objected, How came this Light and Voice to work ſuch a Change upon him, and not upon thoſe that journey'd with him, (tho' 'tis very probable it had a good Effect upon them, and that they thereupon became Chriſtians) he obſerves that his Fellow-Travellers ſaw indeed the Light and were afraid they ſhould be conſum'd with Fire from Heaven, their own Conſciences perhaps now telling them that the Way they were in was not Good, but like Balaam's when he was going to curſe Iſrael, and therefore they might expect to meet with an Angel with a flaming glittering Sword. But tho' the Light made them afraid, they heard not the Voice of him that ſpake to Paul, i. e. They did not diſtinctly hear the Words: Now Faith comes by hearing, and therefore that Change was now preſently wrought upon him that heard the Words, and heard them directed to himſelf which was not wrought upon them who only ſaw the Law; and yet it might afterwards be wrought upon them too.

5. He aſſures them that when he was thus ſtartled, he referr'd himſelf entirely to a Divine Conduct? He did not hereupon preſently cry out, well I will be a Chriſtian, but, What ſhall I do, Lord? Let the ſame Voice from Heaven that hath ſtopt me in the wrong Way, guide me into the right Way, v. 10. Lord, tell me what I ſhall do, and I will do it. And immediately he had Directions to go to Damaſcus, and there he ſhould hear further from him that ſpoke to him: No more needs to be ſaid from Heaven, there it ſhall be told thee, by a Man like thy ſelf, in the Name of him that now ſpeaks to thee, all Things which are appointed for thee to do. The extraordinary Ways of divine Revelation, by Viſions and Voices, and the Appearance of Angels were deſign'd both in the Old Teſtament and in the New only to introduce and eſtabliſh the ordinary Method by the Scriptures and a ſtanding Miniſtry, and therefore were generally ſuperſeded, when thoſe were ſettled. The Angel did not preach to Cornelius himſelf, but bid him ſend for Peter; ſo the Voice here tells not Paul what he ſhall do, but bids him go into Damaſcus, and there it ſhall be told him.

6. As a Demonſtration of the Greatneſs of that Light, which faſten'd upon him, he tells them of the immediate Effect it had upon his Eye-ſight, v. 11. I could not ſee for the Glory of that Light. I ſtruck him blind for the preſent; Nimium ſenſibile lædit ſenſum; condemn'd Sinners are ſtruck blind, as the Sodomites and Egyptians, were, by the Power of Darkneſs, and it is a laſting Blindneſs, like that of the unbelieving Jews: But convinced Sinners are ſtruck blind as Paul here was, not by Darkneſs, but by Light; They are for the preſent brought to be at a loſs within themſelves, but it is in order to their being enlighten'd, as the putting of Clay upon the Eyes of the blind Man was the deſign'd Method of his Cure. Thoſe that were with Paul had not the Light ſo directly darted into their Faces, as Paul had into his, and therefore they were not blinded as he was; yet conſidering the Iſſue who would not rather have choſen his Lot than theirs. They having their Sight led Paul by the Hand into the City. Paul being a Phariſee was proud of his ſpiritual Eye-ſight. The Phariſees ſaid, Are we blind alſo? John ix. 40. nay, they were confident that they themſelves were Guides to the Blind, and Light to them that were in Darkneſs, Rom. ii. 19. Now Paul was thus ſtruck with bodily Blindneſs to make him ſenſible of his ſpiritual Blindneſs, and his Maſtake concerning himſelf, when he was alive without the Law, Rom. vii. 9.

Fourthly, How he was confirm'd in the Change he had made, and further directed what he ſhould do by Ananias, who liv'd at Damaſcus. Obſerve,

1. The Character here given of Ananias. He was not a Man that was any way prejudic'd againſt the Jewiſh Nation or Religion, but was himſelf a devout Man according to the Law; if not a Jew by Birth, yet one that had been proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion, and therefore call'd a devout Man, and thence advanc'd further to the Faith of Chriſt, who carry'd himſelf ſo well that he had a good Report of all Jews that dwelt at Damaſcus; This was the firſt Chriſtian that Paul had any friendly Communication with, and it was not likely that he ſhould inſtill into him any ſuch Notions as they ſuſpected him to have eſpous'd, injurious to the Law, or to this Holy Place.

2. The Cure immediately wrought by him upon Paul's Eyes; which Miracle was to confirm Ananias's Miſſion to Paul, and to ratify all that he could afterwards ſay to him. He came to him, v. 13. and to aſſure him that he came to him from Chriſt, the very ſame who had torn, and would heal him; had ſmitten but would bind him up; had taken away his Sight, but would reſtore it again with Advantage; he ſtood by him and ſaid, Brother Saul, receive thy Sight. With which Word Power went along, and the ſame Hour immediately he received his Sight, and looked up upon him, ready to receive from him the Inſtructions ſent by him.

3. The Declarations which Ananias makes to him of the Favour, the peculiar Favour, which the Lord Jeſus deſign'd him, above any other.

(1.) In the preſent Manifeſtation of himſelf to him, v. 14. The God of our Fathers hath choſen thee. This powerful Call is the Reſult of a particular Choice: His calling God the God of our Fathers intimates that Ananias was himſelf a Jew by Birth, that obſerv'd the Law of the Fathers, and liv'd upon the Promiſe made unto the Fathers. And he gives a Reaſon why he ſaid Brother Saul, when he ſpoke of God, as the God of our Fathers: This God of our Fathers hath choſen thee, that thou ſhould'ſt, (1.) Know his Will, the Will of his Precept that is to be done by thee, the Will of his Providence that is to be done concerning thee. He hath choſen thee that thou ſhould'ſt know it in a more peculiar Manner, not of Man, or by Man, but immediately by the Revelation of Chriſt, Gal. i. 1, 12. Thoſe whom God hath choſen, he hath choſen to know his Will, and to do it. (2.) That thou ſhould'ſt ſee the juſt One, and heard the Voice of his Mouth, and ſo ſhould'ſt know his Will immediately from himſelf. This was what Paul was in a particular Manner choſen to, above others; 'twas a diſtinguiſhing Favour, that he ſhould ſee Chriſt here upon Earth after his Aſcenſion into Heaven. Stephen ſaw him ſtanding at the Right Hand of God, but Paul ſaw him ſtanding at his Right Hand; this Honour none had but Paul: Stephen ſaw him, but we do not find that he heard the Voice of his Mouth, as Paul did, who ſaith he was laſt of all ſeen of him, as of one born out of due Time, 1 Cor. xv. 8. Chriſt is here call'd that juſt One, for he is Jeſus Chriſt the Righteous, and ſuffer'd wrongfully. Obſerve, Thoſe whom God hath choſen to know his Will, muſt have an Eye to Chriſt, and muſt ſee him, and hear the Voice of his Mouth, for it is by him that God has made know his Will to us, and he hath ſaid, hear ye him.

(2.) In the After-manifeſtation of himſelf by him to others, v. 15. Thou ſhalt be his Witneſs, not only a Monument of his Grace as a Pillar may be, but a Witneſs; viva voce: Thou ſhalt publiſh his Goſpel, as that which thou haſt experienc'd the Power of and been deliver'd into the Mould of; thou ſhalt be his Witneſs unto all Men, Gentiles as well as Jews, of which thou haſt ſeen and heard, now at the very firſt. And finding Paul ſo particularly relating the Manner of his Converſion in his Apologies for himſelf, here, and ch. xxvi. we have Reaſon to think that he frequently made the ſame Narrative in his preaching, for the Converſion of others; he told them what God had done for his Soul, to encourage them to hope, that he would do ſomething for their Souls.

4. The Counſel and Encouragement he gave him to joyn himſelf to the Lord Jeſus by Baptiſm, v. 16. Ariſe and be baptiz'd: He had in his Circumciſion been given up to God, but he muſt now by Baptiſm be given up to God in Chriſt, muſt embrace the Chriſtian Religion, and the Privileges of it, in Submiſſion to the Precepts of it: This muſt now be done immediately upon his Converſion, and ſo was added to his Circumciſion, but to the Seed of the Faithful it comes in the Room of it; for it is as that was to Abraham and his believing Seed, A Seal of the Righteouſneſs which is by Faith. (1.) The great Goſpel-Privilege, which by Baptiſm we have ſeal'd to us, is the Remiſſion of Sins. Be baptiz'd, and waſh away thy Sins, i. e. Receive the Comfort of the Pardon of the Sins in and through Jeſus Chriſt, and lay hold on his Righteouſneſs for that Purpoſe. And receive Power againſt Sin, for thy Mortifying of thy Corruption; for our being waſh'd, includes our being both juſtify'd and ſanctify'd, 1 Cor. vi. 11. Be baptiz'd, and reſt not in the Sign, but make ſure of the Thing ſignify'd, the putting away of the Filth of Sin. (2.) The great Goſpel-Duty, which by our Baptiſm we are bound to, is to call on the Name of the Lord, the Lord Jeſus; to acknowledge him to be our Lord and our God, and to apply our ſelves to him accordingly; to give Honour to him, to put all our Petitions in his Hand. To call on the Name of Jeſus Chriſt our Lord, (Son of David, have Mercy on us) is the Periphraſis of a Chriſtian, 1 Cor. i. 2. We muſt waſh away our Sins, calling on the Name of the Lord, i. e. we muſt ſeek for the Pardon of our Sins in Chriſt's Name, and in Dependance on him, and his Righteouſneſs. And in Prayer, we muſt not any longer call God, the God of Abraham, but the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and in him our Father; in every Prayer, our Eye muſt be to Chriſt. (3.) We muſt do this quickly; Why tarrieſt thou? Our Covenanting with God in Chriſt is needful Work that muſt not be deferr'd. The Caſe is ſo plain, that 'tis needleſs to deliberate; and the Hazard ſo great, that 'tis folly to delay. Why ſhould not that be done at the preſent Time, that muſt be done ſome Ttme, or we are undone.

Fifthly, How he was commiſſion'd to go and preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles; this was the great Thing which they were ſo angry at him for; and therefore it was requiſite he ſhould for this in a ſpecial Manner produce a divine Warrant, and here he doth it. This Commiſſion he did not receive preſently upon his Converſion; for this was at Jeruſalem, whither he did not go till three Years after, or more, Gal. i. 18. and whether it was then or afterwards, that he had this Viſion here ſpoken of, we are not certain.

But to reconcile them, if poſſible, to his Preaching of the Goſpel among the Gentiles, he tells them,

1. That he received his Orders to do it when he was at Prayer, begging of God to appoint him his Work, and to ſhew him the Courſe he ſhould ſteer; (And which was a Circumſtance that would have ſome Weight with thoſe he was now ſpeaking to) he was at Prayer in the Temple, which was to be call'd, a Houſe of Prayer for all People; not only in which all People ſhould pray, but in which all People ſhould be pray'd for. Now as Paul's Praying in the Temple, was an Evidence, contrary to their malicious Suggeſtion, that he had a Veneration for the Temple, tho' he did not make an Idol of it, as they did: ſo God's giving him this Commiſſion there in the Temple, was an Evidence, that the ſending him to the Gentiles would be no Prejudice to the Temple, unleſs the Jews by their Infidelity made it ſo. Now it would be a great Satisfaction to Paul afterwards in the Execution of this Commiſſion, to reflect upon it, that he receiv'd it when he was at Prayer.

2. He receiv'd it in a Viſion: He fell into a Trance, v. 17. His external Senſes for the preſent lock'd up, he was in an Extaſy, as when he was rap'd up into the third Heaven, and was not at that Time ſenſible whether he was in the Body, or out of the Body. In this Trance he ſaw Jeſus Chriſt, not with the Eyes of his Body, as at his Converſion, but repreſented to the Eyes of his Mind, v 18. I ſaw him, ſaying unto me. Our Eye muſt be upon Chriſt, when we are receiving the Law from his Mouth; and we muſt not only hear him ſpeaking, but ſee him ſpeaking to us.

3. Before Chriſt gave him a Commiſſion to go to the Gentiles, he told him, 'twas to no purpoſe for him to think of doing any Good at Jeruſalem, ſo that they muſt not blame him, but themſelves, if he were ſent to the Gentiles. Paul came to Jeruſalem full of Hopes, that by the Grace of God he might be inſtrumental to bring thoſe to the Faith of Chriſt, who had ſtood it out againſt the Miniſtry of the other Apoſtles, and perhaps this was it he was now praying for; that he having had his Education at Jeruſalem, and being well known there, might be employ'd in gathering the Children of Jeruſalem to Chriſt, that were not yet gather'd; which he thought he had particular Advantages for the doing of: But Chriſt croſſed the Meaſures he had laid, Make haſte, ſaith he, and get thee quickly out of Jeruſalem, for tho' thou thinkeſt thyſelf more likely to work upon them than others, thou wilt find they are more prejudic'd againſt thee than againſt any other, and therefore will not receive thy Teſtimony concerning me. As God knows before who will receive the Goſpel, ſo He knows who will reject it.

4. Paul, notwithſtanding this, renews his Petitition, that he might be employ'd at Jeruſalem, becauſe they knew better than any did what he had been before his Converſion, and therefore muſt aſcribe ſo great a Change in him, to the Power of Almighty Grace, and conſequently give the greater Regard to his Teſtimony; thus he reaſon'd both with himſelf and with the Lord, and thought he reaſon'd right, v. 19, 20. Lord, ſaith he, they knew, that I was once of this Mind, that I was as bitter an Enemy as any of them to ſuch as believed on thee; than I irritated the Civil Power againſt them, and impriſon'd them, and turned the Edge of the Spiritual Power againſt them too, and beat them in every Synagogue. And therefore they will not impute my preaching Chriſt to Education, or any Prepoſſeſſion in his Favour, as they do that of other Miniſters, but will the more readily regard what I ſay, becauſe they know I have my ſelf been one of them; particularly in Stephen's Caſe; they know that when he was ſton'd, I was ſtanding by, I was aiding and abetting, and conſenting to his Death, and in Token of that, kept the Clothes if thoſe that ſton'd him. Now, Lord, ſaith he, if I appear among them preaching the Doctrine that Stephen preach'd and ſuffer'd for, they will no doubt receive my Teſtimony. No, (ſaith Chriſt to him) they will not; but will be more exaſperated againſt thee as a Deſerter from, than againſt others whom they look upon only as Strangers to, their Conſtitution.

5. Paul's Petition for a Warrant to preach the Goſpel at Jeruſalem is over-rul'd, and he has peremptory Orders to go among the Gentiles, v. 21. Depart, for I will ſend thee far hence among the Gentiles. Note. God often gives gracious Anſwers to the Prayers of his People, not in the Thing itſelf that they pray for, but in ſomething better. Abraham prays, O that Iſhmael may live before thee; and God hears him for Iſaac. So Paul here prays, that he may be an Inſtrument of converting Souls at Jeruſalem; No, ſaith Chriſt, but thou ſhalt be employ'd among the Gentiles, and more ſhall be the Children of the deſolate than thoſe of the married Wife. 'Tis God that appoints his Labourers both their Day and their Place, and 'tis fit they ſhould acquieſce in his Appointment, tho' it may croſs their own Inclinations. Paul hankers after Jeruſalem, to be a Preacher there was the Top of his Ambition; but Chriſt deſigns him greater Preferment; he ſhall not enter into other Mens Labours, as the other Apoſtles did, Joh. iv. 28. but ſhall break up new Ground, and preach the Goſpel there where Chriſt was not nam'd, Rom. xv. 20. So often doth Providence contrive better for us, than we for ourſelves; to the Conduct of that we muſt therefore tefer ourſelves, He ſhall chuſe our Inheritance for us. Obſerve, Paul ſhall not go to preach among the Gentiles without a Commiſſion, I will ſend thee: And if Chriſt ſend him, his Spirit ſhall go along with him, he will ſtand by him, will carry him on, and bear him out, and give him to ſee the Fruit of his Labours. Let not Paul ſet his Heart upon Judea and Jeruſalem, for he muſt be ſent far hence; his Call muſt be quite another Way, and his Work of another Kind. And it might be a Mitigation of the Offence of this to the Jews, that he did not ſet up a Gentile Church in the Neighbour Nations; others did that juſt under their Noſe; he was ſent to Places at a Diſtance, a vaſt Way off, where what he did could not be thought an Annoyance to them.

Now if they would lay all this together, ſurely they would ſee that they had no Reaſon to be angry with Paul for Preaching among the Gentiles, or conſtrue it an Act of Ill-will to his own Nation, for he was compell'd to it contrary to his own Mind, by an over-ruling Command from Heaven.

22 And they gave him audience unto this word, and then liſt up their voices and ſaid, Away with ſuch a fellow from the earth, for it is not fit that he ſhould live. 23 And as they cryed out, and caſt off their clothes, aud threw duſt into the air, 24
The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the caſtle, and bade that he ſhould be examined by ſcurging: that he might know wherefore they cried ſo againſt him. 25 And as they bound him with thongs, Paul ſaid unto the centurion that ſtood by, Is it lawful for you to ſcurge a man that is a Roman, and uncondemned? 26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, ſaying, Take heed what thou doeſt; for this man is a Roman. 27 Then the chief captain came and ſaid unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman;
He ſaid, Yea. 28 And the chief captain anſwered, With a great Sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul ſaid, But I was free-born. 29 Then ſtraightway they departed from him which ſhould have examined him: and the chief captain alſo was afraid after he knew that he was a Roman, and becauſe he had bound him. 30 On the morrow, becauſe he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accuſed of the Jews, he looſed him from his bands, and commanded the chief prieſts and all their council to appear, aud brought Paul down, and ſet him before them.

Paul was going on with his Account of himſelf, had ſhew'd them his Commiſſion to preach among the Gentiles, without any peeviſh Reflections upon the Jews. And we may ſuppoſe deſign'd next to ſhew how he was afterwards by a ſpecial Direction of the Holy Ghoſt at Antioch ſeparated to this Service; how tender he was of the Jews, and how reſpectful to them, and how careful to give them the Precedency in all Places whither he came, and to unite Jews and Gentiles in one Body; and then to ſhew how wonderfully God had own'd him, and what good Service had been done to the Intereſt of God's Kingdom among Men in general, without Damage to any of the true Intereſts of the Jewiſh Church in particular. But whatever he deſigns to ſay, they reſolve he ſhall ſay no more to them; They gave him Audience to this Word: Hitherto they had heard him with Patience, and ſome Attention: But when he ſpeaks of being ſent to the Gentiles, tho' it was what Chriſt himſelf ſaid to him, they cannot bear it, not ſo much as to hear the Gentiles nam'd, ſuch an Enmity had they to them, and ſuch a Jealouſy of them. Upon the Mention of this, they have no Manner of Patience; but forget all Rules of Decency and Equity; thus were they provoked to Jealouſy by them that were no People, Rom. x. 19.

Now here we are told,

Firſt, How furious and outragious the People were againſt Paul for mentioning the Gentiles, as taken into the Cognizance of Divine Grace, and ſo juſtifying his Preaching among them.

1. They interruptod him, by lifting up their Voioe, to put him into Confuſion, and that no Body might hear a Word he ſaid. Gall'd Conſciences kick at the leaſt Touch; and thoſe who are reſolv'd not to be rul'd by Reaſon, commonly reſolve not to hear it, if they can help it. And the Spirit of Enmity againſt the Goſpel of Chriſt commonly ſhews itſelf in ſilencing the Miniſters of Chriſt and his Goſpel, and ſtopping their Mouths, as the Jews did Paul's here. Their Fathers had ſaid to the beſt of Seers, See not, Iſa. xxx. 10. And ſo they to the beſt of Speakers, ſpeak not : Forbear, wherefore ſhouldſt thou be ſmitten? 2 Chron. xxv. 16.

2. They clamour'd againſt him as one that was unworthy of Life, much more of Liberty; without weighing the Arguments he had urg'd in his own Defence, or offering to make any Anſwer to them, they cry'd out with a confus'd Noiſe, Away with ſuch a Fellow as this from the Earth, who pretends to have a Commiſſion to go to preach to the Gentiles, why, it is not fit that he ſhould live. Thus the Men that have been the greateſt Bleſſings of their Age, have been repreſented not only as the Burthens of the Earth, but the Plague of their Generation. He that was worthy of the greateſt Honours of Life, is condemn'd as not worthy of Life itſelf. See what different Sentiments God and Men have of good Men, and yet they both agree in this, that they are not likely to live long in this World. Paul ſaith of the Godly Jews, That they were Men of whom the World was not worthy, Heb, xi. 38. And therefore they muſt be remov'd, that the World may be juſtly puniſh'd with the Loſs of them : The Ungodly Jews here ſay of Paul, That it was not fit he ſhould live, and therefore he muſt be remov'd, that the World may be eas'd of the Burthen of him, as of the two Witneſſes, Rev. xi. 10.

3. They went ſtark mad againſt Paul, and againſt the Chief Captain for not killing him immediately, at their Requeſt, or throwing him as a Prey into their Teeth, that they might devour him, v. 23. As Men whoſe Reaſon was quite loſt in Paſſion, they cry'd out like roaring Lions or raging Bears, and howl'd like evening Wolves; They caſt off their Clothes with Fury and Violence, as much as to ſay, that thus they would tear him, if they could but come at him: Or rather, they thus ſhew'd how ready they were to ſtone him ; they that ſton'd Stephen, threw off their Clothes, v. 20. Or, they rent their Clothes, as if he had ſpoken Blaſphemy; and threw Duſt into the Air in Deteſtation of it; or ſignifying how ready they were to throw Stones at Paul, if the Chief Captain would have permitted them. But why ſhould they go about to give a Reaſon for theſe Expreſſions of Fury, which they themſelves could not account for ? All they intended was to make the Chief Captain ſenſible how much they were enraged and exaſperated at Paul, ſo that he could not do any Thing to gratify them more, than to let them have their Will againſt him.

4. The Chief Captain took Care for his Safety, by ordering him to be brought into the Caſtle, v. 24. A Priſon ſometimes has been a Protection to good Men from popular Rage. Paul's Hour was not yet come, he had not finiſh'd his Teſtimony, and therefore God rais'd up One that took Care of him, when none of his Friends durſt appear on his behalf. Grant not, O Lord, the Deſign of the Wicked.

5. He order'd him the Torture, to force from him the Confeſſion of ſome flagrant Crime, which had provok'd the People to ſuch an uncommon Violence againſt him. He bade that he ſhould be examin'd by ſcourging, as now in ſome Countries by the Rack, that he might know wherefore they cry'd ſo againſt him. Herein he did not proceed fairly ; he ſhould have ſingled out ſome of the clamorous tumultuous Complainants, and taken them into the Caſtle, as Breakers of the Peace, and ſhould have examin'd them, and by ſcourging too, what they had to lay to the Charge of a Man that could give ſo good an Account of himſelf, and did not appear to have done any Thing worthy of Death or of Bonds. It was proper to ask them, but not at all proper to ask Paul, Wherefore they cry'd ſo againſt him; he could tell that he had given them no juſt Cauſe to do it; if there were any Cauſe, let them produce it. No Man is bound to accuſe himſelf, tho' he be guilty, much leſs ought he to be compell'd to accuſe himſelf when he is innocent. Surely the Chief Captain did not know the Jewiſh Nation when he concluded, that he muſt needs have done ſomething very ill, whom they cry'd out againſt; Had they not juſt thus cry'd out againſt our Lord Jeſus, Crucify him, crucify him, when they had not one Word to ſay in anſwer to the Judges Queſtion, Why, what Evil has he done? Is this a fair or juſt Occaſion to ſcourge Paul, that a rude tumultuous Mob cry out againſt him, but cannot tell why or wherefore, and therefore he muſt be forc'd to tell.

6. Paul pleaded his Privilege as a Roman Citizen, by which he was exempted from all Trials and Puniſhments of this Nature, v. 25. As they bound him with Thongs, or leathern Bands to the Whipping-poſt, as they us'd the vileſt of Malefactors in Bridewell, from whom they would extort a Confeſſion ; he made no Out-cry againſt the Injuſtice of their Proceedings againſt an innocent Man, but very mildly let them underſtand the Illegality of their Proceedings againſt him as a Citizen of Rome; which he had done once before at Philippi, after he had been ſcourg'd, Chap. xvi. 37. but here he makes uſe of it for Prevention. He ſaid to the Centurion that ſtood by, you know the Law, pray, Is it lawful for you, who are yourſelves Romans, to ſcourge a Man that is a Roman, and uncondemned? The Manner of his Speaking, plainly ſpeaks what a holy Security and Serenity of Mind this good Man enjoy'd; not diſturb'd either with Anger or Fear in the midſt of all thoſe Indignities that were done him, and the Danger he was in. The Romans had a Law, ('twas call'd Lex Sempronia) That if any Magiſtrate did chaſtiſe or condemn a Freeman of Rome indictâ causa, without hearing him ſpeak for himſelf, and deliberating upon the Whole of his Caſe, he ſhould be liable to the Sentence of the People, who were very jealous of their Liberties. It is indeed the Privilege of every Man not to have Wrong done him, except it be prov'd he has done Wrong; as it is of every Engliſh Man by Magna Charta, not to be diſ-ſeiz'd of his Life or Free-hold, but by a Verdict of twelve Men of his Peers.

7. The Chief Captain was ſurpriz'd at this, and put into a Fright; He had taken Paul to be a Vagabond Egyptian, and wonder'd he could ſpeak Greek, Chap. xxi. 37. But is much more ſurpriz'd now he finds that he is as good a Gentleman as himſelf. How many Men of great Worth and Merit are deſpis'd, becauſe they are not known! Are look'd upon and treated as the Off-ſcouring of all Things, when thoſe that count them ſo, if they knew their true Character. would own them to be of the excellent Ones of the Earth. The Chief Captain had Centurions, Under-Officers attending him, Chap. xxi. 32. One of theſe reports this Matter to the Chief Captain, v. 26. Take heed what thou doſt, for this Man is a Roman, and what Indignity is done to him, will be conſtru'd an Offence againſt the Majeſty of the Roman People, as they lov'd to ſpeak. They all knew what a Value was put upon this Privilege of the Roman Citizens. Tully extols it in one of his Orations, againſt Verres, O nomen dulce libertatis, O jus eximium noſtræ Civitatis! O Lex Porcia! O Leges Semproniæ, Facinus eſt vincire Romanum Civem, ſcelus verberare: Its a Crime to bind a Roman Citizen, but an unpardonable one to beat him. Therefore (ſaith the Centurion) let us look to ourſelves; if this Man be a Roman, and we do him any Indignity, we ſhall be in danger to loſe our Commiſſions at leaſt. Now,

(1.) The Chief Captain would be ſatisfy'd of the Truth of this from his own Mouth, v. 37. Tell me, art thou a Roman? Art thou intitled to the Privileges of a Roman Citizen? Yes, ſaith Paul, I am, and perhaps produc'd ſome Ticket or Inſtrument which prov'd it; for otherwiſe, they would ſcarce have taken his Word.

(2.) The Chief Captain very freely compares Notes with him upon this Matter, and it appears, that the Privilege Paul had as a Roman Citizen, was of the two more honourable than the Colonel's; for the Colonel owns that his was purchas'd. I am a Free-man of Rome, but with a great Sum obtain'd I this Freedom; it coſt me dear, How came you by it? Why truly, ſaith Paul, I was free-born. Some think he became entitled to his Freedom by the Place of his Birth, as a Native of Tarſus, a City privileg'd by the Emperor with the ſame Privileges that Rome itſelf enjoy'd; Others rather think, it was by his Father or Grandfather having ſerved in the Wars, between Cæſar and Antony, or ſome other of the Civil Wars of Rome, and being for ſome ſignal Piece of Service rewarded with a Freedom of the City; and ſo Paul came to be Free-born; and here he pleads it for his own Preſervation; for which End, not only we may, but we ought to uſe all lawful Means.

(3.) This put an immediate Stop to Paul's Trouble; They that were appointed to examine him by Scourging, quitted the Spot, they departed from him, v. 29. leſt they ſhould run themſelves into a Snare. Nay, and the Colonel himſelf, tho' we may ſuppoſe him to have a conſiderable Intereſt, was afraid when he heard he was a Roman; becauſe tho' he had not beaten him, yet he had bound him, in order to his being beaten. Thus many are reſtrain'd from evil Practices by the Fear of Man, that would not be reſtrain'd from them by the Fear of GOD. See here the Benefit of Humane Laws and Magiſtracy, and what Reaſon we have to be thankful to God for them; for even when they have given no Countenance, or ſpecial Protection to God's People and Miniſters, yet by their general ſupport of Equity and fair Dealing between Man and Man, they have ſerv'd to check the Rage of wicked and unreaſonable illegal Men, that otherwiſe would know no Bounds, and to ſay, Hitherto it ſhall come, but no further; Here ſhall its proud Waves be ſtay'd. And therefore this Service we owe to all in Authority, to pray for them, becauſe this Benefit we have Reaſon to expect from them, whether we have it or no, as long as we are quiet and peaceable, to live quiet and peaceable Lives in all Godlineſs and Honeſty, 1 Tim. ii. 1, 2.

(4.) The Governour the next Day brought Paul before the Sanhedrin, v. 30. He firſt looſed him from his Bonds, that thoſe might not pre-judge his Cauſe, and that he might not be charg'd with having pinion'd a Roman Citizen, and then ſummon'd the Chief Prieſts and all their Council to come together to take Cognizance of Paul's Caſe; for he found it to be a Matter of Religion, and therefore look'd upon them to be the moſt proper Judges of it. Gallio in this Caſe diſcharg'd Paul; finding it to be a Matter of their Law, he drave the Proſecutors from the Judgement-Seat, Acts xviii. 10. and would not concern himſelf at all in it: But this Roman, that was a military Man, kept Paul in Cuſtody, and appeal'd from the Rabble to the General Aſſembly. Now (1.) We may hope that hereby he intended Paul's Safety, as thinking, if he were an innocent and inoffenſive Man, tho' the Multitude might be incens'd againſt him, yet the Chief Prieſts and the Elders would do him Juſtice and clear him; for they were or ſhould be

Men of Learning and Conſideration, and their Court govern'd by Rules of Equity. When the Prophet could find no Good among the poorer ſort of People, he concluded it was, becauſe they knew not the Way of the LORD, nor the Judgement of their GOD, and promis'd himſelf that he ſhould ſpeed better among the great Men, as the Chief Captain here did, but ſoon found himſelf diſappointed there: Theſe have altogether broken the Yoke and burſt the Bonds, Jer. v. 4, 5. But (2.) That which he is here ſaid to aim at, is the gratifying of his own Curioſity. He would have known the Certainty wherefore he was accuſed of the Jews. Had he ſent for Paul to his own Chamber, and talk'd freely with him, he might ſoon have learn'd from him, that which would have done more than ſatisfy his Enquiry, and which might have perſuaded him to be a Chriſtian. But it is too common for great Men to affect to ſet that at a Diſtance from them, which might awaken their Conſciences, and to deſire to have no more of the Knowledge of GOD's Ways than may ſerve them to talk of.

CHAP. XXIII.

The Cloſe of the foregoing Chapter left Paul in the High Prieſt's Court, into which the Chief Captain (whether to his Advantage or no, I know not) had remov'd his Cauſe from the Mob; and if his Enemies act there againſt him with leſs Noiſe, yet it is with more Subtilty. Now here we have, (1.) Paul's Proteſtation of his own Integrity, and of a civil Reſpect to the High Prieſt, however he had upon a ſudden ſpoken warmly to him, and juſtly, v. 1—5. (2.) Paul's prudent Contrivance to get himſelf clear of them, by ſetting the Phariſees and Sadduces at Variance one with another, v. 6—9. (3.) The Governour's ſeaſonable Interpoſal to reſcue him out of their Hands, likewiſe, v. 10. (4.) Chriſt's more comfortable Appearing to him, to animate him againſt thoſe Difficulties that lay before him, and to tell him what he muſt expect, v. 11. (5.) A bloody Conſpiracy of ſome deſperate Jews to kill Paul, and their drawing in the Chief Prieſts and Elders to be Aiders and Abetters with them in it, v. 12—15. (6.) The Diſcovery of this Conſpiracy to Paul, and by him to the Chief Captain, who perceiv'd ſo much of their inveterate Malice againſt Paul, that he had Reaſon enough to believe the Truth of it, v. 15—22. (7.) The Chief Captain's Care of Paul's Safety, by which he prevented the Execution of the Deſign; He ſent him away immediately under a ſtrong Guard, from Jeruſalem to Cæſarea, which was now the Reſidence of Felix, the Roman Governour, and there he ſafely arriv'd, v. 23—35.

AND Paul earneſtly beholding the council, ſaid, Men and brethren, I have liv'd in all good conſcience before God, until this day. 2 And the high prieſt Ananias commanded them that ſtood by him, to ſmite him on the Mouth. 3 Then ſaid Paul unto him, God ſhall ſmite thee, thou whited wall: for ſitteſt thou to judge me after the law, and commandeſt me to be ſmitten contrary to the law? 4 And they that ſtood by, ſaid, Revileſt thou God's high Prieſt? 5 Then ſaid Paul, I wiſt not, brethren, that he was the high Prieſt; For it is written, Thou ſhalt not ſpeak evil of the ruler of thy people.

Perhaps when Paul was brought, as he often was (Corpus cum causa) before Heathen Magiſtrates and Councils, where he and his Cauſe were ſlighted, becauſe not at all underſtood; he thought if he were brought before the Sanhedrin at Jeruſalem, he ſhould be able to deal with them to ſome good Purpoſe, and yet we do not find that he work'd at all upon them. Here we have,

Firſt, Paul's Proteſtation of his own Integrity. Whether the Chief Prieſt put any Queſtion to him, or the Chief Captain made any Repreſentation of his Caſe to the Court, we are not told: But Paul appear'd here,

1. With a good Courage; He was not at all put out of Countenance upon his being brought before ſuch an Auguſt Aſſembly, which in his Youth he had conceiv'd ſuch a Veneration for; nor did he fear their Calling him to an Account about the Letters they gave him to Damaſcus, to perſecute the Chriſtians there, tho' (for ought we know) this was the firſt Time he had ever ſeen them ſince; but he earneſtly beheld the Council. When Stephen was brought before them, they thought to have fac'd him down, but could not, ſuch was his Holy Confidence; they look'd ſtedfaſtly on him, and his Face was as that of an Angel, Chap. vi. 15. Now Paul was brought before 'em, he thought to have fac'd them down, but could not, ſuch was their wicked Impudence. However, now was fulfill'd in him what God promiſed to Ezekiel, Chap. iii, 8, 9. I have made thy Face ſtrong againſt their Faces; fear them not, neither be diſmay'd at their Looks.

2. With a good Conſcience, and that gave him a good Courage, Hic murus aheneus eſto, Nil conſcire ſibi. He ſaid. Men and Brethren, I liv'd in all good Conſcience before GOD until this Day. However, I may be reproach'd, my Heart doth not reproach me, but witneſſeth for me. (1.) He had always been a Man inclin'd to Religion; he never was a Man that liv'd at large, but always put a Difference between Moral Good and Evil; even in his Unregenerate State; he was as touching the Righteouſneſs that was in the Law, blameleſs. He was no unthinking Man, who never conſider'd what he did; no deſigning Man, who car'd not what he did, ſo he could but compaſs his own Ends. (2.) Even when he perſecuted the Church of GOD, yet he thought he ought to do it, and that he did God good Service. Tho' his Conſcience was miſinformed, yet he acted according to the Dictates of it. See Chap. xxvi. 9. (3.) He ſeems rather to ſpeak of the Time ſince his Converſion, ſince he left the Service of the High Prieſt, and fell under their Diſpleaſure for ſo doing; He doth not ſay, from my Beginning until this Day, but all the Time in which you had look'd upon me as a Deſerter, an Apoſtate, and an Enemy to Religion, even to this Day, I have liv'd in all good Conſcience before GOD; whatever you may think of me, I have in every Thing approv'd my ſelf to God, and liv'd honeſtly, Heb. xiii. 18. He had aimed at nothing but to pleaſe God, and do his Duty, in thoſe Things for which they were ſo incens'd againſt him: in all he had done towards the ſetting up of the Kingdom of Chriſt, and the ſetting of it up among the Gentiles, he had acted conſcientiouſly. See here the Character of an honeſt Man, (1.) He ſets God before him, and lives as in his Sight, and under his Eye, and with an Eye to him. Walk before me, and be thou upright. (2.) He makes Conſcience of what he ſaith and doth, and tho' he may be under ſome Miſtakes, yet according to the beſt of his Knowledge he abſtains from that which is Evil, and cleaves to that which is Good. (3.) He is univerſally conſcientious; and they that are not ſo, are not truly conſcientious; is ſo in all manner of Converſation. I have liv'd in all good Conſcience; have had my whole Converſation under the Direction and Dominion of Conſcience. (4.) He continues ſo, and perſeveres in it. I have liv'd ſo until this Day. Whatever Changes paſs over him, he is ſtill the ſame, ſtrictly conſcientious. And thoſe who thus live in all good Conſcience before GOD, may, like Paul here, lift up their Face without Spot; and if their Hearts condemn them not, may have Confidence both towards God and Man, as Job had, when he ſtill held faſt his Integrity; and Paul himſelf whoſe Rejoycing was this, the Teſtimony of his Conſcience.

Secondly, The Abuſe which Ananias the High Prieſt did to Paul: He commanded them that ſtood by, the Beadles that attended the Court, to ſmite him on the Mouth, v. 2. to give him a Daſh on the Teeth, either with a Hand or with a Rod. Our Lord Jeſus was thus diſpitefully us'd in this Court, by one of the Servants, John xviii. 22. as was foretold, Mic. v. 1. They ſhall ſmite the Judge of Iſrael upon the Cheek: But here was an Order of Court for the doing of it, and 'tis likely it was done.

1. The High Prieſt was highly offended at Paul; ſome think becauſe he look'd ſo boldly and earneſtly at the Council, as if he would face them down; Others, becauſe he did not addreſs himſelf particularly to him, as Preſident, with ſome Title of Honour and Reſpect, but ſpoke freely and familiarly to them all, as Men and Brethren. His Proteſtation of his Integrity, was Provocation enough to One who was reſolv'd to run him down, and make him odious. When he could charge him with no Crime, he thought it was Crime enough, that he aſſerted his own Innocency.

2. In his Rage he order'd him to be ſmitten, ſo to put Diſgrace upon him, and to be ſmitten on the Mouth, as having offended with his Lips, and in token of his enjoyning him Silence. This brutiſh and barbarous Method he had recourſe to when he could not anſwer the Wiſdom and Spirit wherewith he ſpake. Thus Zedekiah ſmote Micaiah, 1 Kin. xxii. 24. and Paſhur ſmote Jeremiah, Jer. xx. 2. when they ſpoke in the Name of the Lord: If therefore we ſee ſuch Indignities done to good Men; nay, if they be done to us for well doing, and well ſaying, we muſt not think it ſtrange: Chriſt will give thoſe the Kiſſes of his Mouth, (Cant. i. 2.) who for his Sake receive Blows on the Mouth. And tho' it may be expected, that as Solomon ſaith, Every Man ſhould kiſs his Lips that giveth a right Anſwer, Prov. xxiv. 26. yet we often ſee the contrary.

Thirdly, The Denunciation of the Wrath of God againſt the High Prieſt for this Wickedneſs in the Place of Judgement, Eccl. iii. 16. and it agrees with what follows there, v. 17. with which Solomon comforted himſelf, I ſaid in mine Heart, God ſhall judge the Righteous and the Wicked; God ſholl ſmite thee thou whited Wall, v. 3. Paul did not ſpeak this in any ſinful Heat or Paſſion, but in a Holy Zeal againſt the High Prieſt's Abuſe of his Power, and with ſomething of a prophetick Spirit, not at all with a Spirit of Revenge.

1. He gives him his due Character; Thou whited Wall, i. e. Thou Hypocrite, a Mud-wall, Traſh and Dirt, and Rubbiſh underneath, but plaiſter'd over, or white-waſh'd. 'Tis the ſame Compariſon in effect with that of Chriſt, when he compares the Phariſees to whited Sepulchres, Matth. xxiii. 27. They that daub'd with untemper'd Mortar, fail'd not to daub themſelves over with ſomething that made them look not only clean but gay.

2. He reads his juſt Doom. God ſhall ſmite thee, ſhall bring upon thee his ſore Judgements, eſpecially Spiritual Judgements. Grotius thinks this was fulfill'd ſoon after his Removal from the Office of the High Prieſt, either by Death or Deprivation, for he finds another in that Office a little while after this; probably he was ſmitten by ſome ſudden Stroke of Divine Vengeance. Jeroboam's Hand was wither'd when it was ſtretch'd out againſt a Prophet.

3. He aſſigns a good Reaſon for that Doom; for ſitteſt thou there as Preſident in the ſupreme Judicature of the Church, pretending to judge me after the Law, to convict and condemn me by the Law, and yet commandeſt me to be ſmitten, before any Crime is prov'd upon me, which is contrary to the Law? No Man muſt be beaten unleſs he was worthy to be beaten, Deut. xxvi. 2. 'Tis againſt all Law, Humane and Divine, Natural and Poſitive, to hinder a Man from making his Defence, and to condemn him unheard. When Paul was beaten by the Rabble, He could ſay, Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do; but it is inexcuſable in a High Prieſt that is appointed to judge according to Law.

Fourthly, The Offence which was taken at this bold Word of Paul's, v. 4. They that ſtood by ſaid, Revileſt thou God's High Prieſt? 'Tis probably conjectur'd, that thoſe who blam'd Paul for what he ſaid were believing Jews, who were zealous for the Law, and conſequently for the Honour of the High Prieſt; and therefore took it heinouſly that Paul ſhould thus reflect upon him, and check'd him for it. See here then,

1. What a hard Game Paul had to play, when his Friends were abuſive to him, and his Friends were ſo far from ſtanding by him, and appearing for him, that they were ready to find Fault with his Management.

2. How apt even the Diſciples of Chriſt themſelves are to overvalue outward Pomp and Power. As, becauſe the Temple had been God's Temple, and a magnificent Structure, there were thoſe that follow'd Chriſt, that could not bear to have any Thing ſaid that threaten'd the Deſtruction of it; ſo, becauſe the High Prieſt had been GOD's High Prieſt, and was a Man that made a Figure, tho' he was an inveterate Enemy to Chriſtianity, yet theſe were diſguſted at Paul for giving him his due.

Fifthly, The Excuſe that Paul made for what he had ſaid, becauſe he found it was a ſtumbling Block to his weak Brethren, and might prejudice them againſt him in other Things. Theſe Jewiſh Chriſtians tho' weak, yet were Brethren, ſo he calls them here, and in Conſideration of that, is almoſt ready to recall his Words; for who is offended, ſaith he, and I burn not? 2 Cor. xi. 29. His fixed Reſolution was rather to abridge himſelf in the Uſe of his Chriſtian Liberty, than give Offence to a weak Brother; rather than do it, he will eat no Fleſh while the World ſtands, 1 Cor. viii. 13. And ſo here, tho' he had taken a Liberty to tell the High Prieſt his own, yet when he found it gave Offence, he cry'd Peccavi, wiſh'd he had not done it; and tho' he did not beg the High Prieſt's Pardon, nor excuſe it to him, yet he begs their Pardon who took Offence at it, becauſe this was not a Time to inform them better, nor to ſay what he could ſay to juſtify himſelf.

1. He excuſeth it with this, that he did not conſider, when he ſaid it, whom he ſpoke to, v. 5. I wiſt not, Brethren, that he was the High Prieſt, οὐκ ᾔδειν, I did not juſt then think of the Dignity of his Place, or elſe I would have ſpoken more reſpectfully to him. I ſee not how we can with any probability think that Paul did not know him to be the High Prieſt, for Paul had been Seven Days in the Temple at the Time of the Feaſt, where he could not miſs of ſeeing the High Prieſt; and his telling him that he ſate to judge him after the Law, ſhews that he knew who he was; but, ſaith he, I did not conſider it. Dr. Whitby puts this Senſe upon it; That the Prophetical Impulſe that was upon him, and inwardly mov'd him to ſay what he did, did not permit him to advert that it was the High Prieſt, leaſt this Law might have reſtrain'd him from complying with that Impulſe, but the Jews acknowledg'd that Prophets might uſe a Liberty in ſpeaking of Rulers which others might not, as Iſa. i. 10, 23. Or, (as he quotes the Senſe of Grotius and Lightfoot) Paul doth not go about to excuſe what he had ſaid in the leaſt, but rather to juſtify it; I own that God's High Prieſt is not to be revil'd, but I do not own this Ananias to be High-Prieſt; he is an Uſurper, he came to the Office by Bribery and Corruption; and the Jewiſh Rabbins ſay that he who doth ſo is neither a Judge, nor to be honour'd as ſuch, Yet,

2. He takes Care that what he had ſaid ſhould not be drawn into a Precedent, to the weakening the Obligation of that Law in the leaſt; for it is written, and it remains a Law in full force, Thou ſhalt not ſpeak Evil of the Ruler of thy People. It is for the publick Good that the Honour of Magiſtracy ſhould be ſupported, and not ſuffer for the Miſcarriages of thoſe that are intruſted with it; and therefore that a Decorum be obſerv'd in ſpeaking both of and to Princes and Judges; even in Job's Time it was not thought fit to ſay to a King, thou art wicked, or to Princes, you are ungodly, Job xxxiv. 18. even when we do well and ſuffer for it, we muſt take it patiently, 1 Pet. iii. 20. Not as if great Men may not hear of their Faults, and publick Grievances be complain'd of by proper Perſons, and in a decent Manner; but there muſt be a particular Tenderneſs for the Honour and Reputation of thoſe in Authority more than of other People, becauſe the Law of God requires a particular Reverence to be paid to them as God's Vice-gerents; and it is of dangerous Conſequence to have thoſe any Way countenanc'd, who deſpiſe Dominions and ſpeak Evil of Dignities, Jude v. 8. Curſe not the King, no not in thy Thought, Eccl. x. 20.

6 But when Paul perceived that the one part were Sadduces and the other Phariſees, he cried out in the council, Men and brethren, I am a Phariſee, the ſon of a Phariſee, of the hope and reſurrection of the dead, I am called in queſtion. 7 And when he had ſo ſaid, there aroſe a diſſention between the Phariſees and Sadduces, and the multitude was divided. 8 For the Sadduces ſay that there is no reſurrection, neither angel nor ſpirit; but the Phariſees confeſs both. 9 And there aroſe a great cry: and the ſcribes that were of the Phariſees part aroſe, and ſtrove, ſaying, We find no evil in this man: but if a ſpirit or an angel hath ſpoken to him, let us not fight againſt God. 10 And when there aroſe a great diſſention, the chief captain fearing leſt Paul ſhould have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the Soldiers to go down. and to take him by force from among them, and to bring him into the caſtle. 11 And the night following, the Lord ſtood by him, and ſaid, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou haſt teſtifyed of me in Jeruſalem, ſo muſt thou bear witneſs alſo at Rome.

Many are the Troubles of the Righteous, but ſome way or other the Lord delivereth them out of them all: Paul own'd he had experienc'd the Truth of this in the Perſecutions he had undergone among the Gentiles, ſee 2 Tim. iii. 11. out of them all the Lord deliver'd me. And now he finds, that he that has deliver'd, doth, and will. He that deliver'd him in the foregoing Chapter from the Tumult of the People, here delivers him from that of the Elders.

Firſt, His own Prudence and Ingenuity ſtands him in ſome ſtead, and contributes much to his Eſcape. Paul's greateſt Honour, and that upon which he moſt valu'd himſelf was, that he was a Chriſtian, and an Apoſtle of Chriſt, and all his other Honours he deſpiſed and made nothing of, in compariſon with thoſe, counting them but dung that he might win Chriſt, and yet he had ſometimes occaſion to make uſe of his other Honours, and they did him Service. His being a Citizen of Rome, ſav'd him in the foregoing Chapter from being whipt by the Chief Captain as a Vagabond: And here his being a Phariſee ſav'd him from being condemn'd by the Sanhedrin, as an Apoſtate from the Faith and Worſhip of the God of Iſrael. 'Twill conſiſt very well with our Willingneſs to ſuffer for Chriſt, to uſe all lawful Methods, nay, and Arts too, both to prevent Suffering, and to extricate ourſelves out of it.

The honeſt Policy Paul us'd here for his own Preſervation was to divide his Judges, and to ſet them at variance one with another about him; and by incenſing one Part of them more againſt him, to engage the contrary Part for him.

1. The great Council was made up of Sadduces and Phariſees, and Paul perceiv'd it; He knew the Characters of many of them, ever ſince he liv'd among them, and ſaw thoſe among them whom he knew to be Sadduces, and others whom he knew to be Phariſees, v. 6. One Part were Sadduces, and the other Phariſees, and perhaps near an equal Part. Now theſe differ'd very much from one another, and yet they ordinarily agreed well enough to do the Buſineſs of the Council together.

(1.) The Phariſees were Bigots, zealous for the Ceremonies, not only thoſe which God had appointed, but thoſe which were enjoyn'd by the Tradition of the Elders; They were great ſticklers for the Authority of the Church, and enforcing Obedience to it's Injunctions, which occaſion'd many Quarrels between them and our Lord Jeſus; but at the ſame Time they were very Orthodox in the Faith of the Jewiſh Church concerning the World of Spirits, the Reſurrection of the Dead, and the Life of the World to come.

(2.) The Sadduces were Deiſts; no Friends to the Scripture, or Divine Revelation. The Books of Moſes they admitted as containing a good Hiſtory, and a good Law, but had little regard to the other Books of the Old Teſtament, ſee Matth. xxii. 22. The Account here given of theſe Sadduces is, (1.) That they deny the Reſurrection, not only the Return of the Body to Life, but a future State of Rewards and Puniſhments; They had neither Hope of Eternal Happineſs, nor dread of Eternal Miſery, nor Expectation of any Thing on t'other ſide Death; and it was upon theſe Principles that they ſaid, It is in vain to ſerve GOD, and call'd the Proud happy, Mal. iii. 14, 15. (2.) That they deny'd the Exiſtence of Angels and Spirits, and allow'd of no Being but Matter. They thought that God himſelf was corporeal, and had Parts and Members as we have. When they read of Angels in the Old Teſtament, they ſuppos'd them to be Meſſengers that God made and ſent on his Errands as there was occaſion; or that they were Impreſſions on the Fancies of thoſe they were ſent to, and no real Exiſtences; that were this or that, or any Thing rather than what they were. And as for the Souls of Men they look'd upon them to be nothing elſe but the Temperament of the Humours of the Body; or, the Animal Spirits, but deny'd their Exiſtence in a State of Separation from the Body, and any difference between the Soul of a Man and of a Beaſt. Theſe no doubt pretended to be Free-Thinkers, but really thought as meanly, abſurdly, and ſlaviſhly as poſſible. It is ſtrange how Men of ſuch corrupt and wicked Principles could come into Office, and have a Place in the great Sanhedrin; but many of them were of Quality and Eſtate, and they comply'd with the publick Eſtabliſhment, and ſo got in, and kept in. But they were generally ſtigmatiz'd as Hereticks, were rank'd with the Epicureans, and were pray'd againſt, and excluded from eternal Life. The Prayer which the modern Jews uſe againſt Chriſtians, Whitſius thinks was deſign'd by Gamaliel who made it, againſt the Sadduces; and that they meant them in their uſual Imprecation, Let the Name of the Wicked rot. But how degenerate was the Character, and how miſerable the State of the Jewiſh Church when ſuch prophane Men as theſe were among their Rulers?

2. In this Matter of Difference between the Phariſees and Sadduces, Paul openly declar'd himſelf to be on the Phariſees Side, againſt the Sadduces, v. 6. He cry'd out, ſo as to be heard by all, I am a Phariſee, was bred a Phariſee, nay, I was born one in Effect, for I am the Son of a Phariſee, my Father was one before me, and thus far I am ſtill a Phariſee, that I hope for the Reſurrection of the Dead, and I may truly ſay, that if the Matter were rightly underſtood it would be found, this was it for which I was now call'd in Queſtion. When Chriſt was upon Earth the Phariſees ſet themſelves moſt againſt him, becauſe he witneſſed againſt their Traditions and corrupt Gloſſes upon the Law: But after his Aſcenſion the Sadduces ſet themſelves moſt againſt his Apoſtles, becauſe they preached through Jeſus the Reſurrection of the Dead, Acts iv. 1, 2. And it is ſaid, chap. v. 17. that they were the Sect of the Sadduces, that were filled with Indignation at them, becauſe they preach'd that Life and Immortality which is brought to Light by the Goſpel. Now here,

(1.) Paul owns himſelf a Phariſee ſo far as the Phariſees were in the right. Tho' as Phariſaiſm was oppos'd to Chariſtianity, he ſet himſelf againſt it, and againſt all its Traditions that were ſet up in competition with the Law of God, or in contradiction to the Goſpel of Chriſt, but as it was oppos'd to Sadduciſm, he adher'd to it. We muſt never think the worſe of any Truth of God, nor be more ſhy of our owning it for its being held by Men otherwiſe corrupt. If the Phariſees will hope for the Reſurrection of the Dead, Paul will go along with them in that Hope, and be one of them whether they will or no.

(2.) He might truly ſay, that being perſecuted as a Chriſtian, this was the Thing he was call'd in Queſtion for; perhaps he knew that the Sadduces, tho' they had not ſuch an Intereſt in the common People as the Phariſees had, yet had underhand incens'd the Mob againſt him, under pretence of his having preach'd to the Gentiles, but really becauſe he had preach'd the Hope of the Reſurrection. However, being call'd in Queſtion for his being a Chriſtian he might truly ſay, he was call'd in Queſtion for the Hope of the Reſurrection of the Dead, as he afterwards pleaded, chap. xxiv. 15. and chap. xxvi. 6, 7. Tho' Paul preach'd againſt the Traditions of the Elders, as his Maſter had done, and therein oppos'd the Phariſees, yet he valu'd himſelf more upon his Preaching for the Reſurrection of the Dead, and a future State in which he concurr'd with the Phariſees.

3. This occaſion'd a Diviſion in the Council: 'Tis probable the High Prieſt ſided with the Sadduces, as he had done, chap. v. 17. and made it to appear by his Rage at Paul, v. 2. which alarm'd the Phariſees ſo much the more, but ſo it was, there aroſe a Diſſenſion between the Phariſees and the Sadduces, v. 7. for this Word of Paul's made the Sadduces more warm, and the Phariſees more cool in the Proſecution of him; ſo that the Multitude was divided, ἐσχίσθη, There was a Schiſm, i. e. a Quarrel among them, and the Edge of their Zeal began to turn from Paul againſt one another; nor could they go on to act againſt him when they could not agree among themſelves, or proſecute him for breaking the Unity of the Church, when there was ſo little among them of the Unity of the Spirit. All the Cry had been againſt Paul, but now there aroſe a great Cry againſt one another, v. 9. ſo much did a fierce furious Spirit prevail among all Orders of the Jews at this Time, that every Thing was done with Clamour and Noiſe, and in ſuch a tumultuous Manner were the great Principles of their Religion ſtickled for, by which they receiv'd little Service; for the Wrath of Man worketh not the Righteouſneſs of GOD. Gain-ſayers may be convinc'd by fair Reaſoning, but never by a great Cry.

4. The Phariſees hereupon (would one think it) took Paul's Part, v. 9. they ſtrove, διεμάχοντο, they fought, ſaying, we find no Evil in this Man: He had carry'd himſelf decently and reverently in the Temple, and had attended the Service of the Church, and though it was but Occaſionally, yet it ſhew'd that he was not ſuch an Enemy to it as he was ſaid to be; he had ſpoken very handſomely in his own Defence, and given a good Account of his Principles of Religion, as well as been regular and conſcientious in his Converſation, and therefore they cannot ſee he has done any Thing worthy of Death or of Bonds. Nay, they go further, if a Spirit or an Angel hath ſpoken to him concerning Jeſus, and put him upon preaching as he doth, tho' we may not be ſo far ſatisfy'd as to give Credit to him, yet we ought to be caution'd not to oppoſe him, leſt we be found fighting againſt God, as Gamaliel, who was him ſelf a Phariſee had argued, chap. v. 39. Now here,

(1.) We may obſerve it to the Honour of the Goſpel, that it was witneſſed to even by its Adverſaries, and Confeſſions not only of its Innocency, but of its Excellency, were extorted ſometimes by the Power of Truth, even from thoſe that perſecuted it. Pilate found no Fault in Chriſt tho' he put him to Death, nor Feſtus in Paul, though he continu'd him in Bonds; and the Phariſees here ſuppos'd it poſſible that Paul might have a Commiſſion ſent down from Heaven by an Angel to do what he did, and yet it ſhould ſeem as Elders they after this joyn'd with the High Prieſt in proſecuting him, chap. xxiv. 1. They Sinn'd againſt the Knowledge which they not only had, but ſometimes own'd as Chriſt had ſaid of them, they have both ſeen and hated both me and my Father, John xv. 24.

Yet (2.) We will hope that ſome of them at leaſt did from henceforward conceive a better Opinion of Paul than they formerly had, and were favourable to him, having had ſuch a ſatisfactory Account both of his Converſation in all good Conſcience, and of his Faith touching another World; and then it muſt be obſerv'd to their Honour, that their Zeal for the Traditions of the Elders, which Paul had departed from, was ſo far ſwallow'd up in a Zeal for the great and fundamental Doctrines of Religion, to which Paul ſtill adher'd, that if he will heartily joyn with them againſt the Sadduces, and ſtick to the Hope of the Reſurrection of the Dead, they will not think his ſhaking off the Ceremonial-Law, to be any Evil in him, but charitably Hope that he Walks according to the Light God has given him by ſome Angel or Spirit, and are ſo far from perſecuting him that they are ready to patronize and protect him. The perſecuting Phariſees of the Church of Rome are not of this Spirit; for let a Man be never ſo ſincere and zealous for all the Articles of the Chriſtian Faith, yet if he lay not his Neck under the Yoke of their Churches Authority, they find Evil enough in him to perſecute him unto Death.

Secondly, The chief Captain's Care and Conduct ſtands him in more ſtead; for when he had thrown this Bone of Contention between the Phariſees and Sadduces, which had ſet them together by the Ears, and had gain'd a fair Teſtimony from the Phariſees, yet he is never the nearer, but is in danger of being pull'd in Pieces by them: The Phariſees pulling to have him ſet at Liberty, and the Sadduces pulling to have him put to Death, or thrown to the People, like Daniel into the Den of Lyons; ſo that the chief Captain was forc'd to come with his Soldiers and reſcue him, as he had done, chap. xxi. 32. and chap. xxii. 24.

1. See here Paul's Danger; Between his Friends and his Enemies he had like to have been pull'd to pieces, the one hugging him to Death, the other cruſhing him to Death, ſuch Violences are they liable to that are eminent, and that are become remarkable as Paul was, who was by ſome much belov'd, and by others ſo much maligned.

2. His Deliverance. The chief Captain order'd his Soldiers to go down from the upper Wards, and to take him by force from among them, out of that Apartment in the Temple where he had order'd the Council to meet, and bring him into the Caſtle, or Tower of Antonia; for he ſaw he could make nothing of them towards the Underſtanding of the Merits of his Cauſe.

Thirdly, Divine Conſolations ſtood him in moſt ſtead of all: The chief Captain had reſcu'd him out of the Hands of cruel Men, but ſtill he had him in Cuſtody, and what might be the Iſſue, he could not tell; the Caſtle was indeed a Protection to him, but withal it was a Confinement: And as it was now his Preſervation from ſo great a Death, it might be his Reſervation for a greater. We do not find that any of the Apoſtles or Elders at Jeruſalem came to him, either they had not Courage, or they had not Admiſſion. Perhaps in the Night following, Paul was full of Thoughts and Cares what ſhould become of him, and how his preſent Thoughts might be turn'd to anſwer ſome good Purpoſe. Then did the Lord Jeſus make him a kind Viſit, and tho' at Midnight, yet a very ſeaſonable one, v. 11. The Lord ſtood by him; came to his Bed-ſide, though perhaps it was but a Bed of Straw, to ſhew him that he was all the Day long with him really, as ſure as he was in the Night with him viſibly. Note, Whoever is againſt us, we need not fear, if the LORD ſtand by us, if he undertake our Protection, we may ſet thoſe that ſeek our Ruin at Defiance. The Lord is with thoſe that uphold my Soul, and then nothing can come amiſs.

1. Chriſt bids him have a good Heart on it; Be of good Chear, Paul; Be not diſcourag'd, let not what has happen'd ſadden thee, nor let what may yet be before thee frighten thee. Note, It is the Will of Chriſt, that his Servants that are faithful, ſhould be always chearful. Perhaps Paul in the Reflection, began to be jealous of himſelf, Whether he had done well in what he ſaid to the Council the Day before, but Chriſt by his Word ſatisfies him, that God approv'd of his Conduct. Or perhaps, it troubled him that his Friends did not come to him, but Chriſt's Viſit did itſelf ſpeak, tho' he had not ſaid it, Be of good Chear, Paul.

2. 'Tis a ſtrange Argument which he makes uſe of to encourage him; As thou haſt teſtify'd of me in Jeruſalem, ſo muſt thou bear Witneſs alſo at Rome. One would think this was but cold Comfort; as thou haſt undergone a great deal of Trouble for me, ſo thou muſt undergo a great deal more; and yet this was deſign'd to hearten him; for hereby he is given to underſtand, (1.) That he had been ſerving Chriſt as a Witneſs for him in what he had hitherto endur'd. It was for no Fault that he was buffeted, and that it was not his former perſecuting of the Church, that was now remembred againſt him, however he might remember it againſt himſelf, but was ſtill going on with his Work. (2.) That he had not yet finiſhed his Teſtimony, nor was by his Impriſoment laid aſide as uſeleſs, but was only reſerv'd for further Service. Nothing diſhearten'd Paul ſo much as the Thought of being taken off from doing Service to Chriſt, and Good to Souls: Fear not, ſaith Chriſt, I have not done with thee. (3.) Paul ſeems to have had a particular Fancy, and an innocent one, to go to Rome, to preach the Goſpel there, though it was already preach'd, and a Church planted there; yet being a Citizen of Rome, he long'd for a Journey thither, and had deſign'd it, chap. xix. 21. After I have been at Jeruſalem, I muſt alſo ſee Rome. And he had written to the Romans ſome Time ago, that he long'd to ſee them, Rom. i. 11. Now he was ready to conclude, that this had broke his Meaſures, and he ſhould never ſee Rome. But even in that Chriſt tells him he ſhould be gratify'd, ſince he deſir'd it for the Honour of Chriſt, and to do Good.

12 And when it was day certain of the Jews banded together, and bound themſelves under a curſe, ſaying, that they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul. 13 And they were more than forty which had made this conſpiracy. 14 And they came to the chief prieſts and elders, and ſaid, We have bound our ſelves under a great curſe, that we will eat nothing until we have ſlain Paul. 15 Now therefore ye with the council ſignifie to the chief captain, that he bring him down unto you to morrow, as though you would enquire ſomething more perfectly concerning him: and we or ever he come near, are ready to kill him. 16 And when Paul's ſiſter's ſon heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered into the caſtle, and told Paul. 17 Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and ſaid, Bring this young man unto the chief captain: for he hath a certain thing to tell him. 18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and ſaid, Paul the priſoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath ſomething to ſay unto thee. 19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aſide privately, and asked him, What is it that thou haſt to tell me? 20 And he ſaid, The Jews have agreed to deſire thee, that thou wouldeſt bring down Paul to morrow into the council, as though they would enquire ſomewhat of him more perfectly. 21 But do thou not yield unto them: for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themſelves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now they are ready, looking for a promiſe from thee. 22 So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man, that thou haſt ſhewed theſe things to me. 23 And he called unto him two centurions, ſaying, make ready two hundred ſoldiers to go to Ceſarea, and horſemen threeſcore and ten, and ſpearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night. 24 And provide them beaſts, that they may ſet Paul on, and bring him ſafe unto Felix the governor. 25 And he wrote a letter after this manner: 26 Claudius Lyſias, unto the moſt excellent governor Felix, ſendeth greeting. 27 This man was taken of the Jews, and ſhould have been killed of them: then came I with an army, and reſcued him, having, underſtood that he was a Roman. 28 And when I would have known the cauſe whereof they accuſed him, I brought him forth into their council: 29 Whom I perceived to be accuſed of queſtions of their law, but to have nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds. 30 And when it was told me, how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I ſent ſtraightway to thee, and gave commandment to his accuſers alſo, to ſay before thee what they had againſt him. Farewel. 31 Then the ſoldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul and brought him by night to Antipatris, 32 On the morrow they left the horſemen to go with him, and returned to the caſtle. 33 Who when they came to Ceſarea, and delivered the epiſtle to the governor, preſented Paul alſo before him. 34 And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he underſtood that he was of Cilicia; 35 I will hear thee, ſaid he, when thine accuſers are alſo come. And commanded him to be kept in Herod's judgement-hall.

We have here the Story of a Plot againſt the Life of Paul; how it was laid, how it was diſcover'd, and how it was defeated.

Firſt, How this Plot was laid. They found they could gain nothing by popular Tumult, or legal Proceſs, and therefore have Recourſe to the barbarous Method of Aſſaſſination; they will come upon him ſuddenly and ſtab him, if they can but get him within their Reach; ſo reſtleſs is their Malice againſt this good Man, that when one Deſign fails, they will turn another Stone. Now obſerve here,

1. Who they were that form'd this Conſpiracy: They were certain Jews that had the utmoſt Degree of Indignation againſt him becauſe he was the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, v. 12. And they were more than forty that were in the Deſign, v. 13. Lord, how are they increas'd that trouble me!

2. When the Conſpiracy was form'd; When it was Day: Satan had fill'd their Hearts in the Night to purpoſe it, and as ſoon as it was Day they got together to proſecute it; anſwering the Account which the Prophet gives of ſome who work Evil upon their Beds, and when the Morning is light they practiſe it, and are laid under a Wo for it, Mic. ii. 1. In the Night Chriſt appear'd to Paul to protect him, and when it was Day, here were forty Men appearing againſt him to deſtroy him; They were not up ſo ſoon, but Chriſt was up before them; GOD ſhall help her, and that right early, Pſal. xlvi. 5.

3. What the Conſpiracy was. Theſe Men banded together in a League, perhaps they call'd it a holy League, they engag'd to ſtand by one another, and every One to his Power to be aiding and aſſiſting to murder Paul. 'Twas ſtrange that ſo many could ſo ſoon be got together, and that in Jeruſalem too, that were ſo perfectly loſt to all Senſe of Humanity and Honour, as to engage in ſo bloody a Deſign. Well might the Prophet's Complaint be renew'd concerning Jeruſalem, Iſa. i. 21. Righteouſneſs had lodg'd in it, but now Murtherers. What a monſtrous Idea muſt theſe Men have form'd of Paul, before they could be capable of Forming ſuch a monſtrous Deſign againſt him; they muſt be made to believe that he was the worſt of Men, an Enemy to God and Religion, and the Curſe and Plague of his Generation; when really his Character was the Reverſe of all this. What Laws of Truth and Juſtice ſo ſacred, ſo ſtrong, which Malice and Bigottry will not break through!

4. How firm they made it, as they thought, that none of them might fly off upon Conſcience of the Horror of the Fact at ſecond Thoughts; They bound themſelves under an Anathema, imprecating the heavieſt Curſes upon themſelves, their Souls, Bodies and Families, if they did not kill Paul, and ſo quickly, that they would not eat or drink till they had done it. What a Complication of Wickedneſs is here! To deſign to kill an innocent Man, a good Man, a uſeful Man, a Man that had done them no Harm, but was willing to do them all the Good he could, was going in the Way of Cain, and ſpoke them to be of their Father the Devil, who was a Murtherer from the Beginning; yet as if this had been a ſmall Matter, (1.) They bound themſelves to it; To incline to do Evil and intend to do it, is bad; but to engage to do it, is much worſe. This is entring into Covenant with the Devil; 'tis ſwearing Allegiance to the Prince of Darkneſs; 'tis leaving no Room for Repentance; nay, 'tis bidding Defiance to it. (2.) They bound one another to it, and did all they could not only to ſecure the Damnation of their own Souls, but of theirs whom they drew into the Aſſociation. (3.) They ſhew'd a great Contempt of the Providence of GOD, and a Preſumption upon it; in that they bound themſelves to do ſuch a Thing within ſo ſhort a Time, as they could continue faſting, without any Proviſo or Reſerve for the Diſpoſal of an over-ruling Providence. When we ſay to Mrorow we will do this or that, be it never ſo lawful and good, for as much as we know not what ſhall be on the Morrow, we muſt add, if the Lord will. But with what Face could they inſert a Proviſo for the Permiſſion of God's Providence, when they knew what they were about was directly againſt the Prohibitions of God's Word?

(4.) They ſhew'd a great Contempt of their own Souls and Bodies; of their own Souls in imprecating a Curſe upon them if they did not proceed in this deſperate Enterprize; what a woful Dialemma did they throw themſelves upon; God certainly meets them with his Curſe if they do go on in it, and they deſire he would, if they do not. And of their own Bodies too (for wilful Sinners are the Deſtroyers of both) in tying themſelves up from the neceſſary Supports of Life till they had accompliſh'd a Thing which they could never lawfully do, and perhaps not poſſibly do. Such Language of Hell they ſpeak, that wiſh God to damn them, and the Devil to take them if they do not do ſo and ſo. As they love Curſing, ſo it ſhall come upon them. Some think the Meaning of this Curſe was, they would either kill Paul, as an Achan, an accurſed Thing, a Troubler of the Camp; or if they did not do it, they would make themſelves accurſed before God in his ſtead. (5.) They ſhew'd a moſt eager Deſire to compaſs this Matter, and an Impatience till it was done. Not only like David's Enemies that were mad againſt him, and ſworn againſt him, Pſal. cii. 8. but like the Servants of Job againſt his Enemy, O that we had of his Fleſh, we cannot be ſatisfy'd, Job xxxi. 37. Perſecutors are ſaid to eat up God's People, as they eat Bread; 'tis as much a Gratification to them, as Meat to One that is hungry, Pſal. xiv. 4.

5. What Method they took to bring it about. There's no getting near Paul in the Caſtle, he is there under the particular Protection of the Government, and is impriſon'd not as others are, leſt he ſhould do harm, but leſt he ſhould have harm done to him. And therefore the Contrivance is, That the chief Prieſts and Elders muſt deſire the Governour of the Caſtle to let Paul come to them to the Council-Chamber, to be further examin'd; they have ſome Queſtions to ask him, or ſomething to ſay to him, and then in his Paſſage from the Caſtle to the Council they would put an end to all Diſputes about Paul, by killing him. Thus the Plot was laid, v. 14, 15. having been all Day employ'd in engaging one another to this Wickedneſs, towards Evening they come to the principal Members of the great Sanhedrin, and tho' they might have conceal'd their main Deſign, and yet might have mov'd them upon ſome other Pretence to ſend for Paul, they are ſo confident of their Approbation of this Villany, that they are not aſham'd or afraid to own to them, that they have bound themſelves under a great Curſe, without conſulting the Prieſts firſt, whether they might lawfully do it, that they will eat nothing the next Day till they have kill'd Paul; they deſign to Breakfaſt the next Morning upon his Blood; they doubt not but the chief Prieſts will not only countenance them in the Deſign, but will lend them a helping Hand, and be their Tools to get them an Opportunity of killing Paul; nay, and tell a Lye for them too, pretending to the chief Captain that they would enquire ſomething more perfectly concerning him, when they meant no ſuch Thing. What a mean, what an ill Opinion had they of their Prieſts when they could apply to them on ſuch an Errand as this? And yet as Vile as the Propoſal was which was made to them, for ought appears, the Prieſts and Elders conſented to it, and at the firſt Word, without boggling at it in the leaſt, promis'd to gratify them. Inſtead of reproving them, as they ought, for their wicked Conſpiracy, they bolſter'd them up in it, becauſe it was againſt Paul whom they hated: And thus they made themſelves Partakers of the Crime, as much as if they had been the firſt in the Conſpiracy.

Secondly, How the Plot was diſcover'd. We do not find that the Plotters tho' they took an Oath of Fidelity, took an Oath of Secrecy, either becauſe they thought it did not need, they would every one keep his own Counſel; Or, becauſe they thought they could accompliſh it, tho' it ſhould take Wind and be known; but Providence ſo order'd it, that it was brought to Light, and ſo as effectually to be brought to nought. See here,

1. How it was diſcover'd to Paul, v. 16. They was a Youth, that was related to Paul, his Siſter's Son, whoſe Mother probably liv'd in Jeruſalem, and ſome how or other, we are not told how, he heard of their lying in wait, either over-heard them talking of it among themſelves, or got Intelligence from ſome that were in the Plot; and he went into the Caſtle, probably as he us'd to do to attend on his Uncle, and bring him what he wanted, which gave him a free acceſs to him; and he told Paul what he heard. Note, God has many Ways of bringing to light the hidden Works of Darkneſs; tho' the Contrivers of them dig deep to hide them from the Lord. He can make a Bird of the Air to carry the Voice, Eccl. x. 20. or the Conſpirators own Tongues to betray themſelves.

2. How it was diſcover'd to the chief Captain by the Young Man that told it Paul. This Part of the Story is related very particularly, perhaps becauſe the Penman was an Eye-witneſs of the prudent and ſucceſsful Management of this Affair, and remember'd it with a deal of Pleaſure. (1.) Paul had got a good Intereſt in the Officers that attended, by his prudent, peaceable Deportment: He could call one of the Centurions to him, tho' a Centurion was one in Authority that had Soldiers under him, and us'd to call, not to be call'd to; and he was ready to come at his Call, v. 17. And he deſir'd that he would introduce this young Man to the chief Captain to give in an Information of ſomething that concern'd the Honour of the Government. (2.) The Centurion very readily gratify'd him, v. 18. He did not ſend a common Soldier with him, but went himſelf, to keep the young Man in Countenance, to recommend this Errand to the chief Captain, and to ſhew his Reſpects to Paul. Paul the Priſoner, that was his Title now, call'd me to him, and pray'd me to bring this young Man to thee: What his Buſineſs is I know not; but he hath ſomething to ſay to thee. Note, It is true Charity to poor Priſoners to act for them, as well as to give to them. I was ſick, and in Priſon, and you went on an Errand for me, will paſs as well in the Account, as I was ſick and in Priſon, and you came unto me, to viſit me, or ſent me a Token. Thoſe that have Acquaintance and Intereſt, ſhould be ready to uſe it for the Aſſiſtance of thoſe that are in Diſtreſs. This Centurion help'd to ſave Paul's Life by this Piece of Civility, which ſhould engage us to be ready to do the like when there is Occaſion. Open thy Mouth for the Dumb, Prov. xxxi. 8. Thoſe that cannot give a good Gift to God's Priſoners, may yet ſpeak a good Word for them. (3.) The chief Captain receiv'd the Information with a great deal of Condeſcenſion and Tenderneſs, v. 19. He took the young Man by the Hand, as a Friend or Father, to encourage him, that he might not be daſh'd out of Countenance, but might be aſſur'd of a favourable Audience. The Notice that is taken of this Circumſtance, ſhould encourage great Men to make themſelves eaſy of Acceſs to the Meaneſt upon any Errand which may give them an Opportunity of doing Good; to condeſcend to them of low Eſtate. This Familiarity to which this Roman Tribune or Colonel admitted Paul's Nephew, is here upon Record to his Honour. Let no Man think he diſparageth himſelf by his Humility, or Charity. He went with him aſide privately, that none might hear his Buſineſs, and ask'd him, What is it that thou haſt to tell me? Tell me wherein I can be ſerviceable to Paul. 'Tis probable, the chief Captain was the more obliging in this Caſe, becauſe he was ſenſible he had run himſelf into a Præmunire in binding Paul againſt his Privilege as a Roman-Citizen, which he was willing now to atone for. (4.) The young Man deliver'd his Errand to the chief Captain very readily and handſomely, v. 20, 21. The Jews, (he doth not ſay who, leſt he ſhould invidiouſly reflect upon the Chief Prieſts and the Elders, and his Buſineſs was to ſave his Uncle's Life, not to accuſe his Enemies) have agreed to deſire thee that thou would'ſt bring down Paul to Morrow into the Council, preſuming that being ſo little a Way, thou wilt ſend him without a Guard; but do not thou yield unto them, we have Reaſon to believe thou wilt not when thou knoweſt the Truth, for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty Men, who have ſworn to be the Death of him, and now are they ready looking for a Promiſe from thee, but I have happily got the ſtart of them. Laſtly, The Captain diſmiſs'd the young Man with a charge of Secrecy, See that thou tell no Man that thou haſt ſhew'd theſe Things unto me, v. 22. The Favours of great Men, are not always to be bragg'd of; and thoſe that cannot keep Counſel, are not fit to be employ'd in Buſineſs. If it ſhould be known that the chief Captain had this Information brought him, perhaps they would compaſs and imagine the Death of Paul ſome other Way; therefore keep it private.

Thirdly, How the Plot was defeated. The chief Captain finding how implacable and inveterate the Malice of the Jews was againſt Paul, and how reſtleſs they were in their Deſigns to do him a Miſchief, and how near he now was to become himſelf acceſſory to it as a Miniſter, reſolves to ſend him away with all ſpeed out of their reach. He receiv'd the Intelligence with Horror and Indignation, at the Baſeneſs and Bloody-mindedneſs of theſe Jews; and ſeems afraid leſt if he ſhould continue Paul in his Caſtle here, under never ſo ſtrong a Guard, they would find ſome Way or other to compaſs their End notwithſtanding, either beat the Guards, or burn the Caſtle; and whatever came of it, he would if poſſible protect Paul, becauſe he look'd upon it that he did not deſerve ſuch Treatment. What a melancholy Obſervation is it, That the Jewiſh chief Prieſts when they knew of this Aſſaſſination Plot, ſhould countenance it, and aſſiſt in it, while a Roman chief Captain, purely from a natural Senſe of Juſtice and Humanity, when he knows it, ſets himſelf to baffle it, and puts himſelf to a deal of Trouble to do it effectually?

1. He orders a conſiderable Detachment of the Roman Forces, under his Command, to get ready to go to Cæſarea, with all Expedition, and to bring Paul thither to Felix the Governour, where he might ſooner expect to have Juſtice done him than by the great Sanhedrin at Jeruſalem. I ſee not but the chief Captain might without any Unfaithfulneſs to the Duty of his Place have ſet Paul at Liberty, and given him Leave to ſhift for his own Safety; for he was never legally committed to his Cuſtody, as a Criminal, and he himſelf owns, that nothing was laid to his Charge worthy of Bonds, v. 29. And he ought to have had the ſame Tenderneſs for his Liberty that he had for his Life: But he fear'd that would have incens'd the Jews too much againſt him. Or perhaps, finding Paul to be a very extraordinary Man, he was proud to have him his Priſoner, and under his Protection, and the mighty Parade with which he ſent him off, intimates as much: Two Centurions, or Captains of Hundreds are employ'd in this Buſineſs, v. 23, 24. They muſt get ready two Hundred Soldiers, probably thoſe under their own Command, to go to Cæſarea. And with theſe ſeventy Horſe, and two hundred Spearmen, beſide which, ſome think, were the chief Captain's Guards: Whether they were Horſe or Foot, is not certain, moſt probably Foot, as Pikemen for the Protection of the Horſe. See how juſtly God brought the Jewiſh Nation under the Roman Yoke, when ſuch a Party of the Roman Army was neceſſary to reſtrain them from the moſt execrable Villanies. There needed not all this Force, there needed not any of it to keep Paul from being reſcu'd by his Friends; ten times this Force would not have kept him from being reſcu'd by an Angel, if it had pleas'd God to work his Deliverance that Way, as he had ſometimes done. But (1.) The chief Captain deſign'd hereby to expoſe the Jews, as a headſtong, tumultuous People, that would not be kept within the Bounds of Duty and Decency by the ordinary Miniſters of Juſtice, but needed to be aw'd by ſuch a Train as this: And hearing how many were in the Conſpiracy againſt Paul, he thought leſs would not ſerve to defeat their Attempt. (2.) God deſign'd hereby to encourage Paul; for being thus attended he was not only kept ſafe in the Hands of his Friends, but out of the Hands of his Enemies: Yet Paul did not deſire ſuch a Guard, no more than Ezra did, Ezra viii. 22. and for the ſame Reaſon, becauſe he truſted God's All-ſufficiency; but it was owing to the Governour's own Care. But he was alſo made conſiderable; thus his Bonds in Chriſt were made manifeſt all the Country over, Phil. i. 13. And ſo great an Honour having been put upon them before by the Prediction of them, 'twas agreeable enough that they ſhould be thus honourably attended, that the Brethren in the LORD might wax more confident by his Bonds, when they ſaw him rather guarded as the Patriot of his Country, than guarded againſt as the Peſt of his Country, and ſo great a Preacher, made ſo great a Priſoner.

When his Enemies hate him, and I doubt his Friends neglect him, than doth a Roman Tribune patronize him, and carefully provide, (1.) For his Eaſe; Let them provide Beaſts, that they may ſet Paul on. Had his Jewiſh Perſecutors been to order his Remove by Habeas Corpus to Cæſarea, they would have made him run on Foot, or dragg'd him thither in a Cart or on a Sledge, or have Hors'd him behind one of the Troopers: But the chief Captain treats him like a Gentleman, tho' he was his Priſoner, and orders him a good Pad to ride upon, not at all afraid that he ſhould ride away. Nay, the Order being that they ſhould provide not a Beaſt, but Beaſts to ſet Paul on, we muſt either ſuppoſe that he was allow'd ſo great a piece of State as to have a led-Horſe, or more, that if he did not like one he might take another: Or, (as ſome Expoſitors conjecture) that he had Beaſts aſſign'd him for his Friends and Companions, as many as pleas'd to go along with him, or to divert him in his Journey, and to miniſter to him. (2.) For his Security; They have a ſtrict Charge given them by their Commander in chief, to bring him ſafe to Felix the Governour, to whom he is conſign'd, and who was Supreme in all Civil Affairs among the Jews, as this chief Captain was in Military Affairs. The Roman Hiſtorians ſpeaks much of this Felix, as a Man of mean Extraction, but that rais'd himſelf by his Shifts, to be Governour of Judea, in the Execution of which Office Tacitus, Hiſt. v. ſays of him, per omnem ſævitiam ac libidinem jus regium ſervili ingenio exercuit; He us'd Royal Power with a ſervile Genius. To the Judgement of ſuch a Man as this is poor Paul turn'd over; and yet better ſo, than in the Hands of Ananias the High Prieſt. Now a Priſoner thus upon his Deliverance by Courſe of Law, ought to be protected as well as a Prince.

The chief Captain orders for the greater Security of Paul, that he be taken away at the third Hour of the Night; which ſome underſtand of three Hours after Sun-ſet, that it being now ſoon after the Feaſt of Pentecoſt, that is, in the Midſt of Summer, they might have the Cool of the Night to march in: Others, of three Hours after Midnight, in the third Watch, about three in the Morning, that they might have the Day before them, and might get out of Jeruſalem before Paul's Enemies were ſtirring, and ſo might prevent any popular Tumult, and leave them to roar when they roſe, like a Lyon diſappointed of his Prey.

2. He writes a Letter to Felix the Governour of this Province, by which he diſchargeth himſelf from any further Care about Paul, and leaves the whole Matter with Felix. This Letter is here inſerted totidem Verbis, v. 26. 'Tis probable, Luke the Hiſtorian had a Copy of it by him, having attended Paul in this Remove.

Now in this Epiſtle, we may Obſerve,

1. The Complements he paſſeth upon the Governour, v. 26. He is the moſt excellent Governour, Felix, this Title being given him of Courſe, His Excellency, &c. he ſends him greeting, wiſheth him all Health and Poſperity; may he rejoyce, ever rejoyce.

2. The juſt and fair Account which he gives him of Paul's Caſe. (1.) That he was one that the Jews had a mighty Pique againſt; They had taken him, and would have kill'd him, and perhaps Felix knew the Temper of the Jews ſo well, that he did not think much the worſe of him for that, v. 27. (2.) That he had protected him, becauſe he was a Roman; when they were about to kill him, I came with an Army, i. e. a conſiderable Body of Men, and reſcu'd him, which Action of a Citizen of Rome would recommend him to the Roman Governour. (3.) That he could not underſtand the Merits of his Cauſe, nor what it was that made him ſo odious to the Jews, and obnoxious to their Ill-will. He took the proper Method to know, he brought him forth into their Council, v. 28. to be examin'd there, hoping that either from their Complaints, or his own Confeſſions, he ſhould learn ſomething of the Ground of all this Clamour, but found that he was accus'd of Queſtions of their Law, v. 29. about the Hope of the Reſurrection of the Dead, v. 6. This chief Captain was a Man of Senſe and Honour, and had good Principles in him of Juſtice and Humanity, and yet ſee how ſlightly he ſpeaks of another World, and the great Things of that World; as if that were a Queſtion which is of undoubted Certainty, and which both Sides agreed in, except the Sadduces: And as if that were a Queſtion only of their Law, which is of the utmoſt Concern to all Mankind. Or perhaps, he refers rather to their Queſtion about their Rituals, than about their Doctrinals, and the Quarrel he perceiv'd they had with him, was for leſſening the Credit and Obligation of their Ceremonial Law, which he look'd upon as a Thing not worth ſpeaking of. The Romans allow'd the Nations they conquer'd the Exerciſe of their own Religion, and never offer'd to impoſe theirs upon them; yet as Conſervators of the publick People, they would not ſuffer them under Colour of their Religion, to abuſe their Neighbours. (4.) That thus far he underſtood, that there was nothing laid to his Charge, worthy of Death or of Bonds, much leſs prov'd, or made out againſt him. The Jews had by their Wickedneſs made themſelves odious to the World, had polluted their own Honour, and prophan'd their own Crown, had brought Diſgrace upon their Church, their Law, and their Holy Place, and then they cry out againſt Paul, as having diminiſh'd the Reputation of them; and was this a Crime worthy of Death or of Bonds?

3. His referring of Paul's Caſe to Felix, v. 30. When it was told me how that the Jews laid wait for the Man, to kill him without any legal Proceſs againſt him, I ſent ſtraightway to thee; who art the moſt proper Perſon to hear the Cauſe, and give Judgement upon it; and his Accuſers go after him if they pleaſe, and ſay before thee what they have againſt him; for being bred a Soldier, I'll never pretend to be a Judge. And ſo Farewel.

4. Paul is accordingly conducted to Cæſarea: The Soldiers got him ſafe out of Jeruſalem by Night, and left the Conſpirators to conſider whether they ſhould eat and drink or no, before they had kill'd Paul; and if they would not repent of the Wickedneſs of their Oath, as it was againſt Paul, they were now at Leiſure to repent of the Raſhneſs of it as it was againſt themſelves: And if any of them did ſtarve themſelves to Death in Conſcience of their Oath, and Vexation at their Diſappointment, they fell unpity'd. Paul was conducted to Antipatris, which was ſeventeen Miles from Jeruſalem, and about the Midway to Cæſarea, v. 31. From thence the two hundred Foot-Soldiers and the two hundred Spear-men return'd back to Jeruſalem, to their Quarters in the Caſtle; for having brought Paul out of Danger, there needed not ſo ſtrong a Guard, but the Horſemen might ſerve to bring him to Cæſarea, and would do it with more Expedition. This they did not only to ſave their own Labour, but their Maſter's Charge: And is an Example to Servants, not only to act obediently according to their Maſter's Orders, but to act prudently, ſo as may be for their Maſter's Intereſt.

4. He was deliver'd into the Hands of Felix, as his Priſoner, v. 33. The Officers preſented the Letter, and Paul with it to Felix, and ſo diſcharg'd themſelves of their Truſt, Paul had never affected Acquaintance or Society with great Men, but with the Diſciples where-ever he came: Yet Providence over-rules his Sufferings ſo as by them to give him an Opportunity of Witneſſing to Chriſt before great Men; and ſo Chriſt had foretold concerning his Diſciples, That they ſhould be brought before Rulers and Kings for his Sake, for a Teſtimony againſt them, Mark xiii. 9. The Governour enquir'd of what Province of the Empire the Priſoner originally was; and was told, that he was a Native of Cilicia, v. 34. And (1.) He promiſes him a ſpeedy Tryal, v. 35. I will hear thee when thine Accuſers are come; and will have an Ear open to both Sides, as becomes a Judge. (2.) He order'd him into Cuſtody, that he ſhould be kept a Priſoner in Herod's Judgement-Hall; in ſome Apartment belonging to that Palace, which was denominated from Herod the Great, who built it. There he had Opportunity of acquainting himſelf with the great Men that attended the Governour's Court, and no doubt he improv'd what Acquaintance he got there, to the beſt Purpoſes.

CHAP. XXIV.

We left Paul a Priſoner at Cæſarea, in Herod's Judgement-Hall, expecting his Tryal to come on quickly; for in the Beginning of his Impriſonment his Affairs mov'd very quick, but afterwards, very ſlow. In this Chapter we have his Arraignment and Tryal before Felix the Governour, at Cæſarea. Here's (1.) The Appearing of the Proſecutors againſt him, and the Setting the Priſoner to the Bar, v. 1, 2. (2.) The Opening the Indictment againſt him by Tertullus, who was of Counſel for the Proſecutors, and the Aggravating of the Charge with Abundance of Complements to the Judge, and Malice to the Priſoner, v. 2.—8. (3.) The Corroborating of the Charge by the Teſtimony of the Witneſſes, or rather, the Proſecutors themſelves, v. 9. (4.) The Priſoner's Defence, in which, with all due Deference to the Governour, v. 10. He denies the Charge, and challengeth them to prove it, v. 11—13. Owns the Truth, and makes an unexceptionable Profeſſion of his Faith, which he declares was it that they hated him for, v. 14.—16. And gives a more particular Account of what had paſs'd from the firſt ſeizing of him, challenging them to inſtance in any ill that they had found him in, v. 17——21. (5.) The Adjourning of the Cauſe, and the Continuing of the Priſoner in Cuſtody, v. 22, 23. (6.) The private Converſation that was between the Priſoner and the Judge, by which the Priſoner hoped to do Good to the Judge, and the Judge to get Money by the Priſoner, but both in vain, v. 24---26. (7.) The lengthning out of Paul's Impriſonment for Two Years, till another Governour came, v. 27. where he ſeems as much neglected, as there had been ado about him.

AND after five days, Ananias the high prieſt deſcended with the elders, and with a certain Orator named Tertullus, who informed the governour againſt Paul. 2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuſe him, ſaying; Seeing that by thee we enjoy great quietneſs, and that very worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence, 3. We accept it always, and in all places, moſt noble Felix, with all thankfulneſs. 4 Notwithſtanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee, that thou wouldſt here us of thy clemency a few words. 5 For we have found this man a peſtilent fellow, and a mover of ſedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ring-leader of the ſect of the Nazarenes: 6 Who alſo hath gone about to profane the temple: whom we took, and would have judged according to our law: 7 But the chief captain Lyſias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands, 8 Commanding his accuſers to come unto thee: by examining of whom, thy ſelf mayeſt take knowledge of all theſe things, whereof we accuſe him. 9 And the Jews alſo aſſented, ſaying, that theſe things were ſo.

We muſt ſuppoſe that Lyſias the Chief Captain, when he had ſent away Paul to Cæſarea, gave Notice to the Chief Prieſts, and others that appear'd againſt Paul, that if they had any Thing to accuſe him of, they muſt follow him to Cæſarea, and there they would find him, and a Judge ready to hear them; thinking, perhaps, they would not have given themſelves ſo much Trouble: But what will not Malice do?

Firſt, We have here the Cauſe follow'd againſt Paul, and it is vigorouſly carry'd on.

1. Here's no Time loſt; for they are ready for a Hearing after five Days. All other Buſineſs is laid aſide immediately to proſecute Paul; ſo intent are evil Men to do Evil. Some reckon theſe five Days from Paul's being firſt ſeiz'd, and with moſt probability, for he ſaith here, v. 11. that it was but twelve Days ſince he came up to Jeruſalem, and he had ſpent ſeven in his purifying in the Temple; ſo that theſe five muſt be reckon'd from the laſt of thoſe.

2. Thoſe that had been his Judges, do themſelves here appear as his Proſecutors. Ananias himſelf the High Prieſt, who had ſitten to judge him, now ſtands to inform againſt him. One would wonder (1.) That he ſhould thus diſparage himſelf, and forget the Dignity of his Place. Shall the High Prieſt turn Informer and leave all his Buſineſs in the Temple at Jeruſalem, to go to be call'd as a Proſecutor in Herod's Judgement Hall. Juſtly did God make the Prieſts contemptible, and baſe, when they made themſelves ſo, Mal. ii. 9. (2.) That he ſhould thus diſcover himſelf, and his Enmity againſt Paul; if Men of the firſt Rank have a Malice againſt any, they think it Policy to employ others againſt them, and to play leaſt in Sight themſelves, becauſe of the Odium that commonly attends it; but Ananias is not aſham'd to own himſelf a ſworn Enemy to Paul. The Elders attended him, to ſignify their Concurrence with him, and to invigorate the Proſecution; for they could not find any Attorneys or Sollicitors that would follow it with ſo much Violence as they would have it. The Pains that evil Men take in an evil Matter, their Contrivances, their Condeſcentions, and their unweari'd Induſtry, ſhould ſhame us out of our Coldneſs, and Backwardneſs, and Indifferency in that which is Good.

Secondly, We have here the Cauſe pleaded againſt Paul: The Proſecutors brought with them a certain Orator nam'd Tertullus, a Roman, skill'd in the Roman Law and Language, and therefore fitteſt to be employ'd in a Cauſe before the Roman Governour, and moſt likely to gain Favour: The High Prieſt and Elders, tho' they had their own Hearts ſpiteful enough, did not think their own Tongues ſharp enough; and therefore retain'd Tertullus, who probably was noted for a Satyrical Wit, to be of Counſel for them: and no doubt they gave him a good Fee, probably out of the Treaſury of the Temple, which they had the Command of; it being a Cauſe wherein the Church was concern'd, and therefore muſt not be ſtarv'd.

Paul is ſet to the Bar before Felix the Governour; he was called forth, v. 2. And Tertullus's Buſineſs is on the Behalf of the Proſecutors to open the Information againſt him, and he is a Man that will ſay any Thing for his Fee. Mercenary Tongues will do ſo. No Cauſe ſo unjuſt, but can find Advocates to plead it; and yet we hope many Advocates ſo juſt, as not knowingly to patronize an unrighteous Cauſe; but Tertullus was none of thoſe; his Speech (or at leaſt an Abſtract of it, for it appears by Tully's Orations, that the Roman Lawyers on ſuch Occaſions, us'd to make long Harangues) is here reported; and it is made up of Flattery and Falſehood; it calls Evil Good, and Good Evil.

1. One of the worſt of Men is here applauded as one of the beſt of Benefactors, only becauſe he was the Judge. Felix is repreſented by the Hiſtorians of his own Nation, as well as by Joſephus the Jew, as a very ill Man, that depending upon the Intereſt of the Court, allow'd himſelf in all manner of Wickedneſs, was a great Oppreſſor, very cruel and very covetous, patronizing and protecting Aſſaſſines, Joſeph. Antiq. l. 20. c. 6. And yet Tertullus here in the Name of the High Prieſt and Elders, and probably by particular Directions from them, and according to the Inſtructions of his Breviate, complements him, and extols him to the Sky, as if he were ſo good a Magiſtrate as never was the like. And this comes the worſe from the High Prieſt and the Elders, becauſe he had given a late Inſtance of his Enmity to their Order; for Jonathan the High Prieſt, or one of the Chief Prieſts, having offended him by too free an Invective againſt the Tyranny of his Government, he got him murther'd by ſome Villains, whom he hired for that Purpoſe; and who afterwards did the like for others, as they were hir'd. Cujus facinoris quia nemo ultor extitit, invitati hac licentia ſicarii multos confodiebant, alios propter privatas inimicitias, alios conducti pecunia——Etiam in ipſo Templo. And yet to engage him to gratify their Malice againſt Paul, and to return them that Kindneſs for their Kindneſs in overlooking all this, they magnify him as the greateſt Bleſſing to their Church and Nation that ever came among them.

(1.) They are very ready to own it, v. 2. By thee we, of the Church, enjoy great Quietneſs, and we look upon thee as our Patron and Protector; and very worthy Deeds are done from Time to Time, to the whole Nation of the Jews, by thy Providence, thy Wiſdom, and Care, and Vigilance. To give him his due, he had been inſtrumental to ſuppreſs the Inſurrection of that Egyptian whom the Chief Captain ſpoke of, Chap. xxi. 38. But will the Praiſe of that ſcreen him from the juſt Reproach of his Tyranny and Oppreſſion afterwards? See here (1.) The Unhappineſs of great Men, and a great Unhappineſs it is, to have their Services magnify'd beyond Meaſure, and never to be faithfully told of their Faults; and hereby they are harden'd and encouraged in Evil. (2.) The Poſſicy of ill Men, by flattering Princes in what they do amiſs, to draw them in to do worſe. The Biſhops of Rome got to be confirm'd in their exorbitant Church Power, and have been aſſiſted in perſecuting the Servants of Chriſt, by flattering and careſſing Uſurpers and Tyrants, and ſo making them the Tools of their Malice, as the High Prieſt by his Compliments deſign'd to make Felix here.

(2.) They promiſe to retain a grateful Senſe of it, v. 3. We accept it always, and in all Places, every where, and at all Times, we embrace it, we admire it, moſt Noble Felix, with all Thankfulneſs. We will be ready upon any Occaſion to witneſs for thee, that thou art a wiſe and good Governour, and very ſerviceable to the Country. And if it had been true that he was ſuch a Governour, it had been juſt that they ſhould thus accept his good Offices with all Thankfulneſs. The Benefits which we enjoy by Governours, is what we ought to be thankful for both to God and Man. This is Part of the Honour due to Magiſtrates, to acknowledge the Quietneſs we enjoy under the Protection, and the worthy Deeds done by their Prudence.

(3.) They therefore expect his Favour in this Cauſe, v. 4. They pretend a great Care not to intrench upon his Time, we will not be further tedious to thee, and yet to be very confident of his Patience, I pray thee, that thou wouldeſt hear us of thy Clemency a few Words. All this Addreſs is only ad captandam Benevolentiam, to induce him to give Countenance to their Cauſe, and they were ſo conſcious to themſelves, that it would ſoon appear to have more Malice than Matter in it, that they found it neceſſary thus to inſinuate themſelves into his Favour. Every Body knew that the High Prieſt and the Elders were Enemies to the Roman Government, and were uneaſy under all the Marks of that Yoke, and therefore in their Hearts hated Felix. and yet to gain their Ends againſt Paul, they by their Council ſhew him all this Reſpect; as they did to Pilate and Cæſar when they were perſecuting our Saviour. Princes cannot always judge of the Affection of their People by their Applauſes. Flattery is one Thing, and true Loyalty is another.

2. One of the beſt of Men is here accus'd, as one of the worſt of Malefactors, only becauſe he was the Priſoner. After a flouriſh of Flattery, in which you cannot ſee Matter for Words, he comes to Buſineſs; and it is to inform his Excellency concerning the Priſoner at the Bar; and this Part of his Diſcourſe is as nauſeous for its Raillery, as the former Part is for its Flattery. I pity the Man, and believe he has no Malice againſt

Paul, nor doth he think as he ſpeaks in Calumniating him, any more than he did in courting Felix; but as I cannot but be ſorry that a Man of Wit and Senſe ſhould have ſuch a ſaleable Tongue (as one calls it) ſo I cannot but be angry at thoſe dignify'd Men that had ſuch malicious Hearts as to put ſuch Words into his Mouth.

Two Things Tertullus here complains of to Felix, in the Name of the High Prieſt and Elders.

1. That the Peace of the Nation was diſturb'd by Paul; They could not have baited Chriſt's Diſciples if they had not firſt dreſs'd them up in the Skins of Wild Beaſts, nor have given them as they did the vileſt of Treatment, if they had not firſt repreſented them as the vileſt of Men; tho' the Characters they gave of them were abſolutely falſe, and there was not the leaſt Colour or Foundation for them. Innocency, nay, Excellency and Uſefulneſs are no Fence againſt Calumny, no, nor againſt the Impreſſions of Calumny upon the Minds both of Magiſtrates and Multitudes to excite their Fury and Jelouſy; for, be the Repreſentation never ſo unjuſt, when it is enforc'd, as here it was, with Gravity and pretence of Sanctity, and with Aſſurance, and Noiſe, ſomething will ſtick. The Old Charge againſt God's Prophets was, That they were the Troublers of the Land, and againſt God's Jeruſalem, that it was a Rebellious City, hurtful to Kings and Princes, Ezr. iv. 15, 19. and againſt our Lord Jeſus, That he perverted the Nation, and forbad to give Tribute to Cæſar; and it is the very ſame againſt Paul here: And tho' utterly falſe, is averr'd with all the Confidence imaginable. They do not ſay, we ſuſpect him to be a dangerous Man, and have taken him up upon that Suſpicion, but, as if the Thing were paſt Diſpute, We have found him to be ſo; we have often and long found him ſo; as if he were a Traytor and Rebel already Convict. And yet after all there's not a Word of Truth in this Repreſentation, but if Paul's juſt Character be enquir'd into, 'twill be found directly the Reverſe of this here.

1. Paul was an uſeful Man, and a great Bleſſing to his Country, a Man of Exemplary Candour and Goodneſs, obliging to all, and provoking to none, and yet he is here call'd a peſtilent Fellow, v. 5. we have found him, λοιμόν, Peſtem, The Plague of the Nation, a walking Peſtilence, which ſuppoſeth him to be a Man of a turbulent Spirit, malicious and ill-natur'd, and one that threw all Things into Diſorder where-ever he came. They would have it thought that he had done more Miſchief in his Time than a Plague could do. That the Miſchief he did was ſpreading and infectious, and that he made others as miſchievous as himſelf; That it was of as fatal Conſequence as the Plague is, killing and deſtroying, and laying all waſte; That it was as much to be dreaded and guarded againſt as a Plague is. Many a good Sermon he had preach'd, and many a good Work he had done, and for thoſe he is called a Peſtilent Fellow.

2. Paul was a Peace-maker, was a Preacher of that Goſpel which has a direct Tendency to ſlay all Enmities, and to eſtabliſh true and laſting Peace; he liv'd peaceably and quietly himſelf, and taught others to do ſo too, and yet is here repreſented as a Mover of Sedition among all the Jews throughout the World. The Jews were diſaffected to the Roman Government; thoſe of them that were moſt bigotted were ſo. This Felix knew, and had therefore a watchful Eye upon them, and they would fain make him believe that this Paul was the Man that made them ſo, whereas they themſelves were the Men that ſow'd the Seeds of Faction and Sedition among them, and they knew it; and the Reaſon why they hated Chriſt and Religion, was, becauſe he did not go about to head them in an Oppoſition to the Romans. The Jews were every where much ſet againſt Paul, and ſtir'd up the People to clamour againſt him; they mov'd Sedition in all Places where he came, and then caſt the Blame unjuſtly upon him, as if he had been the Mover of the Sedition; as Nero not long after ſet Rome on Fire, and then ſaid they were the Chriſtians that did it.

3. Paul was a Man of catholick Charity, that did not affect to be ſingular, but made himſelf the Servant of all for their Good, and yet he is here charg'd to be a Ring-leader of the Sect of the Nazarenes: A Standard-bearer of that Sect; ſo the Word ſignifies. when Cyprian was condemn'd to die for being a Chriſtian, this was inſerted in his Sentence, that he was auctor iniqui nominis & ſignifer. Now it was true that Paul was an active leading Man in propagating Chriſtianity. But (1.) It was utterly falſe that that was a Sect; He did not draw People to a Party, or private Opinion, nor did he make his own Opinions their Rule. True Chriſtianity eſtabliſhes that which is of common Concern to all Mankind, publiſheth good Will to Men, and ſhews us God in Chriſt reconciling the World to himſelf, and therefore cannot be thought to take its Riſe from ſuch narrow Opinions, and private Intereſts as Sects owe their Original to. True Chriſtianity has a direct Tendency to the Uniting of the Children of Men, and the gathering of 'em together in One; and as far as it obtains its juſt Power and Influence upon the Minds of Men, will make them meek and quiet, and peaceable and loving, and every Way eaſy and acceptable, and profitable one to another, and therefore is far from being a Sect, which is ſuppos'd to lead to Diviſion, and to ſow Diſcord. True Chriſtianity aims at no wotldly Benefit or Advantage, and therefore muſt by no means be call'd a Sect. Thoſe that eſpouſe a Sect, are govern'd in it by their Secular Intereſt, they aim at Wealth and Honour; but the Profeſſors of Chriſtianity are ſo far from this, that they expoſe themſelves thereby to the Loſs and Ruin of all that is dear to them in this World. (2.) It is invidiouſly call'd the Sect of the Nazarenes, by which Chriſt was repreſented as of Nazareth, whence no good Thing was expected to ariſe; whereas, he was of Bethlehem, where the Meſſiah was to be born. Yet he was pleas'd to call himſelf Jeſus of Nazareth, Acts xxii. 8. And the Scripture has put an Honour on the Name, Matth. ii. 23. And therefore tho' intended for a Reproach, the Chriſtians had no Reaſon to be aſham'd of ſharing with their Maſter in it. (3.) It was falſe that Paul was the Author or Standard-bearer of this Sect; for he did not draw People to himſelf, but to Chriſt; did not preach himſelf but Chriſt Jeſus.

4. Paul had a Veneration for the Temple, as it had been the Place God choſe to put his Name there, and had lately himſelf with Reverence attended the Temple-ſervice, and yet 'tis here charged upon him, That he went about to profane the Temple, and that he deſignedly put Contempt upon it, and violated the Laws of it, v. 6. Their Proof of this fail'd, for the Matter of Fact they alledg'd was utterly falſe, and they knew it, Chap. xxi. 9.

2. That the Courſe of Juſtice againſt Paul, was obſtructed by the Chief Captain.

1. They pleaded, that they took him, and would have judg'd him according to their Law. This was falſe, they did not go about to judge him according to their Law, but contrary to all Law and Equity, went about to beat him to Death, or to pull him to pieces, without hearing what he had to ſay for himſelf; went about under Pretence of having him into their Court, to throw him into the Hands of Ruffians, that lay in wait to deſtroy him. Was this judging him according to their Law? 'Tis eaſy for Men when they know what they ſhould have done, to ſay, that they would have done ſo, when they meant nothing leſs.

2. They reflected upon the Chief Captain as having done them an Injury in reſcuing Paul out of their Hands; whereas, he therein not only did him Juſtice, but them the greateſt Kindneſs that could be, in preventing the Guilt they were bringing upon themſelves. The Captain Lyſias came upon us, and with great Violence (but really no more than was neceſſary) took him out of our Hands, v. 7. See how Perſecutors are enrag'd at their Diſapointments, which they ought to be thankful for. When David in a Heat of Paſſion was going upon a bloody Enterprize, he thank'd Abigail for ſtoping him, and God for ſending her to do it, ſo ſoon did he correct and recover himſelf: But thoſe cruel Men juſtify themſelves, and reckon him their Enemy who kept 'em (as David here ſpeaks) from ſhedding Blood with their own Hands.

3. They referred themſelves to Felix and his Judgement, yet ſeeming uneaſy that they were under a Neceſſity of doing ſo, the Chief Captain obliged them to it, v. 8. 'Twas he that forc'd us to give your Excellency this Trouble, and our ſelves too; for (1.) He commanded his Accuſers to come to thee, that thou mighteſt hear the Charge, when it might as well have been ended in the inferiour Court. (2.) He has left it to thee to examine him, and try what thou canſt get out of him, and whether thou canſt by his Confeſſion come to the Knowledge of thoſe Things which we lay to his Charge.

Thirdly, The Aſſent of the Jews to this Charge which Tertullus exhibited, v. 9. They confirm'd it ſaying, That thoſe Things were ſo.

1. Some think this ſpeaks the Proofs of the Charge by Witneſſes upon Oath, that were examin'd as to the Particulars of it, and atteſted them. And no wonder, if when they had found an Orator that would ſay it, they found Witneſſes that would ſwear it, for Money.

2. It rather ſeems to intimate the Approbation which the High Prieſt and the Elders gave to what Tertullus ſaith: Felix ask'd them, Is this your Senſe, and is it all that you have to ſay? And they anſwered, Yes, it was; and ſo they made themſelves guilty of all the Falſehood that was in his Speech. Thoſe that have not the Wit and Parts to do Miſchief with; that ſome others have, that cannot make Speeches, and hold Diſputes againſt Religion; yet make themſelves guilty of the Miſchiefs that others do, by aſſenting to that which others do, and ſaying, thoſe Things are ſo, repeating, and ſtanding by what is ſaid, to pervert the right Ways of the LORD. Many that have not Learning enough to plead for Baal, yet have Wickedneſs enough to vote for Baal.

10 Then Paul, after that the governour had beckoned unto him to ſpeak, anſwered, Foraſmuch as I know thou haſt been of many years a judge unto this nation, I do the more chearfully anſwer for my ſelf: 11 Becauſe thou mayeſt underſtand, that there are yet but twelve days ſince I went up to Jeruſalem for to worſhip. 12 And they neither found me in the temple diſputing with any man, neither raiſing up the people, neither in their ſynagogues nor in the city: 13 Neither can they prove the things whereof they now accuſe me.

14 But this I confeſs unto thee, that after the way which they call hereſie, ſo worſhip I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and the Prophets. 15 And have hope towards God, which they themſelves alſo allow, that there ſhall be a reſurrection of the dead, both of the juſt and unjuſt. 16 And herein do I exerciſe my ſelf to have always a conſcience void of offence toward God and toward men. 17 Now after many years, I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings. 18 Whereupon certain Jews from Aſia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude nor with tumult. 19 Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought againſt me. 20 Or elſe let theſe ſame here ſay, if they have found any evil-doing in me. while I ſtood before the council. 21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried ſtanding among them, Touching the reſurrection of the dead, I am called in queſtion by you this day.

We have here Paul's Defence of himſelf in Anſwer to Tertullus's Charge, and there appears in it a great deal of the Spirit of Wiſdom and Holineſs, and an Accompliſhment of Chriſt's Promiſe to his Followers, That when they were brought before Governors and Kings for his Sake, it ſhould be given them in that ſame Hour what they ſhould ſpeak. Tho' Tertullus had ſaid a great many provoking Things, yet Paul did not interrupt him, but let him go on to the End of his Speech, according to the Rules of Decency, and the Method in Courts of Juſtice, that the Plaintiff be allow'd to finiſh his Evidence before the Defendant begins his Plea. And when he had done, he did not preſently fly out into paſſionate Exclamations againſt the Iniquity of the Times and the Men, O tempora, O mores! but he waited for a Permiſſion from the Judge to ſpeak in his Turn, and had it. The Governor beckon'd to him to ſpeak, v. 10. And now he alſo may have Leave to ſpeak out, under the Protection of the Governor, which was more than he could obtain yet. And when he did ſpeak, he made no Reflections at all upon Tertullus; he knew he ſpoke for his Fee, and therefore deſpis'd what he ſaid, and level'd his Defence againſt thoſe that employ'd him. And here, Firſt, He addreſſeth himſelf very reſpectfully to the Governor, and with a Confidence that he would do him Juſtice. Here are no ſuch flattering Complements as Tertullus ſooth'd him up with, but, which was more truly reſpectful, a Profeſſion that he Anſwer'd for himſelf chearfully, and with good Aſſurance before him, looking upon him, tho' not as One that was his Friend, yet as One that would be fair and impartial. He thus expreſſeth his Expectation that he would be ſo, to engage him to be ſo. It was likewiſe the Language of One that was conſcious to himſelf of his own Integrity, and whoſe Heart did not reproach him, whoever did: He did not ſtand trembling at the Bar, but very chearful when he had One to be his Judge that was not a Party, but an indifferent Perſon. Nay, when he conſiders who his Judge is, he Anſwers the more chearfully, And why ſo? He doth not ſay, Becauſe I know thee to be a Judge of inflexible Juſtice and Integrity, that hateſt Bribes, and in giving Judgment feareſt GOD, and regardeſt not Man; for he could not juſtly ſay this of him, and therefore would not ſay it, tho' it were to gain his Favour never ſo much; but, I the more chearfully Anſwer for my ſelf, becauſe I know thou haſt been many Years a Judge, to this Nation; And that was very true. And being ſo,

1. He could ſay of his own Knowledge, that there had not formerly been any Complaints againſt Paul; ſuch Clamours as they rais'd, are generally againſt old Offenders; but tho' he had long ſitten Judge there, he never had Paul brought before him yet, till now, and therefore he was not ſo dangerous a Criminal as he was repreſented to be.

2. He was well acquainted with the Jewiſh Nation, and with their Temper and Spirit, he knew how they were bigotted to their own Way, what furious Zealots they were againſt all that did not comply with them, how peeviſh and perverſe they generally were, and therefore would make Allowances for that in their Accuſation of him, and not regard that which he had reaſon to think came ſo much from Party Malice. Tho' he did not know him, he knew his Perſecutors, and by that might gueſs what manner of Man he was.

Secondly, He denies the Facts that he was charg'd with, upon which their Character of him was grounded. Moving Sedition and profaning the Temple, were the Crimes for which he ſtood Indicted, Crimes which they knew the Roman Governors did not uſe to enquire into, and therefore hop'd that the Governor would return him back to them to be judg'd by their Law, and that was all they wiſhed for: But Paul deſires, that tho' he would not enquire into the Crimes, he would protect One that was unjuſtly charg'd with them, from thoſe whom he knew to be ſpiteful and ill natur'd enough. Now he would have him to underſtand, and what he ſaid, he was ready if requir'd to make out by Witneſſes.

1. That he came up to Jeruſalem on Purpoſe to worſhip GOD in Peace and Holineſs, ſo far was he from any Deſign to move Sedition, among the People, or to profane the Temple. He came to keep up his Communion with the Jews, not to put any Affront upon them.

2. That it was but twelve Days ſince he came up to Jeruſalem, and he had been ſix Days a Priſoner; He was alone, and it could not be ſuppos'd that in ſo ſhort a Time, he could do the Miſchief they charg'd upon him. And as for what he had done in other Countries, they know nothing of it, but by uncertain Report, by which the Matter was very unfairly repreſented.

3. That he had demean'd himſelf at Jeruſalem very quietly and peaceably, and had made no manner of Stir. If it had been true what they alledg'd, That he was a mover of Sedition among all the Jews; ſure he would have been induſtrious to make a Party at Jeruſalem, but he did not do ſo. He was in the Temple, attending the publick Service there; he was in the Synagogues where the Law was read and open'd; he went about in the City among his Relations and Friends, and convers'd freely in their Places of Concourſe, and he was a Man of a great Genius, and an active Spirit; and yet they could not charge him with offering any Thing either againſt the Faith or againſt the Peace of the Jewiſh Church. (1.) He had nothing in him of a contradicting Spirit, as the Movers of Sedition have; he had no diſpoſition to quarrel or oppoſe, they never found him diſputing with any Man, either affronting the Learned with captious Cavils, or perplexing the Weak and Simple with curious Subtilties; he was ready if ask'd, to give a Reaſon of his own Hope, and to give Inſtruction to others, but he never pick'd a Quarrel with any Man about his Religion, nor made that the Subject of Debate and Controverſy, and perverſe Diſpute, which ought always to be treated of with Humility and Reverence, with Meekneſs and Love. (2) He had nothing in himſelf of a turbulent Spirit; They never found me raiſing up the People, by incenſing them againſt their Governors in Church and State, or ſuggeſting to them Fears and Jealouſies concerning publick Affairs; or by ſetting them at Variance one with another, or ſowing Diſcord among them. He carry'd it as became a Chriſtian and a Miniſter, with Love and Quietneſs, and due Subjection to lawful Authority. The Weapons of his Warfare were not carnal, nor did he ever mention or think of ſuch a Thing as taking up Arms for the Propagating of the Goſpel, or the Defence of the Preachers of it; tho' he could have made perhaps as ſtrong a Party among the common People as his Adverſaries, yet he never attempted it.

4. That as to what they had charg'd him with of moving Sedition in other Countries he was wholly innocent, and they could not make good the Charge, v. 13. Neither can they prove the Things whereof they now accuſe me. Hereby (1.) He maintains his own Innocency; for when he ſaith, they cannot prove it, he means the Matter is not ſo. He was no Enemy to the Publick Peace, he had done no real Prejudice, but a great deal of real Service, and would gladly have done more to the Nation of the Jews: And was ſo far from having any Antipathy to them, that he had the ſtrongeſt Affection imaginable for them, and a moſt paſſionate Deſire of their Welfare, Rom. ix. 1, 2. (2.) He bemoans his own Calamity, that he was accus'd of thoſe Things which could not be prov'd againſt him. And it has often been the Lot of very worthy good Men to be thus injur'd, to have Things laid to their Charge which they are at the greateſt Diſtance from, and abhor the Thought of. But while they are lamenting this Calamity, this may be their Rejoycing, even the Teſtimony of their Conſciences concerning their Integrity. (3.) He ſhews the Iniquity of his Proſecutors, who ſaid that which they knew they could not prove, and thereby did him wrong in his Name, Liberty, and Life, and did the Judge wrong too in impoſing upon him, and doing what in them lay to pervert his Judgment. (4.) He appeals to the Equity of his Judge, and awakens him to look about him that he might not be drawn into a Snare by the Violence of the Proſecution. The Judge muſt give Sentence ſecundum allegata & propata, according to that which is not only alledg'd, but prov'd, and therefore muſt enquire and make ſearch, and ask diligently, Whether the Thing be true and certain, Deut. xiii. 14. he cannot otherwiſe give a right Judgment.

Thirdly, He gives a fair and juſt Account of himſelf, which doth at once both clear him from Crime, and likewiſe intimate what was the true Reaſon of their Violence in Perſecuting him.

1. He acknowledges himſelf to be One whom they look'd upon as an Heretick, and that was the reaſon of their Spleen againſt him. The chief Captain had obſerv'd, and the Governor now cannot but obſerve an uncommon Violence and Fury in his Perſecutors, which they know not what to make of, but gueſſing at the Crime by the Cry, conclude he muſt needs have been a very ill Man, only for that Reaſon; now Paul here unriddles the Matter, I confeſs, that in the way which they call Hereſy, or a Sect, ſo worſhip I the God of my Fathers. The Controverſy is in a Matter of Religion, and ſuch Controverſies are commonly manag'd with moſt Fury and Violence. Note, It is no new Thing for the right Way of Worſhipping GOD, to be call'd Hereſy; and for the beſt of GOD's Servants to be ſtigmatiz'd and run down as Sectaries. The Reformed Churches are call'd Heretical Ones by thoſe who themſelves hate to be Re- form'd, and are themſelves Hereticks. Let us therefore never be driven off from any good Way, by its being put into an ill Name; for true and pure Chriſtianity is never the worſe, nor to be the worſe thought of for its being call'd Hereſy; no, not tho' it be call'd ſo by the High Prieſt and the Elders.

2. He vindicates himſelf from this Imputation; They call Paul a Heretick, but he is not ſo; For,

1. He worſhips the God of his Fathers, and therefore is right in the Object of his Worſhip; He doth not ſay, Let us go after other Gods, which we have not known, and let us ſerve them, as the falſe Prophet is ſuppoſed to do, Deut. xiii. 2. If ſo they might juſtly call his Way Hereſy, a drawing of them aſide into a By-path, and a dangerous one; but he worſhips the God of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, not only the GOD whom they worſhipp'd, but the GOD that took them into Covenant with himſelf, and was and would be call'd their GOD. Paul adheres to that Covenant, and ſets up no other in oppoſition to it. The Promiſe made unto the Fathers, Paul preach'd as fulfill'd to the Children, Acts xiii. 32, 33. and ſo directed both his own and others Devotions to GOD, as the God of their Fathers. He alſo refers to the Practice of all his pious Anceſtors; I worſhip the ſame GOD that all my Fathers worſhip'd; His Religion was ſo far from being chargeable with Novelty, that it glory'd in its Antiquity: and in an uninterrupted Succeſſion of its Profeſſors. Note, It is very comfortable in our worſhipping God, to have an Eye to Him as the God of our Fathers. Our Fathers truſted in him, and were own'd by him, and he engag'd to be their God, and the God of their Seed. He approv'd himſelf theirs, and therefore if we ſerve Him, as they did, He will be ours; what an Emphaſis is laid upon that, He is my Father's GOD, and I will exalt him, Exod. xv. 2.

2. He believes all Things which are written in the Law and the Prophets, and therefore is right in the Rule of his Worſhip; His Religion is grounded upon, and govern'd by the Holy Scriptures; they are his Oracle, and Touch-ſtone, and he ſpeaks and acts according to them. He receives the Scriptures entire, and believes all Things that are there written; and he receives them pure, for he ſaith no other Things but what are contain'd in them; as he explains himſelf, chap. xxvi. 22. He ſets not up any other Rule of Faith or Practice but the Scriptures, not Tradition, nor the Authority of the Church, or the Infallibility of any Man or Company of Men on Earth, not the Light within, or Human Reaſon, but Divine Revelation as it is in the Scripture, is that which he reſolves to live and dye by, and therefore he is not a Heretick.

3. He has his Eye upon a future State, and is a believing Expectant of that, and therefore is right in the End of his Worſhip. They that turn aſide to Hereſy, have a regard to this World, and ſome Secular Intereſts, but Paul aims to make Heaven of his Religion, and neither more or leſs, v. 15. I have hope towards GOD, all my Expectation is from Him, and therefore all my Deſire is towards Him, and all my Dependance upon Him; my Hope is towards GOD, and not towards the World; towards another World, and not towards this, I depend upon GOD and upon his Power, that there ſhall be a Reſurrection of the Dead, at the End of Time, of all, both the Juſt and Unjuſt; and the great Thing I aim at in my Religion is to obtain a joyful and happy Reſurrection, a ſhare in the Reſurrection of the Juſt. Obſerve here,

(1.) That there ſhall be a Reſurrection of the Dead, the dead Bodies of Men, of all Men from the Beginning to the End of Time; It is certain, not only that the Soul doth not die with the Body, but that the Body itſelf ſhall live again; we have not only another Life to live when our preſent Life is at an End; but there is to be another World, which ſhall commence when this World is at an End, into which all the Children of Men muſt enter at once by a Reſurrection from the Dead, as they enter'd into this one after another by their Birth.

(2.) It ſhall be a Reſurrection both of the Juſt and of the Unjuſt; the ſanctify'd and the unſanctify'd; of thoſe that did well, and to them our Saviour has told us, that it will be a Reſurrection of Life; and of thoſe that did evil, and to them it will be a Reſurrection of Condemnation, Joh. v. 29. See Dan xii. 2. This implies that it will be a Reſurrection to a final Judgment, by which all the Children of Men will be determin'd to everlaſting Happineſs or Miſery in a World of Retribution, according to what they were, and what they did, in this State of Probation and Preparation. The Juſt ſhall riſe by Virtue of their Union with Chriſt as their Head; the Unjuſt ſhall riſe by Virtue of Chriſt's Dominion over them as their Judge.

(3.) GOD is to be depended upon for the Reſurrection of the Dead; I have Hope towards GOD, and in GOD that there ſhall be a Reſurrection; It ſhall be effected by the Almighty Power of GOD, in performance of the Word which GOD hath ſpoken; ſo that they who doubt of it, betray their Ignorance both of the Scriptures, and of the Power of GOD, Matth. xxii. 29.

(4.) The Reſurrection of the Dead, is a Fundamental Article of our Creed, as it was alſo of that of the Jewiſh Church; 'Tis what they themſelves alſo allow; nay, It was the expectation of the Ancient Patriarchs, witneſs Job's Confeſſion of his Faith; but it is more chearfully reveal'd, and more fully confirm'd by the Goſpel, and therefore they who believ'd it, ſhould have been thankful to the Preachers of the Goſpel for their Explications and Proofs of it, inſtead of oppoſing them.

(5.) In all our Religion we ought to have an Eye to the other World, and to ſerve GOD in all Inſtances with a Confidence in Him, that there will be a Reſurrection of the Dead, doing all in Preparation for that, and expecting our Recompence in That.

4. His Converſation is of a piece with his Devotion, v. 16. And herein do I exerciſe myſelf to have always a Conſcience void of Offence towards GOD and towards Men. Prophets, and their Doctrine, were to be try'd by their Fruits. Paul was far from having made ſhipwrack of a good Conſcience, and therefore 'tis not likely he has made ſhipwrack of the Faith, the Myſtery of which is beſt held in a pure Conſcience. This Proteſtation of Paul's is to the ſame Purpoſe with that which he made before the High Prieſt, chap. xxiii. 1. I have liv'd in all good Conſcience, And this was his Rejoycing. Obſerve,

(1.) What was Paul's Aim and Deſire; To have a Conſcience void of Offence. Either (1.) A Conſcience not offending, not informing me wrong, or flattering me, or dealing deceitfully with me, or in any Thing miſleading me. Or (2.) A Conſcience not offended; 'Tis like Job's Reſolution. My Heart ſhall not reproach me, i. e. I will never give it any Occaſion to do ſo. This is what I am ambitious of, to keep upon good Terms with my own Conſcience, that it may have no Cauſe either to queſtion the goodneſs of my Spiritual State, or to quarrel with me for any particular Action. I am as careful not to offend my Conſcience, as I am not to offend a Friend whom I daily converſe with; nay, as I am not to offend a Magiſtrate whoſe Authority I am under, and to whom I am accountable; for Conſcience is GOD's Deputy in my Soul.

(2.) What was his Care and Endeavour in purſuance of this; I exerciſe my ſelf, ἀσκῶ, I make it my conſtant Buſineſs, and govern my ſelf by this Intention, I diſcipline my ſelf, and live by Rule (thoſe that did ſo were call'd Asketicks, from the Word here us'd) abſtain from many a Thing which my Inclination leads me to, and abound in all the Exerciſes of Religion that are moſt ſpiritual, with this in my Eye, that I may keep Peace with my own Conſcience.

(3.) The Extent of this Care 1. To all Times; To have always a Conſcience void of Offence, always, void of groſs Offence; for tho' Paul was conſcious to himſelf that he had not yet attain'd Perfection, and the Evil that he would not do yet he did; yet he was innocent from the great Tranſgreſſion. Sins of Infirmity are uneaſy to Conſcience, but they do not wound it and waſte it, as Preſumptuous Sins do, and tho' Offence may be given to Conſcience, yet care muſt be taken that it be not an abiding Offence, but that by the renew'd Acts of Faith and Repentance, the Matter may be taken up again quickly. And this however we muſt always exerciſe ourſelves in, and tho' we come ſhort, we muſt follow after. 2. To all Things; both towards GOD and towards Man. His conſcientious Care extended itſelf to the whole of his Duty, and he was afraid of breaking the Law of Love either to GOD or his Neighbour; Conſcience like the Magiſtrate, is Cuſtos utriſque tabulæ. We muſt be very Cautious that we do not think, or ſpeak, or do any thing amiſs either againſt GOD or Man, 2 Cor. viii. 2.

4. The Inducement to it; Herein ἐν τούτῳ, for this Cauſe ſo it may be read. Becauſe I look for the Reſurrection of the Dead and the Life of the World to come, therefore I thus exerciſe my ſelf. The Conſideration of the future State ſhould engage us to be univerſally conſcientious in our preſent State.

Fourthly, Having made Confeſſion of his Faith, he gives a plain and faithful account of his Caſe, and of the wrong done him by his Perſecutors. Twice he had been reſcued by the chief Captain out of the hand of the Jews, when they were ready to pull him to pieces, and he challengeth them to prove him guilty of any Crime either time.

1. In the Temple; There they fell furiouſly upon him as an Enemy to their Nation, and the Temple, chap. xvi. 28. But was there any colour for the Charge? No, but Evidence ſufficient againſt it. 1. It was very hard to accuſe him as an Enemy to their Nation, when after long abſence from Jeruſalem he came to bring Alms to his Nation, Money which (tho' he had need enough himſelf of, yet) he had collected among his Friends, for the relief of the Poor at Jeruſalem. He not only had no Malice to that People, but he had a very charitable Concern for them, and was ready to do them all good Offices; And were they his Adverſaries for his Love? Pſal, cix. 4. (2.) It was very hard to accuſe him of having profan'd the Temple, when he brought Offerings to the Temple, and was himſelf at Charges therein chap. xxi. 24. And was found purifying himſelf in the Temple, according to the Law, v. 18. And that in a very quiet decent manner, neither with multitude, nor with tumult; tho' he was a Man ſo much talk'd of, he was far from coveting to ſhew himſelf, when he came to Jeruſalem, or of being crowded after; but went to the Temple as much as was poſſible, incognito; They were Jews from Aſia, his Enemies, that made him to be taken notice of; They had no Pretence to make a Tumult and raiſe a Multitude againſt him, for he had neither Multitude nor Tumult for him. And as for what was perhaps ſuggeſted to Felix, that he had brought Greeks into the Temple contrary to their Law, and the Governor ought to reckon with him for that, the Romans having ſtipulated with the Nations that ſubmitted to them, to preſerve them in their Religion, he challengeth them to prove it, v. 19. Thoſe Jews of Aſia ought to have been here before thee, that they might have

ſtand by, and ſwear to; for ſome that will not ſcruple to tell a Lye, having ſuch Leavings of Conſcience, that they boggle at confirming it with an Oath.

2. In the Council; ſince the Jews of Aſia are not here to prove any Thing upon me done amiſs in the Temple, let theſe ſame that are here, the High Prieſts and the Elders ſay, whether they have found any evil doing in me, or if I were guilty of any Miſdemeanour, when I ſtood before the Council, which was another time they were ready to pull in pieces, v. 20. When I was there they could not take Offence at any thing I ſaid; for all I ſaid was, Touching the Reſurrection of the Dead, I am call'd in Queſtion by you this Day, v. 21. which gave no Offence to any but the Sadduces. This I hope was no Crime, that I ſtuck to that which is the Faith of the whole Jewiſh Church, excepting thoſe whom they themſelves call Hereticks.

22 And when Felix heard theſe things, having more perfect knowledge of that way, he deferred them, and ſaid, when Lyſias the chief captain ſhall come down, I will know the uttermoſt of your matter. 23 And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and that he would forbid none of his acquaintance to miniſter, or come unto him. 24 And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife Druſilla, which was a Jeweſs, he ſent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Chriſt. 25 And as he reaſoned of righteouſneſs, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix trembled, and anſwered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient ſeaſon, I will call for thee. 26 He hoped alſo that money ſhould have been given him of Paul, that he might looſe him: wherefore he ſent for him the oftner and communed with him. 27 But after two years, Porcius Feſtus came into Felix room: and Felix willing to ſhew the Jews a pleaſure, left Paul bound.

We have here the Reſult of Paul's Tryal before Felix, and what was the Conſequence of it.

Firſt, Felix adjourned the Cauſe, and took further Time to conſider of it, v. 22. He had a more perfect Knowledge of that Way which the Jews call'd Hereſy, than the high Prieſt and the Elders thought he had; he underſtood ſomething of the Chriſtian Religion; for living at Cæſarea, where Cornelius a Roman Centurion was, that was a Chriſtian, from him and others, he had got a Notion of Chriſtianity, that it was not ſuch an ill Thing as it was repreſented; he himſelf knew ſome of that Way to be honeſt good Men, and very conſcientious, and therefore he put off the Proſecutors with an Excuſe, When the chief Captain ſhall come down, hither, I will know the uttermoſt of your Matter, or I ſhall know the Truth, whether this Paul did go about to raiſe Sedition, or no; you are Parties, he is an indifferent Perſon. Either Paul deſerves to be puniſh'd for raiſing the Tumult, or you do for doing it yourſelves, and then charging it upon him; and I'll hear what he ſaith, and Determine accordingly between you. Now,

1. It was a Diſappointment to the High Prieſt and the Elders that Paul was not condemn'd or remitted to their Judgment, which they wiſh'd for and expected. But thus ſometimes GOD reſtrains the Wrath of his People's Enemies by the Agency not of their Friends, but of ſuch as are Strangers to them. And tho' they be ſo, if they have but ſome Knowledge of their Way, they cannot but appear for their Protection.

2. It was an Injury to Paul that he was not releas'd; Felix ought to have aveng'd him of his Adverſaries, when he ſo plainly ſaw there was nothing but Malice, in the Proſecution, and to have ridded him out of the Hand of the Wicked, according to the Duty of a Judge, Pſal. lxxxii 4. But he was a Judge that neither fear'd GOD, nor regarded Man, and what Good could be expected from him. 'Tis a Wrong not only to deny Juſtice, but to delay it.

Secondly, He continu'd the Priſoner in Cuſtody, and would not take Bail for him; elſe here at Cæſarea Paul had Friends enow, that would gladly have been his Security. Felix thought a Man of ſuch a publick Character as Paul was, had many Friends, as well as many Enemies, and he might have an Opportunity of obliging them, or making a hand of them, if he did not preſently releaſe him, and yet did ſhew him ſome Countenance; and therefore,

1. He continued him a Priſoner, commanded a Centurion or Captain to keep him, v. 23. He did not commit him to the common Goal, but being firſt an Army Priſoner, he ſhall ſtill be ſo.

2. Yet he took Care he ſhould be a Priſoner at large, in liberâ Cuſtodiâ; His Keeper muſt let him have Liberty, not bind him or lock him up, but make his Confinement as eaſy to him as poſſible; let him have the Liberty of the Caſtle, and perhaps he means Liberty to take the Air, or go abroad upon his Parol; and Paul was ſuch an honeſt Man, that they might take his Word for his Return. The High-Prieſt and the Elders grudg'd him his Life, but Felix generouſly allows him a ſort of Liberty; for he had not thoſe Prejudices againſt him and his Way that they had. He alſo gave Orders that none of his Friends ſhould be hinder'd from coming to him; The Centurion muſt not forbid any of his Acquaintance from Miniſtring to him. And a Man's Priſon is as it were his own Houſe if he has but his Friends about him.

Thirdly, He had frequent Converſation with him afterwards in private; once particularly, not long after his Publick Tryal, v. 24, 25. Obſerve,

1. With what Deſign Felix ſent for Paul; He had a mind to have ſome Talk with him concerning Faith in Chriſt, The Chriſtian Religion; he had ſome Knowledge of that Way, but he deſir'd to have an Account of it from Paul, who was ſo celebrated a Preacher of that Faith, above the reſt. Thoſe that would enlarge their Knowledge, muſt Diſcourſe with Men in their own Profeſſion. And thoſe that would be acquainted with any Profeſſion, ſhould conſult thoſe that excel in the Knowledge of it; and therefore Felix has a mind to talk with Paul more freely than he could in open Court, where he obſerv'd Paul upon his Guard, concerning the Faith of Chriſt. And this only to ſatisfy his Curioſity, or rather, the Curioſity of his Wife Druſilla, who was a Jeweſs, Daughter of Herod Agrippa, that was eaten of Worms. And being educated in the Jewiſh Religion, ſhe was more inquiſitive concerning Chriſtian Religion, which pretended to be the Perfection of that; and deſir'd to hear Paul Diſcourſe of it. But it was no great Matter what Religion ſhe was of, for whatever it was, ſhe was a Reproach and Scandal to it, a Jeweſs, but an Adultereſs. She was another Man's Wife when Felix took her to be his Wife and ſhe liv'd with him in Whoredom and was noted for an Impudent Woman; yet ſhe deſires to hear concerning the Faith of Chriſt. Many are fond of new Notions and Speculations in Religion, and can hear and ſpeak of them with Pleaſure, who yet hate to come under the Power and Influence of Religion; can be content to have their Judgments inform'd but not their Lives reform'd.

2. What the Account was which Paul gave him of the Chriſtian Religion; by the Idea he had of it, he expected to be amus'd with a Myſtical Divinity; but as Paul repreſents it to him, he is alarm'd with a Practical Divinity; Paul being ask'd concerning the Faith in Chriſt, Reaſon'd (for Paul was always a Rational Preacher) concerning Righteouſneſs, Temperance, and Judgment to come. 'Tis probable, he mention'd to him the peculiar Doctrine of Chriſtianity concerning the Death and Reſurrection of the Lord Jeſus, and his being the Mediator between GOD and Man; but he haſten'd to his Application, in which he deſign'd to come home to the Conſciences of his Hearers; and he diſcours'd with clearneſs and warmth of Righteouſneſs, Temperance, and Judgment to come. And there he ſhew'd.

(1.) That the Faith in Chriſt is deſign'd to enforce upon the Children of Men the great Laws of Juſtice and Temperance; The Grace of GOD teacheth us to live Soberly and Righteouſly, Tit. ii. 12. Juſtice and Temperance were celebrated Vertues among the Heathen Moraliſts; if the Doctrine Paul preacheth, which Felix has heard of, as proclaiming Liberty, will but free him from an Obligation to theſe, he will readily embrace it: No ſaith Paul, ſo far from doing ſo, that it ſtrengthens the Obligations of thoſe ſacred Laws; it binds all under the higheſt Penalties to be honeſt in all their Dealings, and render to all their Due; to deny themſelves, and to keep under the Body, and bring it into Subjection, The World and the Fleſh being in our Baptiſm renounc'd, in all our Purſuits of the World, and all our Gratifications of the Deſires of the Body, are to be under the Regulations of Religion. Paul reaſon'd of Righteouſneſs and Temperance, to convince Felix of his Unrighteouſneſs and Intemperance, which he had been notoriouſly guilty of, that ſeeing the odiouſneſs of them, and his obnoxiouſneſs to the Wrath of GOD for them (Eph. v. 6.) he might enquire concerning the Faith of Chriſt, with a Reſolution to embrace it.

(2.) That by the Doctrine of Chriſt, is diſcover'd to us the Judgment to come, by the Sentence of which the everlaſting State of all the Children of Men will be finally and irreverſibly Determin'd. Men have their Day now, Felix hath his; but GOD's Day is coming, when every One ſhall give Account of himſelf to GOD the Judge of all. Paul reaſon'd concerning this, i. e. he ſhew'd what Reaſon we have in Conſideration thereof to be Religious.

Now from this Account of the Heads of Paul's Diſcourſe, we may gather (1.) That Paul in his Preaching had no reſpect of Perſons, for the Word of GOD which he Preach'd has not. He urgeth the ſame Convictions and Inſtructions upon the Roman Governor, that he had upon other People. (2.) That Paul in his Preaching aiming at the Conſciences of Men, and came cloſe to them; ſought not to pleaſe their Fancy or gratify their Curioſity, but led them to a Sight of their Sins, and a Senſe of their Duty and Intereſt. (3.) That Paul preferr'd the ſerving of Chriſt, and the ſaving of Souls before his own Safety. He lay at the Mercy of Felix, who had Power (as Pilate ſaid) to crucify him, or which was as bad to deliver him back to the Jews) and he had Power to releaſe him. Now when Paul had his Ear, and had him in a good Humour, he had a fair Opportunity of ingratiating himſelf with him, and obtaining a Releaſe; nay, and of Incenſing him againſt his Proſecutors: And on the contrary, if he diſoblig'd him, and put him out of Humour, he may do himſelf a great Diſ-kindneſs by it; but he ſeems wholly negligent of theſe Conſiderations, and is intent upon doing Good, at leaſt diſcharging his Duty. (4.) That Paul was willing to take Pains and run Hazards in his Work, even there where there were little probability of doing Good; Felix and Druſilla were ſuch harden'd Sinners, that it was not at all likely they ſhould be brought to Repentance by Paul's Preaching, eſpecially under ſuch Diſadvantages; and yet Paul deals with them as one that did not deſpair of them. Let the Watchman give fair Warning, and then they have delivered their own Souls, though they ſhould not prevail to deliver the Souls they watch for.

3. What Impreſſion Paul's Diſcourſe made upon this great, but ill Man, Felix trembled, ἔμφοβος γενόμενος, being put into a Fright, or made a Terror to himſelf, a Magor-miſſabib, as Paſhur, Jer. xx. 3, 4. Paul never trembled before him; but he was made to tremble before Paul. If this be ſo, as Paul ſaith, what will become of me in another World? If the Unrighteous and Intemperate will be condemn'd in the Judgment to come, I am undone, for ever undone, unleſs I lead a new Courſe of Life. We do not find that Druſilla trembled, tho' ſhe was equally guilty; for ſhe was a Jeweſs, and depended upon the Ceremonial Law, which ſhe adher'd to the Obſervance of, to juſtify her. But Felix for the preſent, could faſten upon Nothing to pacify his Conſcience, and therefore trembled. See here,

(1.) The Power of the Word of GOD, when it comes with Commiſſion; 'tis ſearching, 'tis ſtartling, it can ſtrike a Terror into the Heart of the moſt proud and daring Sinner, by ſetting his Sins in order before him, and ſhew him the Terrors of the LORD.

(2.) The Workings of Natural Conſcience, when it is ſtartled and awaken'd, it will fill the Soul with Horror and Amazement at its own Deformity and Danger. Thoſe that are themſelves the Terror of the Mighty in the Land of the Living, have hereby been made a Terror to themſelves. A Proſpect of the Judgment to come, is enough to make the ſtouteſt Heart to tremble, as when it comes indeed, 'twill make the mighty Men and the chief Captains to call in vain to Rocks and Mountains to ſhelter them.

(4.) How Felix ſtruggled to get clear of theſe Impreſſions, and to ſhake off the Terror of his Convictions, he did by them as he did by Paul's Perſecutors, v. 27. he deferr'd them, He ſaid, Go thy Way for this Time, when I have a convenient Seaſon I will call for thee. (1.) He trembled, and that was all, Paul's trembling, chap. ix. 6. and the Goaler's, chap. xvi. 30. ended in their Converſion, but this of Felix did not. There are many ſtartled by the Word of GOD, that are not effectually chang'd by it. Many are in fear of the Conſequences of Sin, and yet continue in Love and League with Sin. (2.) He did not fight againſt his Convictions, nor fly in the Face of the Word, or of the Preacher of it, to be reveng'd on them for making his Conſcience fly in his Face; he did not ſay to Paul, as Amaziah to the Prophet, Forbear, why ſhouldſt thou be ſmitten? Did not threaten him with a cloſer Confinement, or with Death, for touching him, as John Baptiſt did Herod, in the ſore Place. But (3.) he artfully ſhifted off his Convictions, by putting off the Perſecution of them to another Time. He has nothing to object againſt what Paul hath ſaid, 'tis weighty, and worth conſidering; but like a ſorry Debtor, he beg's Day. Paul hath ſpent himſelf, and has tir'd him and his Lady, and therefore Go thy Way for this Time; Break off here; Buſineſs calls me away, but when I have a convenient Seaſon, and have nothing elſe to do, I will call for thee, and hear what thou haſt further to ſay. Note 1. Many looſe all the Benefit of their Convictions for want of ſtriking while the Iron is hot. If Felix now he trembled, had but ask'd, as Paul and the Goaler did when they trembled, What ſhall I do? He might have been brought to the Faith of Chriſt, and have been a Felix indeed, Happy for ever; but by dropping his Convictions now, he loſt them for ever, and himſelf with them. 2. In the Affairs of our Souls, Delays are dangerous; Nothing is of more fatal Conſequence, than Mens putting off their Converſion from Time to Time. They will repent and turn to GOD, but not yet; the Matter is adjourn'd to ſome more convenient Seaſon, when ſuch a Buſineſs or Affair is compaſs'd, when they are ſo much elder, and then Convictions cool and wear off, good Purpoſes, prove to no Purpoſe, and they are more harden'd than ever in their evil Way. Felix put off this Matter to a more convenient Seaſon, but we do not find that that more convenient Seaſon ever came; for the Devil cozens us of all our Time, by cozening us of the preſent Time. The preſent Seaſon, is without doubt, the moſt convenient Seaſon; Behold, Now is the accepted Time. To Day if ye will hear his Voice.

Fourthly, After all he continued him a Priſoner and left him ſo, when two Years after he was remov'd from the Government, v. 26, 27. He was convinc'd in his Conſcience that Paul had done nothing worthy of Death or of Bonds, and yet had not the Honeſty to releaſe him; to little Purpoſe had Paul reaſon'd with him about Righteouſneſs, tho' he then trembled at the thought of his own Iniquity, who could thus perſiſt in ſuch a palpable piece of Injuſtice. But here we are told what Principles he was govern'd by herein, and they were ſuch as make the Matter yet much worſe.

1. The Love of Money; He would not releaſe Paul, becauſe he hoped to make his Markets of him; And that at length his Friends would make a Purſe to purchaſe his Liberty, and then he would ſatisfy his Conſcience by releaſing him when he could withal ſatisfy his Covetouſneſs by it; But he cannot find in his Heart to do his Duty as a Judge, unleſs he can get Money by it. He hoped that Money ſhould have been given him of Paul, or ſomebody for him, and then he would have looſed him, and ſet him at Liberty; and in hopes of that he continues him a Priſoner, and ſends for him the oftner, and communes with him. Not any more about the Faith of Chriſt; he had had enough of that, and of the Judgment to come, Paul muſt not return to thoſe Subjects, or go on with them; But about his Diſcharge or Ranſom rather out of his preſent Captivity. He cannot for Shame ask Paul what he will give him to releaſe him, but he ſends for him to feel his Pulſe, and give him an Opportunity to ask what he would take to releaſe him? And now we ſee what became of his Promiſe both to Paul and to himſelf, that he would hear more of Chriſt at ſome other convenient Seaſon: Here were many Seaſons convenient enough to have talk'd that Matter through, but nothing is done in it; All his Buſineſs now is to get Money by Paul, not to get the Knowledge of Chriſt by him. Note, Thoſe that trifle with their Convictions, and think they can have the Grace of GOD at command when they pleaſe, 'tis juſt with GOD to ſay concerning them, that his Spirit ſhall no more ſtrive with them. When Men will not hear GOD's Voice to Day while it is call'd to Day, the Heart is commonly hardn'd by the Deceitfulneſs of Sin.

Paul was but a poor Man himſelf, Silver and Gold he had none to give to purchaſe his Liberty; but Felix knew there were thoſe who wiſh'd well to him, that were able to aſſiſt him; he having lately collected a deal of Money for the poor Saints to relieve them, it might be expected that the rich Saints ſhould contribute ſome to releaſe him, and I wonder it was done; Tho' Paul is to be commended that he would not bid Money to Felix, nor beg Money of the Churches; his Great and Generous Soul diſdain'd both; yet I know not whether his Friends are to be commended, nay, whether they can be juſtified in not doing it for him; they ought to have ſollicited the Governor as preſſingly for him, as his Enemies did againſt him. And if a Gift was neceſſary to make room for them (as Solomon ſpeaks) and to bring them before great Men, they might lawfully have brought it. I ought not to bribe a Man to do an unjuſt thing, but if he will not do me Juſtice without a Fee, 'tis but doing my ſelf Juſtice to give it him; And if they might do it, 'twas a ſhame they did not do it; I bluſh for them, that they would let ſuch an Eminent and Uſeful Man as Paul lie in a Goal, when a little Money would have fetch him out, and reſtored him to his Uſefulneſs again. The Chriſtians here at Cæſarea, where he now was, had parted with their Tears to prevent his going to the Priſon, (chap. xxi. 13.) but could not find in their Hearts to part with their Money to help him out. Yet there might be a Providence of GOD in it, Paul's Bonds muſt be for the Furtherance of the Goſpel of Chriſt, and therefore he muſt continue in Bonds. However. this will not excuſe Felix, who ought to have releaſed an innocent Man without demanding, or accepting any Thing for it. The Judge that will not do Right without a Bribe, no doubt will do Wrong for a Bribe.

2. Men-pleaſing Felix was recall'd from his Government about two Years after this, and Procius Feſtus was put in his Place; and one would have expected he ſhould have at leaſt concluded his Government with this Act of Juſtice, the Releaſe of Paul, but he did not, he left Paul bound; and the Reaſon here given is, becauſe he was willing to do the Jews a Pleaſure. Tho' he would not deliver him to Death to pleaſe them, yet he would continue him a Priſoner rather than offend them: And he did it in hope hereby to attone for the many Offences he had done againſt them. He did not think Paul had either Intereſt or Inclination to complain of him at Court, for detaining him ſo long in Cuſtody againſt all Law and Equity; but he was jealous of the High-Prieſt and Elders, that they would be his Accuſers to the Emperor, for the Wrongs he had done them; and therefore hopes by gratifying them in this Matter to ſtop their Mouths. Thus they who do ſome ill things, are tempted to do more to ſcreen themſelves, and bear them out. If Felix had not injur'd the Jews, he needed not have done this to pleaſe them. But when he had done it, it ſeems he did not gain his Point: The Jews notwithſtanding this, accus'd him to the Emperor, and ſome Hiſtorians ſay, he was ſent bound to Rome by Feſtus; and if ſo, ſurely his remembring how light he made of Paul's Bonds, would help to make his own Chain heavy. Thoſe that aim to pleaſe GOD by doing Good, will have what they aim at; but ſo will not they that ſeek to pleaſe Men by doing Evil.

CHAP. XXV.

Some think that Felix was turn'd out and Feſtus ſucceeded him quickly after Paul's Impriſonment, and that the two Years mention'd in the Cloſe of the foregoing Chapter, are to be reckon'd from the Beginning of Nero's Reign; but it ſeems more natural to compute it from Paul's being deliver'd into the Hands of Felix; however we have here much the ſame Management of Paul's Caſe as we had in the foregoing Chapter. Cognizance is here taken of it. (1.) By Feſtus the Governor; 'Tis brought before him by the Jews, v. 1,—3. The Hearing of it is appointed to be not at Jeruſalem as the Jews deſir'd, but at Cæſarea, v. 4—6. The Jews appear'd againſt Paul, and accuſe him. v. 7. But he ſtands upon his own Innocency, v. 8. and to avoid the removing of the Cauſe to Jeruſalem, which he was preſs'd to conſent to, he at length appeal'd to Cæſar, v. 9,—12. (2) By King Agrippa, to whom Feſtus relates his Caſe, v. 13—21. and Agrippa deſires he might have the Hearing of it himſelf, v. 22. The Court is accordingly Set, and Paul brought to the Bar, v. 23. And Feſtus opens the Cauſe, v. 24,—27. to introduce Paul's Defence in the next Chapter.

NOW when Feſtus was come into the province, after three days he aſcended from Ceſarea to Jeruſalem. 2 Then the high prieſt, and the chief of the Jews informed him againſt Paul, and beſought him. 3 And deſired favour againſt him, that he would ſend for him to Jeruſalem, laying wait in the way to kill him. 4 But Feſtus anſwered, that Paul ſhould be kept at Ceſarea, and that he himſelf would depart ſhortly thither. 5 Let them therefore, ſaid he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuſe this man, if there be any wickedneſs in him. 6 And when he had tarried among them more then ten days, he went down unto Cæſarea and the next day ſitting in the judgment ſeat, commanded Paul to be brought. 7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jeruſalem ſtood round about and laid many and grievous complaints againſt Paul, which they could not prove; 8 While he Anſwered for himſelf, Neither againſt the law of the Jews, neither againſt the Temple, nor yet againſt Cæſar, have I offended any thing at all. 9 But Feſtus willing to do the Jews a pleaſure, anſwered Paul and ſaid, Wilt thou go up to Jeruſalem, and there be judged of theſe things before men? 10 Then ſaid Paul, I ſtand at Cæſars judgment ſeat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knoweſt. 11 For if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death I refuſe not to die: but if there be none of theſe things whereof theſe accuſe me, no man may deliver me unto them. I appeal unto Cæſar. 12 Then Feſtus when he had conferred with the councel, anſwered, Haſt thou appeal unto Cæſar? unto Cæſar ſhalt thou go.

We uſe to ſay, new Lords, new Laws, new Cuſtoms; but here was a new Governor, and yet Paul had the ſame Treatment with him, that he had with the former and no better; Feſtus, like Felix, is not ſo juſt to him as he ſhould have been; for he doth not releaſe him; and yet not ſo unjuſt as the Jews would have had him to be, for he will not condemn him to die, nor expoſe him to their Rage. Here is, Firſt, The Preſſing Inſtance which the High Prieſt and other Jews us'd with the Governor to perſwade him to abandon Paul; for to ſend for him to Jeruſalem, was in effect to abandon him.

1. See how ſpeedy they were in their Applications to Feſtus concerning Paul. As ſoon as ever he was come into the Province, and had taken Poſſeſſion of the Government, into which probably he was Inſtall'd at Cæſarea, within three Days he went up to Jeruſalem, to ſhew himſelf there, and preſently the Prieſts were upon him to proceed againſt Paul. He ſtay'd three Days at Cæſarea where Paul was a Priſoner, and we do not find that in that Time Paul made any Application to him to releaſe him, tho' no doubt he could have made good Friends to him, that he might hope to have prevail'd by; but as ſoon as ever he comes up to Jeruſalem, the Prieſts are in all haſte to make an Intereſt with him againſt Paul. See how reſtleſs a Thing Malice is. Paul more patiently bares the lengthening out of his Impriſonment, than his Enemies do the delay of his Perſecution even to the Death.

2. See how ſpiteful they were in their Application; They inform'd the Governor againſt Paul, v. 2. before he was brought upon a fair Tryal, that ſo they might if poſſible prejudge the Cauſe with the Governor, and make him a Party, who was to be the Judge. But this Artifice, tho' baſe enough, they could not confide in; for the Governor would be ſure to hear him himſelf, and then all their Informations againſt him would fall to the Ground, And therefore they form another Project much more baſe, and that is, to aſſaſſinate Paul before he came upon his Tryal, Theſe in humane helliſh Methods, which all the World profeſſeth at leaſt to abhor, have theſe Perſecutors recourſe to, to gratify their Malice againſt the Goſpel of Chriſt; and this too under the Colour of Zeal for Moſes; Tantum Religio potuit ſuadere malorum.

3. See how ſpecious the Pretence was; Now the Governor was himſelf at Jeruſalem, they deſired he would ſend for Paul thither and try him there, which would ſave the Proſecutors a great deal of Labour, and look'd moſt reaſonable, becauſe he was charg'd with having profan'd the Temple at Jeruſalem, and 'tis uſual for Criminals to be tryed in the Court where the Fact wae committed. But that which they deſign'd, was to way-lay him as he was brought up, and to Murder him upon the Road; ſuppoſing that he would not be brought up under ſo ſtrong a Guard as he was ſent down with; Or, that the Officers that were to bring him up might be brib'd to give them an Opportunity for their Wickedneſs. 'Tis ſaid, they deſir'd favour againſt Paul. The Buſineſs of Proſecutors, is to demand Juſtice againſt One that they ſuppoſe to be a Criminal, and if he be not prov'd ſo, 'tis as much Juſtice to acquit him, as it is to condemn him if he be: But to deſire Favour againſt a Priſoner and from the Judge too, who ought to be of Counſel for him, is a very Impudent thing. The Favour ought to be for the Priſoner, in favorem vite but here they deſire it againſt him. They will take it as a Favour if the Governor will but condemn Paul, tho they can prove no Crime upon him.

Secondly, the Governor's Reſolution that Paul ſhall take his Tryal at Cæſarea, where he now is, v. 4, 5. See how he manageth the Proſecutors.

1. He will not do them the Kindneſs to ſend for him to Jeruſalem No, he gave Orders that Paul ſhould be kept at Cæſarea. It doth not appear that he had any Suſpicion, much leſs any certain Information, of their bloody Deſign to Murder him by the Way, as the chief Captain had when he ſent him to Cæſarea, chap. xxiii. 30. But perhaps he was not willing ſo far to oblige the High Prieſt and his Party; or he would maintain the Honour of his Court at Cæſarea, and require their Attendance there; or he was not willing to be at the Trouble or Charge of bringing Paul up; what ever was his Reaſon for refuſing it, GOD made uſe of it as a Means of preſerving Paul out of the Hands of his Enemies. Perhaps now they were more careful to keep their Conſpiracy ſecret than they had been before, that the Diſcovery of it might not be now as it was then, the Defeat of it. But tho' God doth not as then bring it to light, yet he finds another Way as Effectual to bring it to nought; by inclining the Heart of the Governor for ſome other Reaſons, not to remove Paul to Jeruſalem. GOD is not ty'd to one Method in Working out Salvation for his People: He can ſuffer the Deſigns againſt them to be conceal'd, and yet not ſuffer them to be accompliſhed; and can make even the Carnal Policies of great Men to ſerve his gracious Purpoſe.

2. Yet he will do them the Juſtice to hear what they have to ſay againſt Paul, if they will go down to Cæſarea, and appear againſt him there. Let them among you which are able, able in Body and Purſe, for ſuch a Journey or able in Mind and Tongue to manage the Proſecution; Let thoſe among you that are fit to be Managers, go down with me and accuſe this Man. Or, thoſe that are competent Witneſſes, that are able to prove any Thing Criminal upon him, Let them go and give in their Evidence, if their be any ſuch Wickedneſs in him as you charge upon him. Feſtus will not take it for granted, as they deſire he ſhould, that there is Wickedneſs in him, till it is prov'd upon him, and he has been hear'd in his own Defence; but if he be Guilty, it lies upon them to prove him ſo.

Thirdly, Paul's Tryal before Feſtus; he ſtay'd at Jeruſalem about Ten Days, and then went down to Cæſarea, and the Proſecutors 'tis likely in his Retinue; for he ſaid they ſhould go down with him. And ſince they are ſo eager in the Proſecution, he is willing this Cauſe ſhould be firſt called, and that they may haſten Home, he will diſpatch it the next Day. Expedition in adminiſtring Juſtice is very commendable, provided more haſte be not made than good ſpeed. Now here we have,

1. The Court ſet, and the Priſoner call'd to the Bar; Feſtus ſate in the Judgment-ſeat, as he us'd to do when any Cauſe was brought before him that was of Conſequence. And he commanded Paul to be brought, and make his Appearance, v. 6. Chriſt to encourage his Diſciples, and keep up their Spirits under ſuch awful, Tryals of their Courage as this was to Paul, promiſed them that the Day ſhould come when they ſhould ſit on Thrones judging the Tribes of Iſrael.

2. The Proſecutors exhibiting their Charge againſt the Priſoner, v. 7. The Jews ſtood round about, which intimates that they were many, Lord, how are they increas'd that Trouble me! That they were unanimous, they ſtood by one another, and reſolv'd to hold together; and that they were intent upon the Perſecution, and eager in Clamouring againſt Paul; They ſtood round about, if poſſible to frighten the Judge into a Compliance with their malicious Deſign, however to frighten the Priſoner, and at leaſt to put him out of Countenance; But in vain; he had too juſt, and ſtrong an Aſſurance to be daſh'd by them, They compaſſed me about like Bees, but they are quenched as the Fire of Thorns, Pſal. cxviii. 12. When they ſtood round about him, they brought many and grievous Accuſations againſt Paul, ſo it ſhould be read, They Charge him with High Crimes and Miſdemeanors, The Articles of Impeachment were many, and contain'd Things of a very heinous Nature, They repreſented him to the Court as black and odious as their Wit and Malice could contrive; But when they had opened the Cauſe as they thought fit and come to the Evidence, there they fail'd, They could not prove what they alledg'd againſt him, for it was all falſe, and the Complaints groundleſs and unjuſt. Either the Fact was not as they open'd it, or there was no Fault in it. They laid to his Charge Things that he knew not, nor they neither. It is no new Thing for the moſt excellent Ones of the Earth to have all manner of Evil ſaid againſt them falſly, not only in the Song of the Drunkards, and upon the Seat of the Scornful, but even before the Judgment-Seat.

3. The Priſoner's inſiſting upon his own Vindication; v. 8. Whoever reproacheth him his own Heart doth not, and therefore his own Tongue ſhall not; Tho' he die he will not remove his Integrity from him. When it came to his turn to ſpeak for himſelf, he inſiſted upon this general Plea, Not Guilty; Neither againſt the Law of the Jews, nor againſt the Temple, nor yet againſt Cæſar, have I offended any Thing at all. (1.) He had not violated the Law of the Jews, nor Taught any Doctrine deſtructive of it. Did he make void the Law by Faith? No, he eſtabliſh'd the Law, Preaching Chriſt the End of the Law, was no Offence againſt the Law. (2.) He had not profan'd the Temple, nor put any Contempt at all upon the Temple-Service; his helping to ſet up the Goſpel Temple did not at all offend againſt that Temple which was a Type of it. (3.) He had not offended againſt Cæſar, or his Government; By this it appears that now his Cauſe was brought before the Government, to curry Favour with the Governor, and that they might ſeem Friends to Cæſar, they had charg'd him with ſome Inſtances of Diſaffection to the preſent higher Powers, which oblig'd him to purge himſelf as to that Matter, and to proteſt that he was no Enemy to Cæſar, not ſo much as they were that charg'd him with being ſo.

Fourthly, Paul's Appeal to the Emperor, and the Occaſion of it; This gave the Cauſe a new Turn; whether he had before deſign'd it, or whether it was a ſudden Reſolve upon the preſent Provocation, doth not appear; but GOD puts it into his Heart to do it for the bringing about of that which he had ſaid to him, That he muſt bear Witneſs to Chriſt at Rome, for there the Emperor's Court was, chap. xxiii. 11. We have here,

1. The Propoſal which Feſtus made to Paul, to go and take his Tryal at Jeruſalem, v. 9. Feſtus was willing to do the Jews a Pleaſure, inclin'd to gratify the Proſecutors rather than the Priſoner, as far as he could go with Safety againſt One that was a Citizen of Rome, and therefore ask'd him, Whether he would be willing to go up to Jeruſalem, and clear himſelf there where he had been accus'd, and where he might have his Witneſſes ready to vouch for him, and confirm what he ſaid. He would not offer to turn him over to the High Prieſt, and the Sanhedrin as the Jews would have had him; but, Wilt thou go thither and be judg'd of theſe Things before me? The Preſident if he had pleas'd might have order'd him thither, but he would not do it without his own Conſent, which if he could have wheedled him to give, 'twould have taken off the odium of it. In ſuffering Times the Prudence of the Lord's People is try'd as well as their Patience; being ſent forth therefore as Sheep in the midſt of Wolves, they have need to be Wiſe as Serpents.

Paul's Refuſal to conſent to it, and his Reaſons for it. He knew if he were remov'd to Jeruſalem, notwithſtanding the utmoſt vigilance of the Preſident, the Jews would find ſome means or other to be the Death of him; And therefore deſires to be excus'd, and pleads.

(1.) That as a Citizen of Rome, it was moſt proper for him to be try'd not only by the Preſident, but in that which was properly his Court, which ſate at Cæſarea; I ſtand at Cæſar's Judgment-Seat where I ought to be judged, in the City which is the Metropolis of the Province. The Court being held in Cæſar's Name, and by his Authority and Commiſſion before One that was delegated by him, it might, well be ſaid to be his Judgment-Seat, as with us all Writs run in the Name of the Soveraign, in whoſe Name all Courts are held. Paul's owning that he ought to be judg'd at Cæſar's Judgment-Seat, plainly proves that Chriſt's Miniſters are not exempted from the Juriſdiction of the Civil Powers, but ought to be Subject to them, as far as they can with a good Conſcience; and if they be Guilty of a real Crime to ſubmit to their Cenſure, if Innocent yet to ſubmit to their Enquiry, and to clear themſelves before them.

(2.) That as a Member of the Jewiſh Nation, he had done nothing to make himſelf obnoxious to them; to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knoweſt; It very well becomes thoſe that are Innocent to plead their Innocency, and to inſiſt upon it; 'tis a Debt we owe to our own good Name, not only not to bear falſe Witneſs againſt ourſelves, but maintain our own Integrity againſt thoſe who bear falſe Witneſs againſt us.

(3.) That he was willing to abide by the Rules of the Law, and to let that take its Courſe, v. 11. If he be Guilty of any Capital Crime that deſerves Death, he will not offer either to make Reſiſtance, or to make his Eſcape, will neither flee from Juſtice, nor fight with it, I refuſe not to Die, but will accept of the Puniſhment of mine Iniquity. Not that all who have committed any Thing worthy of Death are oblig'd to accuſe themſelves, and offer themſelves to Juſtice, but when they are accus'd and brought to Juſtice they ought to ſubmit, and to ſay, both GOD and the Government is Righteous; 'Tis neceſſary that ſome ſhould be made Examples.

But if he be innocent, as he proteſts he is, if there be none of theſe Things whereof theſe accuſe me, if the Proſecution be Malicious, and they are reſolv'd to have my Blood right or wrong, no Man may deliver me unto them; no not the Governor himſelf, without palpable Injuſtice; for it is his Buſineſs as much to protect the Innocent, as to puniſh the Guilty; and he claims his Protection.

3. His Appealing to Court; ſince he is continually in Danger of the Jews, and one Attempt is made after another to get him into their Hands, whoſe tender Mercies were cruel, he flies to the (Dernier Reſort) the laſt Refuge of oppreſſed Innocency, and takes Sanctuary there, ſince he can't have Juſtice done him in any other Way, I appeal unto Cæſar. Rather then be deliver'd to the Jews, which Felix ſeems inclin'd to conſent to, let me be delivered to Nero. When David had divers Times narrowly eſcap'd the Rage of Saul, and concluded he was ſuch a reſtleſs Enemy, that he ſhould one Day periſh by his Hands, he came to this Reſolution, being in a manner compell'd to it, There is nothing better for me than to take ſhelter in the Land of the Philiſtines, 1 Sam xxvii. 1. ſo Paul here. But its a hard Caſe that a Son of Abraham muſt be forc'd to appeal to a Philiſtine, to a Nero, from thoſe who call themſelves the Seed of Abraham; and ſhall be ſafer in Gath or Rome than in Jeruſalem. How is the faithful City become a Harlot!

Fifthly, The Judgment given upon the whole Matter; Paul is neither releas'd nor condem'd; His Enemies hoped the Cauſe would be ended in his Death; his Friends hoped it would be ended in his Deliverance; but it proved neither ſo, nor ſo, they are both diſappointed; the Thing is left as it was. And it is an Inſtance of the ſlow Steps which Providence ſometimes takes, not bringing Things to an Iſſue ſo ſoon as we expect, by which we are often made aſham'd both of our Hopes and of our Fears, and are kept ſtill waiting on GOD. The Cauſe had before been adjourn'd to another Time, now to another Place, to another Court, that Paul's Tribulation might work Patience.

1. The Preſident adviſes upon the Matter; He conferr'd with the Council, μετὰ τȣ͂ συμβȣλίȣ, not with the Council of the Jews, that's call'd, συνέδριον, but with his own Counſellors, that were always ready to Aſſiſt the Governor with their Advice, In multitude of Counſellors there is Safety; and Judges ſhould conſult both with themſelves and others, before they paſs Sentence.

2. He determines to ſend him to Rome; ſomething Paul meant, not an Appeal to Cæſar's Perſon, but only to his Court, the Sentence of which he would abide by, rather then be remitted to the Jews Council, and that Feſtus might have choſen whether he would have ſent him to Rome, or at leaſt whether he would have joyn'd Iſſue with him upon the Appeal. But it ſhould ſeem by what Agrippa ſaid, chap. xxvi. 32. He might have been ſet at Liberty, if he had not appeal'd to Cæſar; that by the Courſe of the Roman Law, a Roman Citizen might appeal at any Time to a ſuperior Court, even to the Supreme; as Cauſes with us are remov'd by Certiorari, and Criminals by Habeas Corpus; and as Appeals are often made to the Houſe of Peers. Feſtus therefore either of Choice, or of Courſe, comes to this Reſolution, Haſt thou Appeal'd unto Cæſar? unto Cæſar thou ſhalt go. He found there was ſomething very extraordinary in the Caſe, which he was therefore afraid of given Judgment upon, either one way or other; and the Knowledge of which he thought would be an Entertainment to the Emperor, and therefore he tranſmitted it to his Cognizance. In our Judgment before GOD thoſe that by juſtifying themſelves appeal to the Law, to the Law they ſhall go, and it will condemn them: But thoſe that by Repentance and Faith appeal to the Goſpel, to the Goſpel they ſhall go, and it will ſave them.

13 And after certain days, king Agrippa and Bernice came unto Cæſarea to ſalute Feſtus. 14
And when they had been there many days, Feſtus declaring Paul's cauſe unto the king, ſaying, There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix: 15 About whom, when I was at Jeruſalem, the chief prieſts and the elders of the Jews informed me, deſiring to have judgment againſt him. 16 To whom I anſwer'd,
It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accuſed have the accuſers face to face, and have licenſe to anſwer for himſelf concerning the crime laid againſt him. 17 Therefore when they were come thither, without any delay on the morrow I ſat on the judgment-Seat, and I commanded the man to be brought forth. 18 Againſt whom when the accuſers ſtood up, they brought none accuſation of ſuch things as I ſuppoſed: 19 But had certain queſtions againſt

againſt him of their own ſuperſtition, and of one Jeſus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive. 20 And becauſe I doubted of ſuch manner of queſtions, I asked him whether he would go to Jeruſalem, and there be judged of theſe matters. 21 But when Paul had appealed to be reſerved unto the hearing of Auguſtus, I commanded him to be kept till I might ſend him to Ceſar. 22 Then Agrippa ſaid unto Feſtus, I would alſo hear the man my ſelf. To morrow, ſaid he, thou ſhalt hear him. 23 And on the morrow when Agrippa was come, and Bernice with great pomp, and was entered into the place of hearing, with the chief captains, and principal men of the city, at Feſtus commandment Paul was brought forth. 24 And Feſtus ſaid, King Agrippa, and all men which are here preſent with us, ye ſee this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jeruſalem, and alſo here, crying that he ought not to live any longer. 25 But when I found that he had committed nothing worthy of death, and that he himſelf hath appealed to Auguſtus, I have determined to ſend him. 26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord. Wherefore I have brought him forth before you, and ſpecially before thee, O king Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have ſomewhat to write. 27. For it ſeemeth to me unreaſonable to ſend a priſoner, and not withal to ſignify the crimes laid againſt him.

' We have here thePreparation that was made for another Hearing of Paul before King Agrippa, not in order to his giving Judgment upon him, but in order to his giving Advice concerning him, or rather only to gratify his Curioſity. Chriſt had ſaid concerning his Followers, That they ſhould be brought before Governors and Kings. In the former part of this Chapter Paul was brought before Feſtus the Governor, here before Agrippa the King, for a Teſtimony to both. Here's Firſt, The kind and friendly Viſit which King Agrippa made to Feſtus, now upon his coming into the Government in that Province. v. 13, After certain days King Agrippa came to Cæſarea. Here's a Royal Viſit; Kings uſe to think it enough to ſend their Ambaſſadors to congratulate their Friends, but here was a King that came himſelf, that made the Majeſty of a Prince yield to the Satisfaction of a Friend: for Perſonal Converſe is the moſt pleaſant among Friends. Obſerve,

1. Who the Viſitants were; (1.) King Agrippa, the Son of that Herod (ſirnam'd Agrippa) who kill'd James the Apoſtle, and was himſelf eaten up of Worms, and great Grandſon of Herod the Great, under whom Chriſt was born. Joſephus calls this Agrippa the younger; Claudius the Emperor made him King of Chalcis, and Tetrarch of Trachonitis and Abylene, mention'd, Luke iii. 1. The Jewiſh Writers ſpeak of him, and (as Dr. Lightfoot tells us) among other Things relate this Story of him, “That reading “the Law publickly, in the latter end of the Year of Releaſe, “as was enjoyn'd the King, when he came to thoſe Words, “Deut. xvii. 15. Thou ſhalt not ſet a ſtranger King over thee, “which is not of thy Brethren, the Tears ran down his Cheeks, “for he was not of the Seed of Iſrael; which the Congregation “obſerving, cry'd out, Be of good Comfort, King Agrippa, thou “art our Brother; for he was of their Religion, tho' not of their “Blood.” (2.) Bernice came with him; ſhe was his own Siſter, now a Widow, the Widow of his Uncle Herod, King of Chalcis, after whoſe Death ſhe liv'd with this Brother of hers, who was ſuſpected to be too familiar with her; and after ſhe was a ſecond time marry'd to Polemon, King of Cilicia, ſhe got to be divorc'd from him, and return'd to her Brother King Agrippa. Juv. Sat. 6. ſpeaks of a Diamond Ring which Agrippa gave to Bernice his inceſtuous Siſter, Hunc dedit olim Barbarus inceſtæ dedit hunc Agrippa ſorori — And names her Beronices in digito factus pretioſior. And both Tacitus and Suetonius ſpeak of a criminal Intimacy afterwards between her and Titus Veſpaſian. Druſilla the Wife of Felix, was another Siſter; ſuch lewd People, were the great People generally in thoſe Times. Say not, that the former Days were better.

2. What the Deſign of the Viſit was; They came to Salute Feſtus; to give him Joy of his new Promotion, and to wiſh him Joy in it. They came to Complement him upon his Acceſſion to the Government, and to keep up a good Correſpondence with him, that Agrippa, who had the Government of Galilee might act in concert with Feſtus, who had the Government of Judea. But 'tis probable, they came as much to divert themſelves, as to ſhew Reſpect to him, and to ſhare in the Entertainments of his Court; and to ſhew their fine Clothes; which would do vain People no good, if they did not go abroad.

Secondly, The Account which Feſtus gave to King Agrippa of Paul, and his Caſe, which he gave.

(1.) To entertain him, and give him ſome Diverſion; 'Twas a very remarkable Story, and worth any Man's hearing not only as it was ſurprizing and entertaining; but if it were truly and fully told, very inſtructive and edifying: And it would be particularly acceptable to Agrippa, not only becauſe he was a Judge, and there were ſome Points of Law and Practice in it well worth his Notice; but much more as he was a Jew, and there were ſome Points of Religion in it much more deſerving his Cognizance.

(2.) To have his Advice; Feſtus was but newly come to be a Judge, at leak to be a Judge in theſe Parts, and therefore is diſfident of himſelf, and of his own Ability, and willing to have the Counſel of thoſe that were older and more experienc'd, eſpecially in a Matter that had ſo much Difficulty in it, as Paul's Caſe ſeem'd to have, and therefore he declar'd it to the King.

Let us now ſee the particular Account he gives to King Agrippa concerning Paul, v. 14, 21.

1. That he found him a Priſoner when he came into the Government of this Province; and therefore could not of his own Knowledge give an Account of his Cauſe from the Beginning. There is a certain Man left in Bonds by Felix; and therefore if there were any thing amiſs in the firſt taking of him into Cuſtody, Feſtus is not to anſwer for that, for he found him in Bonds. When Felix to to do the Jews a Pleaſure, left Paul bound, tho' he knew him to be innocent, he knew not what he did; knew not but he might have fallen into worſe Hands than he did fall into, tho' they were none of the beſt.

2. That the Jewiſh Sanhedrin were extremely ſet againſt him; The chief Prieſts and the Elders inform'd me againſt him as a Dangerous Man, and not fit to live, and deſir'd he might therefore be condemn'd to die: Theſe being great Pretenders to Religion, and therefore to be ſuppos'd Men of Honour and Honeſty, Feſtus thinks he ought to give Credit to; but Agrippa knows them better than he doth, and therefore he deſires his Advice in the Matter.

3. That he had inſiſted upon the Roman Law in Favour of the Priſoner, and would not condemn him unheard, v. 16. It is not the manner of the Romans, who herein govern themſelves by the Law of Nature, and the Fundamental Rules of Juſtice to deliver any Man to die, to grant him to Deſtruction, ſo the Word is, to gratify his Enemies with his Deſtruction, before the Accuſed has the Accuſers Face to Face, to confront their Teſtimony, and have both Licence and Time given him to Anſwer for himſelf. He ſeems to upbraid them as if they reflected upon the Romans and their Government in asking ſuch a Thing, or expecting that they would condemn a Man without trying him; No, ſaith he, I would have you to know, whatever you may allow of among yourſelves, the Romans allow not of ſuch a piece of Injuſtice among them. Audi & alteram partem, was become a Proverb among them; Hear t'other Side. This Rule we ought to be govern'd by in our private Cenſures, in common Converſation; we muſt not give Men ill Characters, nor condemn their Words and Actions till we have heard what is to be ſaid in their Vindication. See Joh. vii. 51.

4. That he had brought him upon his Tryal, according to the Duty of his Place, v. 17. That he had been expeditious in it, and the Proſecutors had no Reaſon to complain of his being dilatory, for as ſoon as ever they were come, and who are ſure they loſt no Time, without any delay, on the Morrow, he had brought on the Cauſe. He had likewiſe Try'd him in the moſt ſolemn Manner, he ſate on the Judgment ſeat, as they us'd to do in weightier Cauſes, while thoſe that were of ſmall Moment, they judg'd de plano, upon even Ground. He call'd a great Court on Purpoſe for the Tryal of Paul, that the Sentence might be Definitive, and the Cauſe ended.

5. That he was extreamly diſappointed in the Charge they brought againſt him, v. 18, 19. When the Accuſers ſtood up againſt him, and open'd their Indictment, they brought none Accuſations of ſuch Things as I ſuppos'd: He ſuppos'd by the eagerneſs of their Proſecution, and their urging of it thus upon the Roman Governors one after another, (1.) That they had ſomething to accuſe him of that was dangerous either to private Property, or the publick Peace, That they would undertake to prove him a Robber, or a Murderer, or a Rebel againſt the Roman Power; That he had been in Arms to Head a Sedition; that if he were not that Egyptian who lately made an Uproar, and commanded a Party of Cut-throats, as the chief Captain ſuppos'd him to be, yet that he was One of the ſame Kidney. Such were the Out-cries againſt the Primitive Chriſtians, ſo loud, ſo fierce, that the Standers-by, who judg'd of them by thoſe Out-cries, could not but conclude them the worſt of Men, and to repreſent 'em ſo, was the Deſign of that Clamour, as it was againſt our Saviour. (2.) That they had ſomething to accuſe him of that was Conuſable in the Roman Courts, and which the Governor was properly the Judge of, as Gallio expected, Acts xviii. 14. otherwiſe it was abſurd and ridiculous to trouble him with it, and really an Affront to him.

But to his great Surprize, he finds the Matter is neither ſo, nor ſo: They had certain Queſtions againſt him, inſtead of Proofs and Evidences againſt him; the worſt they had to ſay againſt him, was Diſputable whether it was a Crime or no, Moot-Point, that would bear an endleſs Debate, but had no Tendency to faſten, any Guilt upon him; Queſtions fitter for the Schools than for the Judgment-ſeat. And they were Queſtions of their own Superſtition, ſo he calls their Religion; or rather, ſo he calls that Part of their Religion which Paul was charg'd with doing Damage to. The Romans Protected their Religion according to their Law, but not their Superſtition, nor the Tradition of their Elders. But the great Queſtion it ſeems was concerning one Jeſus that was dead, whom Paul affirm'd to be alive. Some think the Superſtition he ſpeaks of was the Chriſtian Religion, which Paul preached, and that he had the ſame Notion of it that the Athenians had, that it was the introducing of a new Dæmon, even Jeſus. See how ſlightly this Roman ſpeaks of Chriſt, and of his Death and Reſurrection, and of the great Controverſy between the Jews and the Chriſtians, whether he were the Meſſiah promis'd or no; and the great Proof of his being the Meſſiah, his Reſurrection from the Dead, as if it were no more but this; There was one Jeſus that was dead, and Paul affirm'd, he was alive. In many Cauſes Iſſue is joyn'd upon this Queſtion, Whether ſuch a Perſon that has been long abſent be living, or dead, and Proofs are brought on both Sides; and Feſtus will have it thought that this is a Matter of no more Moment. Whereas this Jeſus, whom he prides himſelf in being thus ignorant of, as if he were below his Notice, is He that was dead, and is alive, and lives for evermore, and has the Keys of Hell and of Death, Rev. i. 18. What Paul affirm'd concerning Jeſus, That He is alive, is a Truth of ſuch vaſt Importance, that if it be not true, we are all undone.

6. That therefore he had mov'd it to Paul, That the Cauſe might be adjourn'd to the Jewiſh Courts, as beſt able to take Cognizance of an Affair of this Nature, v. 20. Becauſe I doubted of ſuch manner of Queſtions. and thought my ſelf unfit to judge of Things I did not underſtand, I ask'd him, Whether he would go to Jeruſalem, appear before the Great Sanhedrin, and there be judg'd of theſe Matters? He would not force him to it, but ſhould be glad he would conſent to it, that he might not have his Conſcience burthen'd with a Cauſe of this Nature.

7. That Paul had choſen rather to remove his Cauſe to Rome than to Jeruſalem, as expecting fairer Play from the Emperor than from the Prieſts. He appeal'd to be reſerv'd to the Hearing of Auguſtus, v. 21. having no other Way to ſtop Proceedings here in this inferior Court; and therefore I have commanded him to be kept a cloſe Priſoner, till I might ſend him to Cæſar; for I did not ſee Cauſe to refuſe his Appeal, but rather was pleas'd with it.

Thirdly, The bringing of him before Agrippa, that he might have the Hearing of his Cauſe.

1. The King deſir'd it. v. 22. I thank you for your Account of him, but I would alſo hear the Man myſelf; Agrippa knows more of this Matter than Feſtus doth of the Cauſe, and of the Perſon; he has heard of Paul, and knows of what vaſt Concern this Queſtion is, which Feſtus makes ſuch a jeſt of, Whether, Jeſus be alive or no? And nothing would oblige him more than to hear Paul Many great Men think it below them to take Cognizance of the Matters of Religion, except they can hear them like themſelves, in the Judgment-ſeat. Agrippa would not for all the World to have gone to a Meeting to hear Paul preach, no more than Herod to hear Jeſus; and yet are both glad to have them brought before them, only to ſatisfy their Curioſity. Perhaps Agrippa deſir'd to hear him himſelf, that he might be in a Capacity to do him a Kindneſs, and yet did him none, only put ſome Credit upon him.

2. Feſtus granted it; To Morrow thou ſhalt hear him. There was a good Providence in this for the Encouragement of Paul, who ſeem'd bury'd alive in his Impriſonment, and depriv'd of all Opportunities of doing Good; we know not of any of his Epiſtles that bore Date from his Priſon at Cæſarea; what Opportunity he had of doing Good to his Friends that viſited him, and perhaps to little Congregation of them that might viſit him every Lord's-Day, was but a low and narrow Sphere of Uſefulneſs, ſo that he ſeem'd to be thrown by as a deſpis'd broken Veſſel, and a Veſſel in which there was no Pleaſure; but this gives him an Opportunity of Preaching Chriſt to a great Congregation, and which is more, to a Congregation of great Ones. Felix heard him in private concerning the Faith of Chriſt: But Agrippa and Feſtus agree he ſhall be heard in publick. And we have reaſon to think, that his Sermon in the next Chapter, tho' it might not be ſo inſtrumental as ſome other of his Sermons for the Converſion of Souls, yet redounded as much to the Honour of Chriſt and Chriſtianity as any Sermon he ever preach'd in his Life.

3. Great Preparation was made for it, v. 23. The next Day there was a great Appearance in the Place of Hearing, Paul and his Cauſe being much talk'd of, and the more for their being much talk'd againſt.

1. Agrippa and Bernice took this Opportunity to ſhew themſelves in State, and to make a Figure, and perhaps for that End deſir'd the Occaſion, that they might ſee and be ſeen; for they came with great Pomp; richly dreſs'd with Gold and Pearl, and coſtly Array; with a great Retinue of Footmen in rich Liveries which made a ſplendid Shew and dazzled the Eyes of the gazing Croud. They came μετὰ πολλῆς φαντασίας, with great Fancy, ſo the Word is. Note, Great Pomp; is but great Fancy, it neither adds any real Excellency, nor gains any real Reſpects, but feeds a vain Humour, which Wiſe Men would rather mortify, than gratify. 'Tis but a Shew, a Dream, a Fantaſtical Thing, ſo the Word ſignifies, ſuperficial, and it paſſeth away. And the Pomp of this Appearance, would put One for ever out of Conceit with Pomp, when the Pomp which Agrippa and Bernice appear'd in was (1.) ſtain'd by their lewd Characters, and all the Beauty of it ſully'd, and all virtuous People that knew them could not but contemn them in the midſt of all this Pomp, as vile Perſons, Pſal. xv. 4. (2.) Out-ſhone by the real Glory of the poor Priſoner at the Bar; What was the Honour of their fine Clothes, compar'd with that of his Wiſdom and Grace, and Holineſs; his Courage and Conſtancy in ſuffering for Chriſt! His Bonds in ſo good a Cauſe were more glorious than their Chains of Gold; and his Guards than their Equipage. Who would be fond of Worldly Pomp, that here ſees ſo ill a Woman loaded with it, and ſo good a Man loaded with the Reverſe of it?

2. The chief Captain and principal Men of the City took this Opportunity to pay their Reſpects to Feſtus and to his Gueſts, it anſwer'd the End of a Ball at Court, it brought the fine Folks together in their fine Clothes, and ſerv'd for an Entertainment. 'Tis probable, Feſtus ſent Paul notice of it over Night, to be ready for a Hearing the next Morning before Agrippa: And ſuch a Confidence had Paul in the Promiſe of Chriſt, That it ſhould be given him in that ſame Hour what he ſhould ſpeak, that he complain'd not of the ſhort Warning, nor was put into Confuſion by it. And I am apt to think they that were to appear in Pomp, perplex'd themſelves more with Care about their Clothes, than Paul that was to appear as a Priſoner did with Care about his Cauſe; for he knew whom he had believ'd, and who ſtood by him.

Fourthly, The Speech with which Feſtus introduc'd the Cauſe, when the Court, or rather, the Audience was ſet; which is much to the ſame Purpoſe with the Account he had juſt now given to Agrippa.

1. He addreſſeth himſelf reſpectfully to the Company; King Agrippa, and all Men which are here preſent with us. He ſpeaks to all the Men, πάντες ἄνδρες, as if he intended a tacit Reflection upon Bernice, a Woman, for appearing in a Meeting of this Nature; he doth not refer any Thing to her Judgment, or deſire her Counſel; but all you that are preſent, that are Men, ſo the Words are plac'd) I deſire you to take Cognizance of this Matter. The Word us'd is that which ſignifies Men in diſtinction from Women; What had Bernice to do here?

2. He repreſents the Priſoner as One that the Jews had a very great Spite againſt; not only the Rulers, but the Multitude of them, both at Jeruſalem, and here at Cæſarea, cry out, That he ought not to live any longer, for they think he has liv'd too long already; and if he liv'd any longer it would be to do more Miſchief. They could not charge him with any capital Crime, but they want to have him out of the way.

3. He confeſſeth the Priſoner's Innocency; And it was much for the Honour of Paul and his Bonds, that he had ſuch a publick Acknowledgment as this from the Mouth of his Judge, v. 25. I found that he had committed nothing worthy of Death; upon a full Hearing of the Cauſe, it appear'd that there was no Evidence at all to ſupport the Indictment; and therefore tho' he was inclinable enough to favour the Proſecutors, yet his own Conſcience brought in Paul, Not Guilty. And why did he not diſcharge him then, for he ſtood upon his Deliverance? why truly, becauſe he was ſo much clamour'd againſt, and he fear'd the Clamour would turn upon himſelf if he ſhould releaſe him: 'Tis pity but every Man that has a Conſcience, ſhould have Courage to act according to it. Or, perhaps, becauſe there was ſo much Smoke, he concluded there could not but be ſome Fire, which would appear at laſt, and he would continue him a Priſoner in Expectation of it.

4. He acquaints them with the preſent State of the Caſe; That the Priſoner had appeal'd to the Emperor himſelf; whereby he put an Honour upon his own Cauſe, as knowing it not unworthy the Cognizance of the greateſt of Men. And that he had admitted his Appeal; I have determin'd to ſend him. And thus the Cauſe now ſtood.

5. He deſires their Aſſiſtance in examining the Matter, calmly and impartially, now there was no Danger of their being interrupted, as he had been with the noiſineſs and outrage of the Proſecutors; that he might have at leaſt ſuch an Inſight into the Cauſe as was neceſſary to his ſtating of it to the Emperor, v. 26, 27. (1.) He thought it unreaſonable to ſend a Priſoner, eſpecially ſo far as Rome, and not withal to ſignify the Crimes laid againſt him, that the Matter might be prepar'd as much as poſſible, and put in a readineſs for the Emperor's Determination; for he is ſuppos'd to be a Man of great Buſineſs, and therefore every Affair muſt be laid before him in as little Compaſs as poſſible. 2. He could not as yet write any Thing certain concerning Paul; ſo confus'd were the Information that were given in againſt him, and ſo inconſiſtent, that he could make nothing at all of them. (3.) He therefore deſir'd he might be thus publickly examin'd, that he might be adviſ'd by them what to write. See what a great deal of Trouble and Vexation they were put to, and to what Delay, nay, and to what Hazard in the Adminiſtration of publick Juſtice, who liv'd at ſuch a Diſtance from Rome, and yet were Subject to the Emperor of Rome; And the ſame was this Nation of ours put to, which is about as far diſtant from Rome the other way, when it was in Eccleſiaſtical Affairs Subject to the Pope of Rome, and Appeals were upon all Occaſions made to his Court; and the ſame Miſchiefs and a Thouſand worſe would they bring upon us, who would again entangle us in that Yoke of Bondage.

CHAP. XXVI.

We left Paul at the Bar, and Feſtus and Agrippa and Bernice, and all the great Men of the City of Cæſarea upon the Bench, or about it, waiting to hear what he had to ſay for himſelf. Now in this Chapter we have, 1. The Account he gives of himſelf in Anſwer to the Calumnies of the Jews. And in that, (1.) His humble Addreſs to King Agrippa, and the Complement he paſs'd upon him, v. 1—3. (2.) His Account of his Original and Education, and his Profeſſion as a Phariſee, and his Adherence ſtill to that which was then the main Article of his Creed, in diſtinction from the Sadduces, the Reſurrection of the Dead; however in Rituals he had ſince departed from it, v. 4—8. (3.) Of his Zeal againſt the Chriſtian Religion, and the Profeſſors of it in the beginning of his Time, v. 9—11. (4.) Of his Miraculous Converſion to the Faith of Chriſt, v. 12—16. (5.) Of the Commiſſion he receiv'd from Heaven, to preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles, v. 17, 18. (6.) Of his Proceedings purſuant to that Commiſſion, which had given this mighty Offence to the Jews, v. 19—21. (7.) Of the Doctrine which he had made it his Buſineſs to preach to the Gentiles, which was ſo far from deſtroying the Law and the Prophets, that it ſhew'd the fulfilling of both, v, 22, 23. 2. The Remarks that were made upon his Apology. (1.) Feſtus thought he never heard a Man talk ſo madly, and ſlighted him as craz'd, v. 24. And in Anſwer to him he denies the Charge, and appeals to King Agrippa, v. 25, 26. (2.) King Agrippa being more cloſely and particularly dealt with, thinks he never heard a Man talk more rationally, and convincingly, and owns himſelf almoſt his Convert, v. 28. And Paul heartily wiſhes him ſo, v. 29. (3.) They all agree that he was an Innocent Man, and that he ought to be ſet at Liberty, and it was pity he was provok'd to put a Bar in his own Door, by Appealing to Cæſar, v. 30—31.

THEN Agrippa ſaid unto Paul, Thou art permitted to ſpeak for thy ſelf. Then Paul ſtretched forth the hand, and anſwered for himſelf, 2 I think my ſelf happy, king Agrippa, becauſe I ſhall anſwer for my ſelf, this day before thee, touching all the things whereof I am accuſed of the Jews: 3 Eſpecially becauſe I know thee to be expert in all cuſtoms and queſtions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beſeech thee to hear me patiently. 4 My manner of life from my youth, which was at the firſt among mine own nation at Jeruſalem, know all the Jews, 5 Which knew me from the beginning, (if they would teſtifie) that after the moſt ſtraiteſt ſect of our religion, I lived a Phariſee. 6 And now I ſtand, and am judged for the hope of the promiſe made of God unto our fathers: 7 Unto which promiſe our twelve tribes inſtantly ſerving God day and night, hope to come: for which hopes ſake, king Agrippa, I am accuſe of the Jews. 8 Why ſhould it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God ſhould raiſe the dead? 9 I verily thought with my ſelf, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jeſus of Nazareth. 10 Which thing I alſo did in Jeruſalem: and many of the ſaints did I ſhut up in priſon, having receiv'd authority from the chief prieſts; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice againſt them. 11 And I puniſhed them oft in every ſynagogue, and compelled them to blaſpheme; and being exceedingly mad againſt them, I perſecuted them even unto ſtrange cities.

Agrippa was the moſt Honourable Perſon in the Aſſembly, having the Title of King beſtow'd upon him, tho' otherwiſe having only the Power of the other Governors under the Emperor; and tho' not here ſuperior yet ſenior to Feſtus, and therefore Feſtus having open'd the Cauſe, he as the Mouth of the Court, intimates to Paul a Licence given him to ſpeak for himſelf, v. 1. And Paul was ſilent till he had that Liberty allow'd him; for thoſe are not the moſt forward to ſpeak, that are beſt prepared to ſpeak, and ſpeak beſt. This was a Favour which the Jews would not allow him, or not without difficulty; but Agrippa freely gives it him. And Paul's Cauſe was ſo good, that he deſir'd no more, but to have Liberty to ſpeak for himſelf, he needed no Advocate, no Tertullus to ſpeak for him.

Notice is taken of his Geſture, he ſtretch'd forth the Hand, as one that was under no Conſternation at all, but a perfect freedom and command of himſelf; it alſo intimates, that he was in earneſt, and expected their Attention, while he anſwer'd for himſelf. Obſerve, He did not inſiſt upon his having appeal'd to Cæſar, as an Excuſe for being ſilent; did not ſay, I'll be examin'd no more till I come to the Emperor himſelf; but chearfully embraceth the Opportunity of doing Honour to the Cauſe he ſuffer'd for. If we muſt be ready to give to every Man that asketh us, much more to every Man in Authority, a Reaſon of the Hope that is in us, 1 Pet. iii. 15.

Now in this former Part of the Speech,

Firſt, Paul addreſſeth himſelf with a very particular Reſpect to Agrippa, v. 2, 3. He anſwer'd chearfully before Felix, becauſe he knew he had been many Years a Judge to that Nation, chap. xxiv. 10. But his Opinion of Agrippa goes further. Obſerve,

1. Being accus'd of the Jews, and having many Ill Things laid to his Charge, he is glad he has an Opportunity of clearing himſelf; ſo far is he from imagining that his being an Apoſtle exempted him from the Juriſdiction of the Civil Powers. Maſtracy is an Ordinance of GOD which we have all Benefit by, and therefore muſt all be ſubject to.

2. Since he is forc'd to anſwer for himſelf, he is glad it is before King Agrippa, who being himſelf a Proſelyte to the Jewiſh Religion underſtood all Matters relating to that, better than the other Roman Governors did; I know thee to be expert in all Cuſtoms and Queſtions which are among the Jews. It ſeems Agrippa was a Scholar, and had been particularly converſant in the Jewiſh Learning; was expert in the Cuſtoms of the Jewiſh Religion, and knew the Nature of 'em, and that they were not deſign'd to be either univerſal or perpetual: He was expert alſo in the Queſtions that aroſe upon thoſe Cuſtoms, in determining of which the Jews themſelves were not all of a Mind. Agrippa was well vers'd in the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, and therefore could make a better Judgment upon the Controverſy between him and the Jews concerning Jeſus being the Meſſiah than another could. It is an Encouragement to a Preacher, to have thoſe to ſpeak to that are intelligent, and can diſcern Things that differ. When Paul ſaith, Judge ye what I ſay, yet he ſpeaks as to wiſe Men, 1 Cor. x. 15.

3. He therefore begs that he would hear him patiently, μακροθύμως with Long-ſuffering. Paul deſign'd a long Diſcourſe, and begs he would hear him out, and not be weary; he deſigns a plain Diſcourſe, and begs he would hear him with Mildneſs, and not be angry. Paul had ſome Reaſon to fear that as Agrippa being a Jew, was well vers'd in the Jewiſh Cuſtoms, and therefore the more competent Judge of his Cauſe, ſo he was ſour'd in ſome meaſure with the Jewiſh Leaven, and therefore prejudic'd againſt Paul as the Apoſtle of the Gentiles; he therefore ſaith this to ſweeten him, I beſeech thee, hear me patiently. Sure the leaſt we can expect, when we preach the Faith of Chriſt, is to be heard patiently.

Secondly, He profeſſeth that tho' he was hated and branded as an Apoſtate, yet he ſtill adher'd to all that Good which he was firſt educated and trained up in; his Religion was always built upon the Promiſe of GOD made unto the Fathers; and this he ſtill built upon.

1. See here what his Religion was in his Youth; his Manner of Life was well known, v. 4, 5. He was not indeed born among his own Nation, but he was bred among them at Jeruſalem. Tho' he had of late Years been converſant with the Gentiles, which had given great Offence to the Jews, yet at his ſetting-out in the World he was intimately acquainted with the Jewiſh Nation, and intirely in their Intereſts. His Education was neither foreign nor obſcure, 'twas among his own Nation at Jeruſalem, where Religion and Learning flouriſhed. All the Jews knew it, all that could remember ſo long, for Paul made himſelf remarkable betimes. They that knew him from the Beginning, could teſtify for him that he was a Phariſee; that he was not only of the Jewiſh Religion, and an Obſerver of all the Ordinances of it, but that he was of the moſt ſtrict Sect of that Religion, moſt nice and exact in obſerving the Inſtitutions of it himſelf, and moſt rigid and critical in impoſing them upon others. He was not only call'd a Phariſee, but he liv'd a Phariſee: All that knew him, knew very well that never any Phariſee conform'd more punctually to the Rules of his Order than he did. Nay, and he was of the better Sort of Phariſees; for he was brought up at the Feet of Gamaliel, who was an eminent Rabbin of the School or Houſe of Hillel, who was in much greater Reputation for Religion than the School or Houſe of Samai.

Now if Paul was a Phariſee, and liv'd a Phariſee,

(1.) Then he was a Scholar, a Man of Learning, and not an ignorant illiterate Mechanick: The Phariſees knew the Law, and were well vers'd in it, and in the Traditional Expoſitions of it. It was a Reproach to the other Apoſtles, that they had not had Academical Education, but were bred Fiſhermen, Acts iv. 13. Therefore that the unbelieving Jews might be left without Excuſe, here is an Apoſtle rais'd up that had ſate at the Feet of their moſt eminent Doctors.

(2.) Then he was a Moraliſt, a Man of Virtue, and not a Rake, or a looſe debauch'd young Man; if he liv'd like a Phariſee, he was no Drunkard or Fornicator; and being a young Phariſee, we may hope he was no Extortioner, nor had yet learn'd the Arts which the crafty, covetous old Phariſees had of devouring the Houſes of poor Widows; but he was, as touching the Righteouſneſs which is the Law, blameleſs; he was not chargeable with any Inſtances of open Vice and Profaneneſs; and therefore as he could not be thought to have deſerted his Religion becauſe he did not know it, for he was a learned Man; ſo he could not be thought to have deſerted it, becauſe he did not love it, or was diſaffected to the Obligations of it, for he was a Virtuous Man, and not inclin'd to any Immorality.

(3.) Then he was Orthodox ſound in the Faith, and not a Deiſt or Sceptick, or a Man of corrupt Principles that led to Infidelity; He was a Phariſee, in oppoſition to a Sadducee; he receiv'd thoſe Books of the Old Teſtament which the Sadduces rejected, believ'd a World of Spirits, the Immortality of the Soul, the Reſurrection of the Body, and the Rewards and Puniſhments of the future State, all which the Sadducees deny'd. They could not ſay, he quitted his Religion for want of a Principle, or for want of a due Regard to Divine Revelation; No, he always had a Veneration for the ancient Promiſe made of GOD unto the Fathers, and and built his Hope upon it.

Now tho' Paul knew very well that all this would not juſtify him before GOD, nor make a Righteouſneſs for him, yet he knew it was for his Reputation among the Jews, and an Argument ad hominem, that he was not ſuch a Man as they repreſented him to be. Tho' he counted it but Loſs that he might win Chriſt; yet he mentions it when it might ſerve to honour Chriſt. He knew very well that all this while he was a ſtranger to the ſpiritual Nature of the Divine Law, and to Heart Religion, and that except his Righteouſneſs exceeded this, he ſhould never go to Heaven; yet he reflects upon it with ſome Satisfaction that he had not been before his Converſion an atheiſtical, profane, vicious Man, but according to the Light he had, had liv'd in all good Conſcience before GOD.

2. See here what his Religion is; He has not indeed ſuch a Zeal for the Ceremonial Law, as he had in his Youth, the Sacrifices and Offerings appointed by that, he thinks are ſuperſeded by the Great Sacrifice which they typify'd; Ceremonial Pollutions and Purifications from them, he makes no Conſcience of, and thinks the Levitical Prieſthood is honourably ſwallow'd up in the Prieſthood of Chriſt; but for the main Principles of his Religion, he is as zealous for them as ever, and more ſo, and reſolves to live and die by them.

1. His Religion is built upon the Promiſe made of GOD unto the Fathers; 'Tis built upon Divine Revelation, which he receives and believes and ventures his Soul upon; 'tis built upon Divine Grace, and that Grace manifeſted and convey'd by Promiſe. The Promiſe of GOD is the Guide and Ground of his Religion; the Promiſe made to the Fathers, which was more ancient than the Ceremonial Law, that Ceremony which was confirm'd before of GOD in Chriſt, and which the Law that was not till four hundred and thirty Years after, could not diſanul, Gal. iii. 17. Chriſt and Heaven are the two Great Doctrines of the Goſpel, that GOD has given to us Eternal Life, and this Life is in his Son. Now theſe two are the Matter of the Promiſe made unto the Fathers; it may look back as far as the Promiſe made to Father Adam, concerning the Seed of the Woman, and thoſe Diſcoveries of a future State, which the firſt Patriarchs acted Faith upon, and were ſav'd by that Faith; but it reſpects chiefly the Promiſe made to Father Abraham, That in his Seed all the Families of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed; and, that GOD would be a GOD to him, and to his Seed after him. The former meaning Chriſt, the latter Heaven; for if GOD had not prepar'd for them a City, he would have been aſham'd to have call'd himſelf their God. Heb. xi. 16.

2. His Religion conſiſts in the Hopes of this Promiſe; He placeth it not, as they did, in Meats and Drinks, and the Obſervation of Carnal Ordinances, GOD had often ſhew'd what little account He made of them, but in a believing Dependance upon GOD's Grace in the Covenant, and upon the Promiſe, which was the Great Charter by which the Church was firſt Incorporated. (1.) He had Hope in Chriſt as the promis'd Seed; he hop'd to be bleſſed in him; to receive the Bleſſing of GOD, and to be truly bleſſed, (2.) He had Hopes of Heaven; This is expreſly meant, as appears by comparing, chap. xxiv. 15. That there ſhall be a Reſurrection of the Dead. Paul had no Confidence in the Fleſh, but in Chriſt; no Expectation at all of great Things in this World, but of greater things in the other World, than any this World can pretend to; he had his Eye upon a future State.

3. Herein he concurr'd with all the pious Jews; His Faith was not only according to the Scripture, but according to the Teſtimony of the Church, which was a ſupport to it. Tho' they ſet him up as a Mark, he was not ſingular; Our Twelve Tribes, the Body of the Jewiſh Church, inſtantly ſerving GOD Day and Night, hope to come to this Promiſe, i. e. to the Good promis'd. The People of Iſrael are call'd the Twelve Tribes, becauſe ſo they were at firſt; and tho' we read not of the Return of the ten Tribes in a Body, yet we have Reaſon to think many particular Perſons, more or leſs of every Tribe return'd to their own Land; perhaps by Degrees, the greater part of them that were carry'd away. Chriſt ſpeaks of the Twelve Tribes, Matth. 19. 21. Anna was of the Tribe of Aſher, Luke ii. 36. James directs his Epiſtle to the Twelve Tribes ſcatter'd abroad, Jam. i. 1. Our Twelve Tribes, which make up the Body of our Nation, to which I and others belong. Now all the Iſraelites profeſs to believe in this Promiſe both of Chriſt and Heaven, and hope to come, to the Benefits of them. They all hope for Meſſiah to come, and we that are Chriſtians hope in a Meſſiah already come; ſo that we all agree to build upon the ſame Promiſe. They look for the Reſurrection of the Dead, and the Life of the World to come, and that's it that I look for. Why ſhould I be look'd upon as advancing ſomething dangerous and heterodox, or as an Apoſtate from the Faith and Worſhip of the Jewiſh Church, when I agree with them in this Fundamental Article? I hope to come to the ſame Heaven at laſt that they hope to come too; and if we expect to meet ſo happily in our End, why ſhould we fall out ſo unhappily by the Way.

Nay, the Jewiſh Church not only hop'd to come to this Promiſe, but in the hope of it they inſtantly ſerv'd GOD Day and Night. The Temple Service which conſiſted in a continual Courſe of the religious Duties, Morning and Evening, Day and Night, from the Beginning of the Year to the End of it, and was kept up by the Prieſts and Levites, and the Stationary Men, as they call'd them, who continually attended there to lay their Hands upon the publick Sacrifices, as the Repreſentatives of all the Twelve Tribes. This Service was kept up in the Profeſſion of Faith in the Promiſe of Eternal Life, and in Expectation of it, Paul inſtantly ſerves God Day and Night in the Goſpel of his Son; the Twelve Tribes by their Repreſentatives do ſo in the Law of Moſes, but he and they do it in hope of the ſame Promiſe; and therefore they ought not to look upon me as a Deſerter from their Church, ſo long as I hold by the ſame Promiſe that they hold by. Much more ſhould Chriſtians that hope in the ſame Jeſus for the ſame Heaven, tho' differing in the Modes and Ceremonies of Worſhip, hope the beſt one of another, and live together in holy Love. Or it may be meant of particular Perſons who continu'd in the Communion of the Jewiſh Church, and were very devout in their Way, ſerving GOD with great Intention, and a cloſe Application of Mind, and conſtant in it, Night and Day, as Anna who departed not from the Temple, but ſerv'd ('tis the ſame Word here us'd) in Faſtings and Prayers Night and Day, Luke. ii. 37. In this Way they hope to come to the Promiſe, and I hope they will. Note, Thoſe only can upon good Grounds hope for eternal Life, that are diligent and conſtant in the Service of GOD; and the Proſpect of that Eternal Life ſhould engage us to Diligence and Conſtancy in our Religious Exerciſes. We ſhould go on with our Work in Heaven in our Eye. And thoſe that inſtantly ſerve GOD Day and Night, tho' not in our Way, we ought to judge charitably of.

4. This was it that he was now ſuffering for; for Preaching that Doctrine which they themſelves, if they did but underſtand themſelves aright, muſt own. I am judged for the Hope of the Promiſe made unto the Fathers. He ſtuck to the Promiſe againſt the Ceremonial Law, while his Perſecutors ſtuck to the Ceremonial Law againſt the Promiſe; ſo that 'tis for this Hope's ſake, King Agrippa, that I am accus'd of the Jews; becauſe I do that which I think my ſelf oblig'd to do by the Hope of that Promiſe. 'Tis common for Men to hate and perſecute the Power of that Religion in others, which yet they pride themſelves in the Form of. Paul's Hope was what they themſelves alſo allow'd, chap. xxiv. 15. and yet they were thus enrag'd againſt him for practiſing according to that Hope. But it was his Honour, that when he ſuffer'd as a Chriſtian he ſuffer'd for the Hope of Iſrael, chap. xxviii. 20.

5. This was it which he would perſuade all that heard him cordially to embrace, v. 8. Why ſhould it be thought a Thing incredible with you that GOD ſhould raiſe the Dead? This ſeems to come in ſomewhat abruptly; but 'tis likely Paul ſaid much more than is here recorded; and that he explain'd the Promiſe made to the Fathers, to be the Promiſe of the Reſurrection and Eternal Life, and prov'd that he was in the right Way of purſuing his hope of that Happineſs, becauſe he believ'd in Chriſt who was riſen from the Dead, which was a Pledge and Earneſt of that Reſurrection, which the Fathers hoped for; Paul is therefore earneſt to know the Power of Chriſt's Reſurrection, that by it he may attain to the Reſurrection of the Dead, See Phil. iii. 10, 11. Now many of his Hearers were Gentiles, moſt of them perhaps, Feſtus particularly, and we may ſuppoſe when they heard him ſpeak ſo much of Chriſt's Reſurrection, and of the Reſurrection from the Dead which the Twelve Tribes hoped for, they mocked as the Athenians did, began to ſmile at it, and whiſper'd to one another what an abſurd Thing it was; which occaſion'd Paul thus to reaſon with them, What? Is it thought incredible with you that GOD ſhould raiſe the Dead? ſo it may be read, If it be marvellous in your Eyes, ſhould it be marvellous in mine Eyes, ſaith the LORD of Hoſts, Zech. viii. 6. If it be above the Power of Nature, yet it is not above the Power of the GOD of Nature. Note, There is no reaſon why we ſhould think it at all incredible that GOD ſhould raiſe the Dead. We are not required to believe any Thing that is incredible, any Thing that implies a Contradiction. There are Motives of Credibility ſufficient to carry us thro' all the Doctrines of the Chriſtian Religion, and this particularly of the Reſurrection of the Dead. Hath not GOD an infinite Almighty Power to which Nothing is impoſſible? Did not he at firſt make the World out of Nothing, with a Word's ſpeaking? Did he not form our Bodies, form them out of the Clay, and breathe into us the Breath of Life at firſt, and cannot the ſame Power form them again out of their own Clay, and put Life into them again? Do we not ſee a kind of Reſurrection in Nature at the return of every Spring?

Hath the Sun ſuch a Force to raiſe dead Plants, and ſhould it ſeem incredible to us that GOD ſhould raiſe dead Bodies?

Thirdly, He acknowledgeth, that while he continu'd a Phariſee, he was a bitter Enemy to Chriſtians, and Chriſtianity, and thought he ought to be ſo, and continu'd ſo to the Moment that Chriſt wrought that wonderful Change in him. This he mentions,

1. To ſhew that his becoming a Chriſtian and a Preacher, was not the Product and Reſult of any previous Diſpoſition or Inclination that Way, or any gradual advance of Thought in favour of the Chriſtian Doctrine; he did not reaſon himſelf into Chriſtianity by a Chain of Arguments, but was brought into the higheſt Degree of an Aſſurance of it, immediately from the higheſt Degree of Prejudice againſt it: By which it appear'd, that he was made a Chriſtian and a Preacher by a ſupernatural Power; ſo that his Converſion in ſuch a miraculous Way, was not only to himſelf, but to others alſo, a convincing Proof of the Truth of Chriſtianity.

2. Perhaps he deſigns it for ſuch an Excuſe of his Perſecutors as Chriſt made for his, when he ſaid, They know not what they do; Paul himſelf, when Time was, thought he did what he ought to do when he perſecuted the Diſciples of Chriſt, and he charitably thinks they labour'd under the like Miſtake. Obſerve.

1. What a Fool he was in his Opinion, v. 9. He thought with himſelf, that he ought do many Things, every thing that lay in his Power, contrary to the Name of Jeſus of Nazareth, contrary to his Doctrine, his Honour, his Intereſt: That Name did no harm, yet becauſe it agreed not with the Notion he had of the Kingdom of the Meſſiah, he was for doing all he could againſt it. He thought he did God good Service in perſecuting thoſe who call'd on the Name of Jeſus Chriſt. Note, 'Tis poſſible for thoſe to be confident they are in the right, who yet are evidently in the wrong; and for thoſe to think they are doing their Duty, who are wilfully perſiſting in the greateſt Sin. They that hated their Brethren and caſt them out ſaid, Let the Lord be glorify'd, Iſa. lxvi. 5. Under Colour and Pretext of Religion, the moſt barbarous and inhuman Villanies have been not only juſtify'd, but ſanctify'd and magnify'd, John xvi. 2.

2. What a Fury he was in Practice, v. 10, 11. There is not a more violent Principle in the World than Conſcience miſ-informed; when Paul thought it his Duty to do all he could againſt the Name of Chriſt, he ſpared no Pains or Coſt in it. He gives an Account of what he did of that Kind, and aggravates it as one that was truly penitent for it, I was a Blaſphemer, a Perſecutor, 1 Tim. i. 13.

1. He fill'd the Goals with Chriſtians, as if they had been the worſt of Criminals, deſigning hereby not only to terrify them, but to make them odious to the People, He was the Devil that caſt ſome of them into Priſon, Rev. ii. 10. took them into Cuſtody in order to their being proſecuted; Many of the Saints did I ſhut up in Priſon, both Men and Women, Acts viii. 2.

2. He made himſelf the Tool of the chief Prieſts; herein from them he received Authority, as an inferior Officer to put their Laws in Execution, and proud enough he was to be a Man in Authority for ſuch a Purpoſe.

3. He was very officious to Vote unasked for the putting of Chriſtians to Death, particularly Stephen, to whoſe Death Saul was conſenting, Acts viii. 1. and ſo made himſelf particeps criminis. Perhaps he was for his great Zeal, tho' young, made a Member of the Sanhedrin, and their Voted for the condemning of Chriſtians to die; or after they were condemn'd, he juſtify'd what was done, and commended it, and ſo made himſelf guilty ex poſt facto, as if he had been a Judge or Jury-man.

4. He brought them under Puniſhments of an inferior Nature, in the Synagogues, where they were ſcourg'd as Tranſgreſſors of the Rules of the Synagogue; he had a Hand in the puniſhing of divers; nay it ſhould ſeem the ſame Perſons were by his Means often puniſh'd; as he himſelf was five times, 2 Cor. xi. 24.

5. He not only puniſh'd them for their Religion, but taking a Pride in triumphing over Mens Conſciences, he forc'd them to abjure their Religion, by putting them to the Torture; I compelled them to blaſpheme Chriſt, and to ſay, he was a Deceiver, and they were deceived in him; compell'd them to deny their Maſter, and renounce their Obligations to him. Nothing will lie heavier upon Perſecutors than forcing Mens Conſciences, how much ſoever they may now triumph in the Proſelytes they have made by their Violences.

6. His Rage ſwell'd ſo againſt Chriſtians and Chriſtianity, that Jeruſalem it ſelf was too narrow a Stage for it to act upon, but being exceedingly mad againſt them, he perſecuted them even to ſtrange Cities. He was mad at them to ſee how much they had to ſay for themſelves, notwithſtanding all he did againſt them; mad to ſee them multiply the more for their being afflicted; he was exceedingly mad; the Stream of his Fury would admit no Banks, no Bounds, but he was as much a Terror to himſelf, as he was to them; ſo great was his Vexation within himſelf that he could not prevail, as well as his Indignation againſt them. Perſecutors are mad Men, and ſome of them exceedingly mad. Paul was mad to ſee that thoſe in other Cities were not as outragious againſt the Chriſtians, and therefore made himſelf buſy there where he had no Buſineſs, and perſecuted the Chriſtians even in ſtrange Cities. There is not a more reſtleſs Principle than Malice, eſpecially which pretends Conſcience.

This was Paul's Character, and this his Manner of Life in the Beginning of his Time; and therefore he could not be preſum'd to be a Chriſtian by Education, or Cuſtom, or that he was drawn in by hope of Preferment, for all imaginable external Objections lay againſt his being a Chriſtian.

12 Whereupon as I went to Damaſcus, with authority and commiſſion from the chief prieſts: 13 At mid-day, O king, I ſaw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightneſs of the ſun, ſhining round about me, and them which journeyed with me. 14 And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice ſpeaking unto me, and ſaying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? It is hard for thee to kick againſt the pricks. 15 And I ſaid, Who art thou, Lord? And he ſaid, I am Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt. 16 But riſe, and ſtand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpoſe, to make thee a miniſter and a witneſs both of theſe things which thou haſt ſeen, and of thoſe things in the which I will appear unto thee? 17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I ſend thee, 18 To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkneſs to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveneſs of ſins, and inheritance among them which are ſanctified by faith that is in me. 19 Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not diſobedient unto the heavenly viſion: 20 But ſhewed firſt unto them of Damaſcus, and at Jeruſalem, and throughout all the coaſts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they ſhould repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance. 21 For theſe cauſes the Jews caught me in the Temple, and went about to kill me. 22 Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witneſſing both to ſmall and great, ſaying none other things than thoſe which the prophets and Moſes did ſay ſhould come: 23 That Chriſt ſhould ſuffer, and that he ſhould be the firſt that ſhould riſe from the dead, and ſhould ſhew light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

All that believe a GOD, and have a Reverence for his Sovereignty, muſt acknowledge that they who Speak and Act by his Direction and by Warrant from him are not to be oppos'd; for that's fighting againſt God. Now Paul here by a plain and faithful Narrative of Matters of Fact makes it out to this Auguſt Aſſembly, that he had an immediate Call from Heaven, to preach the Goſpel of Chriſt to the Gentile World, which was the Thing that exaſperated the Jews againſt him. He here ſhews, Firſt, That he was made a Chriſtian by a Divine Power; Notwithſtanding all his Prejudices againſt that Way; he was brought into it on a ſudden by the Hand of Heaven; not compell'd to confeſs Chriſt by outward Force, as he had compell'd others to blaſpheme him, but by a Divine and ſpiritual Energy; by a Revelation of Chriſt from above, both to him, and in him. And this when he was in the full carreer of his Sin, going to Damaſcus to ſuppreſs Chriſtianity by perſecuting the Chriſtians there. As hot as ever in the Cauſe, his perſecuting Fury not in the leaſt ſpent or tir'd, nor was he tempted to give it up by the failing of his Friends, for he had at this Time as ample an Authority and Commiſſion from the Chief Prieſts, as ever he had to perſecute Chriſtianity when he was obliged by a ſuperior Power to give up that, and accept another Commiſſion to preach up Chriſtianity. Two Things to bring about this ſurprizing Change; a Viſion from Heaven, and a Voice from Heaven, which convey'd the Knowledge of Chriſt to him, by the two learning Senſes of Seeing and Hearing.

1. He ſaw a Heavenly Viſion; The Circumſtances of which were ſuch as it could not be a Deluſion, or a Deceptio viſus, but 'twas without doubt a Divine Appearance.

(1.) He ſaw a great Light, a Light from Heaven, ſuch as could not be produced by any Art, for it was not in the Night, but at Mid Day, 'twas not in a Houſe where Tricks might have been play'd with him, but it was in the Way, in the open Air; it was ſuch a Light as was above the Brightneſs of the Sun, outſhone and eclips'd that, (Iſa. xxiv. 23.) and this could not be the product of Paul's own Fancy; for it ſhone round about them that journey'd with him, they were all ſenſible of their being ſurrounded with this Inundation of Light, which made the Sun it ſelf to be in their Eyes a leſſer Light. And the Force and Power of this Light appear'd in the Effects of it, they all fell to the Earth upon the Sight of it, ſuch a mighty Conſternation did it put them into; this Light, was Lightning for its Force, yet did not paſs away as Lightning, but continu'd to ſhine round about them. In Old Teſtament Times, GOD commonly manifeſted Himſelf in the thick Darkneſs, and made that his Pavillion, 2 Chron. vi. 1. He ſpoke to Abraham in a great Darkneſs, Gen. xv. 12. for that was a Diſpenſation of Darkneſs; but now Life and Immortality were brought to light by the Goſpel, Chriſt appear'd in a great Light. In the creating of Grace as of the World, the firſt Thing created is Light, 2 Cor. iv. 6.

(2.) Chriſt Himſelf appear'd to him, v. 16. I have appear'd to thee for this purpoſe. Chriſt was in this Light; tho' they that Travel'd with Paul ſaw the Light only, and not Chriſt in the Light. 'Tis not every Knowledge that will ſerve to make us Chriſtians, but it muſt be the Knowledge of Chriſt.

2. He heard a Heavenly Voice, an Articulate one, ſpeaking to him; it is here ſaid to be in the Hebrew Tongue, (which was not taken Notice of before) in his Native Language, the Language of his Religion, to intimate to him that tho' he muſt be ſent among the Gentiles, yet he muſt not forget that he was a Hebrew, nor make himſelf a Stranger to the Hebrew Language. In what Chriſt ſaid to him we may obſerve, (1.) That he call'd him by his Name, and repeated it, Saul, Saul; which would ſurprize and ſtartle him; and the more becauſe he was now in a ſtrange Place where he thought no Body knew him. (2.) That he convin'd him of Sin, of that great Sin which he was now in the Commiſſion of, the Sin of Perſecuting the Chriſtians, and ſhews him the Abſurdity of it. (3.) That he intereſted himſelf in the Sufferings of his Followers: Thou perſecuteſt me, v. 14. and again. 'Tis Jeſus whom thou perſecuteſt. Little did Paul think when he was trampling upon thoſe that he look'd upon as the Burthen and Blemiſhes of this Earth, that he was inſulting One that was ſo much the Glory of Heaven. (4.) That he check'd him for his wilful reſiſting thoſe Convictions; It is hard for thee to Kick againſt the pricks, or goads, as a Bullock unaccuſtomed to the Yoke. Paul's Spirit at firſt perhaps began to riſe, but he is told, it is at his Peril, and then he yields. Or, it was ſpoken by way of Caution, Take heed leaſt thou do reſiſt theſe Convictions, for they are deſign'd to affect thee, not to affront thee. (5.) That upon his Enquiry he made himſelf known to him. Paul ask'd, v. 15. Who art thou, Lord? Let me know who it is that ſpeaks to me from Heaven, that I may anſwer him accordingly? And he ſaid, I am Jeſus. He whom thou haſt deſpis'd, and hated, and vilify'd; I bear that Name which thou haſt made ſo odious, and the naming of it criminal. Paul thought Jeſus was bury'd in the Earth, and tho' ſtollen out of his own Sepulchre, yet laid in ſome other, all the Jews were taught to ſay ſo, and therefore he is amaz'd to hear him ſpeak from Heaven, to ſee him ſurrounded with all this Glory, whom he had loaded with all poſſible Ignominy. This convinc'd him that the Doctrine of Jeſus was divine and heavenly; and not only not to be oppos'd, but to be cordially embrac'd; That Jeſus is the Meſſiah, for he is not only riſen from the Dead, but he has receiv'd from GOD the Father Honour and Glory; And this is enough to make him a Chriſtian immediately; to quit the Society of the Perſecutors, whom the LORD from Heaven thus appears againſt, and to joyn himſelf with the Society of the Perſecuted, whom the LORD from Heaven thus appears for.

Secondly, That he was made a Miniſter by a Divine Authority; That the ſame Jeſus that appear'd to him in that Glorious Light, order'd him to go preach the Goſpel to the Gentiles; He did not run without ſending, nor was he ſent by Men like himſelf, but by him whom the Father ſent, Joh. 20, 21. What is ſaid of his being an Apoſtle is here joyn'd immediately to that which was ſaid to him by the Way, but it appears by Acts ix. 15. and xxi. 15, 17. that it was ſpoken to him afterwards; But he puts the two together for Brevity ſake, Riſe and ſtand upon thy Feet. Thoſe whom Chriſt by the Light of his Goſpel caſt down in Humiliation for Sin, 'tis in order to their riſing and ſtanding upon their Feet in Spiritual Grace, Strength and Comfort. If Chriſt has torn, 'tis that he might heal; if he has caſt down, 'tis that he may raiſe up. Riſe then and ſhake thy ſelf from thy Duſt; Iſa. lii. 2. Help thy ſelf, and Chriſt ſhall help thee. He muſt ſtand up, for Chriſt has Work for him to do; has an Errand, and a very great Errand to ſend him upon. I have appeared to thee to make thee a Miniſter. Chriſt has the making of his own Miniſters, they have both their Qualifications and their Commiſſions from him; Paul thanks Chriſt Jeſus who put him into the Miniſtry, 1 Pet. i. 12. Chriſt appear'd to him to make him a Miniſter. One Way or other Chriſt will manifeſt Himſelf to all thoſe whom he makes his Miniſters; for how can they preach Him, who do not know Him? And how can they know him, to whom he doth not by his Spirit make himſelf known? Obſerve,

1. The Office to which Paul is appointed. He is made a Miniſter to attend on Chriſt, and Act for him, as a Witneſs; to give Evidence in his Cauſe, and atteſt the Truth of his Doctrine; he muſt teſtify the Goſpel of the Grace of GOD; Chriſt appear'd to him that he might appear for Chriſt before Men.

2. The Matter of Paul's Teſtimony; He muſt give an Account to the World, (1.) Of the Things which he had ſeen, now at this Time; muſt tell People of Chriſt's manifeſting himſelf to him by the Way, and what he ſaid to him. He ſaw theſe Things, and might publiſh them; And he did take all Occaſions to publiſh them, as here, and before, chap. xxii. (2.) Of thoſe Things in which he would appear to him; Chriſt now ſettled a Correſpondence with Paul, which he deſign'd afterwards to keep up, and only told him now that he ſhould hear further from him. Paul at firſt had but confus'd Notions of the Goſpel, 'till Chriſt appear'd to him, and gave him fuller Inſtructions. The Goſpel he preach'd he receiv'd from Chriſt immediately, Gal. i. 12. but he receiv'd it gradually, ſome at one Time, and ſome at another, as there was Occaſion. Chriſt often appear'd to Paul, oftner 'tis likely than is recorded, and ſtill taught him that he might ſtill teach the People Knowledge.

3. The Spiritual Protection he was taken under while he was thus employ'd as Chriſt's Witneſs; All the Powers of Darkneſs could not prevail againſt him till he had finiſh'd his Teſtimony, v. 17. Delivering thee from the People of the Jews, and from the Gentiles. Note, Chriſt's Witneſſes are under his ſpecial Care, And tho' they may fall into the Hands of their Enemies, yet he will take care to deliver them out of their Hands; and he knows how to do it. Chriſt had ſhew'd Paul at this Time what great Things he muſt ſuffer, chap. ix. 16. and yet tells him here he will deliver him from the People. Note, Great Sufferings are reconcileable to the Promiſe of the Deliverance of GOD's People; for it it is not promis'd they ſhall be kept from Trouble, but kept through it; and ſometimes GOD delivers them into the Hands of their Perſecutors, that he may have the Honour of delivering them out of their Hands.

4. The ſpecial Commiſſion given him to go among the Gentiles, and the Errand upon which he is ſent to them. It was ſome Years after Paul's Converſion before he was ſent to the Gentiles, or (for ought appears) knew any Thing of his being deſign'd for that purpoſe, ſee chap. xxii. 21. But at length he is order'd to ſteer his Courſe that Way.

1. There is a great Work to be done among the Gentiles, and Paul muſt be Inſtrumental in doing it. Two Things muſt be done, which their Caſe calls for the doing of.

(1.) A World that ſits in Darkneſs muſt be enlightned; thoſe muſt be brought to know the Things that belongs to their everlaſting Peace who are yet ignorant of them, to know God as their End, and Chriſt as their Way, who as yet know nothing of either. He is ſent to open their Eyes, and to turn them from Darkneſs to Light. His Preaching ſhall not only make known to them thoſe Things which they had not before heard of, but ſhall be the Vehicle of that Divine Grace and Power by which their Underſtandings ſhall be enlightned to receive thoſe Things, and bid them welcome. Thus he ſhall open their Eyes, which before were ſhut againſt the Light, and they ſhall be willing to underſtand themſelves, their own Caſe and Intereſt. Chriſt opens the Heart, by opening the Eyes; doth not lead Men blindfold, but gives them to ſee their own Way. He is ſent not only to open their Eyes for the preſent, but to keep them open, to turn them from Darkneſs to Light, i. e. from following falſe and blind Guides, their Oracles, Divinations, and Superſtitious Uſages receiv'd by Tradition from their Fathers, and the corrupt Notions and Ideas they had of their Gods, to follow a Divine Revelation of unqueſtionable Certainty and Truth. This was turning them from Darkneſs to Light, from the Ways of Darkneſs, to thoſe on which the Light ſhines. The great Deſign of the Goſpel is to inſtruct the ignorant, and to rectify the Miſtakes of thoſe that are in Error, that things may be ſet and ſeen in a true Light.

(2.) A World that lies in Wickedneſs, in the Wicked one, muſt be ſanctified and reformed. It is not enough for them to have their Eyes open'd, they muſt have their Hearts renewed; not enough to be turn'd from Darkneſs to Light, but they muſt be turn'd from the Power of Satan unto GOD, which will follow of Courſe, for Satan Rules by the Power of Darkneſs, and GOD by the convincing Evidence of Light. Sinners are under the Power of Satan, Idolaters were ſo in a ſpecial manner, they paid their Homage to Devils. All Sinners are under the Influence of his Temptations, yield themſelves Captives to him, are at his beck; converting Grace turns them from under the Dominion of Satan, and brings them into Subjection to GOD; to Conform to the Rules of his Word, and comply with the Dictates and Directions of his Spirit, tranſlates them out of the Kingdom of Darkneſs into the Kingdom of his dear Son. When gracious Diſpoſitions are ſtrong in the Soul, as corrupt and ſinful Diſpoſitions had been turn'd from the Power of Satan unto GOD.

2. There is a great Happineſs deſign'd for the Gentiles by this Work, that they may receive Forgiveneſs of Sins, and Inheritance among them which are ſanctified. They are turn'd from the Darkneſs of Sin to the Light of Holineſs, from the Slavery of Satan, to the Service of GOD, not that GOD may be a Gainer by them, but that they may be Gainers by him.

1. That they may be reſtor'd to his Favour, which by Sin they have forfeited, and thrown themſelves out of, that they may receive Forgiveneſs of Sins. They are deliver'd from the Dominion of Sin that they may be ſav'd from that Death which is the Wages of Sin. Not that they may merit Forgiveneſs as a Debt or Reward, but that they may receive it as a free Gift; that they may be qualify'd to receive the Comfort of it. They are perſuaded to lay down their Arms, and return to their Allegiance, that they may have the Benefit of the act of Indemnity, and may plead it in Arreſt of the Judgment to be given againſt them.

2. That they may be happy in the Fruition of him. Not only that they may have their Sins pardon'd, but that they may have an Inheritance among them which are Sanctify'd by Faith that is in me. Note, 1. Heaven is an Inheritance, it deſcends to all the Children of GOD for if Children, then Heirs. That they may have κλῆρον, a Lot ſo it might be read, alluding to the Inheritances of Canaan, which were appointed by Lot, and that alſo is the Act of GOD, the diſpoſal thereof is of the Lord That they may have a Right, ſo ſome Read it; not by Merit, but purely by Grace. 2. All that are effectually turn'd from Sin to GOD are not only pardon'd but preferr'd; have not only their Attainder reverſ'd, but a Patent of Honour given them, and a Grant of a Rich Inheritance. And the forgiveneſs of Sins, makes way for this Inheritance, by taking that out of the Way which alone hinder'd. 3. All that ſhall be ſav'd hereafter, are ſanctify'd now; Thoſe that have the Heavenly Inheritance muſt have it in this Way, they muſt be prepar'd and made meet for it; none can be happy that are not holy, nor ſhall any be Saints in Heaven that are not firſt Saints on Earth. 4. We need no more to make us happy, than to have our Lot among them that are ſanctify'd, to fare as they fare, that's having our Lot among the Choſen, for they are choſen to Salvation through Sanctification. They which are Sanctify'd ſhall be Glorify'd. Let us therefore now caſt in our Lot among them, by coming into the Communion of Saints, and be willing to take our Lot with them, and ſhare with them in their Afflictions, which (how grievous ſoever) our Lot with them in the Inheritance will abundantly make amends for. 5. We are ſanctify'd and ſav'd by Faith in Chriſt, ſome refer it to the Word next before, ſanctify'd by Faith, for Faith purifies the Heart, and applies to the Soul thoſe precious promiſes, and ſubjects the Soul to the influence of that Grace by which we partake of a Divine Nature. Others refer it to the receiving both Pardon and the Inheritance. 'Tis by Faith accepting the Grant, it comes all to one, for 'tis by Faith that we are juſtify'd, ſanctify'd, and glorify'd. By Faith τῇ εἰς ἐμὲ, that Faith which is in me; 'tis emphatically expreſs'd that Faith which not only receives Divine Revelation in general, but which in a particular manner faſtens upon Jeſus Chriſt, and his Mediation; by which we rely upon Chriſt as the Lord our Righteouſneſs, and reſign ourſelves to him as the Lord our Ruler. This is that by which we receive the Remiſſion of Sins, the Gift of the Holy Ghoſt and Eternal Life.

Thirdly, That he had diſcharg'd his Miniſtry, purſuant to his Commiſſion, by Divine Aid, and under Divine Direction, and Protection, GOD that call'd him to be an Apoſtle own'd him in his Apoſtolical Work, and carried him on in it with Enlargement and Succeſs.

1. GOD give him a Heart to comply with the Call, v. 19. I was not diſobedient to the Heavenly Viſion, for any one would ſay he ought to be obedient to it; Heavenly Viſions have a commanding Power over earthly Counſels, and it is at our Peril if we be diſobedent to them. Yet if Paul had conferr'd with Fleſh and Blood, and been ſway'd by his ſecular Intereſt, he would have done as Jonah did, gone any whither, rather than upon this Errand. But GOD open'd his Ear, and he was not rebellious; he accepted the Commiſſion, and having with it receiv'd his Inſtructions, he applied himſelf to act accordingly.

2. He enabled him to go through a great deal of Work, tho' in it he grapled with a great deal of difficulty, v. 20 He apply'd himſelf to the Preaching of the Goſpel with all vigour, (1.) He began at Damaſcus where he was converted, for he reſolv'd to loſe no Time, chap. ix. 20. (2.) When he came to Jeruſalem where he had his Education, he there witneſſed for Chriſt where he had moſt furiouſly ſet himſelf againſt him, chap. ix. 8. (3.) He preach'd throughout all the coaſts of Judea, in the Country Towns and Villages as Chriſt had done. He made the firſt Offer of the Goſpel to the Jews, as Chriſt had appointed, and did not leave them till they had wilfully thruſt the Goſpel from them, and then (4.) He turn'd to the Gentiles, and laid out himſelf for the good of their Souls labouring more abundantly than any of the Apoſtles, nay, perhaps than all put together.

3. His Preaching was all practical; he did not go about to fill Peoples Heads with Airy Notions, did not amuſe them with nice Speculations, nor ſet them together by the Ears with Matters of doubtful Diſputation, but he ſhew'd them, declar'd it, demonſtrated it, That they ought (1.) To repent of their Sins, to be ſorry for them. They ought to bethink themſelves, ſo the Word μετανοεῖν properly ſignifies; They ought to change their Mind, and change their Way, and undo what they had done amiſs. To turn to God; they muſt not only conceive an Antipathy to Sin, but they muſt come into a Conformity to GOD Muſt not only turn from that which is evil, but turn to that which is good. They muſt turn to God in Love and Affection, and return to God in Duty and Obedience, and turn, and return from the World and the Fleſh. This is that which is requir'd from the whole revolted, degenerate Race of Mankind, both Jews and Gentiles, ἐπιστρέφειν ἐπὶ τὸν θεόν, to turn back to God, even to him, to turn to him as our chief Good, and higheſt End, as our Ruler and Portion, turn our Eye to him, turn our Heart to him, and turn our Feet unto his Teſtimonies. (3.) To do Works meet for Repentance. This was what John Preach'd, who was the firſt Goſpel-Preacher, Matth. iii 8. Thoſe that profeſs Repentance muſt practice it, muſt live a Life of Repentance, muſt in every Thing carry it as becomes Penitents. It is not enough to ſpeak penitent Words, but we muſt do Works agreeable to thoſe Words. As true Faith ſo true Repentance will Work. Now what Fault could be found at ſuch Preaching as this? Had it not a direct Tendency to reform the World, and to redreſs its Grievances, and to revive Natural Religion?

4. The Jews had no other Quarrel with him but upon this Account; That he did all he could to perſuade People to be Religious, and to bring them to GOD, by bringing them to Chriſt, v. 21. 'Twas for thoſe Cauſes and no other, that the Jews caught me in the Temple and went about to Kill me, and let any one judge whether thoſe were Crimes worthy of Death or of Bonds. He ſuffer'd ill, not only for doing well himſelf, but for doing good to others. They attempted to kill him, it was his precious Life that they hunted for; and hated, becauſe it was a uſeful Life. They caught him in the Temple, worſhipping GOD, and there they ſet upon him, as if the better Place, the better Deed

5. He had no other Help, but Help from Heaven, and ſupported and carry'd on, by that he went on in this great Work, v. 22. Having therefore obtain'd Help from God, I continue unto this Day. Ἕστηκα, I have ſtood, my Life has been preſerv'd, and my Work continued. I have ſtood my Ground, and have not been beaten off; I have ſtood to what I ſaid, and have not been afraid or aſham'd to perſiſt in it. It was now above Twenty Years ſince Paul was Converted, and all that time he had been very buſie preaching the Goſpel in the midſt of hazards; and what was it that bore him up, not any ſtrength of his own Reſolutions, but having obtain'd help of God; for therefore, becauſe the Work was ſo great, and he had ſo much Oppoſition he could not otherwiſe have gone on in it, but by Help obtain'd of God. Note, Thoſe who were employ'd in Work for GOD ſhall obtain Help from God; for he will not be wanting in neceſſary Aſſiſtances to his Servants. And our continuance to this Day, muſt be attributed to Help obtain'd of God. We had ſunk if he had not born us up, had fallen off if he had not carry'd us on, and it muſt be acknowledg'd with thankfulneſs to his Praiſe. Paul mentions it as an Evidence that he had his Commiſſion from GOD that from him he had Ability to execute it, The Preachers of the Goſpel could never have done, and ſuffered, and proſper'd as they did, if they had not had immediate Help from Heaven, which they would not have had if it had not been the Cauſe of GOD that they now were pleading.

6. He preach'd no other Doctrine but what agreed with the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament. He Witneſſed both to ſmall and great, to young and old, rich and poor, learned and unlearned, obſcure and illuſtrious, all being concern'd in it; 'Twas an Eivdence of the condeſcending Grace of the Goſpel, that it was Witneſſed to the meaneſt, and the poor were welcome to the Knowledge of it; And of unconteſtable Truth and Power of it that it was neither afraid nor aſham'd to ſhew itſelf to the greateſt. The Enemies of Paul objected againſt him that he preached ſomething more than that Men ſhould repent, and turn to God, and do Works meet for Repentance; thoſe indeed were but what the Prophets of the Old Teſtament had preach'd; but beſides theſe he had preach'd Chriſt, and his Death, and his Reſurrection, and that was it that they quarrel'd with him for, as appears by chap. xxv. 19. that he affirmed Jeſus to be alive. And ſo I did, ſaith Paul, and I do, but therein alſo I ſay no other than that which Moſes and the Prophets ſaid ſhould come. And what greater Honour can be done to them then to ſhew that what they foretold is accompliſh'd, and in the appointed Seaſon too, that what they ſaid ſhould come is come, and at the Time they prefix'd.

Three things they propheſy'd, and Pual preach'd.

1. That Chriſt ſhould ſuffer; that the Meſſiah ſhould be a ſufferer; παθητὸς. Not only a Man and capable of Suffering, but that as Meſſiah he ſhould be appointed to Sufferings. That his Ignominious Death ſhould be not only conſiſtent with, but purſuant of his Undertaking. The Croſs of Chriſt was a Stumbling-block to the Jews, and Paul's Preaching that was the great thing that exaſperated them. But Paul ſtands to it that in Preaching that he Preach'd the fulfilling of the Old Teſtament Predictions, and therefore they ought not only not to be offended at what he preach'd, but to embrace it, and ſubſcribe to it.

2. That he ſhould be the firſt that ſhould riſe from the Dead, not the firſt in Time, but the firſt Influence; That he ſhould be the Chief of th Reſurrection, the Head, or Principal One, πρῶτος ἐξ ἀναστάσεως, in the ſame Senſe that he is call'd, the Firſt-begotten from the Dead, Rev. i. 5. and the Firſt born from the Dead, Col. i. 18. He open'd the Womb of the Grave, as the Firſt born are ſaid to do, and made way for our Reſurrection. And he is ſaid to be the Firſt-fruits of them that ſlept, 1 Cor. xv. 20. for he ſanctify'd the Harveſt. He was the firſt that roſe from the Dead to die no more, and to ſhew that the Reſurrection of all Believers is in the Virtue of his; juſt when he aroſe many dead Bodies of Saints aroſe, and went into the holy City, Matth. xxvii. 53.

3. That he ſhould ſhew Light unto the People, and to the Gentiles; To the People of the Jews in the firſt place, for he was to be the Glory of his People Iſrael, to whom he ſhew'd Light by himſelf; and then to the Gentiles by the Miniſtry of his Apoſtles; for he was to be a Light to lighten them, who ſate in Darkneſs. In this Paul refers to his Commiſſion, v. 18. To turn them from Darkneſs to Light. He roſe from the Dead on purpoſe that he might ſhew Light to the People, that he might give a convincing Proof of the Truth of his Doctrine, and might ſend it with ſo much the greater Power both among Jews and Gentiles. This alſo was foretold by the Old-Teſtament Prophets. That the Gentiles ſhould be brought to the Knowledge of GOD by the Meſſiah. and what was there in all this, that the Jews could juſtly be diſpleas'd at?

24 And as he thus ſpake for himſelf, Feſtus ſaid with a loud voice, Paul, thou art beſide thy ſelf: much learning doth make thee mad. 25 But he ſaid, I am not mad, moſt noble Feſtus; but ſpeak forth the words of truth and ſoberneſs. 26 For the king knoweth of theſe things, before whom alſo I ſpeak freely: for I am perſwaded that none of theſe things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner. 27 King Agrippa, believeſt thou the prophets: I know that thou believeſt. 28 Then Agrippa ſaid unto Paul, Almoſt thou perſwadeſt me to be a Chriſtian. 29 And Paul ſaid, I would to God, that not only thou, but alſo all that hear me this day, were both almoſt, and altogether ſuch as I am, except theſe bonds. 30 And when he had thus ſpoken. the king roſe up, and the governour, and Bernice, and they that ſat with them. 31 And when they were gone aſide, they talked between themſelves, ſaying, This man doeth nothing worthy of death or of bonds. 32 Then ſaid Agrippa unto Feſtus, This man might have been ſet at liberty, if he had not appealed unto Ceſar.

We have reaſon to think that Paul had a great deal more to ſay in defence of the Goſpel he preach'd, and for the Honour of it, and to recommend it to the good Opinion of this Noble Audience; he was juſtly fallen upon that which was the Life of the Cauſe, the Death and Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt, and here he is in his Element; now he warms more than before, his Mouth is open'd towards them, his Heart is enlarg'd, lead him but to this Subject, and let him have leave to go on, and he will never know when to conclude; for the Power of Chriſt Death, and the Fellowſhip of his Sufferings, are with him inexhauſtible Subjects. 'Twas a Thouſand pities he ſhould be interrupted as he is here, and that being permitted to ſpeak for himſelf, v. 1. he ſhould not be permitted to ſay all he deſign'd. But it was a Hardſhip often put upon him, and is a Baulk to us too, that read his Diſcourſe with ſo much Pleaſure.

But there's no Remedy, the Court thinks it is Time to proceed to give in their Judgment upon his Caſe.

Firſt, Feſtus the Roman Governor is of Opinion, that the poor Man is craz'd, and that Bedlam were the fitteſt Place for him. He is convinc'd that he is no Criminal, no ill Man that ſhould be puniſh'd, but he takes him to be Lunatick, a Diſtracted Man that ſhould be pity'd; but at the ſame time ſhould not be heeded, nor a Word he ſaith regarded, and thus he thinks he hath found out an Expedient to excuſe himſelf both for condemning Paul as a Priſoner, and from believing him as a Preacher; for if he be not compos mentis, he is not to be either condemn'd or credited. Now here Obſerve,

1. What it was that Feſtus ſaid of him, v. 24. He ſaid it with a loud Voice, did not whiſper it to thoſe that ſate next him, if ſo, it had been the more excuſable, but (without conſulting Agrippa, to whoſe Judgment he had ſeem'd to pay mighty Deference, chap. xxv. 26.) ſaid aloud, that he might oblige Paul to break of his Diſcourſe, and might divert the Auditors from attending to it; Paul, thou art beſide thy ſelf, thou talkeſt like a Mad-man, like One with a heated Brain that knoweſt not what thou ſayeſt. Yet he doth not ſuppoſe that a guilty Conſcience had diſturb'd his Reaſon, or that his Sufferings, and the Rage of his Enemies againſt him had given any ſhock to it, but he puts the moſt candid Conſtruction that could be upon his Delirium, Much Learning hath made thee mad; thou haſt cracked thy Brains with Studying. This he ſpeaks not ſo much in Anger, as in Scorn and Contempt; he did not underſtand what Paul ſaid, it was above his Capacity, 'twas all a Riddle to him and therefore he imputes it to all a heated Imagination. Si non vis intelligi debes negligi. (1.) He owns Paul to be a Scholar, and a Man of Learning, becauſe he could ſo readily refer to what Moſes and the Prophets wrote; Books that he was a Stranger to; and even this is turn'd to his Reproach. The Apoſtles that were Fiſhermen were deſpis'd becauſe they had no Learning, Paul that was an Univerſity Man and bred a Phariſee, is deſpis'd as too much Learning, more than did him good. Thus the Enemies of Chriſt's Miniſters will always have ſomething or other to upbraid them with. (2.) He reproaches him as a Mad-man. The Prophets of the Old Teſtament were thus ſtigmatiz'd, to prejudice People againſt them, by putting them into an ill Name; Wherefore came this mad Fellow unto thee? ſaid the Captains of the Prophet, 2 Kin. ix. 11. Hoſ. ix. 7. John Baptiſt and Chriſt were repreſented as having a Devil, as being craz'd, 'Tis likely Paul now ſpoke with more Life and Earneſtneſs than he did in the Beginning of his Diſcourſe and us'd ſome Geſtures that were expreſſive of his Zeal, and therefore Feſtus put this invidious Character upon him, which perhaps never a one in the Company but he thought of. It is not ſo harmleſs a Suggeſtion as ſome make it, to ſay concerning them that are zealous in Religion, above others, that they are craz'd.

2. How Paul clear'd himſelf from this invidious Imputation, which whether he had ever lain under before is not certain. It ſhould ſeem it had been ſaid of him by the falſe Apoſtles, for he ſaith, 2 Cor. v. 13. If we be beſide ourſelves, as they ſay we are, it is to God: But he was never charg'd with this before the Roman Governor; and therefore he muſt ſay ſomething to this.

1. He denies the Charge, with due Reſpect indeed to the Governor, but with Juſtice to himſelf, proteſting that there was neither Ground nor Colour for it, v. 25. I am not mad moſt noble Feſtus, nor never was, nor any Thing like it; the uſe of my Reaſon, thanks be to GOD, has been all my Days continu'd to me, and at this Time I do not ramble, but ſpeak the Words of Truth and Soberneſs, and know what I ſay. Obſerve, Tho' Feſtus gave Paul this baſe and contemptuous Uſage, not becoming a Gentleman, much leſs a Judge, yet Paul is ſo far from reſenting it, and being provok'd by it, that he gives him all poſſible Reſpect, complements him with his Title of Honour, moſt noble Feſtus, to teach us not to render Railing for Railing, nor one invidious Character for another, but to ſpeak civilly to thoſe who ſpeak ſlightly of us. It becomes us upon all Occaſions to ſpeak the Words of Truth and Soberneſs, and then we may deſpiſe the unjuſt Cenſures of Men.

2. He appeals to Agrippa concerning what he ſpoke, v. 26. For the King knows of theſe Things, concerning Chriſt, and his Death and Reſurrection, and the Prophecies of the Old Teſtament, which had their Accompliſhment therein. He therefore ſpoke freely before him, who knew thoſe were no Fancies, but Matters of Fact, knew ſomething of them and therefore would be willing to know more; for I am perſwaded that none of the Things are hidden from him; no not that which he had related concerning his own Converſion, and the Commiſſion he had received to preach the Goſpel. Agrippa could not but have heard of it, having been ſo long converſant among the Jews. This Thing was not done in a Corner; all the Country rang of it, and any of the Jews preſent might have witneſſed for him, that they had heard it many a Time from others, and therefore 'twas unreaſonable to cenſure him as a diſtracted Man for relating it; much more for ſpeaking of the Death and Reſurrection of Chriſt, which was ſo univerſally ſpoken of. Peter tells Cornelius and his Friends, ch. x. 27. That Word you know which was publiſhed thoughout all Judea concerning Chriſt, and therefore Agrippa could not but be ignorant of it, and it was a ſhame for Feſtus that he was ſo.

Secondly, Agrippa is ſo far from thinking him a Mad-man, that he thinks he never heard a Man argue more ſtrongly, nor talk more to the Purpoſe.

1. Paul applies himſelf cloſely to Agrippa's Conſcience; Some think Feſtus was diſpleas'd at Paul becauſe he kept his Eye upon Agrippa, and directed his Diſcourſe to him all along, and that therefore he gave him that Interruption, v. 24. But if that was a thing that affronted him, Paul matters not; he will ſpeak to thoſe that underſtood him, and that he is likely to faſten ſomething upon, and therefore ſticks to Agrippa; and becauſe he had mention'd Moſes and the Prophets as confirming the Goſpel he preach'd, he refers Agrippa to them, v. 27. King Agrippa, believeſt thou the Prophets? Doſt thou receive the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament as a Divine Revelation, and admit them as fore-telling good Things to come? He doth not ſtay for an Anſwer, but in Complement to Agrippa, takes it for granted, I know that thou believeſt; for every one knew that Agrippa profeſs the Jews Religion, as his Fathers had done, and therefore both knew the Writings of the Prophets, and gave credit to them. Note, It is good dealing with thoſe that have acquaintance with the Scriptures, and believe them; for ſuch one hath ſome hold of.

2. Agrippa owns there was a great deal of Reaſon in what Paul ſaid, v. 28. Almoſt thou perſuadeſt me to be a Chriſtian. Some underſtand this as ſpoken ironically, and read it thus, Wouldſt thou in ſo little a Time perſuade me to be a Chriſtian? But taking it ſo, 'tis an Acknowledgment that Paul ſpoke very much to the Purpoſe, and that whatever others thought of it, to his Mind, there came a convincing Power along with what he ſaid. Paul thou art to haſty, thou caſt not think to make a Convert of me all of a ſudden. Others take it as ſpoken ſeriouſly, and as a Confeſſion, that he was in a manner, or within a little, convinc'd that Chriſt was the Meſſiah, for he could not but own, and had many a Time thought to within himſelf, that the Prophecies of the Old Teſtament, had had their Accompliſhment in him; and now it is urg'd thus ſolemnly upon him, he is ready to yield to the Conviction, he begins to ſound a Parley, and to think of ſurrendring, he is as near perſuaded to believe in Chriſt, as Felix when he trembled, was to leave his Sins. He ſees a great deal of Reaſon for Chriſtianity, the Proofs of it he owns are ſtrong, and ſuch as he cannot anſwer; the Objections againſt it trifling, and ſuch as he cannot for ſhame inſiſt upon; ſo that if it were not for his Obligations to the Ceremonial Law, and his Reſpect to the Religion of his Fathers, and of his Country, or his Regard to his Dignity as a King, and to his Secular Intereſts, he would turn Chriſtian preſently. Note, Many are almoſt perſuaded to be religious that are not quite perſuaded; they are under ſtrong Convictions of their Duty, and of the Excellency of the Ways of GOD, but yet are over-rul'd by ſome external Inducements, and do not purſue their Convictions.

3. Paul not being allowed Time to purſue his Argument, concludes with a Complement, or rather a pious Wiſh, that all his Hearers were Chriſtians, and this Wiſh turn'd into a Prayer, εὐξαίμην τῳ Θεῷ, I pray to God for it; 'twas his Heart's Deſire and Prayer to God for them all, that they might be ſav'd, Rom. x. v. 1. That not only thou, but all that hear me this Day, (for he has the ſame kind Deſign upon them all) were both almoſt, and altogether ſuch as I am, except theſe Bonds. Hereby (1.) He profeſſeth his Reſolution to ſtick to his Religion, as that which he was entire ſatisfied in, and determin'd to live and die by. In wiſhing that they were all as he was, he doth in effect declare againſt ever being as they were, whether Jews or Gentiles how much ſoever it might be to his worldly Advantage. He ſticks by the Inſtruction GOD gave to the Prophet, Jer. xv. 19. Let them return unto thee, but return not thou unto them. (2.) He intimates his Satisfaction not only in the Truth, but in the Benefit and Advantage of Chriſtianity. He had ſo much Comfort in it for the preſent, and was ſo ſure it would end in his eternal Happineſs, that he could not wiſh better to the beſt Friend he had in the World, than to wiſh him ſuch an One as he was, a faithful, zealous Diſciple of Jeſus Chriſt. Let mine Enemy be as the Wicked, ſaith Job, chap. xxvii. 7. Let my Friend be as the Chriſtian, ſaith Paul. (3.) He intimates his Trouble and Concern that Agrippa went no further but being almoſt ſuch an One as he was; almoſt a Chriſtian, and not altogether One; for he wiſhes that he and the reſt of them might be not only almoſt, What good would that do? but altogether ſuch as he was, ſincere thorough-pac'd Chriſtians. (4) He intimates that it was the Concern, and would be the unſpeakable Happineſs of every One of them to become true Chriſtians; that there is Grace enough in Chriſt for All, be they never ſo many, enough for each be they never ſo craving. (5.) He intimates the hearty Good-will he bore to them all, he wiſhes them (1.) As well as he wiſh'd his own Soul, that they might be as happy in Chriſt as he was. (2.) Better than he now was as to his outward Condition; for he excepts theſe Bonds. He wiſhes they might all be comforted Chriſtians as he was, but not perſecuted Chriſtians as he was; that they might taſte as much as he did of the Advantages that attended Religion, but not ſo much of its Croſſes. They had made light of his Impriſonment, and were in no concern for him. Feſtus continu'd him in Bonds to gratify the Jews; now this would have tempted many a One to wiſh them all in his Bonds, that they might know what it was to be confin'd as he was, and then they would know the better how to pity him: But he was ſo far from this, that when he wiſh'd them in Bonds to Chriſt, he deſir'd they might never be in Bonds for Chriſt. Nothing could be ſaid more tenderly, nor with a better decorum.

Thirdly, They all agree, that Paul was an innocent Man, and was wrong'd in this Proſecution.

1. The Court broke up with ſome Precipitation, v. 30. When he had ſpoken that obliging Word, v. 29. which mov'd them all, the King was afraid if he were permitted to go on, he would ſay ſomething yet more moving, which might work upon ſome of them to appear more in his Favour than was convenient, and perhaps might prevail with them to turn Chriſtians; The King himſelf found his own Heart begin to yield, and durſt not truſt himſelf to hear more, but like Felix, diſmiſs'd Paul for this Time. They ought in Juſtice to have ask'd the Priſoner, Whether he had any more to ſay for himſelf? But they think he has ſaid enough, and therefore the King roſe up, and the Governor, and Bernice, and they that ſat with them, concluding the Caſe was plain and with that they contented themſelves, when Paul had more to ſay, which would have made it plainer.

2. They all concurred in an Opinion of Paul's Innocency, v. 31. The Court withdrew to conſult of the Matter, to know one another's Minds upon it, and they talk'd among themſelves, all to the ſame Purpoſe, That this Man doth nothing worthy of Death. He is not a Criminal that deſerves to die; nay, he doth nothing worthy of Bonds; he is not a dangerous Man, whom it is Prudence to confine. After this Nero made a Law for the putting of thoſe to Death who profeſs'd the Chriſtian Religion; but as yet there was no Law of that kind among the Romans, and therefore no Tranſgreſſion. And this Judgment of theirs, is a Teſtimony againſt that wicked Law which Nero made not long after this; That Paul the moſt active, zealous Chriſtian that ever was, even by thoſe that were no Friends to his Way, was adjudg'd to have done nothing worthy of Death or of Bonds. Thus was he made manifeſt in the Conſciences of thoſe, who yet would not receive his Doctrine, and the Clamours of the Hot-headed Jews, who cry'd out, Away with him, it was not fit he ſhould live, were ſham'd by the moderate Counſels of this Court.

3. Agrippa gave his Judgment, That he might have been ſet at Liberty, if he had not himſelf appealed to Cæſar, v. 32. But by that Appeal, he had put a Bar in his own Door. Some think that by the Roman Law this was true, That when a Priſoner had appeal'd to the ſupreme Court, the inferior Court could no more diſcharge him, than they could condemn him; and we ſuppoſe the Law was ſo, if the Proſecutors joyn'd Iſſue upon the Appeal, and conſented to it: But it doth not appear that in Paul's Caſe the Proſecutors did ſo, but he was forc'd to do it to ſcreen himſelf from their Fury, when he ſaw the Governor did not take the Care he ought to have done for his Protection. And therefore others think, that Agrippa and Feſtus being unwilling to diſoblige the Jews by ſetting him at Liberty, made this ſerve for an Excuſe of their continuing him in Cuſtody, when they themſelves knew they might have juſtify'd the Diſcharging him. Agrippa that was but almoſt perſuaded to be a Chriſtian, proves no better than if he had not been at all perſuaded.

And now I cannot tell, (1.) Whether Paul repented of his having appeal'd to Cæſar, and wiſh'd he had not done it, blaming himſelf for it as a raſh Thing, now he ſaw that was the only Thing that hinder'd his Diſcharge. He had Reaſon perhaps to reflect upon it with Regret, and to charge himſelf with Imprudence and Impatience in it, and ſome Diſtruſt of the Divine Protection. He had better had appeal'd to GOD than to Cæſar. It confirms what Solomon ſaith, Eccl. vi. 12. Who knows what is good for Man in this Life? What we think is for our Welfare, often proves to be a Trap; ſuch ſhort-ſighted Creatures are we, and ſo ill advis'd in leaning as we do to our own Underſtanding. Or (2) Whether notwithſtanding this he was ſatisfied in what he had done, and was eaſy in his Reflections upon it; His Appealing to Cæſar was lawful, and what became a Roman Citizen, and would help to make his Cauſe conſiderable; and for as much as when he did it, it appear'd to him as the Caſe then ſtood to be for the beſt, tho' afterwards it appear'd otherwiſe, he did not vex himſelf with any Self-reproach in the Matter, but believ'd there was a Providence in it, and it would Iſſue well at laſt. And beſides he was told in a Viſion, That he muſt bear Witneſs to Chriſt at Rome, chap. xxiii. 11. And its all one to him, whether he goes thither a Priſoner or at his Liberty; he knows the Counſel of the LORD ſhall ſtand, and ſaith, Let it ſtand. The Will of the LORD be done.

CHAP. XXVII.

This whole Chapter is taken up with an Account of Paul's Voyage towards Rome, when he was ſent thither a Priſoner by Feſtus the Governor, upon his Appeal to Cæſar. (1.) The Beginning of the Voyage was well enough, 'twas calm and proſperous, v. 1—8. (2.) Paul gave them Notice of a Storm coming, but could not prevail with them to lie by, v. 9—11. (3) As they purſued their Voyage, they met with a great deal of tempeſtuous Weather, which reduc'd them to ſuch Extremity, that they counted upon nothing but being caſt away, 12—20. (4.) Paul aſſur'd them that though they would not be adviſ'd by him to prevent their coming into this Danger, yet by the good Providence of GOD they ſhould be brought ſafely thro' it, and none of them ſhould be loſt, v. 21—26. (5.) At length they were at Mid-night thrown upon an Iſland, which prov'd to be Malta, and then they were in the utmoſt Danger imaginable, but were aſſiſted by Paul's Counſel to keep the Mariners in the Ship, and encourag'd by his Comforts to eat their Meat, and have a good Heart on it, v. 27—36. (6.) Their narrow Eſcape with their Lives when they came to Shore, when the Ship was wreck'd, but all the Perſons wonderfully preſerv'd, v. 37—44.

AND when it was determined that we ſhould ſail into Italy, they delivered Paul and certain other Priſoners, unto one named Julius, a centurion of Auguſtus band. 2 And entring into a ſhip of Adramytrium, we launch, meaning to ſail by the coaſts of Aſia, one Ariſtarchus a Macedonian of Theſſalonica, being with us. 3 And the next day we touched at Sidon. And Julius courteouſly entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refreſh himſelf. 4 And when we had launched from thence, we ſailed unto Cyprus, becauſe the winds were contrary. 5 And when we had ſailed over the ſea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra a city of Lycia. 6 And there the centurion found a ſhip of Alexandria ſailing into Italy; and he put us therein. 7 And when we had ſailed ſlowly many days, and ſcarce were come over againſt Cnidus, the wind not ſuffering us, we ſailed under Creet, over againſt Salmone: 8 And hardly paſſing it, came unto a place which is called, The fair havens, nigh whereunto was the city of Laſea. 9 Now when much time was ſpent, and when ſailing was now dangerous, becauſe the faſt was now already paſt, Paul admoniſhed them, 10 And ſaid unto them, Sirs, I perceive that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ſhip, but alſo of our lives. 11 Nevertheleſs, the centurion believed the maſter and the owner of the ſhip, more than thoſe things which were ſpoken by Paul.

It doth not appear how long it was after Paul's Conference with Agrippa that he was ſent away for Rome purſuant to his Appeal to Cæſar; but it's likely they took the firſt Convenience they could hear of to do it; In the mean Time Paul is in the midſt of his Friends at Cæſarea, they Comforts to him, and he a Bleſſing to them.

But here we are told,

Firſt, How Paul was ſhip'd off for Italy; A long Voyage, but there's no Remedy. He hath appeal'd to Cæſar, and to Cæſar he muſt go. It was determin'd that we ſhould ſail into Italy, for to Rome they muſt go by Sea; it would have been a vaſt Way about to go by Land. Hence when the Roman Conqueſt of the Jewiſh Nation is foretold, it is ſaid, Numb. xxiv. 24. Ships ſhall come from Shittim, i. e. Italy, and ſhall Afflict Eber, i. e. the Hebrews. It was determin'd by the Counſel of GOD, before it was determin'd by the Counſel of Feſtus, that Paul ſhould go to Rome; for whatever Man intended, GOD had Work for him to do there. Now here we are told,

1. Whoſe Cuſtody he was committed to; To One nam'd Julius a Centurion of Auguſtus's Band; as Cornelius was of the Italian Band, or Legion, chap. x. 1. He had Soldiers under him, that were a Guard upon Paul, that he might not make his Eſcape, and likewiſe to protect him that he might have no Miſchief done him.

2. What Bottom he embark'd in; They went on board a Ship of Adramyttium, v. 2. a Sea-port of Africa, whence this Ship brought African Goods, and as it ſhould ſeem, made a coaſting Voyage for Syria, where thoſe Goods came to a good Market.

3. What Company he had in this Voyage; There were ſome Priſoners that were committed to the Cuſtody of the ſame Centurion, who probably had appeal'd to Cæſar too, or were upon ſome other Account remov'd to Rome, to be tryed there, or to be examin'd as Witneſſes againſt ſome Priſoners there; perhaps ſome notorious Offenders, like Barrabas, that were therefore order'd to be brought before the Emperor himſelf. Paul was link'd with theſe, as Chriſt with the Thieves that were crucify'd with him, and was oblig'd to take his Lot with them in this Voyage, and we find in this Chapter, v. 42. that for their Sakes he had like to have been kill'd, but for his Sake they were preſerv'd, Note, It is no new Thing for the Innocent to be numbred among the Tranſgreſſors. But he had alſo ſome of his Friends with him Luke particularly, the Penman of this Book, for he puts himſelf in all along, we ſail'd into Italy, and we launch'd, v. 2. Ariſtarchus a Theſſalonian, is particularly nam'd, as being now in his Company. Dr. Lightfoot thinks that Trophimus the Epheſian went off with him, but he left him ſick at Miletum, 2 Tim. iv. 20. when he paſs'd by thoſe Coaſts of Aſia mention'd here, v. 2. and that there likewiſe he left Timothy. It was a Comfort to Paul to have the Society of ſome of his Friends in this tedious Voyage, with whom he might converſe freely, tho' he had ſo much looſe, profane Company about him. Thoſe that go long Voyages at Sea, are commonly neceſſitated to ſojourn as it were in Meſech and Kedar, and have need of Wiſdom that they may do good to the bad Company they are in, may make them better; or at leaſt be made never the worſe by them.

Secondly, What Courſe they ſteer'd, and what Places they touch'd at; which are particularly recorded for the confirming of the Truth of the Hiſtory to thoſe who liv'd at that Time, and could by their own Knowledge tell of their being at ſuch and ſuch a Place.

1. They touch'd at Sidon, not far off from where they went on Board; thither they came the next Day. And that which is obſerveable there, is, That Julius the Centurion was extraordinary civil to Paul; 'tis probable he knew his Caſe, and was one of the chief Captains or Principal Men that heard him plead his own Cauſe before Agrippa, ch. xxv. 23. and was convinc'd of his Innocency and the Injury done him; and therefore tho' he was committed to him as a Priſoner, he treated him as a Friend, as a Scholar, and a Gentlemen, and a Man that had an Intereſt in Heaven, He gave him Liberty, while the Buſineſs of the Ship ſtay'd at Sidon to go among his Friends there, to refreſh himſelf; and it would be a great Refreſhment to him. Julius herein gives an Example to thoſe in Power to be reſpectful to thoſe whom they find worthy of their Reſpects, and in uſing their Power to make a difference. A Joſeph, a Paul are not to be us'd as common Priſoners. GOD herein encourageth thoſe that ſuffer for Him to truſt in him; for He can put into the Hearts of thoſe to befriend them, from whom they leaſt expect it; can make them to be pity'd, nay, can make them to be priz'd valu'd even in the Eyes of thoſe that carry them Captive, Pſal. cvi. 46. And it is likewiſe an Inſtance of Paul's Fidelity, that when the Centurion was ſo civil as to give him his Liberty, he did not go about to make his Eſcape, which he might have eaſily done. But being out upon his Parol of Honour, he Faithfully returns to his Impriſonment; if the Centurion be ſo civil as to take his Word, he is ſo juſt and honeſt as to keep his Word.

2. They thence ſail'd under Cyprus, v. 4. If the Wind had been fair they had gone forward by direct Sailing, and had left Cyprus on the right Hand; but the Wind not favouring them, they were driven to oblique Sailing with aſide Wind, and ſo compaſs'd the Iſland in a manner, and left it on the left Hand, Sailors muſt do as they can, when they cannot do as they would, and make the beſt of their Wind whatever Point it is in, and ſo muſt we all in our Paſſage over the Ocean of this World. When the Winds are contrary, yet we muſt be getting forward as well as we can.

3. At a Port call'd Myra, they chang'd their Ship; that which they were in 'tis probable having Buſineſs no further, they went a-board a Veſſel of Alexandria bound for Italy, v. 5, 6. Alexandria was now the chief City of Egypt, and great trading there was between that City and Italy; from Alexandria they carry'd Corn to Rome; and the Eaſt India Goods and Perſian which they Imported at the Red-Sea, they Exported again to all Parts of the Mediterranean, and eſpecially to Italy. And it was a particular Favour ſhew'd to the Alexandrian Ships in the Ports of Italy that they were not oblig'd to ſtrike Sail, as other Ships were when they came into Port.

4. With much a-do they made the Fair Havens, a Port of the Iſland of Crete. v. 7, 8. They ſail'd ſlowly many Days, being becalm'd, or having the Wind againſt them. 'Twas a great while before they made the Point of Cnidus, a Port of Caria, and were forc'd to ſail under Crete, as before under Cyprus; much Difficulty they met with in paſſing by Salmone, a Promontory on the Eaſtern Shore of the Iſland of Crete. Tho' the Voyage hitherto was not tempeſtuous, yet it was very tedious. Thus many that are not driven backward in their Affairs by croſs Providences, yet ſail ſlowly and do not get forward by favourable Providences. And many good Chriſtians make this Complaint in the Concerns of their Souls, that they do not rid Ground in their Way to Heaven, but have much ado to keep their Ground; they move with many Stops and Pauſes, and lie a great while Wind-bound. Obſerve, The Place they came to was call'd The Fair Havens. Travellers ſay, 'tis known to this Day by the ſame Name, and that it anſwers the Name from the pleaſantneſs of its Situation and Proſpect. And yet (1) It was not the Harbour they were bound for; 'Twas a fair Haven, but it was not their Haven. Whatever agreeable Circumſtances we may be in, in this World, we muſt remember we are not at Home, and therefore we muſt ariſe and depart; for tho' it be a fair Haven, it is not the deſir'd Haven, Pſal. cvii. 30. (2.) It was not a commodious Haven to Winter in, ſo it is ſaid, v. 12. It had a fine Proſpect, but it lay expos'd to the Weather. Note, Every fair Haven, is not a ſafe Haven; Nay, there may be moſt Danger, where there is moſt Pleaſure.

Thirdly, What Advice Paul gave them with Reference to that Part of their Voyage they had before them; and it was to be content to Winter where they were, and not to think of ſtirring till a better Seaſon of the Year.

1. It was now a bad Time for Sailing; They had loſt a deal of Time while they were ſtruggling with contrary Wind. Sailing was now dangerous, becauſe the Faſt was already paſt, i. e. The famous Yearly Faſt of the Jews, the Day of Atonement, which was on the tenth Day of the ſeventh Month, a Day to afflict the Soul with Faſting; it was about the 20th of our September. That Yearly Faſt was very religiouſly obſerv'd; but (which is ſtrange) we never have any mention made in all the Scripture Hiſtory of the Obſervation of it, unleſs it be meant here, where it ſerves only to deſcribe the Seaſon of the Year. Michaelmas is reckon'd by Mariners as bad a Time of the Year to be at Sea in as any other; they complain of their Michaelmas Blaſts: 'Twas that Time now with theſe diſtreſſed Voyagers; the Harveſt was paſt, the Summer was ended; they had not only loſt Time, but loſt the Opportunity.

2. Paul put them in mind of it, and gave them Notice of their Danger, v. 10. I perceive, either by Notice from GOD, or by obſerving their wilful Reſolution to proſecute the Voyage, notwithſtanding the Peril of the Seaſon, that this Voyage will be with Hurt and Damage; you that have Effects on board, are likely to loſe them, and 'twill be a Miracle of Mercy if our Lives be given us for a Prey. Here were ſome good Men in the Ship, and many more ill Men; but in Things of this Nature, All Things come alike to all, and there is one Event to the Righteous and to the Wicked. If both be in the ſame Ship, they both are in the ſame Danger.

3. They would not be adviſ'd by Paul in this Matter, v. 11. They thought him impertinent in interpoſing in an Affair of this Nature, who did not underſtand Navigation, and the Centurion to whom it was referr'd to Determine it, though himſelf a Paſſenger, yet being a Man in Authority, he takes upon him to over-rule, tho' he had not been oftner at Sea perhaps than Paul, nor was better acquainted with theſe Seas; for Paul had planted the Goſpel in Crete, Tit. i. 5. and knew the ſeveral Parts of the Iſland well enough. But the Centurion gave more Regard to the Opinion of the Maſter and Owner of the Ship than to Paul's;

for

ly; but ſuch a Man as Paul, who was ſo intimate with Heaven, was rather to be regarded in Sea-faring Matters, than the moſt celebrated Sailors. Note, Thoſe know not what Dangers they run themſelves into, who will be govern'd more by Humane Prudence than by Divine Revelation. The Centurion was very civil to Paul, v. 3. and yet would not be govern'd by his Advice. Note, Many will ſhew Reſpect to good Miniſters, that will not take their Advice, Ezek. xxxiii. 31.

12 And becauſe the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part adviſed to depart thence alſo, if by any means they might attain to Phenice, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crete, and lieth toward the ſouth-weſt, and north-weſt. 13
And when the ſouth-wind blew ſoftly, ſuppoſing that they had obtained their purpoſe, looſing thence they ſailed cloſe by Crete. 14 But not long after there aroſe againſt it a tempeſtuous wind, called Euroclydon. 15 And when the ſhip was caught and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive. 16 And running under a certain iſland which is called Clauda, we had much work to come by the boat: 17 Which when they had taken up, they uſed helps, undergirding the ſhip; and fearing leſt they ſhould fall into the quickſands, ſtrake ſail, and ſo were driven. 18 And we being exceedingly toſſed with a tempeſt, the next day they lightened the ſhip; 19 And the third day we caſt out with our own hands the tackling of the ſhip. 20 And when neither ſun nor ſtars in many days appeared, and no ſmall tempeſt lay on us, all hope that we ſhould be ſaved, was then taken away.

In theſe Verſes we have,

Firſt, The Ship putting to Sea again, and purſuing her Voyage at firſt with a promiſing Gale. Obſerve,

1. What induc'd them to leave the fair Heavens; It was becauſe they thought the Harbour not commodious to winter in; It was pleaſant enough in the Summer, but in the Winter they lay bleak. Or, perhaps 'twas upon ſome other Account incommodious; Proviſions perhaps were ſcarce and dear there; and they run upon a Miſchief to avoid an Inconvenience, as we often do. Some of the Ship's Crew, or of the Council that was call'd to adviſe in this Matter, were for ſtaying there, rather than venturing to Sea, now the Weather was ſo uncertain. 'Tis better be ſafe in an incommodious Harbour, than be loſt in a tempeſtuous Sea; But they were out-voted when it was put to the Queſtion, and the more part adviſed to depart thence alſo; yet they aim'd not to go far, but only to another Port of the ſame Iſland, here call'd Phœnice, and ſome think 'twas ſo call'd becauſe the Phœnicians frequented it much; the Merchants of Tyre and Sidon. It is here deſcrib'd to lie toward the South-Weſt and North-Weſt. Probably the Haven was between two Promontories, or Juttings out of Land into the Sea, one of which pointed to the North-Weſt, and t'other to the South-Weſt, by which it was guarded againſt the Eaſt Winds. Thus hath the Wiſdom of the Creator provided for the Relief and Safety of them who go down to the Sea in Ships, and do Buſineſs in great Waters. In vain had Nature provided for us the Waters to ſail on, if it had not likewiſe provided for us Natural Harbours to take Shelter in.

2. What Encouragement they had at firſt to purſue their Voyage: They ſet out with a fair Wind, v. 13. the South Wind blew ſoftly, upon which they flatter'd themſelves with Hope that they ſhould gain their Point, and ſo they ſailed cloſe by the Coaſt of Crete, and were not afraid of running upon the Rocks or Quick-ſands, becauſe the Wind blew ſo gently. Thoſe who put to Sea with never ſo fair a Gale, know not what Storms they may yet meet with; and therefore muſt not be ſecure, nor take it for granted that they have obtain'd their Purpoſe, when ſo many Accidents may happen to croſs their Purpoſe. Let not him that girdeth on the Harneſs boaſt as tho' he had put it off.

Secondly, The Ship in a Storm preſently, a dreadful Storm. They look'd at ſecond Cauſes, and took their Meaſures from the favourable Hints they gave, and imagin'd that becauſe the South-wind now blew ſoftly, it would always blow ſo, and in Confidence of that they ventur'd to Sea, but are ſoon made ſenſible of their Folly in giving more Credit to a ſmiling Wind, than to the Word of GOD in Paul's Mouth, by which they had fair Warning given them of a Storm. Obſerve,

1. What their Danger and Diſtreſs was, (1.) There aroſe againſt them a Tempeſtuous Wind, which was not only contrary to them, and directly in their Teeth, ſo that they could not get forward, but a violent Wind that rais'd the Waves, like that which was ſent forth in Purſuit of Jonah; tho' Paul was following GOD, and going on in his Duty, and not as Jonah running away from GOD and his Duty. This Wind the Sailors call'd Euroclydon, a North-Eaſt Wind, which upon thoſe Seas perhaps was obſerv'd to be in a particular Manner Troubleſome and Dangerous. It was a ſort of a Whirlwind, for the Ship is ſaid to be caught by it, v. 15. 'Twas GOD that commanded this Wind to riſe, deſigning to bring Glory to himſelf, and Reputation to Paul out of it; ſtormy Winds being brought out of his Treaſuries, Pſal. cxxxv. 7. they fulfil His Word, Pſal. cxlviii. 8. (2.) The Ship was exceedingly toſs'd, v. 18. 'twas kick'd like a Foot-ball from Wave to Wave, and as it is elegantly deſcrib'd, Pſal. cvii. 26, 27. it and its Paſſengers mount up to the Heavens, go down again to the Depths, reel to and fro, ſtagger like a drunken Man, and are at their Wits end. The Ship could not poſſibly bear up into the Wind, could not make her Way in Oppoſition to the Wind; and therefore they folded up their Sails, which in ſuch a Storm would endanger them rather than do them any Service, and ſo let the ſhip drive, let it go where-ever the Wind hurries it. Non quo voluit, ſed quo rapit impetus undæ. Ovid. Triſt. It is probable they were very near the Haven of Phœnice when this Tempeſt roſe, and thought they ſhould preſently be in a quiet Haven, and were pleaſing themſelves with the Thought of it, and of wintering there, and lo, of a ſudden they are in this Diſtreſs. Let us therefore always rejoice with Trembling, and never expect a perfect Security, nor a perpetual Serenity till we come to Heaven. (3.) They ſaw neither Sun nor Stars of many Days; this made the Tempeſt the more terrible, that they were all in the Dark; And the Uſe of the Load-ſtone for the directing of Sailors not being then found out, ſo that they had no Guide at all when they could ſee neither Sun nor Stars, made the Caſe the more hazardous. Thus Melancholy ſometimes is the Condition of the People of God upon a ſpiritual Account: They walk in Darkneſs, and have no Light. Neither Sun nor Stars appear; they cannot dwell; nay, they cannot faſten upon any Thing comfortable or encouraging; Thus it may be with them, and yet Light is ſown for them. (4.) They had abundance of Winter-weather; no ſmall Tempeſt; χειμων οὐκ ὀλίγος cold Rain, and Snow, and all the Rigours of that Seaſon of the Year; ſo that they were ready to periſh for Cold; and all this continued many Days. See what Hardſhips thoſe many Times undergo that are much at Sea, beſides the Hazards of Life they run; and yet to get Gain there are ſtill thoſe who make nothing of all this: And it is an Inſtance of the Wiſdom of Divine Providence, that it diſpoſeth ſome to this Employment, notwithſtanding the Difficulties that attend it, for the keeping up of Commerce among the Nations, and the Iſles of the Gentiles particularly; And Zebulon can as heartily rejoice in his going out, as Iſſachar in his Tents. And perhaps Chriſt therefore choſe Miniſters from among Sea-faring Men, becauſe they had been us'd to endure Hardneſs.

2. What Means they us'd for their own Relief; they betook themſelves to all the poor Shifts (for I can call them no better) that Sailors in Diſtreſs have Recourſe to. (1.) When they could not make Head againſt the Wind they let the Ship run adrift, finding it was to no Purpoſe to ply either the Oar or the Sail. When it is fruitleſs to ſtruggle, 'tis Wiſdom to yield. (2.) They nevertheleſs did what they could to avoid the preſent Danger; there was a little Iſland call'd Clauda, and when they were near that, tho' they could not purſue their Voyage, they took Care to prevent their Shipwreck, and therefore ſo order'd their Matters, that they did not run againſt the Iſland, but quietly run under it, v. 16. (3.) When they were afraid they ſhould ſcarce ſave the Ship, they were buſy to ſave the Boat, which they did with much adoe. They had much Work to come by the Boat, v. 16. but at laſt they took it up, v. 17. That might be of Uſe in any Exigence, and therefore they made hard ſhift to get it into the Ship to them. (4.) They us'd Means which were proper enough in thoſe Times, when the Art of Navigation was far ſhort of the Perfection 'tis now come to; they ungirded the Ship, v. 17. They bound the Ship under the Bottom of it with ſtrong Cables, to keep it from bulging in the Extremity of the Tempeſt. (5.) For fear of falling into the Quick-ſands, they ſtruck Sail, and then let the Ship go as it would. 'Tis ſtrange how a Ship will live at Sea, (ſo they expreſs it) even in every ſtormy Weather, if it have but Sea-Room; and when the Sailors cannot make the Shore, 'tis their Intereſt to keep as far off it as they can. (6.) The next Day they lighten'd the Ship of its Cargo, threw the Goods and Merchandizes over-board, as Jonah's Mariners did, Chap. i. 5. being willing rather to be poor without them, than to periſh with them. Skin for Skin, and all that a Man has, will be give for his Life. See what the Wealth of this World is; how much ſoever 'tis courted as a Bleſſing, the Time may come when it will be a Burthen, not only too heavy to be carry'd ſafe of itſelf, but heavy enough to ſink him that has it. Riches are often kept by the Owners thereof to their Hurt, Eccleſ. v. 13. and parted with to their Good. But ſee the Folly of the Children of this World, they can be thus prodigal of their Goods when it is for the ſaving of their Lives, and yet how ſparing of them in Works of Piety and Charity, and in ſuffering for Chriſt, tho' they are told by Eternal Truth itſelf that thoſe ſhall be recompens'd more than a Thouſand Fold in the Reſurrection of the Juſt. They went upon a Principle of Faith, who took joyfully the ſpoiling of their Goods, knowing in themſelves, that they had in Heaven a better and a more enduring Subſtance, Heb. x. 34. any Man will rather make Shipwreck of his Goods, than of his Life, but many will rather make Ship- wreck of Faith and a good Conſcience, than of their Goods. (7.) The Third Day they caſt out the Tackling of the Ship; the Utenſils of it, Aramenta; ſo ſome render it; as if it were a Ship of Force. With us 'tis common to heave the Guns over-board in the Extremity of a Storm; but what heavy Artillery they had then which it was neceſſary to lighten the Ship of, I do not know; and queſtion whether it were not then a Vulgar Error among Seamen thus to throw every Thing into the Sea, even that which would be of great Uſe in a Storm, and no great Weight.

3. The Deſpair which at laſt they were brought to, v. 20. All Hope that we ſhould be ſaved was then taken away. The Storm continued, and they ſaw no Symptoms of its Abatement: We have known very bluſtring Weather to continue for ſome Weeks. The Means they had us'd were ſo effectual, ſo that they were at their Wits End; And ſuch was the Conſternation that this melancholy Proſpect put them into, that they had no Heart either to eat or drink. They had Proviſion enough on Board, v. 38. but ſuch Bondage were they under through Fear of Death, that they could not admit the Supports of Life. Why did not Paul, by the Power of Chriſt and in his Name lay this Storm? Why did he not ſay to the Winds and Waves, Peace, Be ſtill, as his Maſter had done? ſurely it was becauſe the Apoſtles wrought Miracles for the Confirmation of their Doctrine, not for the ſerving of a Turn for themſelves or their Friends.

21 But after long abſtinence, Paul ſtood forth in the midſt of them, and ſaid, Sirs, ye ſhould have hearkened unto me, and not have looſed from Crete, and to have gained this harm and loſs. 22 And now I exhort you to be of good cheer: for there ſhall be no loſs of any man's life among you, but of the ſhip. 23 For there ſtood by me this night the angel of God, whoſe I am, and whom I ſerve, 24 Saying, Fear not, Paul; thou muſt be brought before Cæſar: and lo, God hath given thee all them that ſail with thee. 25 Wherefore, Sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, and it ſhall be even as it was told me. 26 Howbeit we muſt be caſt upon a certain iſland. 27 But when the fourteenth night was come, as we were driven up and down in Adria about midnight, the ſhipmen deemed that they drew near to ſome countrey: 28 And ſounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they ſounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms. 29 Then fearing leſt they ſhould have fallen upon rocks, they caſt four anchors out of the ſtern, and wiſhed for the day. 30 And as the ſhipmen were about to flee out of the ſhip, when they had let down the boat into the ſea, under colour, as though they would have caſt anchors out of the foreſhip. 31 Paul ſaid to the centurion, and to the ſoldiers, Except theſe abide in the ſhip ye cannot be ſaved. 32 Then the ſoldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off. 33 And while the day was coming on, Paul beſought them all to take meat, ſaying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried, and continued faſting, having taken nothing. 34 Wherefore I pray you to take ſome meat; for this is for your health: for there ſhall not an hair fall from the head of any of you. 35 And when he had thus ſpoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in preſence of them all, and when he had broken it, he began to eat. 36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they alſo took ſome meat. 37 And we were in all in the ſhip, two hundred threeſcore and ſixteen ſouls. 38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ſhip, and caſt out the wheat into the ſea. 39 And when it was day they knew not the land: but they diſcovered a certain creek with a ſhore, into the which they were minded, if it were poſſible, to thruſt in the ſhip. 40 And when they had taken up the anchors, they committed themſelves unto the ſea, and looſed the rudder-bands, and hoiſed up the mainſail to the wind, and made towards ſhore. 41 And ſailing into a place where two ſeas met, they ran the ſhip a-ground; and the forepart ſtuck faſt, and remained unmoveable, but the hinderpart was broken with the violence of the waves. 42 And the ſoldiers counſel was to kill the priſoners, leſt any of them ſhould ſwim out, and eſcape. 43 But the centurion willing to ſave Paul, kept them from their purpoſe, and commanded that they which could ſwim, ſhould caſt themſelves firſt into the ſea, and get to land: 44 And the reſt, ſome on boards and ſome on broken pieces of the ſhip: And ſo it came to paſs that they eſcaped all ſafe to land.

We have here the Iſſue of the Diſtreſs of Paul and his Fellow-Travellers; they eſcap'd with their Lives, and that was all; and that was for Paul's ſake. We are here told, v. 37. what Number there were on Board, Mariners, Merchants, Soldiers, Priſoners and other Paſſengers, in all Two Hundred Seventy Six Souls; this is taken Notice of to make us the more concern'd for them in reading the Story, that they were ſuch a conſiderable Number, whoſe Lives were now in the utmoſt jeopardy, and one Paul among them worth more than all the reſt. We left them in Deſpair, giving up themſelves for gone: Whether they call'd every Man on his God, as Jonah's Mariners did, we are not told. 'Tis well if the laudable Practice in a Storm was not gone out of Faſhion, and made a Jeſt of. However Paul among theſe Seamen was not like Jonah among us, the Cauſe of the Storm, but the Comforter in the Storm, and as much a Credit to the Profeſſion of an Apoſtle, as Jonah was a Blemiſh to his Character as a Prophet.

Now here we have,

Firſt, The Encouragement Paul gave them by aſſuring them in the Name of GOD that their Lives ſhould all be ſav'd, then when in human Appearance, all Hope that they ſhould be ſaved was taken away. Paul reſcued them from their Deſpair firſt, that they might not die of that, and ſtarve themſelves in that, and then they were in a fair way to be reſcu'd from their Diſtreſs. After long Abſtinence, as if they were reſolv'd not to eat, till they knew whether they ſhould live or die, Paul ſtood forth in the midſt of them; During the Diſtreſs hitherto Paul hid himſelf among them, was one of the Croud, help'd with the reſt to throw out the Tackling, v. 19. but now he diſtinguiſh'd himſelf, and, tho' a Priſoner, undertook to be their Counſellor and Comforter.

1. He reproves them for not taking his Advice, which was to ſtay where they were in the Road of Laſea, v. 8. Ye ſhould have hearken'd to me and not have looſed from Crete, where we might have made a ſhift to Winter well enough, and then we ſhould not have gained this Harm and Loſs; i. e. we ſhould have eſcaped it. Harm and Loſs in the World, if Sanctify'd to us, may be truly ſaid to be Gain; for if they wean us from preſent Things, and awaken us to think of a future State, we are truly Gainers by them. Obſerve, They did not hearken to Paul when he warn'd them of their Danger, and yet if they will but acknowledge their Folly and repent of it, he will ſpeak Comfort and Relief to them now they are in Danger; ſo compaſſionate is GOD to thoſe that are in Miſery, tho' they bring themſelves into it by their own Incogitancy, nay, by their own Wilfulneſs and Contempt of Admonition. Paul before his Comfort, will firſt make them ſenſible of their Sin in not hearkening to him, by upbraiding them with their Raſhneſs, and probably when he tells them of their gaining Harm and Loſs, he reflects upon what they promis'd themſelves by proceeding in their Voyage, that they ſhould gain ſo much Time, gain this and t'other Point, but ſaith he, you have gain'd nothing but Harm and Loſs; how will you anſwer it? That which they are blam'd for, is their looſing from Crete, where they were ſafe. Note, Moſt People bring themſelves into Inconvenience becauſe they do do not know when they are well, but gain Harm and Loſs by aiming againſt Advice to mend themſelves.

2. He aſſures them, that tho' they ſhould loſe the Ship, yet they ſhould none of them loſe their Lives. You ſee your Folly in not being rul'd by me, he doth not ſay now therefore expect to fare accordingly, you may thank yourſelves if you be all loſt. They that will not be counſel'd, cannot be help'd. No, yet now there is Hope in Iſrael concerning this Thing; your Caſe is ſad, but it is not deſperate, Now I exhort you to be of good Cheer: Thus we ſay to Sinners that are convinc'd of their Sin and Folly, and begin to ſee and bewail their Error, you ſhould have hearken'd unto us, and ſhould have had nothing to do with Sin; yet now we exhort you to be of good Cheer: Tho' you would not take our Advice when we ſaid, Do not preſume, yet take it now when we ſay, Do not deſpair. They had given up the Cauſe, and would uſe no further Means, becauſe all Hope that they ſhould be ſaved was taken away. Now Paul quickens them to beſtir themſelves yet in working for their own Safety, by telling them that if they would reſume their Vigour they ſhould ſecure their Lives. He gives them this Aſſurance when they were brought to the laſt Extremity, for now it would be doubly welcome to them to be told that not a Life ſhould be loſt, when they were ready to conclude they muſt inevitably be all loſt. He tells them (1.) That they muſt count upon the Loſs of the Ship. Thoſe who were intereſted in that and the Goods were probably thoſe greater Part that were for puſhing forward the Voyage, and running the Venture, notwithſtanding Paul's Admonition, and they are made to pay for their Raſhneſs: Their Ship ſhall be wreck'd. And many a ſtately, ſtrong, rich gallant Ship is loſt in the mighty Waters in a little Time; for Vanity of Vanities, all is Vanity and Vexation of Spirit. But (2.) Not a Life ſhall be loſt. This would be good News to thoſe that were ready to Die for fear of Dying, and whoſe guilty Conſciences made Death look very terrible to them.

3. He tells them what Ground he had for this Aſſurance; that it is not a Banter upon them to put them into Humour, nor a human Conjecture, but he has a Divine Revelation for it, and is as confident of it as that GOD is True, being fully ſatisfied that he has his Word for it. An Angel of God appear'd to him in the Night, and told him that for his ſake they ſhould all be preſerv'd, v. 23, 24, 25. which would double the Mercy of their Preſervation, that they ſhould have it not only by Providence but by Promiſe, and as a particular Favour to Paul. Now obſerve here,

(1.) The ſolemn Profeſſion Paul makes of Relation to GOD, the GOD from whom he had this favourable Intelligence; 'Tis he, whoſe I am, and whom I ſerve. He looks upon GOD, (1.) As his rightful Owner; that has a ſovereign unconteſtable Title to him, and Dominion over him; whoſe I am. Becauſe God made us, and not we ourſelves, therefore we are not our own, but His. His we are by Creation, for he made us, by Preſervation, for he maintains us, by Redemption, for he bought us. We are more His than our own. (2.) As his Sovereign Ruler and Maſter, that having given him Being, has Right to give him Law, whom I ſerve. Becauſe his we are, therefore we are bound to ſerve Him, to devote ourſelves to his Honour, and employ ourſelves in his Work. It is Chriſt that Paul here has an Eye to; He is GOD, and the Angels are His, and go on his Errands, Paul often calls himſelf a Servant of Jeſus Chriſt; he is His, and Him he ſerves both as a Chriſtian and as an Apoſtle; He doth not ſay, whoſe we are, and whom we ſerve, for the moſt that were preſent were Strangers to him, but whoſe I am, and whom I ſerve, whatever others do. Nay, whom I am now in the actual Service of; going to Rome, not as you are upon worldly Buſineſs, but appear as a Witneſs for Chriſt. Now this he tells the Company, that ſeeing their Relief coming from his GOD, whoſe he was, and whom he ſerv'd, they might thereby be drawn in to take him for their GOD, and to ſerve him likewiſe; for the ſame Reaſon Jonah ſaid to his Mariners, I fear the Lord, the God of Heaven, which has made the Sea and the dry Land, Jonah i. 9.

(2.) The Account he gives of the Viſion he had. There ſtood by me this Night an Angel of GOD, a Divine Meſſenger, who had us'd formerly to bring him Meſſages from Heaven; He ſtood by him, viſibly appear'd to him, probably when he was awake upon his Bed. Tho' he was afar off upon the Sea, (Pſal. lxv. 5.) in the uttermoſt parts of the Sea, Pſal. cxxxix. 9. yet that cannot intercept his Communion with GOD, nor deprive him of the Benefit of Divine Viſits. Thence he can direct a Prayer to GOD, and thither GOD can direct an Angel to him. He knows not where he is himſelf, yet GOD's Angel knows where to find him out. The Ship is toſs'd with Winds and Waves, hurry'd to and fro with the utmoſt Violence, and yet the Angel finds a Way into it. No Storms or Tempeſts can hinder the Communications of GOD's Favour to his People, for he is a very preſent Help, a Help at Hand, even when the Sea roars and is troubled, Pſal. xlvi. 1. 3. We may ſuppoſe that Paul being a Priſoner, had not a Cabin of his own in the Ship, much leſs a Bed in the Captain's Cabin, but was put down into the Hold; any dark or dirty Place was thought good enough in common with the reſt of the Priſoners, and yet there the Angel of God ſtood by him. Meanneſs and Poverty ſets none at a diſtance from GOD and his Favour. Jacob, when he has no Pillow but a Stone, no Curtains but the Clouds, yet has a Viſion of Angels; Paul had this Viſion but this laſt Night. He had himſelf been aſſur'd by a former Viſion, that he ſhould go to Rome, chap. xxiii. 11. from which he might infer that he himſelf ſhould be ſafe, but he has this freſh Viſion to aſſure him of the ſafety of thoſe with him.

(3.) The Encouragements that were given him in the Viſion, v. 24. (1.) He is forbidden to fear. Tho' all about him are at their Wits end, and loſt in Deſpair, yet Fear not Paul; Fear not their Fear, nor be afraid, Iſa. viii. 12. Let the Sinners in Sion be afraid, but let not the Saints be afraid, no not at Sea, in a ſtorm; for the Lord of Hoſts is with them, and their Place of Defence ſhall be the munitions of Rocks, Iſa. xxxiii. 14, 16. (2.) He is aſſur'd that for his Part he ſhall come ſafe to Rome; Thou muſt be brought before Cæſar. As the Rage of the moſt potent Enemies, ſo the Rage of the moſt ſtormy Sea cannot prevail againſt GOD's Witneſſes till they have finiſh'd their Teſtimony. Paul muſt be preſerv'd in this Danger, for he is reſerv'd for further Service. This is comfortable to the Faithful Servants of GOD in Straits and Difficulties, that as long as GOD has any Work for them to do, their Lives ſhall be prolong'd. (3.) That for his ſake all that were in the Ship with him ſhould be deliver'd too, from periſhing in this Storm. GOD hath given thee all them that ſail with thee. This Angel that was order'd to bring him this Meſſage could have ſingled him out from this wretched Crew, and thoſe that were his Friends too, and have carry'd them ſafe to ſhore, and have left the reſt to periſh, becauſe they would not take Paul's Counſel. But GOD chuſeth rather by preſerving them all for his ſake to ſhew what great Bleſſings good Men are to the World, than by delivering him only to ſhew how good Men are diſtinguiſh'd from the World. GOD hath given thee all them that ſail with thee, i. e. ſpares them in anſwer to thy prayers, or for thy ſake. Sometimes good Men deliver neither Sons nor Daughters but their own Souls only, Ezek. xiv. 18. But Paul here delivers a whole Ship's Crew, almoſt three hundred Souls. Note, GOD often ſpares wicked People for the ſake of the Godly; as Zoar for Lot's ſake, and as Sodom might have been, if there had been Ten righteous Perſons in it. The good People are hated and perſecuted in the World as if they were not worthy to live in it, yet really it is for their Sakes that the World ſtands. If Paul had thruſt himſelf needleſly into ill Company, he might juſtly have been caſt away with them, but GOD calling him into it, they are preſerv'd with him. And it is intimated, That it was a great Favour to Paul, and he look'd upon it to be ſo, that others were ſav'd for his Sake, they are given thee; There is no greater Satisfaction to a good Man, than to know that he is a publick Bleſſing.

4. He comforts them with the ſame Comforts wherewith he himſelf was comforted, v. 25. Wherefore Sirs, be of good Cheer, you ſhall ſee even this will end well; for I believe in God, and depend upon his Word, that it ſhall be even as it was told me. He would not require them to give Credit to that which he did not himſelf give Credit to; and therefore ſolemnly profeſſeth that he believes it himſelf, and the Belief of it makes him eaſy. I doubt not but it ſhall be as it was told me. Thus he ſtaggers not at the Promiſe of God through Unbelief. Hath GOD ſpoken and ſhall He not make it good? No doubt he can, no doubt he will, for He is not a Man that he ſhould lye. And ſhall it be as GOD hath ſaid? Then be of good Cheer, be of good Courage, GOD is ever faithful, and therefore let all that have an Intereſt in his Promiſe be ever chearful. If with GOD ſaying and doing are not two Things, then with us Believing & Enjoying ſhould not.

5. He gives them a Sign, telling them particularly what this Tempeſtuous Voyage would iſſue in, v. 26. We muſt be caſt upon a certain Iſland, and that will both break the Ship, and ſave the Paſſengers, and ſo the Prediction in both Reſpects will be fulfill'd. The Pilot had quitted his Poſt, the Ship was left to run at Random, they knew not what Latitude they were in, much leſs how to ſteer their Courſe, and yet Providence undertakes to bring them to an Iſland that ſhall be a Refuge for them. When the Church of GOD, like this Ship, is toſſed with Tempeſts and not comforted, when there is none to guide her of all her Sons, yet GOD can bring her ſafe to ſhore, and will do it.

Secondly, Their coming at length to an Anchor upon an unknown Shore, v. 27, 28, 29.

1. They had been a full Fortnight in the Storm, continually expecting Death. The Fourteenth Night, and not ſooner, they came near Land. They were that Night driven up and down in Adria, not in the Adriatick Gulf, on which Venice ſtands, but in the Adriatick Sea, a Part of the Mediterranean containing both the Sicilian and Ionian-Seas, and extending to the African-Shore. In this Sea they were toſs'd, and knew not whereabouts they were.

2. About Midnight the Mariners apprehended that they drew near to ſome Shore; which confirm'd what Paul had told them, that they muſt be driven upon ſome Iſland. To try whether it was ſo or no they ſounded, in order to their finding the Depth of the Water, for the Water would be ebber as they drew nearer to Shore; by the firſt Experiment they found they drew Twenty Fathom deep of Water, and by the next, Fifteen Fathom; which was a Demonſtration that they were near ſome Shore. GOD hath wiſely order'd ſuch a Natural Notice to Sailors in the Dark that they may be cautious.

3. They took the Hint, and fearing Rocks near the Shore, they caſt Anchor, and wiſh'd for the Day. They durſt not go forward, for fear of Rocks, and yet would not go back in Hope of Shelter, but they would wait for the Morning, and heartily wiſh'd for it; who can blame them when the Affair came to a Criſis? When they had Light there was no Land to be ſeen; now there was Land near them they had no Light to ſee it by, no marvel then they wiſh'd for Day. When thoſe that fear GOD walk in Darkneſs, and have no Light, yet let them not ſay, The Lord has forſaken them, or their God has forgotten them, but let them do as theſe Mariners did, caſt Anchor and wiſh for the Day, and be aſſur'd that the Day will dawn. Hope is an Anchor of the Soul, ſure and ſtedfaſt entring into that within the Veil. Hold faſt by that, think not of putting to Sea again, but abide by Chriſt, and wait till the Day break, and the Shadows flee away.

Thirdly, The defeating of the Sailors Attempt to quit the Ship; Here was a new Danger added to their Diſtreſs, which they narrowly eſcap'd. Obſerve,

1. The Treacherous Deſign of the Shipmen; and that was to leave the ſinking Ship; which tho' a piece of Wiſdom in others, yet in thoſe that were intruſted with the Conduct of it, it was the baſeſt Fraud that could be, v. 30. They were about to flee out of the Ship, concluding no other but that when it run aſhore, it muſt be broken all to pieces. Having the Command of the Boat, the Project was to get all of them into that, and ſo ſave themſelves, and leave all the reſt to periſh. To cover this vile Deſign, they pretended they would caſt Anchors out of the Fore-ſhip Boat, which they had taken in, v. 16, 17. and were going into it, having for the Shore. The Treacherous Seamen like the Treacherous Shepherd, flees when he ſees the Danger coming, and there is moſt need of his Help, John x. 12. Then true is that of Solomon, Confidence in an unfaithful Man in Time of Trouble, is like a broken Tooth, or a Foot out of Joynt. Let us therefore ceaſe from Man. Paul had in GOD's Name aſſur'd them that they ſhould come ſafe to Land, but they will rather truſt their own Refuge of Lyes, than GOD*'s Word of Truth.*

2. Paul's Diſcovery of it, and Proteſtation againſt it, v. 31. They all ſaw them preparing to go into the Boat, but were deceiv'd by the Pretence they made, only Paul ſaw through it, and gave Notice to the Centurion and the Soldiers concerning it, and therefore the Shipmen are now more neceſſary than ever yet: It was indeed not by any skill of theirs that they were brought to Land, for it was quite beyond their skill, but now they are near Land, they muſt uſe their Art to bring the Ship to it. When GOD has done that for us which we could not, we muſt then in his Strength help our ſelves. Paul ſpeaks humanly when he ſaith, ye cannot be ſav'd except theſe abide in the Ship, and doth not at all weaken the aſſurances he had divinely given that they ſhould infallibly be ſav'd. GOD that appointed the End that they ſhould be ſav'd, appointed the Means that they ſhould be ſav'd by the Help of theſe Ship-men; Tho' if they had gone off, no doubt GOD would have made his Word good ſome other way. Paul ſpeaks as a prudent Man, not as a Prophet, when he ſaith, Theſe are neceſſary to your Preſervation. Duty is ours, Events are GOD's; And we do not truſt GOD, but tempt him, when we ſay we put ourſelves under his Protection, and do not uſe proper Means, ſuch as are within our Power for our own preſervation.

3. The effectual Defeating of it by the Soldiers, v. 32. 'Twas no Time to ſtand arguing the Caſe with the Shipmen, and therefore they made no more ado but cut the Ropes of the Boat, and tho' it might otherwiſe have done them Service in their preſent Diſtreſs, they choſe rather to let it fall off, and loſe it, than ſuffer it to do them this Diſſervice. And now the Shipmen being forc'd to ſtay in the Ship whether they would or no, are forc'd likewiſe to work for the Safety of the Ship as hard as they could, becauſe if the reſt periſh, they muſt periſh with them.

Fourthly, The New Life which Paul put into the Company by his chearful inviting them to take ſome Refreſhment, and the repeated Aſſurances given them, that they ſhould all of them have their Lives given them for a Prey. Happy they who had ſuch a one as Paul in their Company, who not only had Correſpondence with Heaven, but was of a hearty lively Spirit, with thoſe about him; that ſharpen'd the Countenance of his Friend, as Iron ſharpens Iron. Such a Friend in Diſtreſs when without are Fightings, and within are Fears, is a Friend indeed. Ointment and Perfume rejoice the Heart: So doth the ſweetneſs of a Man's Friend by hearty Counſel, Prov. xxvii. 10. Such was Paul's here to his Companions in Tribulation. The Day was coming on. They that wiſh for the Day, let them wait a while, and they ſhall have what they wiſh for; The Dawning of the Day reviv'd them a little, and then Paul got them together.

1. He chid them for their Neglect of themſelves, that they had ſo far given Way to Fear and Deſpair as to forget or not to mind their Food. This is the Fourteenth Day that ye have tarried and continued Faſting, having taken nothing; and that is not well. v. 33. Not that they had all, or any of them continu'd Fourteen Days without any Food, but they had not had any ſet Meals as they us'd to have, of all that Time; they eat very little, next nothing. Or, you have continu'd faſting, i. e. you have loſt your Stomach; you have had no Appetite at all to your Food, nor any Reliſh of it, through prevailing Fear and Deſpair. A very diſconſolate State is thus expreſs'd, Pſal. cii. 4. I forget to eat my Bread. It is a Sin to ſtarve the Body and to deny it its neceſſary Supports; he is an unnatural Man indeed that hateth his own Fleſh, and doth not nouriſh and cheriſh it; And a ſore Evil under the Sun to have a Sufficiency of the good Things of this Life, and not to have Power to uſe them, Eccleſ. vi. 2. And if this ariſe from the Sorrow of the World, and from any inordinate Fear or Trouble, 'tis ſo far from excuſing it, that it is another Sin, 'tis Diſcontent, 'tis Diſtruſt of GOD, 'tis all wrong. What Folly is it to Dye for fear of Dying; but thus the Sorrow of the World works Death, while Joy in GOD is Life and Peace in the greateſt Diſtreſſes and Dangers.

2. He courts them to their Food, v. 34. wherefore I pray you to take ſome Meat; We have a hard Struggle before us, muſt get to ſhore as well as we can, if our Bodies be weak through Faſting, we ſhall not be able to help ourſelves. The Angel bid Elijah Ariſe and Eat, for otherwiſe he would find the Journey too great for him, 1 Kings xix. 7. ſo Paul will have theſe People eat or otherwiſe the Waves will be too hard for them. I pray you παρακαλῶ, I exhort you, if you'll be rul'd by me, take ſome Nouriſhment; Tho' you have no Appetite to it, tho' you have faſted away your Stomach, yet let Reaſon bring you to it, for this is for your Health; Or rather, your Preſervation, or Safety at this Time: 'Tis for your Salvation, you cannot without nouriſhment have Strength to ſhift for your Lives. As he that will not labour, let him not eat, ſo he that means to labour muſt eat. Weak and trembling Chriſtians that give way to Doubts and Fears about their Spiritual State continue Faſting from the Lord's-Supper, and Faſting from Divine Conſolation, and then complain they cannot go on in their Spiritual Work & Warfare, and it is long of themſelves, if they would feed and feaſt as they ought, upon the Proviſion Chriſt has made for them, they would be ſtrengthen'd, and 'twould be for their Souls Health and Salvation.

3. He aſſures them of their Preſervation. There ſhall not be a Hair fall from the Head of any of you. It is a Proverbial Expreſſion, noting a compleat Indemnity: 'Tis us'd 1 Kin. i. 52. Luk. xxi. 18. you cannot eat for fear of dying; I tell you, you are ſure of living, and therefore eat. You'll come to ſhore wet and cold, but ſound Wind & Limb; your Hair wet, but not a Hair loſt.

4. He himſelf ſpread their Table for them; for none of them had any Heart to do it, they were all ſo diſpirited; when he had thus ſpoken, he took Bread, fetch'd it from the Ship's Stores, to which every one might ſafely have acceſs when none of them had an Appetite. They were not reduc'd to ſhort Allowance, as Sailors ſometimes are, when they are kept longer at Sea than they expected, by diſtreſs of Weather. They had Plenty, but what good did that do them when they had no Stomach? We have Reaſon to be thankful to GOD that we have not only Food to our Appetite, but Appetite to our Food, that our Soul abhors not dainty Meat, Job xxxiii. 20. through Sickneſs or Sorrow.

5. He was Chaplain to the Ship; and they had Reaſon to be proud of their Chaplain. He gave Thanks to God in preſence of them all. We have Reaſon to think he had often pray'd with Luke and Ariſtarchus, and what others there were among them that were Chriſtians, that they pray'd daily together. But whether he had before this pray'd with the whole Company promiſcuouſly, is not certain. Now he gave Thanks to God in Preſence of them all; that they were alive, and had been preſerv'd hitherto; and that they had a Promiſe that their Lives ſhould be preſerv'd, in the imminent Peril now before them. He gave thanks for the Proviſion they had, and begg'd a Bleſſing upon it. We muſt in every thing give Thanks; and muſt particularly have an Eye to GOD in receiving our Food, for it is Sanctify'd to us by the Word of God and Prayer; and is to be receiv'd with Thankſgiving; thus the Curſe is taken off from it, and we obtain a Covenant Right to it, and a Covenant Bleſſing upon it, 1 Tim. iv. 3, 4, 5. And it is not by Bread alone that Man lives, but by the Word of God, which muſt be met with Prayer. He gave thanks in preſence of them all, not only to ſhew that he ſerv'd a Maſter he was not aſham'd of, but to invite them into his Service too. If we crave a Bleſſing upon our Meat, and give Thanks for it in a right manner, we ſhall not only keep up a comfortable Communion with GOD ourſelves, but credit our Profeſſion, and recommend it to the good Opinion of others.

6. He ſet them a good Example, when he had given Thanks he broke the Bread, ('twas Sea-bisket) and he began to eat. Whether they would be encourag'd or no, he would; If they would be ſullen, and like froward Children refuſe their Victuals becauſe they had not every thing to their Mind, he would eat his Meat and be thankful. Thoſe that teach others, are inexcuſable if they do not themſelves as they teach; and the moſt effectual way of Preaching, is by Example.

7. It had a happy Influence upon them all, v. 36. Then were they all of good Cheer. They then ventur'd to believe the Meſſage GOD ſent them by Paul, when they plainly perceiv'd that Paul believ'd it himſelf, who was in the ſame common Danger with them. Thus GOD ſends good Tydings to the periſhing World of Mankind by thoſe that are of themſelves, and in the ſame common Danger with themſelves, that are Sinners too, and muſt be ſav'd, if ever they be ſav'd, in the ſame way in which they perſuade others to venture; for it is a Common Salvation which they bring the Tydings of; and it is an Encouragement to People to commit themſelves to Chriſt as their Saviour, when thoſe who invite them to do ſo, make it appear that they do ſo themſelves. And it is here upon this Occaſion that the number of the Perſons is ſet down, which we took Notice of before, they were in all Two Hundred Threeſcore and Sixteen Souls: See how many may be influenc'd by the good Example of one. They did all eat, nay, they did all eat enough, v. 38. They were ſatiated with Food, or fill'd with it; they made a hearty Meal; which explains the Meaning of their Faſting before for Fourteen Days, not that they did not eat of all that Time, but they never had their Bellyfull of all that Time, as they had now.

8. They once more lightened the Ship, that it might ſcape the better in the Shock it was now to have. They had before thrown the Wares and the Tackle over-board, and now the Wheat, the Victuals and Proviſions they had; Better they ſhould ſink it, than that it ſhould ſink them. See what good Reaſon our Saviour had to call our Bodily Food Meat that periſheth; we may ourſelves be under a Neceſſity of throwing that away to ſave our Lives, which we had gather'd and laid up for the Support of our Lives. 'Tis probable the Ship was over-loaded with the Multitude of the Paſſengers, (for this comes in juſt after the Account of the Number of them) and that oblig'd them ſo often to lighten the Ship.

Fifthly, Their putting to ſhore, and the ſtaving of the Ship in the Adventure. It was about break of Day when they eat their Meat; and when it was fair Day they began to look about them: And here we are told,

1. That they knew not where they were; They could not tell what Country it was they were now upon the Coaſt of; whether it was Europe, Aſia, or Africa, for each had Shores waſh'd by the Adriatick Sea: 'Tis probable theſe Shipmen had often ſail'd this Way, and thought they knew every Country they came near perfectly well, and yet here they were at a loſs. Let not the Wiſe Man then glory in his Wiſdom, ſince it may perhaps fail him thus egregiouſly, even in his own Profeſſion.

2. They obſerv'd a Creek with a level Shore, into which they hoped to thruſt the Ship, v. 39. Tho' they knew not what Country it was, or whether the Inhabitants were Friends or Foes, Civil or Barbarous, they determin'd to caſt themſelves upon their Mercy. It was Dry Land which would be very welcome to thoſe that had been ſo long at Sea. It was pity but they had had ſome help from the Shore, a Pilot ſent them that knew the Coaſt, who might ſteer their Ship in; or another ſecond Ship to to take ſome of the Men on Board. Thoſe who live on the Sea-Coaſt have often Opportunity of ſuccouring thoſe that are in Diſtreſs at Sea, and of ſaving precious Lives, and they ought to do their utmoſt in order to it, with all readineſs and chearfulneſs; for it is a great Sin, and very provoking to GOD to forbear to deliver them that are driven unto death, and are ready to be ſlain; and it will not ſerve for an Excuſe to ſay, behold we know it not, when either we did or might, and ſhould have known it, Prov. xxiv. 11. I have been told there are ſome, and in our own Nation too, that when from the Sea-coaſt they ſee a Ship in diſtreſs and at a loſs, will by miſ-guiding Fires, or otherwiſe, purpoſely lead them into Danger, that their Lives may be loſt, and they may have the Plunder of the Ship; one can ſcarcely believe that any of the human Nature could poſſibly be ſo wicked, ſo barbarouſly inhuman, and ſhould have ſo much of the Devil in them; if there be, let them know of a Truth that they ſhall have Judgment without Mercy, who have ſhewed no Mercy.

3. They made ſtrait to the Shore with Wind and Tide, v. 40. They took up the Anchors, the four Anchors which they caſt out of the Stern, v. 29. ſome think they took pains to weigh them up, hoping they ſhould have uſe for them again at the Shore; others that they did it with ſuch precipitation that they were forc'd to cut the Cables, and leave them; The Original admits either. They then committed themſelves to the Sea, the Wind ſtanding fair to carry them into the Port, and they looſed the Rudder-bands, which were faſten'd during the Storm, for the greater ſteddineſs of the Ship, but now they were putting into the Port were looſed that the Pilot might ſteer with the greater Freedom; They then hoiſted up the main Sail to the Wind, and made towards ſhore. The Original Words here us'd for the Rudder-bands and the Main-ſail, find the Criticks a great deal of Work, to accommodate them to the modern Terms; But they need not give us any difficulty, who are content to know that when they ſaw the ſhore they haſten'd to it as faſt as they could; and perhaps made more haſte than good ſpeed. And ſhould not a poor Soul that has long been ſtruggling with Winds and Tempeſts in this World, long to put into the ſafe and quiet Haven of everlaſting Reſt; ſhould it not get clear from all that which faſtens it to this Earth, and ſtraitens the Out-goings of its pious and devout Affections Heaven-wards; and ſhould it not hoiſt up the Main-ſail of Faith to the Wind of the Spirit, and ſo with longing Deſires make to ſhore.

4. They made a ſhift among them to run the Ship a-ground in a Shelf or Bed of Sand, as it ſhould ſeem, or an Iſthmus, and Neck of Land, waſh'd with the Sea on both ſides, and therefore two Seas are ſaid to meet upon it, and there the fore-part ſtuck faſt, and then when it had no Liberty to play, as a Ship has when it rides at Anchor, but remain'd unmovable, the hinder part would ſoon be broken of courſe by the violence of the Waves. Whether the Shipmen did not do their part, being angry that they were diſappointed in their deſign to eſcape, and therefore wilfully run the ſhip a-ground; or whether we may ſuppoſe that they did their utmoſt to ſave it, but GOD in his Providence overrul'd, for the fulfilling of Paul's Word, that the Ship muſt be loſt, v. 22. I cannot ſay; but this we are ſure of, that GOD will confirm the Word of his Servants, and perform the Counſel of his Meſſengers, Iſa. xliv. 26. The Ship that had ſtrangely weather'd the Storm in the vaſt Ocean where it had room to roll, is daſh'd to pieces when it ſticks faſt. Thus if the Heart fixeth in the World in Love and Affection, and adherence to it, 'tis loſt; Satan's Temptations beat againſt it and it's gone; but as long as it keeps above the World tho' it be toſt with its Cares and Tumults, there is Hope of it. They had the Shore in view, and yet ſuffer'd ſhipwreck in the Harbour, to teach us never to be ſecure.

Sixthly, A particular Danger, that Paul and the reſt of the Priſoners were in, beſides their ſhare in the common Calamity, and their deliverance from it.

1. In this critical Moment, when every Man hung in doubt of his Life, the Soldiers adviſ'd the Killing of the Priſoners that were committed to their Cuſtody, and whom they were to give Account of, leſt any of them ſhould ſwim out and eſcape, v. 42. There was no great Danger of that, for they could not eſcape far, weak and weary as they were; and under the Eye of ſo many Soldiers that had a Charge of them, 'twas not likely they ſhould attempt it. And if it ſhould ſo happen tho' they might be obnoxious to the Law for a permiſſive Eſcape, yet in ſuch a Caſe as this, Equity would certainly relieve them. But it was a bruitiſh barbarous Motion, and ſo much the worſe that they were thus prodigal of other Peoples Lives, when without a Miracle of Mercy, they muſt loſe their own.

2. The Centurion for Paul's ſake quaſh'd this Motion preſently. Paul had found favour with him whoſe Priſoner he was, as Joſeph with the Captain of the Guard; Julius tho' he deſpiſ'd Paul's Advice, v. 11. yet he afterwards ſaw a great deal of Cauſe to reſpect him, and therefore being willing to ſave Paul, he ſtay'd the Execution of that bloody Project, and in favorem vitæ, he kept them from their Purpoſe: It doth not appear they were any of them Malefactors Convict, but only ſuſpected and waiting their Tryal; and in ſuch a Caſe as this better Ten guilty ones ſhould eſcape, than one that was Innocent be ſlain. As GOD had ſav'd all in the Ship for Paul's ſake, ſo here the Centurion ſaves all the Priſoners for his ſake; ſuch a diffuſive Good is a Good Man.

Seventhly, The ſaving of the Lives of all the Perſons in the Ship; by the wonderful Providence of GOD. When the Ship broke under them, ſurely there was but a Step between them and Death; and yet infinite Mercy interpos'd, and that Step was not ſtep'd.

1. Some were ſav'd by ſwimming; The Centurion commanded his own Soldiers in the firſt Place, as many of them as could ſwim to get to Land firſt, and to be ready to receive the Priſoners and prevent their Eſcape; The Romans train'd up their Youth among other Exerciſes to that of Swimming, and it was often of Service to them in their Wars. Julius Cæſar was a famous Swimmer. It may be very uſeful to thoſe who deal much at Sea, but otherwiſe perhaps more Lives have been loſt by ſwimming in ſport, and learning to ſwim, than have been ſav'd by ſwimming for Need.

2. The reſt with much ado ſcrambled to the ſhore, ſome on Boards that they had looſe with them in the Ship, and others on the broken pieces of the Ship, every one making the beſt ſhift he could for himſelf and his Friends, and the more buſy becauſe they were aſſur'd their Labour ſhould not be in vain: But ſo it came to paſs, that thro' the good Providence of GOD, none of them miſcarry'd, none of them were by an Accident turn'd off, but they eſcap'd all ſafe to Land. See here an Inſtance of the ſpecial Providence of GOD in the preſervation of Peoples Lives, and particularly in the deliverance of many from Perils by Waters, ready to ſink, and yet kept from ſinking, the deep from ſwallowing them up, and the Water-floods from overflowing them; the Storm turn'd into a Calm, they reſcued from the dreaded Sea, and brought to the deſired Haven: O that Men would praiſe the Lord for his Goodneſs, Pſ. cvii. 30, 31. Here was an Inſtance of the performance of a particular Word of Promiſe which GOD gave, That all the Perſons in this Ship ſhould be ſav'd for Paul's ſake, Tho' there may be great difficulty in the Way of the promiſ'd Salvation, yet it ſhall without fail be accompliſh'd; And even the wreck of the Ship may furniſh out Means for the ſaving of the Lives; and when all ſeems to be gone, all proves to be ſafe, tho it be on Boards, and broken pieces of the Ship.

CHAP. XXVIII.

We are the more concern'd to take Notice of, and to improve what is here recorded concerning bleſſed Paul, becauſe after the Story of this Chapter, we hear no more of him in the Sacred Hiſtory; tho' we have a great deal of him yet before us in his Epiſtles. We have attended him thro' ſeveral Chapters from one Judgment-ſeat to another, and could at laſt have taken leave of him with the more Pleaſure, if we had left him at liberty, but in this Chapter we are to condole him, and yet congratulate him. 1. We condole him as a poor Shipwreck'd Paſſenger, ſtrip'd of all, and yet congratulate him, (1.) As ſingularly own'd by his GOD in his Diſtreſs, preſerv'd himſelf from receiving hurt by a Viper that faſten'd on his Hand, v. 1—6. And being an Inſtrument of much good in the Iſland on which they were caſt, in healing many that were ſick, and particularly the Father of Publius, the chief Man of the Iſland, v. 7—9. (2.) As much reſpected by the People there v. 10. (2.) We condole him as a poor confin'd Priſoner, carry'd to Rome under the Notion of a Criminal, remov'd by Habeas Corpus, v. 11.—16. And yet we congratulate him, (1.) Upon the Reſpect ſhew'd him by the Chriſtians at Rome, who came a great Way to meet him, v. 15. (2.) Upon the Favour he found with the Captain of the Guard, into whoſe Cuſtody he was deliver'd, who ſuffer'd him to dwell by himſelf, and did not put him into the common Priſon, v. 16. (3.) Upon the free Conference he had with the Jews at Rome, both about his own Affair, v. 17—22. and upon the Head of the Chriſtian Religion in general, v. 23. The iſſue of which was, that GOD was glorify'd, many were edify'd, the reſt left inexcuſable, and the Apoſtles juſtified in Preaching the Goſpel to the Gentiles, v. 24—29. (4.) Upon the undiſturb'd Liberty he had to preach the Goſpel to all Comers, in his own Houſe for two Years together, v. 30, 31.

AND when they were eſcaped, then they knew that the iſland was called Melita. 2 And the barbarous people ſhewed us no little kindneſs: for they kindled a fire, and received us every one becauſe of the preſent rain, and becauſe of the cold. 3 And when Paul had gathered a bundle of ſticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat and faſtned on his hand. 4 And when the barbarians ſaw the venomous beaſt hang on his hand, they ſaid among themſelves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom though he hath eſcaped the ſea, yet vengeance ſuffereth not to live. 5 And he ſhook off the beaſt into the fire, and felt no harm.

6 Howbeit they looked when he ſhould have ſwol-len or fallen down dead ſuddenly: but after they had looked a great while, and ſaw no harm come to him, they changed their minds and ſaid, that he was a god. 7 In the ſame quarters were poſſeſſi-ons of the chief man of the iſland, whoſe name was Publius, who received us and lodged us three days courteouſly. 8 And it came to paſs that the father of Publius lay ſick of a Fever, and of a bloody flux, to whom Paul enter'd in, and prayed and laid his hand on him and healed him. 9 So when this was done, others alſo which had diſeaſes in the Iſland, came, and were healed. 10 Who alſo honoured us with many honours, and when we departed, they laded us with ſuch things as were neceſſary.

What a great variety of Places and Circumſtances do we find Paul in! He was a Planet, and not a fix'd Star. Here we have him in an Iſland to which in all probability he had never come, if he had not been thrown upon it by a Storm; and yet it ſeems GOD has Work for him to do here. Even ſtormy Winds fulfil GOD's Counſel, and an ill Wind indeed it is that blows no Body any good; This ill Wind blew Good to the Iſland of Melita; for it gave them Paul's Company for three Months, who was a Bleſſing to every Place he came to. This Iſland was call'd Melita, lying between Sicily and Africa; twenty Miles long, and twelve broad, it lies fartheſt from the Continent of any Iſland in the Mediterranean; 'tis about ſixty Miles from Sicily. It has been famous ſince for the Knights of Malta, who, when the Turks overrun that Part of Chriſtendom, made a noble Stand, and gave ſome check to the Progreſs of their Arms.

Now here we have,

Firſt, The kind Reception which the Inhabitants of this Iſland gave to the diſtreſſed Strangers, that were Ship-wreck'd on their Coaſt, v. 2. The barbarous People ſhew'd us no little kindneſs. GOD had promis'd that there ſhould be no loſs of any Man's Life; And as for GOD, his Work is perfect; if they had eſcap'd the Sea, and when they came a-ſhoar had periſh'd for Cold or Want, it it had been all one, therefore Providence continues its Care of them. And what Benefits we receive by the hand of Man, muſt be acknowledg'd to come from the Hand of GOD; for every Creature is that to us and no more, that He makes it to be. And when He pleaſeth, as he can make Enemies to be at Peace, ſo He can make Strangers to be Friends, Friends at need, and thoſe are Friends indeed; Friends in Adverſity, and that's the Time that a Brother is Born for. Obſerve,

1. The general Notice taken of the Kindneſs, which the Natives of Malta ſhew'd to Paul and his Company. They are call'd barbarous People, becauſe they did not in Language and Cuſtoms conform either to the Greeks or Romans, who look'd ſuperciliouſly enough upon all but themſelves as Barbarians, tho' otherwiſe civiliz'd enough, and perhaps in ſome Caſes more Civil than they. Theſe barbarous People, however they were call'd ſo, were full of Humanity; they ſhew'd us no little Kindneſs. So far were they from making a Prey of this Ship-wreck, as many I fear who are call'd Chriſtian People would have done, that they laid hold on it as an Opportunity of ſhewing Mercy. The Samaritan is a better Neighbour to the poor wounded Man than the Prieſt or Levite: And verily we have not found greater Humanity among Greeks, or Romans, or Chriſtians, than among thoſe barbarous People; and it is written for our Imitation, that we may hence learn to be compaſſionate to thoſe that are in Diſtreſs and Miſery, and to relieve and ſuccour them to the utmoſt of our Ability, as thoſe that know we ourſelves alſo are in the Body, we ſhould be ready to entertain Strangers, as Abraham who ſate at his Tent-door to invite Paſſengers in, Heb. xiii. 2. But eſpecially Strangers in Diſtreſs, as theſe were. Honour all Men. If Providence hath ſo appointed the Bounds of our Habitation, as to give us an Opportunity of being frequently ſerviceable to Perſons at a loſs, we ſhould not place it among the Inconveniencies of our Lot, but the Advantages of it; becauſe it is more bleſſed to give than to receive, who knows but theſe barbarous People had their Lot caſt in this Iſland for ſuch a Time as this.

2. A particular Inſtance of their Kindneſs; they kindled a Fire in ſome large Hall or other, and they receiv'd us every one, made room for us about the Fire, and bid us all welcome, without asking either what Country we were of, or what Religion? In ſwimming to the Shore, and coming on the broken Pieces of the Ship, we muſt ſuppoſe they were ſadly wet, that they had not a dry Thread on them; and as if that were not enough, to compleat the Deluge, Waters from above met thoſe from below, and it rain'd ſo hard that it would wet them to the Skin preſently; and it was a cold Rain too; ſo that they wanted nothing ſo much as a good Fire, (for they had eaten heartily but juſt before on Ship-board) and that they got for them preſently, to warm them, and dry their Clothes. 'Tis ſometimes as much a piece of Charity to poor Families to ſupply them with Fuel, as with Food or Raiment. Be ye warm'd, is as neceſſary as Be ye fill'd. When in the extremities of bad Weather, we find ourſelves fenc'd againſt the Rigors of the Seaſon, by the Accommodations of a warm Houſe, Bed, and Clothes, and a good Fire, we ſhould think how many lie expos'd to the preſent Rain, and to the Cold, and pity them, and pray for them, and help them if we can.

Secondly, The further Danger that Paul was in by a Viper's faſtening on his Hand, and the unjuſt Conſtruction that the People put upon it. Paul is among Strangers and appears one of the meaneſt and moſt contemptible of the Company, therefore GOD diſtinguiſheth him, and ſoon makes him to be taken Notice of.

1. When the Fire was to be made, and to be made bigger, that ſo great a Company might all have the Benefit of it, Paul was as buſy as any of them in gathering Sticks, v. 3. Tho' he was free from all, and of greater Account than any of them, yet he made himſelf Servant of all. Paul was an induſtrious active Man, and lov'd to be doing, when any Thing was to be done, and never contriv'd to take his Eaſe; Paul was a humble ſelf-denying Man, and would ſtoop to any Thing by which he might be ſerviceable, even to the gathering of Sticks to make a Fire of. We ſhould reckon nothing below us but Sin, and be willing to condeſcend to the meaneſt Offices, if there be Occaſion, for the good of our Brethren. The People were ready to help them, yet Paul wet and cold as he is, will not throw it all upon them, but will help himſelf. They that receive Benefit by the Fire, ſhould help to carry Fuel to it.

2. The Sticks being old dry Rubbiſh, it happen'd there was a Viper among them, that lay as dead till it came to the Heat, and then reviv'd, or lay quiet till it felt the Fire, and then was provok'd and flew at him that unawares threw it into the Fire, and faſten'd upon his Hand, v. 3. Serpents and ſuch venomous Creatures uſe to lie among Sticks, hence we read of him that leans on the Wall, and a Serpent bites him, Amos, v. 9. 'Twas ſo common, that People were by it frighten'd from tearing Hedges, Eccleſ. x. 8. Whoſo breaketh a Hedge, a Serpent ſhall bite him; as there is a Snake under the green Graſs, ſo there is often under the dry Leaves. See how many Perils Human Life is expos'd to, and what Danger we are in from the inferior Creatures, which are many of them become Enemies to Men, ſince Men became Rebels to God; and what a Mercy it is that we are preſerv'd from them as we are. We often meet with that which is miſchievous where we expect that which is beneficial; and many come by hurt when they are honeſtly employ'd, and in the Way of their Duty.

(3.) The barbarous People concluded, that Paul being a Priſoner, was certainly a Murderer, that had appeal'd to Rome to eſcape Juſtice in his own Country, and that this Viper was ſent by divine Juſtice to be the Avenger of Blood: Or, if they were not aware that he was a Priſoner, they ſuppos'd that he was in his Flight; and when they ſaw the venomous Animal hang on his Hand, which it ſeems he could not or would not immediately throw off, but let it hang, they concluded, No doubt this Man is a Murderer, hath ſhed innocent Blood, and therefore, tho' he hath eſcap'd the Sea, yet divine Vengeance purſues him, and faſtens upon him now he is pleaſing himſelf with the Thoughts of that Eſcape, and will not ſuffer him to live. Now in this we may ſee,

(1.) Some of the Diſcoveries of Natural Light; they were barbarous People, perhaps no Books or Learning among them, and yet they knew naturally, (1.) That there is a GOD that governs the World, and a Providence that preſides in all Occurrences: That Things do not come to paſs by Chance, no not ſuch a thing as this, but by divine Direction. (2.) That Evil purſues Sinners: That there are good Works which GOD will reward, and wicked Works that he will puniſh. There is a Divine Nemeſis, a Vengeance which ſooner or later will reckon for enormous Crimes. They believe not only that there is a GOD, but that this GOD hath ſaid, Vengeance is mine, I will repay, even to Death. (3.) That Murder is a heinous Crime, and which ſhall not long go unpuniſh'd: That whoſo ſheds Man's Blood, if his Blood be not ſhed by Man, by the Magiſtrate, as it ought to be, it ſhall be ſhed by the Rigeteous Judge of Heaven and Earth, who is the Avenger of Wrong. Thoſe that think they ſhall go unpuniſh'd in any evil Way, will be judg'd out of the Mouth of theſe Barbarians, who could ſay without Book, Wo to the Wicked, for it ſhall be ill with them; for the Reward of their Hands ſhall be given them. Thoſe that, becauſe they have eſcap'd many Judgments, are ſecure, and ſay, They ſhall have Peace, tho' they go on and have their Hearts ſo much the more ſet to do Evil, becauſe Sentence againſt their evil Works is not executed ſpeedily, may learn from theſe illiterate People, that tho' Malefactors have eſcap'd the Vengeance of the Sea, yet there's no out-runing divine Juſtice, Vengeance ſuffers not to live. In Job's time you might ask them that go by the Way, ask the next Body you met, and they would tell you, That the wicked is reſerv'd to the Day of Deſtruction.

2. Some of the Miſtakes of Natural Light, which needed to be rectify'd by Divine Revelation; in two Things their Knowledge was defective. (1.) That they thought all wicked people are puniſh'd in this Life, that divine Vengeance never ſuffers great and notorious Sinners, ſuch as Murderers are, to live long, but that if they come up out of the Pit, they ſhall be taken in the Snare, Jer. xlviii. 43, 44. if they flee from a Lion, a Bear ſhall meet them, Amos v. 19. If they ſcape being drown'd, a Viper ſhall faſten upon them; whereas it is not ſo: The Wicked even Murderers, ſometimes live, become old, yea, are mighty in Power; for the Day of Vengeance is to come in the other World, the great Day of Wrath, and tho' ſome are made Examples of in this World, to prove that there is a GOD, and a Providence; yet many are left unpuniſh'd to prove, that there is a Judgment to come. (2.) That they thought all that are remarkably afflicted in this Life, are wicked People; That a Man on whoſe Hand a Viper faſtens, may from thence be judg'd to be a Murderer, as if thoſe on whom the Tower in Siloam fell, muſt needs be greater Sinners than all in Jeruſalem. This Miſtake Job's Friends went upon in their Judgment upon his Caſe; but Divine Revelation ſets this Matter in a true Light, That all Things come ordinarily alike to all; that good Men are oftentimes greatly afflicted in this Life, for the Exerciſe and improvement of their Faith and Patience.

4. When he ſhook off the Viper from his Hand, yet they expected that Divine Vengeance would ratify the Cenſure they had paſs'd, and that he ſhould have ſwoln and burſt thro' the force of the Poyſon, or that he ſhould have fallen down dead ſuddenly. See how apt Men are when once they have got an ill Opinion of a Man, tho' never ſo unjuſt, to abide by it, and to think that GOD muſt neceſſarily confirm and ratify their peeviſh Sentence; 'twas well they did not knock him down themſelves, when they ſaw he did not ſwell and fall down; but ſo conſiderate they are as to let Providence work, and to attend the Motions of it.

Thirdly, Paul's Deliverance from the Danger, and the undue Conſtruction the People put upon that. The Viper's faſtning on his Hand was a Trial of his Faith, and it was found to praiſe, and honour, and glory: For,

1. It doth not appear that it put him into any Fright or Confuſion at all, he did not ſhriek or ſtart, nor, as it would be natural for us to do, throw it off with Terror and Precipitation, for he ſuffer'd it to hang on ſo long, as that the People had time to take Notice of it, and to make their Remarks upon it. Such a wonderful Preſence of Mind he had, and ſuch a Compoſure, as no Man could have upon ſuch a ſudden Accident, but by the ſpecial Aids of Divine Grace, and the actual belief and Conſideration of that Word of Chriſt concerning his Diſciples, Mark xvi. 18. They ſhall take up Serpents. This it is to have the Heart fix'd truſting in God.

2. He careleſly ſhook off the Viper into the Fire, without any Difficulty or calling for Help, or any Means us'd to looſen its hold; and it's probable it was conſum'd in the Fire. Thus in the ſtrength of the Grace of Chriſt, Believers ſhake off the Temptations of Satan with a holy Reſolution, ſaying as Chriſt did, Get thee behind me Satan, the LORD rebuke thee; and thus they keep themſelves that the Wicked One toucheth them not, ſo as to faſten upon them, 1 Joh. v. 18. When we deſpiſe the Cenſures and Reproaches of Men, and look upon them with a holy Contempt, having the Teſtimony of Conſcience for us, then we do as Paul here, ſhake off the Viper into the Fire. It doth us no harm except we either fret at it, or be deterr'd by it from our Duty, or be provok'd to render Railing for Railing.

3. He was never the worſe; They that thought it would have been his Death, look'd a great while, but ſaw no harm at all come to him. GOD hereby intended to make him remarkable among theſe barbarous People, and ſo to make Way for the entertainment of the Goſpel among them. It is reported, That after this no venomous Creature would live in that Iſland, no more than in Ireland: But I do not find that the Matter of Fact is confirm'd, tho' the Popiſh Writers ſpeak of it with Aſſurance.

4. They then magnify'd him as much as before they had vilify'd him; They chang'd their Minds, and ſaid, that he was a God; an immortal God; for they thought it impoſſible that a mortal Man ſhould have a Viper hang on his Hand ſo long, and be never the worſe. See the uncertainty of popular Opinion, how it turns with the Wind, and how apt it is to run into Extremes, both ways; from ſacrificing to Paul and Barnabas, to ſtoning of them; and here from condemning him as a Murderer, to Idolizing him as a God.

Fourthly, The miraculous Cure of an old Gentleman that was ill of a Fever, and of others that were otherwiſe diſeas'd, by Paul. And with theſe Confirmations of the Doctrine of Chriſt, no doubt there was a faithful Publication of it. Obſerve,

1. The kind Entertainment which Publius the chief Man of the Iſland gave to theſe diſtreſs'd Strangers: He had a conſiderable Eſtate in the Iſland, and ſome think was Governor, and he received them, and lodged them three Days very courteouſly, that they might have Time to furniſh themſelves in other Places at the beſt Hand. 'Tis happy when GOD gives a large Heart to thoſe to whom He has given a large Eſtate. It became him who was the chief Man of the Iſland to be moſt hoſpitable and generous; who was the richeſt Man, to be rich in good Works.

2. The Illneſs of the Father of Publius: he lay ſick of a Fever and a Bloody-flux, which often go together, and when they do are commonly fatal. Providence order'd it that he ſhould be ill juſt at this Time, that the Cure of him might be a preſent Recompence to Publius for his Generoſity, and the Cure of him by Miracle a Recompence particularly for his Kindneſs to Paul, whom he receiv'd in the Name of a Prophet, and had this Prophet's Reward.

3. His Cure; Paul took Cognizance of his Caſe, and tho' we do not find he was urg'd to it, for they had no thought of any ſuch thing, yet he enter'd in, not as a Phyſician to heal him by Medicines, but as an Apoſtle to heal him by Miracle, and he pray'd to GOD in Chriſt's Name for his Cure, and then laid his Hands on him, and he was perfectly well in an Inſtant. Tho' he muſt needs be in Years, yet he recover'd his Health and the lengthening out of his Life yet longer, would be a Mercy to him.

4. The Cure of many others, who were invited by this Cure to apply themſelves to Paul: If he can heal Diſeaſes ſo eaſily, ſo effectually, he ſhall ſoon have Patients enow; and he bid them all welcome, and ſent them away with what they came for. He did not plead that he was a Stranger there, thrown accidentally among them, under no Obligations to them, and waiting to be gone by the firſt Opportunity, and therefore might be excus'd from receiving their Applications: No, a good Man will endeavour to do Good where-ever the Providence of GOD caſts him. Paul reckon'd himſelf a Debtor, not only to the Greeks, but to the Barbarians, and thank'd GOD for an Opportunity of being uſeful among them: Nay, he was particularly oblig'd to theſe Inhabitants of Malta, for the ſeaſonable Shelter and Supply they had afforded him, and hereby he did in effect diſcharge his Quarters: Which ſhould encourage us to entertain Strangers, for ſome thereby have entertain'd Angels, and ſome Apoſtles, unawares: God will not be behind with any for Kindneſs ſhewn to his People in Diſtreſs. We have Reaſon to think, that Paul with theſe Cures preach'd the Goſpel to them; and that coming thus confirm'd and recommended, it was generally embrac'd among them. And if ſo, never were any People ſo enrich'd by a Shipwreck on their Coaſts as theſe Malteſe were.

Fifthly, The grateful Acknowledgment which even theſe barbarous People made of the Kindneſs Paul had done them in preaching Chriſt unto them. They were civil to him and to the other Miniſters that were with him, who 'tis likely were aſſiſting to him in preaching among them, v. 7.

1. They honour'd us with many Honours; they ſhew'd them all poſſible Reſpect; they ſaw GOD honour'd them; and therefore they juſtly thought themſelves oblig'd to honour them; and thought nothing too much by which they might teſtify the Eſteem they had for them. Perhaps they made them free of their Iſland by Naturalizing them, and admitted them Members of ther Guilds and Fraternities. The faithful Preachers of the Goſpel are worthy of a double Honour, then eſpecially when they ſucceed in their Labours.

2. When we departed, they loaded us with ſuch Things as were neceſſary; Or, they put on Board ſuch Things as we had Occaſion for. Paul could not labour with his Hands here, for he had nothing to work upon, and therefore accepted the Kindneſs of the good People of Melita, not as a Fee for his Cures, freely he had receiv'd, and freely he gave; but as the Relief of his Wants, and theirs that were with him. And having reap'd of their Spiritual Things, 'twas but juſt they ſhould make them thoſe Returns, 1 Cor. ix. 11.

11 And after three months we departed in a ſhip of Alexandria, which had wintered in the iſle, whoſe ſign was Caſtor and Pollux. 12 And landing at Syracuſe, we tarried there three days. 13 And from thence we ſet a compaſs, and came to Rhegium: and after one day the ſouth wind blew, and we came the next day to Puteoli: 14 Where we found brethren, and were deſired to tarry with them ſeven days, and ſo we went towards Rome. 15 And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as Appii-forum, and the Three taverns: whom when Paul ſaw, he thanked God, and took courage. 16 And when we came to Rome, the centurion deliver'd the priſoners to the captain of the guard: but Paul was ſuffered to dwell by himſelf, with a ſoldier that kept him.

We have the progreſs of Paul's Voyage towards Rome, and his Arrival there at length: A rough and dangerous Voyage he had had hitherto, and narrowly eſcap'd with his Life; but after a Storm comes a Calm, the latter part of his Voyage was eaſy and quiet, per varios caſus, per tot diſcrimina rerum Tendimus ad Latium;—tendimus ad Cœlum—dabit Deus his quoque finem. We have here, Firſt, Their leaving of Malta: That Iſland was a happy ſhelter to them, but it was not their Home; when they are refreſh'd they muſt to Sea again. The Difficulties and Diſcouragements we have met with in our Chriſtian Courſe muſt not hinder us from preſſing forward. Notice is here taken,

1. Of the Time of their Departure; After three Months, the three winter Months. Better lie by, tho' they lay upon Charges, than go forward while the Seaſon was dangerous. Paul had warn'd them againſt venturing to Sea in winter-weather, and they would not take the Warning, but now they had learn'd it by the Difficulties and Dangers they had gone through; he needed not to warn them, their learning did them good when they had paid dear enough for it. Experience is therefore call'd the Miſtreſs of Fools, becauſe they are Fools that will not learn till Experience has taught them.

2. Of the Ship in which they departed: 'Twas in a Ship of Alexandria; ſo was that which was caſt away, chap. xxvii. 6. This Ship had Winter'd in that Iſle, and was ſafe. See what different Iſſues there are of Mens Undertakings in this World. Here were two Ships both of Alexandria, both bound for Italy, both thrown upon the ſame Iſland; but one is wreck'd there, and the other is ſav'd, ſuch Occurrences may often be obſerv'd; Providence ſometimes favours thoſe that deal in the World, and proſpers them, that People may be encourag'd to ſet their Hands to worldly Buſineſs; at other times Providence croſſeth them, that People may be warn'd not to ſet their Hearts upon it. Events are thus vary'd, that we may learn both how to want, and how to abound. The Hiſtorian takes Notice of the Sign of the Ship, which probably gave it its Name, 'twas Caſtor & Pollux; thoſe little fooliſh Pagan Deities, that the Poets had made to preſide over Storms, and to protect Sea-faring Men, as Gods of the Sea, were painted or graven upon the Fore-part of the Ship, and from thence the Ship took its Name. I ſuppoſe this is obſerv'd for no other Reaſon but for the better aſcertaining of the Story; that Ship being well known by the Name and Sign, by all that dwelt between Egypt and Italy. Dr. Lightfoot thinks, that Luke mentions this Circumſtance to intimate the Mens Superſtition, that they hoped they ſhould have better ſailing under this Badge than they had had before.

Secondly, their Landing in and or about Italy, and the purſuing their Journey towards Rome.

1. They landed firſt at Syracuſe in Sicily, the chief City of that Iſland; there they tarry'd Three Days, probably having ſome Goods to put a-ſhore, or ſome Merchandize to make there; for it ſeems to have been a Trading Voyage that this Ship made. Paul had now his Curioſity gratify'd with the Sight of Places he had aften heard of, and wiſh'd to ſee; particularly Syracuſe, a Place of great Antiquity and Note; and yet it ſhould ſeem there were no Chriſtians there.

2. From Syracuſe, they came to Rhegium, a City in Italy, directly oppoſite to Meſſina in Sicily, belonging to the Kingdom of Calabria or Naples; there it ſeems they ſtay'd one Day. And a very formal Story the Romiſh Legends tell of Paul's Preaching here at this time, and Fiſh coming to the Shore to hear him; that with a Candle he ſet a Stone Pillar on Fire, and by that Miracle convinc'd the People of the Truth of his Doctrine, and they were many of them baptiz'd; and he ordain'd Stephen, one of his Companions in this Voyage, to be their Biſhop; and all this they tell you was done in one Day; whereas it doth not appear that they did ſo much as go a-ſhore, but only came to an Anchor in the Road.

3. From Rhegium they came to Puteoli, a Sea-port Town not far from Naples, now call'd Pozzolana; the Ship of Alexandria was bound for that Part, and therefore there Paul and the reſt that were bound for Rome, were put a-ſhore, and went the remainder of their Way by Land. At Puteoli they found Brethren, Chriſtians; who brought the Knowledge of Chriſt hither, we are not told, but here it was, ſo wonderfully did the Leaven of the Goſpel diffuſe its Savour. GOD has many that ſerve and worſhip Him in Places where we little think He has. And Obſ. (1.) Tho' 'tis probable there were but few Brethren at Puteoli, yet Paul found them out; either they heard of him, or he enquir'd them out, but as it were by Inſtinct they got together. Brethren in Chriſt ſhould find out one another and keep up Communion with each other, as thoſe of the ſame County do in a foreign Land. (2.) They deſir'd Paul and his Companions to tarry with them ſeven Days, i.e. to fore caſt to ſtay at leaſt one Lord's Day with them, and to aſſiſt them in their publick Worſhip that Day. They knew not whether ever they ſhould ſee Paul at Puteoli again, and therefore he muſt not go, but he muſt give them a Sermon or two, or more. And Paul was willing to allow them ſo much of his Time, and the Centurion under whoſe Command Paul now was, perhaps having himſelf Friends or Buſineſs at Puteoli agree'd to ſtay one Week there, to oblige Paul.

4. From Puteoli they went forward towards Rome; whether they travell'd on Foot, or wherher they had Beaſts provided for them to ride on, as chap. xxiii. 24. doth not appear; but to Rome they muſt go; and this is their laſt Stage.

Thirdly, The meeting which the Chriſtians at Rome gave to Paul: 'Tis probable Notice was ſent them by the Chriſtians at Puteoli, as ſoon as ever Paul was come thither, how long he intended to ſtay there, and when he would ſet forward for Rome, which gave an Opportunity for this Interview. Obſerve,

1. The great Honour they did to Paul: They had heard much of his Fame, what uſe GOD had made of him, and what eminent Service he had done to the Kingdom of Chriſt in the World, and to what multitudes of Souls he had been a Spiritual Father; they had heard of his Sufferings, and how GOD had own'd him in them, and therefore they not only long'd to ſee him, but thought themſelves oblig'd to ſhew him all poſſible Reſpect, as a glorious Advocate for the Cauſe of Chriſt. He had ſome time a go written a long Epiſtle to them, and a moſt excellent one, the Epiſtle to the Romans, in which he had not only expreſs'd his great Kindneſs for them, but had given them a great many uſeful Inſtructions, and in return for that they ſhew him this Reſpect. They went to meet him, that they might bring him in State, as Ambaſſadors and Judges make their publick Entry, tho' he was a Priſoner. Some of them went as far as Appii-forum, which was fifty-one Miles from Rome; others to a Place call'd the Three Taverns, which was twenty-eight Miles, (ſome reckon thirty-three Miles) from Rome. They are to be commended for it, that they were ſo far from being aſham'd of him, or afraid of owning him, becauſe he was a Priſoner, that for that very Reaſon they counted him worthy of double Honour, and were the the more careful to ſhew him Reſpect.

2. The great Comfort Paul had in this: Now he was drawing near to Rome, and perhaps heard at Puteoli what Character the Emperor Nero now had, and what a Tyrant he was of late become, he began to have ſome melancholy Thoughts about his Appeal to Cæſar, and the Conſequences of it; he was drawing near to Rome, where he had never been, where there were few that knew him, or that he knew, and what Things may befal him here he cannot tell, but he begins to grow dull upon it till he meets with theſe good People that came from Rome to ſhew him Reſpect, and when he ſaw them, (1.) He thanked GOD: We may ſuppoſe he thanked them for their Civility, told them again and again how kindly he took it; but that was not all, he thanked GOD. Note, If our Friends be kind to us, it is GOD that makes them ſo, that puts it into their Hearts, and into the Power of their Hands to be ſo, and we muſt give him the Glory of it. He thanked GOD no doubt for the Civility and Generoſity of the barbarous People at Melita, but much more for the pious Care of the Chriſtian People at Rome for him. When he ſaw ſo many Chriſtians that were of Rome, he thanked GOD that the Goſpel of Chriſt had had ſuch wonderful Succeſs there in the Metropolis of the Empire. When we go abrod or but look abroad into the World and meet with thoſe even in ſtrange Places that bear up Chriſt's Name and fear God and ſerve him, we ſhould lift up our Hearts to Heaven in Thankſgiving; bleſſed be God that there are ſo many Excellent Ones on this Earth, as bad as it is. Paul had thanked GOD for the Chriſtians at Rome before he had ever ſeen them, upon the Report he had heard concerning them, Rom. i. 8. I thank my GOD for you all: But now he ſees them, and perhaps they appeared more faſhionable and genteel People than he had converſ'd with, or more grave ſerious and intelligent, than moſt, he thanked God. But that was not all, (2.) He took Courage: It put new Life into him, chear'd up his Spirits, and baniſh'd his Melancholy, and now he can enter Rome a Priſoner as chearfully as ever he had enter'd Jeruſalem at Liberty. He finds there are thoſe there who love and value him; and whom he may both converſe with, and conſult with as his Friends, which will take off much of the tediouſneſs of his Impriſonment, and the Terror of his appearing before Nero. Note, It is an Encouragement to thoſe who are travelling towards Heaven, to meet with their Fellow-travellers, who are their Companions in the Kingdom, and Patience of Jeſus Chriſt. When we ſee the numerous and ſerious Aſſemblies of good Chriſtians, we ſhould not only give Thanks to GOD, but take Courage to ourſelves. And this is a good Reaſon why Reſpect ſhould be ſhewn to good Miniſters, eſpecially when they are in Sufferings, and have contempt put upon them that encourage them, and makes both their Sufferings and their Services more eaſy. Yet it is obſervable, That tho' the Chriſtians at Rome were now ſo reſpectful to Paul, and he had promiſ'd himſelf ſo much from their Reſpects, yet they fail'd him when he moſt needed them; for he ſaith, 2 Tim. iv. 16. At my firſt Anſwer no Man ſtood with me, but all forſook me. They could eaſily take a Ride of forty or fifty Miles to go meet Paul, for the pleaſantneſs of the Journey; but to venture the Diſpleaſure of the Emperor, and the diſobliging of other great Men by appearing in Defence of Paul, and giving Evidence for him, here they deſire to be excus'd; when it comes to that, they will rather Ride as far out of Town to miſs him, as now they did to meet him. Which is an intimation to us to ceaſe from Man, and to encourage our ſelves in the LORD our GOD. The Courage we take from his Promiſes will never fail us, when we ſhall be aſham'd of that which we took from Mens Complements. Let GGD be True, but every Man a Liar.

Fourthly, The delivering of Paul into Cuſtody at Rome. v. 16. He is now come to his Journeys End. And,

1. He is ſtill a Priſoner; He had long'd to ſee Rome, but when he comes there, he is deliver'd, with other Priſoners, to the Captain of the Guard, and can ſee no more of Rome than he will permit him. How many great Men had made their Entry into Rome crown'd and in Triumph, who really were the Plagues of their Generation; but here's a good Man makes his Entry into Rome, chain'd and triumph'd over, as a poor Captive, who was really the greateſt Bleſſing to his Generation. This Thought is enough to put one for ever out of conceit with this World.

2. Yet he has ſome Favour ſhew'd him: He is a Priſoner, but not a cloſe Priſoner, not in the Common-Jail, Paul was ſuffer'd to dwell by himſelf, in ſome convenient, private Lodgings, which his Friends there provided for him, and a Soldier was appointed to be his Guard, who we hope was civil to him, and let him take all the Liberty that could be allow'd to a Priſoner; for he muſt be very ill-humour'd indeed, that could be ſo to ſuch a courteous obliging Man as Paul. Paul being ſuffer'd to dwell by himſelf, could the better enjoy himſelf and his Friends, and his GOD, than if he had been lodg'd with the other Priſoners. Note, This may encourage GOD's Priſoners, that he can give them Favour in the Eyes of thoſe that carry them Captives, Pſal. cvi. 46.

46. as Joſeph in the Eyes of his Keeper, Gen. xxxix. 21. and Jehojachin in the Eyes of the King of Babylon, 2 Kin. xxv. 27, 28. When GOD doth not deliver his People preſently out of Bondage, yet if He either make it eaſy to them, or them eaſy under it, they have Reaſon to be thankful.

17 And it came to paſs, that after three days, Paul called the chief of the Jews together. And when they were come together, he ſaid unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing againſt the people or cuſtoms of our fathers, yet was I delivered priſoner from Jeruſalem into the hands of the Romans. 18 Who when they had examined me, would have let me go, becauſe there was no cauſe of death in me. 19 But when the Jews ſpake againſt it, I was conſtrained to appeal unto Cæſar; not that I had ought to accuſe my nation of. 20 For this cauſe therefore have I called for you, to ſee you, and to ſpeak with you: becauſe that for the hope of Iſrael I am bound with this chain. 21 And they ſaid unto him, We neither receiv'd letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came, ſhewed or ſpake any harm of thee. 22 But we deſire to hear of thee what thou thinkeſt: for as concerning this ſect, we know that every where it is ſpoken againſt.

Paul with a great deal of Expence and Hazard is brought a Priſoner to Rome, and when he is come, no Body appears to proſecute him, or lay any Thing to his Charge; but he muſt call his own Cauſe; and here he repreſents it to the chief of the Jews at Rome. 'Tis not long ſince by an Edict of Claudius all the Jews were baniſh'd from Rome, and kept out till his Death; but in the five Years ſince then, many Jews were come thither, for the Advantage of Trade, tho' it doth not appear that they were allow'd any Synagogue there, or Place of Publick Worſhip; but thoſe chief of the Jews, were thoſe of beſt Figure among them, the topping Men of that Religion, that had the beſt Eſtates and Intereſts. Paul call'd them together, being deſirous to ſtand right in their Opinion, and that there might be a good Underſtanding between him and them. And here we are told,

Firſt, What he ſaid to them, and what Account he gave them of his Caſe; He ſpeaks reſpectfully to them, calls them Men and Brethren, and thereby intimates that he expects to be treated by them both as a Man and as a Brother, and engageth to treat them as ſuch, and to tell them nothing but the Truth, for we are Members one of another; all we are Brethren. Now,

1. He profeſſeth his own Innocency, and that he had not given any juſt Occaſion to the Jews to bear him ſuch an ill-will as generally they did. I have committed nothing againſt the People of the Jews, have done nothing to the prejudice of their Religion or Civil Liberties, have added no Affliction to their preſent Miſeries, they know I have not; nor have I committed any Thing againſt the Cuſtoms of our Fathers; either by abrogating, or by innovating in Religion. 'Tis true Paul did not impoſe the Cuſtoms of the Fathers upon the Gentiles, they were never intended for them; but 'tis as true, that he never oppos'd them in the Jews; but did himſelf, when he was among them, conform to them. He never quarrell'd with them for practiſing according to the Uſages of their own Religion, but only for their Enmity to the Gentiles, Gal. ii. 12. Paul had the Teſtimony of his Conſcience for him that he had done his Duty to the Jews.

2. He modeſtly complains of the hard Uſage he had met with; That tho' he had given them no Offence, yet he was deliver'd Priſoner from Jeruſalem into the Hands of the Romans. If he had ſpoken the whole Truth in this Matter, it would have look'd worſe than it did upon the Jews, for they would have murder'd him without any Colour of Law or Juſtice, if the Romans had not protected him; but however, their accuſing him as a Criminal before Felix the Governor, and demanding Judgment againſt him, was in effect delivering him Priſoner into the Hands of the Romans, when he deſir'd no more but a fair and impartial Trial by their own Law.

3. He declares the Judgment of the Roman Governors concerning him, v. 18. They examin'd him, enquir'd into his Caſe, heard what was to be ſaid againſt him, and what he had to ſay for himſelf; the chief Captain examin'd him, ſo did Felix, and Feſtus, and Agrippa, and they could find no Cauſe of Death in him; nothing appear'd to the contrary but that he was an honeſt, quiet, conſcientious, good Man, and therefore they would never gratify the Jews with a Sentence of Death upon him; but on the contrary would have let him go, and have let him go on in his Work too, and have given him no Interruption, for they all heard him, and lik'd his Doctrine well enough. It was for the Honour of Paul, that thoſe who moſt carefully examin'd his Caſe acquitted him, and none condemn'd him but unheard, and ſuch as were prejudic'd againſt him.

4. He pleads the Neceſſity he was under to remove himſelf and his Cauſe to Rome; and that it was only in his own Defence, and not with any Deſign to recriminate, or exhibit a Croſs Bill againſt the Complainants, v. 19. When the Jews ſpake againſt it, and enter'd a Caveat againſt his Diſcharge, deſigning, if they could not have him condemn'd to Die, yet to have him a Priſoner for Life, he was conſtrain'd to appeal unto Cæſar, finding that the Governors one after another ſtood ſo much in Awe of the Jews, that they would not diſcharge him for fear of making them their Enemies; which made it neceſſary for him to pray the Aſſiſtance of the Higher Powers. This was all he aim'd at in this Appeal; not to accuſe his Nation, but only to vindicate himſelf. Every Man has a Right to plead in his own Defence, who yet ought not to find fault with his Neighbours. 'Tis an invidious Thing to accuſe, eſpecially to accuſe a Nation, ſuch a Nation, Paul made Interceſſion for them, but never againſt them. The Roman Government had at this Time an ill Opinion of the Jewiſh Nation, as factious, turbulent, diſaffected and dangerous, and it had been an eaſy Thing for a Man with ſuch a fluent Tongue as Paul had, a Citizen of Rome, and ſo injur'd as he was, to have exaſperated the Emperor againſt the Jewiſh Nation, but Paul would not for ever ſo much do ſuch a Thing, he was for making the beſt of every Body, and not making ill worſe.

5. He puts his Sufferings upon the true Foot, and gives them ſuch an Account of the Reaſon of them, as ſhould engage them not only not to joyn with his Perſecutors againſt him, but to concern themſelves for him, and to do what they could on his behalf, if they had any Intereſt to procure him his Liberty, v. 20. For this Cauſe I have call'd for you, not to quarrel with you, for I have no Deſign to incenſe the Government againſt you, but to ſee you, and ſpeak with you as my Countrymen, and Men that I would keep up a Correſpondence with, beeauſe that for the Hope of Iſrael, I am bound with this Chain. He carry'd the Mark of his Impriſonment about with him, and probably was chain'd to the Soldier that kept him; and it was (1.) Becauſe he preach'd, That the Meſſiah was come, who was the Hope of Iſrael, He whom Iſrael hoped for. Do not all the Jews agree in this, That the Meſſiah will be the Glory of his People Iſrael, and therefore He is to be hoped for, and this Meſſiah I Preach, and prove He is come. They would keep up ſuch a Hope of a Meſſiah yet to come, as muſt end in a Deſpair of him; I Preach ſuch a Hope in a Meſſiah already come, as muſt produce a Joy in him. (2.) Becauſe he preach'd, That the Reſurrection of the Dead would come; that alſo was the Hope of Iſrael; ſo he had call'd it, ch. xxiii. 6. xxiv. 15. xxvi. 6, 7. They would have you ſtill expect a Meſſiah that would free you from the Roman Yoke, and make you great and proſperous upon Earth, and that's it that fills them; and they are angry at me for directing their Expectations to the great Things of another World, and perſuading them to embrace a Meſſiah, who will ſecure thoſe to them, and not external Power and Grandeur; I am for bringing you to the Spiritual and Eternal Bleſſedneſs which our Fathers by Faith had their Eye upon, and that's it that they hate me for; becauſe I would take you off from that which is the Cheat of Iſrael, and will be its Shame and Ruin, the Notion of a Temporal Meſſiah, and lead you to that which is the true and real Hope of Iſrael, and the genuine Senſe of all the Promiſes made to the Fathers, a Spiritual Kingdom of Holineſs and Love ſet up in the Hearts of Men, to be the Pledge of, and Preparative for the joyful Reſurrection of the Dead, and the Life of the World to come.

Secondly, What was their Reply; They own

1. That they had nothing to ſay in particular againſt him; nor had any Inſtructions to appear as his Proſecutors before the Emperor, either by Letter or Word of Mouth, v. 21. We have neither receiv'd Letters out of Judea concerning thee, have no Orders to proſecute thee; neither any of the Brethren of the Jewiſh Nation that have lately come up to Rome (as many Occaſions drew the Jews thither now their Nation was a Province of the Empire,) have ſhew'd or ſpoke any harm of thee. This was very ſtrange, that that reſtleſs and inveterate Rage of the Jews which had follow'd Paul whereever he went, ſhould not follow him to Rome, to get him condemn'd there: And ſome think they told a Lye here, and had Orders to proſecute him, but durſt not own it, being themſelves obnoxious to the Emperor's Diſpleaſure; who tho' he did not like his Predeceſſors baniſh'd them all from Rome, yet he gave them no Countenance there. But I am apt to think what they ſaid was true, and Paul now found he had gain'd the Point he aim'd at in appealing to Cæſar, which was to remove his Cauſe into a Court to which they durſt not follow it; This was David's Policy, and it was his Security, 1 Sam. xxvii. 1. There is nothing better for me than to eſcape into the Land of the Philiſtines, and Saul ſhall deſpair of me, to ſeek me any more in any Coaſts of Iſrael, ſo ſhall I eſcape out of his Hand, and it proves ſo, v. 4. When Saul heard that David was fled to Gath, he ſought no more again for him. Thus did Paul by his Appeal, he fled to Rome, where he was out of their Reach; and they ſaid, E'en let him go.

2. That they deſir'd to know more particularly concerning the Doctrine he preach'd, and the Religion he took ſo much Pains to propagate in the Face of ſo much Oppoſition, v. 22. We deſire to hear of thee what thou thinkeſt, ἃ φρονεῖς, what thy Opinions or Sentiments are, what are thoſe Things which thou art ſo wiſe about, and haſt ſuch a reliſh of, and ſuch a zeal for; for tho' we know little elſe concerning Chriſtianity, we know it is a Sect every where ſpoken againſt. Thoſe who ſaid this ſcornful, ſpiteful Word of the Chriſtian Religion, were Jews, the chief of the Jews at Rome, who boaſted of their Knowledge, Rom. ii. 17. and yet this was all they knew concerning the Chriſtian Religion, that it was a Sect every where ſpoken againſt. They put it into an ill Name, and then run it down: (1.) They look'd upon it to be a Sect, and that was falſe.

True Chriſtianity eſtabliſhes that which is of common Concern to all Mankind, and is not built upon ſuch narrow Opinions, and private Intereſts as Sects commonly owe their Original to. It aims at no worldly Benefit or Advantage, as Sects do; but all its Gains are Spiritual and Eternal. And beſides, it has a direct Tendency to the uniting the Children of Men, and not the dividing of them, and ſetting them at Variance, as Sects have. (2.) They ſaid, It was every-where ſpoken againſt, and that was too true; All that they convers'd with ſpoke againſt it, and therefore they concluded every Body did; moſt indeed did. It is, and always has been the Lot of Chriſt's Holy Religion, to be every-where ſpoken againſt.

23 And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; to whom he expounded and teſtified the kingdom of God, per-ſuading them concerning Jeſus, both out of the law of Moſes, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening. 24 And ſome believed the things which were ſpoken, and ſome believed not. 25 And when they agreed not among themſelves, they departed, after that Paul had ſpoken one word, Well ſpake the holy Ghoſt by Eſaias the prophet unto our fathers, 26 Saying, Go unto this people and ſay, Hearing ye ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand; and ſeeing ye ſhall ſee, and not perceive. 27 For the heart of this peopled is waxed groſs, and their ears is dull of hearing, and their eyes have they cloſed; leſt they ſhould ſee with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and underſtand with their heart, and ſhould be converted, and I ſhould heal them. 28 Be it known therefore unto you, that the ſalvation of God is ſent unto the Gentiles, and that they will hear it, 29 And when he had ſaid theſe words, the Jews departed, and had great reaſoning among themſelves.

We have here a ſhort Account of a long Conference which Paul had with the Jews at Rome about the Chriſtian Religion. Tho' they were ſo far prejudic'd againſt it, becauſe it was every where ſpoken againſt, as to call it a Sect, yet they were willing to give it a Hearing; which was more than the Jews at Jeruſalem would do: 'Tis probable theſe Jews at Rome, being Men of larger Acquaintance with the World, and more general Converſation, were more free in their Enquiries than the bigotted Jews at Jeruſalem were; and would not anſwer this Matter before they heard it.

Firſt, We are here told how Paul manag'd this Conference in Defence of the Chriſtian Religion. The Jews appointed the Time, a Day was ſet for this Diſpute, that all Parties concern'd might have ſufficient Notice, v. 23. Thoſe Jews ſeem'd well-diſpoſed to receive Conviction, and yet it did not prove that they were all ſo. Now when the Day came,

1. There were many got together to Paul; Tho' he was a Priſoner and could not come out to them, yet they were willing to come to him to his Lodging. And the Confinement he was now under, if duly conſider'd, inſtead of prejudicing them againſt his Doctrine, ought to confirm it to them; for it was a Sign not only that he believ'd it, but that he thought it worth ſuffering for. One would viſit ſuch a Man as Paul in his Priſon, rather than not have Inſtruction from him. And he made room for them in his Lodging, not fearing giving Offence to the Government, ſo he might do Good to them.

2. He was very large and full in his Diſcourſe with them; ſeeking their Conviction more than his own Vindication. (1.) He expounded, or explain'd the Kingdom of GOD to them, ſhew'd them the Nature of that Kingdom, and the glorious Purpoſes and Deſigns of it, that it is heavenly and ſpiritual, ſeated in the Minds of Men, and ſhines not in external Pomp, but in purity of Heart and Life. That which kept the Jews in their Unbelief was a Miſunderſtanding of the Kingdom of GOD, as if it came with Obſervation, let but that be Expounded to them, and ſet in a true Light, and they will be brought into Obedience to it. (2.) He not only Expounded the Kingdom of GOD, but he teſtify'd it, plainly declar'd to them, and confirm'd it by unconteſtable Proofs that the Kingdom of GOD by the Meſſiah's Adminiſtration was come, and was now ſet up in the World. He atteſted the extraordinary Powers in the Kingdom of Grace by which it was ſet up, and the Miracles in the Kingdom of Nature, by which it was confirm'd. He bore his Teſtimony to it from his own Experience of its Power and Influence upon him, and the manner of his being brought into Subjection to it. (3.) He not only expounded and teſtify'd the Kingdom of GOD, but he perſuaded them, urg'd it upon their Conſciences, and preſs'd them with all Earneſtneſs to embrace the Kingdom of GOD, and ſubmit to it, and not to perſiſt in an Oppoſition to it. He follow'd his Doctrine, the Explication and Confirmation of it with a warm and lively Application to his Hearers, which is the moſt proper, profitable Method of Preaching. (4.) He perſuaded them concerning Jeſus; The Deſign and Tendency of his whole Diſcourſe was to bring them to Chriſt, to convince them of his being the Meſſiah, and to engage them to believe in him as he is offer'd in the Goſpel. He urg'd upon them, τὰ περὶ τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, the Things concerning Jeſus, the Prophecies of him, which he read to them out of the Law of Moſes, and out of the Prophets, as Pointing at the Meſſiah, and ſhew'd how they had all had their Accompliſhment in this Jeſus. They being Jews he dealt with them out of the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, and demonſtrated that theſe were ſo far from making againſt Chriſtianity, that they were the great Proofs of it; ſo that if we compare the Hiſtory of the New Teſtament, with the Prophecy of the Old, we muſt conclude that this Jeſus is He that ſhould come, and we are to look for no other.

3. He was very long; for he continu'd his Diſcourſe, and it ſhould ſeem to have been a continu'd Diſcourſe, from Morning till Evening, perhaps it was a Diſcourſe eight or ten Hours long. The Subject was curious, he was full of it, 'twas of vaſt Importance, he was in good earneſt, and his Heart was upon it, he knew not when he ſhould have ſuch another Opportunity, and therefore without begging pardon for tiring their Patience, he kept them all Day; but 'tis likely he ſpent ſome of the Time in Prayer with them, and for them.

Secondly, What was the Effect of this Diſcourſe; One would have thought ſo good a Cauſe as that of Chriſtianity, and manag'd by ſuch a skilful Hand as Paul's, could not but carry the Day, and that all the Hearers ſhould have yielded to it preſently; but it did not prove ſo; the Child Jeſus is ſet for the Fall of ſome, and the Riſing again of others, a Foundation-ſtone to ſome, and a Stone of Stumbling to others.

1. They did not agree among themſelves, v. 25. Some of them thought Paul was in the right, others would not admit it. This is that Diviſion which Chriſt came to ſend; that Fire which he came to kindle, Luke xii. 49, 51. Paul preach'd with a great deal of Plainneſs and Clearneſs, and yet his Hearers could not agree about the Senſe and Evidence of what he preach'd.

2. Some believ'd the Things that were ſpoken, and ſome believ'd not, v. 24. There was the Diſagreement; ſuch as this has always been the Succeſs of the Goſpel, to ſome it has been a Savour of Life unto Life, to others a Savour of Death unto Death. Some are wrought upon by the Word, and others harden'd; ſome receive the Light, and others ſhut their Eyes againſt it. So it was among Chriſt's Hearers, and the Spectators of his Miracles, ſome believ'd, and ſome blaſphem'd. If all had believ'd, there had been no Diſagreement; ſo that all the Blame of the Diviſion lay upon thoſe who would not believe.

Thirdly, The awakening Word which Paul ſaid to them at parting; He perceiv'd by what they mutter'd that there were many among them, and perhaps the greater Part, that were obſtinate, and would not yield to the Conviction of what he ſaid; and they were getting up to be gone, they had had enough of it; Hold, ſaith Paul, take one Word with you before you go, and conſider of it when you come home; What do you think will be the Effect of your obſtinate Infidelity? What will ye do in the End hereof? What will it come to?

1. You will by the righteous Judgment of GOD be ſealed up under Unbelief; you harden your own Hearts, and GOD will harden them, as He did Pharoah's; and this is what was propheſy'd of concerning you. Turn to that Scripture, Iſa. vi. 9, 10. and read it ſeriouſly, and tremble, leſt the Caſe there deſcrib'd ſhould prove to be your Caſe. As there are in the Old Teſtament Goſpel Promiſes, which will be accompliſh'd in all that believe; ſo there are Goſpel Threatnings, of ſpiritual Judgments which will be fulfill'd in them that believe not; and this is one. 'Tis part of the Commiſſion given to Iſaiah the Prophet, he is ſent to make thoſe worſe, that would not be made better: Well ſpake the Holy Ghoſt by Eſaias the Prophet unto our Fathers; what was ſpoken by JEHOVAH, is here ſaid to be ſpoken by the Holy Ghoſt, which proves that the Holy Ghoſt is GOD; and what was ſpoken to Iſaiah, is here ſaid to be ſpoken by him to their Fathers; for he was order'd to tell the People what GOD ſaid to him; and tho' what is there ſaid, had in it much of Terror to the People, and of Grief to the Prophet, yet it is here ſaid to be well ſpoken; Hezekiah ſaid concerning a Meſſage of Wrath, Good is the Word of the LORD which thou haſt ſpoken, Iſa. xxxix. 8. And, He that believes not ſhall be damned, is Goſpel, as well as He that believes ſhall be ſav'd, Mark xvi. 16. Or, this may be explain'd by that of our Saviour, Mat. xv. 7. Well did Eſaias propheſy of you. The Holy Ghoſt ſaid to your Fathers, that which would be fulfill'd in you, Hearing ye ſhall hear, and ſhall not underſtand.

(1.) That which was their great Sin againſt GOD, is yours; and that's this, You will not ſee; you ſhut your Eyes againſt the moſt convincing Evidence poſſible, and will not admit the Concluſion, tho' you cannot deny the Premiſes, your Eyes you have cloſed, v. 27. That ſpeaks an obſtinate Infidelity, and a willing Slavery to Prejudice. As your Fathers would not ſee GOD's Hand lifted up againſt them in his Judgments, Iſa. xxvi. 11. ſo you will not ſee GOD's Hand ſtretch'd out to you in Goſpel Grace. 'Twas true of theſe unbelieving Jews, that they were prejudic'd againſt the Goſpel, they did not ſee, becauſe they were reſolv'd they would not; and none ſo blind as they that will not ſee. They would not proſecute their Convictions, and for that Reaſon would not admit them. They have purpoſely cloſed their Eyes, leſt they ſhould ſee with their Eyes the great Things which belong to their everlaſting Peace, ſhould ſee the Glory of GOD, the Aimableneſs of Chriſt, the Deformity of Sin, the Beauty of Holineſs, the Vanity of this World, and the Reality of another; they will not be chang'd and govern'd by thoſe Truths, and therefore will not receive the Evidence of them; leſt they ſhould hear with their Ears, that which they are loath to hear, the Wrath of GOD reveal'd from Heaven againſt them, and the Will of GOD reveal'd from Heaven to them: They ſtop their Ear, like the deaf Adder, that will not hearken to the Voice of the Charmer, charm he never ſo wiſely. Thus their Fathers did, they would not hear, Zech. vii. 11, 12. And that which they are afraid of in ſhutting up their Eyes and Ears, and barricading (as it were) both their learning Senſes againſt Him that made both the Hearing Ear, and the ſeeing Eye, is, leſt they ſhould underſtand with their Heart, and ſhould be converted, and I ſhould heal them. They kept their Minds in the Dark, or at leaſt in a conſtant Confuſion and Tumult, leſt if they ſhould admit a conſiderate ſober Thought, they ſhould underſtand with their Heart how much it is both their Duty and their Intereſt to be Religious, and ſo by Degrees the Truth ſhould be too hard for them, and they ſhould be converted from the evil Ways which they take pleaſure in, to thoſe Exerciſes which they have now an averſion to. Obſerve, GOD's Method is to bring People firſt to ſee and hear, and ſo to underſtand with their Hearts, and then to convert them, and bow their Wills, and ſo heal them, which is the the regular Way of dealing with a Rational Soul: And therefore Satan prevents the Converſion of Souls to GOD, by blinding the Mind, and darkening the Underſtanding, 2 Cor. iv. 4. And the Caſe is very ſad when the Sinner joyns with him herein, and puts out his own Eyes, ut liberius peccant libenter ignorant. They are in Love with their Diſeaſe, and are afraid leaſt GOD ſhould heal them; like Babylon of old, we would have heal'd her, and ſhe would not be heal'd, Jer. li. 9. This was the Sin.

(2.) That which was the great Judgment of GOD upon them for this Sin, is his Judgment upon you, and that is, You ſhall be blind. GOD will give you up to a judicial Infatuation; Hearing ye ſhall hear, you ſhall have the Word of GOD preach'd to you over and over, but you ſhall not underſtand it, becauſe you will not give your Minds to underſtand it, GOD will not give you Strength and Grace to underſtand it: Seeing ye ſhall ſee; you ſhall have abundance of Miracles and Signs done before your Eyes, but you ſhall not perceive the convincing Evidence of them. Take heed leſt it be true of you, what Moſes ſaid to your Fathers, Deut. xxix. 4. The Lord has not given you a Heart to perceive, and Eyes to ſee, and Ears to hear unto this Day. And what Iſaiah ſaid to the Men of his Generation, Iſa. xxix. 10, 11, 12. The LORD has pour'd out upon you the Spirit of deep Sleep, and hath cloſed your Eyes. What with their reſiſting the Grace of GOD, and rebelling againſt the Light, and God's withdrawing and with-holding his Grace and Light from them; what with their not receiving the Love of the Truth, and GOD's giving them up for that to Strong Deluſions to believe a Lye; what with their wilful, and what with their judicial Hardneſs, The Heart of this People are waxed groſs, and their Ears are dull of Hearing; they are ſtupid and ſenſeleſs, and not wrought upon by all that can be ſaid to them; no Phyſick that can be given them operates upon them, or will reach them, and therefore their Diſeaſe muſt be adjudg'd incurable, and their Caſe deſperate. How ſhould they be happy that will not be heal'd of a Diſeaſe that makes them miſerable? and how ſhould they be heal'd that will not be converted to the uſe of the Methods of Cure? And how ſhould they be converted, that will not be convinc'd either of their Diſeaſe or of their Remedy? and how ſhould they be convinc'd that ſhut their Eyes and ſtop their Ears? Let all that hear the Goſpel, and do not heed it, tremble at this Doom; for when once they are thus given up to hardneſs of Heart they are already in the Suburbs of Hell; for who ſhall heal them, if GOD do not.

2. Your unbelief will juſtify GOD in ſending the Goſpel to the Gentile World, which is the thing you look upon with ſuch a jealous Eye, v. 28. Therefore ſeeing you put the Grace of GOD away from you, and will not ſubmit to the Power of Divine Truth and Love, ſeeing you will not be converted and heal'd in the Methods which Divine Wiſdom has appointed, therefore, Be it known unto you, that the Salvation of GOD was ſent to the Gentiles, that Salvation which was of the Jews only, John iv. 22. The Offer of it is made to them, the Means of it afforded to them, and they ſtand fairer for it than you do: 'Tis ſent to them, and they will hear it, and receive it, and be happy in it.

Now Paul deſigns hereby,

(1.) To abate their Diſpleaſure at the Preaching of the Goſpel to the Gentiles, by ſhewing them the Abſurdity of it; They were angry that the Salvation of GOD was ſent to the Gentiles, and thought it was too great a Favour done to them; but if they thought that Salvation of ſo ſmall a Value as not to be worthy their Acceptance, ſurely they could not grudge it the Gentiles, as too good for them, or envy them for it. The Salvation of GOD is ſent into the World, the Jews had the firſt Offer of it; 'twas fairly propos'd to them, 'twas earneſtly preſs'd upon them, but they refus'd it; they would not accept the Invitation which was given to them firſt to the Wedding Feaſt, and therefore muſt thank themſelves if other Gueſts be invited. If they will not ſtrike the Bargain, nor come up to the Terms, they ought not to be angry at thoſe that will. They cannot complain that the Gentiles took it over their Heads, or out of their Hands, for they had quite laid their Hands off it; nay, they had lift up the Heel againſt it, and therefore it's their Fault; for it is through their Fall, that Salvation is come to the Gentiles, Rom. xi. 11.

(2.) To improve their Diſpleaſure at the Favour done to the Gentiles to their Advantage, and to bring Good out of that Evil; for when he had ſpoken of this very Thing in his Epiſtle to the Romans, the Benefit which the Gentiles had by the Unbelief and Rejection of the Jews, he ſaith, he took Notice of it on purpoſe that he might provoke his dear Countrymen the Jews to a holy Emulation, and might ſave ſome of them, Rom. xi. 14. The Jews have rejected the Goſpel of Chriſt, and kick'd it off to the Gentiles, but it is not yet too late to repent of their Refuſal, and to accept of the Salvation which they did make light of; they may ſay No, and take it; as the elder Brother in the Parable, that when he was bidden to go work in the Vineyard, firſt ſaid, I will not; and yet afterwards repented and went, Matth. xxi. 29. It is the Goſpel ſent to the Gentiles? Let us go after it, rather than come ſhort of it. And will they hear it, who were thought to be out of Hearing, and had been ſo long like the Idols they worſhip'd, that have Ears and hear not? and ſhall not we hear it, whoſe Priviledge it is to have GOD ſo nigh to us in all that we call upon him for? Thus he would have them to argue, and to be ſham'd into the Belief of the Goſpel by the Welcome it met with among the Gentiles: And if it had not that Effect upon them it would aggravate their Condemnation, as it did that of the Scribes and Phariſees, that when they ſaw the Publicans and Harlots ſubmit to John's Baptiſm, they did not afterwards thereupon repent of their Folly, that they might believe him, Mat. xxi. 32.

1. They turn'd their Backs upon Paul; Thoſe of them that believ'd not were extreamly nettled at that laſt Word which he ſaid, that they ſhould be judicially blinded, that the Light of the Goſpel ſhould ſhine among them that ſate in Darkneſs; when Paul had ſaid theſe Words, he had ſaid enough for them, and they departed, perhaps not ſo much enrag'd as ſome others of their Nation had been upon the like Occaſion, but ſtupid and unconcern'd, no more affected either with thoſe terrible Words in the Cloſe of his Diſcourſe, or all the comfortable Words he had ſpoken before, than the Seats they ſate on. They departed many of them with a Reſolution never to hear Paul Preach again, nor trouble themſelves with further Enquiries about this Matter.

2. They ſet their Faces one againſt another; for they had great Diſputes among themſelves; there was not only a Quarrel between them which believ'd and them which believ'd not, but even among them which believ'd not there were Debates. They that agreed to depart from Paul, yet agreed not in the Reaſons why they departed, but had great Reaſonings among themſelves. Many have great Reaſoning, that yet do not Reaſon right; can find fault with one another's Opinions, and yet not yield to Truth. Nor will Mens Reaſoning among themſelves convince them, without the Grace of GOD to open their Underſtandings.

30 And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired houſe, and received all that came in unto him, 31 Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching thoſe things which concern the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

We are here taking our Leave of the Hiſtory of bleſſed Paul; and therefore ſince GOD ſaw it not fit we ſhould know any more of him, we would carefully take Notice of every particular of the Circumſtances in which we muſt here leave him.

Firſt, It cannot but be a Trouble to us that we muſt leave him in Bonds for Chriſt, nay, and that we have no proſpect given us of his being ſet at Liberty. Two whole Years that good Man's Life are here ſpent in Confinement, and for ought appears he was never enquir'd after of all that Time by thoſe whoſe Priſoner he was; He appeal'd to Cæſar in hope of a ſpeedy Diſcharge from his Impriſonment, the Governors having ſignify'd to his Imperial Majeſty concerning the Priſoner, that he had done nothing worthy of Death, or of Bonds, and yet is he continu'd a Priſoner; ſo little Reaſon have we to truſt in Men, eſpecially deſpis'd Priſoners in great Men, witneſs Joſeph's Caſe whom the chief Butler remember'd not, but forgat, Gen. xl. 23. Yet ſome think, that tho' it be not mention'd here, yet it was in the firſt of theſe two Years, and early too in that Year that he was firſt brought before Nero, and then his Bonds in Chriſt were manifeſt in Cæſar's Court, as he ſaith, Phil. i. 13. And at that firſt Anſwer it was that no Man ſtood by him, 2 Tim. iv. 17. and his ſpeaking there of his firſt Anſwer, intimates, that ſince that he had a ſecond, in which he had come off better, and yet was not diſcharg'd. During theſe two Years Impriſonment he wrote his Epiſtle to the Galatians, then his ſecond Epiſtle to Timothy, then thoſe to the Epheſians, Philipians, Coloſſians, and to Philemon, in which he mentions ſeveral Things particularly concerning his Impriſonment; and laſtly, his Epiſtle to the Hebrews juſt after he was ſet at Liberty, as Timothy alſo was, who coming to viſit him, was upon ſome Account or other made his Fellow-priſoner; (with him writes Paul to the Hebrews, xiii. 23.) if he come ſhortly, I will ſee you. But how or by what Means he obtain'd his Liberty, we are not told; only that two Years he was a Priſoner. Tradition ſaith, That after his Diſcharge he went from Italy and to Spain, thence to Crete, and ſo with Timothy into Judea, and from thence went to viſit the Churches in Aſia, and at length came a ſecond Time to Rome, and there was beheaded in the laſt Year of Nero. But Baronius himſelf owns that there is no certainty of any Thing concerning him, betwixt his Releaſe from this Impriſonment, and his Martyrdom; but it is ſaid by ſome, That Nero, having, when he begun to play the Tyrant, ſet himſelf againſt the Chriſtians, and perſecuted them (and he was the firſt of the Emperors that made a Law againſt them, as Tertullian ſaith, Apol. cap. 5.) the Church at Rome was much weaken'd by that Perſecution; and that brought Paul the ſecond Time to Rome to re-eſtabliſh the Church there, and to comfort the Souls of the Diſciples that were left; and ſo he fell a ſecond Time into Nero's Hand. And Chryſoſtom relates, That a young Woman that was one of Nero's Miſſes (to ſpeak modiſhly) being converted by Paul's Preaching to the Chriſtian Faith, and ſo brought off from that lewd Courſe of Life ſhe had liv'd, Nero was incens'd againſt Paul for that, and order'd him firſt to be Impriſon'd, and then put to Death.

But to keep to this ſhort Account here given of it.

1. It would grieve One to think that ſuch a uſeful Man as Paul was, ſhould be ſo long in Reſtraint; Two Years he was a Priſoner under Felix, chap. xxiv. 27. and beſides all the Time that paſs'd between that and his coming to Rome he is here two Years more a Priſoner under Nero: How many Churches might Paul have planted, how many Cities and Nations might he have brought over to Chriſt in theſe five Years Time, (for ſo much it was at leaſt) if he had been at Liberty? But GOD is Wiſe, and will ſhew that He is no Debtor to the moſt uſeful Inſtruments He employs, but can and will carry on his own Intereſt both without their Services, and by their Sufferings. Even Paul's Bonds fell out to the Furtherance of the Goſpel, Phil. i. 12, 14.

2. Yet even Paul's Impriſonment was in ſome reſpect a Kindneſs to him; for theſe two Years he dwelt in his own hired Houſe, and that was more for ought I know, than ever he had done before. He had always us'd to be a Sojourner in the Houſes of others, now he has got a Houſe of his own; his own while he pays the Rent for it; And ſuch a Retirement as this, would be a Refreſhment to One who had been all his Days an Itenerant. He had us'd to be always upon the Remove, ſeldom ſtay'd long at a Place, but now he liv'd for two Years in the ſame Houſe; ſo that the bringing of him into this Priſon, was like Chriſt's Call to his Diſciples to come into a Deſart Place, and reſt a-while, Mark vi. 31. When he was at Liberty, he was in continual Fear by reaſon of the lying in wait of the Jews, Acts xx. 19. but now his Priſon was his Caſtle. Thus out of the Eater came forth Meat, and out of the Strong Sweetneſs.

Secondly, Yet it is a Pleaſure to us, for we are ſure it was to him, that tho' we leave him in Bonds for Chriſt, yet we leave him at work for Chriſt. And this made his Bonds eaſy, that he was not by them bound out from ſerving GOD, and doing Good. His Priſon becomes a Temple, a Church, and then it is to him a Palace. His Hands are ty'd, but Thanks be to GOD, his Mouth is not ſtop'd. A faithful, zealous Miniſter can better bear any Hardſhip than being Silenc'd. Here's Paul a Priſoner, and yet a Preacher; he is bound, but the Word of the LORD is not bound. When he wrote his Epiſtle to the Romans, he ſaid he long'd to ſee them, that he might impart unto them ſome ſpiritual Gifts, Rom. i. 11. He was glad to ſee ſome of them, v. 15. but it would not be half his Joy unleſs he could impart to them ſome ſpiritual Gift, which here he has an Opportunity to do, and then he will not complain of his Confinement. Obſerve,

1. Whom he Preacheth to; To all that had a Mind to hear him, whether Jews or Gentiles. Whether he had Liberty to go to other Houſes to preach, doth not appear, 'tis likely not, but whoever would had Liberty to come to his Houſe to hear, and they were welcome, he receiv'd all that came to him. Note, Miniſters Doors ſhould be open to ſuch as deſire to receive Inſtruction from them, and they ſhould be glad of an Opportunity to adviſe thoſe that are in Care about their Souls. Paul could not Preach in a Synagogue, or any publick Place of meeting that was ſumptuous and capacious, but he preach'd in a poor Cottage of his own. Note, when we cannot do what we would in the Service of GOD, we muſt do what we can. Thoſe Miniſters that have but little hir'd Houſes, ſhould rather Preach in them, if they may be allow'd to do that, than be ſilent. He receiv'd All that came to him, and was not afraid of the greateſt, nor aſham'd of the meaneſt. He was ready to preach on the firſt Day of the Week to Chriſtians, on the ſeventh Day to Jews, and to who would on any Day of the Week. And he might hope the better to ſpeed becauſe they came in unto him, which ſuppos'd a Deſire to be inſtructed and a Willingneſs to learn; and where they are, 'tis probable ſome Good may be done.

2. What he preach'd; He doth not fill their Heads with curious Speculations, or with Matters of State and Politicks, but he keeps to his Text, minds his Buſineſs as an Apoſtle. (1.) He is GOD's Ambaſſador, and therefore preacheth the Kingdom of GOD, doth all he can to preach it up; negotiates the Affairs of it in order to the advancing of all its true Intereſts. He meddles not with the Affairs of the Kingdoms of Men; let thoſe treat of them whoſe Work it is; he preacheth the Kingdom of GOD among Men, and the Word of that Kingdom. The ſame that he defended in his publick Diſputes, teſtifying the Kingdom of GOD, v. 23. he enforc'd in his publick Preaching, as that which if receiv'd aright, will make us all wiſe and good, wiſer and better, which is the End of Preaching. (2.) He is an Agent for Chriſt, a Friend of the Bridegroom, and therefore teacheth thoſe things which concern the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; The whole Hiſtory of Chriſt, his Incarnation, Doctrine, Life, Miracles, Death, Reſurrection, Aſcenſion. All that relates to the Myſtery of Godlineſs. Paul ſtuck ſtill to his Principle, to know and preach nothing but Chriſt and him crucify'd. Miniſters when in their Preaching they are tempted to divert from that which is their main Buſineſs, ſhould reduce themſelves with this Queſtion, What doth this concern the Lord Jeſus Chriſt? What Tendency has it to bring us to him, and to keep us walking in him? for we preach not ourſelves, but Chriſt.

3. With what Liberty he preacheth.

1. Divine Grace gave him a Liberty of Spirit; He preach'd with all Confidence, as One that was himſelf well aſſur'd of the Truth of what he preach'd, and that it was what he durſt ſtand by, and of the Worth of it, that it was what he durſt ſuffer for. He was not aſham'd of the Goſpel of Chriſt.

2. Divine Providence gave him a Liberty of Speech; No Man forbidding him; giving him any Check for what he did, or laying any Reſtraint upon him. The Jews that us'd to forbid him to ſpeak to the Gentiles, had no Authority here; and the Roman Government as yet took no Cognizance of the Profeſſion of Chriſtianity as a Crime. Herein we muſt acknowledge the Hand of GOD, (1.) Setting Bounds to the Rage of Perſecutors; where He doth not turn the Heart, yet He can tye the Hand, and bridle the Tongue. Nero was a bloody Man, and there were many both Jews and Gentiles in Rome that hated Chriſtianity; and yet ſo it was unaccountably, that Paul tho' a Priſoner was conniv'd at in Preaching the Goſpel, and it was not conſtrued a Breach of the Peace. Thus GOD makes the Wrath of Men to praiſe Him, and reſtrains the Remainder of it, Pſal. lxxvi. 10. Tho' there were ſo many that had it in their Power to forbid Paul's Preaching, even the common Soldier that kept him might have done it; yet GOD ſo order'd it, that no Man did forbid him. (2.) See GOD here providing Comfort for the Relief of the Perſecuted. Tho' it was a very low and narrow Sphere of Opportunity that Paul was here plac'd in, compar'd with what he had been in, yet ſuch as it was, he was not moleſted or diſturb'd in it. Tho' it was not a wide Door that was open'd to him, yet it was kept open, and no Man was ſuffer'd to ſhut it, and it was to many an effectual Door, ſo that there were Saints even in Cæſar's Houſhold, Phil. iv. 22. When the City of our Solemnities is thus made a quiet Habitation at any Time, and we are fed from Day to Day with the Bread of Life, no Man forbidding us, we muſt give Thanks to GOD for it, and prepare for Changes; ſtill longing for that Holy Mountain in which there ſhall never be any pricking Briar, or grieving Thorn.

The End of the Acts of the Apoſtles.
